

light of touth

OR

AN ENGLISH TRANSLATION

OF THE

SATYARTH PRAKASH

THE WELL-KNOWN WORK OF

SWAMI DAYANAND SARASWATI,

Founder of the Arya Samaj;

Author of a Commentary on the Vedas and Various other Works.

RY

DR. CHIRANJIVA BHARADWAJA,

Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons (Edin.); Diplomate in Public Wealth (Edin.); Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons (Edin.); Licentiate of the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons (Glas.); Certified (with first class honours) in Tropical diseases (Edin. Univ.).

PUBLISHED BY

KAVIRAJ SATYA VRATA BIJARADWAJA Vaidya Ratna (Cal.) Ayurvedácharya (Mad.) SATYA KAMA BHARADWAJA B.Sc., (Hons.)

All Rights Reserved.

3rd Edition-2000.

1927.

Price/RsP4/- Get

PRINTED BY L. DOONI CHAND AGGARWAL, AT THE "IMPERIAL PRINTING WORKS," OUTSIDE MOCHI GATE, LAHORE.

Maharishi Swami Dayanand Saraswati.

Late Dr. Chiranjiya Bharadwaja, F. R. C. S. & D.P. H. (Edd.)

Preface to the third Edition.

The work of revision and the issue of a new edition was undertaken at a time when it could not meet our full symathy, but so urgent was the public demand for the book that we could not put off the work to any later period. Inspite of our felt exigency and efforts, we regret that the book has taken an unduely long course in the press, and so could not be presented to the reader earlier.

In this edition we have tried to improve the quality and form of the book, though special care has been devoted not to injure the actual character of the book.

We had a mind to attach a short sketch of the translator's life, but feeling any further procrastination unnecessary, we present to the reader a few pages from two of the most respectable personalities, and the reader can get a few glimpses of the translator's high morality, intellectual attainment and devotion to the Arya San aj.

The book has for the first time been embellished and perfected with an exhaustive Index.

We have also furnished the book with the author's and the translator's photo

We desire to acknowledge our gratitude to Professor Rama Deva B. A. M. R. A. S., Acharya Gurukul Kangri, for his so kindly subscribing us a few pages regarding some events of the translator's life, as a token of his love and respect to him.

It is a pleasant duty gratefully to acknowledge our indebtedness to Mahatma Hans Raj who has kindly expressed his revered feelings towards the translator and has so strongly approbated the book to the public.

It is also a great pleasure to express our gratitude to Mr. R. Gnana Sambandam B. A., Vakil Madras, who has very kindly furnished us with his respected ideas about Vedas, Maharishi Swami Dayanand, and his reverence and devotion to the translator.

Our thanks are also due to our friend Pandit Vachaspati, B. Sc. Vachaspati who has helped us in revising the proof sheets and making many valuable suggestions.

Acknowledgment has to be made of the help received at the hands of L. Ram Rakha Aggarwal who has assisted in seeing the whole work through the press.

LAHORE: SATYA VRATA BHARDWAJA, VAIDYA RATNA, SATYA KAMA BHARADWAJA, B. Sc. (HON.)

FOREWORDS.

THE publication of Satyarth Prakash by Rishi Dayanand in the last quarter of nineteenth century was an epoch-making even in the religious history of India. The bold denunciation of the evil customs and usuages of his—as of all—times, the exposition of the lofty teachings of the Shastras give the book its unique position in the religious literature of the country. It has now been translated into most of the principal vernaculars of India and is widely read. Its translation in English was highly desirable; thus alone could its teachings be made available for the intelligensia all over the country, thus alone could its appeal for truth be brought home to the wider public outside India. The late Dr. Charanjiv Bhardwaj who was a zealous and enthusiastic worker of the Arya Samai felt this double necessity and undertook this very important work. It was his work for the Arya Samaj outside India which probably made him feel this necessity so imperative. I am very much gratified to learn that the first two editions of this work have been exhausted and it gives me great pleasure to learn that Dr. Bhardwaja's sons are now undertaking to publish this third edition. I hope the reading public would appreciate their labour and warmly welcome this third edition. I fervently hope that wherever this book is read, it would creat a love of the Arva Samaj and a respect for the Vedic faith Pin the minds of its readers.

MAHATMA HANS RAJ.

CONTENTS.

							PAGE,
Preface		••••		••••		••••	1
Introduc	tion	••••	•••	•••	•	••••	i
CHAPTER	I. –Exp	osition of	one hur	idred na	mes of C	God	1
,,		e Upbring	ging of C	hildren		••••	19
	III.—Ed	lu c ation	••••	••••		••••	29
"	IV.—Re	turn Hon	e from s	chool an	d Marri	age
"		life	••••	••••			7 7
,,	V.—Vá	naprastha	and Sa	ny á sa		••••	132
"	VI.—Re	ija Dhar		he Sci	ence of
••		Governm		••••		••••	149
21	-	od and the		•••		•••	191
11	VIII.—Co	smogony and Disso	the Creolution of	eation, the Ur	Sustenar niverse)	ice 	228
,,		nowledge and Bond		rnce, Er	nancipat	ion	257
,,		onduct— L Diet— $P\epsilon$)esirable	and $oldsymbol{\ell}$ and $oldsymbol{F} oldsymbol{\ell}$	Indesira rbidden	ble	291
	ī	ntroduction				••••	309 (b)
,,		n examina		-			(1)
,,		prevailing				••••	310
	I	ntroductio	on to Cha	pter XI	I	••••	473
"	XII.—A	n expositio Chárvaka	on land a	refuta dhistic a	tion of and the J	the ain faiths all				••••	475
11		atroduction		-		•••	555
1,	XIII,—A	n examina Christian		the d	loctrines	of 	557 .
	Int	roduction	to Chapt	er XIV		••••	611
81	XIV.—Ar	examin	ation of	the d	octrines	of
,,		Mohamm		1944		*	613
A etatem	ent of my	beliefs		•••			677

AN EULOGIUM.

Before the advent of Swami Dayanand Saraswati the Vedas were practically a sealed book. Those who by birth were not entitled to be called Brahmins were prohibited from reading them. The Smritis very strictly enjoined upon all Non-Brahmins the duty of not even listening to the Vedas when they were read or recited by the Brahmins who claimed the exclusive monopoly of reading or expounding them. Traditions which seem to have a peculiar affinity for the soil of India, where they thrive like mushrooms, have been scrupulously guarding the so-called rights of the Brahmins, not merely to read the Vedas and the Upanishads, but also to force upon them whatever gloss they thought fit to put upon them to suit the teachings of the particular schools to which they belonged. Naturally, in course of time the gloss-writers or commentators became in themselves the centres of propagation of new systems. of thought with the inevitable result that the followers of these later schools looked for inspiration and guidance not to the Vedas themselves which were either forgotton or ignored, but to these Bháshyakáras or authors of Vedic exegesis, As ther interpretations put upon the simple viks of the Rig Veda, for example, by these respective commentators were found to be conflicting with one another, in discussing some pet thesis, each school claimed for itself infallibility in its own interpretation a sort of pontificial imprimatur, more rigorous than what is claimed by the Pope in interpreting the Christian scriptures.

The above phenomenon is not peculiar to India. In all countries and at all times there is a tendency for human thought to cluster round certain arresting ideas which eventually attain religious sanctity and highly colour and distort current litrature. In the History of the world's progress we meet with various illustrations of this phenomenon. The reader can easily recall to his mind how the simple sayings of the world's great religious teachers have been subjected to this kind of process by the successive schools of scriptural exegesis that followed them. Religion is not the only sphere of thought where one meets with this spectacle. In Ethics, Metaphysics, Law, in fact, in all speculative realms of thought where certain apophthegms or maxims have attained in course of time overpowering importance, they are taken up and treated by the Commentators till their original sense or bearing is altogether and irretrievably lost in the maze of subsequent elucidations and emendations.

It was such a fate as is exemplified above that eventually overtook the hoary Vedas. Yet, how entrancingly beautiful and instructive are the simple verses of the Vedas, when unencumbered with the laborious but misleading commentaries! While every Pandit is certain about the delicate dividing lines between the mutually repellant schools of Vedantic thought in their definitions of "Paramátmá," "Jivátmá," "Máyá," "Trigunas," "Mukti," and hordes of similar terms, while even a tyre versed in this ancient lore, feels quite sure as to the meanings attributed to "Tattvamasi" and the other mahávákyas by Shankara, Ramanuja, Madhava, Sáyana, and Anandagiri, there is very little room to doubt that the people of India, the Pandits not excepted, are blissfully ignorant of the Vedas themselves. An anamoly though it is a fact all the same that while a student of the Advaitic School can quote chapter and verse from Shankar's Commentory on the Brahma Sútras to support his view of the doctrine of Maya, he has not even a cursory acquaintance with the Vedas themselves.

The life of Swami Dayanand Saraswati was spent in entirely breaking open this solid crust that has so wildly, so extravagantly overgrown the Vedas, this seductive excrescence that, like the lovely, purple-flowered heliotrope, smothers and suffocates the real germs of truth underlying them. "Go back to the eternal springs of the Vedas. They shall slake thy thirst for knowledge," thunders the voice of the great Swami from the corridors of time. If the Vedas have really anything in them worth learning we cannot do better than follow the simple advice of the Swamiji. Read them in the original, without the aid of the Commentators, however intellectually lofty they may be, without much caring whether the meaning which after a very careful scrutiny you think the verses bear, has the sanction of these acknowledged thinkers. It is far better for oneself to read the Vedas and err in the honest and earnest attempt to understand them, than slavishly follow authority in finding out the truth lying enshrined in them.

In the "Satyarth Prakash," the monumental work of the Swamiji, an English translation of which I have had the privilege of reading in my early days, the one great boon which he confers upon the population of India is his constant endeavour to bring the Vedas within the reach of all. He exhorts all people, the rich and the poor, the wise and the ignorant, the Pharisee and the publican, the high and the low, to read the Vedas in the original and guide their lives by what they learn from them. In this respect the Swamiji has practically abolished the caste system, that dragon, that has been eating into the vitals of the Hindu Society, arresting its growth and dwarfing its development. Every mortal is, according to the Swamiji entitled to chant the holy verses of the Vedas, absolutely without any let or hindrance whatsoever, beyound the literary, equipment necessary for understanding them. The so-called Panchmas as well as the so-called Brahmans are, both equally dear in the eyes of the Lord of the Vedas, and the service of the Swamiji to the cause of humanity in purifying the post-Vedic literature of all absurd and fantastic theories, and in condemning all superstitous and irrational outgrowths of which the present-day Hinduism chiefly consist, is really inestimable.

The other great service equally invalueable which the Swamiji rendered to our country is the practical aboiltion of all animal sacrifices which were so rampant about the time when the great Buddha—Tatagatha—was born. The Swamiji's interpretation of such rituals as the Yajna, Homa, and Agnihotration a way that makes it clear that it was not the original intention of the authors of the Vedic religion that any mati or beast should be actually killed on the altar, of the gods to propitiate them, is in itself an epoch-making and humanitarian service, the importance of which cannot possibly be-over-rated. This splendid act in itself is enough to arouse in us deep gratitude and worshipful reverence to the memory of the Swamiji. The profound erudition, the deep piety, the undaunted contage, the tireless energy, the fearless outspokenness, and the marvellous excellence which he displayed in conducting controversies, added to his unrivolled literary skill and mastery of the Sanskrit language, all combine in easily placing Dayanandji in the forefront of the world's greatest reformers and thinkers. It is a great pity that India's sons and daughters, at any rate the educated portion of them, have not yet thought fit to study his literary works and learn those lessons which the Swamiji intended that we should all learn "and take to heart!

Arya Samaj, whose lamented death is still being deplored by all who have known him, was a true cheld of the great Swamiji. His English rendering of the Satyartha Prakash was the only means of understanding the original accessible to me at the time I met the eninent doctor during his short (yet, alas! how sweet) sojourn at Rangoon. Reading the book under the doctor's genial guidance and with his unstinted help I learnt our country and that our countrymen would do very well to have has lapsed since his death. Doctor Chiranjiva exerted that has lapsed since his death. Doctor Chiranjiva exerted thinkself to his utmost to bring the message of that book to every whom he came across and in telling and convincing the friends that with the adoption of the chief doctoring the Arva Samai India would be purged of so many false distinctions and differences which are erecting artificial barriers between man and man, and are a perennial source of festering, cancerous sores poisoning inter-communal, inter-racial relationship. His was a purely selfless life and his devotion to the cause of reform, especially to that of the so-called depressed classes, is both admirable and praiseworthy. Many were the opportunities that presented themselves to Dr. Chiranjiva while, he was in Rangoon, which if availed of would have easily brought riches and prosperity to his doors, but he was not a man to be swayed by such sordid influences. Personally, his loss is a matter of very great regret to me and even at this distant date I cannot go back in mind to the many happy hours which I spent in the sunshine of his magnanimous presence without shedding tears—the only tribute I can now pay in all humility and gratitude to the mainory of my warm-hearted friend, Dr. Chiranjiva Bharadwaja. It is my sincere wish and prayer that every educated man and woman will read his careful translation of Dayanand Saraswati Swami's magnum opus, the Satyartha Prakash, and try to live that useful. dedicated life that the doctor lived in the service of humanity within the too small span of live that was his in this transient world:

MADRAS, 29th October 1927.

R. GNANA SAMBANDAM.

material once a concert once a concert of office of the concert of

AN APPRECIATION OF DR. CHIRANJIVA.

The translator of the Satyarath Prakash was one of my best friends.

7:41:11

He was one of the most learned men in the Arya Samaj. In the eighties he had sat at the feet of the late Pandit Guru Datta Vidyarthi, M.A., and imbibed deep at the crystal founts of inspiration. He was fired with a missionary zeal which is rare in the Arva Samij. His faith in the Veda, its Divine author and its apostle Dayananda was resolute and uncheckable and yet he was no bigot. All who came in contact with him felt in his speech and conversation the impress of a lofty soul and a broad and tolerant mind. His personal character was immaculate. He was a man who was an utter stranger to duplicity and double-foldedness and I sometimes felt that he was strangely out of place in a world full of intrigue and double-dealing. He was a man of whom it could be said with absolute truthfulness—

His words are bonds, his oaths oracles, His love sincere, his thoughts immaculate, His tears pure messengers sent from his heart And his heart as far from fraud as heaven from earth.

His Love of Truth: Two Notable Examples.

I had the privilege of being one of his dearest and nearest friends and had the most intimate intercourse and communion of hearts with the deceased and can declare with a clear conscience that in the course our friendship which began in 1904 and still lasts—for true love is imperishable—I never heard him utter an untruth. He had so sensitive a conscience on this point that once on the occasion of the anniversary of the Lahore Arya Samai, of which he was President, through the inadvertence of the secretary a large sum of money was announced as having been received as a donation which had also been previously announced. Dr. Chiranjiva insisted upon it that another public announcement should be made apologising for the misleading impression given through

On another occasion he was presiding over a public disputation between an Arya Samajist Updeshak and a Maulvi. The huge pandál was packed to suffocation, the excitement was intense and party spirit ran high. The Arya Samajic Updeshak was talking. irrelevently and his representation of the cause of the Samaj was felt to be unsatisfactory by the audience. It was suggested to the President by some of those who were on the platform that a better debator should take the place of the gentleman who at that time represented the Samaj. But the point was how to change the representative of the Samaj without publicly acknowledging that so far our opponent had the whip-hand of us. This was felt to be humiliating and suberversive of the prestige of the church by the worldly-wise masters of expediency who regarded themselves the patriarchs of the Samaj. One of these worthies whispered into the ear of Dr. Chiranjiva that he should publicly announce that since Swami so-and-so could not make himself heard by the vast audience Swami so and so would take his place. Dr. Chiraniiva was all ablaze with righteous indignation and was for a moment dumbly remonstrant.

The infamy of the suggestion burnt into his soul. Then he suddenly burst forth "But this is a manifest lie and do you expect the President of the Lahore Arya Samaj to utter lies for the sake of saving the face of the Samaj? I will not do it." He then stood up and announced that since Swami so-and-so was not speaking to the point, his place would be taken by Swami so-and-so. A thrill, of combined horror and admiration ran through the vast concourse which was taken aback. Everybody felt that the President had shown supreme moral courage and had uttered the truth but many wiseacres also felt that the Prestige of the Samaj and specially of the dethroned debater had been dealt a severe blow. The Pandit thus humiliated was egged on to acts of hostility against the doctor by these self-same wiseacres and an ardent admirer was converted into a lifelong enemy.

Dr. Chiranjiva was as innocent as a child. He was one of "babes" of Christ. He could not penetrate appearances and took people at their face value or at their own valuation. Because he himself took no part in the hurdle race and labyrinthine scramble for name and fame, he could not understand the ways of people whose one ambition in life was the pursuit of glory and whom the desire for prominence so completely dominated that publicity was the very breath of their nostrils. He rose to heights of public honour through the sheer force of exalted character, unselfish service and deep learning.

Propaganda Work in Foreign Lands, Mass Movements! and Persecution nobly borne.

After a few years' work at Lahore the doctor left India and went to Rangoon where his preachings and strenuous work gave fillip to the work of the Samaj. From thence he proceeded to port Louis in the Mauritius Isle. He was thus the first successful forreign missionary of the Vedic Church. Thousands of people were converted, a large number of branches of the Arya Samaj were founded, newspapers were launched into existence and an Arya. Pratinidhi Sabha was started. An aggressive proselytising church invariably meets with violent persecution when it has scored its early brilliant triumphs. The infant Vedic Church in that distant and inhospitable clime met with the same fate.

When the doctor first reached Port Louis and started private medical practice, his eminent attainments as a physician and surgeon began to be recognised and his monthly income in a short time mounted up to over one thousand rupees. After a few months, his work as a doctor increased so much that he had to keep a motor-car to be able to cope with it. But when he started propaganda work and it met with phenomenal success, the entire orhodox community was stirred to its depths. The leading members of the sacerdotal order and the leading magnates met in solemn conclave and passed a resolution formulating an ultimatum to be sent to Dr. Chiranjiva. He had to choose between Arya Samaj, missionary work and actual starvation. He, without hesitation and equivocation, announced his deliberate choice of the second alternative, and the patronage of the Indian community was forth with transferred to his European rivals whose practice had considerably suffered on account of his superior medical skill. For the last few months he had to spend in Mauritius with a view to organise missionary work and to place it on a permanent and stable footing, he had perforce to lead a life of pennury and privation. He had to dispense with all the comforts of life and all the household drudgery had to be performed by his wife herself without the aid of a servant. But like a true missionary and apostle of eternal Truth inspired with Divine afflatus, he bore all this privation with stoic cheerfulness, redoubled his endeavours for the propagation of the Divine Faith, set to work to arrange for the education of the children (of both sexes), of the new converts and to arrange for the coutinuance of his work. A Sanyasi was imported from India and placed in charge of the mission and Chiranjiva returned to Lahore.

A true Brahmin.

Here he started practice anew but in a spirit entirely different from that in which eminent medical men of his attainments worked. Medicine is regarded as a lucrative profession and is studied with a view to retrieve fallen fortunes or to built up new fortune.

In ancient India, however, a physician was a Brahman and not a Vaishya.* He was a work-first man and not a fee first man.

यत्रौषधीः समग्मत राजानःसमितामिव । विप्रः स उच्यते भिषग्रक्षोहाऽमीवचातनः।।

(6) He who hath store of Herbs at han I like Kings amid a crowd of men,—Physician is that sage's name, germ slayer, chaser of disease.

ओषधयः मंवदन्ते सोमेन सह राज्ञा ॥ यहमै कुणोति ब्राह्मणस्तं राजन् पारयामसि ॥

(22) With Soma as their Sovreign Lord the Plants hold colloquy and say;—O King, we save from death the man whose cure a Brahman undertakes.

^{*} In the Rigveda Book X, hymn xcvii, Mantra 6 and 22 we read:—

His business it was to heal disease and to relieve suffering. Wherever he found disease and suffering, he betook himself thereto whether invited or uninvited and considered himself at the valiant post of duty. It was regarded a sin to insist upon the payment of or even to demand, any pecuniary compensation for this cooperation with God in the work of healing-for has not the Lord God Rudra ' himself been called a Great Paysician in the Holy Scriptures.† Dr. Chiranjiva had passed through the fire of exalted and sanctified suffering, and all dross had been burnt away from his soul. It was now as pure as gold that has come out of the crucible. He had experienced the indescribably blissful feeling of delight that one experiences when he has captured a heart and purchased its bondage for life by doing good without hope of pecuniary or any other reward and in a spirit of absolute disinterestedness. He was not for bartering that blissful experience for sordid pelf and filthy lucre. He worked in this city in the genuine Brahmanical spirit. He was ever at the call of duty and was ready to minister to the medical and hygenic needs of all who sought his advice. There was none so poor but could avail himself of his exceptionally conspicuous medical and surgical skill. He knew that the recovery of many a poor patient was retarded because he was underfed. He, therefore, made arrangements to supply poor patients with ghee and milk. It is for this reason that his untimely demise plunged thousands of poor. households in mourning. Hundreds of youngmen and young women were in tears that came unbidden because the friend of the poor, the benefactor of the needy, the surest and the positively unfailing resource of the resourceless, the refuge of the helpless, the only medical missionary of the Arya Samaj was no more!

⁺ In the Rig Veda, Book III, hymn XXXIII, Mantras 12 and 13

Pioneer of the work of the Uplift of the Depressed Classes in the Arya Samaj.

Dr. Chiranjiva was the first Arya Samajic leader to take up the work of the depressed classes. When he was Plague Officer at Baroda, he reclaimed a few families of the Dheds who were regarded by the populace as untouchables. He did the work of uplift on sound lines. All these new Aryas—both men and women—were educated by the doctor himself and the younger male members of the community were taught some useful art or handicraft and put on the way of earning a decent livelihood. The young maidens became accomplished ladies in the course of a few years so that they were married by respectable Aryas of the Punjab belonging to the Brahman or Kshatriya caste and many of them are now mothers of Aryan families.

These people were so thoroughly assimilated that an elderly widow—one of those reclaimed by the doctor—was for some time Assistant Superintendent of the Kanya Ashrama at Jullundhur. She dined with high-caste girls and performed her duties to the satisfaction of the authorities. Many people in the Arya Samai have claimed to have done the work of the social uplift of the untouchables. The work of most of those worthies consisted in going in the vacation to a village with a barber or two as an essential part of their retinue, getting a few hundreds of the poor people shaved and purified and then returning to their practice of law leaving their poor victims to their fate. Next year another village was visited and the same process repeated. These selfstyled leaders took care, however, to write out a glowing account of their achievements and to get it printed in the papers. One has heard of carpet-knights of old, but our doughty province of the Punjab has given birth to a new class of knights—they may very appropriately be called newspaper-knights or press-martyrs. You get wearied of reading the accounts of their sufferings in the columns of newspapers written, for the most part, by their obsequious henchmen and inserted by easy-going editors to escape importunate calls and constant plaguing. Their real work is nil or at any rate does not go beyond the limits indicated above. Dr. Chiranjiva's work was not undertaken for the sake of notoriety. There was a note of solemn responsibility about it. Whenever he spoke of the Baroda people even in private, he referred to them and to their condition with affectionate solicitude which ordinary man of the world feel only for their family members. It never occurred to him to advertise what he had done for these brethren of his as it could have never occurred to him to advertise what he did for his children, brothers and sisters.

Those people also loved him as they would have loved the head of their family and revered and worshipped him as their Guru, friend, guide and philosopher. During the last days of his sojourn on this earth, such of them as were at Lahore served him day and night although, to their great misfortune, their nocturnal vigils and devoted service did not meet with the reward which they expected.

His Intellectual Attainments and Mental and Moral Equipment.

As I have already pointed out, Dr. Chiranjiva was a very learned man. Having obtained some of the highest medical and surgical diplomas and degrees obtainable in the United Kingdom, he had opportunities of studying Biology, Chemistry, Bacteriology and kindred sciences and he turned his studies to good account. His intellect was synthetic and his alert brain was ever busy synthesising its encyclopaedic knowledge and unifying it into metaphysical hypotheses which on examination always revealed family relationship with the metaphysical doctrines of the Sanatana Vedic Dharma or the eternal Religion of Science. His chief studies were, however, the Vedas and Modren Philosophy. When he returned home in January last, I went to Lahore to see him. On the 8th of January, I was with him. The entry in my diary for that day runs as follows. "Spent the major portion of the day with Dr. Chiranjiva. Had a long talk on various subjects with him." I remember the many affectionate rebukes administered to me. On one occasion, I happened to remark in a light vein that Dharampal-a needy adventurer who defamed Dr. Chiranjiva and other notable Arya Samajists—had proved himself a true weaver by spinning a warp and woof of falsehood and The doctor who was at that time smiling became suddenly serious when he heard this remark and exclaimed (This was the name by which he always called me.) Don't be mean! This is so unlike yourself! Why do you libel a respectable profession and speak lightly of it simply because your enemy happens to be the son of a weaver. It is no shame to be born of a weaver, I would not have felt ashamed if my father had all the qualities that he had and had pursued the profession of a weaver." Inspite of the inveterate habit of always arguing, I was shamed into silence. The stupendous nobility of the man who thus stood with an erect head and reproachful glances to defend his worst enemy against the attack of his best friend-not in public from motives of getting credit in the press or from the platform, but at a place where no third person was present to applaud his sense of justice -awed me into compliance and even repentence.

We discussed Metaphysics, Philosophy and Modern Thought Whenever we met, we compared notes on the last named eternal and unending theme. It was no easy task to grapple with Dr. Chiranjiva whose intellect was always wide-awake. Whenever I put forward new modern evidence in support of Vedic doctrines, he instead of eagerly hailing it and patting me on the back invariably subjected me to a searching cross-examination from which, oftener than not, emerged unscated. Then came the time for expression of appreciation which was always most hearty and ungrudging though never fulsome or excessive. I always felt that if a line of argument or research had passed undamaged through the fire of my friend's cross-examination, it could be publicly promulgated with a safe conscience. That day I stood astonished when I marked that though Dr. Chiranjiva had been at Mauritius a busy doctor and a busier propagandist, he had found time to study the latest works on Modern Thought. I found him well posted up in the theories of Bergson and Eucken and fully accquainted with the writings of the new school of evolutionists who have almost entirely transformed out of shape and recognition Darwin's Theory. The doctor had a special fondness for Panini's Ashtádhyáyi—the monumental work on the elements of Sanskrit speech which embodies with algebraic conciseness all the formulae of Sanskrit Grammar—and sometime, spent hours in committing its aphorisms to memory. He regularly studied the Vedas with Swami Dayanand's Sanskrit commentary and his talk was generally interspersed with quotations from the holy scriptures.

His Monumental Work—An English Translation of the Satyarath Prakash.

His monumental work is the English translation of the Satyarath Prakásh, the maynum opus of Swami Dayananda. Part of this work was done in collaboration with me and I know how hard the doctor worked to make the translation as accurate and faithful as he could. The first few chapters were translated while he was in England. He told me that in translating the sixth Chapter—on the Science of Government—he had sought the aid of military friend of his—a Commissioned Officer in His Majesty's Army-in fixing the English equivalents of Sanskrit technical military terms. The translation of each piece when first made by him was read out to me and suggestions were invited and the necessary emendations made. Then the first proof was revised by him carefully and the final print order was not given so long as I had not carefully revised the second proof. His great wish it was to write out an Introduction explaining Sawmi Dayanand's Philosophy in terms of modern European Thought. When he found no time to it he entrusted the task to me. One my besetting defects is that in literary affairs I am quick to promise and slow to perform. This defect was well-known to my friend and when I readily made the promise, he did not set much store by it but kept on pressing me.

At last when he was in Mauritius Isles, he got so exasaperated that he wrote to me to send him the necessary books as he despaired of my ever completing the work. The pressure of circumstances was so great and both of us were so overworked that one of my friend's strongest wishes still remains unfulfilled. I feel that the accomplishment of this task is a legacy left to me by dear Chiranjiva and am genuinely ashamed that the task still remains unfulfilled. I do not possess Dr. Chiranjiva's learning or his habits of close logical thinking, psychological insight and measured I have, however, resolved to write out an Introduction to the next edition of his English translation of the Satyárath Parkásh on the lines upon which my dear Chiranjiva would have written or made me write. My only justification for undertaking this task inspite of manifest incompetence is that it was his ardent wish that I should write it and I possess, in some degree, two out of the many qualities which eminently fitted him for the task and these are faith in and intellectual sympathy, with Bhagwan Dnyanand's standpoint and honesty of purpose.

Projected Literary Work.

. .] 1

He also intended bringing out an English Translation of Swami Dayanand's Rig Vedadi Bháshya Bhúmika (Introduction to a Commentary on the Vedas) and had completed a translation of the first few pages when he learnt that Pandit Ghasi Ram, M. A. had almost finished a translation of the work and because he had great respect for Pandit Ghasi Ram's attainments, he gave up the task.* A few months before his death he had commenced translating Swami Dayanand's Veda Bhashya (Commentary upon the Vedas) and had translated a few Súktas when by the doubtless beneficent though mysterious and insurmountable operation of the inexorable laws of Providence, his present career on this earth terminated.

^{*}Pandit Ghasi Ram's translation appeard in the Vedic Magazine by instalments and has now been published in book form.

Chiranjiva as a Doctor.

As a doctor Chiranjiva was eminent in his profession. Full one half of the wondrous cures wrought by him must be attributed to his knowledge of human psychology quite as much as to his medical skill. So far as possible he never stuffed the stomach with drugs. The patient was half cured when the doctor talked kindly and sweetly to him and put him at ease by inspiring confidence in him. Inveterate diseases were combated by him in this fashion. His exterior was rough and even forbidding but once a man conquered the dread inspired by the deceptive exterior and ventured nearer, he was completely won over. I personally know men and women who first came in contact with Chiranjiva only as patients and then became his life-long friends. I also know other persons of both sexes who were treated by him a few months before his death and now mourn his loss as they would have mourned the loss of a dear and near one.

Conclusion.

It was in 1915 that Dr. Chiranjiva breathed his last and the gap then created has not yet been filled up. He was unique in his way. His "Light of Truth" is even now universally acknowledged to be the best and the most faithful traslation of Daynand's immortal work.

In short in Dr. Chiranjiva I have lost a personal friend and brother, the Arya Samaj a devoted and silent worker, the poor a true benefactor and friend, the citizens of Lahore an eminent physician and surgeon, literary people a valued author and literature, his family a loving head, students a valued adviser and the depressed classes a true well-wisher.

His memory long will live alone, In all our hearts, as mournful light, That broods above the fallen sun, And dwells in heaven half the night.

RAMA DEVA,
Principal Gurukal Kangari.

TRANSLATOR'S PREFACE.

UNDERTOOK to translate Swami Dayanand Saraswati's

Magnum Opus called the Salyarth Prakash—a book which has revolutionized modern religious thought—because no abler man would take this duty upon himself. While in England, I was often asked by some of my English friends, who had freed themselves from the shackles of Christian traditions, to tell them of some English book giving a compendium of the principal doctrines of the religion of the Veda. It was these enquiries which led me to attempt the task of translating this work. Every effort has been made to give a literal rendering; but in no case has the spirit been sacrificed to the latter. Foot-notes have been added to clucidate obscure points and to explain terms unfamiliar to the European mind.

In translating the first chapter, I have explained the etymological meanings of only the most important terms, and have omitted from the fourth chapter the author's method of teaching Panini's Ashládhyáye (the most ancient work on Sanskrit Grammar), because the English-knowing public, for whose benefit the translation is principally intended, cannot be expected to follow labyrinthic maze of the intricacies and niceties of the Sanskrit Grammar.

In the fourteenth chapter the translation of the texts from the Qoran is chiefly taken from "The Qoran translated into English by Rev. J. M. Rodwell, M. A."

If this translation helps in the spread of the Vedic religion among the English-speaking people, and directs the attention of the more thoughtful among them, to the recondite truths treasured up in the Veda and the immortal works of the sages of ancient India, I shall have been amply repaid for my labour.

I am fully conscious of the fact that there are many imperfections in the translation. I shall be greatful for suggestions, and, if I receive encouragement from the public, I hope to introduce many improvements in the second edition as well as to bring out an Introduction to this book (in a separate volume), as I am fully convinced that an exhaustive introduction written from the Western point of view is absolutely necessary to help the Western reader to comprehend the grandeur of the Vedic Philosophy.

Lahore: C. BHARADWAJA.

We repeatedly bow unto God Who is a true personification of Existence, Conciousness, and Bliss.

INTRODUCTION.

T THE time when the first edition of this book called the Satyárth Prákásh, was published and before that, we spoke Sanskrit and made use of the same in reading and writing, while our mother tongue was Gujrati. For this reason we had a poor knowledge of this language (i. e., Arya Bháshá) in which this book is written. Consequently the language of the first edition was very defective. Now that we have acquired a good practice in speaking and writing Bhishi, we have corrected the language in accordance with the rules of grammar and brought out this (second) Emedations in words, idioms and the construction of sentences have been made here and there because, it was found absolutely necessary to do so. Besides, it was difficult to improve the style of the language without making the said changes. But no altration has been made in the ideas though some new matter has been added. The book has been carefully revised—all misprints which had crept in the (first edition) have been carefully corrected.

This book is divided into 14 Chapters. Out of these the first ten constitute the first Parl while the remaining four form the second Parl. But the last two Chapters and "A statement of My Beliefs" were through some cause left out in the first edition and have been incorporated into this edition.

Chapter I—Is an exposition of "Om" and other names of God.

Chapter II -Treats of the up bringing of children.

Chapter III.—Treats of Brahmucharya, the duties and qualifications of the scholars and their teachers, good and bad books and the scheme of studies.

Chapter IV.—Treats of marriage and married life.

Chapter V.—Treats of Vánaprastha (the Order of ascetisism) and of Sanyas Ashrama (the Order of renunciation).

: Chapter VI. Treats of Raj Dharma (Government).

Chapler VII.—Treats of the Veda and God.

Chapter VIII.—Treats of the Creation, Sustenance and Dissolution of the Universe.

Chapter I.V.—Treats of knowledge and ignorance, and emancipation and bondage.

Chapter N.—Treats of Conduct—desirable and undesirable, Diet—permissible and reprehensible.

Chapter XI—Contains a criticism of the various religions and sects prevailing in India.

Chapter XII.—Treats of the Charvaka, Baudha (Buddhist) and Jain religions.

Chapter AIII. Treats of Christianity.

Chapter ATV -Treats of Muhammadanism

At the end of the book we have given a summary of the teachings of the ancient Vedic religion which we also profess.

My chief aim in writing this book is to unfold truth which consists in expounding truth as truth and error as error. The exposition of error in place of truth and of truth in place of error does not constitute the unfolding of truth.

To speak of, write about, and believe in a thing as it is constitutes truth. He that is prejudiced tries to prove that even his error is truth, while the truth of his religious opponent is error. He cannot, therefore, know what the true religion is. Hence this alone is the bounden duty of truthful and learned men to unfold the right nature of truth and error before all men, by writing or by lecturing who, after having ascertaine I what promotes their welfare and what is prejudicial to their interests, should embrace what is true and reject what is false and thereby enjoy happiness. Though the human soul possesses the capacity for ascertaining truth, yet through self-interest, obstinacy wrong-headedness, ignorance and the like it renounces truth and inclines towards un-But we have not done such a thing in writing this book, not has it been our object to hurt any one's susceptibilities or harm any one. On the other hand our aim has been to further the advancement and good of mankind, and to help (all) men in the ascertainment of truth whereby they could embrace the truth and reject falsehood, because there is certainly no other way of elevating the human race.

All errors or omissions, typogrophical or otherwise, on being pointed out to us, will be rectified but no heed will be paid to whatever is said or written through prejudice with the object of unnecessarily criticising this book. But any suggestions made with a view to benefit mankind, on being found good, will be most acceptable. There are undoubtedly many learned men among the followers of every religion, should they free themselves from prejudice and accept the universal truths—that is, those truths that are to be found alike in all religions and are of universal application—and reject all things in which they differ, and treat each other lovingly, it will be greatly to the advantage of the world for differences among the learned, create bad blood among the ignorant masses, which multiplies all sorts of sorrows and sufferings, and destroys their happiness. evil, which is so dear to the heart of the selfish, has sunk all men into the greatest depths of misery. Whoever tries to do anything with the object of benefitting mankind is opposed by the selfish people, and various kinds of obstacles are thrown in his way. But finding support in the belief that truth must conquer and not error, and that it is the path of rectitude alone that men of learning and piety have always trodden true teachers never get indifferent to the promotion of public good, nor give up the preaching of truth.

It is our firm belief that all those acts that aim at the acquisition of knowledge and attainment of virtue are like poison to begin with but like nectar in the end. "We have borne these thing in our minds while writing this book. Let all those who read or hear it being read keep an open mind enter into the spirit of the author and form an independent opinion.

We have incorporated into this book whatever is true in all religions and is inharmony with their teachings, but we have refuted whatever is false in them. We have exposed to the view of all men—learned or otherwise—all evil practices whether resorted to secretly or openly. This will help them all to mutually discuss these things and lovingly embrace the one true religion. Though we were born in Aryavarta (India) and still live in it, yet just as we do not defend the evil doctrines and practices of the religions prevailing in the country, on the other hand, expose them properly, in like manner, we deal with the alien religions. We treat the foreigners in the same way as our own country men as far as the elevation of the human race is concerned. It behoves all men to act likewise. Had we taken up the advocacy of one of the prevailings religion of (India) we would have done the same as the sectaries of the present day do viz, praise and defend and preach their own religion and decry, refute and check the progress of that of others. But such things are beneath the dignity of man.

INTRODUCTION.

Should a man act like an animal, which if strong oppresses the weak and even puts them to death, he is more an animal than a man. He alone can be called a man who being strong, protects the weak. On the other hand, he that injures other in order to gain his selfish ends can only be called a big animal.

In the first eleven chapter we have chiefly dealt with the religions of the people of Aryavarta (India). We believe in the religion that has been expounded in these chapters as it is in harmony with the Vedic teachings, but we disbelieve in false teachings of the Puranus (which are of a recent origin), the Tantras and the like books which we have been condemned.

In the twelvth chapter we have discussed the Charavaka faith (as well as the Jain and Buddhist religions.) It greatly resembles the Jain and the Buddhist religions in being an atheistic propaganda and in other points.

It has greatly declined in one day, but it is the most atheistic of all, hence it is absolutely necessary to check its activity, because if nothing be done to eradicate false ideas and practices, disastrous consequences are sure to follow. The Buddhist and the Jain religions will also be dealt with along with the Charavaka in the twelfth Chapter where we have set forth their points of agreement and of difference with each other. The reader should consult that Chapter for further information on the subject. In our criticism of the Buddhist Religion we have quoted the most ancient and authentic books of the Buddhists such as Dipavansha, Baudhamata Sangraha and Sarvadarshana Sangraha, etc.

INTRODUCTION.

The following are the authentic books on the Jain religion:—

- I.—Four Súlra books:—
 - (1.) Avárshya Súlra, (2.) Visheshuvashyaka Sulra, (3.) Dhisha Vaikálikes Sútra, (4.) Paksvika Sútra.
- II.—Eleven Angas (Limbs):—
 - (1.) Acharanya Sútra, (2.) Suyangnya Sútra, (3.) Thánaga Sútra, (4.) Samaványa Sutra, (5.) Bhagavati Sútra, (6.) Ináládharma Sútra, (7.) Upásaka dashá Sútra, (8.) Antayadá Sútra, (9.) Anuttarovavai Sútra, (10.) Kapabadisayá Sútra, (11.) Puppyá Sútra.
- III.—Twelve Upányus (Sublimbs):—
 - (1). Upaváyi Sulra, (2.) Ráyapaseni Sútra, (3.)
 Jiwabhiyama Sútra, (4.) Pannavanú
 Sútra, (5.) Jambudir papannati Sútra, (6.)
 Chandapannati Sútra, (7.) Surapannti
 Sútra, (8.) Nirayavati Sútra, (9.) Kapyúyá Sútra, (10.) Kayabadi Sayá Sútra, (11.) Pupyá Sútra, (12.) Pupyáchulyá Sútra.
- IV.—Five Kalpa Súlras:—
 - (1).—Uttradlujana Sutra, (2.) Nishitha Sútra, (3.) Vyavahára Sútra, (4). Jatikalpa Sútra.
 - V.—Six Chhedas:—
 - (1.) Mahunishitha Vrihadvachachana Sútra, (2).

 Mahanishi tha la ghubáchaná Sútra,

(3) Madhyamaváchaná Sútra, (4) Pindanirukti Sútra, (5) Ogha nirukti Sútra, (6) Paryúshaná Sútra.

VI.—Ten Payanná Súlra:—

(1) Chalussarana Súlra, (2) Pachchakhána Súlra, (3) Tadulvaiyalika Súlra, (4) Bhakliparignána Sulra, (5.) Mahápralyá khyán súlra,(6.) Chandávigaya Súlra, (7) Ganivijaya Súlra, !(8) Marana Samádhi Súlra, (9) Deventrastamana Súlra, (10.) Sansára Súlra, Nandi Súlra and Yogodhára Súlra are also regarded as authentic.

VII.—Five Punchánya:—

(1) Translations of the above books, (2) Nirukli (Etymological explanations of the above mentioned books), (3) Charni (Poetical expositions), (4) Bháshya (Commentaries.)

These four constitute what are called Avayava, (parts.)

5. All the books (mentioned under the above headings) in original.

There are many other books besides the above that are believed in by the Jainees. Their religion will be discussed in detail in the twelveth Chapter. There are millions of repetitions in the Jain books. It should be borne in mind that some of the Jainees are in the habit of disavowing books that fall into the hands of the non-Jainees or are published, but they can never be justified in doing so, since books that are believed in by some, though repudiated by others, can not be said to be unauthentic. Of course whatever book is not believed in by any Jaini nor has ever been, is unauthentic, but there is not a single book (referred to by us in our criticism) which is not believed in by any Jainee hence our criticism of any Jain book will hold good for him who believes in that particular book. But there are many such Jainees who though really believe in a book but repudiate it in an assembly or a debate. The Jainees hide their books from non-Jainees and do not let others see them, because they are so full of absurdities that no Jainee could ever answer any objections urged against them. The best answer however that one could give to an objection raised against a false belief is to give it up.

In the thirteenth chapter we have discussed Christianity. Its followers believe the Bible to be their Holy book. For further information the reader is requested to consult the said chapter. Mohammadanism has been dealt with in the fourteenth chapter. Its followers hold the Qoran to be their sacred book. The reader is advised to consult this chapter for detailed information on the subject. Then we have given a brief summary of the teachings of the Vedic religion. Whosoever will read this book with a biassed mind will fail to understand what the author has aimed at (in writing this book). There are four elements necessary to convey a complete sense of a passage, viz., (1) Alcánkushá, (2) Yoyyulá, (3) Asatti, (4) Tátparya—

- Akánkushá consists in entering into the spirit of the speaker or author.
- Yogyatá is the fitness or compatability of sense. For instance, when it is said "water irrigates" there is nothing absurd in the mutual connection between the objects signified by the words.
- Asatti consists in reading or speaking words in order, i. e., without detaching them from their context.
- Tátparya is to give the same meaning to the words of a writer or a speaker which he intended that they should convey.

There are many people who through bigotry and wrongheadedness misconstrue the meaning of the author. sectaries are the greatest sinners in this respect because their intellect is warped by bigotry. Just as we studied the Jain and Buddhist scriptures, the Puránas, the Bible and the Qoran with an unbiassed mind and have accepted what is good in them and rejected what is false and endeavour for the betterment of all mankind, it behaves all good men to do likewise. We have but very briefly pointed out the defects of these religions. The perusal of this book will help men to sift truth from error and to embrace the former and renounce the latter. It does not become wise men to mislead people. The ignorant are sure to misinterpret what we say but because the wise will realize what our aim is in writing this book, we consider our labour amply rewarded. place this work before all men in the hope that they will embrace the truth and make our labour fruitful. We consider it the first and the foremost duty of men to publish the truth without fear or favour. May the Omniscient, Omnipresent, Supreme Spirit Who is a true personification of Existence, Consciousness and Bliss through His grace diffuse this spirit and give it permanency.

A word to the wise.

UDAYAPUR, 1939 Vikram.

1882 A. D.

(SWAMI) DAYANANDA SARASWATI.

We repeatedly bow unto the Great Lord, who is a truly Conscious and Blissful Being.

d>∞€b

CHAPTER I.

AYEST Thou (AOM)¹ O God, Who art (Mitra), Friend of all, (Various) Holiest of all, and (Aryamá) Controller of the Universe, be merciful unto us. Mayest thou (Indra)

Rig Veda. O Lord Almighty, (Brihuspuli) the Lord of the Universe, the Support of all, endow us with knowledge and power Mayest Thou (Vishum) O Omnipresent and (Urukrama) Omnipotent Being, shower Thy blessings all around us."

ओरम् शन्नो मित्रः शं वरुणः शन्नो भवत्वर्यमा। शन्न इन्द्रो बृहस्पतिः शन्नो विष्णुं रूरूक्रमः ॥ नमो ब्रह्मणे नमस्ते वायो त्वमेव प्रत्यक्षं ब्रह्मांसि । त्वामेव प्रत्यक्ष ब्रह्मविद्ध्यामि ऋतं विद्ध्यामि सत्यं विद्ध्यामि तन्मामवतु तद्वक्तारंमवतु । अवतु मामवतु वक्तारंम् । ओरम् शान्तिक्ञान्तिक्शान्तिः ॥

r. Generally written and pronounced as 'OM', I have, for brevity, translated it into God the detailed exposition of this word will follow later on,—Tr,

"We bow unto Thee (Brahma), O most Powerful Supreme Being Thou alone art our Omniscient God whom we Upanishad. feel in the interior of our hearts. I will call Thee, Thee alone, my true God. Thy will, as truly revealed by the Vedas, will I obey and preach I will be truthful in word, deed and thought. Thou art my shelter. Mayest Thou protect me—Thy servant—who speaketh nought but truth, so that my understanding be firm in Thy will, and never turn away from it. Thy will is Truth and Righteousness That which is contrary to it is Untruth and Unrighteousness. Mayest Thou again shelter and protect me. O Lord, be merciful and grant this, my prayer, for which I shall feel grateful unto Thee for ever and ever. Peace!
Peace!! Peace!!!"

(In other words) Mayest Thou free us of all pain and grief, and always guide us to the path of rectitude which leads to true happiness, because Thou alone art true Bliss. Thou showerth blessings on all and bestoweth beatitude on the truly righteous seekers after Emancipation. Mayest Thou, O Lord! Thyself of Thy grace, reveal Thyself in the hearts of all men, whereby all may avoid sin and vice, and follow truth and virtue, and consequently, be freed from pain and sorrow, and enjoy Supreme bliss.

'AOM' is the highest name of God; it is composed of three letters, A,O,M. This one name comprises many other names of God. Thus, briefly—

A stands for Virát, Agni and Vishwa, etc.

O " " Hiranyagarbha, Váyu and Taijas, etc.

M " " Ishwara, A'ditya and Prajná, etc shelter. Just as one, in ordinary language, says to another: "Go to the village, go." By the repetition of the word 'go', he means to say—"go at once." Similarly, the devotee, by repeating this prayer for shelter an I protection, wishes to express that he prays for immediate protection at Ilis Hands, so that he may have firm faith in truth and righteousness and hate untruth and unrighteousness.

^{2.} The word peace is repeated three times, because the devotee prays unto God to rid him of all kinds of pain and sorrow, which is threefold, viz:—

Adhyatmika—Pertaining to body and soul, as ignorance, lack of true knowledge, passions and hatred, physical pain and disease (as fever).

Athibh nutika - Arising from the outside world, animate or inanimate; as from one's enemies, tigers, and snakes, etc.

Alhidairika—Arising from natural causes such as excessive rains, extremes of heat or cold, or from mental worry or disquietude and distraction of the senses

^{3.} The words Emancipation, Liberation, Salvation, Final Beatitude and Supreme bliss are all used synonymously in this book,—Tr;

It is clearly explained in the Vedas and other true Shastras, that wherever they treat of God, all these names stand for Him.

- O.1 Why are they not the names of other things besides God? Do they not also mean—earth, heaven, deviás as Indra, and, in the Medical Science, drugs such as green ginger.
 - A. Yes, they do, but they also mean God.
- O. We believe that they only mean gods. Why do you not believe the same?
 - A. What proofs have you in support of this assertion?
- O. They signify $devt \acute{a}s^2$ because they are manifest, and also good.
- Is not God also Manifest? Is there any one holier than, or superior to, Him? Why do you not believe that these names signify God as well? When God is Manifest and Incomparable. how can there be any one superior to Him? There are many objections against your belief. Suppose, a man placed food before another and requested him to eat. Now, if that man were to reject that food and look for it elsewhere, he would not be considered wise; because he rejects what he has and runs after what he has not. The same is true of your statement, because you refuse to accept that the words, such as Virát, mean God-Who is Real and Whose existence is proved by every possible evidence—as well as the real tangible universe, etc.; whilst you readily believe that they mean gods—who are neither real, nor can possibly exist. You can neither substantiate your statement by authority nor by argument The subject matter should determine the meanings of these words. For instance, a man said to his servant: "Get me saindhuva" Now that man, in order to find out what his master wants, ought to take time and place into consideration; because sairahava means salt, as well as, a horse. If it be meal time, he ought to bring salt; while, if it be time for going out, he should bring the horse. On the other hand, if he brings the horse at meal time, and salt when his master wants to go out. his master will get angry and will, most likely, say: "O you ignorant fellow! what was the object of your bringing the horse at meal time, and sa t when I was going out; you are ignorant of the fitness of things. You ought to have taken time and place into consideration, and done what suited the occasion You have failed to do that, you are, therefore, senseless. Get away from me." It is clear, therefore, that a word ought to be taken to mean what fits in with the occasion, circumstances, and the subject under discussion.

I. Throughout this book wherever any subject is treated in the form of questions and answers, I have, for various reasons, used the letters O and A instead of the customary Q and A. O in such places stands for an Imaginary objector while A for the Author.—Tr.

Generally, though wrongly, translated into gods by the orthodox Pundits and the European scholars.—Tr.

We quote the following authorities from the Vedas and Upanishadas in support of the statement that AOM and such other words, as Virál, are the names of God.

Yajur Veda, XL-17. "AOM is the Great God Who is Omnipresent (like other)."

Chhándogya "He alone, Whose name is AOM, Who is Immor tal, is worthy of our adoration and none other,"

"All the Vedus and Shástrus declare AOM as the primary Mándúkya and natural name of God. All others are His Upnishad, I, 1. secondary names."

"He, Whom all the Vedas declare worthy of homage Whom all devotion and righteous actions lead to, and for Whose realization, life of Brahmacharya (chastity) is led, is called AOM."

"He, who is the Teacher of all, subtler than the subtle, Resplendent, Who can be known through understanding, begotton of Sumádhi 'superior condition' of the soul, when the mind is perfectly concentrated by means of psychical practices—is the Great Being."

Being All glorious, some call Him Agni. Being EmbodiManu, ment of all true knowledge, other call him Manu.
XII, 122-123. Others call Him Indira being All-powerful and Protector of all. Others Prána, as the source of all life. Others again, call Him Brahma 1 the Greatest of all beings."

ओरिम् खम्ब्रह्म । १ ॥ यजुः ० अ ० ४० ॥ मं १७ ॥ ओमित्येतदश्वरमुद्रीयमुपासीत । २ ॥ छान्दोग्य उप० म० १ ॥ ओमित्येतदश्वरामिद सर्वं तस्योपच्याख्यानम् ।३॥ माण्ड्रक्य मं० १ ॥ सर्वे वेदा यत्पदमामनन्ति तपा स्सि सर्वाणि च यद्वदन्ति यदिच्छन्तो ब्रह्मचर्णं चरन्ति तत्ते पदं सङ्ग्रहेण ब्रवीम्योमित्येतत् ॥ ४ कठोपानिषदि । वल्ली २ मं० १५ ॥

^{1.} None of God's names are meaningless. They are all connotative unlike what we see in the world, where a poor man is very often named Dhanpati—lord of riches.

"He is called Brahmá the Creator¹ of the Universe; Kaivalya Vishnu - All- pervading; Rudra—Punisher of the Upanishad. wicked, whom He causes to weep; Shiva—Blissful and Benefactor of all; Aleshara—Immortal, Omnipresent; Swarát—Self-effulgent Kálágni Cause of the dissolution² of the world and Regulator of time; Charubrumá—the true Source of Happiness."

"He is One, but the wise call Him by different names; Rig Veda, such as, Indra, Milra, Varuna, Agni, Divya—One Mandal 1, who pervades all the luminous bodies, the source of light; Suparná—the Protector and Preserver of the Universe, Whose works are perfect; Mátrishwá—Powerful like wind; Garulnán—Mighty by nature 1."

Yajur Veda, "He is Bhûmi—the abode of all, etc."

Atharva Veda, XI, 2, "He is Inulra, etc."

Sám Veda, "We bow unto Thee, O Pránu,—who controls VII, 3, 8, 16, and governs the whole universe, just as the vital 2, 13, 2. forces in the body control and govern the whole physical system, etc."

प्रश्नासितारं सर्वेषामणीयां समणोरिष ।
रुक्मामं स्वप्नधीगम्यं विद्यात्तं पुरुषं परम् ॥
एतमेके वदंत्यग्नि मनुमन्ये प्रजापितम् ॥
इन्द्रमेके परे प्राणमपरे ब्रह्म शाश्वतम् ॥ मनु ० अ ० १२ ॥ इलो ०
११२ ॥ ११३ ॥

स ब्रह्मा स विष्णुः स रुद्रस्य शिवस्सोऽक्षरस्स परमः स्वराट् । स इन्द्रस्स कालाग्निस्स चन्द्रमाः ॥ केवल्य उपनिषत् ॥ इन्द्रं मित्रं वर्रुणमग्निमाहुरथो दिव्यस्सः सुंपूर्णो गुरुत्मान । एकं सद्विप्रां बहुधा वदन्त्यग्नि यमं मातारिश्वानेमाहुः ॥

ऋ०मं १। अनु०२२। स्०१६४। मं०४६॥

^{1.} The word Creator is used in the sense of Maker, as according to the Vedic philosophy, there is no such thing as creation or bringing something out of nothing.—Tr.

^{2.} He reduces all this visible and invisible world into its primary elementary condition at the end of creation, or one cycle of evolutionary existence.—Tr.

^{3.} The me mings of these names have been explained on the first page.—Tr

^{4.} Other names we shall explain later on. - Ir.

From the consideration of the meanings of these quotations it must have become clear to the reader, that AOM and such other names, as Agmi primarily only signifyGod as is evidenced by the expositions of the grammarians, philologists, etymologists, Brálimanas, 1 Sútrakárus² and other great teachers, sages and seers. It, therefore, behoves us all to believe the same. But it should be borne in mind that AOM is the name of God only (and of no other object—material or spiritual), whilst the application of such names, as Agni, to God is determined by two factors, viz., the subject under treatment, and the adjectives that qualify them other words, these names signify God in prayers, meditations, communions, or where such adjectives as Omniscient, Omnipresent, Holy, Eternal and Creator of the Universe qualify them. Whilst, where the things under discussion are mentioned as created, protected or sustained, disintegrated or where such qualifying words, as finite, visible, are used, they cannot be taken to signify God; because He is neither subject to such changes as evolution or dissolution, nor is He finite or visible. Therefore such names as Virát, Agni (as in the following quotations) signify material objects of the universe:—

"Then was created Virát, etc."

Yajur Veda, Chap. XXXI.

"Thereafter was created Bhúmi—earth."

Taitreya Upanishad. "Then did the Supreme Spirit manifest Alcáshu."
From Alcáshu proceeded Váyu, and Ayni from Váyu, etc"

Thus it is elear that these words ought to be understood to mean God, where they have such qualifying words as Omniscient,

भूरंसि भूमिर्स्यिदितिरासे विश्वधाया विश्वस्य अवनस्य धर्ती । पृथिवीं यंच्छ पृथिवीं हं ह पृथिवीं मा हिं स्ताः ॥ यज्ञः० अ० १३ । मं १८ ॥ इन्द्रो महना रोदसी पत्रयच्छव इन्द्रः सर्य्यमरोचयत् । इन्द्रे ह विश्वा अवनानि येमिर इन्द्रेस्वानास इन्द्रवः ॥ सामवे० ७ प्र० । ३

अ०८ स्र । १६ अ०२ ख०३ स्र०२ मं०॥ प्राणाय नमो यस्य सर्व भिदं वशे । [स्र०४। मं०१ यो भृतः सर्व स्येश्वरो यस्मिन्त्सर्वंप्रतिष्टितम्॥ अथर्ववेदेकांड ११। अ०२

- 1. Commentaries on the Vedas by ancient sages.—Tr.
- 2. Books on morals an 1 domestic duties of man, etc.—Tr.
- .3. See Chapter VIII, where this quotation is fully translated.—Tr.

etc.; but where desires, passions, feelings of pleasure or pain, finite knowledge and activity are spoken of, these words signify the soul; where such words, as created, dissolved material, dead, inert, are found, they mean material objects as the sun, the earth. Now, we shall give the etymology of such words as Virál, and show how they signify God:—

1. Virál (fron the root Rájri to illuminate, with the prefix vi and the suffix kwip added to it) signifies God, because He illuminates this multiform universe.

2. Agni (from the root anchu which signifies gali and worship. Gali means to know, to move or go, to realize) connotes God, because He is all-knowledge, Omniscient and worthy of adoration, fit subject to be known, sought after and realized.

the world and wordly objects dwell in Him, and He resides in all of them.

4. Hiranyagarbha (Hiranya—light and garbha—source
Yajur Veda
XIII, 4. means One who is the source and support of all light and luminous bodies such as the sun. This is also substantiated by the Yajur Veda, which says:—

"In the beginning was Hiranyayarbha—the One Lord
Yajur Veda
XIII, 4. of the creation, He sustains the sun and the earth. We adore Him—the all Blissful Being."

5. Váyu (from the root Vá to move, to kill) means One who is the life and support of the Universe, the cause of its dissolution mightier than the mightiest.

6. Taijus (from Teja to shine or enlighten) is One who is Resplendent and gives light to the sun and other luminous bodies.

ततो विराडंजायत विराजो अधिपूरुषः । श्रोतं।द्वायुश्चं प्राणश्च मुखांद्गिरंजायत । तेनं देवा अयंजन्त । पश्चाद्भमिमथो पुरः । यजुः ० अ ० ३१ ।

तस्माद्वा एतस्मादात्मन आकाशः सम्भूतः । आकाशाद्वायुः । वायोरग्निः । अग्नेरापः । अद्भयः पृथिवी । पृथिव्या ओषधयः । ओषधिभ्योऽसम् । अस्राद्रेतः । रेतसः पुरुषः ।

स वा एष पुरुषोऽसरसमयः ॥ तैत्तिरीय उपानिषद्० ब्रह्मानंदबल्ली अनुवाक १॥

हिरण्यगर्भः समवर्त्तताग्रे 'भूतस्यं जातः पतिरेकं आसीत् । स दी-धार प्रथिवीं द्यामुतेमां कस्मै देवायं हिवणं विधेम ॥ यज्ज० अ० १३। मं० ४॥

- 7. I'shwar (from I'sh—power, knowledge) is One whose knowledge and power are infinite.
 - 8. Aditya (from u—not, do—to break, decay) is One who never dies or decays—Immortal.
 - 9. Prajná (from Pra-perfectly and Ina-to know)
 One whose knowledge is perfect, Who is Omniscient.
 - 10. Aom. (See above).

Thus we have briefly described the meanings of the three letters A, O, M, of the word AOM. Besides those already mentioned it also covers other names of God. Similarly Milra, Varuna, and other names occuring in the manira quoted at the head of this chapter are all names of God, because He alone is worthy of homage and adoration, who is Various (good, pure and holy), i. r, Superior to others, in nature, attributes, power and good works. But God is called Varimu, because he is greatest among the great; Holiest among the holy, and purest among the pure. There is no one equal to Him, nor shall any one over be. How can then any one be greater than Him? Neither matter nor soul possesses such infinite powers and attributes as Truth, Justice, Mercy, Omnipotence, Omniscience. A thing that is true and real, has nature, attributes and characteristics also true and real. It behoves, therefore, all men to worship and adore God and God only, none besides Him because even the men of yore, saints or sinners as Brahmá, Vishnu, Mahádeva, Dáitya Dánava believed in and worshipped Him and Him only. They adored no other God. We shall take up this subject in detail in the chapters on 'Divine Worship' and 'Emancipation'.1

- O. The words such as Mitra, should be taken to mean friend, etc., and the words Indra, etc., the well-known devus² of this visible universe.
- A. No, not here (i, e., in the verses such as above, wherein prayers are addressed). Because a man, who is friend to one, is an enemy of another and indifferent to a third person. Hence Milra here cannot be taken to signify an ordinary friend, but it here
- 1. See Chapters VII and 1X.

^{2.} Generally, though wrongly, translated into gods by the orthodox Pundits and the European Scholars.—Tr.

means God, because He is One who is an absolute Friend of all, unfriendly or indifferent to none. No man can ever be like Him. This is the primary meaning of the word. But its secondary meaning is an ordinary friend.

- 11. Milra (from umidá to love) means God, because He loves all and is worthy of being loved by all.
- 12. Varuna (from vrin—good or vara—to desire) is One who is best, holiest of all and desired and sought after by all lighteous, pious and learned men who are seekers after truth and salvation.
- 13. Aryumá (from re to obtain, to go and mány to respect) is One who respects or rewards the good and the just, and punishes the wicked—The Great Judge, who gives souls the fruits of their deeds, good or evil.
- 14. Indra (from Idi-power) is One who is all-powerful.
- 15. Vrihaspali (, a—to protect or govern, Vrihat—great) is One who is greatest among the great and governs all the universe.
- 16. Vishnu Vishri—to pervade) is One who pervades all the universe, animate and inanimate.
- 17. Urukrum i (uru—great, krumu—energy) is One who possesses infinite energy.
- 18. Brahma (vriha or vrihi—to lord) is One who lords over all
- 19. Bhúmi is One who is the abode of all, and greater than all.
- 20. Surya is One who is the life and light of all the universe, animate or inanimate.
- 21. A'tma (ala—to pervade) is One who pervades the soul as well as the material universe.
- 22. Paramálmá (para—great, álmá see above) is One who is holier than the soul, subtler and more powerful than the soul and matter, pervades and controls the the soul.
- 23. Purameshwar (Param—great, Pshwara—powerful, see No. 7) is One who is All-powerful among the powerful, Almighty.
- 24. Savitá (shun— to create) is One who is Creator of the universe.

- Deva (from the root divu which means to operate, desire 25. to win, work, illuminate, praise, please, punish, sleep, desire and know) is One who operates in the universe and governs it and does all His works by His Own powers without help from other; Who desires or helps the good and the righteous to win and is Himself invincible, gives all power and means to work; Who knows every thing and is just and glorious, illuminates and enlightens all, is worthy of praise, All-blissful, bestows happiness on others, punishes the wicked and gladdens the hearts of the good and Himself enjoys perpetual bliss; Who has ordained night for all to sleep and rest, and is the cause of dissolution, when He causes souls to rest in the indefinable, imperceptible, primeval elementary matter—prakriti; Whose will is holy and Who pervades all and knows all.
- 26. Kuvera (kuvi—to cover or spread) is One who covers all or overspreads all.
- 27. Prithivi (prath—to spread) One who has spread this extensive universe.
- 28. Jula (jula—to beat) One who beats or punishes the wicked and beats the atoms into shapes, or beats them asunder in the Creation or Dissolution of the universe, respectively.
- 29. Alásh (káshri—to illuminate or enlighten) is One who illuminates or enlightens the whole world.
- 30. Annu and alla (from ada to eat) is One who eats or absorbs into Himself or contains the universe, animate Taitreya and inanimate. As grubs are born in the inside of Upnishad II, 10.
 Vedant Shásrta the universe born, lives and perishes in God.

 I, 29.

अद्यतेऽत्ति च भूतानि तस्मादकं तदुच्यते ॥ १ ॥
अहमक्रमहमक्रमहमक्रम् । अहमक्रादोहमक्रादोहमक्रादः ॥ २ ॥
तैति० उपनि० । अनुवाक २ । १० ॥
अत्ताचराचरग्रहणात् ॥ वेदान्तद्श्येने । अ० १ । पा० २ । स्व० ९ ॥
यन्मनसा ध्यायति तद्वाचा वदति यद्वाचा वदति तत् कर्मणा करोति
यत्कर्मणा करोति तदिभसम्पद्यते ॥ श्वतपथत्राद्यण ॥

1. i. e., reduced to its elementary condition.—Ir.

- 31. Vasu (vasu—to abide or dwell) One who dwells in all things, and is the abode of all.
- 32. Rudra (Rudir—to shed tears) is One who makes the wicked and the unjust shed tears. It is said in the Shalapatha Bráhmana "Whatever a man thinks, he speaks; whatever he speaks, the same he acts; whatever he acts, he reaps". In other words, a man reaps whatever he sows When the wicked suffer pain in consequence of their sins at the hand of Divine Justice, they wail and weep. He is, therefore, called Rudra.
- 33. Náráyana (Nárá—water and souls, áyana—abode) Manu 1, 10. signifies God, because He is the abode of souls and pervades them.
 - 34. Chandra (chadi—to please) is One who is all-bliss, and gives pleasure and happiness to others.
 - 35 Mangala (magi has the same meanings as gali, see No. 2) is One who is All-blissful, and showers bliss on the soul.
 - 36. Bulha (budha to know) is One who is All-knowledge and endows souls with knowledge.
 - 37. Shuhra (shuchir to purify) is One who is all-holy, and by Whose contact souls are also purified
 - 38. Shanaishchara (shanais—with ease, chara—to go, eat) is One who reaches or gains access to all with ease, and possesses great fortitude.
 - 39. Ráhu (rahu—to avoid, reject) is He Who is one wihout admixture of anything else, Who rejects the wicked, and frees others from the hands of the wicked.
 - 40. Kelu (kilu—to abide or reside and cure disease) is One Who is the abode of the universe, free from death and disease, and frees the emancipated souls from disease and suffering during the period of Salvation.
 - 41. Yajuu(yaja—to shine, worship, combine, devise and give) is One who combines the different elements together and evolves this world and its objects out of them, Who is worthy of being worshipped by the wise, was worshipped by all the sages and seers from Brahma downwards and shall always be. He is the Omnipresent

आपो नारा इति प्रोक्ता आपो वै नर सनवः। ता यदस्यायनं पूर्वं तेन नारायणः स्मृतः ॥मनु०॥ अ०१ इलो ० १०॥

- God. "Yajna is the Omnipresent God," says the Shatapatha Bráhmana.
- 42. Holá (hu—to give or take) is One who gives all that is worth giving to souls and takes from them what is worth taking.
- 43. Bandhu (bandhu—to bind, connect) is One who keeps all the worlds bound by laws in Himself, and helps to keep them in order so that they cannot move out of their orbits or the laws of their constitution. He is like a brother unto all the world and supports, protects, and gives happiness to all.
- 44. pilá (pá—to protect, rear) One who protects all. Just as a father, through paternal love and kindness always desires the good of his children, even so does God—the Father of all—desire happiness for all.
- 45. Pitámulu-The Father of fathers.
- 46. Prapitámulu—The Great-Grandfather.
- 47. Mátá—God is named mátá (mother), because He has happiness and prosperity of all souls at heart just as an earthly mother, out of extreme love and kindness, desires happines and prosperity for her offsprings.
- 48. Achárya (chara—to conduct, move, go and eat) God is called so because He is the source of all true knowledge and righteousness. It is through Him we receive knowledge, and live virtuous lives.
- 49. Guru (Gree—to speak) the Teacher of all true knowledge and learning Who revealed the Word of Salvation (Vedus) in the beginning of the world, the Teacher of even all the early teachers such as Agni, Vágu, Aditya Angirá and Bruhmá. He is Immortal, says Yogashástra, the Yogushástru. "He is the Teacher of Samádhi 126. even the most ancient teachers. He is Immortal. Time cannot influence Him".
- 50. Aja (aja—to combine, join, manifest or evolve) is One who combines the elements and atoms properly, and evolves the world out of them; unites bodies with souls, and brings them out into the world, which is called their birth. He is Himself never born.

- 51. Brahmá (brihi—to develop, multiply) is One who has created the world and multiplies it.
- 52. Salya (sal—to exist) is One who is the true embodiment of existence among all existences.
- 53. Inána is One who knows all the world, animate and inanimate. "The Great God is Satya Inána and Ananta,"—Tuitiriya Upnishad.
- 54. Avanta is One who has no limitations, boundaries, end or dimensions.
- 55. Anddi is One who has no beginning, nor a first cause.
- 56. Inanda is One who is All-blissful and endows the emancipated souls with bliss and bestows happiness on the good and the righteous.
- 7. Sal (asi—to be) is One who exists in all times, the past, the present and the future, and is not limited by time.
- 58. Chit (chiti—to know) is One who is a truly conscious Being and endows souls with true knowledge of right and wrong.
- 59. Suchidánunda (sata+chit+ánanda) s one who is a truly conscious, Blissful Being.
- 60. Nitya-Firm, Immortal, Eternal.
- 61. Shuddha (shuddh—to purity) is One who is Himself pure and purifies others.
- 62. Mukla (muchlari—to free) is One who is always free from all sin and impurity, and frees souls from sin and suffering.
- 63. Nitya shuddha buddha mukla subháva is One who is Eternal, Holy, Omniscient and Free.
- 64. Nirákára (nir—no, ákár—form) is One who has no form nor body nor is He ever embodied.
- 65. Niranjana (Nir—no, anjú—form, color, immorality, disorder) is One who is free from immoral conduct, disorders, etc., nor is He the object of senses such as eyes.
- 66. Ganapati (Gama—host, pati—Lord) is One who is the Lord of hosts, i. e., of all the Material and Spiritua world, which He also protects.
- 67. Ganesha (Guna -host, I'shu-Lord), Lord of Hosts.

 $^{^1}$ सत्यं जानमनन्तं ब्रह्म ॥ तैतरिय उपानि० ॥

- 68. Vishweshwara (Vishwa—universe, Ishwara—Lord), Lord of the Universe.
- 69. Kutastha, is One who pervades all, supports all, and yet Himself undergoes no transformation.
- 70. Devi has the same meanings as the word Deva, which is of masculine gender, whilst Devi is of feminine gender. God has names in all the three genders.
- 71. Shukti (shaktri—power) is One who is powerful enough to create the world.
- 72. Shri (shrin—to serve) is One who is served by all saints, sages and seers.
- 73. Lakshmi (Laksh -to see and mark) is One who sees all the universe and endows it with distinguishing marks or features, as bodies with eyes, ears, etc.; trees with leaves, fruits and flowers; liquids and solids with different colours as black, white, red, etc.; earth with dust and rocks, etc.; and sees them all. He is most beautiful among the beautiful. The Chief aim of the Vedas is to teach, of the Yoyis and wisemen to realize Him.
- 74. Saraswali (sri, to achieve and know) is One who is possessed of infinite knowledge of the universe, of words, their objects and their relations.
- 75. Sarvashaklimán, is One who does not require the assistance of another in accomplishing His works, Who by His Own innate power does all His works.
- 76. Nyáyakári. Nyáya is what is proved to be true by all the eight kinds of evidence such as, Direct Cognition, Inference, Analogy. It is the dispensing of justice without favour or partiality. Nyáyakári is One who practices Nyáya, i. e., truth, justice and righteousness.
- 77. Dayálu (Daya—to give, take, go, know, protect injure) is One who makes you fearless, knows all, protects the good, and punishes the wicked.
- 78. Advaila is One who is only one, in Whom there is no second God, either of the same kind (as, man and man are of the same kind), or of a different kind (as trees and rocks are of different kinds from man), nor different parts, and consequently no relation of whole to its parts, as of body with its parts such as, eyes, ears.

- 79. Nirguna is One who is free from the properties of matter such as, Sativa, Rajas, Tamas, color, taste, touch, smell and of the soul, such as finite power and knowledge, ignorance, passions and desires, and pain of all kinds. This definition is substantiated by the authority of Upanishada. "He is free from sound, touch, colour, and such other qualities."
- 80. Sagama² is One who possesses such attributes, as perfect knowledge, perfect bliss, purity, infinite powers. Everything in this universe is sagama (positive)³ and nirgama² (negative). For instance, the material objects are called nirgama, because they are void of the properties and powers of conscious beings as will and feelings. Whilst they are also sagama (positive), because they possess their own material properties. The same is true of God. He is sagama, when He is looked upon as possessed of His own attributes, as Omniscience, Omnipotence, but He is also Nirgama, being free from the properties of matter and soul.
- 81. Anturyámi is One who pervades the animate as well as the inanimate universe, and controls it.
- 82. Dharma Rája is One who is free from sin and evil, and rejoices in truth, justice and righteousness—The Great Judge.
- 83. Yama is One who governs all, administers justice to all and is the personification of Justice.
- 84. Bhagaván (Bhaga—to serve) is One who is possessed of all might and power, and is worthy of being served and worshipped.
- 85. Manu (mana—to know) Who is the true embodiment of knowledge, and worthy of being known and believed.
- 86. Purusha (Pree—to fill, sustain) is One who fills the whole universe.
- 87. Vishwambhara is One who sustains and preserves the world.
- 88. Kála (kala—to count) is One who counts and classifies the material objects and souls.
 - 1. See Chapter VIII, for their meanings.—Tr.
 - 2. Possessed of certain specific attributes.
 - 3. Devoid of certain specific attributes.

- 89. Shesha is One who undergoes no change during Creation or Dissolution. He is the one Unchangeable Eternal Being.
- 90. Apta laptri—to pervade) is One who pervades the universe, is filled with all true knowledge and righteousness, is the true Teacher of all, accessible only to the good and the righteous, and free from such bad attributes, as dishonesty, fraud, etc.
- 91. Shankara (sham—good, karam—from dukrin—to do) is one who is the Benefactor of all, and Giver of happiness.
- 92. Mahádeva (mahá—great+deva) is One who is greatest among the great, the good, and the learned, and is the Light of the world.
- 93. Priya (Preen—to please and desire) is One who gladdens the good, the righteous and the true seekers of salvation, and the worthy of being sought after—The embodiment of Love.
- 94. Swayambhú (Swayam—self and bhú, (to be) is One who is Self-existant Uncreated.
- 95. Kavti (ku -word) is One who is all-knowledge and reveals true knowledge through His Word (The Vedu)
- 96. Shiva is One who is all Bliss and the Giver of happiness to all.
- 97. Swarát-Self effulgent.
- 98. Suparná—the Protector and Preserver of the Universe.
- 99. Mátrishwá-Powerful like wind.
- 100. Garulmán Mighty by nature.

We have here explained the meanings of only one hundred names, but there are millions of other names of God besides these. His names are without number, because His nature, attributes and activities are infinite. One name stands for each of them. These hundred names are like a drop in the ocean. In the Veda and Shastras, the infinite attributes, powers, characteristics of God, are described, and can be learnt by the study of those books. The perfect knowledge of even other subjects can only be gained by those who study them.

- Q.—How is it that you have set down nothing in the way of manglachuruna¹, like other authors, who do it in the beginning, the middle and the end of a book?
- 1. The custom of writing set words and phrases, indicative of auspiciousness in the beginning, middle and en l of a book by way of Prologue, Interlogue, (I owe the reader an apology for coining this word) and Epilogue.—Ir.

- A.—Because it is not right to do so. He who only writes good things in the beginning, the middle and the end of his book, would write bad things in the intervening parts of the book. Says the Sánkhya Shástra "Manglácharana consists in constantly obeying the Will of God by the practice of truth, and justice, without prejudice or partiality, as enjoined by the Vedas, under all conditions and circumstances." Throughout his book, from beginning to end, an author should write honestly and justly, what is true and nothing lut truth. This is manglácharana. It is not manglácharana to write what are true things in one place, and those that are false in another. This practice of manglácharana is nowhere to be found in the Vedas or Shástras—the books of sages and seers. They either begin with the word atha (Now) or AOM. We quote the following as corroborative of our position:—
 - "(Atha), Now we shall discourse on the 'Science of language'" Mahábháshya.
 - "Now we shall discuss the 'Science of morals'", i. e., after the study of the Vedets. Phere Mimánsá.
 - "Now we shall describe in detail the chief features of religion", and so on. Vaisheshika Shastra.
 - "Now we shall teach the science of Yoya."-Yoya Shastra

The Rig Veda begins with the word 'Agni.'

The Yajur Veda , 'It.'

The Sáma Veda , , 'Agni.'

The Atharva Veda " "Ye trishapta."

Nowhere do the Velus and Shástrus begin with "I bow unto the god Gameshu," etc. Wherever even Vedic scholars start with

यान्यनवद्यानि कर्माणि तानि सेवितयानि नो इताराणि ॥ तैत्तिरी० उप०११॥
" अथ शब्दानुशासनम् " अथेत्ययं व्यब्दोऽधिकारार्थः
प्रयुज्यते । इति व्याकरण महाभाष्ये ।

"अथातो धर्मिजिज्ञासा" अथेत्यनन्तर्ये वेदाध्ययनानन्तरम् ।

इति पूर्वमीमांसायाम्

"अथातो धर्मं व्याख्यास्यामः " अथेति धर्मकथनानन्तरम् । धर्मलक्षणं विशेषेण व्याख्यास्यामः । वैशेषिकदर्शने ।

Hari Aom, they have contracted this pernicious habit from The Pauraniks¹ and The Tantriks.² Nowhere in the Vedas and Shástras is the word 'Hari' written in the beginning. Hence a book ought to start either with Atha (Now), or AOM.

We have, in this Chapter, briefly discoursed on the different names of God. In the next, we shall treat of the 'UPBRINGING OF CHILDREN.'

THE END OF CHAPTER 1.

- " अथ योगानुशासनम् " अथेत्ययमिषकारार्थः योगशास्त्रे ॥
- " अश त्रिविधदुःखात्यन्तानिवृत्तिरत्यन्तपुरुषार्थः " सांसारिक विषय-भोगानन्तरं त्रिविधदुःखात्यन्तनिवृत्यर्थःप्रयतःकर्त्तव्यः । सांख्यशास्त्रे ।

" अथातोत्रहाजित्रासा " " चतुष्टय साधन समाध्यनन्तर ब्रह्मिज्ञास्यन् "।

इदं वेदान्तसूत्रम् ॥

- " ओमित्येतदक्षरमुद्गीयमुपासीत " इदं छान्दोग्योपनिषद्वचनम्
- " ओमित्येतदक्षरामिदँ सर्व तस्योपयाख्यानम् " इदं च माण्डूक्यो-निषद्वचनम् ॥
- 1. Believers in the Puranas—books on Indian Mythology.—Ir.
- 2. Followers of Tantras -books on Van Marg, a religious sect whose tenets are discussed in the 11th chapter of this book.

CHAPTER II.

THE UPBRINGING OF CHILDREN.

Mátrimán Pitrimán¹ Acháryaván Purushoveda—Shatapatha Bráhmana, has had the advantage of three good tutors, viz., father, mother, and teacher." Blessed is the family, most fortunate is the child whose parents be godly and learned. The mother's influence for good on her children surpasses that of everyone else. No other person can equal a mother in her love for her children, or in her anxiety for their welfare. This explains the use of the word Málrimán in the above quotation, meaning thereby:—"He alone is said to have a mother whose mother is devout and learned." Blessed is the mother who never ceases to impart a religious tone to the mind of her child from the time of conception till his knowledge is perfected.

It behoves both parents before, during, and after conception to avoid the use of such foods and drinks as are intoxicating, decomposed (Lit. foul-smelling), non-nutrition (Lit. dry), and prejudicial to the growth of intellect; and to use those articles that are productive of mental-tranquility, health, strength, intellect, energy, and good temper—qualities that go to make a man refined. Such foods are milk, butter, sugar, cereals, etc.,—foods and drinks that help to make the reproductive element (both male and female) of the highest quality, free from all faults and imperfections. They should follow the rules of Sexual intercourse, which are as follows:—

From the time of menstruation to the 16th day following is the proper time for (sexual intercourse) bearing the first four days and the 11th and 13th of the (lunar) month; so that there are altogether left ten nights out of which it is best to chose one for sexual intercourse.

After the 16th day there should be no sexual intercourse till the return of the aforesaid period, or, in case of pregnancy for one year. At the time of sexual intercourse husband and wife should be perfectly healthy mutually happy, and free from sorrow. In the matter of diet and dress they should follow the rules laid down by Charak and Sushrat, and in the matter of keeping each other happy they ought to practice the system taught by Manu. During the time of conception the mother ought to be very careful as to her diet and dress. Till the birth of the child those articles only should be used as are productive of intellect, strength, beauty, health, energy and mental tranquility, and such other good qualities.

r. In the text the word mala, i.e., mother proceeds the word pila, i.e., father. In Sanskrit language and all vernaculars derived from it, it is an invariable practice to use the word mala before the word pila whenever they happen to come together—Tr.

After the child is born and its cord has been tied, it ought to be bathed with scented water, and Homas performed with scented clerified butter. The mother should also be well looked after in the matter of bath, diet, etc., so that both mother and child may gradually gain in health and strength. The child's mother or wet-nurse should take such foods and drinks as are productive of good qualities in the milk. The mother should suckle the child only for the first six days, thereafter the wet-nurse; but the parents should see that the wet-nurse gets good food and drink. If the parents be too poor to afford a wet-nurse, cow's or goat's milk diluted with an equal quantity of water should be used; and such drugs as are productive of intellect, energy, and health should be added to the milk after being well soaked in pure water boiled, and strained. After confinement the mother and the child should be removed to another room, where the air is pure, and which is well furnished with scented and beautiful things. They should move about in a pure atmosphere. When neither the wet-nurse nor milk (cow's or goat's) can be procured; the parents should do what they think best at the time; but they must remember that the child's body is made up of the elements derived from the body of the mother, which fact accounts for the mother getting weaker after each confinement. It is best, therefore, for the mother not to suckle her child. Such plasters should be applied to the breast that will soon dry up the milk. By following this system the woman becomes strong again in about two months. Till then the husband should have thorough control over his passions, and thus preserve the reproductive element. Whosoever will follow this plan will have children of a superior order, enjoy long life, and continually gain in strength and energy so that all their children will be of a high mental calibre, strong energetic, and devout. The woman should have her reproductive organs properly seen to, and the husband should practice continence.

I. Two great authorities on Medical Science in Sanskrit.

^{2.} See Chapter III.

A mother should so instruct her children as to make them refined in character and manners, and they should never be allowed to misconduct themselves in any way. When the child begins to speak, his mother should see that he uses his tongue properly, so as to pronounce letters distinctly in the right place and with the right amount of effori. For pronouncing the letter 'p' for example, the right place is the Lips and the amount of 'effort,' required is what is called Full. In speaking, vowels should be exactly timedshort, long, or prolonged as the case may be. She should try to cultivate a sweet subdued and pretty voice in her child. In his speech, letters, syllables, words, conjoined words, and stops should be distinctly discernible. When he begins to talk and understand a little, he should be taught how to address his superiors and inferiors, father, mother, king and a learned man, and how to conduct himself in their presence; so that he may never be slighted in company, but be always treated with respect. Parents should en leavour to inculcate in the minds of their children an intense desire for the love of knowledge, elevating company, and control of the senses.

Children should avoid useless playing, crying, laughing and wrangling. They should not give way to excess of pleasures and sorrows, nor become completely engrossed in a thing. Jealousy and malice they should not harbour. They should never handle or rub the reproductive organs, as it causes the loss of the reproductive element and, consequently besides soiling the hand, leads, to impotence. The parents should try, in every possible way, to develop in their children such sterling qualities as truthfulness, heroism, patience, cheerfulness, etc. When children attain to the age of 5 years, they should be taught the Sunskrit Alphabet, as well as that of foreign languages; thereafter the parents should make them understand and learn by rote such versus (Vedic), poetical pieces aphorisms, prose passages, etc., as are full of good procepts, inculcate truth and virtue, love of knowledge and God; and give advice as to the general behaviour towards father, mother, sister and other relatives, friends, teachers and other learned men, guests, king, fellow-subjects and servants, so that they may not, as they grow up, be duped by any unprincipled person. They should also counsel them against all things that lead to superstition, and are opposed to true religion and Science, so that they may never give credence to such imaginary things as ghosts (Bhúls) and spirits (Preta.)

Preta-really means a dead body, and Bhúta-one who is deceased.

In support of this contention we quote Manu-

"After his death, the pupil who helps in cremating his Manu V, 65. teacher's preta is purified in ten days together with other people who carry the preta to the crematorium."

It is clear, then, that Prela in the above quotation can not mean anything else but the dead body. After the body has been cremated, the dead person is spoken of as Bhúta, i. e., deceased—one who lived but does not live now. All those that are born and cease to exist after having lived in the present are spoken of as Bhútasth, i. e., deceased. Such has been the belief of all learned men from Brahmá to the present day But we do not wonder that one, who is ignorance ridden, superstitious, and associates with low people, is constantly troubled by all sorts of ghosts, spirits, and devils, in the shape of fear and doubt. When a person dies, his soul by Divine laws, takes on a new body—to reap the fruit of his deeds, according to their nature, in pleasure and pain. Breathes there a man who can undo this eternal law of God?

People ignorant of the principles of Medical and Physical Sciences look upon persons afflicted with physical and mental diseases, such as high fever and Lunacy, as possessed of devils (Bhút and Preta). But instead of having such persons treated medically. dieted properly, and otherwise cared for, they trust them to such rogues, scoundrels, cheats, idiots, profligates and extremely low. selfish, despicable and dirty charlatans as victimize them by their trickery, quackery so-called charms, and magic incantations. waste their money, bring misery and suffering on their children by the increase of disease. When these people who really have 'more money than brains' go to those ignorant, wicked and mean rascals and say to them "Sirs, would you kindly tell what is wrong with such and such a person or child "? They answer them thus "He is possessed of a big devil or ghost, Bhairava (god of drink) or Shitlá (goddess of small-pox). It will never leave him unless you adopt proper means for its removal. It may even take his life, but if you offer us a reward, or give us a present, we will drive the devil out of him by incantations, recitation of magical formulae and prayers, etc." Then those ignoramuses and their friends:—say, "Please, Sirs, cure him though it may cost us our last penny." On this the rogues feel triumphant and say "Well, bring us such an I such material, our fee, offerings to the god, and presents to ward off the influence of unlucky stars." Then, they sing. beat upon drums, play on castanels, cymbals, etc., before the man who is supposed to be possessed of a devil; by and by, one of those scoundrels begins to dance and skip about as if in a fit of madness and says "I will even take his life," and the ignoramueses fall at the feet of that mean rascal, saying "O! save him Sir! save him. You shall have anything you like." Upon this the rogue says "I am Hanumán; bring me my offerings—sweets, oil, a basket of loaves and a red dress." Or "I am a god, or Bhairava, bring me five bottles of liquor, twenty fowls, five goats, sweets and clothes," and when these dupes answer "You shall have anything you like" the rogue begins to skip and dance still more. But if a sensible man were to give them an offering of a good thrashing or shoebeating, kicking or smacking on the face instead, their Hammán, god, or Bhairava is at once propitiated, and they immediately take to their heels as all this quackery is simply meant for robbing the simpletons of their money.

गुरोः प्रेतस्य चिष्यस् पितृमेषं समाचरः । प्रेतहारैःसमं तत्र दशरात्रेण शुध्यति ॥ मनु ० अ ० ५ । ६५ ॥

^{1.} This verse from Manu has been quoted by the author for the sole object of supporting his statement regarding the meaning of the word Preta But it does not follow that the author believes in the superstition inculcated by the verse which is clearly an interpolation in Manu.—Tr.

Similarly, when those ignorant people go to an astrologer and say "O Sir! what is wrong with this person"? He replies "The sun and other stars are maleficent to him. If you were to perform a propitiatory ceremony, or have magic formulæ chanted, or pravers said, or specific acts of charity done, he will recover. Otherwise I should not be surprised, even if he were to lose his life after a long period of suffering.

Inquirer.—"Well, Mr. Astrologer, you know, the sun and other stars are but inanimate things like the earth of ours. They can do nothing but give light, heat, etc. Do you take them for conscious beings, possessed of human passions of pleasure and anger, which, when offended, bring on pain and misery, and when propitiated, bestow happiness on human beings?"

Astrologer-" It is not through the influence of stars then, that some people are rich and others poor, some are rulers whilst others are their subjects "?

Inq.—"No, it is all the result of their deeds—good or bad." Ast.—" Is the Science of stars untrue then?"

Inq.—" No, that part of it which comprises Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry etc, and which goes by the name of Astronomy is true; but the other part that treats of the influence of stars on human beings and their actions and goes by the name of Astrology is all false."

Ast.—" Is then the horoscope of no value"?

Inq.—"No, and it should be named, not horoscope, but death-knell of happiness; because the birth of a child gladdens every heart in the family, but this happiness lasts only so long as the horoscope is not cast, and the aspect of the planets is not read out to the parents."

When the priest, after the birth of the child, suggests the casting of a horoscope, his parents say to him. "Oh Sir! Cast a very good horoscope." Then the astrologer brings the horoscope, well bespangled with red and yellow lines if they be rich, or a plain one if they be poor. They ask him if the aspect is beneficial. He answers "I will read it out to you as it is; his slars of nativity are good, and so are the stars that govern the relation of social intercourse, consequently he will be a rich man and will make a name for himself; he will command respect among his associates; will have good health; and be a ruler among men." Upon hearing this, the parents say "Well done Sir! Well done! You are a very nice man." The astrologer thinks it would not pay him to say such nice things only, so he adds "These are all his lucky stars, but there are others that are maleficent. On account of the position of such and such stars he will meet with his death in his 8th years." On hearing this, all their happiness is converted into great distress, and they say to the astrologer "Oh Sir! what shall we do? What shall we do now?" The astrologer answers "Propitiate the stars." They ask "How can we doit"? He says "Do such and such an act of charity, have the hymns relating to the stars chanted, feed the priests and it is very likely that the maleficence of the stars will be warded off." The words very likely have been used by way of safe-guard, because, if the child died he could say "How could I help it? I am not above God. I did my utmost and so did you, but it was so ordained from the first on account of his mis-deeds in the previous life." But, if the child lived he could say. "Behold the power of our incantations, gods and priests; I have saved the life of your child." But really. if their incantations and prayers fail, and the child die, these rogues should be made to pay double or treble the money given them; and if the child lives, they should still be made to pay because, as they themselves say, there is no soul living that can undo the law of God or evade the consequences of one's deeds. The parents can say to them "This child has survived in consequence of his deeds, and according to the laws of God, and not through your help." The same answer should be given to Gurus (so-called spiritual fathers or teachers), who prescribe certain acts of chaity to their dupes and then appropriate the gifts themselves, as has been given to the astrologers above. Lastly, a word about Shillall and Charms.

^{1.} Small-pox.—It is looked upon as a goddess by the superstitious people in India.—Tr

These are nothing but downright frauds and quackery. Should any one say: "If I were to give a charmed bungle or locket to any person, my god or saint would ward off all evils from him through the power of the charm or of incantations." To such a person the following questions should be put: "Can you by your charms evade death, or the laws of God, or the consequences of your deeds? Many a child dies in spite of your charms and incantations; say, even your own children die; why can't you save them? Will you be able to save yourself from death?" These questions, that rascal and his fraternity can never answer, and they soon find that the game is not worth the candle.

Therefore, it behoves all to do away with all kinds of false and superstitions practices and do all in their power to promote, in return for their services, the welfare of those pious, learned men, who are devoted to their country and are altruistic teachers of humanity, teaching and preaching to all without the least amount of hypocracy.

All alchemists, magicians, sorcerers, wizards, spiritists, etc., are cheats and all their practices should be looked upon as nothing but downright fraud. Young people should be well counselled against all these frauds, in their very childhood, so that they may not suffer through being duped by any unprincipled person. They should also be taught that the preservation of the reproductive element begets happiness and its loss the reverse. He, in whose body, it is well preserved, gains in health, strength, energy and intellect; and, consequently feels happy. The only way to preserve it is to keep aloof from hearing and reading obscene literature; associating with libidinous people, indulging in lascivious thoughts; looking upon women (with an eye of lust); engaging in conversation with them embracing or having sexual intercourse with them; and leading, instead, a pure and virtuous life; and devoting oneself to the acquisition of perfect knowledge and culture.

He, in whose body, the reproductive element is not preserved, becomes impotent, void of good qualities, and suffers from Spermatoria and such like diseases. He is, in fact, a ruined man, through loss of health, strength, intellect, courage, pluck, energy, patience and such other good qualities. Parents should not neglect to impress upon their children that, if they fail to acquire knowledge and wisdom, and preserve the reproductive element when young, they will never have again another chance like this in this life. They must bear in mind that it is only so long as the parents are alive, and able to look after the household, that they can prosecute their studies, and perfect their bodies. Both the father and the mother should also advise them regarding other necessary matters. This is the reason the words, Mátrimán and Pitrimán, appear in the quotation hading this chapter. The mother should instruct them from birth to the 5th year, and the father from the 8th. In the beginning of the 9th year Dwijas¹ should, after their Upnayan² ceremony has been performed, send them to school (Acháryakul³,) where the teachers are thorough scholars, inbued with piety, and well versed in all the sciences. Shúdrus should also send their children to school, but without performing their Upnayan.

Those children alone become well-behaved, refined, and scholarly, whose purents do not indulge them; but on the other hand, always reprinand them when necessary. Says Patanjali, in his Mahabhashyu:—

"These parents and tutors who are not slow to reprimand their Mahibhashya children and pupils (when needed) are as if giving VIII, 1, 8. them a drink of immortality; but those who indulge them are, in fact, giving them poison, and are thus the cause of their ruin, because indulgence spoils children, whilst reprehension develops good qualities in the n." Children should also feel pleased when reprimanded, and feel uneasy when fondled. But parents and teachers should never reprimand them out of malice or spite. Outwardly they should keep then in awe; whilst inwardly they should be tender hearted and kind to them. Likewise, they should advise them to abstain from stealing, committing adultery, contracting habits of indolence, arrogance, drunkenness, untruthfulness, malevolence, wickedness, malice, jealousy, blind-passion; and to cultivate gool qualities, such as, truthfulness, virtue.

Once a person has committed theft or adultery or has spoken an untruth before you, you can never respect or trust him any more. A broken pledge injures a man's character more than anything else.

सामृतैः पाणिमिर्घ्निन्त गुरवो न विषोक्षितैः । लालनाश्रयिणो दोषास्ताडनाश्रीयणो गुणाः ॥ महाभाष्य अ०८ । १।८ ॥

- 1. Persons of the three upper classes are called Dwijas or the twice-born, because of their rebirth through the acquisition of knowledge and culture. First is the physical birth, whilst the 2nd is their spiritual birth. The three upper classes are: Br. shmans, Kshatryis and Vaishayas. The reader is referred to the 4th Chapter, for detailed information regarding this subject.—Tr.
- 2. The ceremony of initiation into knowledge; it is performed just before a student leaves home for the seminary; in this ceremony he has to take vows of ilving a chaste life, of truthfulness, of devotion to studies, etc.—Tr.
- 3. A'charyukula is the academy for the education of the children of all Classes. In this institution the teacher is not a mere tutor, he is also loco parents.

Therefore, once you make a promise, keep it; for example, you say to a man: "I will meet you at such and such a place and time" or "I will give you such and such a thing, at such and such a time." Then, always keep your promise; otherwise no one will ever trust you. All should therefore, speak the truth and keep their word. One should never be vain Deceitfulness, hypocrisy, and ingratitude are painful even to the soul that harbours them. How much more so then to other? It is hypocrasy to believe one thing and say another, and thus mislead people in order to gain selfish ends. Ingratitude is that condition of mind in which you do not feel thankful to one who has been good to you.

A child should not lose his temper, or say a rude word; he should rather cultivate a speech that is pacific and sweet. He should avoid useless talk, and speak only as much as is necessary, neither more nor less. He should respect his superiors. At their approach, a child should stand and salute them, and offer them the best seat available. In an assembly, each person should occupy a seat in accordance with his rank and position, so that he may never have to suffer the indignity of having to yield his seat to another. He should never bear malice towards any one. He should try to acquire virtues and shun vices; associate with the good and avoid the wicked. Father, mother and tutor, a child should serve with all his wealth, all his heart, and all his soul. Says the Taitreya Upanishad.

"Fathers, mothers, and tutors should always give their children and students good counsel and they should also advise them to imbibe their virtues, but avoid their vices."

Children should always speak the truth, and should never trust a hypocrite or a man of low character. They should obey their parents an 1 titors in all things that are good. should help their pupils to revise all that their parents had taught them at home,—the Vedic mantras, aphonisms, poetical pieces and prose passages, inculcating the love of righteousness, knowledge. and good character. They should understand the nature and attributes of God¹ and worship Him accordingly. In the matter of dress, diet, and they should so conduct themselves as to gain in health, strength and general behaviour and knowledge. They should eat a little short of their appetite, and abstain from animal diet and spirituous liquors. They should never enter deep water lest they be attacked by dangerous creatures (such as, crocodiles), or even be drowned, if they be unable to swim. Therefore, savs Manu-" Never bathe in water of unknown depth."

^{1.} As taught in the first chapter.

On the general conduct of life the same sage has said:—"Look Manu VI, 46. down while you walk. Filter your water before you drink it. Speak in accordance with truth.

Think well before you act."

Says another poet:—"Parents who neglect the education of their child are his veritable enemies. In company, he is like a goose among swans." To give their children the highest education possible, to instruct them in the ways of truth, to make them refined in character and manners, in short to devote all their wealth, body and mind to accomplish this object is the paramount duty, the highest virtue, and the glory of parents.

We have thus briefly discoursed on the 'Up bringing of Children' in the hope that 'a word to the wise' will prove sufficient.

यान्यस्माक सुचिरतानि तानि त्वयोपास्यानि नो इतराणि ॥ तैति ० प्रपा ० ७ । अनु ० ११ ॥ इष्टिपूतं न्यसेत्पादं वस्तपूतं जलं पिवेत् । सत्यपूतां वदेद्वाचं मनः पूतं समाचरेत् ॥ मनु ० । अ० ६ । ४६ ॥ माता शत्रुः पिता वरी येन वालो न पाठितः । न शोभते सभामध्ये हंसमध्ये वको यथा ॥ चाणक्यनीति अध्या ०

न शोभते सभामध्ये हंसमध्ये वको यथा॥ चाणक्यनीति अध्या ० २ । श्लोक ० ११॥

CHAPTER III.

EDUCATION.

It is the highest duty of parents, tutors, and relatives to adorn children with good sound education, nobility of character, refinement of manners, and amiability of temper.

The wearing of jewellery (gold, silver, pearls, rubies, diamonds, etc.) adds no beauty to the soul. It only arouses vanity and other lower passions, gives rise to fear of robbery, and may even be the cause of death. Many a child has been known to lose its life at the hands of cut-throats because of wearing jewellery.

the acquisition of knowledge; who possess sweet and amiable tempers; who cultivate truthfulness and other similar virtues; who are free from vanity and uncleanliness; who enlighten the minds of those who are in ignorance; whose chief delight consists in promoting the happiness of others by the preaching of truth, by generous distribution of knowledge without fee or reward; and who are engaged in altruistic work as prescribed by the Vedus."

Boys and girls, when they attain to the age of 8 years, should be sent to their respective schools. In no instance, should they be placed under the tuition of teachers of low character. Only those persons are qualified to teach who are masters of their art and are imbued with piety. Dwijás should have the Upnayan of their children (both sons and daughters), done at home, before sending them to their respective schools. The seminary should be situated in a sequestered place. The Boys' school should be at least 3 miles distant from that of the Girls'. The tutors and other employees, such as servants, should, in the Boys' school, be all of the male sex, and in the Girls' school, of the female sex. Not even a child of 5 years of the opposite sex should be allowed to enter the school.

विद्याविलासमनसो धृतशीलशिक्षाः, सत्यवृता रहितमानमलापहाराः । संसारदुःखदलनेन सुभूषिता ये, धन्या नरा विहितकर्मपरोपकाराः ॥

As long as they are Brahmcháris (students) they should abstain from the following eight kinds of intercourse, with persons of the opposite sex:—

1. Looking upon them with an eye of lust;

2. Embracing them;

3. Having sexual intercourse with them;

4. Intimately conversing with them;

5. Playing with them;

Associating with them;

7. * Reading or talking of libidinous subjects;

8. * Indulging in lascivious thoughts.

Tutors should see that they keep aloof from the above things, and thus perfect their knowledge, cultivate amiable dispositions and manners, and gain in strength both of body and mind, and thereby grow in happiness. The school must not be nearer than 5 miles to a town or a village. All the scholars should be treated alike in the matter of food, drink, dress, seats, etc. Be they princes and princesses or the children of beggars, all should practice asceticism.¹ They should not be allowed to see their parents, or hold any communication whatever with them. Being thus freed from all worldly worries and cares, they should devote themselves heart and soul to their studies. Their tutors should accompany them in all their recreations, so that they may not fall into any mischief, get indolent Manu says:—"Both state and society should or naughty. make it compulsory upon all to send their children Manu VII, 152. (both male and female) to school after the 5th or It should be made a penal offence to keep a child at home after that age."

The first Upnayan ceremony should be performed at home, and the second in the school. Parents as well as tutors should teach *Cayatri Mantra*² to the children with its meanings thus:—"O, r. By ascelicism is here meant severe bodily and mental descipline—in other words simple living and high thinking should be the motto of the students. They should not solicit bodily comfort, instead bear all kinds of hardships in order to wholly and solely devote themselves to the acquisition of knowledge culture, etc.—Tr

कन्यानां २६८६।नं च कुमाराणां च रक्षणम् ॥ मनु० अ० ७ श्लोक १५२॥ औरम् भूर्श्ववः स्वः । तत्सावितुर्वरिण्यं भर्गी देवस्यं धीमहि । धियो यो नः प्रचोदयात् ॥ यजु ० अ० २६ । मं० २ ॥

*The last two constitute a sort of mental intercourse with persons of the opposite sex — Tr.

The word—meanings of the Gayatri mantra are—
 Oam—See: Chapter I. page 2.
 Bhuh—One Who is Life and Support of the whole Universe, is dearer than life itself and is Self-existent.

Lord! O Personification of True Existence, Intelligence and Bliss! Everlasting, Holy, All-wise, Immortal, Thou art Unborn, without any symbolical distinction and organization, Omniscient, Sustainer Yajur Veda and Ruler of the Universe, Creator of all, Eternal, XXXVI, 3. Protector and Preserver of the Universe, O All-pervading Spirit! O Ocean of mercy! Thou art the Life of the Creation, Thou art an All-blissful Being, the very contemplation of Whom wipes off all our pains and sorrows; Thou art Sustainer of the Universe, Father of all; may we contemplate. Thy holy adorable nature so that Thou mayest guide our understanding. Thou art our God, who alone art to be adored and worshipped. There is none beside Thee, who is equal to Thee, or above Thee. Thou alone art our Father, Ruler, and Judge. Thou alone bestoweth happiness."

After they have learnt the above Mantra with its meanings they should be taught the method of 'Divine Worship' (Sandhyopásaná)¹ with its preliminaries and accessories as Bathing, Achmanu and Pránáyáma.

The preparatory, non-essential stages of worship are:—

(i). Bathing, which effects bodily cleanliness, and ensures health. Manu says:—" Water washes off the impurities of the body. Truth exalts the mind Knowledge and strict devotion to duty elevate the soul. Possession of ideas refines the intel-

Bhuvah—One who Himself is free from all sorrows and pains, and Whose contemplation wipes off all over pains and sorrows.

Swah—One who pervades this multiform universe and is the Support of all.

Tat--Him.

Savituh—Of One Who is the maker of the Whole world and from whom all power proceeds.

Varenyam—One who is All-holy and worthy of our adoration.

Bhargo—is One Who is Himself, pure by nature and purifies others and Who is All-intelligence.

Devasya—Of One Who bestows happiness on all and is sought after by Dhimahi--- May we contemplate.

Dhiyoh--Understandings.

Yah-Who.

Nah--Our.

Prachodayat --- May guide.

अि.गीत्राणि शुभ्यन्ति, मनः सत्येन शुध्यति ।

विद्यातपोभ्यां भूतात्मा, बुद्धिर्ज्ञानेन ग्रुध्यति ॥ मनु० अ०५। स्रो० १०९।

1. Only the stages of 'Divine Worship' are here given. The author has treated this subject in detail in his book called "The Five Great Daily Duties."—Tr.

- lect." Every man should, therefore, bathe before his first meal.
- (ii). Achamana—This consists in taking in as much water as can be held in the palm of one's hand by applying the lips to the root and centre of it. The quantity of water should be just sufficient to reach the lower part of the throat. Its object is to relieve irritation of the throat or dryness thereof, if present.
- (iii). Márjana—Is to sprinkle water, with the points of the middle and ring fingers, on the face and other parts of one's body. Its object is to remove drowsiness. If a person be not drowsy, or if water be not obtainable, it can be dispensed with.

The essential stages of Sandhyopásná are as follows:—

(i). Pránáyáma, or control of the breath. Says—Patan.

jali, in his Yoya Shástra:—" The practice of PránáYoga Shástra, yáma gradually burns off all impurities Sádhanapáda and exalts the soul. The light of knowledge in the soul goes on continually increasing till the soul is emancipated." Manu says:—

Manu VI, 71. "Just as a goldsmith, by blowing strongly against a piece of impure gold, removes its impurities by oxidation, so does Pránáyáma burn of fall impurities of the mind and senses."

Method of Pránáyáma—"As in the act of vomiting all Yoga Shástra the contents of the stomach are violent-Samádhipada ly expelled, so should the breath be XXXIV. expired forcibly, and held out as long as possible by drawing up the pelvic viscera." When discomfort is felt, the air should be gently inspired. This process should be repeated according to one's desire and strength. While practising Prán yáma, AOM should be contemplated. This exalts and purifies the soul, and develops concentration of mind.

योगाङ्गाः ष्ठानादग्राद्धिक्षये ज्ञानदीप्तिराविवेकख्यातेः ॥ योग० साध-नपादे स्र.० २८ ॥

दद्यन्ते घ्मायमानानां धातूनां हि यथा मलाः।

रहोक्कियाणां दह्यन्ते दोषाः प्राणस्य निग्रहात् ॥ मनु० अ०६ । ७१ ॥ प्रच्छिदनिषधारणाभ्यां वा प्राणस्य ॥ योग॰ समाधिपादे स्र० । ३४ ॥

Pránáyáma is of four kinds:-

- (a) Báhya Vishaya—It is the process described above in which the breath is held out as long as possible.
- (b) Athyunturu—In which the breath is held in as long as possible.
- (c) Stambha Vritti—In which the breathing is suddenly stopped at any stage of respiration.
- course of breathing is reversed, expiration is forcibly begun when inspiration is going on, and vice versa. By thus reversing the course of respiration, both expiration and inspiration are in turn stopped, and thus the process of respiration, and consequently the mind and senses come under the direct control of the Will.

By the increase of bodily strength and activity, the intellect becomes so subtle that it can easily grasp the most abstruse and profound subjects. It also helps to preserve and perfect the reproductive element in the human body, which, in its turn, produces self-control firmness of mind, strength, energy, and acuteness of intellect.

Girls, as well as boys, should practice Pranayama.

- (ii) Aghamarshana—Repentance and intense desire to keep aloof from even the thought of sin.
- (iii) Manasá Parikr amana—Mental Rotation, i.e., turning one's mind in all the six different directions of space—North, South, East and West, Above and Below—and feeling in each the presence of God.
- (iv) Upasthána—Realization of God as the source of all Light, Life, Knowledge, etc.
- (v) Stuti—Glorification; Prárthaná—Prayer; Upásaná—Communion.

अपां समीपे नियतो नैत्यिकं विधिमास्थितः । साविर्द्रसम्प्रियीत गत्वारण्यं समाहितः ॥ मनु० अ० २ । १०४ ॥

This Sandhyopásna should be done in some lonely spot, with a concentrated mind. Manu says-" Seek some Manu II, 104. lonely spot, by the side of the water, concentrate your mind and do your Sandhyopásana. Never forget to recite1 Gayatri Muntra and contemplate its manifold meanings. accordingly."

Tutors should also teach all that is necessary regarding diet, dress and proper behaviour towards superiors and inferiors.

Devayagna, the second Great Daily Duty, comprises Agnihotra—the feeding of fire with clarified butter, and aromatic substances for sanitary purposes—and associating with, and serving devout and learned persons.

These two duties are to be performed twice daily,-morning and evening—it is only twice during 24 hours that day and night meet.

One hour, at least, should be devoted to Divine Contemplation, which should be done with perfect concentration of mind, like Yogis practice Yoga,

The time for Agnihotra is twice daily, i. e., just after Sunrise and just before Sunset.

The vessels to be used are:

Fig 1.

Vedi-a vessel (earthen or metallic), having the shape of an inverted truncated pyramid, for making fire in. It should have the following dimensions: - Depth and each side of the base being 9 to 12 inches and each side of the apex 24 to 3 inches, i. e, each side of the base being four times the side of the apex. (Fig 1.)

Fig. 2.

2. Two vessels, (see Figs. 2 and 3,) for containing water, which may be required for washing hands, etc

3. A Butter dish, to keep the clarified butter in. (Fig. 4).

Fig. 4.

4. A spoon, made of wood, silver or gold (Fig. 5).

Fig. 5.

I. It is best to recite Gayatri mentally.

Method:—Let a few sticks of wood (Sandal, Butea Frondosa or Manyo) in sound condition be laid at the bottom of the Vedi, fire be placed in the middle and similar pieces of wood on this again. Let the clarified butter be properly warmed, mixed with odoriferous substances and then poured on the fire in the Vedi the Homa mantras being recited the while, one spoonful each time a mantra is recited.

The reasons for doing Homa are given below in Question and Answer form:—

- Q.—What is the good of doing Homa?
- A.—It is a well-known fact that impure air and impure water are productive of disease, which, in turn, cause so much pain and misery, whilst pure air and pure water are productive of health, and consequently of happiness.
- Q.—I should think it would do people more good to apply Sandal locally as a plaster, and to eat butter instead. Is it wise to waste these things by destroying them in fire?
- A.—That only shows your ignorance of the Physical Science, for it is one of its cardinal principles that nothing is really destroyed in this world. You must have noticed that, even when you are standing at some distance from the place where Homa is being done, you can smell a sweet fragrant odour in the air. That alone proves that an odoriferous substance put into the fire is not destroyed, but is, on the other hand, being rarified, fills the room; and is carried by the air to distant places where it rids the air of its foulness.
- Q.—If this be the case, the keeping of such odoriferous things, as saffron, musk, camphor, scented flowers and uttur, in the house will serve the same purpose.
- A.—That scent has not the disintegrating power to rid the house of its impure air, and replace it by fresh pure air. It is fire alone which possesses that power, whereby it breaks up the impurities of the air, and reduces them to their component parts, which, getting lighter are expelled from the house and replaced by fresh air from outside.

ओं भूरग्नये प्राणाय स्वाहा । इवर्वायवेऽपानाय स्वाहा । स्वरादित्याय व्यानाय स्वाहा । भूर्भूवः स्वरग्निवाय्वादित्येभ्यः प्राणापानव्यानेभ्यः स्वाहा ॥

विश्वांनि देव सवितर्दुरितानि परां सुव । यद्भद्रं तन्न आसुंव ॥ यज्ञ ० अ ० ३० । ३ ॥

- Q.—What is the object of reciting mantras whilst doing Homa?
 - A.—The objects are three :—
 - (i) Mantras explain the uses of Homa.
 - (ii) It helps to commit them to memory.
 - (iii) It helps the study of the Veda and preservation thereof.
 - Q.—Is the omission of Homa a sin?
- A.—Yes, the amount of suffering, a man inflicts on his fellow-beings by polluting the air and water with the waste products of his system and consequently bringing on disease, becomes the measure of his sin, to atone for which it becomes incumbent on him to do Homa and thereby purify air and water to an extent, equal to, or greater than the mischief he has done. As regards the internal use of these things, that are used in Homa, such as butter, it only benefits the individual who takes them; but the same amount of material, used as directed above, benefits hundreds of people. If people were not to eat and drink such nutritious substances as butter and milk they could never gain in strength, physical or mental. Therefore, it is only right, that they should do so, but more material should be used in Homa than as food and drink. It is, therefore, our bounden duty to do Homa daily.
- Q.—How many áhútis¹ should a man do, and how much butter in each áhúti should be used.
- A.—Sixteen áhútis and a drachm and a half in each áhúti at the least; but a person is welcome to do more.

In the 'Golden Days' of India, saints and seers, princes and princesses, kings and queens, and other people used to spend a large amount of time and money in performing, and helping others to do Homu; and as long as this system lasted, India was free from disease and its people were happy. It can become so again, if the same system were revised.

We have described these two Yujnás which, alone, are enjoined upon students (Brahmcháris).

"A person can perform Yajnopavila of his own class, and of the classes below his own. These he can also teach. Thus—A Brálmana can perform it for Brálmans, Kshatriyás and Vaishyás. A Kshatriya, for Kshatriyás only; and a Vaishya, for Vaishyás only. An intelligent, respectable Shúdra, should also be taught all

i. At the end of each Homa mantra a definite quantity of clarified butter is poured over the fire. This is called an ahuti.—Tr.

the Shastras barring the Veda, but without performing his Upnayana. This view is held by many authorities."

Says Manu:

- "A student should observe Brahmacharya and study the Manu, III, I. Vedas with their subsidiary subjects for 9, 18, 36 years, or until they are completely mastered."
- "Brahm.ch/rya is of 3 grades:—The lowest, the intermediate and the highest:—

The lowest.—" Man, who is composed of a body—formed out of the elements derived from foods and drinks—and a soul that resides in the body, is verily a yajna, i. e., he should be endowed with the most excellent qualities; and in order to accomplish it, viz., endow it with longevity, strength (physical and mental), and the like qualities, the lowest kind of Brahmacharya, a student should observe is for 24 years, just as there are 24 letters in the Gayalri (Chhanda) metre. He should, during this period, keep perfect control over his passions² and devote himself to the acquisition of the knowledge of the Vedas and of culture, etc. By virtue of this Brahmacharya. Vital forces, called Vasus, are fully developed and matured which, therefore, help to produce the noblest qualities in his body, manas³ and the soul.

Should any one advise a Brahm chári to marry or have sensual enjoyment before the age of 25, let the Brahmachári answer him thus: "Look you here, my dear fellow! If my vital forces, mental

ब्राह्मणस्त्रयाणां वर्णानाग्रुपनयनं कर्त्तमहिति
राजन्यो द्वयस्य वैश्यो वैश्यस्यैवेति । श्रुद्रमपि
कुल्रुणसम्पन्नं मन्त्रवर्जमनुपनीतमध्यापयोदित्येके ॥ सुश्रुतस्त्रत्रस्थान ॥
व्द्वेधद्यद्भिद्धाद्भिद्धाः चर्य्यं गुरौ त्रैवेदिकं वृतम् ।
तदार्थिकं पादिकं वा ग्रहणान्तिकमेव वा ॥ मन् ० अ ० ३ । १ ॥

- 1. Thus after joining the school at the age of 8 years, if a student studies the Vedas with their subsidiary subjects for 36 years, (i.e., he devotes 12 years to the study of each of the three Vedas), he completes his education at the age of 36+8=44, if for 18 years, at the age of 8+18=26 years, if for 9 years at the age of 8+9=17 years. (The last period of Brahmacharya is meant for a girl who wants to marry at the age of 17 years.-Tr
- 2. And even after marriage should not give a free license to his passions -Tr.
- 3. Under the term manas are included the Principles of attention, thought, memory and individuality.—Tr.

faculties and physical organs were not fully developed and strong, I should not be able to keep Brahmucharya of the next grade (which lasts till one is 44 years old), as the observance of the lowest grade helps one to keep Brahmucharya of the intermediate grade. Am I a fool, like you that I should ruin my body, my vital forces, my mental faculties and even my soul—which, if properly looked after, endow one with a noble nature and produce sterling qualities and help one to perform great deeds—waste my precious life, deprive myself of the fourfold fruit of human life, destroy my Brahmacharya which is the main spring of all Ashramas or Orders, the best of all good works and the source of all that is good and noble in life, and consequently sink to the lowest depths of misery and degradation?"

"Since that he observes his Bramacharya properly during the first period of his life, by virtue of this Brahmacharya, acquires knowledge and grows in health and strength, remains free from disease and attains to the age of 70 or 80 years. I will never, therefore, listen to the advice of such fools, as you, and destroy my Brahmacharya."

The intermediate—He, that observes Brahmacharya for 44 years, just as there are 44 letters in Trishtup Chhanda (metre), by virtue of this Brahmacharya, attains to that degree of pranas or vital forces called Rudras, in other words, he becomes a terror to the wicked and an asylum for the good. No rascal dare to practise his rascality before him. Should any one advise such a Brahmachari to abondon his life of Brahmacharya, marry and enjoy himself, let him answer such a man, thus: "The happiness that results from the observance of Brahmacharya of a higher degree, cannot even be dreamt of by one who has not led a life of

पुरुषो वाव यज्ञस्तस्य यानि चतुर्वि ् शतिवर्षाणि तत्मातः सवनं, चतुर्वि ् श्वत्यक्षरा गायत्री गायत्रं,प्रातः सवनं तदस्य वसवोऽन्वायत्ताः प्राणा वाव वसव एते हीद ् सर्व वासयन्ति ॥ १ ॥

तश्चेदेतस्मिन् वयसि किश्चिदुपतपेत्स ब्र्यात्प्राणा वसव इदं मे प्रातः सवनं माध्यन्दिन ँ सवनमनुसंतनुतेति माहं प्राणानां वस्नां मध्ये यज्ञो विलो- पस्रोयेत्हुहैं व तत एत्यगदोह भवति ।। २ ।।

^{1.} Life is divided into 4 stages or Orders—1. Brahmacharya or the period of student life. 2. Grih a'sheam or married life. 3. Vanaprastha or the Period of Ascetic life devoted to the perfection of character, the study of Spiritual Science, and divine contemplation. 4. Sany as a'shram or the period of Renunciation devoted to the preaching of truth and righteousness all over the world by abondoning all worldly connections,—Tr.

Brahmacharya, and even sensual pleasures to the former are much greater than to the latter. Since it is a Bruhmachári alone, who attains to success in worldly affairs, enjoys perfect sensul pleasures and spiritual happiness, hence I will never destroy my Brahmachar ya—the source of the highest happiness, on the other hand by virtue of thorough observance of this Brahmucharya become, learned, virtuous, strong in body and mind and enjoy longevity, and perfect happiness. I will never listen to advice of such senseless creatures as you, marry early, and bring ruin on myself and my family.

The highest.—He, that remains a Brahmachári, till he is 48 years of age, just as there are 48 letters in the Jayati Chhunda (metre), by virtue of this highest kind of Brahm chraya acquires perfect knowledge, perfect physical strength,1 perfect wisdom, perfect development of good qualities, nature and characteristics, shines like the sun, enlightening all, and is enabled to master all kinds of knowledge. Should any one tempt such a Brahmuchari to destroy his Brahm ch rya—which is really the highest virtue let him answer thus: "O you, foolish wretch! Get away from me, your foul smelling, filthy words cannot affect me. I will never destroy this Brahmacharya of the highest order. May the Supreme Spirit, through His grace, help me to keep this holy vow so that I may be able to enlighten such fools as you and teach you and particularly your children, and thereby help you all to lead happy lives.

There are four stages of the human body:-

Period of Adolescence—from the 16th to (i) Sushruta Sútra Sthóna (ii) Chap. XXXV.

the 25th year. Period of Manhood,—from the 25th to the 40th year.

Period of Maturity-about the 40th year, when the tissues, organs and secretions of the body reach their

अब यानि चतुश्रत्वारि भारति तन्माध्यंदिन भारति चतुश्चत्वारि भ शदक्षरा तिष्टुप त्रेष्टुभं माध्यंदिन ँ सबनं तदस्य रुद्रा अन्वायत्ताः प्राणा वाव रुद्रा एते हीद ँ सर्व ँ रोदयान्ति ॥ ३ ॥

तं चेदेतस्मिन्वयसि किश्चिदुपतपेत्स ब्रयात्प्राणा रुद्रा इदं मे माध्यं-दिन " सवनं तृतीयसवनमनु न्तनुतेति माहं पाणाना " रुद्राणां मध्ये यज्ञो विलोपसोयेल द्वैव तत एत्यगदो ह भवति ॥ ४ ॥

I. And enjoys the full span of life which is 400 years.

highest state of perfection. Thereafter comes the

(iv) Period of Loss—in which excess of such secretions, as the reproductive element, begins to be lost, in sleep or through perspiration, etc.

The best time for marriage, therefore, is the 40th, or rather the 48th year.

Q.—Does this law of marriage apply equally to both sexes?

A.—No. If a man were to remain celebate (Brahmachári) for 25, 30, 36, 40, 44 or 48 years, a woman should do so only for 16, 17, 18, 20, 22 or 24 years, respectively.

This rule applies only to those people who intend to marry; but those who intend not to do so, are welcome to remain celebates till death, if they can. But they must bear in mind that this is possible to those persons alone, whose knowledge is perfect, who have full control over their mind and senses, and who are perfect Yogis, free from all vices It is a most difficult task to be master of the senses, and restrain the flood of carnal desires. The following rules should be observed both by pupils and teachers:—

"Let them conduct themselves properly, and study and teach, be truthful in word, deed, and thought, and study and teach, be indifferent to joy or sorrow, wordly applause or censure, walk in the path of righteousness, and study and teach the Vedas and the other true sciences), keep their senses under perfect control, and study and teach, restrain their minds from evil

अथ यान्यष्टाचत्वारि ँशद्वर्षाणि तत्ततीयसवनमष्टाचत्वारि ँ शद्धरा ज-मती जागतं तृतीयसवनं तदस्यादित्यान्वायत्ताः प्राणा वावादित्या एते हीद ँ सर्वमाददते ॥ ५ ॥

तं नेद्धिद्धिन् वयसि किश्चिदुपतपेत्स ब्रयात् प्राणा आदित्या इदं मे द्वांधिक्षक्षक्षक्षक्षक्षक्षक्षिति माहं प्राणानामादित्यानां मध्ये यज्ञो विलो-प्सीयेत्युद्धैव तत एत्यगदो हैव भवति ॥ छान्दोग्योपनिषत् ॥ ६ ॥

चतस्रोऽवस्थाः शरीरस्य वृद्धिर्योवनं सम्पूर्णता किञ्चित्परिहाणिकंचेति । आषोडः । द्वाद्धिः । आपञ्चिवंशतेयीवनम् । आचत्वारिकंतः सम्पूर्णता । ततः किञ्चित्परि गणिश्चेति ।।

पञ्चिवंशे ततो वर्षे पुमान् नारी तु षोडशे । समत्वागतवीर्यो तो जानोयात्ःखलो मिषक् ॥ सुश्रत । सूत्रस्थान । ३५ persuits (such as the practice of injustice), and study and teach, learn the properties of heat, light electricity, and other natural forces, and study and teach, perform Homa daily, and study and teach, serve ali'his, and study and teach, fulfil their Taitreya duties and obligations towards other men, and study Upnishad and teach, protect their subjects and children, and VII, 9. study and teach, preserve and perfect the reproductive element, and study and teach, protect and educate their children and pupils, and study and teach,"

"A wise man would do well to practise both Yamás and Niyamás.² He, who practises one without the other, never makes any progress, on the contrary he simply degenerates, Manu IV in other words, leads a degraded life in this world.".

"Neither inordinate desire nor its total absence is conducive to a man's happiness, since it would be simply impossible. Manu II, 2. either to lead a virtuous life, or to acquire (Vedic) knowledge without desiring for the same."

"The study and teaching of all true sciences; observance of the vows of Brahmacharya, and truthfulness; Manu II, 27. performance of Homu, as well as the acceptance of

ऋतं च स्वाध्यायप्रवचने च । सत्यं च स्वाध्यायश्वचने च । तपश्च स्वाध्यायभवचने च । दमञ्च स्वाध्यायभवचने च । शमञ्च स्वाध्याय-प्रवचने च । अग्नयञ्च स्वाध्यायश्वचने च । अग्निहोत्रञ्च स्वाध्याय-श्वचने च । अतिथयश्च स्वाध्यायप्रवचने च । मानुषं च स्वाध्याय-प्रवचने च । प्रजा च स्वाध्याय भवचने च । प्रजनश्च स्वाध्याय प्रवचने च । प्रजातिश्च स्वाध्यायभवचने च । तैत्तिरीयोपनिषिद् ॥ प ० ७ अ ९ तत्राहिंसासत्यास्तेयब्रह्मचर्यापरिब्रहा यमाः ॥ योग ० साधनपादे स्रत्र ३०॥

Yama's are 5 in number :-

(a) Harmlessness; (b) Strict devotion to veracity; (c) Honesty Yoga Shastra in word, deed, and thought; (d) Abstinence from sexual indulg-Sádhanapáda ence; and (e) Abstinence from the headlong pursuit of wordly XXX. things, and freedom from the pride of one's possessions (such as wealth and power.—Tr.)

2. Niyama's are also 5 in number :-

(a) Cleanliness (physical and mental); (b) Content Yoga Shástra ment—which does not mean contentedness with physical inertia. but which does mean that you do your utmost to attain your Sádhanapáda object, but are not carried away by the resulting profit or loss, joy XXXII. or sorrow; (c) Devotion to duty regardless of consequences; (d) Acquisition and dissemination of true knowledge; (e) Resignation to the will of truth and the rejection of untruth; dissemination of true knowledge; leading a virtuous life, as enjoined by the Veda, communion with God, and acquisition of the knowledge of the Veda; performance of seasonal Homa, reproduction of good children, performance of the Five Great Daily Duties, and doing such other good actions as are productive of beneficial results to the community such as developing technical arts; all these eight things go to make a Brahman, in other words, his person ought to be the repository of Vedic learning and devotion to God. Without the practice of these an individual is never entitled to be called a Brahman.

God through extreme devotion to Him.

- "As a skilful driver keeps his horses under control, even so Manu II,88. should a wise man keep his senses—which are apt to lead both mind and soul into the pursuit of wicked objects—under his thorough control."
- "Verily, that man alone can achieve his heart's desire who Manu II, 93. is master of his senses; but he, who allows himself to become their slave, soon loses his character."
- "A man of low character can never succeed in acquiring knowledge of the Vedu; in keeping up his vows of cele-Manu II, 97 bacy, truthfulness, etc., nor in fulfiling his duties towards man and God, keeping control over his passions and desires, being steadfast in his devotion to truth and righteousness, and performing good works.

यमान् सेवेत् सततं न नियमान् केवलान् बुधः ।
यमान्पतत्यकुर्वाणो दिष्टाः।द् केवलान् मजन् ॥ मनु ० अ ० ४। २०४
कामात्मता न प्रशस्ता न चैवेदास्त्यकामता ।
काम्यो हि वेदाधिगमः कर्मयोगश्च वैदिकः ॥ मनु ० अ ० २ । २ ॥
स्वाध्यायेन ब्रतैहोंमैह्नेविद्येनेज्यया सुतैः ।
महायद्भेश्च यद्भेश्च ब्राह्मीयं क्रियते तनुः ॥ मनु ० २ । २० ॥

1. Specials Homas are performed at the change of seasons, as well as on the occasion of full moon, etc.—Tr.

ौ।चसन्तोषतपः स्वाध्यायेश्वरप्रणिधानानि नियमाः ॥ योग ० साध-नपादे स्र ० ३२ ॥

- 2. The Five Great Daily Duties are, (1) Worship of God, (2) Homa and duty towards the learned, (3) service of one's parents and other learned and righteous persons, (4) Duty towards animals and the poor and helpless, and (5) Duty towards the altruistic teachers of humanity and ordinary guests, i. e., to show them proper respect and serving them to the utmost of one's power and means.—Ir.
 - 3. Lit, becomes addicted to great vices.—Tr.

"There should be no omission in the study of the Vedu and performance of the Five Great Daily Duties and other good works even on holidays, as there is no omission in the act of respiration without risk to life, so there can be no omission of one's daily duties; a good deed done even on an Anually dya—so-called day of exemption from study, etc., cannot but bear good fruit."

As it is always a sin to tell a lie, and always a virtue to speak the truth, a man should, on all days shun vice and practice virtue.

"He who has a sweet and amiable disposition, serves the wise and old, with all his heart, continually gains in knowledge, reputation and strength, and enjoys a long life." Whilst he that is otherwise, never advances in knowledge etc.

"Let a wise man bear malice to no living soul, and let him show all men the path that leads to true happiness, let his speech be sweet and kindly, let him be truthful in word, deed, and thought. This alone can lead to the spread of truth and righteousness. Verily, he alone can have a

, इन्द्रियाणां विचरतां विषयेष्वपहारिषु । [']संयमे यत्नमा तिष्ठेद्विद्वान यन्तेव वाजिनाम् ।। मनु ० २ । ८८ ॥ इदिन्धाणां प्रसङ्गेन दोषमृच्छत्यसंशयम् । सिष्यम्य त तान्येव ततः सिद्धिं नियच्छति ॥ मृतु ० २ । ९३ ॥ वेदास्त्यागश्च यशाश्च नियमाश्च तपांसि च। न विप्रदृष्टभावस्य सिद्धिं गच्छन्ति किहैचित् ॥ मनु ० २ । ९७ ॥ बेदोपकरणे चैव स्वाध्याये चैव नेत्यिके। नानरोधोऽस्त्यनध्याये होममन्त्रेषु चेव हि ॥ नैत्यिके नास्त्यनध्याया ब्रह्मसत्रं हि तत्स्मृतम् । ब्रह्माहृतिहुतं पुण्यमनध्यात्रवपद्कृतम् ॥ मनु ० २ । १०५ । १०६ ॥ अभिबादनशीलस्य नित्यं बृद्धोपसेविनः । चत्वारि तस्य वर्द्धन्त आयुर्विद्यायशोबलम् ॥ मनु २ । १२१ ॥ अहिंसयैव भूतानां कार्यं श्रेयोऽनुशासनम्। वाक् चैव मधुरा क्लक्षणा प्रयोज्या धर्ममिच्छता ॥ १ ॥ ा यस्य वाङ्मनसो शुद्धे सम्यग्गुप्ते च सर्वदा । स बै सर्वमवामोति वेदान्तोपगतं फलम् ॥ २ ॥ मनु० २ । १५९ । १६० ॥ true conception of the teachings of the Vedas whose mind and speech are pure and well under control."

- "That Bráhmana alone is said to possess true knowledge of the Veda and God, who shuns the world's applause like a poison, and courts its censure like immortality."
- "Thus let the twice-born students (male and female), who Manu II, 164. had their Upnayana performed, go on gradually acquiring knowledge of the Vedas, which is their highest duty."
- "A Dwij, as well as his children, who, instead of studying the Vedu, wastes his time in idoing other things, soon goes down to the level of a Shúdra."
- "A Brahmachári, (male or female), should abstain from meat and alcohol, perfumes, garlands of flowers, tasty foods and drinks, the company of the opposite sex, sour articles, and injury to all living things, from anointing the body, and handling the reproductive organ unnecessarily, from the use of collerium, from the use of boots and shoes and of an umbrella, or a sunshade, from harbouring low passions such as anger, avarice, carnal passion, infatuation, fear, sorrow, jealousy, malice, from singing, dancing, playing, gambling, gossiping, lying and back-biting, from looking upon women (with an eye of lust), and embracing them, and from doing harm to other people, and indulging in such other evil habits. Let every student sleep alone and never lose his reproductive element. He who loses it through passion, breaks his vow of Brahmacharya."

संमानाद् ब्राह्मणो नित्यमुद्धिजेत विषादिव।
अमृतस्येव चाकाङ्क्षेदवमानस्य सर्वदा॥ मनु ०२।१६२॥
अनेन क्रमयोगेन संस्कृतात्मा द्विजः शनैः।
गुरौ वसन् सञ्चिनुयाद्ब्रह्माधिगमिकं तपः॥ मनु ०२।१६४॥
योऽनधीत्य द्विजो वेदमन्यत्र कुरुते श्रमम्।
स जीवनेव श्द्रत्वमाशु गच्छित सान्वयः॥ मनु ०२।१६८॥
वर्जयेन्मधु मांसश्च गन्धं माल्यं रसान् स्त्रियः।
शुक्तानि यानि सर्वाणि प्राणिनां चैव हिंसनम्॥
अभ्यक्रमञ्जनं चाक्षणोरुपानच्छत्रधारणम्।
कामं क्रोधं च कोमं च नर्त्तनं गीतवादनम्॥

Teachers should instruct their pupils in the following way—

"My children! Always speak the truth, lead a virtuous life, abstain from sexual inclulgence, never be negligent in learning and teaching, devote yourselves to sciences, (physical and spiritual) till your knowledge is perfect, then procure for your preceptor anything that he needs, thereafter, go and get married. Never be indifferent to truth and religion. Never neglect your health or the cultivation of any skill or talent you may possess. Never be indifferent to the acquisition of wealth, power, etc. Never neglect your studies.

Never neglect to serve your father, mother, teacher, and all preachers of the true religion (atithi). Love virtue Taitreya and shun vice. Imbibe our virtues, not our faults Upnishad and imperfections. Always keep the company of VII, xi, 1-4. those Bráhmans amongst us who are learned and imbued with piety; put your trust in them and them only. charitable. Give—in faith or without faith. For fame, or through shame, give. Give-Whether through fear of public opinion, or simply for keeping your word. Always give If you are ever in doubt as to the truth of any practice of religion, or any doctrine, or mode of divine worship, follow the practice of those highly virtuous Brahmans, whether youis or not, who are free from prejudice, charitable in disposition, and well versed in philosophy and science (physical and spiritual), and extremely desirous of furthering the cause of righteousness. This is the advice. This is the commandment. This is the mandate of the Vedas, this is the Law, Follow this advice. Obey this law."

द्युतं च जनवादं च परिवादं तथाऽनृतम् । स्त्रीणां च प्रेक्षणालम्भग्रुपघातं परस्य च ॥ एकःशयीत सर्वत्र न रेतः स्कनः येत्क्वचित् ।

कामाद्धि स्कन्दयन्रेतो हिनस्ति व्रतमात्मनः ॥ मनु० २ । १७७-१८०। वेद म. च्याचार्योऽन्तेवासिनमनुशास्ति । सत्यं वद । धर्मचर ।

स्वाधायानमा प्रमदः । आचार्य्याय प्रियं धनमाहृत्य प्रजातन्तुं मा व्यवच्छेत्सीः सत्याण प्रमदितव्यम् । धर्माज प्रमदितव्यम् । ध्यक्षाल प्रमदितव्यम् । ध्यक्षाल प्रमदितव्यम् । ध्यक्षाल प्रमदितव्यम् । देवपितृकार्य्याभ्याम् न स्वादितव्यम् । स्वाध्यायप्रवचनाभ्यां न प्रमदितव्यम् । देवपितृकार्य्याभ्याम् न स्वादितव्यम् । मातृदेवो भव । पितृदेवो भव । आचार्य्य देवो भव अति- थिदेवो भव । यान्यनवद्यानि कमार्गेण तानि सेवितव्यानि नो इत्राणि ।

Let all bear in mind that "even the most insignificant action, in this world, is impossible without a desire on the part of the doer. Therefore whatever a man does is the outcome of his will."

"Character or righteous living as taught by the Vedas, as well as, Smritis¹ in conformity with the Vedas, is the highest virtue. This is the end-all and be-all of all reading and reciting, studying, teaching and preaching. Let a man, therefore, always walk in the path of righteousness. He that swerves from it can never enjoy true happiness—which is born of strict adherence to the conduct of life enjoined by the Veda. He alone enjoys, true happiness, who acquires, knowledge and leads a righteous life."

यान्यस्माक सुचिरितानि तानि त्वयोपास्यानि नो इतराणि। ये के चास्म-च्छेत्रा सो ब्राह्मण्यस्त्रेष्टां त्वयास्नेन पश्चसितव्यम् । श्रद्धया देयम् । अश्रद्धया देयम् । श्रिया देयम् । हिया देयम् । भिया देयम्। संविदा देयम् । अथ यदि ते कर्म विचिकित्सा वा वृत्तविचिकित्सा वा स्यात् । ये तत्र ब्राह्मणाः सम्मर्शिनो युक्ता अयुक्ता अख्क्षा धर्मकामाः स्युर्यथा ते तत्र वर्त्तरम् । तथा तत्र वर्त्तथाः । एष आदेश एष उपदेश । एषा वेदोपनिषत् । एतदः शासनम् । एवम्रपासितव्यम् । एवम्र चैतदुपास्यम् ॥ तेतिरीय० प्रपा० ७ अनु० ११ कं ० १ । २ । ३ । ४ ॥

अकामस्य क्रिया काचिद् दृश्यते नेह कर्हिचित्। यद्यद्भि कुरुते किश्चित् तत्तत्कामस्य चेष्टितम्॥ मनु ०२।४॥

1. Writings of Aplas in conformity with the Veda.

(An Apla is a pious, truthful, unprejudiced, honest and learned man. - Tr.)

आचारः परमो धर्मः श्रुत्युक्तः स्मार्त्त एव च।

तस्मादिश्मिन्सदा युक्तो नित्यं स्यादात्मवान् द्विजः ॥

आचाराद्विच्युतो विष्रो न वेदफलमश्रुते।

आचारेण तु सयुक्तः सम्पूर्णफलभाग्भवेत् ॥ मनु ० १ । १०८ । १०९ ॥ योऽवमन्येत ते मूले हेतुशास्त्राश्रयाद् दिजः

स साधुभिर्विहिष्कार्यो नास्तिको वेदनिन्दकः ॥ मनु ० २ । ११ ॥

वेदः स्मृतिः सदाचारः स्वस्य च प्रियमात्मनः ।

प्रक्रिक्ट (विधं प्राहुः साक्षाद्धर्मस्य लक्षणम् ॥ मनु ० २ । १२ ॥

"He is an atheist, and a slanderer of the Vedas, who Manu II, 11. disparages their teachings, as well as the writings of Aplá (true teachers) in conformity with the Vedas. He should be excluded from good society, aye, even expelled out of the country, (if necessary)."

"The Vedas, the Smritis, the practice of men, good and true, in conformity with the Vedas—the Word of God, and the satisfaction of one's own soul—these, undoubtedly, are the four criteria of true religion, which enable one to distinguish between Right and Wrong.

Equitable dealings, the acceptance of truth and the rejection of untruth, under all circumstances, constitute the true conduct of life, or Religion, and the reverse of this is Irreligion.

"It is only those, who stand aloof from the headlong Manu II, 13. Pursuit of both wealth and carnal pleasures, that can ever attain a knowledge of true religion. It is the duty of everyone, who aspires after this object to determine, what true religion is by the help of the Vedus, for a clear and perfect ascertainment of true religion is not attained fully, without the help of the Vedus."

Teachers should inculcate the aforesaid teachings into the minds of their pupils. They should take care that they do not neglect the education of Classes other than Brahmans, viz.,-Princes and other Kshatriyas, Vaishyas, and intelligent Shudras. Because, if Brahmans only were to acquire knowledge, there could be no advance in knowledge, religion and government, nor increase in wealth, for, Bráhmans, whose sole duty is to acquire knowledge and disseminate it, depend for their living on Kshutriyas, etc., to whom they are law-givers. Bráhmuns would be relieved of all restraint and fear from Kshutriyas, who, being uneducated, would be quite incapable of judging the soundness or unsoundness of their teachings. They would thus gradually use their powers for their own selfish ends, drift into hypocrisy and do whatever they liked, and their example would be followed by other Classes. But when Kshatriyás and other Clusses are also well educated, Bráhmans study still harder, to keep ahead of the other Classes, and walk in the path of righteousness. They could never then falsely teach

I. The word used in the text is Dharma which is a very Comprehensive term. If translated into the guiding principle of all human activities, it may give some idea to the reader as to its meaning.—Tr.

अर्थकामेष्वसक्तानां धर्मज्ञानं विधीयते । धर्म जिज्ञासमानानां प्रमाणं परमं श्रतिः ॥ मनु २ । १३ ॥

and lead selfish, hypocritical lives. It follows, therefore, that it is in their own interest, as well as that of the community at large, to try their best to teach the Veda and other true sciences and philosophies to Kshalriyds, etc. It is Kshalriyds and other Classes, that are the real cause of advance in knowledge, religion, and government, and of increase in wealth, etc. They never live on alms, they, therefore, can have no reason to be partial in religious or scientific matters. When all the Classes are well educated and cultured, no one can set up any false, fraudulent, and irreligious practices.

All this goes to prove that it is the Bráhmans and Sanyásis, who keep Kshalriyás and others in proper order, and vice versa. Therefore all persons of all Classes should be given good, sound education and be well intsructed in the principles of true religion.

The truth of everything that is learnt or taught should be carefully examined by the following five tests:—

- (i) The Veda and nature of God.—All that conforms to the teachings of the Vedas, nature and attributes and characteristics of God is right, the reverse is wrong.
- (ii) Laws of Nature.—All that tallies with the laws of nature is true, the reverse untrue; e.g., the statement that a child is born without the sexual union of its parents, being opposed to the laws of nature, can never be true.
- (iii) The practice and leachings of Aptas, i.e., pious truthful, unprejudiced, honest, and learned men. All that is unopposed to their practice and teachings is acceptable, and the reverse is unacceptable.
- (iv) The purity and conviction of one's own soul.—What is good for you, is good for the world. What is painful to you, is painful to others This ought to be the guiding principle of one's conduct towards others.
- (v) Eight kinds of Evidence, viz. (1) Direct Cognizancet, (2) Inference, (3) Analogy, (4) Testimony, (5) History, (6) Deduction, (7) Possibility, (8) Non-existence or Negation.
 - (1) Direct Cognizance (pratyaksha) is that kind Nyáya shás- of knowledge, which is the result of tra 1, i. 4 direct contact of the five senses

इन्द्रियार्थसिन्द्रशिद्धार्धः ज्ञानमन्यपदेश्यमन्यभिचारि न्यन्दाधाद्धः-कम्प्रत्यक्षम् ॥ न्याय ० अ ० १ । आ ० १ स ० ४ ॥ with their objects, of the mind (faculty or organ of Attention) with the senses, and of the soul with the mind.

- (a) But this knowledge must not be that of the relation of words with the things signified, as of the word Water with the fluid called water, for example, you ask your servant to bring you some water. He brings water, puts it before you, and says: 'Here is water, Sir.' Now, what you and your servant see is not the word water but the object signified by it. So you have the direct knowledge of the object called water. But the knowledge of the relation of an object with its name comes under the fourth kind of evidence, called Testimony.
- (b) This knowledge must not be of a temporary or transient character, i.e., not the product of observation under unfavourable circumstances; for example, a person saw something at night and took it for a man, but when it was daylight he found out his mistake and knew that it was not a man, but a pillar. Now, his first impression of the thing was of a temporary or transient nature, which gave place to permanent knowledge later on, when the true nature of the thing was revealed in the light.
- (c) It should be free from all elements of doubt, and be certain in character. For example, you see a river from a distance and say: "Is it water there or white clothes spread to dry"; or take another example, you see a man from a distance and say: "Is it Deva Datta standing there or Yajna Datta." Now, as long as you are in doubt and consequently not sure about a thing you observe, your knowledge cannot be called Pratyaksha (Direct cognizance). To be that the element of doubt must be absolutely eliminated from it.

^{1.} As of eyes with light, of ears with sound, of olfactory sense with odours, of tongue or gustatory sense with flavours, of tactile sense with objects that give rise to the sensation of touch.

अथ तत्पूर्वकं त्रिविधमनुमानं '.वेवच्छेपवत्सामान्यतोद्द्यश्रा । न्याय ० अ०१। आ०१। स्र०५॥

Briefly, therefore, that knowledge alone is said to be Pratyaksha, which is not the outcome of the relation of a name with the object signified by it, nor gained under circumstances unfavourable for observation or experiment (hence transient in character), nor into which any element of doubt enters.

(2) Anumána = Inference. Literally it means that which follows direct counizance. Nyáva Shástra I, i, 5. Two things have been observed to exist together at some time and place, when on some other occasion, one of the two is observed, the other, i. e., the unknown can be inferred *:

* Note.—In order to make this point clear I subjoin the following quotation from 'Evidences of Human Spirit,' by the late Pundit Guru Datt, Vidyarthi.

M. A., bearing on the subject of Interence.— Tr.

"The known datum or data, from which the unknown something is inferred, is called in Sanskrit Logic, the Linga and the something inferred is called the Anumeya. With reference to this question of Inference, says Kashyap, the logician:—That alone is a valid datum for inference (linga) which has, firstly, been known to co-exist with the thing to be inferred at some time or place, secondly, is also known to be present wherever the like of the thing to be interred exists, and thirdly, to be absent wherever the unlike of the thing to be inferred exists. To take, for instance a concrete example From the fall of the barometer is inferred the decrease of the pressure of air. Let us see if such an inference can be a valid inference. The fall of the tarometer is known. But we know, from a specific experiment, i. e., an experiment conducted at a particular time and place, that the decrease of pressure produces the This fulfils the first condition. Secondly, fall of barometer. similar cases. of the decrease of pressure, by what soever cause, are attended with the tall of barometer, but the third condition is not fulfilled. It is not true that wherever there is no fall in the barometer, there is no decrease of pressure, for, there may be no fall of barometer, although, the pressure may have been decreased. The mercury, through rise of temperature, expands and becomes lighter. Had the same pressure continued, the column of mercury would have 'risen higher up, but the fall of pressure compensated for the rise, and left the mercury apparently where it was. The three conons of Kashyap, therefore, conclusively proved that the fall of the barometer is not the linga of the decrease of pressure. Similar reasoning will show that the decrease in the weight of the superincumbent column of mercury is the linga (interence) of the decrease of pressure."

for instance, you see a child and you at once infer that he must have had parents. Again, seeing the smoke issuing from behind a hill you infer the existence of fire there. Or, to take another example. You infer the previous birth of the soul from observing unequal joy and sorrow in this world at the present moment.

Inference is of three kinds:-

- (a) Púrvavat is one, in which you reason from cause to effect, e.g., the inference of coming rain from the sight of clouds; or, again, you see a wedding, you naturally infer that some day the wedded couple will have children. Or, again, you see students engaged in the pursuit of knowledge, and you infer that some day they will become men of learning.
- Sheshavat inference is one, in which you (b) reason from effects to causes. Examples: You see a flood in the river, and infer that it must have rained on the mountain from which the river issues. Again, you see a child, you at once infer that the child must have had a father. Again, you see this world, and infer the existence of the Spiritual cause—the Creator, as well as of a Material cause—the elementary matter. Or. again, take another example. When vou see a man in pleasure or pain, you at once infer that he must have done a virtuous or sinful deed before, since you have noticed that the consequence of a sinful act is pain, and that of a virtuous deed. pleasure.
- (c) Sámányalodrishla is that kind of inference, in which there is no relation of cause and effect between the known datum and the thing to be inferred, but there is some kind of similarity between the two; for example, you know that no one can get to another place without moving from the first, and hence, if you find a person in a certain place, you can easily infer that he must have come to the latter place by moving from the first.

(3)—U. amána— Analogy—is the knowledge of a thing from its likeness to another. Nyáya Shás- The thing which is required to be tra I, 1, 6. known is called Sádhya, and that which becomes the means of this knowledge from some kind of likeness between the two is called Sádhana.

Examples:—A man says to his servant: "Go and fetch Vishnu Mittra." The latter answers that he does not know him, as he has never seen him before. Thereupon the master says: "You know Deva Datta, don't you?" Upon the servant's answering in the affirmative, his master continues "Well, Vishnu Mittra is just like Deva Datta." So the servant went out to find Vishnu Mittra. As he was passing through a street, he saw a man very much like Deva Datta, and thought that, that man must be Vishnu Mittra, and forthwith brought him to his master. Or, take another example. You want to know what a Yak is. Well, some one tells you, it is just like an ox. Next time you go to a jungle, you happen to see an animal very much like an ox, you at once know that it is the Yak, you asked your friend about. Now this kind of knowledge, i. e., knowledge of Vishnu Mittra from his likeness to Deva Datta, and of a Yak from its likeness to an ox is called Upamána or knowledge by Analogy. The words Vishnu Mittra and Yak are called Sádhya, whilst Deva Datta, and ox, Sadhana, in the above two instances.

(4)—Shabd \(\epsilon Testimony\) (literally, word).

Nyáya Shastra I, i, 7

The word of an Apt is called Shabd.

- An Apt is a person who is a thorough scholar, well-versed in all the sciences and philosophies, physical and spiritual, is virtuous, truthful, active, free from passions and desires, imbued with love for others, and who is an altruistic teacher of humanity, solely actuated with the desire of benefiting the world by his knowledge, experience and convictions. God being the truest and greatest of all Aplás HIS Word the Veda is also included in Shabda (Testimony.)
- Nyáya Shás and such a person was so and tra II; 2'1, so, he did such and such a thing. In other words, Ilihás is the Ilistory of a country or the Biography of a person. [The experience of the past recorded in history can be applied to solve many a difficult question of the day.—Tr.]
 - (6)—Arthápatti.—Conclusion or deduction. It is a conclusion which naturally follows from the statement of a fact; for instance, one says to another: "Rain falls from clouds" or "an effect follows a cause." The natural conclusion that can be drawn from the above statement is: "There can be no rain when there are no clouds," or no "effect follows when a cause does not exist."
 - (7)—Sambhava—possibility.

When you hear a thing, the first thing that enters your mind is whether such and such a thing is possible. Any thing that runs counter to the laws of nature is not possible, and hence it can never be true; for example, if you are told that a child was born without parents, such and such a person raised the dead to life again, or made stones float on the sea, lifted mountains, broke the moon into pieces, was God incarnate, or saw horns on the head of a man, or married a couple born of sterile mothers. You could at once know that it could not have possibly happened, being opposed to the laws of Nature. That alone is possible which is in conformity with the laws of Nature.

(8)—Abháva—Absence or Negation. You infer the existence of a thing in some other place from its absence from the place where you were told you would find it; for instance, a gentleman said to his min: "Go and bring the elephant from the elephant-house." He went there but found that the elephant was not there. He naturally concluded that he must be somewhere near about. So he went out and looked about for the elephant and found him not very far from its proper place and brought him to his master.

These eight kinds of evidence have been briefly described. Their number can be reduced to four if History be included under Testimony, and Deduction, Possibility and Negation under Inference.¹

It is only by means of these five criteria that a man can ascertain what is right, or wrong, and not otherwise.

Supreme Bliss (Mokshu) is obtained by living a truly Vaisheshika righteous life and thereby getting the soul purified and Shástra exalted, and gaining true conception of the six entitis, I, i, 4. viz., Noumenon, Altrimile, Action, Commonness, Dissimilitude, and Inherent relation, (as of cause and effect, of whole with its parts).

Vaisheshika

Shástra I, i, 5. Dravyás (Noumena), are nine in number:-

Prithivi (Solids), Apah (Liquids), Tejah (Luminous matter,) Vayu (Gases) and Akásha, Time, Space, Soul (human and Divine), and Manas (Principle of thought and attention).

धर्मविशेषप्रस्ताद् द्रव्यगुणकर्मसामान्याविशेषसमवायानां पदार्थानां साध-र्म्यवैधर्म्याभ्यां तत्वज्ञानान्निःश्रेयसम् ॥ वै० ॥ अ० १ । आ ० १। स ० ४ ॥

1. They can even be reduced to three, viz., Direct Cognizance reference and Testimony, if Analogy be included under Inference.—Ir.

Characteristics (Lakshara) of a Dravya (Noumenon):—Vaisheshika It is something in which attributes and actions or Shástra attributes only reside, and which is capable of becoming I, i, 15. a co-inherent cause of an effect. A cause always preceeds its effect Out of the nine Noumena, Solids, Liquids, Luminous matter (Ether) Gases, Manas and Soul possess both attributes and actions; whilst Akásha, Time and Space possess attributes only but no action.

"Prithivi (Solids) is something, which excites the optic, Vaisheshika gustatory, olfactory and tactile impulses. Colour, Shástra taste and touch are derived from Luminiferous, Matter II, i, 1. or Ether, Liquids and Gases, respectively."

"The power of exciting olfactory impulses is the natural vaisheshika inherent attribute of solids," similarly taste is the attribute of Liquids, Light, of Luminiferous matter II, ii, 2. (Ether), touch, of Gases and Shabda, of Akásh.

"Apah (Liquids) is something which excites the optical Vaisheshika gustatory, and tactile impulses, and in which fluidity and moisture are to be found. The attribute of exciting gustatory sensation is naturally inherent in Liquids whilst colour and touch are derived from Ether and Gases."

Vaisheshika Shástra II, ii, 5.

"Coldness is also a natural attribute of Liquids".

पृ_{ष्टिस}म्तेजोवायुराकाशं कालो दिगात्मा मन इतिद्रव्यार्थः ॥ वै ० ॥ अ ० १ । आ ० १ । स्च ० ५ ॥

क्रियागुणवत्समवायिकारणमिति द्रव्यलक्षणम् ॥ वै ० ॥ अ ० १ । आ ० १ । स्च ० १५ ॥

रूपरसग्नधस्पर्शवतीपृथिवी ॥ वै ० ॥ आ ० २ । आ ० १ । स ० १ ॥

- 1. A Lakshana, is that by means of which, an object (to be known) is known, for example, colour is seen with eyes. Eyes are therefore called a Lakshana.
 - 2. Co-inherent means capable of combining.
- 3. i.e., the power of exciting visual, gustatory, and tactile impulses. These terms are used in this sense throughout this chapter—Tr.
- 4. Shabda is erroneously translated into sound. Now shabda is not sound, though it is true that shabda is accompanied by sound, when it is spoken. It is very difficult to convey to the reader what the term shabda in the Sanskrit philosophy signifies. The Sanskrit philosophers hold that man being incapable of inventing language, the root-language must be inherent in nature itself. The root-language, which is the mother of human speech, is called shabda, and is supposed to inhere in a noumenon called Akasha. This root-language is revealed to man by God in the beginning of each creation,—Tr.

- "Teja is something, which excites the optic and tactile Vaisheshika impulses." The former is its own inherent attribute, Shástra whilst the latter is derived from Guses.

 II, i, 3.
- "Vájju (gases) is something which excites tactile impulses."

 Vaisheshika

 Shástra

 II, i, 4.

 "Vájju (gases) is something which excites tactile impulses."

 Though heat and cold are also to be found in it but they are derived from Teju and (Apuh) Liquids.
- "Akásha has not the attribute of exciting these impulses," Vaisheshika i e., of light, touch, taste and smell. Shabda alone is Shástra
 II. i. 5.

Vaisheshika Shástra II, i, 20.

- "Egress and Ingress are the lingal of Akasha."
- "Shabda, not being observed to be produced by solids and Vaisheshika other substances, is not their attribute." It resides Shástra only in Anásha.

 II, i, 25.
- "Time is that of which near, future, simultaneous, slow Valsheshika and quick, &c., are used"
 Shástra
 II, ii, 6.
- "It time is an essential element in the production of effects, Vaisheshika whilst causes are independent of it. Time is, therefore, spoken of as a cause."
- "That to which this side or that side (i.e., North, South, Vaisheshika East and West), above and below, are applicable, is called Space."
- "That direction of space where the sun is first seen to rise Vaisheshika is called East, where he sets, is West. A man facing the East has South on his right and North on his 11, ii, 14.

व्यवस्थितः पृथिव्यां गन्धः ॥ वै० अ ० २ । स्र ० २ ॥ रूपरसस्पर्शवत्य आपो द्रवाः स्निग्धाः ॥ वै० ॥ अ० २ । आ० १ । स्र० २ ॥ अप्सु शीतता ॥ वै ० ॥ अ ० २ । आ ० २ । स्र ० ५ ॥ तेजो रूपस्पर्शवत् ॥ वै अ० २ । आ ० १ । स्र ४ ॥ स्पर्शवान् वायुः ॥ वै ० ॥ अ ० २ । आ ० १ । स्र ४ ॥

1. i. e., the datum from which the existence of Akash is inferred.—Ir.

"The other directions are South-East, South-West, North-Vaisheshika
Shástra
II, ii, 16.

"That substratum, in which desire, repulsion, feelings of pleasure, feeling of pain, conscious exertion (will), shastra in ro.

"That substratum, in which desire, repulsion, feelings of pleasure, feeling of pain, conscious exertion (will), and consciousness, are found is called Almá (soul)."

The Vaisheshika philosophy defines soul thus:-

- "That substance, in which respiration, nictitation, physical Vaisheshika building and animation, movement, sensation, activity of the senses, organic feelings (such as hunger, thirst, III, ii, 4. fever, and pain, etc.), desire, repulsion, feeling of pleasure, feeling of pain, conscious exertion, and consciousness are found, is called soul."
 - "The existence of Manas (the mind or the organ of attention) is established from the fact that one is only capable of attending to one thing at a time." ²
 I, i, 16.

ते आकाशे न विद्यन्ते ॥ वै ०॥ अ ० २। आ ० १। स् ० ५॥ निष्क्रमणं प्रवेशनामित्याकाशस्य लिङ्गम् ॥ वै०॥ अ०२।आ०१। स् ० २०॥ कार्य्यान्तरापादुर्भावाच शब्दः स्पर्शवतामगुणः ॥ वै०॥ अ ० २। आ ० १। स् ० २५॥

अपरस्मित्रपरं युगचिरं क्षिप्रमिति कालीलङ्गानि ॥ वै ० ॥ अ ० २ । आ ० २ । सू ०६ ॥ जिल्लेख्यपनावरिकोष भागावस्थामे कालाखोति ॥ कै० ॥ अ ० ३ ।

नित्येष्वभावादनित्येषु भावात्कारणे कालाख्येति ॥ वै०॥ अ०२। आ०२। स्०९॥

इत इदमिति यतस्ति इयं लिङ्गम ॥ वै०॥ अ० २। आ० २। स्र० १०॥

- Here only the voluntary functions of the soul are enumerated.—Tr.
- 2. So for the involuntary attributes and functions are mentioned, then follow the voluntary functions which are the same as in the foregoing definition.—Tr.
 - 2. To give the reader a clearer ide of this substratum called Manas, I

आदित्यसंयोगाद् भूतपूर्वाद् भविष्यतो भूताच प्राची ॥ वै०॥ अ २ । आ ०२। स् ०१४॥

एतेन दिगन्तरालानि व्याख्यातानि ॥ वै० ॥अ०२। आ०२। स०१६॥ इच्छाद्वेषप्रयंत्रसुखदुःखज्ञानान्यात्मनो लिङ्गमिति ॥ न्याय ०॥ अ०१। स०१०॥ "The powers of exciting impulses of colour, taste, smell, Vasheshika touch; number, measure, separableness, property of combining, divisibility, proximity, distance, consciousness, pleasure, pain, desire, aversion, conscious, exertion, gravity, fluidity, oiliness, and love, impressibility, virtue and roughness, sinfulness and smoothness or laxity and shabda (sound and language) are twenty-four altributes or qualities (Gunás)."

"An Attribute (Guna) is that which is dependent upon or Vasheshika resides in a substratum, which cannot itself possess an I, i, 16. attribute, is not the cause of combination or of division into parts, and is anapeksha, i. e., independent of another attribute."

प्राणाऽपानानिमेषोन्मेषजीवनमनोगतीन्द्रियान्तर्विकाराःसुखदुःखच्छा-हेह्रप्रद्यान्त्र्यत्मनो लिङ्गानि ॥ वै ० अ०३ । आ ० २ । स्र० ४॥

cull the following from Evidences of Iluman Spirit :-- "It is said of a Greek Philosopher that he was engaged in solving a mathematical problem when an army passed by and he was altogether unconscious of it till a soldier effaced the circle. the philosopher had drawn on the earth, a fact which alone disturbed the attention of the philosopher. What followed may be left to history. Was the movement of an army entirely noiseless? Were no sound waves propagated when the philosopher was solving his mathematical problem? Did not the waves enter the cavity of his ear and put to vibration the tympanic membrane, the delicately placed stapes and the grain-filled liquid in the internal labyrinths of the ear, in fact the invisible medium of sensation upon the nerves, the indrivas? All this did take place but the philosopher was not attending to it. There was in the philosopher a something which when engaged in thinking (i. e., solving the problem) wasnot in contact with the internal ear, a something whose contact with one indriva or fuculty precluded its contact simultaneously with another Its contact with an indriva and therefore with an organ is what is called Attention; its separation from this cuts the cords of connection and the result is what we call Absentmindedness. Nor is this Manas the conscious faculty, for who does not know that all the ideas, that our experience has acquired for us, lie for the most part in a latent state in the brain or more correctly in the manas but each and any of them is remembered whenever it is recalled."-Ir.

2. What is perceived by the eye is called colour. What is perceived by the tongue is called taste, which is of different kinds, such as sweet, salt, etc.

What is perceived through the nose is called smell.

What is perceived through the skin is called touch.

What conveys the idea of one, two, etc, is called number.

What conveys the idea of lightness and heaviness is called (measure).

Seperableness is the quality of being separate from others.

Sanyoga = power of combining explains itself.

Divisibility is the quality of being divisible.

Proximity is immediate nearness either in place, time or relationship.

Distance (in time or place) explains itself.

Virtue=just conduct.

Sinfulness = unjust conduct.

Other terms explains themselves.—Tr.

*Shabda is that, which is received through the ears, grasped by the intellect, expressed through speech, and resides in Albásha."

"Ascent, descent, contraction, expansion, coming, going, and rotation, etc., are the different kinds of Karma, (motion or action)."

"That which resides in a substratum, possesses no attributes, Vaisheshika and is an absolute cause of a combination or a division is called Karma motion)."

"Among effects:—Substrata, attributes, motions (or actions), Vaisheshika that which is the cause of all and is therefore, Common to all is called Sámánya (common-element)."

Among effects of the same Dravya (Substratum), the Vaisheshika Sámánya (common-element), is the fact of their being all effects."

Among dravyás (Substances) dravyaship, among gunás Vaisheshika (attributes) Gunuship; among karmás (actions) I, 4, 5. karmaship are Sámánya (common-element), as well as Vishesha (distinctive element). For example—dravyaship i. e., the fact of being a dravya (substance), is common to all

युगपज्ज्ञानाः त्यिर्भनसो लिङ्गम् ॥ न्याय०॥ अ०१ । स०१६॥ ज्यरसग्नधस्पर्ज्ञाः संख्यापरिमाणानि पृथक्त्वं संयोगिवभागौ परत्वाऽ परत्वेबुद्धयः सुखदुःखे इच्छाद्वेषौ प्रयत्नाश्च गुणाः ॥ वैं०॥ अ०१। अ०१। स्र ०६॥

द्रच्याश्रय्यगुणवान् संयोगिवभागेष्वकारणमनपेश्व इति गुणलक्षणम् ॥ वैं ०॥ अ०१। आ०२। स्व०१६॥

श्रोत्रोपलब्धिर्बुद्धिनिग्रीह्यः १योगेणाऽभिज्वलित आकाशदेशः शब्दः ॥ महाभाष्ये ॥

उत्रक्षपणमवक्षेपणमाकुञ्चनं प्रसारणं गमनीमति कर्माणि।। वैं०॥ अ०१। स्व०७।

एकद्रव्यमगुणं संयोगविभागेष्वनपेक्षकारणीमाते कर्मलक्षणम् ॥ वै०॥ अ०१। आ ०१। स्र०१७॥

द्रच्यगुणकर्मणां द्रव्यं कारणं सामान्यम् ॥ वै० । अ०१। आ०१। स्व०१८॥

^{1.} I apologise to my readers for coining such terms as those. For want of equivalent words in English I have been compelled to do so in order to make the text intelligible,—Tr.

substances (dravyás), but it also distinguishes them from attributes (gunás). Therefore it (dravyaship) is Sámánya (common-element), as well as Vishesha (distinctive element).

"Commonness and Dissimilitude are relative terms"; for Vaisheshika instance, among human beings, humanship, i.e., the fact of being human, is the Common-element (Sámá-I, ii, 3. nya), whilst it also distinguishes human beings from animals, thus in this sense it is also the distinguishing-element (Vishesha); similarly, masculinity or femininity is Common to all men and women respectively, but Bráhmanism, Kshatryism and Vaishyism are the distinguishing-element among men and women, whilst Bráhmanism is the common-element among all Bráhmans, Kshatryism is the common-element among all Kshatriyás and so on.

Vaisheshika VII, 2, 26 relation between the whole and its parts, between an action and its agent, between an attribute and its substratum, between genus and its species, and between a cause and its effect.

The natural relation of substrata with each other being in the nature of a combination (Physical or Chemical—Tr.), is of a temporary character.

The relation between substances, that they possess some attributes in common and can also be converted into different forms which are always essentially of the same nature as the substances out of which they were made, is called Sådharmya. For example, take earth and water. Both are inanimate substances, both can be converted into different forms, as earth can be moulded into a pot, etc., and water into a lump of ice, etc. Therefore, earth and water are Sådharmya (similar) in this respect.

The reverse of Sádharmya is Vaidharma (dissimilar), when the attributes are dissimilar, as in the case of earth and water,

द्रव्याणां द्रव्यं कार्यं सामान्यम ॥ बै०। अ०१। आ०१। सू०२३॥ द्रव्यत्यं गुणत्यं कर्मत्वञ्च सामान्यानि विशेषाश्च ॥ बै०॥ आ०१। अ०१।

सामान्यं विशेष इति बुद्धयपेत्तम् ॥ वै०॥ अ० १ । आ० २ । स् ०३॥

^{1.} We take for example a cow :--

All that is common to all cows is called the Common-element (Samanya). Tow this common-element distinguishes every cow from the rest of the creation, hence it is also the differentiating-element (Vishesha).

earth is hard, dry and excites olfactory impulses, whilst water possesses moisture, fluidity and the power of exciting gustatory impulses. These attributes are quite different from each other hence earth and water are dissimilar (Vaidharmi) in this respect.

Vaisheshika
IV, i, 3.

Vaisheshika "Where there is no cause, there can be no I, ii, z. effect."

Vaisheshika
I, ii, I.

"Absence of an effect does not prove the non-existence of the cause."

"The effect only reveals whatsoever pre-existed in the cause.

No new attribute can spring up." "Small and Great Vaisheshika are relative terms" as a triatomic molecule is smaller II, i, 24 than a likshá⁵ but greater than a diatomic molecule; or as a mountain is smaller than the earth, but greater than a tree.

Vaisheshika
I, ii, 7.

"Sall (existence) is the state of being whether of a substratum, an attribute or an action."

"Satt can be affirmed of everything that exists. Therefore satt is called the Greatest Common element (Mahá sámánya), i. e., common to all the entities."

So far entities have been described. Now we shall briefly describe non-entities (non-existences or abháva) which are of 5 kinds:

(1). "Prágabháva.—That kind of non-existence which precedes the formation of a thing is Vaisheshika called Prágabháva." For instance, a piece of cloth or a pot did not exist before either of them was made. This non-existence of a piece of cloth or a pot before its formation is called Prágabháva.

इहेदमिति यतः कार्य कारणयोः स समगायः ॥ वै० ॥ अ० ७ । आ २ ।
स० २६ ॥

द्रव्यगुणयोः सजातीयार्म्भकत्वं साधम्यम् ॥ वै० ॥ अ०१। आ०१। स०६ ॥

कारणमावात्कार्यमावः वै०॥ अ०४। आ०१। मु०३॥ न तु कार्यामावात्कारणामावः॥ वै०॥ अ०१। आ०२। सु०२॥ कारणऽभावात्कार्याऽभावः॥ वै० अ०१। आ०२। मु०१॥

^{1.} As earth is a kind of Prithivi.

^{2.} As water is a kind of Apah.

³ i. e, a mote (equal to 4 trasarenus).

- (2). Pradhwansábháva.—" Non-existence following the existence of a thing is called Pradh-Vaisheshika wansábháva"; as when a pot is broken it ceases to exist as a pot, its non-existence then is called Pradhwansábháva.
- (3). Anyonyábháva.—" That which exists in relation to one thing and does not exist in relation Vaisheshika to another is called Anyonyábháva." As a cow exists as a cow, or a horse exists as a horse, but a cow is not a horse, nor is a horse a cow. That is, a cow in relation to itself exists, but a cow as a horse, or a horse as a cow, does not exist. This kind of non-existence is called Anyonyábháva.
- (4). Alyantábháva.—" That which is different from the aforesaid three kinds of non-existences, Vaisheshika is called Atyantábháva," as horns of 1X, i, 5 a man, or an etherecal flower, or the child of a barren woman. This impossible sort of non-existence is called Alyantábháva.
- (5). "Non-existence of a thing in one place whilst it exists in another, is called Sansarga Vaisheshika Pratishedha;" as, for example, a person says: "the pot is not in the कारणगुणपूर्वकः कार्यगुणो दृष्टः ॥ षै०॥ अ० २ घ्रा० १ । सू० २४ ॥ अग्रुमइदिति तस्मिन्विशेषमावाद्विशेषामावाच ॥ ६०॥ घ्र० ७ । घ्रा०

१ । सु० ११ ॥

स्रदिति यतो द्रव्यगुणकर्मस्र सा सत्ता ॥ वै० ॥ अ०१। आ०२। स्र०७॥

भावोत्तवृत्तेरेव हेतुत्वात्सामान्यमेष ॥ ६०॥ क्रं० १ । आ० २ । स्र०४॥

कियागुणव्यपदेशाभावात्मागसत् ॥ वै०॥ अ०६। आ०१। स्र०१॥ सदसत् ॥ वै०॥ अ०६। आ०१। स्र०२॥ सबासत् ॥ वै०॥ अ०६। आ०१। स्र०४॥ सबान्यदसहतस्तदसत् ॥ वै०॥ अ०६। आ•१। स्र०५॥ house," i. e., it is outside in some other place. Here the pot and the house are not related to each other in any way.

Vaisheshika LX, ii, 10 "Ignorance (avidya) is the result of defective faculties and education."

Vaisheshika IX, ii, 11. "It is another name for incorrect knowledge."

Vaisbeshika
IX, 2, 11. thing as it exists, is called Villyá (knowledge)."

"All those substrata, as Prithivi, etc, and their attributes that are effects, are non-eternal or transient (Anitya); WII, i, 2. whilst those that are causes are Eternal (Nitya)."

"That which exists and has no cause is called Nitya Vaisheshika (Eternal); whilst that which has a cause or has been VII, i, 3. made is Non-eternal (Anitya)."

There are 6 kinds of Inferential knowledge, i. e., knowledge derived from the relation of a sign with the object signified:—

- 1. That in which we proceed from causes to effects, Example. A man at some distance sees a man, clap his hands, he at once infers that sound will be produced.
- 2. That in which we proceed from effects to causes.

नास्ति घटो गेह इति सतो घटस्य गेहसंसर्गपतिषेत्रः ॥ वै० ॥ अ० ६ । अ० १ । स्व० १०॥

इन्द्रियदोषात्संस्कारदोषाचाविद्या ॥ ५० ॥ प्र०६ ॥ आ० ३ । स०११॥

तद्दुष्टज्ञानम् ॥ वै० ॥ त्रा० ६ । आ० २ । स्व० ११ ॥

I. I have used the word Education in the widest sense possible, whether it be the result of education proper or of association with other people or of environments. The word used in the text is sansakara which means an impression made on the soul either subjectively or objectively.—Tr.

ब्रहुष्टं निद्या ॥ बै०॥ अ०६ । आ०२ । स्व०१२ ॥ पृथिन्यादिरूपरसगन्धस्पर्शा द्रव्या नित्यत्वादनित्याश्च ॥ बै०॥ अ०७। आ०१ । स्व०२॥

एतेन नित्येषु नित्यत्वमुत्तम् ॥ वै० ॥ अ० ७ । आ० १ । सू० ३ ॥

- Vaisheshika (peculiar to the clapping of hands), he at once infers that there has been clapping of hands close by.
- 3. Samyoyi (concurrent) knowledge is that which is obtained from the concurrence of one thing with another. Example. The mention of the word body at once suggests the existence of skin along with it.
- 4. Samváyi¹ (Inherent) knowledge is that which is obtained from the inherence of something (i. e., an attribute substance or an action) in another. Example. We know Extension inheres in Ether, therefore, from the mere mention of the word Ether Extension is at once inferred.
- 5. Ekártha Samváyi knowledge. When two things (such as attributes) reside in a substances, the knowledge of one at once suggests the other. This kind of inferential knowledge is called Ekártha Samváyi. For example, We see the orange colour of an orange and at once infer that it must be smooth to touch or sweetish in taste.
- 6. Virodhi (Antithetic) knowledge, is that which is gained from the natural opposition of ideas or things. While colour suggests black colour; sweet taste suggests bilter taste; hissing of a snake at once suggests that its natural foe, such as a mungoose, must be close by.

Sankhaya known-datum and the other not known) which are vachan V, related to each other in a definite, fixed relation so that either of them always accompanies the other, or only one accompanies the other; as an example of the latter we take fire and smoke. Now in this case smoke is the datum (Sádhana) by means of which fire (Sádhya, i. e., the thing inferred) is known. Whenever you see smoke, you naturally conclude that there is fire somewhere. The relation between the two is not an arbitrary one, but a natural, definite and universal one. You can nowhere find smoke without fire.

"The Sadhana (sign) sometimes exists temporarily by its

^{1.} Sampayi is the inseparable, inherent relation of a substance, an attribute or an action with another substance, just as the relation of fluidity with fluids, whole with its parts, genus with its species, etc., see page 36.

Sankhaya own power," as smoke, caused by the disentegrating power of fire (from wood etc.) when carried to distant places, is seen hanging by itself without the fire being found near it. This is also called Vyanti.

"The releation of one pervading the other is also called Sankhaya Vyápati just as the primeval matter (Prakriti) Pravachan pervades the principle of wisdom, whilst the latter is V, 32. said to be pervaded by the former, (i.e., the higher pervades the lower whilst the latter is pervaded by the former). In other words, the relation of the thing pervaded with the thing pervading it is called Vyápli.

Teachers should examine everything they teach to their students with the help of the above criteria; so should the students. Otherwise they can never be profound scholars. They will only be mere crammers. Teachers before teaching a book should thoroughly study it themselves and test the truth of its contents by the application of the aforesaid tests. On finding it true they should teach it to their scholars, otherwise not.

"It is only by their properties and the application of (the aforesaid) tests that the true nature of things is ascertained."

THE SCHEME OF STUDIES.

1. First of all comes Phonelics (shikshá) by Panini. Parents and teachers should teach their children and pupils how to pronounce different letters in their right places, with the right amount of effort and the right agent. For example take the letter P. The right place to pronounce it is the lips, the proper amount of effort is what is called full and the right agent is the tongue.

सदकारणवित्रत्यम् ॥ वै० ॥ अ० ४ । आ० १ । स० १ ॥ अस्येदं कार्यं कारणं संयोगि विरोधि समवायि चैति लैक्किम् ॥ वै० ॥ अ०६ । आ०२ । स०१॥

नियतपथर्मसाहित्यमुभयोरेकतरस्य वा व्याप्तिः ॥

निजशक्तयुद्भवमित्याचार्याः॥

आघेयशक्तियोग इति पञ्चशिखः ॥ सांख्य० ॥ अ० ५ । स० २६। ३१। ३२॥

1. Prakriti is held to be the subtlest form of matter, out of which all the visible and invisible objects of the world are evolved. Prakriti being subtlest and the cause, next in the stage of evolution—a little less subtle than it—comes what is called Mahatatwa (the principle of wisdom), a stage lower still comes Ahankara (the principle of Individuality) and so on.—2r.

2. Then comes Grammar. It includes Ashtádhyáyi; Dhátupáth (Book of roots), Ganapáth (Book of groups), Unádihosh (Book of prefives and suffixes, &c). Last of all comes Mahábáshya (Exposition of the above four books of Punini by Patanjili).

If the teachers and their scholars be intelligent, energetic. honest and extremely anxious to advance their knowledge, the pupils can master the Science of Grammar in three years, and thus become profound Grammarians thoroughly acquainted with the construction of every word-Vedic or Laukika (i. e., of ordinary Sanskrit literature). Other sciences are easier to learn, amount of labour that is required to learn the Science of Grammar is greater than that required to master any other subject; and the amount of knowledge acquired by the study of the above books on Grammar in three years cannot be gained by the study of such books as Sárswata, Chandriká, Kaumudi, and Mansormá, in fifty years. Because the great sages have expounded the most abstruse subjects in their books in such an easy way that it is entirely impossible for little men to approach it. The aim of those great souls in writing their books was to make the subjects so easy as to be readily grasped in the shortest possible time; whilst the object of little minds has always been to clothe their subject with such a difficult-round-about style as would necessitate great labour and waste of time, on the part of the student, to comprehend it. whilst he would profit but very little. We can liken this to digging up a whole mountain and finding a penny-worth of gold; whilst the study of the books of the great sages can be well likened to the diving of a man into the sea and finding most valuable pearls in one plunge.

3. Then let them read Nighantú and Nirukta (Books on Vedic Vocabulary and Philology) by Yask in six to eight months, but not waste years of their valuable time over Amarkosha and other such books written by atheists.

4 Thereafter they should study Chhandograntha (Prosody) by Pingal, so that they may thoroughly master the rules that govern poetry—Vedic and otherwise, and be able to compose poems of their own. This can be done in four months. They should not waste their time over Vritratnákar and the like books written by mean scholars.

5. Then they should study Manu Smriti, Válmiki Rámhyana, Vidurniti, and other such selections from Mahábhárat. The tutor should teach these as poetry ought to be taught. The study of these books tends to eradicate evil habits and bring culture. It should not take the students more than a year to finish them.

- 6. Then they should study six Shástrás¹ (erroneously called six schools of philosophy) with the expositions of Rishis—the enlightened great souls, the true seers of nature—as far as possible, or in the absence of these, with the help of the true commentaries of other honest scholars. But before taking up Vedánt Shástra they should learn the ten Upanishads.² All these books should be finished in two years.
- 7. Thereafter, they should study the four Vedas³ with their four Bráhmanás⁴ with proper accent, meanings, theoritically as well as practically (and finish them in six years)

Says Yask on this subject:

"He, who reads the Vedas even with proper accent, but does Nirukta not know their meanings, is like a tree weighed down I, 18. by its fruit, branches, leaves and flowers, or like a beast of burden carrying on its back grain which it can not eat. But he, who understands their meanings and acts up to their teachings by avoiding sin and leading a virtuous life, enjoys perfect happiness in this world, and eternal bliss hereafter in consequence thereof."

Says the Rig Vedu:-

"An ignorant man has eyes to see but sees nothing, has ears to hear but hears nothing, has a tongue to speak but speaks nothing. The ignorant can never understand the hidden mysteries of knowledge. But it is to the learned alone that knowledge reveals its true nature, just as a woman longing to meet her husband, dresses in her best and puts on her finest jewellery, so as to display her charms to him."

"What good can the Veclas do unto him who does not know that Great Being, who is All-pervading and Eternal, I, 164, 39. Holiest of all, Who sustains the Sun and the Earth, and is the support of the learned, Whose realization is the chief aim of the Veclas? But they alone, enjoy eternal bliss who study the Veclas, live a righteous life, become perfect yayis and realize God.

8. After the study of the Vedus they should learn the Upavedás (or sub-Vedus) which are four in number:—

i.—Ayurveda (Medical Science). Here in are included the works of Churuk and Sushrul, and other sages Purva Mimansa, Vaisheshika, Nyaya, Yoga, Sankhya and Vedanta.

^{2.} Psh, Kena, Katha, Prashna, Mundak, Mandukya, Aitreya, Taitreya, Chhan-dogya and Vrihadaranyaaka.

^{3.} Rik, Yaju, Sama and Atharva Veda.

^{4.} Aitreya, Shatapatha, Sama and Gopatha.

They should learn both theory and practice, including Medicine, Therapeutics, Materia Medica, Physiology and Pathology, Hygione with Dietetics and Climatology and the sciences of Temperaments, Anatomy and Surgery with the proper use of instruments in different operations, &c., in four years.

ii.—Science of Government (Dhanur Vedu).

It consists of two parts:—Civil and Military.

Civil part, is the art of governing people, protecting their lives and property, developing the wealth and resources of the country, making the people happy and contented by the right administration of justice—protecting the good and punishing the wicked, etc.

Military part, comprises organization of the army, use of fire arms and the knowledge of different kinds of drills, tactics and strategy, etc. They should learn both branches of the Science of Government in two years.

iii.—Science of Music (Gandharva Veda). They should learn all the different parts of music, such as, tunes, modes, modifications of modes, time, harmony, refrain. They should also learn singing, playing, and dancing, etc., properly, but chiefly singing and playing of the Sáma Veda Mantrás on musical instruments But they should never sing amorous songs like Nauch-girls nor bray like sensual Vairágees.¹

The books on this subject are Nárad Sanhitá, etc., composed by Rishis.

स्थागुरयं मारहारः किलाभूदधीत्य वेदं न विजानाति योऽर्थम् ।
योऽर्थम् इत्सकलं भद्रमश्रुते नाकमैति ज्ञानविधृतपाप्मा ॥ निरुक्तः १ । १८ ॥
उत त्वः पश्यन्न ददर्श वाचमुत त्वः शृरावन्न शृणोत्येनाम् । उतो
त्वस्मै तन्वं श्विससे जायेव पत्य उशती सुवासाः ॥ ऋ० ॥ मं १० ।
सु० ७१ । मं० ४ ॥

त्रुचो अन्तरं परमे व्योमन् यहिमन्देवा अधिविश्वे निषेदुः । यहतन्न

iv.—Artha Veda (Science and practice of mechanical arts), also called Shilpa Vidya. They should study the laws of matter and motion. They should also know how to make various kinds of machines, etc.

In short, they should learn theoretically and practically, the nature and properties of all substances from solids to Akásha. This is the science that helps to increase the wealth and prosperity of a country.

Thereafter, they should thoroughly study Jyotisha Shástra—which includes Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, Geography, Geology and Astronomy—in two years. They should also have practical training in these Sciences, learn the proper handling of instruments, master their mechanism, and know how to use them. But they should regard Astrology—which treats of the influence of stars and constellations on the destinies of man, of auspiciousness and non-auspiciousness of time, of horoscopes, etc.—as a fraud, and never learn or teach any books on this subject.

Both the teachers and their scholars should so endeavour as to be able to master all the sciences and arts, and become highly cultured in twenty or twenty-one years, and thus accomplish the object of their lives and live in happiness

The knowledge that can he acquired by following the aforesaid scheme in twenty or twenty one years, cannot be gained in any other way even in one hundred years.

We have recommended only the books of Rishis for students to study, because, they were men of great learning, masters of all the sciences, and also imbued with piety. But the books of mean scholars we have condemned, because, they had only a smattering of knowledge, and were not free from prejudice either. How could their writings, then, be free from the faults of their authors?

Out of all the above-mentioned books (we have recommended the student to study),—the Vedas, Augas (Limbs), Upanagas, (sub-limbs), Brahmans and Upvedas (sub-ledas)—the Vedas alone are held to be Divine in origin, the rest were made by Rishis—seers of the Veda and Nature. Should anything be found even in their writings contrary to the teachings of the Vedas, it is to be rejected, for the Vedas alone, being Divine in origin, are free from

वेद किमृचा करिष्यति य इत्तद्विदुस्त इमे समासते ॥ ऋ०॥ मं०१। स०१६४। मं०३६॥

1. They are six in number:—Phonetics, Science of morals and duties, Grammar Philology, Music and Astronomy.

2. They are six in number. They are the so-called six Schools of Philosophy, see page 67.

3, 4. They are four in number, and have been enumerated before, see page 67.

error, and are proof unto themselves (Swatch Pramana) in other words the Vedas are their own authority; whilst other books such as Brahmanas are Pralah pramana, i. e., dependent upon the Vedas for their authority. They stand or fall according to their conformity or contrariety to the Vedas.

The books to be avoided are enumerated in the Appendix. They ought to be looked upon as snares; once caught in them a student can never know the truth.

- O.—Is there no truth to be found in these books.
- A.—There is a sprinkling of truth mixed with a large amount of rubbish, myths and fabrications; but as even the best food mixed with a poison is to be avoided, so should these books.
 - O.—Do you not believe in the Puranas, Itiliasa, etc.?
- A.—Yes we do; but only in the true ones, not in the forged ones.
 - O.—Which of them are true and which forged or false;
 - A.—" Itihása, Puránu, Kalpu, Gáthá and Náráshansi are five names given to Bráhmunus (that have been mentioned before). Bháyvul and the like books are not the real Puránus.
- O.—Why do you not accept whatever truth there is to be found in the condemned books?
- A.—Whatever trull is to be found in them is of the Vedas and other true Shástras, whilst whatever is false in them is of their own invention. With the acceptance of the Veda and other Shástras the whole truth is accepted. He, who tries to extract truth from these false books, will have to unavoidably swallow untruth as well. Therefore even truth, which is adulterated with untruth, should be avoided like food adulterated with a poison.

O.—What is your faith?

A.—Vedic. We believe that the Vedus alone are the supreme authority in the ascertainment of true religion—the true conduct of life. Whatever is enjoined by the Vedus we hold to be right; whilst whatever is condemned by them we believe to be wrong. Therefore we say that our religion is Vedic. All men, especially the Aryas, should believe in the Vedus, and thereby cultivate unity in religion.

ब्राह्मणानीतिहासान् पुराणानि कल्पान् गाथा नाराशंसीरिति ॥ गृह्मसूत्र

^{1.} For further elucidation of this subject see Chapter VII of this book as well as our book called "An Introduction to the Exposition of the four Vedas."

- O.—Even Shástras written by Rishis—contain truth mixed with untruth, and contradict each other like other books. Take for example, the subject of Creation. Now all the six Shástras contradict each other on this subject. Mimánsá for instance, gives application as the cause of the world; Vaisheshika, time; Nyáya, atoms; Yoya, activity; Sánkhya, primeval matter, and Vedant, God. Do you not call it a contradiction?
- A.—Firstly, barring Vedant and Sankhya, these Shastras do not treat of the subject of Creation directly. It is only indirectly mentioned. Secondly, there is no contradiction in their teachings. It only shows that you have no knowledge of contrariety and conformity. Now tell me pray, do you call it a contradiction when different statements are made on the same subject or when made on different subjects?
- . Q.—When different statements are made on the same subject. Here, too, the subject is the same, viz., Creation.
 - A.—Is knowledge one thing or more than one?

Q.—One.

A.—If it be one, why then are there so many divisions of this knowledge, such as Grammar, Medicine and Astronomy. As in the case of one science, its different branches are treated of separately, so afe the six branches of the Science of Creation treated of separately in the six Sháshrus You can never call it a contradiction, can you? Just as six different causes take part in the formation of a pot, viz., application, time, clay, intellect, labour (required for mixing or separating different materials), the properties of matter, and the potter, similarly six different causes of the world have been discussed by the six Shastras, thus application by Mimansa, Time by Veshaishik, material cause by Nyaya, Divine activity by Yoya, atoms and the gradual formation of the different substances of the world out of them by Sankhya and the efficient cause God by Vedanta. There is no contradiction in it. Or take for illustration the Medical Science. Its six different branches, Pathology, Medicine and Therapeutics, Materia Medica, Hygiene and Surgery are separately treated, but all these aim at curing disease. Likewise six different causes have operated in the formation of this world; one cause having been discussed by one Shastra there is no contradiction in them.2

Both the teachers and their scholars should avoid all those things that act as hindrances in the way of acquisition of knowledge,

^{1.} Physiology is included under Pathology, and Anatomy under Surgery.—Ir.

^{2.} We shall discuss this subject more fully in the Chapter on Cosmogany such as the company of the wicked and lascivious people, contraction of bad habits (such as the use of intoxicants), fornication, child-marriage, want of perfect Brehmacharya, want of love on the part of the rulers, parents and learned men for the dissemination of knowledges of the Veda and others Shás ras, overeating, keeping late hours, sloth in learning, teaching, examining or being examined, or performing these duties with dishonesty, not regarding knowledge as the highest thing in the world, want of faith in Brahmacharya as the source of health, strength, intellect, courage, political power and wealth, leaving off the worship of one true God, and wasting time in going about from place to place for the purpose of seeing and worshiping images made of stone, and other inanimate objects, absence of the worship of the five true living gods-father, mother. teacher, allruistic teachers of humanity (all his) and other great men,—neglect in the performance of the duties of their Class and Order, and instead, wearing different marks of sectarian distinction on the forehead and other parts of the body, chaplets and rosaries, etc., observance of fasting days as the 11th and 13th of each month, having faith in the forgiveness of sins by pilgrimage to such sacred places, as Benares, and by constant recitation of the names of gods and godesses such as Ráma, Krishana, Náráyana, Shiva, Bhágwati and Ganesha, indifference towards the acquisition of knowledge through the wicked advice of hypocrites, belief in the possibility of obtaining salvation simply through hearing such books, as Puranás (Bhaywat and the like read, and thus neglecting the study of the true philosophies and sciences, the living of good and righteous lives. the practice of Youa, and communion with God -which alone can lead to eternal bliss, want of love for knowledge through greed of gold, and loafing about etc.

People (of India), at the present day, who are involved in the aforesaid false practices, remain destitude of the advantages of Brahmachurya and education, are consequently sunk in ignorance, and afflicted with diverse diseases

The sectarian and selfish Bráhmáns of the present time prevent other people, through their false teachings, from acquiring knowledge and associating with men of learning, ensnare them in their own nets and thus ruin them physically, mentally, and materially. They want to keep Kshutriyas and other Classes illiterate, since they are afraid that if they acquired knowledge and became enlightened, they would expose their hypocrisy, get out of their selfish grip, and become disrespectful towards them.

i.e., marriage under 16 years in the case of a girl, and under 25 years in the case of a man

² Such as Oordhva pundra = a single perpendicular line on the forehead; Tripundra = three lines made across the forehead and other parts of the body; Tilaka = a coloured mark on the forehead made with ashes, etc.

Both the rulers and the ruled should see that these obstacles are removed from the path of the students (male and female) of all Classes In order to give their children sound education, they should exert themselves to their utmost with all their hearts, all their souls and all their wealth.

Q.—Are even women and Shúdras allowed to study the Veda? What shall we do if they take to reading? Besides, there is no authority for their doing so. On the other hand, it is condemned by the Vedas thus.

Shruti. "Never should women and Shúdras study."

A.—All men and women (i.e., the whole mankind) have a right to study. You can go and drown yourselves. As for the text you have quoted, it is of your own fabrication, and is nowhere to be found either in the Vedu or any other authoritative book. On the other hand, here is a verse from the Yajur Vedu that authorises all men to study the Vedu and hear it read:—

God says: "As I have given this Word (i.e., the four Vedas) which is the word of salvation for all mankind [Here some one might say that by the word Jana, which we have translated into all mankind, only Dwijas are meant, as in the Smrilis (so-called) they alone are allowed to study the Veda but not women and Shúdras, the other half of this verse answers this objection by adding —Bráhmans, Kshalriyas, Vaishyas, Shúdras, women, servants, aye, even the lowest of the low, so should you all do i.e., teach and preach the Veda. Let all men therefore read and recite, teach and preach the Veda and thereby acquire true knowledge, practise virtue, shun vice, and consequently being freed from all sorrow all pain, enjoy true happiness."

Now, sir, shall we believe your word or God's? God's, certainly. He who will still refuse to believe, (that woman and Shudrás are privileged to read) he shall be called an atheist, because Manu has said. "He is an atheist who is a reviler and disbeliever of the Veda." Does not God desire the welfare of Shúdras? Is God prejudiced that he should allow the study of the Veda to Dwijas and disallow it to Shúdras. Had God meant that the

स्त्रीशृद्री नाधीयातामिति श्रुतैः ॥

यथेमां वार्चं कल्याणीमावदानि जनेभ्यः । ब्रह्मराजन्याभ्याण शुद्राय

चार्याय च स्वाय चारणाय ॥ यज्ञु० अ० २६ । २ ॥

- 1. i. e., Happiness here and hereafter-Tr.
- 2. Books written by Rishies on the conduct of life—Tr.

Shúdrás should not study the Vedu or hear it read, why should He have created the organs of speech and hearing in their bodies? As He has created the sun, the moon, the earth, the water, the fire, the air, various foods and drinks etc., for all, so has He revealed the Vedu for all. Wherever it is declared (in the books of Rishis) that the Shúdrás are debarred from the study of the Vedu, the prohibition simply amounts to this that he, that does not learn anything even after a good deal of teaching, being ignorant and destitude of understanding, is called a Shúdra. It is useless for him to learn, and for others to teach him any longer. As for your debarring women from education, that only shows your ignorance, selfishness and stupidity. Here is an authority from the Veda entitling girls to study:—

"Just as boys acquire sound knowledge and culture by the Atharva practice of Brahmacharya and then marry girls of Veda XI, their own choice, who are young, well educated, loving xvi, 3, 18 and of like temperament so should a girl practise Brahmacharya, study the Feda and other sciences and thereby perfect her knowledge, refine her character, give her hand to a man of her own choice, who is young, learned and loving."

It follows therefore that girls should also practise Brahma-charya and receive education,

Q.—Should even women read the Veda?

A.—Certainly. Here is an authority from the Shruut Sútra:

"(In the Yajua) let the wife recite this mantra."

Were she not a scholar of the Veda as well as other Shástras, how could she in the Yajna recite the Vedic mantras, with proper pronunciation and accent, as well as speak Sanskrit?

In ancient India, Gárgi and other ladies,—jewels among women—were highly educated and perfect scholars of the Veda. This is clearly written in the Shulpatha Bráhmana.

Now if the husband be well-educated and the wife ignorant or vice versa, there will be a constant state of warfare in the house, Besides if women were not to study, where will the teachers for Girls' Schools come from? Nor could ever the affairs of the state, the administration of justice, and the duties of married life, that are required of both husband and wife [such as keeping each other happy, the wife having the supreme control over all household श्रद्धाचरंण कन्याई युवानं विन्द्रते पतिम् ॥ अथर्व०॥ कां० ११ । प्र० २४। थ० ३। गं० १८ ॥ matters] be carried on properly without thorough education (of men and women).

The Kshatriyas women in ancient India, used to be wellacquainted even with the military science, or how could they have gone with their male relations and fought side by side with them in battle fields, as Kekui did with her royal husband Dushurutha. Therefore it behoves Brahman and Kshalriya women, to acquire all kinds of knowledge, and Vuishya women to learn trade, and the mechanical arts and the like, and Shudra women, the art of cooking etc As men should, at the very least, learn the Science of Grammar, Dhurma and their profession or trade, likewise should women learn Grammar, Dhurma, Medical Science, Mathematics and the Mechanical arts at the least, for, without the knowledge of these ascertainment of truth, proper behaviour towards their husbands and other people, reproduction of good children, their proper up-bringing and instruction, proper management of the house-hold affairs, preparation of foods and drinks in accordance with the requirements of the Medical Science, (so that they may act on the system like a good medicine and keep the whole family free from disease and thereby make them happy), can never be effected. Without the knowledge of arts, they cannot properly attends to such matters as making proper dresses and ornaments, etc., or having them made, nor can they supervise the construction of their houses. Without the knowledge of mathematics they can never keep accounts of their household properly; and without the knowledge of true religion, as taught by the Ieda and other Shástras, they cannot know what God and Dhurmu are, and can never, therefore, escape going astray from the path of rectitude.

Verily, those parents have done their duty and, therefore, a thousand thanks to them, who have done their best to make their children practise Bruhmuchurya, acquire knowledge, and perfect their character, which all help to develop both their bodies and minds to the fullest extent, so that they may accord a just and righteous treatment to all—parents, husbands, wives, fathers-in-law, mothers-in-law, their king and fellow subjects, neighbours, friends and off spring, etc.

Knowledge alone is the inexhaustible treasure; the more you spend it, the more it grows. All other treasures run out by spending, and the claiments inherit their shares as well as Teives cannot steal this treasure, nor, can Janyone inherit it. It is the chief duty of the rulers, as well as of the ruled, to protect and augment this treasure.

I to comprise righteousness, justice, honesty, proper discharge of one's duties etc.—Tr,

Manu says:—"The State should make it compulsary on all to send their children, of both sexes to school at the said¹ period and keep them there for the said² period till they are thoroughly well-educated. It should be made a penal offence to break this law. In other words, let no child—whether a girl or a boy—be allowed to stay in the house³ after the 8th year; let him remain in the seminary till his Sumávartana time, [i.e. the period of Return home⁴] and, let no one be allowed to marry before that."

Again says Manu:—"Of all gifts (that one can bestow on another)—water, food, animals (as cows, and buffaloes)

Manu
see amum see is, land, clothes, gold, and butter, etc., that of the knowledge of the Vala is the best and the noblest.

Let all, therefore, try their utmost to disseminate knowledge with all their heart with all their soul and with all the material resources at their command.

That country alone prospers where Bruhmuchurya is properly practised, knowledge is keenly sought after, and the teachings of the Valic religion followed.

In this Chapter we have briefly discoursed on Brahmacharya. We shall treat of Samávartana (return home) and Grihastha (married life) in the next Chapter.

THE END OF CHAPTER III.

कन्यानां सम्प्रदानं चकुमाराणां च रत्त्रणम् ॥ मतु० ७ । १५२ ॥

- 1. In the 5th or 8th year.
- 2 Minimum 16th year for girls and 25th tor boys
- 3. i.e. his father's house.
- 4. After the completion of his education.

सर्वेषामेव दानानां ब्रह्मदानं विशिष्यते । बार्यन्नगोमहीबासस्तिलकाञ्चनसर्विषाम् ॥ मतु० ४ । २३३ ॥

CHAPTER IV.

RETURN HOME FROM SCHOOL (SAMAVARTANA)

AND

MARRIED LIFE (GRIHASTHA).

to the advice of his preceptor, enter married life after he has studied, with their subsidiary sciences, the four Vedas, or, three, or, two, or, one Veda only."

"Let him, who has faithfully discharged his duties towards his preceptor and received from his father,—natural or spiritual (i.e., the teacher), the gift of the knowledge of the Veda, sit on an elegant bed, decked with a garland of flowers; and let his father (natural or spiritual) honour him with the present of a cow." A female student possessed of the aforesaid qualifications, should also be honoured in the same way by her father.

"Let a twice-born man (Bráhman, Kshatriya, and Vaishya) after having obtained the consent of his teacher and taken the bath (prescribed for the ceremony of Reliant Home from the seminary), return home and expouse a maid, of his own Class, endowed with excellent qualities,"

"A girl, who is not descended on his mother's side within the sixth degree and does not bear the same family name (Golra) as his father's, is eligible for marriage."

À.

वेदानधीर्य वेदी वा वेदं वापि यथा क्रमम्। अविष्तुत ब्रह्मचयो गृहस्थाश्रममाविशेत्॥ मनु० ३। २॥ तं प्रतीतं स्वधर्मेण ब्रह्मदायहरं पितुः। स्रुग्विणं तत्प आसीनमर्हयेत्प्रथमं गवा॥ मनु० ३। ३॥

1. Male or female.

It is a fact that "we do not love or value a thing, that we are familiar with, so much as one that is hidden from Shathapatha our view." For instance, if a person has heard a great deal about the sweetness of sugar, but never tasted it, his mind is completely taken up with the desire of tasting it. Or when we hear a person, who is not known to us, highly extolled for his excellent qualities, it makes us very eager to make his acquaintence. For the same reason, a man should marry a girl, who comes from a distant country and is not a near relative either on his mother's or father's side.

The advantages and disadvantages of distant and near marriages respectively are:—

- (1). Any two persons who, have in their childhood, lived near each other, played and quarrelled together, loved one another, noticed each others' faults, imperfections, tempers and misbehaviours, and perhaps sometimes, even, seen each other undressed, if married to each other, can never love each other well.
- (2). The marriage of near relatives does not improve the race from want of interchange of fluids and essences (such as blood) of the body, it rather deteriorates it. This is analogous to the addition of water to water, no new quality being produced.
- (3). As the addition of sugar and such medicines, as ginger, improves the taste and quality of milk, so does the marriage of people, who are not related to each o her (either on father's or on mother's side), improve the race.
- diet very often effects a cure, so does the marriage with foreigners or distant people improve the health of the parties and prove beneficial in every other respect.
- (5). When the parties are nearly related to each other and live amongst their people, the sorrows and joys of one family will affect the other, and there will be many occasions for family disputes to arise. Whilst marriages among distant people and consequent separation from relatives lengthen the thread of mutual love. This is not the case when they live near their people.

गुरुणानुमतः स्नात्वा ममाद्यतो यथाविधि । उद्वहेत द्विजो भार्यां सवर्ग लक्षणान्विताम् ॥ गनु० ३ । ४ ॥ असपिएडा च या मातुरसगोत्रा च या पितुः । सा प्रशस्ता द्विजातीनां दारकर्मणि मैथुने ॥ मनु० ३ । ५ ॥ परोक्षप्रिया इव हि देवाः प्रत्यक्षद्विषः । शतपथ ० ॥ (6). When marriages are contracted with people of foreign or distant countries, things and news from those countries can be easily obtained (and consequently the relations of the countries become more closely established). This is not possible, when people marry near relatives or persons living near their homes, or, in their own country.

This is the reason that a "daughter is called duditri" (from Du=distant, Hit=good,) because the marriage of a girl to a man who comes from a distant country or distant part of the same country is productive of good.

(7). If the bride's people do not live very far from her husband's home, there is the possibility of her parents becoming poor, as whenever she visits her parents, they will have to give her something or other by way of a present.

(8). If their people live near at hand, on any slight friction between the husband and the wife, she, feeling assured that her people will support her, will at once leave her husband and go to her parents. That may become the cause of mutual reviling and wrangling, for, women, as a rule, are so easily offended and pleased. For these and other such reasons it is not advisible to marry in the father's yolra, mother's six degrees (Pirhis) and the country near one's home

"In connecting himself with a wife, let a man studiously avoid the ten following families, be they ever so great in political power or rank, or ever so rich in cows, goats, horses, elephants, gold or grain."1

of men of character, that in which the study of the Manu iii, 7. Vedu is neglected, that which has thick and long hair on the body and that which is subject to such diseases as Piles, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Leprosy and Albinism; because all these faults and diseases are transmitted to the off spring. Therefore both husband and wife should come from good (physically, morally and intellectually) families.

दुहिता दुर्हिता दुरेहिता दोग्धेर्वा ॥ निरु० ३ । ४ ॥ महान्त्यपि समृद्धानि गोऽज्ञाविधनधान्यतः । स्त्रीसम्बन्धे दशैतानि कुलानि परिवर्जयेत् ॥ मृतु० ३ । ६ ॥ द्दीनिक्तयं निष्पुरुषं निश्छन्दो रोमशार्शसम् । ज्ञाय्यामयाव्यपस्मारिश्वितृकुष्ठिकुलानि च ॥ मृतु० ३ । ७ ॥

^{1.} Similarly, while choosing a husband, let a girl avoid a man from the aforesaid families.

- "Let a man never marry one who is pale and anæmic, nor one who is altogether a bigger and stronger person than Manu iii, 8. himself or has a redundant member, nor one who is an invalid, nor one either with no hair or too much hair, nor one immoderately talkative, nor one with red! eyes."
- "Nor one with the name of a star,2 of a tree,3 or of a river,4 or of a mountain,5 nor one bearing a name Manu denoting low origin,6 or servility,7 nor one named after MI, 9. a bird, a snake, nor one whose name inspires terror;" These names are despicable and belong to other things as well. 10
- "Let him chose, for his wife, a girl who has a graceful figure without any deformity, who has pretty name, Manu who walks gracefully like a swan or an elephant, who III, 10. has fine hair and lovely teeth, and whose body is exquisitely soft."
- O.—What is the best time for marriage and which is the best form?
- A.—The best time for a marriage, for a girl, is from the sixteenth to the twenty-fourth year of her life and for a man, from the twenty-fifth to the forty-eighth year. The marriage of a girl

नोद्वहेत्कपिलां कन्यां नाऽधिकाङ्गीं न रोगिणीम् ॥ । नाकोमिकां नातिस्रोमां न वाचाटान्न पिङ्गस्राम् ॥ मनु० ३ । ⊏ ॥

1. The word in the text is Bhurá or brown. But I think this is not right. Very likely there has been a slip of the pen here. The word in the verse which has been translated into Bhura (brown) is Pingala, which has been rendered into Pila or yellow in the Author's book called Sanskar Vidhi. Here, however, it seems that the word means red—Tr.

नक्षे वृक्ष नदीनाम्नीं नान्त्यपर्वतनामिकाम् । न पक्ष्यहिप्रेष्यनाम्नीं न च भीषणनामिकाम्॥ मनु ०३।९॥ अव्यङ्गागीं सौम्यनाम्नीं हंसवारणगामिनीम् । तनुलोमकेशदशनां मृद्रङ्गीमुद्रहोत्स्रियः ॥ मन् ० ३ । १० ॥

- 2. As Ashvini, Rohini, etc.
- 3. As Rose, etc.
- 4. Such as Ganges, etc. 5. Himalya.
- 6. Kali (Black), etc.
- 7. Chandali (an outcast), etc.
- 8. Mena Parrot etc.
- 9. As Nagi (snake), etc.
- 10. The idea of the sage Manu seems to be that the people should not give ugly names to their children .- Tr.

of sixteen with a man of twenty-five years is called Inferior marriage. Of a girl of eighteen or twenty with a man of thirty-five or forty is called medium marriage. Of a girl of twenty-four with a man of forty-eight is called superior marriage.

The best form of marriage is that by choice (Swayamvara), after the education of the contracting parties is finished and their Brahmachurya for the aforesaid periods completed. Happy is the country wherein the people devote themselves to the pursuit of knowledge, live chaste lives, and observe the aforesaid system of marriage. Down into the depths of misery sinks that country wherein the people do not practise Bruhmacharya, nor acquire knowledge, where marriage in early life is in vogue and that of the unsuitable, for marriage preceded by the practice of Brahmucharyu and perfection of knowledge is the basis of all true reform and the source of all true happiness; the reverse of it brings on the absolute ruin of the people who follow it.

O.—Says Paráshara, the Lawgiver:—

"A girl at the age of eight is called Gunree,1 at nine, Rohinee² at ten, kanya,3 thereafter she is called Páráshar Rajuswalá, 1 If she is not married before she becomes Simriti and Rajaswalá (i. e., till the tenth year), her father, n.other Shigrabodha and elder brother, all of them shall go to hell.

A.—Says the just now composed Brahma Purána. "In one second after birth, a girl is called Gauree, in two seconds she

अष्टवर्षा भवेद गौरी नववर्षा च रोहिणी। दशवर्षा भवेत्कन्या तत ऊर्ध्व रजस्वला॥१॥ माता चैव पिता तस्या ज्येष्ठो भ्राता तथैव च ॥ त्रयस्ते नरकं यान्ति दृष्टवा कन्यां रजस्वलाम् ॥ २ ॥ 🛒 एकक्षणा भवेद् गौरी द्विक्षणेयन्तु रेहिणी ॥ 🏅 त्रिक्षणा सा भवेत्कन्या द्यत ऊर्ध्व रजस्वला ॥ १ ॥ माता पिता तथा भ्राता मातुलो भगिनी स्वका ॥ सर्वे ते नरकं यान्ति दृष्टवा कन्यां रजस्वलाम् ॥ २ ॥

2. Rohinee means red, it is also the name of the wife of Vasudeva, Pauranic god.

^{1.} Gauri means tair and is also the name of the wife of Mahadeva one of the incarnations of the Deity mentioned in the Purana.

^{3.} Kanya, a maid.4. One that menstruates.

That has just been composed by us.

becomes Rohinee, in three, kanya, and thereafter Rajaswala. If she be not married till she becomes Rajaswala her father, mother, brother, sister and maternal uncle, one and all shall go to hell."

O.—The verses, you have quoted, are not authoritative.

A.—Why are not they authoritative? If Brahmás verses are not authoritative how could yours be?

O.—Well! well! Do you not hold even Parásharu and Kashi Nath as authorities?

A.—Do you not hold Brahmá an authority?

Is Brahmá not greater than Páráshara and Kashi Nath?

If you do not believe in Brahmá, we do not in your Paráshura and Kashi Nath.

O.—Your quotation cannot be held authoritative, because it teaches an impossibility. One thousand seconds are taken in child-birth alone, how could a girl, then, be married when she is only one, two or three seconds old; nor can any good result from a marriage at such an impossible age.

A.—If our verses convey an impossible meaning, so are yours; because a marriage even at the age of eight, nine, or ten years is useless, for it is only at the age of twenty-five years, that a man's body is properly developed and the reproductive element perfected, and it is at the age of sixteen, that a woman's body is strong enough and her reproductive organs sufficiently developed to bear good, healthy children. The reproduction of children in a girl of eight years is an impossibility. Besides naming girls, as, Gauree (fair) and Rohinee (Red), is simply absurd, because a girl named Gauree instead of being fair, may be dark. Again Gauree was the wife of Mahádeva and Rohinee, of Vasudeva, whom you

ऊनवाड विषायामगाप्तः पश्चविंशतिम् ॥ यद्याधत्ते पुमान् गर्भं क्वाक्षिस्थः स विषद्यते ॥१॥ बातो वा न चिरञ्जीवे ज्जीवेद्वा दुवंलेन्द्रियः । रद्याद्वयः न्त बालायां गर्भाधानं नकारयेत् ॥ सुश्रुत शारीरस्थाने । अ०१०। क्लो०४७, ४८॥

Sushruta
Sushruta
Sthana X.
47, 48.
Sexual intercourse with a girl of a very tender age."

The perusal of the principles (of Sexual Physiology) laid down in scientific books observation of the laws of nature and reasoning on this subject can not but lead one to the irresistible conclusion that a man and a woman, under twenty-five years, she very often miscarries, but if she do not miscarry and the child is born at tull time, he does not live long, but if he does live long, he is nothing but a weakling; never should therefore, a man have sexual Physiology) laid down in scientific books observation of the laws of nature and reasoning on this subject can not but lead one to the irresistible conclusion that a man and a woman, under twenty-five and sixteen years respectively, are not fit for discharging reproductives functions. All those who violate the above priinciples come to grief.

Pauranics regard as mothers, and yet you imagine your girls as Gauree and Rohinee, how could you then be justified in marrying them afterwards; how could it ever be in conformity with the dictates of true religion? It follows, therefore, that both your verses and ours are absolutely wrong and devoid of authority. Just as we composed a few verses and palmed them off as Brahma's, so have other people forged those verses, and in order to stamp them with authority, have passed them off as the writings of Paráshara and other sages. It is best, therefore, to reject all these so-called authorities and recognise the Vellu alone, as the proper authority in all matters, and act accordingly.

"Says Mann: "Let a maid wait for three years after she Manu has begun to menstruate and then let her choose for IX, 90. herself a husband, who is her equal." A girl menstruates once a month and, therefore, it is after she has menstruated thirty-six times in three years that she becomes marriageable, but not before.

Manu IX, 89. It is better that men and women should remain single till death rather than marry unsuitables; i.e., persons of opposite qualities, characteristics and temperaments should never marry each other."

All this goes to prove that it is not right or proper that marriages before the aforesaid period, or of unsuitables, should ever take place.

O.—Should marriage be under the control of parents or of the contracting parties themselves?

A.—It is best that it should be under the control of the contracting parties. Even if parents ever think of arranging a match, it should, under no circumstances, ever be done without the consent of their children, for when people choose their partners for life themselves, there is less likelihood of mutual disagreement and the children born of such a union are also of a superior, order. There is nothing but trouble in-store for those whose marriage is not of their own choice—they having been simply forced into it. The real factors in marriage are the bride and the bride groom, and not their parents. It is they who will be happy, if they agree well together and they alone will suffer if they disagree.

त्रीणि वर्षाण्युदक्षिते कुमार्यूतुमती सती।
ऊर्ध्व तु कालादेतस्माद्विदेत सदृशं पतिम् ॥ मनु०९।९०॥
काममामरणात्तिष्टेद् गृहे कन्यर्तुमत्यि।
न चैवेनां प्रयच्छतेतु गुणहीनाय किहंचित् ॥मनु०९।८९॥

"In whatsoever family, the husband is contented with his wife, and the wife with her husband, it is there and there alone that happiness, wealth and honour dwell permanently." And wheresoever the husband and the wife disagree and squabble, there is nothing but misery, poverty, and disgrace.

The Swaymvara marriage, i.e., marriage by choice—the most ancient form of marriage in India—is the best form of marriage. Before a man and a maid think of marrying, they should see that they suit each other in point of knowledge, disposition, character, beauty, age, strength, family, stature, and build of body and the like. Until they suit each other in all these things, no happiness can result from such a marriage Nor can marriage in early life ever lead to any beneficial result.

"That man alone, who, after having taken the vows of Brahmacharya at his initiation (Upnayana) into it Rig Veda and observed them strictly in student life, has perfected III, viii, 4 his knowledge, refined his character, and who is welldressed and enters married life in the full bloom of youth is as if born again (in knowledge and wisdom). He makes a name for himself and enjoys happiness. He is firm and courageous; his mind is centered on the increase of knowledge and attainment of wisdom. Men of learning and piety give him their helping hand He is thus honoured amongst them. Those who to elevate him marry without having previously practised Brahmacharya and acquired knowledge and culture, or who do so at an early life, are absolutely ruined, nor are they ever respected by the wise and the learned.

Let girls, who are virgins, resembling cows that have never been milked before, who have passed the period of childhood and are about to leave single lives, are well-educated and cultured, fit to bear all the responsibilities of married life, and are in the full bloom of youth, who, by the practice of Brahmetcharyet, have reached a state of excellence and wisdom, which only those of great learning and high virtues can attain, marry husbands of mature age and bear children by them." Never should they think of men even in their dreams in early life. This alone can give them happiness in this world and hereafter, Early marriage is even more harmful to a woman than to a man,

सन्तुष्टो भार्यया भत्ती भत्री भार्त्या तथैव च। यस्मिनेव कुले नित्यं कल्याणं तत्र वै ध्रुवम् ॥ मनु०३ ।६०॥

i. Vide page 79 where the list of families with whom no marriage connections should be formed is given.— Ir.

"Just as men, quick of perception and action, energetic, in full youth, strong in body and capable of discharging Rig Veda reproductive functions, marry maidens, who are young, 1, 179, I dear to their hearts, and enjoy life to a good old age (a hundred years or more), and are well-blessed with children and grand children, so should all men and women do Since seasons, mornings and evenings, days and nights, all tend to take away the beauty and strength of the body and bring on old age, I (whether a man or a woman), should practise Brahmacharya, acquire knowledge, perfect my character, gain in strength of body and souland attain full youth before I get married." All those, who violate these principles of marriage, do so against the teachings of the Vedas, hence they never can be happy.

As long as in this country (India), sages and seers, Emperors and kings and other people followed the aforesaid system of murriages of choice (Swamvar viváh) preceded by a life of Brahmachary i devoted to the acquisition of knowledge and culture and perfection of the body, it continually progressed and prospered. Since its inhabitants have neglected Brahmacharya and the pursuit of knowledge, and have, instead, taken to child-marriage—and that too under the control of the parents,—India has been steadily declining. It, therefore, behoves all good and sensible men to do away with this pernicious system, and introduce instead, marriage by choice in accordance with the division into Classes, (Varna Vyavasthá) which should be based on the qualifications, accomplishments and character of the individuals.

O.—He, whose parents are Bráhmans, is a Bráhman indeed. But can a person, whose parents are otherwise, ever become a Bráhman?

युवा सुवासाः पंरिवीत आगात्स उ श्रेयांन्भवीत जायमानः । तं धीरांसः कवय उन्नयन्ति स्वाध्यो ३ मनसा देवयन्तः ॥ १॥ऋ०॥मं० ३ स्व०८। मं०४॥

आधेनवोधनयन्तामशिक्षीः श्वर्दुघाः शशया अपदुग्धाः। नव्यानव्या।
युवतयो भवन्तीर्महहेदानामसुरत्वेमकंम्॥ २॥ ऋ०॥मं ०२।स्र० ५५।
मं० १६॥

पूर्वीरहं शरदं शश्रमाणा दोषावस्तोरुषसो जरयंन्तीः । मिनाति ।श्रियं जिरमा तन्नामप्य नु पत्नीर्वषणो जगम्युः ॥ ३ ॥ ऋ० मं० १ । स० १७९ । मं० १ ॥

- A.—Yes. Many, in the past, have become Brahmans, many in the present do, and many, in future, will. Here are some of the historical proofs. In the Chándayya Upnishad, we read that the sage Javál of an unknown Class became a Bráhman. In the Máhábharata, it is written that Vishavímitra a Kshatriyá by birth, became a Bráhman, so did the sage Málany an oul-cast by birth. Even at the present day, he who possesses the qualifications, character and knowledge of a Bráhman is respected as such, and the ignorant are treated as Shaulrás. So will it be in the future.
- O.—How can the body formed out of the reproductive elements—male and female—change in character, and assume a new form suitable for another Class?
- A.—A man does not become a Bráhman, because his body was the product of the reproductive elements derived from the bodies of Bráhman parents. Says Manu. "The study of the true sciences, the practice of Brahmacharya, the performance of Homa, the acceptance of truth and rejection of untruth, the dissemination of true knowledge, leading a virtuous life
- Manu, as enjoined by the Vedu, the performance of seasonal Homa, the reproduction of good children, faithful discharge of the Five Great Daily Dulies, and doing such other good works as are productive of beneficial results to the community, such as developing technical arts, association with the good and the learned, truthfulness in word, deed and thought, and devotion to public good and the like, all these things go to make a Bráhman."

Now do you not believe in this verse?

- O.—Yes, I do.
- A.—Well, then, why do you believe that the division into Classes is based on the accident of birth.
- O.—It is not I alone who think so. There are many others who believe with me, it being the most ancient usage from times immemorial. Do you oppose even the most ancient customs?
- A.—No! But on account of your perverted understanding we do.
- O.—How is it that our understanding you call perverted, whilst you think yours is rightly directed?
- A.—Simply because you call a usage, which is only six or seven generations old, as the most ancient custom, whilst we call that custom uncient which has been in vogue from the time of the revelation of the Veda or that of Creation of the world to the present day. Do you not see in this world that good parents sometime get wicked children, and good children have wicked parents, at other times both are good or bad. Why can not the Bráhman children then become Shudrus or vice versa? You people are involved in doubt and ignorance. See, what the great Manus says:—

स्वाध्यायेन जपेहोंमैस्नेविद्येनेज्यया सुतैः। महायज्ञैश्व यज्ञैश्व ब्राह्मीयं क्रियते तनुः॥ मनु० २। २८॥

- "Let children walk in the footsteps of their forefathers, but only if they be good, not otherwise; since by treading the path of good, pious men, no one ever comes to grief."
 - A.—Do you believe this or not?

O.—Yes, I do.

A.—Besides, whatever has been revealed in the Veda by God is ancient, but whatsoever is opposed to it can never be called ancient. Should all people believe like this or not?

O.—Certainly they should.

A.—He who refuses to believe in it should be asked. "If a person's father be poor and he grow rich, should he therefore through the pride of his father's poverty, throw away his wealth? If a man's father be blind, should his son also pluck his eyes out? If a man's father be of low character, should his son also commit wicked deeds." No, never. On the other hand, it behoves all men to imbibe their parents' virtues only, not their vices. He who believes that one's Class is determined by the accident of his birth, not by his own character, accomplishment and acquisitions, should be asked how it is that he does not recognise a man a Bráhman, even when he has left his Class and become an outcast, or, has turned a Christian or a Mohammadan. The only answer he can give is that he has left off the performance of the duties required of a Bráhman, and is, therefore, no longer a Bráhman. It proves, therefore, that only those, who faithfully discharge the high duties of a Bráhmun, can be called Bráhmans. Even if a low-born man were to possess qualifications, accomplishments and character of a superior Class, he should be recognised as such; and if a man, high-born though he be, were to act like a man of an inferior Class, he should be relegated to it.

येनास्य पितरो याता येनयाता पितामहाः । तेनयायात्सतां मार्ग तेन गच्छन्न रिष्यते ॥ मनु० ४ । १७८ ॥ ब्राह्मणोस्य ग्रुखंमासीद्बाह् राजन्यः कृतः ।

छारूतदंस्य यद्वैत्रयः पद्भया ५ ज्ञूदो अंजायत ॥ यजुर्वेद । ३१ अ० ११ म० ॥

- O.—The Yajur Veda says "Bráhmans were born out of His—Gods—mouth, Kshatriyás, out of His arms, Yajur Veda XXXI, II Vaishayás, out of His thighs, and Shudrás, out of His feet." Now just as the mouth can never a come an arm, nor can an arm become the mouth, so can never a Bráhman become a Kshatriya etc., nor, can the latter become the former.
- A.—Your translation of the aforesaid mantra is wrong. The word His has reference to the word Purusha, the Formless All-pervading Being, in the preceding mantra. Being Formless Were He to possess He could not have such organs as mouth. these organs, He could never be ()mnipresent, nor therefore Omnipotent, nor could He then create and sustain this universe and resolve it into elementary condition, nor dispense justice to the souls according to their deeds good or bad, nor could He be Omniscient, Unborn, Immortal and the like. The true meaning, therefore, of this mantra, is that in this universe created and sustained by the Omnipresent God, he who is the (mukhu) head, leader among men, is called a Bráhman, he in whom power and strength (Báhu) reside pre-eminently is a Kshatriya. He who travels about from place to place for the purposes of trade, etc., and obtains all things (for the community) on the strength of his this is (i.e., is the support of the community just as legs are that of the human body) is called a Vaishya and lastly a Shulra is like feet, the lowermost part of the body, because he is ignorant². Other authorities translate this mantra in the same way; as for instance, the Shatapatha Brahman says: "These (Brahmans) are said to be born out of the head as they are the heads_leaders." Just as the head is the highest organ in the body, so is that man the noblest and the best in body politic whose knowledge is perfect, and whose acquisitions, accomplishments and character are of the highest order amongst men. He is therefore called a Bráhman.

Besides it is as impossible for anything to be born out of the mouth of God (Since being without a body, He has no mouth nor any other organ) as the marriage of the son of a barren woman. Had Bráhmans been born out of the mouth of God it being their material cause, their bodies ought to have been round, like the mouth, in shape. Likewise the bodies of Kshatriyás, Vaishyás, and Shudrás ought to have been like arms, thighs and feet respectively in shape, but they are not so Besides, even supposing some were born in the manner you speak of, those who were born out of the mouth and other organs might have justly been entitled to be called

यस्मादेते ग्रुख्यास्तस्मान्मुखतो ह्यसुज्यन्त इत्यादि । श्रतपथवाह्मण

^{1. &}quot;Bahu, verily is strength, verily Bahu is power" Shatpata Brahman 2. And therefore fit for menial service only.—Tr.

Bráhmuns, etc., but not you who were born, like other men, out of your mothers' wombs. Why should you then pride yourselves on being Bráhmuns when you did not come out of the mouth of God? We have proved, therefore, that your translation of the aforesaid mantra is wrong, whilst ours is right.

The sage Man't holds the same view. Says he "As the son of a Shúdra may attain the rank of a Bráhman if he were to possess his qualifications, character and accom-Manu X, .65. plishments, and as the son of a Bráhman may become a Shúdra, if he sinks to his level in his character, Manu inclinations and manners, even so must it be with him X, 65. who springs from a Kshalriya; even so with him who is born of a Vaishyu. In other words, a person should be ranked, with the Class whose qualifications, accomplishments, and character he possesses. It is written in the Apastambla Sútras that "A low Class man may, by leading a virtuous life, rise to the Apasthambha level of a higher Class man and should be ranked as such. In the like manner a high Class man can by leading a sinful life, sink down to the level of a Class lower than his, and should be considered as such."

The same law applies to women in determining their Class.

By the application of this law, each Class, being comprised of individuals who possess all the qualifications that are necessary admission into it, is kept in a stage of unadulterated purity, that is to say, no Kshuhriya, Vaishya or Shúdra is allowed to enter into or remain in the Bráhman Class. Similarly, Kashtriya, Vaishya and Shúdra Classes also remain unadulterated. In short, there can be no admixture of Classes, hence no Class will be disgraced or become the subject of reproach in the public eye,

- O.—Supposing a family has only one child and that enters into a different Class, who will then look after the old folks? Besides, the family line will die out. How would you provide for such cases?
- A.—Neither will the old people be neglected, nor will the family line come to an end, because the State—the Political and श्रुद्रो ब्राह्मणतामेति व्राह्मणश्रेति श्रुद्रताम् ॥

१।द्रिटाट्याट्याद्रोहिट्टन्तु विद्याद्वैश्यातथैव च ॥ मनु० । १० । ६५ ॥
१ मेचर्य्यया जघन्यो वर्णः पूर्व पूर्व वर्णामापद्यते जातिपरिवृत्तौ ॥१॥
अधमेचर्या पूर्वो वर्णो जघन्यं जघन्यं वर्णमापद्यते जातिपरिवृतौ
आपस्तंव ॥ २ ॥

Educational Assemblies¹—will provide them with children of their own Class in exchange for their own children, hence, there will be no confusion or chaos in the society.

Classes of all persons, should be determined according to their qualifications, accomplishments and character in the twenty-fifth or the sixteenth year, according as they are males or females. They should also marry persons of their own Class, namely a Bráhman, a Bráhmni woman; Kshatriya, a Kshatriyá woman; a Vaishyá, a Vaishyá woman, and a Shúdra, a Shúdrá woman. It is then and then only that the people will faithfully discharge the duties of their respective Classes and secure, thereby, perfect harmony.

QUALIFICATIONS AND DUTIES OF THE FOUR CLASSES.

"Studying and teaching, performing, $Yajna^2$ and assisting Manu others in doing it, giving alms, and receiving gifts—these 1, 88. six are the duties of a Bráhman." But it should be borne in mind that "The receiving of gifts is a mean thing."

(1) "Restraining the mind from entertaining sinful thoughts;
Bhagvat Gitá (2) keeping the senses from the pursuit of unrighteousXVIII 42. ness and directing them, instead, in the path of rectitude;

(3) Living a pure, chaste life by the practice of Brah-

अध्यापनमध्ययनं यजनं याजनं तथा । दानं प्रतिग्रहश्चेन माक्षणानामकल्पयत् ॥ १ ॥ मनु० १ ।८८ ॥

शमो दमस्तपः शौचं • न्तिरार्जवमेव च।

ज्ञानं विज्ञानमास्तिक्यं ब्रह्मकर्म स्वभावजम ॥ २ ॥ भ ० गी ० अध्याय १८ श्लोक ४२ ॥

1. See Chapter VI of this book for the composition and powers of these assemblies.—Tr.

2. Yajna is the application of the knowledge of the physical, chemical and physiological& the like properties of material substances and of psychological ones of mental substances. It, therefore, generally requires the association of men and objects. "The word yajna which originally indicates any action requiring association of men and objects, productive of beneficial results is always translated by European Scholars, as sacrifice. The notion of sacrifice is a purely Christian notion and has no place in the Vedic philosophy. It is foreign to the genuine religion of India. Hence all translations in which the word sacrifice occurs are obe rejected as fallacious." "The Terminology of the Vedas and European Scholars."

3. Manu says: "Water washes off the impurities of the body Truth exalts the mind. Knowledge and strict devotion to duty elevate the soul.

Possession of ideas refines the intellect."

अद्भिर्गात्राणि ग्रुध्यन्ति मनः सत्येन ग्रुध्यति । विशिषपोभ्यां भूतात्मा बुद्धिर्ज्ञानेन ग्रुध्यति ॥ मनु० ५ । १०९ ॥

macharya; (4) attaining purity (of mind and body) 3; (5) Having firm faith in the power of truth and righteousness and being perfectly indifferent to the applause or censure of the world, pleasure or pain, heat or cold, hunger or thirst, profit or loss, honour or disgrace, and sorrow or joy, in the discharge of one's duties; (6) cultivating, tenderheartedness, humility, straightforwardness and simplicity of character; (7) acquiring profound knowledge of the Veda and other Sháslr's, attaining the ability to teach others, the power to discriminate between right and wrong, and the knowledge of all things (animate or inanimate) as they really are; (8) possessing perfect knowledge of all entities—from solids to God -a nd the proper application thereof; (9) Having perfect faith in the Veda, God, and salvation, belief in the past and future life of the soul, love of righteousness and knowledge and associating with the good and the learned, always cheerfully serving the father, mother, tutor, and the altruistic teachers of humanity and never maligning These fifteen characteristics and accomplishments must be found in a person, before he or she can be called a Brahman or a Bráhmani."

- (1). "To protect people by the administration of perfect justice without fear or favour, i.e; by showing due respect to the good and punishing the wicked. (2). To spend money in furthering the cause of truth and justice and in advancing knowledge and serving the deserving. (3). To perform Homa and other Yajnás. (4). To study the Vedu and oher Shástrás. (5). To shun the allurements of sensual gratification by perfect control of the senses and thereby constantly augment the powers of the body and the soul."
- (6). To be fearless in fighting with enemies though they be in thousands, and he be single handed. (7). To be bold, and dignified and free from all weakness. (8). To be firm of resolution and cool under difficulties. (9). To be clever in the discharge of public duties and in the pursuit of studies and never to run away from a field of battle, i. e., to fight in such a way as to ensure victory. (10). To be liberal-minded. (11). To be just in dealings with all and always keep his word."

These eleven are the duties and qualifications of a Kshalriya.

(1). To keep herds of cattle, breed, improve and multiply

प्रजानां रक्षणं दानीमज्याध्ययनमेव च । विषयेष्वप्रसक्तिरुच क्षत्रियस्य समासतः ॥ १ ॥ मनु० १ । ८९ ॥

I If the field could be won by running away or putting the enemy on a false (track or) through a strategem, he should do so.

Manu them. (2). To spend money, etc., in the advancement of knowledge and truth. (3. To perform Yajnas, such as, Homa. (4) To study the Veda and other Shastras. (5). To lend money on interest. (6). To cultivate land. These are the duties and qualifications of a Vaishya.

"It behoves a Shúdra to earn his living by faithfully serving Manu Bráhmanus, Kshalriyas and Vaishyas, without showing any disrespect, jealousy and conceit. This one thing alone is a Shidira's duty and qualification.

The duties and qualifications of all the four Classes have thus briefly been described. All individuals should be placed in different Classes according to their qualifications, accomplishments and character. By adopting this system all will advance in every respect, because the higher Classes will be in constant fear of their children being degraded to the Shúdra Class, if they are not properly educated. The same fear will also make the children acquire, knowledge and culture. Whilst the lower Classes will be stimulated to exert themselves for admission into Classes above them.

To recapitulate The education of the country and preaching of religion should be entrusted to Brálmans, because they, being men of profound learning and examplary character, can discharge those duties most satisfactorily. By entrusting the affairs of the State to Kshalriyas, a country never suffers through misrule or mismunanagement. Tending the cattle, etc., should be entrusted to Vaishyas, as they can do this work properly. A Shúdra is to do menial service, because being ignorant through lack of education, he is fitted for nothing higher, but can minister to the physical requirements of a community.

It is the duty of the ruler and other responsible persons to see that all the four Classes discharge their duties faithfully.

शौर्यं तेजो धृतिर्दाक्ष्यं युद्धे चाप्यपलायनम् ।
दानमिश्वरभावश्र क्षात्रं कर्म स्वभावजम् ॥ २ ॥
भ० गी० अध्याय १८ । क्लो ० ४३ ॥
पश्चनां रक्षणं दानीमज्याध्यनमेव च ।
विणक्पथं कुसीदं च वैक्यस्य कृषिमेव च ॥ मनु० १ । ९० ॥
एकमेव तु श्रूद्धस्य प्रश्चः कर्म समादिशत् ।
एतेषामेव वर्णीनां श्रुश्रुषामनस्रयया ॥ मनु० १ । ९१ ॥

^{1.} The rate of interest should range from 3 to 16 per cent per annum and should never exceed this. When the lebtor has paid back double of what was lent him, even the principal must be considere has paid off. The debtor should never pay at rates exceeding the above limit. Nor should any one lend money at a higher rate.

(CHARACTERISTICS OF MARRIAGE.)

"Marriage is of 8 kinds:—

Manu III, 21.

- 1 Bráhma.
- 2. Deva.
- 3. Arsha.
- 4. Prájápatya.
- 5. Asura.
- 6. Gándharva.
- 7. Rákshasa
- 8. Paishácha.
- 1. Bráhma.—The marriage, by mutual consent of two such persons as have, through the faithful practice of Brahmacharya, acquired perfect knowledge, righteousness, and culture, is called Bráhma.
- 2. Deva.—The giving away of a beautifully dressed daughter (by her father) to one, who officiates at a great Yajna, is called Deva.
- 3. Arsha is that kind of marriage, in which (the father gives away his daughter) after having received something from the bridegroom.
- 4. Prajapatya is the marriage, into which both parties enter with the sole object of furthering the cause of religion.
- 5. Asura is that marriage in which both the bride and the bridegroom have been bribed.
- 6. Gandharm is the reciprocal (sexual) congress of a youth and a maiden with a mutual desire proceeding from lust, in which (all social) laws have been utterly disregarded,
- 7. Rakshasa is the forcible or fraudulent abduction of a maiden from her home.
- 8. Puishacha is the forcible seduction of a girl, while she is sleeping, intoxicated or disordered in intellect.

Of all these 8 kinds of marriages, Bráhma is the best, Deva and Prajápatya are of middling quality, Arsha, Asura and Gándharva of inferior quality, Rákshasa is base, whilst Paishácha is the lowest and the most wicked.

ब्राह्मो दैवस्तथैवार्षः प्राजापत्यस्तथाऽसुरः । गान्भवी शक्तसश्चेव पैशाचश्चाष्टमोऽधमः॥ मनु० ३। २१॥ It should be borne in mind that the bride and the bridegroom should not before marriage be allowed to meet each other in retirement, since, such a meeting of young people may lead to bad consequences

When boys and girls become of a marriageable age,¹ in other words, when only 6 or 12 months are left in the completion of their Brahmacharya and education, let the photographs or pictures of boys be sent to the teachers of Girls' schools, and those of girls, to those of Boys' schools.

Let the teachers then send for the diaries2 of those who are alike in outward appearance, and study them carefully. When they find any two students (one male and the other female), resemble each other in disposition, temperament, character, and accomplishments, and consider them suited to each other for marriage, let them place the photo and the diary of one in the hands of the other, and ask them to inform them of their intention (i.e., whether they would care to marry each other or not). If they be quite willing to marry each other, let the Return home ceremony of both be performed simultaneously. They should be allowed to converse with each other or hold a discussion (on any subject to test each other's knowledge and ability) in the presence of their tutors, parents and other respectable people. Whatever questions or answers, on any private subject, one would like to put, or give to the other, should be done in writing before the assembly. As soon as they feel that their love for each other is strong enough to entitle them to marry and have, consequently, made up their minds to do so, the very best arrangements should be made with regard to their diet so that their bodies, that had weakened through the practice of rigid discipline and hard life of Brahmacharya, and strict devotion to studies, may soon gain in flesh and strength just as the new moon grows into the full moon. Afterwards, on the day, the bride has ceased to menstruate and taken her buth of purification, let a Vedi be made and a pavillion erected³ and Homu performed with clarified butter and odoriferous

I Minimum marriageable age for a girl is 16 years, while that for a boy 25 years.—Tr.

^{2.} These diaries are kept even since children are born, first by parents and then by tutors when they have left home and joined their schools. In these books are recorded whatever the parents and tutors have noticed in their children or pupils with regard to their dispositions, temperaments, general behavior, habits, character, physical ailments, as manifested in sport, everything in connection with the development of their bodies and gradual unfolding of their minds.—Tr.

^{3.} Should the bride and the bridegroom care to have their marriage celebrated in the presence of their tutors, let it be done there (i.e., in the seminary), otherwise the house of the bride's parents is the proper place for it.

substances, etc. Let the bride and the bridegroom invite learned men and women on this occasion and honour them properly. Let them then do all that is necessary for the occasion in accordance with the directions given in our book called the Sansakara Vidhi. on the day which has been previously decided upon for the purpose of generaling a new life and most cheerfully go through the ceremony of joining hands before all, and finish the whole marriage ceremony by 10 P. M. or 12 P. M. and then retire. Let the husband follow the proper method of discharging semen and the wife that of drawing it up. As far as possible, they should never waste their reproductive elements, perfected and preserved by the practice of Brahmacharya, because, the children born of the union of such reproductive elements (male and female) are of a very superior order. When during the act of sexual intercourse the semen is about to be discharged, let them be quite still, let the nose of one be quite opposite to that of the other, and the eyes of one to those of the other and so on, in other words, their bodies should be quite straight, and their minds perfectly happy. Their bodies should not bend one way or the other. Let the husband relax his body, and the wife, as soon as the semen enters her vagina, draw up her breath, pull together her genitals and draw up the semen, so that it finally rests in the uterus, 1 An enlightened woman will know at that very moment if she has conceived, however, non-appearance of menses at the end of the month will make it clear to all if conception has taken place. Let them both: then have a bath in clean water. Let them take as much milk as they desire.² and go to sleep in their respective beds. This plan should be followed whenever they wish to generate a new life. When after one month the menses do not appear, and they are consequently convinced that the conception has taken place, the husband should not approach his wife for one year, for, by following this advice, a child of a very superior order is born and the children that follow are also as good as the first-born; whilst on the other hand, by violating this law the reproductive element is uselessly lost, the lives of the husband and the wife are shortened and they are afflicted with diverse diseases. But they should, by no means, cease to treat each other most lovingly. Let the husband preserve his reproductive element, and the wife take care of her child in wero They should conduct themselves in the matter of diet and dress in such a manner that the husband may not lose his reproductive element even in sleep, while the body of the child

^{1.} This is a very delicate subject. It would not be proper to dwell on it any further. These few remarks should suffice to suggest all that may be necessary.

^{2.} It should be first boiled with dry ginger, saffron, cardamom and then cooled down before it is taken.

in utero is well nourished and grows in beauty, loveliness, strength and energy, and the child is born during the 10th (lunar) month (of pregnancy). The wife should particularly take care of herself from the 4th month but more particularly from the 8th. She should never use purgatives, dry, non-nutritious articles, intoxicants and other substances that are prejudicial to the growth of intellect and physical strength. On the other hand she should use such articles of food and drink as good rice, wheat, lentils and other pulses, clarified butter, and milk. She should also vary her diet intelligently according to the climate of the locality (she lives in) and the season of the year. There are two Sanskars to be performed during conception, viz., one in the 4th month called Punsavana² and the other in the 8th called Simuntonayana.3 These should be performed in a fitting manner. After confinement the mother and her child should be most carefully looked after. About 2 inches from the navel the cord should be tied with a stout but soft ligature, and then cut off in front of it. It should be tied in such a manner that not a drop of blood escapes from the child's body. The mother and the child should then be given a bath with luke warm and scented water. The room should be well cleansed and Homa performed with clarified butter, and odoriferous substances. The, father should, then, utter. "Thy name is Veda" in the right ear of the child, and dip a gold pencil in a mixture of honey and clarified butter, and write (the syllable) Om, on its tongue, and let it also lick a little of this mixture off the pencil, and then hand over the child to its mother. Let her suckle it if it be inclined to take the breast. If there be no milk in its mother's breasts, let it be suckled by some other woman who has been thoroughly examined (as to her general health, the quality and quantity of her milk, etc.). Let the child and its mother be then removed to another clean, capacious and well-ventilated room wherein they should be kept, and Homa performed with clarified butter an lodoriferous substances daily, morning and evening. Let the child be suckled for the first six-days by its mother who should be fed on a variety of light and nourishing foods. She should also have her private parts seen to. On the sixth day let the lying-inwoman leave her room and engage a wet-nurse for her child. The wet-nurse should be fed on good and wholesome foods and drinks.

^{1.} Shunthipaka and Saubhagya Shunthipaka should be kept ready before hand for use. (These preparations are considered as highly invigorating to the system. Such nutritious substances, as milk and butter, and condiments and medicines as ginger enter into their composition—Tr.

^{2, 3.} The object of these Sanskara is to influence the physical and mental development of the child in utero by publicly charging the enciente woman to carry out certain instructions relating to her physical and intellectual well being. Be it noted that this is the most impressionable period during pregnancy—Tr.

She should suckle the child as well as nurse it. The mother should keep a watchful eye over her child so that it is not neglected in any way. Let her also apply some plaster over her breasts in order to check the flow of milk. She should also diet herself properly. Let the parents of the child perform the Naming ceremony (on the 11th-day of its birth and other Sansakars in due course of time. When the wife menstruates again and takes her bath of purification, let them both (i. e., her husband as well as herself) follow the plan of generating a new life that has been mentioned above. The sage Manu says on the subject:—"He that is contented with his own wife and avoids conjugal embraces on the eight forbidden nights and is Ritugami, is a Brahmách ri, a married man though he be."

"Wherever the husband is quite contented with his wife, and the wife with her husband, in that family alone all prosperity, fortune and happiness perpetually dwell.

And wherever they disagree and squabble, there poverty, illfortune and misery are assuredly permanent."

"Certainly, if the wife do not love and please her husband, being unhappy he will not be sexually excited, and, consequently, no offspring will be produced. But even if children are born, they are very wicked and of a low type."

"If the husband does not please his wife, she being unhappy the whole family is unhappy and miserable; but if the wife be quite contented with her husband, the whole family enjoys felicity."

"Let women be always worshipped by their fathers and अस्कालाभिगामी स्यात्स्वदार निरतः सदा ।

पर्व वर्ज ब्रेज्जेनां तद्वतो रित काम्यया ॥ मनु० ३ । ४५ ॥

निन्धास्वष्टासु चान्यासु क्षियो रात्रिषु वर्जयन् ।

ब्रह्मचार्येव मवित यत्र तत्राश्रमे वसन् ॥ मनु० ३ । ६० ॥

सन्तुष्टो मायया मर्चा मार्जा मार्या तथैव च ।

यिस्मिन्ने व कुले नित्यं कल्याणं तत्र दे ध्रुवम् ॥ मनु० ३ । ६० ॥

यिद्दे हि स्त्री न रोचेत पुमांसन्न ममोदयेत् ।

ब्राममोदात्पुनः पुन्सः मजनं न मवर्च ते ॥ मनु० ३ । ६१ ॥

स्वियां तु रोचमानायां सर्व तद्रोचते कुलम् ।

तस्यां त्वरोचमानायां सर्व तद्रोचते कुलम् ।

1. ie, follows the plan of generating a new life as has been laid down-Ir.

brothers, by their husbands and the brothers of their husbands, in other words, they should speak sweetly to them and provide them with good food, nice clothes and ornaments, and thereby keep them happy. Those who seek great prosperity and happiness should never inflict pain on women."

"Where women are worshipped, in that family great men are born; but where they are not honoured, there all acts are fruitless. Where women pass their days in misery and sorrow because of the misdeeds (such as adultery) of their husbands, that family soon wholly perishes, but where they are happy because of the good conduct of their husbands, the family continually prospers."

"Let women, therefore, be always worshipped by being given presents of clothes and ornaments and supplied with good food at festivals, jubilees and the like occasions, and thereby made happy by those men who are desirous of wealth and prosperity." In these quotations the word worshipped, of course, means duly honoured. Let the husband and the wife whenever they separate from or meet each other for the first time during the day or the night, bid each other Namaste (which means I respect you.)

"Let a woman attend to her household duties most cheerfully and with great dexterity, keep her utensils and apparel clean, her house tidy, her furniture free from dust, all eatables pure, clean, and free from dirt. Let her never be lavish in expenditure. Let her cooking be done so nicely that the food may act on the system like a good medicine and keep away disease (bodily and mental). Let her keep a proper account

पितृमिर्श्वातृमिश्रौताः पितिमिर्देवरैह्तथा ।
पूज्या भूषितव्याश्च बहुकल्याणमीप्सुमिः ॥ १ ॥
यत्र नार्यस्तु पूज्यन्ते समन्ते तत्र देवताः ।
यत्रैतास्तु न पूज्यन्ते सर्वास्तत्राऽफळाः क्रियाः ॥ २ ॥
शोचन्ति जामयो यत्र विनश्यत्याशु तत्कुळम् ।
न शोचन्ति तु यत्रैता वर्ष्कृते तिक्के सर्वदा ॥ ३ ॥ मतु ० ४ । ५५—५७ ॥
तस्मादेताः सदा पूज्या भूषणाच्छादनाशनैः ।
भूतिकामैर्नित्यं सत्कारेषूत्सवेषु च ॥ ४ ॥ मतु ० ३ । श्ळो० ५६ ॥
सदा प्रदृष्ट्या माव्यं गृहकार्येषु दक्तया ।
सुसंस्कृतोपस्कार्या व्यये नामुक्तहस्तया ॥ मतु ० ५ । १५० ॥

of-her (income and) expenditure, and show it to her husband (if necessary), use her servants properly and see that nothing goes wrong in the house."

"Let a man accept (the hand of) a good woman, precious stones of different kinds, knowledge, truth, purity, gentle speech and various technical arts from all men and from all countries."

Let a man say what is true; but let him say what is pleasing, i.e., good for others. Let him not speak a disagreeable truth (e.g., let him never cill a one-eyed Manu IV, 139 man, one-eyed) Nor let him speak an agreeable This the Eternal Dhurmu (Irue conduct of life). Let falsehood. him speak kindly, i.e., what is good for others, but let him not maintain fruitless enmity and altercation with any one." Let him say what is good for another, even Manu IV, 139 though it may offend him. In the Mahabharat the sage Vidur says: "In this world, () Dhritráshlra, there are plenty of people who would say sweet things to please and Mahabharat flatter others; but rare is the man who would say or Udyoga parhear a truth which is unpleasant to his ears but really va Vidur conducive to his good." It behoves all good men to · Niti point out one's faults and shortcomings to one's face and hear their own (from him), but the way with the wicked is that they talk of one's merits to one's face, whilst they speak of his demerits behind his back. So long as a man does not reveal his defects to another. he cannot get rid of them, nor can he acquire good qualities. Let a man never speak ill of another. Detracting from one's merits or speaking of one's demerits as his merits constitutes Nindá or

िरित्रयो रत्ना न्यथ्रो विद्या सत्यं शौचं सुमाषितम् ।

विविधानि च शिल्पानि समादेयानि सर्धतः ॥ मनु ० २। २४० ॥

सत्यं ब्रूयात पियं ब्रूयात्र ब्रूयात् सत्यमप्रियम् ॥

पियं च नानृतंब्रूयादष धर्मः सनातनः ॥

भद्रं मद्रामिति ब्रूयाद्रद्रिमित्येव वा वदेत् ।

शुष्कदैरं विवादं च न कर्षात्केनिचत्सह ॥ मनु ० ४ ॥ १३८ । १३६ पुरुषा बहवो राजन सत्तनं प्रियवादिनः ।

अप्रियस्य तु पथ्यस्य वक्ता श्रोता च दुर्छ मः ॥उद्योगपर्व विदुरनीति ० ॥

misrepresentation; whilst speaking of a man's merits as his merits and of his demerits as demerits constitutes Stuti (truthful speech). In other words, truthfulness in speech constitutes Stuti, whilst untruthfulness in speech constitutes Nindá.

"Let the husband and the wife daily read and recite the Neda and other Shástrus that soon give increase of IV, 19, 20 wisdom, teach the means of acquiring wealth, and promote their welfare. Let them also carefully revise what they had studied during their student life and teach the same. Since as far as a man throughly understands the Shástrus, so far can his knowledge and wisdom advance, and so far may his love for them grow."

"Let him constantly perform the Five ore it Daily Duties, Manu viz., Brahmayajna Devayajna, Valir ishwadev yajna, 1V, 21. Pitriyajna and Atithi yajna, to the best of his power.

Out of these five Yajánus we have already described the first two in the preceding chapter. To recapitulate:

- 1. Brahmá Yajnu. It comprises studying and teaching of the Vedu and other Shástrus, morning and evening devotions and the practice of Yogu.
- 2. Devayajna. It comprises the feeding of fire with clarified butter and odoriferous substances, association with the learned and the good, cultivation of purity, truthfulness and similar other good qualities, and the advance nent of knowledge. These two Yajnas should be performed daily (during the twilights).

It is said in the Albrana Veda. "The Homa substances Atharva (such as clarified butter, musk, camphor, saffron) used Veda XiX. in the morning Homa keeps the air pure and wholesome till the next morning Whilst those burnt in the morning Homa keep the air pure till the evening and thereby promote health, strength and intellect."

बुद्धि दृद्धिकराग्याशु धन्यानि च हितानि च ।
नित्यं शास्त्राग्यवेच्चे त निगमांश्चैन वैदिकान् ॥
यथा यथा हि पुरुषः शास्त्रं समधिगच्छति ।
तथा तथा विज्ञानाति विज्ञानं चास्य रोचते ॥ मनु ० ४ ॥ ॥ १६ । २० ॥
त्रृष्वियक्षं देवयक्षं भूतयक्षं च सर्वदा ।
तथकं पितृयक्षं च यथाशक्ति न हापयेत् ॥ मनु ० ४ । २१ ॥

"A Dwija, should, therefore, perform his Sandhya unasana Shadvinsha (devotions) and Agniholra (Homa), daily at Sunrise and Sunset."

"He who neglects these two duties daily in the morning and in the evening, should be excluded from the society of Dwijas, in other words, he should be treated as a Shudre."

O.—Why should not Sandhyá¹ be performed three times a day?

A.—Day and night do not meet three times a day. Light and darkness meet but twice in 24 hours, i. e., in the morning and in the evening. Should a man refuse to believe this and persist in holding that the Sandhyá should also be performed third time at mid-day, he should be asked to perform his Sandhyá at mid-night. Should he be willing to do so, let him also do it at the union of a prahara with a prahara, of an hour with an hour, of a minute with a minute, of a second with a second. This he would find impossible to do.

अध्यापनंत्रह्म यद्गः पितृयद्गश्च तर्षणम् ।

होमो दैवो बिलमो तो नृयद्गोऽतिथिपूजनम् ॥ मनु ० ३ । ७० ॥

स्वाध्यायेनार्चयेद्द्वीन् होमैदेवान् यथाविधि ।

पितृ नृश्चाद्वश्चनृनन्तेमू तानि बिलकर्मणा ॥ मनु ० ३ । ८१ ॥

सायंसायं गृहपतिनों अग्निः प्रातः प्रातः सौमनसस्य दाता ॥ १ ॥

पातः पातग्र हपतिनों अग्निः सायंसायं सौमनसस्य दाता ॥ २ ॥अ ० ।

कां ० १६ । अनु ० ७ मं ० ३ । ४ ॥

तहमादहोराजस्य संयोगे ब्राह्मणः सन्ध्यामुपासीत ।

उद्यन्तमहतं यान्तमादिःयमिष्ध्यायन् ॥ ३ ॥ वड्विश्वब्राह्मगो । म ० ४ ।

स्वं ० ४ ॥

न तिष्ठति तु यः पूर्वा नोपाहते यस्तु पश्चिमाम् ।

स शूद्रवद्वदिष्कार्यः सर्वस्माद् द्विजकर्मणः ॥ ४ ॥

मन् ० २ । १०३ ॥

I. L'terally means the meeting of day and night but also the morning and evening devotions which are performed during the hours of the morning and evening twilights.— *Tr.

2. A Prahara is equal to 3 hours.—Tr.

Besides, not a single authority of any Shastra is to be found in support of this practice. Hence, it is right to perform Sandhya and Homa only twice a day, not three times. Time is no doubt divided into three periods—the past, the present, and the future,—but Sandhy's has nothing to do with this (division.)

3. Pitriyajna consists in serving the learned men, great teachers, scholars, one's father, mother, old people, great, men, and the highest youis.

This Yajna is divided into 2 parts:—

Shrádha is derived from shrat—truth. That by which truth is accepted is called Shr dhá; whilst that. which is done with Shrutha, i.e., with the object of embracing truth, is called Shradha.

ii. Tarpaia is anything done to please one's father mother and other elders (who are alive), and make them happy.1

Tarpana is again sub-divided into three parts:—
.... A.—Devi tarp in a. "We serve Brahmá and the like Devás." We serve Brahmi's wife and the like Devis. We serve Britmi's sons, disciples and the like. We serve Br. Ihmá's companions and assistants."

The Shutha atha Brahmana says: "Verily, the dearned are Devás.

- ¹ A.—Brihmá is one who has mastered the four Ved s, as well as their subsidiary sciences. Even those who are a little less learned than a Brahmi are called Divás. The wives, of a Br thmá and other Devás, who are also · learned like their husbands, are called Devis,
- Turpur. This consists in serving and $\mathbf{B} - Rishi$ honouring tearned men like Marichi—the great grandson of Brahmá—who teach boys, learned women, like the wives of Marichi and other great teachers,

ओं ब्रह्मादयो देवास्तुप्यन्ताम् ब्रह्मादिदेवपस्न्यस्तुप्यन्ताम्। ब्रह्मादिदेवसुतास्तृत्यन्ताम् । ब्रह्मादिदेवगणास्तृष्यन्ताम् । इति देवत-र्पणम् ॥

1. It should be borne in mind that this yajna is meant for the living and net for the dead. (The author condemns the practice of offering obligations to the manes, which is in vogue at present throughout India -Tr.)

2. Since Brahma was the first man to master all the four Vedas, this word has come to mean the master of the four Vedas. It is a title like Vyasa-literally diameter—hence one whose intellect has penetrated the subtle meaning of the Vedas .- Tr.

विद्वाः सोहिदेवाः । शतपथ०। who teach girls, their learned sons, daughters and pupils, companions and assistants (who are also teachers).

C— Pitri Turpan t consists in thoroughly satisfying Pitars by offering them most faithfully good food, clothes, beautiful conveyances etc., in other words, it consists in lovingly serving them and doing everything in one's power to keep their bodies healthy and their souls happy.

The following are the different kinds of 'Pitars:—

- 1. Somasad i is one who is well-versed in spiritual and physical sciences.
- 2. An Agnishwala is one who is well-versed in the science of Agni, i.e., heat, light, electricity and the like (forces).
- 3. A Barhishad is one who is engaged in advancing knowledge and doing other useful works.
- 4. A Somapá is one who is the guardian of health and strength, who uses essences of powerful herbs, etc., and thus frees himself as well as others from disease. In other words he is a doctor.
- 5. A Havirbhuja is a learned man who lives on foods and drinks other than meat and spirituous liquors.
- 6. An Ajyapá, is one who protects highly useful objects and eats and drinks butter, milk, and the like articles

ओं मरीच्यादय ऋषयहतृष्यन्ताम् । मरीच्यायृषिपत्न्यहतृष्यन्ताम् । मरीच्यायृषिद्धताहतृष्यन्ताम् । मरीच्यायृषिगणाहतृष्यन्ताम् । इतिऋषितर्यणम् ॥ ओं सोमसदः पितरहतृष्यन्ताम् । ऋग्निष्वात्ताः पितरहतृष्यन्ताम् ।

बर्हिषदः पितरहत्व्वन्ताम् । सोमपाः पितरहत्व्यन्ताम् । इविभ्रिजः पितरहत्व्यन्ताम् । आज्यपाः पितरहत्व्यन्ताम् । सुकालिनः पितरहत्व्यन्ताम् ।
यमादिभ्यो नमः यमादीहत्व्यामि । पित्रे हवधा नमः पितरं त्व्यामि ।
पितामहाय हवधा नमः पितामहं त्व्यामि । प्रपितामहाय हवधा नमः
प्रपितामहं त्व्यामि । मात्रे हवधा नमो मातरं त्व्यामि । पितामहौ हवधा नमः
नमः पितामही त्व्यामि ।

- 7. A Sukulina is one who employs his time in furthering the cause of truth and righteousness.
- 8. A Yama, (a judge)—is one who administers justice and thereby protects the good and punishes the wicked.
- 9 A Pita (father)—is one who provides food for his children, honours and protects them. He is also the author of their being.
- 10. Pitámahá-Grandfather.
- 11. Prapitá maha—Great-grandfather.
- 12. A Mátá (mother)—is one who honours her children by giving them food and doing other useful things for them.
- 13. Pitamaha—the mother of one's father.
- 14. Prapitá mali-the grandmother of one's father.
- Wife.
- 16. Sister and other relations.
- 17. People of the same stock or bearing the same surname, and other old men and women.
- 4. Vaishwadeva Yajna, consists of three parts:
 - A.—When the meal is ready, let a man take all kinds of cooked food other than sour, salt and alkaline such as contain sugar, butter and milk, fetch fire out of the hearth, and throws álnutis of the food into it reciting the munitrás beginning with Om Agraye Swáhá¹ all the while. The sage Manu holds the same view. Says he.

प्रितामहाँ स्वधा नमः प्रितामहीं तर्पयामि । स्वपत्न्यै स्वधा नमः स्वपत्नीं तर्पयामि । सम्बन्धिभ्यः स्वधानमः सम्बन्धिनस्तर्पयामि । सगोत्रेभ्यः स्वधा नमः सगोत्रांस्तर्पयामि । इति पितृतर्पणम् ॥

वैश्वदेवस्य सिद्धस्य ग्रहेअनौ विधिपूर्वकम् ॥

आभ्यः कुर्र्याद्देवताभ्यो ब्राह्मणो होममन्वहम् ॥ मनु ० ३ । ८४ ॥ ओं अग्नयेस्वाहा । सोमाय स्वाहा । अग्नीवोमाभ्यां स्वाहा । विश्वे. भ्यो देवेभ्यः स्वाहा । धन्वतरये स्वाहा । कुन्दे स्वाहा । अनु. मत्ये स्वाहा । प्रजापनये स्वाहा । सह द्यावापृथिवीभ्यां स्वाहा । स्वष्टकृते स्वाहा ॥

- Manu, "Let a Divija do Homa in the (kitchen) fire with whatever has been cooked in the kitchen for the purpose of purifying its air in the following manner."
- B.—Let him place some food on a (ordinary) plate or on a leaf-plate with each of the specific minitals in all directions of the compass beginning with the east. Let this food be offered to an atithi, and in his absence thrown into the fire
- C.—Then let him place salt food, such as pulses, rice, vegetables and bread in 6 parts (on a plate) on the ground reciting the specific 6 mantrás³ at the time. Here is an authority from Manu for this act.
- "Let htm gently place on the ground some food for dogs, Mhnu. fallen wretches, outcasts, those afflicted with terrible diseases (such as lepers), (birds as) crows, (insects) as ants."

Let him then give this food to one who is hungry, distressed, diseased, or to dogs, crows and other such creatures.

The object of doing Homa is to purify the kitchen air, whilst that of offering food is to atone for the unintentional injury done to various living creatures.

5. Atithi Yajna. An Atithi is one whose date of coming is not certain or fixed. Whenever a Sanyási, who is virtuous and a preacher of truth, itinerates for the good of all, is a perfect scholar, a Yoyi of the highest order, happens to visit a house-holder; let him offer him water to wash his feet and face, and to sip, and then offer a comfortable seat respectfully, give him good food and drink and other good things (such as clothes), and thus serve him most diligently and make him quite comfortable. Then let him benefit himself by his good company by learning such things in Physical

ओं सानुगायेन्द्राय नमः । सानुगाय यमाय नमः । सनुगाय वरुणाय नमः । सानुगाय सोमाय नमः । मरुद् भ्यो नमः । श्रद्भयो नमः ।
वनस्पतिभ्यो नमः। श्रियै नमः । मद्रकाल्यै नमः । श्रद्धपतये नमः ।
वास्तुपतये नमः । विश्वेभ्यो देवेभ्यो नमः । दिवाचरेभ्यो भूतेभ्यो
नमः । नक्तञ्चारिभ्यो भूतेभ्यो नमः । सर्वात्मभूतये नमः ॥
शुनां च पतितानां च श्र्यचां पापरोगिणाम् ।
वायसानां कृमीणां च श्रनकैर्निवेपेद्सुवि ॥ मनु ० ३ ॥ ६ २ ॥ and Spiritual Sciences, as would help him in acquiring virtue, wealth (worldly possessions), in gratifying legitimate desires, and obtaining salvation. Let him conduct himself in accordance with his good advice. On suitable occasions, even a house-holder and a king can also be honoured as Alithis, but "Let him never honour even by a greeting those that revile the Vedas or conduct themselves against their teachings, those that lead anti-Vedic lives, tell lies practise frauds and live like cals. [Just as cats hide them. Manu selves and keep staring at rats and then in a moment IV, 30. pounce upon them, kill them and fill their, stomachs; likewise are such men as gain their selfish ends by lying, cheating and acting in other ways like cats. They are, therefore, called cat-like] those that are obstinate, stubborn and vain, do not know anything themselves nor would they follow the advice of another (i. e., those who follow the dog-in-the manger policy), those that are sophists and talk nonsense like the Vedántists of the present day who declare that they are Brahma, the world is a delusion, the Vedas and Shástrus and even God are fictitious and spin similar other yarns, those that live like herons [Just as a heron stands quietly on one leg as if in deep meditation but really keeps a watchful eye on some fish all the time to whose life it soon (keeps) puts an end, and thereby accomplishes its selfish end, so do the Vairáyees and Khákis of to-day who are very stubborn, obstinate and enemies of the Veda, such men are, therefore, called heron like.)" Such men if honoured, multiply, increase sin and unrighteousness in the world, they not only themselves do such works as bring about their degradation but also sink their followers to the lowest depths of ignorance and misery.

> The uses of these 5 Great Daily Duties (Yajnás) are:— Brahmayajna, is the cause of advancement in knowledge, culture, righteousness and refinement of manners, etc.,

Agniholra causes the purification of air, rain, and water, and thereby conduces to the happiness of the world. The use of pure air for respiration, pure water, and pure food promotes health, strength, energy and intellect, which in their turn help men to acquire virtue, wealth, gratify (righteous) desires, and attain salvation. Since Agniholra purifies air, water, etc., it is also called Devayajna.

Pitri yajnu.—1. The service of father, mother, other learned persons and great souls, leads to the increase ग्रह्मोह्न्द्रो विकर्मस्थान् वैडालग्रुत्तिकान् श्रठान् । हेतुकान् वकन्नतीश्र वाङ्गात्रेणापि नार्चयेतः ॥ मन् ० ४ । ३० ॥ ी of knowledge and wisdom which help a man to discriminate between Right and Wrong. The acceptance of what is right and the rejection of what is wrong makes him happy.

2. It is also right to serve our father, mother and tutor, in return for the services they rendered us while we were young. The faithful performance of this Yajna saves us from the charge of ingratitude.

Valivashwadeva Yajna. Its uses are the same as have been mentioned before. [Briefly speaking, they are as follows:—

- 1. Purification of the kitchen air.
- 2. The discharge of our obligations towards the sick, the needy, the fallen and towards those faithful and useful animals and birds, etc., which are dependent on us for sustenance.
- 3. It is also a kind of atonement for the pain and suffering we unknowingly inflict on the lower creation in the daily routine of our lives.—Tr.]

Atithi Yajna--

- (a). As long as there are no a'illus of the highest order in this world, true progress cannot be made.
- (b) As they go about in all countries (of the world), teaching and preaching truth, no hypocritical and fraudulent practices can flourish.
- The house-holders can also easily attain true spiritual knowledge in all places.
 - (d). One religion prevails among all men.
 - (r). Without alithis, doubts cannot be dispelled, and without the removal of doubts, there can be no

ब्राह्मे मुहूर्ते बुध्येत धर्माथौ चानुचिन्तयेत्।
कायक्लेशाँश्च तन्मूलान् वेदतत्वार्थमेव च ॥ मनु ० ४। ९२॥
नाधमेश्चिरतो लोके सद्यः फलित गौरिव।
शनैरावर्त्तमानस्तु कर्त्तुमृलानि कृन्तिति॥ मनु ० ४। १७२॥
अधर्मेणैधते तावत्ततो भद्राणि पश्यिति।
ततः सपत्नाञ्जयित समूलस्तु विनश्यित ॥ मनु ० ४। १७४ firm faith. How can then there be any happiness without firm faith?

"Let a man wake up early in the morning (about 4 A. M.), Manu having relieved the necessities of nature (and taken a IV. 92 bath) let him think upon the means of acquiring virtue and wealth, and upon the causation of his bodily diseases (if any)

and contemplate God."

He should never lead an unrighteous life. "Unrighteousness Manu practised in this world does not go unpunished, nor does IV, 172 it immediately produce its fruit (like a cow). This is the reason why the ignorant do not fear sin, but it must be borne in mind that the practice of unrighteousness advancing slowly cuts off the very root of your happiness."

"The worker of iniquity crosses the bounds of righteousness just as water in a tank breaks as under its banks and runs in all directions, so does he, through the practice of untruthfulness, deceit, and fraud, in other words through transgressing the commandments of the Vedas that are the true guardians (of human happiness), and through hypocricy, take possession of other people's wealth and property, and prospers for a while, next with this wealth he obtains nice foods and drinks, good clothes, jewellery, houses and carriages, and wins social position and fame, even conquers his enemies through foul means, but at last he soon perishes like a tree whose root has been cut off."

"Let a learned man always honestly instruct his pupils in the ways of truthfulness and righteousness, as taught by the Veda (viz., freedom from prejudice and partiality, the practice of truth and justice, and the rejection of untruth) and in nobility of character and purity."

"Let him never quarrel or wrangle with one who officiates at a Yajnu, with a teacher of truth and unrighteousness, with a maternal uncle, an alithi and a dependent, with children, aged and sickmen, with a doctor of medi-

सत्यधर्मार्थवृत्तेषु शौचे चैवारमेत्सादा।
शिष्यांश्र शिष्याद्धमेण वाग्वाहृदरसंयतः ॥ मनु ० ८ । १७५ ॥
ऋत्विक् पुरोहिताचार्य्यमीतुलातिाथेसंश्रितैः ।
बालवृद्धातुरैर्वेद्यैज्ञीतिसम्बन्धिवान्धवैः ॥
मातापितृभ्यां यामीभिश्रीत्रा पुत्रेण भार्यया ।
दुहित्रा दासवर्गेण विवादं न समाचरेत्
मनु ० ४ । १७९ । १८० ॥

cine, with people springing from the same paternal stock or belonging to the same Class as he, connections by marriage (such as a father-in-law) and friends, with his father and mother, with a sister and a brother, with his wife, and his daughter, and with his servants."

Manu practice of Bruhmuchuryu, truthfulness, one who does IV, 175. not study (the Veda), one who is eager to accept gifts, these three sink into the greatest depths of misery and pain on account of their wicked deeds, just as he who attempts to cross an ocean in a boat made of stone sinks down." They no doubt sink but they also carry the donors down with them, for, "Wealth Manu although earned by righteous means, given to the IV, 193. aforesaid three, ruins the donor in this very life, and the recipient in the next."

"As, he, who attempts to cross water in a boat of stone, sinks to the bottom, even so an ignorant donor and an ignorant donee sink low, in other words, are afflicted with misery and pain."

CHARACTERISTICS OF IMPOSTERS.

Imposters should neither be trusted, nor served. They are of the following 8 types:—

- 1. Dhurmadivaii, (Literally one who displays the flag of virtue), is one who does not practise any virtue, but defrauds others in the name of virtue.
 - 2. Sadúlubáh i --- a covetous wretch.
 - 3. Chhádmika—a deceitful person.
- 4. Lokad ambhaka—is one who brags of his greatness before others.

अतपास्त्वनधीयानः प्रतिग्रहरुचिद्धिजः।
अम्भस्यश्मप्रवेनेव सह तेनैव मज्जिति ॥ मनु ० ४ । १९० ॥
त्रिष्वप्येतेषु दतं हि विधिनाप्यर्जितं धनम्।
दातुर्भवत्यनथीय परत्रादातुरेव च ॥ मनु ० ४ । १९३
यथा प्रवेनीपलेन निमज्जत्युदके तरन्।
तथा निमज्जितोऽधस्तादश्चीदातृप्रतीच्छकौ ॥ मनु ० ४ । १९४
धर्मध्वजी सदालुब्धश्छादिमको ले।कदम्भकः।
वैद्यालब्रीतको श्चेयो हिस्नः सर्वाभिसन्धकः॥ मनु ० ४ । १९५

- 5. Hinsra—is one who does injury to living creatures, or bears malice to others.
- 6. Sarvábhisandhaka—is one who mixes with all kinds of men—good or bad; such a person should be considered a rogue and a mean fellow like a cat.
- 7. Adhodrishti—is one who always looks down (whilst walking) in order to be considered a very virtuous person.
- Naishkrilika is one who is of a cruel, vindictive nature, when the even ready to take one's life, if one has happened to do him a slight injury, in order to revenge himself.
- 9. Swartha Sadhantatpara is one who is solely intent on attaining his selfish end, even through fraud, injustice, and hypocrisy.
- 10. Shatha is one who persists in his obstinacy even though he knows he is in the wrong.
- 11. Mithia Viniti is one who is falsely demure and puts on a saintly appearance (to deceive others). He should be considered a low wretch like a heron.

It, therefore, behoves all men and women "to accommulate virtue by degrees for obtaining happiness in the next world, 10, 238-240. World by giving pain to no living creature, just as the white ant gradually raises its hill." For, "in the next world, neither father, nor mother, nor wife, nor sons, nor relations can be friend any one. Virtue alone helps him there." "Single is each soul born; single it dies; single it enjoys the reward of its virtue—happiness; single it suffers the consequence of its sin—pain."

It should be born: in mind. "A man commits a sin and Mahabharat thereby obtains something which he brings home, where Prajagar all his family members enjoy it, but they do not suffer Parva. the consequences of his sin, it is he alone, who committed the sin, that reaps the consequences thereof."

"When a man dies, his relations leave his corpse like (a log or)

अधादि हैं प्कृतिकः स्वार्थसाधनतत्परः।

शठो मिथ्याविनीतश्च वकन्नतचरो द्विजः॥

मनु ० ४। १९६॥

धर्म शनैः सञ्चिनुयाद्वल्मीकिमव पुतिकाः।

परलोकसहायार्थं सर्वभृतान्यपीडयन्॥

Manu IV, 241 a lump of clay on the ground, and retire with averted faces. No one accompanies him. It is (his) virtue alone that bears him company."

"Let a man, therefore, continually practise virtue for the sake of securing happiness in the next world, since it is through the help of virtue alone that the soul can cross the ocean of misery and sorrow so hard to cross. A man who regards virtue alone as the highest thing (in the world), and whose sins have been destroyed through the practice of righteousness, attains to that All glorious Being whose body is Akásh,—the most Beautiful Supreme Spirit—by virtue of Dharma alone."

"He who is persevering, gentle in disposition, subjugates passions, shuns the company of cruel and wicked men, injures no sentient creature, lives a virtuous life, keeps his mind under thorough control bestows on others the gift of knowledge, etc.' attains happiness."

Manu

But it should also be borne in mind that "All things have

नामुत्र हि सहायार्थ पिता माता च तिष्ठतः ।
न पुत्रदारं न ज्ञातिर्धमैंस्तिष्ठतिकेवलः ॥
एकः प्रजायते जन्तुरेक एव प्रलीयते ।
एकोऽनु ग्रुङक्ते सुकृतमेक एव च दुष्कृतम् ॥
मनु ०४॥ २३८—२४०॥
एकः पापानि कुरुते फलं ग्रुङ्क्ते महाजनः ।
भोक्तारो विष्रमुच्यन्ते कर्ता दोषेण लिप्यते ॥
महाभारते । उद्योगप ० प्रजागरप०॥ अ ० ३२॥
मृतं शरीरमुत्सुज्य काष्ठलोष्ठसमं क्षितौ ।
विम्रुखा बान्धवा यान्ति धर्मस्तमनुगच्छति ॥ ५॥ मनु० ४। २४१॥
तस्माद्धमं सहायार्थं नित्यं सञ्चिनुयाच्छनैः ।
धर्मेण हि सहायेन तमस्तरित दुस्तरम् ॥ १॥ मनु० ४। २४२॥

1. The word which I have translated into virtue, is Dharma. I have already noted that this word is most difficult to translate. No single word in the English language can express its manifold meaning. Sometimes, I have translated it into virtue, sometimes into justice, at other times into truth, etc. Briefly, it is the practice of truth, justice an I righteousness, devotion to duty, freedom from hatred, malice and anger, etc., and love towards all living creatures. Its ten characteristics will be described in the next Chapter.— Tr.

their nature ascertained by speech; in speech they have their basis and from speech they proceed; consequently he that falsifies his speech, is guilty of theft and the like sins."

"Let a man, therefore, always avoid sins, such as untruthfulness in speech, and practise virtue, since through Manu IV, virtuous conduct, in other words, the practice of 156, 157. Brahmacharya and subjugation of passions, etc, he obtains long life, through virtuous conduct good offspring, through virtuous conduct imperishable wealth, virtuous conduct destroys all vices. For a man of bad character sinks to contempt in the eyes of all good men, is afflicted with misery, suffers from diverse diseases, and is shortlived."

"Whatever act depends on another, that let him studiously avoid, but whatever depends upon himself, that let him diligently pursue."

Because "Dependence is pain, whilst independence is happiness. Let him know this to be the brief definition of IV, 160 happiness and pain."

But whatever is (in its very nature), dependent upon both should be done with each other's approval, just as the relation between the husband and his wife is such that they cannot be independent of each other, in other words, they should treat each other most lovingly and live harmoniously. They should never quarrel with one another, nor commit adultery. The wise, subject to her husband's control, should be supreme in the house, whilst all affairs other than those relating to the household should be under the control of the husband. They should prevent each other from

धर्मप्रधानं पुरुषं तपसा हतिकल्विषम् ।
परलोकं नयत्याशु भास्वन्तं खश्चरीरिण्रम् ॥ मनु० ४॥ २४३॥
दृद्कारी मृदुर्दान्तः क्रुराचारैरसंवसन् ।
आहिस्रो दमदानाभ्यां जयेत्स्वर्गं तथात्रतः ॥
वाच्यर्था नियताः सर्वे वाङ्मूला वाग्विनिः सृताः ।
तान्तु यः स्तेनयेद्वाचं स सर्वस्तेयकृत्ररः ॥
आचारास्त्रभते ह्यायुराचारादीप्सिताः प्रजाः ।
आचाराद्धनमक्षय्यमाचारो हन्त्यलक्षणम् ॥
मनु० ४॥ २४६। २५६। १५६॥

contracting vices, in other words, it should be borne in minc. that after marriage, the husband and the wife entirely belong to each other, that is, their hearts, their feelings and their bodies from top to toe, (reproductive-elements and all included), become subject, to each other's control. Let them never to anything against each other's wish. Of all things likely to upset their happy relations, the worst are adultery and fornication, etc. Let them avoid these. Let the husband always remain contented with his wife, and the wife with her husband. If they belong to the Brahmun Class let the husband teach boys, and his wife, if she be well-educated, teach girls. Let them make them learned by preaching and lecturing to them on various subjects. The husband is the adorable god for the wife, and the wife is the adorable goddess for the husband. As long as boys and girls remain in their respective seminaries, let them look upon their teachers as their parents, whilst the teachers should consider their pupils as their children.

Qualifications of Teachers (male and female):-

"He alone is a wise man, who is never idle nor lazy, nor Mahabharat affected by pleasure or pain, profit or loss, honour or Vidurprájágar XXXII. a firm faith in Dharma, and cannot be tempted by sensual objects." To practise virtue and avoid sin, abstain from speaking ill of God, of the Veda, and of righteous living, have

दुराचारो हि पुरुषो लोकेभवति निन्दितः।
दुःखभागी च सततं वयधितोऽल्पायुरेव च ॥ मनु ० ४ । १५७ ॥
यद्यत्परवद्यं कर्म तत्तद्यत्नेन वर्जयेत्।
यद्यदात्मवद्यं तु स्यात्तत्तत्सेवेत यत्नतः ॥
सर्वपरवद्यं दुःखं सर्वमात्मवद्यं सुखम्।
एतद्विद्यात्समासेन लक्षणं सुखदुःखयोः॥
मनु० ४ ॥ १५९ । १६० ॥
आत्मज्ञानं समारम्भास्तितिक्षा धर्मनित्यता।
यमर्था नापकर्षन्ति स वै पण्डित उच्यते॥
निषेवते प्रवस्तानि निन्दितानि न सेवते।
अन।स्तिः अद्धान एतत्पण्डितलक्षणम्॥
क्षिपं विजानाति चिरं शृणोति, विज्ञाय चार्थं भजते न कामात्।

नासम्पृष्टोह्यप््ङुक्ते परार्धे, तत्प्रज्ञानं प्रथमं पण्डितस्य ॥

unbounded faith in God, verily these are the duties of a wise man. The first qualification of a wise man is that he should be able to grasp the most abstruse subject in a very short time, should devote years of his life to the study of the Shástrus and thinking over them, apply his knowledge for the good of others, never do anything for this selfish gain, should not give his opinion unasked or interrupt another in his speech:—

He alone is a wise scholar who does not desire for the unattainable, nor broods over his losses, nor losses his head in misfortune.

He alone is a wise scholar who is well versed in all kinds of knowledge, is a very clever debator, can speak on any subject, is a good logician, has a good memory, can easily give a true exposition of the meanings of the Sháslrás

Verily he alone is entitled to be called a wise man whose intellectual upbuilding is in comformity with truth (that he has learnt), who hears the Sháskrus read that are in harmony with reason, who never steps beyond the bounds of good, righteous men.

Wherever such teachers (male and female) exist, knowledge, righteousness, and good conduct advance and thereby happiness continually increases.

Characteristics of undesirable teachers and fools:—

"He, who has neither read a Shástru, nor heard it read, is Mahábharat
Vidurprajagar XXXIII.

"He, who has neither read a Shástru, nor heard it read, is extremely vain, builds castles in the air though poor, wishes to obtain things without any exertion on his part, is called a fool by the wise.

नामप्यमिनान्छन्ति नष्टं नेच्छन्ति शोचितुम् ।
आत्पसु च न मुह्यन्ति नराः पण्डितबुद्धयः ।।
पृष्टत्तवाक् चित्रकथ ऊहवान् पृतिभानवान् ।
आशु ग्रन्थस्य वक्ता च यः स पण्डित उच्यते ।।
श्रुतं मज्ञानुग यस्य मज्ञा चैव श्रतानुगा ।
असंभिन्नार्यमर्थादः पण्डिताख्यांलभेत सः ॥
अश्रतश्च समुत्नद्धो दरिद्रश्च महामनाः ।
अर्थाश्च कर्मणा पेप्सुर्मृद इत्युच्यते बुधैः ॥
अनाहृतः प्विशति ह्यपृष्टो बहु भाषते ।
अविश्वस्ते विश्वसिति मृदचेता नराधमः ।।
पहाभारत । उद्योगपर्व विदुरप्जागर । अ ० ३२ ॥

He, who enters an assembly or another man's house uninvited, and occupies a seat above his rank, jabbers a great deal without being asked (to speak), is very credulous—i.e., trusts the untrustworthy or believes what ought not to be believed, is verily a fool and the lowest of the low."

Wherever such men occupy the positions of teachers, preachers and preceptors, and are honoured, their ignorance, unrighteousness, bad manners, discord, strife and disunion grow and thereby misery and sorrow increase.

VICES OF STUDENTS.

"Physical and mental inertia, use of intoxicants, infatuation, idle gossip, neglect of studies, vanity, and want of Brahmachárya, these seven vices are to be found among students." Such students can never acquire knowledge

"How can a pleasure-hunter acquire knowledge? And how can a student enjoy sensual pleasures (and yet acquire learning)? Let a pleasure-hunter bid farewell to knowledge, and let a seeker after knowledge bid farewell to sensual pleasures "; since without doing this, no man can ever acquire knowledge.

QUALIFICATIONS OF GOOD STUDENTS.

"They alone who practise virtue, subjugate their passions Mahábhárat and never lose their reproductive element, are true Vidurniti.

Brahmacháris and become learned men."

It follows, therefore, that the teachers and students should possess excellent qualities. The teachers should so endeavour as to produce in their scholars such good qualities as truthfulness in word, deed and thought, culture, self-control, gentleness of disposition, perfect development of mind and body, so that they

आल स्यं मदमोहो च चापल गोष्टिरेव च ।
स्तब्धता चाभिमानित्वं तथा प्रत्यागित्वमेव च ।
एते वै सप्त दोषाः स्युः सदा विद्यार्थिनां मताः ॥
सुखार्थिनः कृतो विद्या कृतो विद्यार्थिनः सुखम् ।
सुखार्थी वा त्यजेद्विद्यां विद्यार्थी वा त्यजेतसुखम् ॥ विदुरप्जागर ।

अ ० ३९॥

सत्ये रतानां सततं दान्तानामूर्ध्वरेतसाम् । बृक्कवर्यं दहेद्राजन् सर्वेपापान्युपासितम् ॥ महाभारते ॥ may become well-versed in the Vedas and Shástras. The teachers should always be diligent in eradicating the evil habits of their scholars and in imparting knowledge. The scholars should always cultivate self-control, mental tranquility, love for their tutors, thoughtfulness and habits of diligence. They should so exert themselves as to acquire perfect knowledge, perfect dharma, perfect development of body (to enable them to live to the fullest age allotted to man), and learn to labour. Such are the duties of Bráhmanas.

The duties of Kshatriyás will be described in the chapter on Government.

The duties of Vaishyás are:—to learn the languages of various countries, the methods of different trades, the (current) prices or rates (of different articles), the art of buying and selling, to travel in different countries (for the purposes of trade, etc.,) engage in profitable business, rear cattle and other animals, improve agriculture, augment wealth and spend it for the advancement of knowledge and dharma, to be truthful in speech and free from hypocrisy, conduct business with honesty, and look after, all things in such a way that nothing is wasted or lost.

The duties of a Shúdra are to be clever in all kinds of manual¹ service, expert in cooking, to serve the twice-born with love, and make his livelihood by it. The twice-born should provide him with board, and lodging, clothes, and pay all the expenses of his marriage, etc., or pay him a monthly salary. All the four Classes should work harmoniously and be of one mind in doing public good, and promoting righteousness, and share each others' joys and sorrows, pleasure and pain and further the good of their country and of their people with all their heart with all their soul, and with all the material resources at their command.

The husband and the wife should never live apart from each other, since. "The use of animal food and intoxicants such as spirituous liquors, association with the wicked, separation from the husband, wandering about uselessly by herself from place to place with the object of visiting so-called saintly persons (who are all really imposters), sleeping and dwelling in another man's house (through wantonness) are the six vices that are apt to contaminate a woman's character." These very vices contaminate a man's character as well.

पानं दुर्जनसंसर्ग पत्या च विरहोऽटनम् । स्वमोन्यगेहवासश्च नारीसन्दुपणानि षट् ॥ मनु ०९ । १३ ॥

^{1.} This is what is erroneously called mental service—Tr.

Separation between the husband and the wife is of two kinds: firstly, that caused by one of the parties going abroad on business; and, secondly, that caused by the death of one of them. Separation of the first kind can be avoided if the husband takes his wife along with him whenever he goes abroad. The object of this injunction is that the husband and the wife should not live apart from each other for long.

- O.—Should a man or a woman marry more that once?
- A.—Not when the other party is alive.
- O.—Can one party re-marry when the other is dead?
- Manu IX, 176. Says the sage Munu on this subject. "A man or a woman, who has simply gone through the ceremony of joining hunds," but whose marriage has not been consummated, is entitled to re marry."

But re-marriage is absolutely prohibited in the case of a twice born man or woman (i. e., one belonging to a Bráhman, Kshatriya or Vaishya Class) who has had sexual intercourse with his or her consort.

O.—What are the evils of re-marriage 2 (in the case of such persons)?

1.—(The following are the principal evils):—

- (1). Diminution of love between the husband and the wife, since either of them can desert the other whenever he or she so desires, and marry another person.³
- (2). On the death of one party, the other will take away the property of his or her deceased consort when he or she marries again. This will give rise to family disputes.
- (3). If a widow re-marries, many a noble family will be blotted out of existence, and its property destroyed (by constant alienation).
- (4). Re-marriage involves loss of true conjugal love and infraction of duty towards the departed husband or wife.

For these reasons, re-marriage, polygamy and polyandry are prohibited in the case of the twice born.

सा चेदश्वतयोनिः स्याद्गतपत्यागतापि वा । पौनर्भवेन भत्री सा पुनः संस्कारमर्हति ॥ सनु ०९ । १७६ ॥

- 1. Joining hands is the chief element in the Vedic oeremony of marriage.-- Ir.
 - 2. Re-marriage includes Polygamy and Polyand., .- Tr.
 - 3 This argument seems to apply to marriage after divorce.—Tr.

- O.—If one of the parties die leaving no male issue, even then the family line will become extinct. Besides, if re-marriage be not allowed, the widows and widowers will resort to adultery and fornication, procure abortion, and will commit wicked deeds of a kindred nature. For these reasons re-marriage is desirable.
- A.—No. If the widows and widowers desire to practise Brahmucharya, no such evil consequences will accrue. Again, if the widow or the widower adopt a boy of her and his Class, the family line will be continued and there will be no danger of adultery being resorted to. Those, however, who cannot control their passions, may beget children by having recourse to Niyoya.
 - O. What are the differences between re-murriage and Niyoga?
 - A.—(1). After marriage the bride leaves her paternal roof, lives with her husband and her relations with her father's family cease to be very close; on the contrary, the widow (in case she contracts Niyoga) continues to live in her deceased husband's house.
 - (2). The children begotten of marriage inherit the proff perty of their mother's husband, whereas, ospring begotten of Niyoga on a widow are not regarded as children of the begetter and consequently they don't take his surname, nor can they be claimed by him. They are spoken of as the children of their mother's deceased husband, take his surname, inherit his property and live in his house.
 - (3). Married people are required to serve and help each other, while those that contract Niyoya have to abandon all relation (after the stipulated period).

(4). The relation of marriage is life-long, while the contract of Niyoya ceases to be operative after the desired object has been attained.

- (5). The husband and the wife help each other in the performance of their household duties, while those that have contracted Niyoga discharge the duties of their respective households.
- O.—Do the same laws apply to Niyoga and marriage, or are they different in each case?
- A.—They are a little different. A few differences have already been enumerated, and here are some more:—

- (a). A married couple can produce children up to the limit of ten, while that connected by Niyoga can not produce more than two or four.
- (b). Just as marriage is allowed only in the case of a bachelor and a maid, likewise only a widow and a widower can enter into the relation of Niyoya, but never a bachelor and a maid.
- A married couple always lives together, but not that (c), connected by Niyoya. Such persons should come together only when they intend to generate a new life. Whether Niyoya is contracted for the benefit of the widow or of the widower, the relation is dissolved after the second conception. Let the widow rear the children for two or three years and hand them to her husband by Niyogu, in case it has been entered into for his behoof. In this way a widow can give birth to two children for herself and two for each of the four husbands by Similarly a widower can beget two children for himself and two for each of the four wives by Niyoga. Thus ten children in all can be produced by means of Niyoga—this is what the Veda declares:

Rig Veda X, 85, 45. With whom thou hast contracted Niyoya, good children, and make them happy. Do thou beget on thy married wife ten children, and consider her the eleventh (member of thy family). O woman! Let ten children be raised on thee by thy married husband or thy husbands by Niyoga and do thou consider thy husband as the eleventh (member of thy family)."

This Vedic injunction requires that among Brahmanus, Kshatriyas and Vaishyas a couple should in no case produce more than ten children, otherwise the offspring are sure to be weak, both physically and intellectually, and short-lived. Even such parents grow feeble, do not live long, are afflicted with disease and consequently endure untold sufferings.

O.—But Niyoya looks like adultery

हमां त्विमिन्द्र मीह्वः सुपुत्रां सुभगां कृणु । दश्चास्यां पुत्रानाधेहि पतिमेकाद्यं कृधि ॥ ऋ०॥ मं० १०। सु ०८५। मं। ४८॥

- A.—Just as sexual connection between persons that are not married is called adultery, so is sexual congress between widows and widowers not connected by Niyoya is an adulterous relation. From this it follows that just as marriage solemnized according to the law is not fornication, even so Niyoya contracted according to the law cannot be termed fornication. If one's virgin daughter co habits with a bachelor after the marriage ceremony, enjoined by the Shastras has been duly performed, this act is not regarded as adulterous or sinful, nor does it inspire shame, for the same reasons, Niyoya performed according to the Vedic injunction should not be regarded sinful, nor should it inspire a feeling of shame.
 - O.—This is alright but it looks like prostitution.
- A.—No. A prostitute sticks to no particular man, nor is she governed in her sexual relations by any specific laws, while Niyoya like marriage is governed by definite laws. Just as one does not feel any shame in giving away his daughter in marriage to another person, in like manner there ought to be no shame in contracting Niyoga. People who are given to illicit intercourse do not give up this wicked habit even after marriage.
 - O.—To us it seems that Niyoga is a sinful practice.
- A.—If you think that Niyogu is sinful, why don't you regard marriage also as sinful? The sin rather consists in preventing people from contracting Niyo, m, for according to the Divine laws of Nature, natural appetites can not be controlled unless one be selfabnegating, profoundly learned, and a joji of the highest order. Don't vou consider it a sin to procure abortion, destroy the fætus and inflict great mental suffering on widows and widowers (by preventing them from contracting Niyoga). For, so long as they are young, desire for children and sexual enjoyment will drive people to the necessity of forming secret liaisons, if the laws of State or Society disallow lawful gratification. The only proper way of preventing adultery and illicit intimacies is to let those, who can control their passions, do without Niyoya or even marriage, but those who do not possess so much self restraint must marry, and in case of emergency contract Niyoga, so that the chances of illicit intercourse may be greatly minimised, love between the husband and the wife enhanced, and consequently good children born, the human race improved, and the practice of fæticide put a stop to. Marriage and Niyoga will do away with such wicked practices as illicit intimacy between a low Class man and a High class woman, or between a High class man and a low Class woman (such as a public woman).

contamination of noble families, extinction of the family line, mental auguish of bachelors and maids, of widows and widowers, fæticide and the like crimes. For these reasons, contraction of Niyoga is desirable.

- ?.—What conditions should be observed in the performance of the Niyoga ceremony?
- A.—1. Niyoya is solemnized publicly even as marriage is.

 2. Just as in marriage, the consent of the bride and the bridegroom and approval of good men are essential, even so it is in Niyoya, in other words, when a man and a woman have agreed to contract Niyoya, they should declare before an assembly of their male and female relations that they enter into the relation of Niyoya for begetting children, they will have sexual congress for generating a new life once a month, in case conception takes place they will not co-habit for one year. If they should go against that declaration they should be considered as sinners and should be liable to punishment by the State and the Society.
- O.—Should the relation of Niyoya be entered into with a member of one's own Class or with that of a different Class as well?
- A.—A woman should contract Niyoya with a member of one's own Class or with that of a higher Class, that is, a Vaishya woman with a Bráhman, a Kshalriya or a Vaishya; a Kshalriya woman with a Kshalri a or a Bráhman; a Bráhmani woman with a Bráhman. The object of this is that the spermatic fluid should always be of a man of the same Class as the woman or of a higher Class, never of a lower one. The object (of God) in creating man and woman is that they should produce children in accordance with the dictates of true religion as enjoined by the Veda.
- O.—Why should a man contract Niyoya when he can marry again?
- A.—We have already said that according to the injunctions of the Vedu and the Shastrus among the twice-born a man or a woman may marry only once, never a second time. Justice demands that a bachelor should be married to a virgin. It is unjust and herefore wrong for a widower to marry a virgin, and for a widow to marry a bachelor. Just as a bachelor does not like to marry a widow, so no virgin would like to marry a widower. If no virgin will marry a widower, and no bachelor will marry a widow, men and women will feel the necessity of contracting Niyoya. Moreover, dharma consists in mating likes alone.
- O.—Are there any Vedic and Shástric authorities in favour of Niyoga, as there are in support of the marriage institution?

A.—There are many authorities in support of this doctrine. Here are some of them:—

Rig Veda X, 40, 2. Rig Veda Produces children for him, and a wife co-habits with her husband by marriage and produces children for him, likewise (it may be asked) where both of you were during the day and during the night, and where you got your things (necessaries of life, etc.), who re you lived, where you slept, who you are, and what your native place is." This indicates that man and wife should always live together whether at home or abroad, and that a widow may also take unto herself a husband by Niyoya and obtain children, even as a virgin takes unto herself, a husband by marriage, who raises issue upon her.*

Rig Veda husband and choose another from among living men. But thou must understand and remember that if thou contractest Niyogu for the benefit of thy second husband with whom thou art united by performing the ceremony of joining hunds, the child resulting from this union shall belong to him; but if thou enterest into the relation of Niyoga for thy benefit, the child shall be thine. Do thou bear this in mind. Let thy husband by Niyoga also follow this law."

"Do thou O woman that givest no pain to thy husband or devar (husband by Niyoya), art kind to animals Veda in this Order of house-holders, walk assiduously in the path of righteousness and justice, art well-versed

कुंहस्विद्दोषा कुह वस्तोरंश्विना कुहाभिष्यित्वं करतः कुहोषतुः । कोवां श्रयुत्रा विधवेष देवरं मर्थं न योषां कुणुते सुधस्य आ ॥ ऋ॥ मं ० १० ।

स्०४०। मं०२॥

उदीर्ष्व नार्यभिजीवलाकं गतासुमेतसुप शेष एहि । हस्तग्राभस्य दिधिषो स्तवेदं पत्युर्जनित्वमाभ सं वभूथ ॥ ऋ ० ॥ मं ० १० स्व ० १८ ॥ मं ० ८॥

* O—Supposing the deceased husband of a widow had no younger brother, with whom should she contract Niyoga?

A.-. With her devar, but the word devar does not mean what you think. For the Nimkta says "The second husband by Niyoga of a widow, be he the younger brother of her deceased husband or his elder brother, or of a man Class or of a higher Class, is called Devar.

देतरः कस्माद् द्वितीयो वर उच्यते ॥ निरु ० ॥ अ ० ३ । खंड १५ ॥ in all the Shastrds, hast children and grand children, givest birth to valiant and brave boys, desirest a second husband (by Niyoya), and bestowest happiness on all, accept a man of thy choice as thy husband or devar (husband by Niyoya), and always perform the Homa which is the duty of every house holder."

The sage Manu also sanctions the marriage of virgin widows.

Manu. Says he "A virgin widow may marry the younger or IX, 69. the elder brother of her deceased husband."

- O.—How many times can a man or a woman enter into the relation of Niyoya? What are the husbands, by marriage or by Niyoya, of a woman, called?
- A.—"O woman! Thy first husband with whom thou art united by marriage is named Soma, called so because he was a chaste bachelor before marriage). Thy second husband with whom thou art connected by Niyoy: is named Gandharra, called so because he had already lived with another woman (to whom he had been united by marriage). Thy third husband, (by Niyoya) is named Agni (fire), called so because he is so very passionate. All thy other husbands from the fourth to the eleventh are called men."

A man may also contract Niyoga with eleven women (one after the other), just as a woman may enter into the relation of Niyoga with eleven men (one after the other), as sanctioned by the Veda in the following text:—

Rig Veda X, 85, 45. by Niyoya." "take unto thyself the eleventh husband

O.—Why should not the word eleven be taken to refer to ten sons and the husband as the eleventh (memb r of the family.)

प्रतिहास्य प्रिक्षे हिषि शिवा पशुभ्यः सुयमाः सुवर्ताः ।
प्रजावती वीरस्रेंद्रवृकामा स्योनेममिन्न गाईपत्यं सपर्य ॥
अथर्व ०॥ कां ०१४। अनु ०२। मं ०१८॥
तामनेन विधानेन निजो विन्देत देवरः ॥ मनु ०९। ६९॥
सोमः प्रथमो विविदे गन्धर्वो विविद उत्तरः ।
तृतीयो अग्निष्टे पति तुरीयस्ते मनुष्यजाः ॥ ऋ ०। मं ०१०।
स् ०८५। मं ४०॥
हमात्विमन्द्र...... —पतिमेकाद्शं कृषि ॥ ऋ ०॥ मं ०१०।
स् ०८५। मं ४५॥

A.—Such an interpretation will not even sanction a second husband and will therefore go against such Shastric injunctions as have been quoted above. (We reproduce some of them here).

"Just as a widow takes unto herself a devar, etc" "The second husband by Niyoja of a widow, etc." "Do thou O woman that givest no pain to devar (husband by Niyoja)," etc. "Thy second husband is named Gandharva."

The sage Manu also declares—

"On failure of issue (by her deceased husband), a widow may contract Niyoya with a widower (if both of them be desirous of getting children), who may be her deceased husband's younger or elder brother or his cousin within the sixth degree or a man of her Class or of a higher Class."

An elder brother, who approaches the wife of the younger. and a younger brother, who approaches the wife of Manu the elder, when the necessity of getting children has IX, 58. ceased to operate, even though united by Niyoga, shall be degraded (from their Class) In other words, Niyoya lasts only so long as two or four children are not born according as it has been contracted for the benefit of one of the parties, or of both. They should not approach each other after this. In this way ten children may be produced by successive Niyogus. Sexual congress after this is regarded as proceeding from lust. Hence, those who resort to it are degraded (from their Cluss). Even if married people co-habit with each other after they have produced ten children, they are considered lustful and held in great contempt, because marriage and Niyogu are entered into for the object of getting children but not for the gratification of passions like animals.

- O.—Can a woman contract Niyoya only after the death of her husbaud or even when he is alive?
- A.—This relation can be entered into even in the lifetime of the husband (or of the wife). Here is a Vedic text in support of this view.

देवराद्वा सिपण्डाद्वा स्त्रिया सम्यङ् नियुक्तया ।
प्रजेप्सिताधिगन्तव्या सन्तानस्य परिक्षये ॥ १ ॥
ज्येष्ठो यवीयसो भार्त्या यवीयान्वाग्रजस्त्रियम् ।
पतितौ भवतो गत्वा नियुक्तावण्यनापदि ॥ २ ॥
औरसः क्षेत्रजश्चैव ॥ ३ ॥ मनु० ९ ॥ ५८ । ५९ । १५९ ॥

"When a man is incapable of producing children, let Rig Veda him address his wife as follows:—O Thou that X, 10, 10 art desirous of getting children do not expect me to raise offspring upon thee. Do thou, therefore, seek another husband." The woman seeking to contract Niyoga, should, however, continue to serve her husband, by marriage; similarly when a woman on account of some chronic disease rendered incapable of bearing children let her address the following words to her husband "My Lord! Do not expect me to bear any children. Do thou, therefore, contract Niyoga with a widow." Here are some historical proofs as well in support of this doctrine:—

Kunti and Mádri, wives of king Pándu had recourse to Niyoga. Vyas, on the death of his brothers, Chidrángad and Vichitravirya contracted Niyoga with their wives and begot Dhritráshtra on Ambiká, Pándu on Ambáliká and Vidur on a Shudrá woman. The sage Manu declares:—

"If a husband has gone abroad in furtherance of some righteous cause, let his wife wait for eight years; if for the acquistion of knowledge and glory, for six years; if for the pursuit of material ends, for three years. If after the expiry of the prescribed periods he does not turn up, she may contract Niyoya and obtain children." Should the husband (by marriage) return, the contract of Niyoya shall become null and void. Similarly it is enjoined in case of the husband that "if the wife be sterile, let the husband wait for eight years after marriage; if all of her children die, for ten years, if she bears only daughters and no sons, for eleven years, if she be termagant, let him forsake her immediately, and enter into Niyoya with another lady and beget children upon her." Likewise if the husband be very cruel, let his wife forsake him, and bear children by Niyoya who will succeed to the property of her husband by marriage.

All these authorities and arguments go to prove that it is the duty of each man to preserve and perpetuate his family line and

अन्यिमच्छ स्व सुभगे पितं मत् ॥ ऋ० मं० १० । स्व० १० मं० १० ॥
शोषितो धर्मकार्यार्थं प्रतीक्षयोऽष्टो नरः समाः ।
विद्यार्थं षड् यशोर्थं-चा कामार्थं त्रींस्तु वत्सरान् ॥
बन्ध्याष्टमेऽधिवेद्याब्दे दशमे तु मृत्प्रजा ।
एकादशे स्त्रीजननी सद्यस्त्विप्रयवादिनी ॥ मनु ०९ ॥ ७ ६ । ८१ ॥ thereby improve the race by means of Swayamvar Vivah—marriage by choice—and Niyoya.

"Just as an Aurasa—a son born of marriage—is entitled to inherit the property of his father, so is a Kshes trajna—a son born of Niyogu"

Men and women should always bear in mind that the (male or female) reproductive element is invaluable. Whoever wastes this invaluable fluid in illicit intercourse with other people's wives, prostitutes, or lewd men, is the greatest fool, because even a farmer or a gardner, ignorant though he be, does not sow the seed in a field or a garden that is not his own but belongs to another man. When it is true in the case of an ordinary seed and of an ignorant peasant, why should not he that wastes the human seed—the best of all seeds—in an undesirable soil, be regarded as the greatest fool, since he does not reap the fruit thereof. It is written in the Brahman Granth, "A son is part of his father's self." The Sama Veda also declares:—

- "O son! thou art sprung out of my spermatic fluid which is drawn from all the bodily organs and from the heart. Thou art, therefore, my own self. Mayest thou never die before me. Mayest thou live for a hundred years." It is a sin of the deepest dye to sow the seed, out of which great souls and distinguished men have sprung, in a bad soil (such as a prostitute) or to let a good soil be impregnated with a bad seed.
- O.—What is the good of the institution of marriage? This relation restricts the liberty of people and entails great suffering on them. Therefore, it is desirable that a couple should continue to live as man and wife as long as they love each other; They should separate when they are tired of one another.
- A.—This is what beasts and birds do. It does not become men to act like this. If the institution of marriage did not exist, all amneties of domestic life will come to an end. None will serve another. Downright adultery and illicit connections will increase, all men and women will be afflicted with disease, physically and mentally weakened, and will consequently die young no one will fear another or be controlled by public opinion. Families upon families will be blotted out of existence in consequence of disease, physical and mental degeneration, and premature death अङ्गादङ्गात्सम्भवसि हृदयादिधिजायसे। आत्मा वै पुत्रनामासि स जीवं शर्दः शतम्।। सामवेदः॥ निरु० ३ । ४॥ due to downright adultery and fornication. No one will have a title to succeed to another's property, nor will any person be able to retain possession of anything for any great length of time. All these evils can be best avoided by marriage.

- O.—Monogamy being the rule (i. e., if one man be allowed to have only one wife, and one woman only one husband) what will a person do, if the wife be enciente, or afflicted with some chronic disease, or if the husband be a valetudinarian and either of them can not control himself or herself on account of exterme youth?
- A.—We have answered this objection while treating of Niyoga. If a mau be not able to control his passions while his wife is pregnant, he may contract Niyoga with (a widow) and beget offspring on her, but let him never misconduct himself with a prostitute or commit adultery Let a man, as far as possible, desire for what he has not got, preserve what he has got, try to increase what he has preserved, and spend it in doing good to his country. Let every man perform the duties of his Class and Order as set forth above, most faithfully, assiduously, and zealously, and apply himself heart and sou! to the attainment of righteous ends. and expend his wealth in the pursuit thereof. Let him diligently serve his father, mother, father in-law, and mother-in-law, and maintain loving relations with friends, neighbours, the king, learned men and holy men. Let him treat the unrighteous and the wicked with nonchalance, in other words, bear them no malice and endeavour to reform them. Let him ungrudgingly spend his wealth in securing for his children the benefits of wide culture, and liberal education, and try his best to make them perfect scholars and men of culture. Let him do righteous deeds, and thereby try to attain salvation so that he may enjoy eternal bliss.

Verses like the following should never be regarded as authoritative.

"Even a degraded twice-born man is superior to a Shúdra who has conquered his lower self, just as a cow that does not yield milk is worthy of worship, a she-donkey is not worshipped even though she yields milk. The following practices are prohibited in the Kaliyuga (iron age):—

- 1. Horse sacrifice.
- 2. Cow sacrifice.
- 3. Initiation into Sanyás (the Order of renunciation),
- 4. Offering flesh balls in a ccremony relating to th manes.

5. Raising of issue on a widow by her husband (by Niyoya).

The scriptures enjoin that a widow may take unto herself a second husband in the following cases:—

- 1. If the husband has gone abroad and can not be traced.
- 2. If he be dead.
- 3. If he has turned a Sanyási.
- 4. If he be impotent.
- 5. If he be excommunicated."]

The above verses are from the apocryphal Parashar Smriti. It is downright prejudice, sheer injustice, and a great sin to regard a wicked twice-born man better than a virtuous Shúdrai. If a cow. whether it yield milk or not, is cared by for the milkman, the shedonkey is equally an object of care for the potter. 1 Even the illustration is defective, since the twice-born man and the Shúdra belong to the human species, whilst the cow and the she-donkey belong to two different species—bovine and asinine—should even an illustration from the animal kingdom be partly applicable to human beings, this verse connot be regarded as true by learned men, it being opposed to reason. Horse-sacrifice and cow-sacrifice not being enjoined by the Velus, their condemnation in the Kaliguga (iron Yuga) above must surely be regarded as opposed to the Vedus If it is thought necessary to condemn these wicked practices in the Kaliyuga, it follows that they are permissible in the other three Yugas Golden, Silver, Bronze ages); but it is absolutely impossible that such wicked practices should prevail during ages2 when righteousness reigned supreme. Again initation into the Order of Sanyás finds sanction in the Vedu and other Shástras, पतितोपि द्विजः श्रेष्ठो न च श्रुद्रो जितेन्द्रियः।

निर्दुग्धा चापि गाः पूज्या न च दुग्धवती खरी॥
अश्वालम्भं गवालम्भं संन्यासं पलपैत्रिकम्।
देवराच सुतोत्पत्ति कलौ पश्च विवर्जयेत्॥
नष्टे मृते प्रविजते क्कीं वे चपतिते पतौ।
पश्चखापत्सु नारीणां पतिरन्यो विधीयते॥ पाराश्चरस्मृति॥

^{1.} Donkeys are very often used by potters in India for carrying pottery from place to place.—Tr.

^{2.} The period covered by Creation is call d Brahmadina (God's day) while the period covered by Dissolution is called Brahmaratri (God's night)

therefore it is foolish to interdict it. If indulgence in flesh foods is interdicted (which it undoubtedly is), then the prohibition should apply equally to all ages. Why should the author of these verses be barking like a dog (i.e., indulging in peurile nonsense), when Niyoya is clearly allowed by the Veda. If the husband has gone abroad and during his absence the wife contracts Niyogu, whose wife will she be regarded if the husband (by marriage) return It may be replied that she would belong by right to him who married her. This is perfectly right, but this provision is not laid down in the Phráshar Simili. Are there only five occasions of emergencies on which a woman may find it necessary to have recourse to Niyoya. These occasions are more than five in number. Here are some others:—

1. Prolonged illness of the husband.

2. Serious differences with the husband, etc., etc. The verses like these are, therefore, unworthy of belief.

O—Well sir! Have you no faith even in what Prashar says? A.—Nothing that is opposed to the Vedus ought to be believed in, no matter who has taught it. Morcover, these are not the words of Práshar. People write books in the name eminent men like Brahmá, Vasishthá, Ráma, Shiva, Vishmu and Devi so that these books, being stamped with the authority of universally esteemed great men, may be acceptable to the whole world, and the real authors (and their successors) may be pecuniarily benefitted to a great extent. It is for this reason that they write books replete with foolish and mythical stories. Among the Smrities, the Monu Smriti Brahmadina (God's day) is divided into 1,000 Chaturyugis, each of which is again divided into 4 Yugas or ages, these are :-

1. Sat Yuga

2. Dwapar Yuga = years.

3. Treta Yuga =

4. Kali Yuga years,

The orthodox believe that these Yugas influence the conduct of the human race for good or for evil, hence they have give these Yugas the names of Golden, liver, Bronze and Iron respectively. The author does not share this view—Ir.

यथा नदीनदाः सर्वे सागरे यान्ति संस्थितिम तथैवाश्रमिणः सर्वे गृहस्थे यान्ति रिख्यादेय् ॥ मनु० ६ । ९० ॥ यथा वायुं समाश्रित्य वर्तन्ते सर्वजन्तवः। तथा गृहस्थमाश्रित्य बर्त्तन्ते सर्व आश्रमाः ॥ मनु ० ३ । ७७ ॥ alone is authentic, the interpolated verses being excepted. What has been said about the Smrilies applies with equal force to all apocryphal books.

- O.—Is the Order of householders the highest or the lowest of Orders?
 - A.—Each of them is noble in its own place. Says Manu—

"Just as all rivers and rivulets meander till they find a resting place in the ocean, so do men of all Orders find protection with householders. The men of no Order can properly discharge their duties without the help of householders"

"As all living creatures subsist by receiving support M.nu from air, even so do the men of all Orders subsist 111,77 by receiving support from the householder. Because men of the three other Orders. Bruhmucharya, Vánaprastha and Sanyós—are daily supported by the householder with gifts such as of food, therefore, the Order of householdersis the most excellent Order, in otherwords it is thepivot upon which the entire Ashrum (Order) system turns."

The duties of this Order, which cannot be practised by men who are cowardly and possess a poor physique, must be faithfully discharged by those who desire uninterrupted happiness in this world and imperishable bliss hereafter."

All the concerns of life are, therefore, dependent on the Order of householders. If this Order did not exist, human species would not be propagated, and consequently the Orders of Bruhmachurya, Vánaprash and Sanyás could not be called into existence. Whosoever speaks ill of this Order is himself worthy of contempt, but whosoever speaks well of it, deserves all praise. But be it remembered that this Order can be fruitful of happiness only when both the husband and the wife are contented with each other, learned, energetic, and fully know their duties.

यसात्त्रयोप्याश्रमिणो दानेनान्नेन चान्वहम् । पृहस्थनेव धार्य्यन्ते तस्माज्ज्ये गश्रमो गृही ॥ स संधार्यः भयनेन स्वर्गमश्चयमिच्छता । सुसं चेहच्छता नित्यं गोऽधार्यो दुवेलेन्द्रियैः ॥ मनु ० ३ । ७८–७९ ॥ The chief causes which contribute to the happiness of householders are Brahmacharya and marriage by choice of which we have already treated.

We have thus briefly discoursed on Return Home, Marriage and Marriage life in this Chapter We shall treat of the orders of Vánaprasth and Sanyás in the next.

THE END OF CHAPTER IV.

CHAPTER V.

ON

VANAPRASTH AND SANYAS.

AVING completed his Brahmacharya, let a man enter Shatpatha Grihastha (married life), and thereafter, Bráhman Vánaprasth¹, and last of all become a Suryási²."

This is the consecutive order of the different stages of life.

"Having thus remained in the Order of householders, let a Manu twice-born man, who had before completed his Brahma-VI, 1. charya, live in a forest with his faith firm and his senses well under control."

"When a house-holder perceives that his muscles have become flaccid and his hair gray and even his son has become a father, let him then repair to a forest."

"Let him renounce all the good things of towns such as Manu tasty dishes, fine clothes, commit his wife to the vI, 3. care of his sons, or take her with him and dwell in a forest."

ग्रह्म्प्र्यां अमं समाप्य गृही भवेत् गृही भूत्वा वनी भवेद्वनी भूत्वा प्रव्रजेत् ॥ शत ० ॥ कां ० १४ ॥ एवं गृहाश्रमे स्थित्वा विधिवत्स्नातको द्विजः । वने वसेत्तु नियतो यथावद्वि जितेन्द्रियः ॥ गृहस्थस्तु यदा पत्र्येद्वलीपलितमात्मनः । अपत्यस्थैव चापत्यं तदारण्यं समाश्रयेत् ॥ मन् ० ६ । १,२ ॥

^{1.} The third stage of life, in which a man leaves off home and his relations, etc., lives in a forest or come other such secluded place, engaged in contemplation of God and in devotional exercises and the study of higher subjects.—Tr.

^{2.} The fourth stage of life when that man begins to preach the gospel of truth from place to place.—Tr.

"Let him take with him all the materials, utensils, etc., of Manu Homu, depart from the town, and live in a lonely wood with his senses perfectly subjugated"

"Let him discharge his Five Great Daily Duties: with Manu various kinds of food (such as Soma, etc.,), green VI, 5. herbs, roots, flowers, fruits and tubers, and offer the same to atithis² and himself subsist on the same."

"Let him constantly devote himself to studying and Manu teaching, retain a calm mind, be a friend to all, VI. 8 conquer his passions, bestow upon others such gifts as knowledge, and be kind to all living beings. Let him not receive gifts from others. Thus should he conduct himself."

"Let him not be very solicitous for bodily comfort, let him Manu be a Bruhmuchári, that is, abstain from sexual in-VI, 26. dulgence even if his own wife be with him, sleep on the ground, have no inordinate love for his dependents and for his belongings, and dwell under a tree."

"Learned men of calm minds, living righteous lives in Mundakopa- retirement, imbued with the keen desire of knowing and embracing the truth, free from all impurities, subsisting on alms, realize the Unchangeable, Immortal, Omnipresent Spirit by the practice of your and thereby enjoy true happiness."

Thus should a Vanprasthi pray "May I, O Lord of Truth!

Yajur Veda
XX, 24.

having been initiated (into this Order) with the performance of Homa, be able to keep my vows, i.e., be truthful in word, deed and thought, and have firm faith in Thee"

- 1. As described in the last Chapter -Tr
- 2. Missionary guests -the altruistic teachers of humanity -- Tr.

संत्यज्य ग्राम्यमाहारं सर्वं चैव परिच्छदम्।
पुत्रेषु भार्यां निःश्विप्य वनं गच्छेत्सहेव वा ॥ मनु०। अ०६। क्लो०३।
अग्निहोत्रं समादाय गृद्धं चाग्निपरिछदम्।
ग्रामादरण्य निःसृत्य निवसेन्नियतेन्द्रियः॥ मनु० अ०६। क्लो०४॥
ग्रुन्यर्न्निर्विधर्मेध्यैः शाकमूलफलेन वा।
एतानेव महायज्ञान्निर्वेषे द्विधिपूर्वकम्॥ मनु०६।५॥
स्वाध्याये नित्ययुक्तः स्याद्दान्तो मैत्रः समाहितः।
दाता नित्यमनादाता सर्वभृतानुकम्पकः॥ मनु०६।८॥

It behoves a Vánaprasthi, therefore, to be truthful in and to cultivate other virtues, associate with devout, learned men, and thereby acquire knowledge, particularly divine—and attain purity of mind by the practice of youn and meditation.

Thereafter, when he feels desirous of entering the fourth Order i. e., of Renunciation (Sanyás Ashram), let him send his wife¹ back to his sons and become a Sanyási.

The subject of Ván prasth has thus been briefly described, we shall now discourse on Sanyás or the Order of Renunciation.

Sanyas Ashram

OR

THE ORDER OF RENUNCIATION.

- "Having thus passed the third stage of life—i.e., from the fiftieth, to the seventy-fifth year—as a Vánprasthi in a forest, let a man in the fourth stage renounce all connections and become a Sanyási."
- O.—Is it a sin to become a Sanyási without going through the intermediate stages of Grihasth and Vánaprastha?
 - A.--It is and it is not.
 - O.—How can it be both?
- A.—Because he who enters into Sanyás in early life, i.e., direct from Brahmachurya, and then falls into sensuality, is the greatest sinner; but he, that falls not, is the greatest saint.

अप्रयत्नः सुखार्थेषु ब्रह्मचारी धराश्चयः । शरणेष्वममञ्चेव वृक्षमूलनिकेतनः ॥ मनु ०६ । २६ ॥ तपः श्रद्धे ये द्युपवसन्त्यरण्ये श्चान्ता विद्वांसो मक्षचर्या चरन्तः । सर्य्यद्वारेण ते विरजाः प्रयान्ति यत्राञ्मृतः स पुरुषो द्यव्ययात्मा ॥ सृण्ड ०॥ खं ०२। मं ०११॥ अभ्यादंधामि समध्मेग्नं वृत्तपते त्वियं ।

अभ्यादधामि समधमग्ने वृतपते त्वाये ।

वृतञ्चं श्रद्भां चोपैमीन्धे त्वां दीक्षितो अहम् ॥

यजुर्वेद ॥ अध्याय २० मं० २४ ॥

1. If she does hot want to enter the Order of Renunciation.—Ir.

Bráhman Granh.

Thus there are three alternatives for becoming a Sanyási. The first is the consecutive order that has been described before, (i. e., by passing through the first three stages successively). The second is that of becoming a Sanyási from Gribusth. The third alternative is that of entering Sanyás directly from Brahmacharya, and this should be resorted to only if the man be one of perfect knowledge with his senses and mind under thorough control, free from all sensual desires and imbued with extreme desire for doing public good.

In the Vedas also, the practice of Sanyás is allowed in the following words—"Let a Bráhman become a Sanayási, etc."

"But he whose character is low, who is not free from pas-Kath Upanisions, is not a yogi and whose mind is not contented, shad II, 23. can never know God and commune with Him, a Sanyási though he be."

Therefore, "Let a wise Sanyási restrain his mind and speech from all that is sinful, and apply them to the acquisition of knowledge and the realization of his inner Self. Let him use his knowledge, and then devote his enlightened soul to the realization of the All-Calm Supreme Being, and find rest in Him."

"Let a Bráhman, who is a Sannyási, seeing that all the Mundak enjoyments of this world depend upon deeds, and that Upanishad the Supreme Spirit not being the result of deeds, mere II, 12. deeds can never lead to His realization, abandon love of the world and repair with some kind of present in his hand to a preceptor well-versed in the Ve las and wholly devoted to God for the acquisition of divine knowledge, and the removal of all doubts."

But let him shun the company of "those ignorance-ridden Mundak Upanisha! TI, 8. But let him shun the company of "those ignorance-ridden people who arrogantly consider themselves to be wise and learned, and being puffed up with vain knowledge, go about the world as the blind leaders of the blind to वनेषु च विह्त्यैवं तृतीयं भागमायुषः। चतुर्थमायुषो भागं त्यक्त्वा संगान् ग्रिस्टेट् ॥ मनु ०६।३३॥ यदहरेष विरजेत्तदहरेव पत्रजेद्वनाद्वा गृहाद्वा त्रक्षप्रदेव प्रवेजेत्॥ जान्नण गन्य॥ the great misery of others and themselves," and of others again Mundak who being ignorant believe themselves to have attained Upanishad the object of their lives by mere deeds. But since, II, 9. mere acts or deeds do not lead to the realization of God, such people immersed in worldliness are afflicted with pain and sarrow, and suffer from misery consequent on continual births and deaths."

Therefore, "Those Sanyásis who are fully convinced of the Mundak existence of God by the knowledge of the Vedic Manufanishad Irás relating to Him, and live godly lives, whose intellects are pure by virtue of the renunciation of all wordly enjoyments, who are perfect yoyis with thorough control over their senses and minds, enjoy immortality and resume the course of life after a paránt cycle (i.e., when the period of salvation expires)."

"The embodied soul can never be free from pleasure or pain, Chhandogya but when the disembodied soul, being purged of all its impurities, lives in the All-pervading God in the state of Emancipation, pleasures or pains of this world can affect it no longer."

"Let a Sanyási renounce all love of fame, love of wealth shatapath and power and the enjoyments thereof, and love of his kith and kin, live on alms, and devote himself, day and night, to all those things that lead to Eternal Bliss."

नाविरतो दुश्ररितानाशान्तो नासमाहितः । नाशान्तमानसो वापि प्रश्नानेनेनमाप्नुयात् ॥

कठ०। वल्ली २। मं० २३॥

यच्छेद्वाङ्मनसी प्राज्ञस्तद्यच्छेद् ज्ञान आत्मानि ।

ज्ञानमात्मानि महति नियच्छेत्तद्यच्छेच्छान्त आत्मनि॥

कठ ०। वल्ली ३। मं० १३॥

परीक्ष्य लोकान् कर्मचितान् ब्राह्मणो निर्वेदमायाश्वास्त्यकृतः कृतेन । तद्भिज्ञानार्थं स गुरुमेवाभिगच्छेत् समित्पाणिः श्रोत्रियं ब्रह्मनिष्ठम् ॥ ग्रंड ० । खंड २ । मं ० १२ ॥

अविद्यायामन्तरे वर्त्तमानाः स्वयं धीराः पंडितम्मन् मानाः । जङ्गन्यमानाः परियन्ति मृदा अन्धेनैव नीयमाना यथान्धाः ॥ ग्रंड ० । खंड २ । मं ० ८ ॥

1. Parant cycle=311,040,000,000,000 years

- "Let a Bráhman, who has mastered the Veda, perform Shatapath Brahmana of God—let him abandon all signs of his Class.¹ Let his vital forces be in place of the five fires, and let him renounce all his wealth, and possessions, and thereafter, leave his home and become a Sanyási."
- Manu VI, 3, 9.

 Manu VI, 3, 9.

 Manu thereafter devotes himself to the dissemination and preaching of the divine religion of the Vedus and of other Shastrás attains to the state of Eternal Bliss called Mvkti.

O.—What is the Dharma duties—of Sanyásis?

A.—Dhurma, i. e., the practice of righteousness, devotion to justice, the acceptance of truth, and the rejection of untruth, obedience to the Will of God as revealed in the Vedu, and promotion of public good, is the same for all Classes and Orders, that is, for all mankind; but the following are the special duties of Sunyasis.

"Let a Sanyási keep his eyes to the ground and never look
Manu
VI, 46 hither and thither while he walks; let him filter² his water before he drinks it; let him always speak the truth, and let him think well before he acts, and thereby embrace truth and reject falsehood."

अविद्यायां बहुधा वर्त्तमाना वयं कृतार्था इत्यभिमन्यन्ति बालाः। यत्कर्मिणो न प्रवेदयन्ति रागात् तेनातुराः क्षीणलोकारुच्यवन्ते॥ मुण्ड ०। खं ०२। मं ०९॥

वेदान्तविज्ञानसुनिश्चितार्थाः संन्यासयोगाद्यतयः शुद्धसत्वाः । ते बृक्षालोकेषु परान्तकाले परामृताः परिम्रुच्यन्ति सर्वे ॥ म्रुण्ड ०। खं ०२। मं ०६॥

न वै स्ट्रिस्ट्रेस्ट्र. सतः प्रियाप्रिययोरपद्दितरस्त्यश्चरीरं वावसन्तं न प्रियाप्रिये स्पृश्चतः ॥ छान्दो ० । प्र ० ८ । रवं ० १२ ॥ पुत्रेषणायाश्च वित्तेषणायाश्च लोकेषणायाश्च व्युत्थायाथ भिक्षाचर्य चरन्ति ॥ श्चत ० । कां ० १४ प्र ० ५ । ब्रा ० २ कं ० १ ॥

^{1.} Such as a tust of hair on the top of his head, and Vajnopavita—the sacred thread worn across one shoulder and under the opposite armpit. These are the two external distinctive signs of a twice born man to show that he has been born second time through knowledge and sprituality, the first birth being the physical birth. Shudrus—the people belonging to the fourth Class are destitute of these two signs, particularly the second.—Tr.

2. Literally strain it through a piece of cloth —Tr.

"If in the course of a discourse or a discussion a man be angry with him, let him not in his turn be angry. V1, 48. Even though abused, let him say kindly what is good for him; let him never falsify his speech—which pervades the seven openings in the human system, i. e, of the mouth, the nostrils, the eyes and the ears.

"With his soul composed and centred on the supreme Manu Spirit, let him be indifferent to pain and pleasure, VI, 49 abstain from meat and intoxicants, seek only spiritual happiness, and go about preaching the gospel of truth and enlightening the world with the light of knowledge."

"With his hair, nails, beard and moustaches clipped, Manu carrying a suitable water-jar and a staff, wearing VI, 52. ochre coloured garments, let him go about with a tranquil mind, harming no living soul."

"Let him restrain his senses from wicked pursuits, renounce affection and hatred, bear no malice to any living VI, 60. creature, and work for Immortality."

प्राजापत्यां निरूप्येष्टि तस्यां सर्ववेदसं हुत्वा ।

वाद्यणः पृत्रजेत् ॥ यजर्वेदबाह्यणे ॥

प्राजापत्यां निरूप्येष्टिं सर्ववेदसदक्षिणाम् ।

पात्मन्यभीन्समारोप्य बाह्यणः प्रवजेद् गृहात् ॥

यो दत्वा सर्वभूतेभ्यः प्रवजत्यभयं गृहात् ।

तस्य तेजोमया लोका भवंति बृह्यवादिनः ॥ मनु ०६ ॥ ३८ । ३९ ॥

दृष्टिपूतं न्यसेत्पादं वस्त्रपूतं जलं पिवेत्

सत्यपूतां वदेदवाचं मनःपूतं समाचरेत् ॥ मनु ०६ । ४६ ॥

1.—All sensuous impressions reach the sensorium through these seven gateways of knowledge, and whenever, it is intended to express to others anything about these impressions, it is done through the organ of speech. For this reason the speech is sail to pervale these seven openings -Tr

कुद्धचेतं न पतिकुष्येदाकुष्टः कुशलं वदेत् । सप्तद्धार्वेर्णां च न वाचमनृतां वदेत् ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ४८ ॥ अध्यात्मरितरासीनो निरपेक्षो निरामिषः । आत्मनैव सहायेन सुखार्थी विचरेदिह ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ४९ ॥ पद्धत् केशनखक्मभः पात्री दण्डी कुसुम्मवान् । Manuer all, practise virtue himself and strive to make others 2, 9, 66. virtuous. He must bear in mind that the staff, the water jar and the ochre-coloured garments—signs of his Order—do not by any means constitute an effective discharge of his duty. To elevate the human race by the preaching of truth and the imparting of knowledge and wisdom is the paramount duty of a Sanyási."

"As although the seeds of a clearing-nut clear muddy water Manu when well-powdered and mixed with it, the mere pronouncing or hearing the name of that nut can never do so."

"Let a Sanyási, therefore practise systemetically, as many Manu pránáyámas¹ as he can medidating on Om—the highest VI, 70. name of God—and the vyáhritis,² all the while, but let him never practise less than three pránáyámas. This alone is his highest devotion."

"Just as a goldsmith, by blowing strongly against a piece of Manu; impure gold, removes its impurities, by oxidation, so VI, 71. does pránáyáma—the blowing of the lungs—remove all the impurities of the body and bodily organs by oxidaton."

बिचरेत्रियतो नित्यं सर्वभृतान्यपीडयः ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ५२ ॥ इन्द्रियाणां निरोधेन रागद्वेषक्षयेण च । अहिंसया च भृतानाममृतत्वाय कल्पते ॥ ननु ० । ६ । ६० ॥ द्षितोऽपि चरेद्धमें यत्र तत्राश्रमे रतः । समः सर्वेषु भृतेषु न लिंगं धम्मेकारणम् ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ६६ ॥ फल कतकवृक्षस्य यद्यप्यम्बुभसादकम् । न नामग्रहणादेव तस्य वारि प्रसीदिति ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ६७ ॥ माणायामा ब्राह्मणस्य त्रयोपि विधिवत्कृताः । व्याह्मतिप्रणवेर्युक्ता विश्लेयं परमन्तपः ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ७० ॥ द्द्यते ध्मायमानानां धातृनां हि यथा मलाः । तथेन्द्रियाणां दद्यन्ते दोषा प्राणस्य निग्रहात् ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ७१ ॥

^{1.—}Pratyahar, Dharna Dhiyana are stages in yoga—a system of concentration of mind and of meditation.—Tr.

^{2.} Vyahritis have been explained in the first Chapter.—Tr.

- "Let a Sanyási, therefore, burn away impurities of his Manu senses, mind, and soul by the practice of pránáyáma, VI, 72 destroy sin by Dhárma, sensual attachments by pratyáhára, and qualities contrary to the nature of God, as joy and sorrow, and ignorance by Dhyána.
- "By the practice of yout let him then observe the workings
 Manu of the Omnipresent, Omniscient Spirit in all things VI, 27. (low and high,) and also of his own soul—which are hard to be discerned by the ignorant and by those who are not youis."
- "It is Sanyásis alone who can attain final beatitude in this world, by abstinence from malice towards all sentient creatures, and renunciation of all sensual enjoyments, by doing righteous deeds ordained by the Vedas, and by devotion, and none others"
- "Only when a Sanyási gives up all desires for earthly things, Manu and is pure in thoughts and feelings towards all things, VI, 80. subjective and objective, he obtains true happiness that endures after death."
- "It therefore, behoves, all—Brahmacharis, Grihasthis Manu l'anaprasthis and Sanyasis—to follow assiduously the VI, 91. right conduct of life which has ten chief characteristics":—
 - "1. The cultivation of firmness of mind and contentment
 2. The cultivation of the spirit of forgiveness under all circumstances—whether one be censured or praised

VI, 92. honoured or dishonoured, etc.

3. Devotion of mind to virtue and abstinence from sin and vice, that is, refraining from the entertainment of sinful thoughts even for one moment.

प्राणायामेर्दहेदोषान् धारणाभिश्च किल्विषः । प्रत्याहारेण संसर्गान् ध्यानेनानिश्वरान् गुणान् ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ७२ ॥ उच्चावचेषु भूतेषु दुर्ज्ञेयामकृतात्माभिः ध्यानयोगेन संपश्येद् गितमस्थान्तरात्मनः ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ७३ ॥ अहिंसयेन्द्रियासङ्गेर्वेदिकैश्वैव कर्म्मभिः । तपसश्वरणेश्वोग्रेस्साधयन्तीह तत्पदम् ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ७५ ॥ यदा भावेन भवीत सर्वभावेषु निःस्पृहः । तदा सुखमवामोति प्रेत्य चेह च शाश्वतम् ॥ मनु ० । ६ । ८० ॥

- 4. Honesty. The acquisition of a thing without the permission of its owner, or through fraud, hypocrisy, or breach of faith, or by teaching falsely, or in any other way that is condemned by the Vedus, is called dishonesty or theft; the reverse of it is called honesty.
- 5. Purity or cleanliness—bodily and mental. Mental purity consists in freedom from inordinate love or hatred, from prejudice or injustice, etc. Bodily cleanliness consists in keeping the body clean with water, earth, etc. 1
- 6. Direction of the senses in the path of rectitude, and freedom from sin.
- 7. Development of one's intellect by abstaining from intoxicants and other articles that are prejudicial to its growth, from the company of the wicked, from sloth, negligence, etc., and by uisng things possessing healthful properties, associating with men of noble character, and by the practice of yoyu.
- 8. The acquisition of correct knowledge of all things from earth to God—and its proper application. In other words, to know a thing as it is, to speak of it as it is in the mind, and to act upon what is spoken constitutes correct knowledge; the reverse of it is ignorance.
- 9. Truthfulness is the harmony of thought, word and deed.
- 10. Freedom free wrath and other evil habits, and the cultivation of calmness of mind and other good qualities.

Let all follow this tenfold right conduct of life justly and impartially. It is the duty of Sanyásis in particular, to follow

चतुर्भिरपि चैवेतैनित्यमाश्रमिभिद्धिजैः।

द्शलक्षणको धर्मः सेवितच्यः पयत्रतः॥ मनु०। ६। ९१॥

धृतिः क्षमा दमोऽस्तेयं शौचिमिन्द्रियनिग्रहः।

धीर्विद्या सत्यमक्रोधो दशकं धर्मलक्षणम् ॥ मनु०। ६। ९२॥

r,—Dry earth is a very popular disinfectant with the Indians of all classes,—Tr

^{2.} The earth the grossest form of matter, while God is the subtlest of all; therefore, the expression from earth to God is used to include all entities material and spiritual.—Ir.

this right conduct of life, as enjoined by the Vedas, and help others to do the same through teaching and preaching."

"Thus having freed himself, by degrees from all evil associa-Manu tions, and from joy and sorrow and the like, a Sanyási rests in the All-pervading God."

Let all Sanyásis, therefore, enlighten the minds of Grihasthis and others on all questions, remove their doubts, free them from (the fetters of all kinds of unrighteous conduct, and help them to follow the path of rectitude This alone is the bounden duty of Sanyásis.

- O.—Have Bráhmans the exclusive right of entering into Sanyása, or can other Classes as Kashatriyás and others also do the same?
- A—Bráhmans alone have this privilege. He alone among all the four Classes is called a Bráhman whose knowledge is perfect, who is most virtuous, and who is bent on doing public good. To enter into Sanyása, without the acquisition of perfect knowledge and firm faith in Truth and God, and without the renunciation of all earthly things, can not be productive of any good to the world.

Hence it is that it is a common saying that a Bráhman Manu alone enjoys the privilege of entering into Sanyása and VI, 97 not others. Here is the testimony of the sage Manu on this point. Says he "O Rishis (sages)! this fourfold duty of a Bráhman has been made known to you. It leads to true happiness in this life and to eternal bliss in the next Next hear from me the duties of Kshastriyás—the governing class." It is clear then that to enter into Sanyása, is the chief privilege of Bráhmans whilst entering into Brahmacharya and other Orders, that of Kshatriya and other Classes as well.

O.—Where is the necessity of Sanyása?

A.—As the head is necessary for the body, so is Sanyasa for other Orders, since without it there can be no advancement in knowledge and righteousness. Persons belonging to Other Orders being engaged in house-hold work and in devotional practices can not have much leisure. Besides it is very difficult for people belonging to other Orders to be altogether impartial in their dealings, nor can they equal a Sanyasi, he being free from all worldly ties, in doing public good. Men of other Orders can not get so much time as a Sanyasi who possesses a true knowledge of all things to elevate the people by enlightening them on all subjects. But the amount of good, that those who enter into Sanyás directly from Brahmacharya, can do by the teaching and preaching of truth, can never be done by those who enter into it from Grihasth or Vána rasth.

अनेन विधिना सर्वास्त्यःत्वा संगान शनैः शनैः॥ सर्वद्रन्द्वविनिर्धुक्तो ब्रह्मण्येवाबतिष्ठते ॥ मनु०। ६।८१॥

^{1.} That is of Brahmcharya, Griheth, Venaprasth and Sanyas.

- O.—Is not Sanyás against the design of God, because He intended men to multiply. If people never married, there would be no progeny, Sanyása being the Chief Order were all men to enter into it, the whole human race would become extinct.
- A.—Well, do you not see many people childless even though married? Are not children lost through death? This would also be against the intention of God But if you say 'A man is not to blame if he does not achieve his end even after trying his best, we answer that many young men in Gribasth fight with each other and get killed, now what a heavy loss it is to the community)? The pervertion of intellect is the cause of many a quarrel. When a Sanyasi, by the preaching of the right conduct of life as enjoined by the Vedas, will create harmony and love among people and nations hostile to each other he will be the saviour of hundreds and thousands of lives, and thus will like thousands of Gribusthis be the cause of the increase of population. Besides, all men can never enter into Sanyás, because all can never be free from sensual desires. The people, converted by a Sanyási from wickedness into living righteous lives, may justly be considered as his children.
- O—Sanyásis say that they have no duties to perform. They accept necessaries of life as food, clothes, etc., from householders and enjoy the pleasures of the world. Why should they bother their heads' with this world of ignorance? They believe themselves to be Brahma (God) and are contented. If another person ask a question on the subject, they tell him the same thing, i.e., that he also is God, that sin and virtue can not influence the soul, because, the perception of heat and cold is the function of the body, hunger and thirst that of the nervauric forces, and pleasure or pain that of the mind. The world is but an fllusion so are the affairs of the world. Therefore it is not wise to be entangled in them. Virtue and vice are the functions of the senses and mind, not of the soul. They teach these and similar other things, whilst you have taught differently on the duties of Sanyásis. Which of these shall we believe to be true and which false?

एप वोऽभिद्दतो धर्मी ब्रह्मणस्य चतुर्विधः। पुण्योऽक्षयपुरुतः प्रत्य राजधमीन् निषीधतः॥ मनु ० ६ । ९७॥

- A—Is it not their duty to do even good deeds? Mark! what Manu says. "By doing virtuous deeds, as ordained by the Veda, Sanyasis enjoy Eternal Blies." It is clear then that according to Mann, the Vedic deeds -- the practice of righteous conduct—are indispensible even for Sunyasis. Can they do without food and clothing (and such other necessaries of life)? If they can not, why is it not a degrading and sinful act on their part to leave off the practice of virtuous deeds? They accept food and dress and other necessaries of life from house-holders, while they do them no good in return. Are they not the greatest sinners then? Just as it is useless to have eyes and ears, if you can not see or hear with them, likewise those Sanyasis who do not preach the truth, nor study nor teach the Vedus and other Shástrás are a mere burden to the community. Those who say and write, that they can not be troubled with this world of ignorance, are themselves mendacious and ignorant. They are the cause of the increase of sin and are therefore the greatest sinners. Whatever act is done by the body and bodily organs, is prompted by the soul which alone. therefore, suffers, or enjoys the fruits thereof. Those, who declare that the human soul is one with God, are sleeping the heavy sleep of ignorance, because the human soul is finite, and possesses limited knowledge, whilst God is Infinite, Omnipresent and Ominiscient. Again, God is Eternal, Holy, All-intelligent and Pree by nuture, whilst the human soul is sometimes free, other times not. God, being Omnipresent and Omniscient can not be subject to doubt or ignorance, whilst the human soul is sometimes ignorant, at othertimes wise, God, again, does not suffer from birth and death, whilst the human soul does. Their teachings are, therefore, false.
- O.—Sanyásis are those who have renounced all deeds, they are never to touch fire and precious metals. Is this true or not?
- A.—No. He, who is in communion with God and possesses that holy nature by which all wicked deeds are renounced is called a Sanyási, in other words, he who practises good deeds and eradicates sin and vice is a Sanyási.
- O.—Teaching and preaching are done by house-holders, where then is the necessity for Sanyás?
- A.—Let all men and women in all Orders or stages of life teach and preach as much as they can, but house-holders can not get as much time nor be as impartial as Sanyásis. It is true that it is the duty of Bráhmans to teach and preach—men to teach men and women, women. It is simply impossible for a Grihasthi to get the time a Sanyasi can to travel about. Besides it is Sanyásis who restrain Bráhmans from deviating from the path of rectitude as declared by the Vedus. Sanyásis therefore, are a necessity.

O.—A Sanyási should not stay more than one night in one place Is this true?

A.—It is true in one sense; because by staying altogether in one place, a Sunyási can not do much public good. He is liable to get attached to a place and begin to love and hate (things and persons therein). But if a Sanyási can do more good by staying in one place, let him do so, as in the past, such Sanyásis as Punchshildu stopped with the king Janak for even four months, and others for years. As about this rule of not staying long in one place, it has also been framed by hypocritical sectarians, for (they are afraid that), if a Sanyási would stay long in one place, he would expose their fraud, and thus put a stop to its further increase.

O.—"Whosoever gives gold to a Sunyási shall go to Hell." Now what do you say to this?

A.—This again is the invention of extremely selfish, orthodox, sectarians—the enemies of Classes and Orders. They know that were a Sanyásis to get money, it would greatly help him to expose their fraud. They would thus suffer and consequently no longer be able to keep him under their jurisdiction. Should charity remain under their control, Sanyásis would naturally fear them. When it is considered good to give gifts to the ignorant and selfish people, how can there be any harm in giving them to the learned altruistic Sanyásis. Says Mann "Let Manu a man give Sanyásis presents of precious stones and gold." Besides, the verse quoted above by you is absurd, because, if by giving gifts of gold to a Sanyási, the donor goes to hell, by giving silver, diamonds and precious stones, he may go to heaven.

O.—The aforesaid verse was wrongly quoted by mistake, it runs like this that "by giving gifts in the hands of a Sanyási, the donor goes to Hell.

A.—This is again the invention of an ignorant mind. "If a man goes to hell by placing gifts in the hands of a Sanyási, should he offer them on his feet or in a bag, he may go to heaven. Let no man, therefore believe in such fabrications. It is true though that if a Sanyási keep more money than he needs, he will be troubled by the fear of thieves and be liable to get greedy and so on. But whosoever is learned and wise would do nothing objectionable, nor यतीनां काश्चनं दद्यात्ताम्बूलं ब्रह्मचारिणाम्। चौराणामभयं दद्यात्स नरो नरकं वृजेत्॥ would be get engrossed in worldly possessions, because, whilst in married life or in student life, he has enjoyed all these pleasures or has observed them, and found them of no substantial good. If he has become a Sanyasi directly from student life and is free from all wordly desires, he would never allow himself to be infatuated by these things

O.—It is said that if a Sanyási be invited to a Shrádha, the spirits of the forelathers of the host run away from the place and fall into hell. Is this true?

A.—In the first place, the coming of the spirits of the dead to a Shrádha or receiving the foods and drinks that are offered to the priests, is an impossibility, being opposed to the teachings of the Vedus, as well as to reason; who will run away then when they do not come to the Shrádha? How can the coming back of the manes be possible when all souls after death are reborn according to the nature of their deeds and the laws of God? This false doctrine again is the invention of selfish orthodox priests and Vairages. It is true though that wherever Sanyasis will go, this fraud of the Shradh of the dead, which is opposed to the Veda, will immediately disappear.

O.—He who enters Sanyás directly from Brahmacharya will never be able to control himself as it is a very difficult thing to keep the sensual desires under restraint. Therefore, it is best to take Sanyása in old age when a man has passed through the Order of householders and of Vanaprustha.

A.—Let him not, who can not control his passions, enter into Sanyás from Brahmucharya. But why should not he who can restrain them? He, who has thoroughly realized the evils of sensual gratification and the advantages of the preservation of the reproductive element, can never be lascivious. His reproductive element serves as fuel to the fire of thought. In other words, it is used up in carrying on intellectual processes. As the healthy can dispense with doctors and drugs, so should a man or woman, whose one object in life is to disseminate knowledge, advance true religion and do good to the world at large, dispense with marriage life like Panchshikhá and Gárgi of yore.

[']विविधानि च रत्नानि विविक्तेषूपपादयेत्'॥ मनु०[।]॥ अ० ११। ६'॥

the forefathers of the host partake of what is offered to them through their media -Tr.

media — Tr. विद्वत्वं च नृपत्वं च नैव तुल्यं कदाचन । स्वदेशे पूज्यते राजा विद्वान् सर्वत्रे पूज्यते ॥

1. A sect of religious mendicants.— Ir.

Therefore, those alone are entitled to become Sanyásis who are fit for this high office, and no others. If an unfit person were to enter into Sanyási, he would sink himself and drag others down with him.

As a Sámrád Rujá is a universal sovereign, so is a Sanyási Parivirát, i.e., a universal teacher or the teacher of humanity. But a sovereign is only respected in his own country and amongst his own kinsmen, while a Sinyási is honoured everywhere. Says, Bridh Chánik. "There can be no comparison between a king and a man of learning, since the one is respected in his own country, whilst the other is respected everywhere."

To recapitulate briefly the duties of the four Orders:—

Brahmacharya (or the 1st stage of life) is meant for perfecting one's body and acquiring knowledge and culture.

Grihastha (or the 2nd stage of life) is for the pursuit of useful occupations and professions, etc.

Ván prusth (or the 3rd stage of life) for meditation concentration of mind on obstruse subjects, perfection of character and acquisiton of divine knowledge. Sanyásu (or the 4th stage of life) is meant for disseminating knowledge of the Vedu and the Shastra, practising virtue and renouncing vice. Preaching the disseminating knowledge of the Veda and the Shastra, practising virtue and renouncing vice, preaching the gospel of truth and dispelling doubts and ignorance of the people. But all those who do not discharge the most important duties of Sanyása, such as the preaching of truth and righteousness, are the most degraded wretches, and shall go to hell. Therefore, it behoves Sanyásis to devote themselves assiduously to the preaching of truth and enlightening the minds of the people who are in doubt, to the studies of the Vedas and the Shástras and the propagation of the Vedic religion, and thereby promote the good (physical, social, mental and spiritual) of the whole world.

- O.—Should mendicants other than Sanyásis such as Vairágees, Khákees, etc., be ranked as Sanyásis or not?
- A—No; they do not possess even one characteristic of a Sanyási. They follow anti-Vedic creeds; respect the words of the exponents of their sects more than the Vedas, sing the praises of their own creeed, are involved in false practices, further their own selfish ends, and ensuare others into their respective creeds and cults. Let alone doing any good to the world, they, instead, mislead people and bring about their degradation, and accomplish their own selfish ends. They have, therefore, no right to be ranked in the Order of Sanyásu but on the other hand, their Order can justly be entitled the Order of selfish creatures. This admits of no doubt.

O.—Those alone deserve to be called Sanyásis and great souls who walk in the path of rectitude and help others to do the same, promote their own happiness as well as that of the whole world here and hereafter.

Thus we have briefly discoursed on the Order of SANYAS. In the next Chapter we shall treat of the SCIENCE OF COVERNMENT.

THE END OF CHAPTER V.

CHAPTER VI.

ON

RAJA DHARAMA.

OR

THE SCIENCE OF GOVERNMENT.

duties of the four Clusses and the four Orders, we shall now describe Ráju Dhuramu or the duties and qualifications, etc., of Rulers, in other words, we shall discuss as to who is fit to be a king, how he is to be selected, and how he can VII, 1, 2. attain the highest bliss—salvation—Let a Kshatriya, whose knowledge, culture and piety are as perfect as those of a Bráhmun, govern the country with perfect justice," in the following way:—

(God teaches). "Let there be for the benefit of the rulers and the ruled three Assemblies—1. Religious. 2. Legislative. Rig Veda
III, 38, 6.

3. Educational. Let each discuss and decide subjects that concern it, and adorn all men with knowledge, culture, rightcousness, independence, and wealth, and thereby make them happy."

Atharva Veda Veda Assemblies, Military Councils, and the Army harmoniously work together to carry on the government of a country."

XV, 2, 9, 2.

राजधर्मान् प्रवच्यामि यथावृत्तो भवेतृपः ।
संभवश्च यथा तस्य सिद्धिश्च परमा यथा ॥
ब्राक्षं प्राप्तेनसंस्कारं क्षत्रियेण यथाविधि
सर्वस्यास्य यथान्यायं कर्त्तव्यं परिरक्षणम् । मनु० ७ । १ । २ । ।
त्रीणि राजाना विद्धे पुरूणि परि विश्वानि भूषथः
सदांसि ॥ ऋ० ॥ मं० ३ । स० ३८ । मं० ६ ॥

^{1.} The Rishis or sages who went to Manu to begin him to discourse upon the duties of man, etc., for their benefit.—Tr.

"A king should address the Assembly thus:—Let the leader of the Assembly abide by the just laws passed by the Assembly, and let other members do the same." 7,55,6.

It means that no single individual should be invested with absolute power. The king, who is the president of the Assembly, and the Assembly itself should be interdependent on each other. Both should be controlled by the people, who in their turn should be governed by the Assembly.

If this system be not followed and the king be independent of the people and have absolute power. "He would impoverish the Shatpatha people,—being despotic and hence arrogant—and oppress them, aye, even eat them up, just as a tiger or XII, any other carnivorous animal pounces upon a robust 2, 3, 7, 8 animal and eats it up. A despotic ruler does not let any one else grow in power, robs the rich, usurps their property by unjust punishment, and accomplishes his selfish en l. One man should, therefore never be given despotic power."

"O men! Let that man alone among you be made a Atharva king—the President of the Assembly—who is a Veda very powerful conqueror of foes, is never beaten by 6, 10, 18, 1. them, who is the paramount sovereign is most enlightened, worthy of being made a President, who possesses most noble qualities, accomplishments, character and disposition; who is thoroughly worthy of the homage, trust and respect of all."

Yajur Veda IX, 40. Wajur Veda is just, impartial, well educated, cultured, and friend of all. In this way alone shall ye attain universal sovereignity, be greater than all, manage the affairs of the State, obtain political eminenc, acquire wealth, and rid the world of its enemies."

तं सभा च सिर्मितिञ्च सेनां च ॥ १ ॥ अथर्घ० ॥ कां० १५ । अनु० २ । व० ९ । मं० २ सम्यं सभां में पाहि ये च सम्याः सभासदः ॥ २ ॥ अथर्घ० ॥ कां० १९ । अनु० ७ । व० ५५ । मं० ६ ॥ राष्ट्रमेव विज्ञ्याहन्ति तस्माद्राष्ट्री विश्चं घातुकः । विश्चमेव राष्ट्रायाद्यां करोति तस्माद्राष्ट्री विश्चमात्ते न पुष्टं पशुं मन्यत इति ॥ शंत ० कां० १३ प्र० २ । ब्रा० ३ । कं० ७ । ८ ॥

God teaches in the Veda, "Rulers! let your implements of warfare, (such as, guns, rifles, bows, arrows, etc.,) and warmaterials (such as, gunpowder) be worthy of praise, strong and durable to repel and conquer your enemies. Let your army be a glorious one, so that you may always be victorious. But the aforesaid things shall not be attainable to the contemptible, the despicable, and the unjust." In other words, it is only as long as men remain honourable, just and virtuous that they are politically great. When they become wicked and unjust, they are absolutely ruined.

Let all men therefore elect most learned men, as members of the Educ itional Assembly, most devout men, as members of the Religious Assembly and men of most praiseworthy character, as members of the Legislative Assembly; and let that great man among them, who possesses most excellent qualities, is highly accomplished, and bears most honourable character, be made the Head or President of the Political Assembly.

Let the three Assemblies harmoniously work together, and make good laws, and let all abide by those laws. Let them all be of one mind in affairs that promote the happiness of all. All men should subordinate themselves to the laws that are calculated to promote general well-being; they should be free in matters relating to individual well-being.

QUALIFICATIONS OF THE HEAD OF THE STATE.

"He should be as powerful as electricity: as dear to his people's hearts as their very breath, able to read the inmost thoughts of others, and just in his dealings as a judge. He should enlighten poople's hearts by the spread of knowledge, justice, and righteousness, and dispelignorance

इन्द्रों जयाति न परा जयाता अधिराजाे राजस राजयाते । चर्कत्य ईड्यो वन्द्यंत्रचाेपसद्यो नमस्यो भवेह ॥ अथर्व० ॥ कां ०६ । अनु० १० व० ९८ । मं०१

हमन्देवा असपत्रश्सवध्वं महते क्षत्रायं महते ज्यैष्ठयाय महते जानराज्यहेट्द्रहेन्द्रयायं ॥ यज्ञ ॥ अ०९ | मं० ४०॥ स्थिरा वंः सन्त्वायुधा पराणुदे वील् उत प्रतिष्कभें । युष्माकंमस्त ताविधी पनीयसी मा मर्त्यस्य मायिनः ॥ ऋ०॥ मै०१। स० ३९॥ मं०२॥ and injustice as the sun illuminates the world. He should be like one who consumes wickedness like fire, keeps the wicked and the criminal under control like a jailer, who gladdens the hearts of the good like the moon; who makes the country rich and prosperous, as a treasurer keeps his treasury full; who is powerful and majestic like the sun, keeps the people in fear and awe; and on whom no one in the whole world dares to look with a stern eye. He alone is then fit to be the Head of the State who is like fire, air, the sun, the moon, a judge, a treasurer, a gaoler in keeping the wicked under control, and like electricity in power."

THE TRUE KING.

"The Law alone is the real king, the dispenser, of justice, Manu the disciplinarian. The Law is considered as the surety VII, 17, 19, for the four Clusses and Orders to discharge properly their respective duties. The Law alone is the true Governor that maintains order among the people The Law alone is their Protector. The Law keeps awake whilst all the people are fast asleep, the wise, therefore, look upon the Law alone as Dharma or Right. When rightly administered the Law makes all men happy but when administered wrongly, i. e, without due consideration as to the requirements of justice, it ruins the king. All the four Chasses would become corrupt, all order would come to an end there would be nothing but chaos and corruption if the Law were not properly enforced. Where the Luv-which is likened unto a fear-inspiring min, black in colour and with red eyes-striking fear into the hearts of the people, and prethem from committing crimes, rules supreme, there the people never go astray, and consequently live in happiness if it be administered by a just and learned man. alone is considered a fit person to administer the Law by the wise who invariably speaks the truth, is thoughtful, highly intellectual and very clever in the attainment of virtue, wealth and righteous desires. The Law rightly administered by the king greatly promotes the practice of virtue, acquisition of wealth and secures the attainment of the heart-felt desires of his people. But the same Law destroys the king who is sensual, indolent, crafty, malevolent, mean and low-minded.

इन्द्राऽनिलयमार्काणामग्रेश्र वरुणस्य च। च्द्रबहेद्रेह्म् श्रेथेव मात्रा निर्हृत्य शाश्वतीः ॥ तपत्यादित्यवचैष चक्षंषि च मनांसि च। नचैनं सुवि शक्रोति कश्चिदप्यभि वीश्वितुम्।। सोऽग्निभेवति वायुश्च सोऽर्कः सोमः स धर्मराट्। स कुवेरः स वरुणः स महेन्द्रः प्रभावतः ॥ मनु ० ॥ अ० ७ । ४ । ६ । ७॥ स राजा पुरुषो दण्डःस नेता शासिता च सः। चतुर्णामाश्रमाणां च धर्मस्य प्रतिभः स्मृतः ॥ मन् ७॥ १७॥ दण्डः शास्ति पजाः सर्वा दण्ड एवाभिरचति । दण्डः सुप्तेषु जागर्ति दण्डं धर्मं विदुर्बुधाः ॥ मनु ० ७ ॥ १८ ॥ ्रसमीच्य स धृतः सम्यक् सर्वा रञ्जयति प्रजाः । असमीस्य प्रणीतस्तु विनाशयति सर्वतः ॥ मनु ० ७ ॥ १९ ॥ दष्येयुः सर्ववैणिश्च भिद्येरन्सर्वसेतवः । सर्वलोकप्रकोपश्च मवेद्दण्डस्य विश्रमात् ॥ मनु० ७ । २४ ॥ यत्र इयामो लो हिताज्ञो दण्डश्वरति पापहा । प्रजास्तत्र न ग्रह्मन्ति नेता चेत्साध पश्यति ॥ मन् ० ७ । २५ ॥

Great is the power and majesty of the Law. It can not be administered by a man who is ignorant and unjust. It surely brings the downfall of the king who deviates from the path of rectitude.

The Law can never be justly administered by a man who is destitute of learning and culture, has no wise and good men to assist him, and is sunk in sensualism. He alone is fit to administer the Law—which is another name for justice—who is wise, pure in heart, of truthful character, associates with the good, conducts himself according to the law and is assisted by the truly good and great men in the discharge of his duties."

तस्याहुः संप्रणेतार राजान सत्यवादिनम् ।
समिक्ष्य कारिणं प्राञ्चं धर्मकामार्थकाविदम् ॥ मनु ० ७ । २ ६ ॥
तं राजा प्रणयन्सम्यक् त्रिवर्गेणाभिवर्द्धते ।
कामात्मा विषमः श्रुद्रो दण्डेनैव निहन्यते ॥ मनु ० ७ । २७ ॥
दण्डो हि सुमहत्तेजो दुर्धरश्राकृतात्मिभः ।
धर्माद्रिचलितं हन्ति नृपमेव सवान्धवम् ॥ मनु ० ७ । २८ ॥
सोऽसहायेन मूढेन छुन्धेनाकृतबुद्धिना ।
न शक्यो न्यायतो नेतुं सक्तेन विषयेषु च ॥ मनु ० ७ । ३० ॥
श्रुचिना सत्यसन्धेन यथा शास्त्रानुसारिणा ।
प्रणेतुं शक्यते दण्डः रुद्धानुद्धे धीमता ॥ मनु ० ७ । ३१ ॥

CHIEF OFFICES.

"The four chief Offices—Commander-in-Chief of the forces,

Manu Head of the Civil Government, Minister of Justice, and XII, 100, the Supreme Head of all—the king—should be held 110—115 only by those persons who are well-versed in all the four Vedas and the Shastrus, conversant with all the sciences and philosophies, devout, who have perfect control over their desires, passions, and possess a noble character.

Let no man transgress that law which has been passed by an Assembly of ten mon learned and wise, or at the very leas of three such men. This Assembly must consist of member who are well-versed in the four Velas, keen logicians, master of language, and men conversant with the science of religion they must belong to the first three Orders—Brahmacharya Urivistha and Vanaprastha.

Let no man transgress what has been decided by even an Assembly of three men who are scholars of the Rig Veda, the Yaiur Veda and the Sama Veda respectively.

Even the decision of one Sanyási, who is fully conversant with all the four Vedas and is superior to all the twice-born (Dwijas), should be considered of the highest authority But let no man abide by the decision of myriads of ignorant men.

Even a meeting of thousands of men can not be designated an Assembly, if they be destitute of such high virtues as self control or truthful character, be ignorant of the Vedas and be men of no understanding like Shudrás.

सैनापत्यं च राज्यं च दण्डनेतृत्वमेव स सर्वलोकाधिपत्यं च वेदशास्त्रविद्देति ॥ दशावरा वा परिषद्यं धर्मं परिकल्पयेत् । इयवरा वापि वृत्तस्था तं धर्मं न विचालयेत् त्रैविद्यो हैतुकस्तर्की नैरुक्तो धर्मपाठकः । त्रयश्रात्रीणः पूर्वे परिषत्स्यादशावरा ॥ मनु० १२।१००।११०।१११॥ ऋग्वेदविद्यज्ञित्वं सामवेदिवदेव च । इयवरा पारे हिन्देश धर्मसंशयनिर्णये ॥ मनु० । ११२ ॥ एकोपि वेदविद्ध्मं यं व्यवस्येद् द्विजोत्तमः । स विश्वेयः परो धर्मो नाज्ञानाग्नुदितोऽयुतैः ॥ मनु० १२ । ११३ ॥ "Let no man abide by the law laid down by men who are altogether ignorant, and destitute of the knowledge of the Veda, for whoscever obeys the law propounded by ignorant fools falls into hundreds of kinds of sin and vice." Therefore, let not ignorant fools be ever made members of the aforesaid three Assemblies—Political, Educational and Religious. On the other hand let learned and devout persons only be elected for such high offices

QUALIFICATIONS OF MEMBERS FOR THE POLITICAL ASSEMBLY.

"Those men alone are fit to fill such high offices, as of the President or a Member of the Political Assembly, who Manu have learnt the three kinds of knowledge, of good deeds VII, 43-53. and their practice, of elevation of mind by meditation. and contemplation of abstruse subjects, and of that superior wisdom that results from the first two—from the scholars of the four Vedus, —the true system of Government, the science of Logic, the Divine science which consists of the knowledge of the nature, character and attributes of God, and the arts of elocution and debate. Let all members and leaders always walk in the path of rectitude, keep the senses under perfect control and keep aloof from sin. Let them always practise yoya and medidate on God, morning and evening, for he who can not control his mind and senses—which are subjects of the soul—can never keep the people under control.

Let a man, therefore, most diligently shun (and help others to do the same) eighteen vices—vices from which a man once entangled into them can hardly escape—ten of which proceed from love of pleasure and eight form anger.

A king addicted to vices arising from the love of pleasure loses his kingdom, wealth and power and even his character. Whilst one who is addicted to vices arising from anger may even lose his life. The ten vices proceeding from the love of pleasure are:—

अव्रतानाममंत्राणां जातिमात्रोपजीविनाम् ।
सहस्रक्षः समेतानां परिषत्त्वं न विद्यते ॥ मनु० १२ । १०४ ॥
यं वदंति तमोभूता मूर्खा धर्ममताद्वदः ।
तत्पापं श्रतधा भूत्वा तद्वक्तृननुगच्छति ॥ मनु० १२ । ११५ ॥
त्रैविद्यभ्यस्रयीं विद्यां दण्डनीतिं च शाश्वतीम् ।
आन्वीक्षिकीं चात्मविद्यां वार्तारम्भाश्व लोकतः ॥ मनु० ७ । ४३ ॥
इन्द्रियाणां जये योगं समातिद्दिष्ठेवानिशम् ।
जितेद्रियो हि शक्नोति वशे स्थापयितुं प्रजाः ॥मनु० ७ । ४४ ॥

(1) hunting, (2) gaming—playing with dices, gambling, etc., (3) sleeping by day, (4) gossiping or talking of sensual subjects, (5) excess with women, (6) use of intoxicants such as alcohol, opium, cannabis Indica and its products, etc., (7) excessive indulgence in singing, playing and dancing or hearing and seeing other people do so, (8) and useless wandering about from place to place

The vices that proceed from anyer are:

(1) Tale-bearing, (2) violence such as outraging another man's wife, (3) Malevolence, (4) Envy, i.e., mortification excited by the sight of another persons' superiority or success, (5) detraction from one's character, (6) Expenditure of money, etc., for sinful purposes, (7) saying unkind or hard words, (8) infliction of punishment without any offence.

Let him assiduously shun self-love that all wise men holds to be the root of all evils that are born of the love of pleasure and anger. It is through the love of self that a man contracts all these vices.

The use of intoxicants, gaming, excess with women, and hunting—these four are the most pernicious vices that arise from the love of pleasure.

Infliction of punishment without offence, the use of slanderous language, the expenditure of money for unrighteous purposes—these three are the great vices born of unyer that bring extreme suffering on the possessor thereof.

Out of these seven vices proceeding from the love of pleasure and anyer the one preceding is worse than the one following. In other words, the use of slanderous language worse than the abuse of money, punishing the innocent worse than the use of slanderous

दश कामसम्रत्थानि तथाष्टौ क्रोधजानि च ।

व्यसनानि दुरन्तानि प्रयत्नेन विवर्जयेत् ॥ मनु ७ । ४५ ॥

कामजेषु प्रसक्तो हि व्यसनेषु महीपतिः ।

वियुज्यतेऽर्थधमीभ्यां क्रोधजेष्वात्मनैव तु ॥ मनु ० ७ । ४६ ॥

मृगयाक्षो दिवास्त्रमः परीवादः स्त्रियो मदः ।

तौर्यत्रिकं वृथाट्या च कामजो दशको गणः ॥ मनु० ७ । ४७ ॥

पैशुन्यं साहसं द्रोह ईर्ष्यास्यार्थ दृषणम् ।

वाग्दण्डजं च पारुष्यं क्राधजोऽपि गणोऽष्टकः ॥ मनु० ७ । ४८ ॥ language. Hunting is worse than punishing the innocent, excess with women worse than hunting, and the use of intoxicants worse still.

It is certain that it is better to die than to be addicted to vice, since the longer a wicked man lives, the more sins he will commit and consequently lower and lower will he sink and thereby the more will he suffer. Whilst he who is free from vices enjoys happiness even if he dies."

Therefore, it behoves all men, especially the king, to keep aloof from hunting, drinking, and such other vices, and, instead, to develop good character, noble disposition, and devote themselves to the practice of virtuous deeds.

THE QUALIFICATIONS OF MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF ASSEMBLIES.

"Let a king appoint seven or eight, good righteous and Manu clever ministers who are natives of the country, are VII. 54-57. thoroughly conversant with the Veclas and the Shas-60, 64. trus, are very brave and courageous, whose judgement seldom errs, who come from good families and are well-tried men.

Even an act easy in itself becomes difficult to be accomplished by a man when single-handed. How much more so then is the great work of the government of a country by a single-handed man. It is, therefore, a most dangerous thing to make one man a despotic ruler, or trust the affairs of the State to one single man.

Let the Head of a State, then, constantly consult with his clever and learned ministers on the affairs of the State such as (1) Peace (2) War (3) Defence—quietly protecting his own country against a foreign attack and waiting for an opportunity, (4) Offence, i. e., attacking a wicked enemy when he finds himself strong द्वयोरप्येतयोर्मूलं यं सर्वे कवयो विदुः। तं यत्नेन जयेछ्ठोभं तज्जावेतावुभौ गणौ ॥ मनु०७। ४९॥ पानमक्षाः स्त्रियंश्वेव मृगया च यथाक्रमम् । एतत्कष्टतमं विद्याञ्चतुष्कं कामजे गणे ॥ मनु ० ७ ।५०॥ दण्डस्य पातनं चैव वाक्पारुष्याथद्षणे । क्रोधजेऽपि गणे विद्यात्कष्टमेतित्त्रकं सदा ॥मनु ० ७ ॥ ५१॥ सप्तकस्यास्य वर्गस्य सर्वत्रैवानुषिङ्गणः। पूर्वं पूर्व गुरुतरं विद्याद्वयसनमात्मवान्॥ मनु ० ७॥ ५२॥ enough, (5) proper management of the internal affairs of the State, the exchequer and the Army; (6) Pacification of the newly conquered countries by freeing them from all kinds of disturbance. Let him daily reflect on the six subjects.

Having ascertained the individual opinion each of his ministers and other members of the Assembly, let him abide by the decision of the majority and do what is beneficial for him as well as for others

Let him likewise appoint other ministers who are men of great integrity, highly intellectual, of resolute minds, of great organising power and of vast experience.

Let him appoint good, energetic, strong, and clever officers, as many as he requires, for the due transaction of the business of the State. Under them let brave, courageous, strong men of great integrity and of noble lineage fill positions involving great responsibility and danger, whilst let timid and faint hearted men be employed for the administration of internal affairs.

Let him also appoint an Ambassador who comes from a good family, is very clever, perfectly honest, able to read the inmost thoughts of others and to foretell future things and events by observing the expression of their faces and other significant signs and acts, and is well versed in all the Sháslrus—branches of knowledge.

He alone is a fit person to be appointed an Ambassador who is very much devoted to politics, loves his country with all his heart, is of irreproachable character, pure in heart, highly intelligent an l endowed with excellent memory, who can adapt himself to the manners and customs of different countries and different times, is good looking, fearless and a master of clocution."

व्यसनस्य च मृत्योश्व व्यसनं कष्टमुज्यते ।

व्यसन्यधोऽधो व्जति स्वर्यात्यवापनी मृतः । मनु० ७ ।५३ ॥

मौलान् शास्त्रविदः शूराँ स्लब्धलक्षान् कुलोद्भतान् ।

साचिव।न्सप्त चाष्टौ वा प्रकुर्वीत परीक्तितान् ॥ मनु० ७ । ५४ ॥

अपि यत्सुकरं कर्म तदप्येकेन दुष्करम् ।

विशेषतोऽसहायने किन्तु राज्यं महोदयम् ॥ मनु० ७ । ५५ ॥

तैः सार्धं चिन्तयोभित्यं सामान्यं सान्धिविग्रहम् ।

स्थानं सम्रदयं गुप्तिं लब्धश्यमनानि च ॥ मनु० ७ । ५६ ॥

DUTIES OF MINISTERS AND OTHER HIGH OFFICIALS.

"The power to enforce the law should be vested in a minister who should see that the law is administered justly, the treasury and other affairs of the State should be under the control of the king, peace and war under that of the Assembly. It is the Ambassador alone who can make peace between enemies, or war between friends. He should so strive as to divide enemies united against his country.

Thus having learnt the designs of his enemy let a king—the President of the Assembly (as well as members of the Assembly, Ambassadors and others,) endeavour to gaurd himself against all danger from him.

In a thickly wooded country, where the soil is rich, let him build himself a town surrounded by a fortress of earth, or one protected by water, or one surrounded by a thick wood on all sides, or a fortress of armed men, or one surrounded by a mountain. Let him build a wall round the city, because one brave, well armed soldier placed inside it is a match for a hundred, and a hundred for thousands. It is, therefore, extremely necessary to build a fort. Let the fort be well-supplied with arms and ammunition, with various kinds of grain and other food stuffs, with conveyances and beasts of builden, etc., with teachers and preachers, artisans, various kinds of machines, with grass and grain, etc., for animals, and with water, etc. In the centre of the town let him build for himself a Government house, well-protected from wind, etc., suited

तेषां स्वं स्वमिभप्रायग्रुपलम्य पृथक् पृथक् ।
समस्तानाश्च कार्येषु विद्ध्याद्वितमात्मनः ॥
अन्यानिष प्रकृवीत श्चीन् प्रज्ञानवस्थितान् ।
सम्यर्गथसमाहर्तृनमात्यान्सुपरीक्षितान् ॥
निवर्तेतास्य यावद्भिरितिकर्तव्यता नृभिः ।
तावतोऽतिन्द्रतान् दक्षान् प्रकृवीत विचक्षणान् ॥
तेषामर्थे नियुज्जीत श्रूरान् दक्षान् कुलोद्गतान् ।
शुचीनाकरकर्मान्ते भीरूनन्तर्निवेशने ॥ मनु ०। ७। ५७। ६० ६२ ॥
द्तं चैव प्रकृवीत सर्व शास्त्रविशारदम् ।
द्विताकारचेष्टतं शुचिं दक्षं कुलोद्गतम् ॥ मनु ० । ६३

to all weathers, with well-provided parks and gardens round it, and well-supplied with water. It should be big enough for all the state functions.

Having done so far, that is, having completed his studies in the order of Brahmacharya and settled the affairs of the state, let him chose a consort of a Kshatriya Class, born of a high family, endowed with beauty and other excellent qualities, dearest to his heart, blessed with charming manners, etc., and equal to him in knowledge, acquisitions, accomplishments and of like temperament. Let him take one wife and one only, and consider all other women as unapproachable, therefore, let him not even look at another woman (with the eye of lust).

Let him retain a chaplain and a spiritual teacher to perform Homa and Yujnas suitable for different seasons and other religious duties for him in the palace, and let him always devote himself to the business of the State. To devote himself day and night to the affairs of the State without allowing anything to go out of order is the highest duty of a king, aye, this is his worship, this is his communion."

REVENUE.

"Let the king collect his revenue through honourable, trustManu worthy and accomplished men possessed of excellent 11, 80, 82, character. Let him, who is the President of the 87, 89, 91. Assembly, his ministers and other officials, and the Assembly observe the eternal principles taught by the Vedus, and let them act like fathers to the people.

Let the assembly appoint officials of various kinds whose sole duty should be to see that the State Officials in all departments do their duties faithfully according to the regulations. Let them, who discharge their duties satisfactorily, be honoured, whilst others, who do not, be punished properly.

In order to disseminate the knowledge of the Veda which is truly called the imperishable treasure of the kings, let the king अनुरक्तः श्चिर्दक्षः स्मृतिमान् देशकालवित् । वपुष्मान्वीतभीर्वाग्मी दूतो राज्ञः प्रश्चस्यते ॥ अमात्ये दण्ड आयत्तो दण्डेऽवैनयिकी क्रिया । नृपतौकोषराष्ट्रे च दूते संन्धिविपर्ययौ ॥ द्त एव हि सन्धत्ते भिनत्येव च संहतान् । द्तस्तत्कुरुते कर्म भिद्यन्ते येन वानवाः ॥ मनु० ७। ६४–६६ ॥ and the Assembly show due respect to students, who return from their seminaries after having studied the Vedus and Shustrus in the Order of Bruhmucharya as well as to their teachers. This helps forward the spread of education and the progress of a country.

If a king, devoted to the welfare of his people, be defied by an enemy of equal, greater, or less strength, let him remember the duty of a Kshulriya and never shrink from going to battle. Let him fight with such skill as may ensure his victory.

Those kings, who with the object of defeating their enemies fight featlessly to their utmost and never turn away from the field of battle, shall obtain happiness. They must never turn their backs upon the field of battle, but it is sometimes necessary to hide away from the enemy in order to obtain victory over him. Let them employ all kinds of tactics to ensure their success in battle, but let them not perish foolishly like a tiger who, when his temper is roused, exposes himself foolishly to the fire and is thereby killed.

In the field of battle let soldiers bear in mind the duty of men of honour, and, therefore, never strike a man who is standing near the field of battle,—a non-combtant—nor one who is a eunuch, nor one who with folded palms begs for peace, nor one whose hair is dishavelled or scattered (over his eyes), nor one who is sitting at ease, nor one who says "I am at your mercy," nor one who is asleep, nor one who is unconscious or in a fit, nor one who is disarmed, nor one who is naked, nor one who is a mere spectator, nor one who is only a camp-follower, nor one who is in agony of pain from his wounds, nor one who is an invalid, nor one who is

बुद्धवा च सर्वन्तत्त्वेन परराजिचकीर्षितम् ।
तथा प्रयत्नमातिष्ठेद्यथात्मानं न पीडयेत् ॥
धनुदुर्गं महीदुर्गमञ्दुर्गं वार्श्वमेव वा ।
नृदुर्गं गिरिदुर्गं वा समाश्रित्य वसेत्पुरम् ॥
एकः शतं योधयति प्राकारस्थो धनुर्धरः ।
शतं दश्च सहस्राणि तस्माद्दुर्गं विधीयते ॥
तत्स्यादायुधसम्पन्नं धनधान्येन वाहनैः ।
ब्राह्मणैः शिल्पिभिर्यन्त्रैर्यवसेनोदकेन च ॥
तस्य मध्ये सुपर्याप्तं न्याद्द्य्ह्मात्मनः ।
गुप्तं सर्वत्तंकं शुभ्रं जलवृक्षसमान्वतम् ॥
मनु ०। ७। ६८। ७०। ७४—७६ ॥

seriously wounded, nor one who is terrified, nor one who is running away (from the field of battle).

They should make them prisoners and provide them with food, drink and other necessaries of life. The wounded should be medically attended to. Thy should never be teased or made to suffer in any way. They should be employed in the kind of work that suits their station, etc. The king should especially see that no one strikes a woman, a child, an old man, a wounded man and one who is diseased or afficted with sorrow. Let him protect and bring up their children as if they were his own, and let their women be also well-looked after. He should look upon them as he would upon his own daughters or sisters. Nor should he ever look upon them with the eye of lust. After the country has settled down, let him send all those, from whom he does not fear a fresh revolt, away to their own homes; but let him keep in prison all others, who he fears may possibly raise the standard of revolt.

The soldier, who cowardly turns his back on a field of battle and is slain (by the enemy), is thus rightly punished for his disloyalty to his master who shall take unto himself all the honour due to the deceased on account of his past good conduct which begets happiness in this and in the next world. The soldier, who is killed whilst running away from the field of battle, shall never obtain happiness. All his good work is nullified by this act of cowardice. He alone wins laurels who fights faithfully.

Let the king never violate this law that carriages, horses, elephants, tents, umbrellas, grain, silver and gold, cattle such as cows, women, cases of oil and butter, and various other articles are lawful prize of the soldier or of the officer who takes them in war. The captors should give the sixteenth part of their loot to the king, and so should the latter distribute among the whole army the sixteenth part of what was taken by them collectively."

तद्ष्यास्योद्धहे ार्यां सवर्णां लक्षणान्विताम् ।
कुले महित सम्भूतां हृद्यां रूपगुणान्विताम् ।।
पुरोहितं प्रकुर्वित वृणुयादेव चित्विजम् ।
तेऽस्य गृह्याणि कर्माणि कुर्युर्वे तानि कानि च ॥ मनु० ७ । ७७ ।७८ सांवत्सिरकमाप्तेश्व राष्ट्रादाहारयद्वलिम् ।
साम्वाम्नायपरो लोके वर्तेत पितृवन्नृषु ॥
अध्यक्षान् विविधान् कुर्यात् तत्र तत्र विपश्चितः ।
तेऽस्य सर्वाण्यवेश्वेरन्नृणां कार्याणि क्षेवताम् ॥ मनु० ७ । ८० । ८१ ॥

Let his wife and children have the share of the man who is killed in war. The wife and children of that man should be well looked after till the children are grown up when the king should offer them suitable state appointment.

Let no one, who is desirous of augmenting the prosperity of his State of gaining fame victory, and happiness, transgress this law.

"What the king and the Assembly have not, let them strive hard to get, what they have acquired, let them Manu preserve with care, what they have preserved let them VII. 88. augment, and let them spend the augmented wealth in 101, 110, 117, 120, the diffusion of the knowledge of the Vedus, the spread 120, 124 of the principles of true religion, in helping scholars and preachers of the Vedic religion, and bringing up the orphans. Having learnt the fourfold object of activity let him shun sloth, and live an active life Let him obtain what he has not got by the observance of the law, and what he has acquired let him protect with diligent attention, what he has protected let him augment by investing profitably, and let him always spend his augmented wealth in the furtherance of the aforesaid cause.

Let him on all occasions act without guile and never without sincerity, but, keeping himself well on his guard let him discover and ward off the evil designs of his enemy.

Let him ponder over the acquisition of wealth like a heron that pretends to be as if in meditative attitude just before catching fish. Having obtained the necessary material and augmented his power, let him put forth his strength like a lion to vanquish his foe; like a tiger let him stealthily creep towards his enemy and catch him. When a powerful enemy has come close by, let him run away form him like a hare and them overtake him by strategem.

Let his fee discover his weak points but the vulnerable points of his fee let him himself well discern. Let him hide his vulnerable points form his enemy just as a tortoise draws in his limbs and keeps them concealed from view.

आवृत्तानां गुरुकुलाद्विप्राणां पूजको भवेत्।
नृपाणामत्त्रयो होष निधिन्नीह्योऽविधीयते ॥
समोत्तमाधमै राजा त्वाहूतः पालयन् प्रजाः।
न निवर्तेत संग्रामात् ज्ञात्रं धर्ममनुःमरन ॥ मनु० ७ । ८७ ॥
आह्वेषु मिथोऽन्योऽन्यं जिघासन्तो महीक्तितः।
युध्यमानाः परं शक्त्या स्वर्गं यान्त्यपराङ्ग्रुखाः॥ मनु० ७ । ८९ ॥

Let such a victorious sovereign reduce all dacoits, robbers and the like to submission by comciliating them, by giving them presents or by turning them against each other. If he fails to restrain them by these means let him do so by inflicting he vy punishment on them.

As a farmer saperates the husk from the corn without injuring the latter, so should a king exterminate dacoits and burglars, and thereby protect his people.

The king, who through neglect of duty and lack of understanding oppresses his people, soon loses his kingdom and perishes with his family before his time.

Just as living beings lose their lives through the failure of their bodily strength, so do kings as well as their families lose their power, and even their lives by oppressing their subjects

Therefore, in order to conduct the government properly let the king and the assembly so strive as to fully accomplish this object. The king who is always devoted to the welfare of his people obtains perpetual happiness.

Let him, therefore, have an administrative office in the midst of two, three, five and a hundred villages, wherein he should keep the required number of officials to carry on government business. Let him appoint an official at the head of one village, a second, one over ten such villages, a third one over twenty, a fourth one over such one hundred, and a fifth one over a thousand such villages.*

Let the Lord (i.e., the Administrator) of one town daily apprise the Lord of len towns privately of all crimes committed.

न च हन्यात्स्थलारूढं न क्लीवं न कृताञ्जलिम्। न मुक्तेकशं नासीनं न तवास्मीतिवादिनम्॥ न सुप्तं न विसन्नाहं न नग्नं न निरायुधम्। नायुध्यमानं पश्यन्तं न परेण समागतम्॥ नायुध्यसनं प्राप्तं नार्त्तं नातिपरिश्वतम्। न भीतं न पराष्ट्रतं सतां धममनुत्मरन्॥ यस्तु भीतः पराष्ट्रतः संग्रामे हन्यते परैः।

*In other words, t'e present system of having a Surveyor (Patwari) in one village, a branch Police tation for every ten villages, and a Head Police Station over two branch stations, a Tahsil over five such Police stations, a district over ten such Tahsils, and so on, has been borrowed form our ancient system of Government as taught by Manu.

within his jurisdiction and the Lord of ten submit his report to the Lord of twenty. Let the Lord of twenty, notify all such matters to the Lord of one hundred every day and the Lord of one hundred, to the Lord of one thousand, in other words, five Lords of twenty, to a Lord of one Hundred, ten Lords of a Hundred, to a Lord of ten thousand, and the Lord of ten thousand, to an Assembly which governs the affairs of a hundred thousand townships and all such Assemblies to the Supreme International Assembly representing the whole world.

Over every ten thousand villages let him appoint two presiding officials, one of whom should preside over the Assembly, whilst the other should tour all over the country and diligently inspect the work and conduct of all the magistrates and other officials.

भर्तुर्यद्दुष्कृतं किश्चित्तत्सर्वं प्रतिपद्यते ॥ यचास्य सुकृतं किचिदमुत्रार्थमुपार्जितम् । भत्ती तत्सवमादत्ते परावृत्तहतस्य तु ॥ रथाश्वं हस्तिनं छत्रं धनं धान्यं पश्चन स्त्रियः। सर्वद्रव्याणि इप्यं च यो यज्जयति तस्य तत्।। राक्षश्च द्युरुद्धारमित्येषा वैदिकी श्रतिः। राज्ञा च सर्वयोधेभ्यो दातव्यमपृथग्जितम् ॥ मनु ० ७ ॥ ८०-८२ । ८७ । ८९ । ९१-९७ ॥ अलब्धं चैव लिप्सेत लब्धं रज्ञेत्प्रयत्नतः। रात्तितं वर्द्धयेचैव वृद्धं पात्रेषु निक्षिपेत् ॥ मनु० ७।९९ ॥ अलब मिच्छेदण्डेन लब्धं रक्षेदवेत्तया । रक्षितं वर्द्धयेद बृद्धया बृद्धं दानेन नित्तिपत् ॥ मनु० ७ ॥ १०१ ॥ अमाययैव वर्त्तेत न कथंचन मायया । बुध्यतारि प्रयुक्तां च मायात्रित्यं स्वसंवृतः॥ नास्य च्छिद्रं परो विद्याच्छिद्रं विद्यात्परस्य तु । गुहेत्कूर्म इवाङ्गानि रत्तेद्विवरमात्मनः॥ वकवाचिन्तयेदशीन सिंहवच पराक्रमेत्। वुकवच्चावछुम्पेत शशबच्च विनिष्पतेत् ॥

For the purpose of holding the meetings of town councils let him erect a Town Hall in every big town. It should be lofty, capacious, and beautiful like the moon, wherein let the members of the town council, who should be men of vast learning and experience, deliberate over the affairs of their town, and make such laws as will promote the welfare of the people and advance the cause of education and enlightenment.

Let the inspecting governor have detectives under him—who should come from Kshalriya as well as other Classes—and through them let him secretly know perfectly the conduct—good or bad—of the Government servants as well as that of the people. Let him punish those who do not faithfully discharge their duties, and honour those whose conduct is praiseworthy.

Let the king appoint such men as guardians of his people as are virtuous, well-experienced, learned and of good lineage; under such learned officials let him also place men who are very wicked as burglars and robbers, i.e., who live by seizing what belongs to others. It will help to keep those men from the pursuit of their wicked ways, as well as, to protect the people properly.

Let the king punish properly the magistrate who accepts bribe either from the plaintiff or the defendent in a case and, therefore, gives an unjust decision, confiscate all his possessions, and banish him to a place from which he can never return.

एवं विजयमानस्य येऽस्य स्युः परिपन्थिनः ।
तानानयेद्वशं सर्वान् सामादिभिरुपक्रमैः ॥ मनु००।१०४-१००॥
यथोद्धरित निर्दाता कत्तं धान्यं च रक्षति ।
तथा रन्नेन्नृपो राष्ट्रं हन्याच्च परिपन्थिनः ॥
मोहाद्राजा स्वराष्ट्रं यः कर्षयत्यनवेक्षया ।
सोऽचिराद् अञ्चते राज्याज्जीविताच्च मवान्धवः ॥
श्वरीरकर्षणात्पाणाः न्नीयन्ते प्राणिनां यथा ।
तथा राज्ञामपि प्राणाः क्षीयन्ते राष्ट्र कर्षणात् ॥
राष्ट्रस्य संग्रहे नित्यं विधानमिदमाचरेत् ।
सांगृहीतराष्ट्रो हि पार्थिवः सुखमेधते ॥

On the principle that the best keeper is an old poacher. Tr.

Were that man to go unpunished, it would encourage other officials to commit similar wicked crimes, whilst the infliction of punishment would serve to check them. But let those officials be paid handsomely for their services—either by gifts of land or in lump sums of money, paid annually or monthly—enough to keep them in comfort and even to make them rich. Let an old official in consideration of his services be granted a pension equal to half his pay. This pension must last only so long as he lives, not after. But let his children be properly honoured or given Government appointments according to their qualifications. Let his wife and children be given an allowance by the State enough for their subsistence which should be stopped if they turn wicked. Let the king constantly follow this policy."

Manu full consideration so levy taxes in his dominions that they may conduce to the happiness of both the rules, 139, 139, revenue from his people little by little just as the leech, the suckling calf and the bee take their food 2 little by little. Let him not through extreme covetousness destroy the very roots of his own and others' happiness; since he, who cuts off the roots of happiness and temporal prosperity, brings nothing but misery on himself as well as on others.

The king who can be both gentle and stern as occasion demands, is highly honoured if he be gentle to the good and stern towards the wicked.

द्वयोस्त्रयाणां पश्चानां मध्य गुल्ममधिष्ठितम् ।
तथा ग्रामशतानांच कुर्याद्राष्ट्रस्य संग्रहम् ॥
ग्रामस्याधिपति कुर्याद्रश्रामपति तथा ।
विश्वतीशं शतेशं च सहस्रपतिमेव च ॥
ग्रामे दोषान्समुत्पन्नान् ग्रामिकः शनकैः स्वयम् ।
शंसेद् ग्रामदशशाय दशेशो विश्वतीशिनम् ॥
विश्वतीशस्तु तत्सर्वं शतेशाय निवेदयत् ।
शंसेद् ग्रामशंतशस्तु सहस्रपतये स्वयम् ॥ मनु० ७ । ११०-११७ ॥
तेषांग्राम्याणि कार्याणि पृथकार्याणि चैव हि ।
राज्ञोऽन्यः सचिवः स्निग्धस्तानि पश्येदतिदृतः ॥

1. Till they are able to earn their own living.

^{2.} I.e., the blood, the milk and the honey respectively.—Tr.

Having thus arranged the affairs of the State let him devote himself to the protection and welfare of his people with diligent attention. Know that king as well as his ministers to be dead, not alive, the lives and property of whose subjects are violently taken away by ruffians whilst they lament and cry aloud for help. Great shall be his suffering. To promote the happiness of their subjects, therefore, is the highest duty of kings. The king who discharges this duty faithfully, levies taxes and governs the country with the help of the Assembly 1 enjoys happiness, but he who does otherwise is afflicted with misery and suffering."

"Let the king rise in the last watch of the night, have Manu a wash, meditate on God with his whole attention, VII, 145— perform Homa, pay his respects to the devoutly learned men, take his meal and enter the audience chamber. Let him standing there show respect to the people present. Having dismissed them, let him take counsel with his Prime Minister on state affairs. Thereafter let him go out for a walk or a ride, seek the top of a mountain wilderness, where there is not even the tiniest tree (to hide a person), or a sequestered house and discuss (state affairs) with him in all sincerity.

That kin, whose profound thoughts other men even though combined can not unravel, in other words, whose thoughts are deep, pure, centred in public good, and hidden, shall rule the whole earth, even though poor. Let him never do even a single thing without the approval of the Assembly."

"The king and other persons in authority should keep it Manu in view that it is their duty, to adopt after due VII, 161— deliberation one of the following six measures as occasion demands:—

- 1. Remaining passive.
- 2. Marching to action.

नगरे नगरे चैंकं कुर्यात्सर्वार्थाचंतकम्।
उच्चैःस्थानं घोररूपं नक्तत्राणामिव ग्रहम्॥
स ताननुपरीक्षाः दिस्हिते व सदा स्वयम्।
तेषां वृत्तं परिणयत्सम्यग्राष्ट्रेषु तच्चरैः॥
राज्ञो हि रक्षाधिकृताः परस्वादायिनः शठाः।
भृत्या भवन्ति प्रायेण तेभ्यो रक्षेदिमाः प्रजाः॥

1. As described in Manu in the 7th Chapter. - Tr.

3. Making peace with the enemy.

4. Declaring war against wicked enemies.

5. Gaining victory by dividing his forces.

6. Seeking the protection of, or alliance with a powerful king when a ruler is weak.

Let the king thoroughly acquaint himself with the twofold nature of each of these measures:—

The two kinds of peace with the enemy are:—(1), the contracting parties act in conjunction and (2) they act apart. But let the king always go on doing whatever is necessary for the present or will be required for the future.

War is of two kinds, when it is waged for an injury to himself and when it is waged for an injury to a friendly power or an ally in season or out of season.

Remaining quiet is of two kinds—firstly, when it is done when the king's own power is weakened through some cause, and secondly when he remains quiet on the advice of his ally.

To divide one's force - rank and file---into two sections in order to gain victory, is called the Division of the forces.

Seeking the protection of or alliance with a powerful ruler or the advice of a great man, in self defence when threatened by an enemy or when on the offensive is the twofold Protection or Alliance.

When a king ascertains that by going to war at the present time he will suffer, whilst by waiting and going to war at some future time he will certainly gain in power and vanquish his enemy, let him, then, make peace with him and patiently wait for that favourable opportunity.

When he finds his people and the army considerably happy prosperous and full of spirits and himself the same, let him then declare war against his foe.

ये कार्यिकेम्योऽर्थमेव गृहणीयुः पापचेतसः।
तेषां सर्वस्वमादाय राजा कुर्यात्प्रवासनम्।। मनु० ७॥ (९९। १०१। १०४—१०७। ११०–११७)।१२०—१२४॥
यथा फलेन युज्येत राजा कर्ता च कर्मणाम्।
तथावेक्ष्य नृपो राष्ट्रे कल्पयेत्सततं करान्॥ मनु० ७। १२८॥
यथाल्पाञ्ल्पमदन्त्याऽऽद्यं वार्य्योकोवत्सष्ट्पदाः।
तथाञ्ल्पाञ्ल्पो ग्रहीत्व्यो राष्ट्राङ्ग व्दिकः सरः।।मनु० ७।१२९॥

When he knows his own troops to be contented, cheerful and fit—well fed, well-nourished and well-clothed, etc.,—and those of his enemy the reverse, let him then attack or march against his foe.

When he finds his for much stronger than himself, let him accomplish his object by doubling or dividing his forces.

When it becomes clear to him that his enemies will soon march against him, let him then seek speedily the protection of or alliunce with a just and powerful king.

Let a king serve him who would help him in restoring order among his people or in keeping his army under control or his enemy in check, as he would his teacher—temporal and spiritual. But if he find his protector or ally full of evil designs, let him then fight him too fearlessly.

Let him never be hostile to a king who is just and virtuous. On the other hand, let him always be on friendly terms with him. All the aforesaid measures are to be adopted in order to vanquish a wicked man who is in power."

"Let a king, who is a true statesman, adopt such measures

Manu that neither his allies, neutral powers, nor his foes

VII, 177 - may grow in power or gain any great advantage over 180. him.

Let him thoroughly deliberate over the advantages and disadvantages of his past actions, his present and future duties. Then let him strive to ward off evils and promote good results.

नोच्छिन्द्यादात्मनो मूलं परेषां चातितृष्णया ।
उच्छिदन्द्यात्मनो मूलमात्मानं तांश्र पीडियत् ।।
तीक्षणश्रेव मृदुश्र स्यात्कार्यं वी द्य महीपतिः ।
तीक्षणश्रेव मृदुश्रेव राजा भवति सम्मतः ॥ मनु०७।१३९-१४०॥
एवं सर्वं विधायदमितिकर्तव्यमात्मनः ।
युक्तश्रेवापमत्तद्वच परिरक्षेदिमाः प्रजाः ॥
विक्रोशन्त्यो यस्य राष्ट्राद्धियंते दस्युभिः प्रजाः ।
सम्पत्र्यतः सभृत्यस्य मृतः स न तु जीवति ॥
द्यत्रियस्य पेरा धर्मः प्रजानामेव पालनम् ।
नि।देष्ट्रात्र्भोक्ता हि राजा धर्मेण युज्यते ॥ मनु० ७। १४२--१४४ ॥

That king shall never be vanquished by his enemies who can foresee the good and evil results likely to follow from the measures that he would adopt in the future, and who acts according to his convictions in the present without any delay and knows his failings in the past.

Let a statesman, especially the king, viz, the President of the Assembly, so endeavour that the power of his allies, neutral powers and foes may be kept within limits and not otherwise. Never should he be negligent of this. This alone is, in brief, true statesmanship."

उत्थाय पश्चिमे यामे कृतशोचः समाहितः ।
हुताग्निक्रोह्मणाँश्चार्च्य प्रविशेत्स शुभां सभाम् ।।
तत्र स्थिताः प्रजाः सर्वाः प्रातिनन्द्य विसर्जयेत् ।
विसृज्य च प्रजाः सर्वा मन्त्रयेत्सह मन्त्रिभाः ॥
गिरिपृष्ठं समारुद्य प्रासादं वा रहोगतः ।
अरुण्ये निःशलाके वा मन्त्रयेदविभावितः ॥
यस्य मन्त्रं न जानन्ति समागम्य पृथग्जनाः ।
स कृत्स्नां पृथिवीं सुङ्क्ते कोशहीनोऽपि पार्थिवः ॥

मनु० ७।१४५—१४८॥
आसनं चैव यानं च सिन्ध विगृहमेव च ।
कार्य वीक्ष्य प्रयुक्षीत द्वेषं संश्रयमेव च ॥
संधि तु द्विविधं विद्याद्वाजा विगृहमेव चे ।
उभे यानासने चैव द्विविधः संश्रयः स्मृतः ॥
समानयानकर्मा च विपरीतस्त्रथेव च ।
तदा त्वायति संयुक्तः संन्धिज्ञेयो द्विलज्ञणः ॥
स्वयंकृतक्ष्च कार्यार्थमकाले काल एव वा ।
मित्रस्य चेवापकृते द्विविधो विगृहः स्मृतः ॥
मकाकिनक्ष्चात्ययिके कार्य प्राप्ते यदच्छया ।
संहतस्य च मित्रण द्विविधं यानमुच्यते ॥
ज्ञीणस्य चेव क्रमशो दैवान्पूर्वकृतेन वा ।
मित्रस्य चानुरोधेन द्विविधं स्मृतमासनम् ॥

Manu VII, 184 192, 194— 196, 203,

"Before a king begins his march against his enemy, let him secure the safety of his dominions, provide himself with all that is necessary for the expedition, take the necessary number of troops, carriages and other conveyances, weapons, fire arms, etc, and despatch his spies in all quarters. Having seen that all the

बलस्य स्वामिनइचैव स्थितिः कार्यार्थसिद्धये । द्विविधं कीर्त्यते द्वैधं पाड्गुण्यगुणवोदीभिः ॥ अर्थसंपादनार्थं च पीड्यमानः स शत्रुभिः । साधुषु व्यपदेशार्थं द्विविधः संश्रयः स्मृतः ॥ यदावगच्छेदायत्यामाधिक्यं ध्रवमात्मनः। तदात्वे चाल्पिकां पीडां तदा सन्धि समाश्रेयत् ॥ यदा प्रहृष्टा मन्येत सर्वास्त प्रकृतीर्भृशम् । अत्र चिछ्रतं तथात्मानं तदा कुर्वीत विगृहम् ॥ यदा मन्येत भावेन हृष्टं पुष्टं बलं स्वकम्। परस्य विपरीतं च तदा यायाद्रिपं प्रति ॥ यदा तु स्यात्परिज्ञीणो वाहनेन बलेन च। तदासीत पयत्नेन शनकैः सांत्वयवरीन ॥ मन्येतारि यदा राजा सर्वथा बलवत्तरम्। तदा त्तिधा बलं कृत्वा साधयेत्कार्यमात्मनः ॥ यदा परवलानां तु गमनीयतमो भवेत । तदा तु संश्रयेत चिषं धार्मिकं बलिनं नृषम् ॥ निगृहं प्रकृतीनां च कुर्याद्योरिवलस्य च। उपसेवेत तं नित्यं सर्वयत्नेर्गुरुं यथा ॥ यदि तत्रापि संपश्येदोषं संश्रयकारितः । सुयुद्धमेव तत्राऽपि निार्विशंकःसमाचरेत्॥

मनु॰ ७ । १६१-१७६ ॥ सर्वोपायैस्तथा ्रियोद्धोदि इः पृथिवीपतिः । यथास्याभ्याधिका न स्युर्मिद्योद्धाद्वह्नहृद्धः ॥ मनु॰ ७ । १७७ ॥ three ways—by land, on water, and through air—are clear and well-secured, let him travel on land by means of cars, on foot, on horseback, or on elephants, on water by boats, and through air by air-ships and the like, well-provide himself with infantry, cavalry, elephants, cars, weapons of war, provisions and other necessary things, and proceed gradually towards the chief city of the enemy having first given out some reason for his march.

In his conversation let him be well on his guard against, and keep a strict watch on the movements of a man who is inwardly a friend of the enemy and privately gives him information, whilst outwardly keeps with him also on friendly terms; because he who is inwardly an enemy and outwardly a friend must be looked upon as the most dangerous foe.

Let the king see that all Government servants learn the science and art of war, as well as he himself and other people. It is only those warriors who are well-experienced in the art of war

अतीतानां च सर्वेषां गुणदोषो च तत्वतः ॥
आयत्यां गुणदोषज्ञस्तदात्वे ज्ञिपनिश्रयः ।
अतीते कार्यशेषज्ञः शत्रुभिनीभि भ्र्यते
यथैनं नाभिसंदध्युर्मित्रोदासीनशत्रवः ।
तथा सर्वं संविद्ध्यादेष मामासिको नयः ॥
मनु ० ७ । १७७--१८० ॥
कृत्वा विधानं मूले तु यात्रिकं च यथाविधि ।
उपगृद्धास्पदं चैव चारान् सम्यग्विधाय च ॥
संशोध्य त्रिविधं मार्गं पद्द्विधं च बलं स्वकम्
सांपरायिककल्पेन यायादिरपुरं शॅनः ॥
शृद्धदेखिदि मित्रं च गूढे युक्ततरो भवेत ।
गतप्रत्यागते चैव स हि कष्टतरो रिपुः ॥
दण्डच्यूहेन तन्मार्गं यायात्तु शकटेन वा ॥
वरात्मकराम्यां वा सच्या वा गरुडेन वा ॥

आयतिं सर्वकार्याणां तदात्वं च विचारयेत् ॥ that can fight well on the field of battle. Let them be well drilled in the following various dispositions—

- 1. Marching troops in file.
- 2. Marching troops in column.
- 3. Marching troops in square.1
- 4. Marching troops at the double.2
- 5. Marching troops in Echlon.3
- 6. Advancing in skirmishing order.

Let him extend his troops to the flank from which he apprehends danger like a lotus flower.

Let him keep his troops with their Commanders on four sides and himself in the centre. Let him place his Generals, and Commanding Officers with their brave troops in all the eight directions. Let him turn his front towards the fighting. He must also have his flanks and rear well-guarded, otherwise, the enemy may attack him on these positions. On all sides let him station those soldiers who are well-trained in the art of war, firm in their places like the pillars of a roof, virtuous, clever in charging and sustaining a charge, fearless and faithful.

When he has to fight an enemy superior to himself in numbers, let him then arrange his troops in close formation or quickly deploy as occasion demands. When he has to fight his way into a city, a fort or the ranks of his enemy, let him arrange his troops in various forms of military array, such as marching

यतश्च भयमाशंकेत्ततो विस्तारयेद्वलम् ।
पश्चेन चैव व्यूहेन निविशेत सदा स्वयम् ॥
सेनापतिवलाध्यत्तौ सर्वादिश्च निवेशयेत् ॥
यतश्च भयमाशङ्केत् प्राचीं तां कल्पयेदिशम् ॥
गुल्मांश्च स्थापयेदाप्तान् कृतसंज्ञान् समन्ततः ।
स्थाने युद्धे च कुशलानभीरूनविकारिणः ॥
संहतान् योधयेदल्पान् कामं विस्तारयेद्वहून् ।
स्च्या वज्जेण चैवेतान् व्यूहेन व्युद्ध योधयेत् ॥

- 1. Just as boars run after one another and then form one close formation
- 2. Just as fish swim in water.
- 3. Pointed at the end and thicker at the base-like a needle or a wedge
- 4. N. S. E. W. & NE. NW. SE. SW.

them in Echlon or in the form of a double edged sword that cuts both ways; let them fight as well as advance. Before artillery or musketry fire let him order his troops to crawl like snakes till they get near the guns, shoot or capture the gunners and turn those very guns on the enemy or shoot him with his rifles. Or let him make old soldiers run on horses before the guns, keep good soldiers in the middle and thus attack the enemy. Let him shoot the enemy, scatter his forces or capture them by a vigorous assault.

On level ground let him fight on foot, on horseback, or in cars, on sea in men-of-war, in shallow water on elephants, among trees and bushes with arrows, and in sandy places with swords and shields.

When his troops are engaged in fighting, let him cheer and encourage them. At the close of a battle let him gladden the hearts of those, who have distinguished themselves, by making nice speeches, providing them with everything they need, looking after their comforts, and helping them in every other way. Let him never engage in a fight without forming his troops into the necessary array of battle. Let him always watch the behaviour of his troops and see whether they discharge their duties faithfully or not.

Let him, if occasion arises surround the enemy and detain him, harass his country, and cut off his supply of grass, water, food and fuel.

Let him destroy reservoirs, city walls, and trenches of his enemy, alarm him by night, and adopt other measures to vanquish him.

स्यन्दनाश्वैः समे युध्येदन्ऐ नौद्विम्स्तथा।
वृक्षगुल्मावृते चापैरसिचर्मायुधैः स्थले ॥मनु० ७। ११४-१९२॥
प्रहर्षयेद्वलं व्यूहतांश्च सम्यक् पराज्ञयेत्
चेष्टाक्ष्मैव विजानीयादरीन् योधयतामि ॥
उपरुष्णारिमासात राष्ट्रं चास्योपपीडयेत्।
दृषयेचात्य सततं यवसाभोदकेन्धनम् ॥
भिन्द्याच्चैव तडागानि प्राकारपारिखास्तथा।
समवस्कन्दयेचैनं रात्रौ वित्रासयेत्तथा ॥ मनु • ७। १९४-१९६॥
प्रमाणानि च कुर्वीत तेषां धर्म्यान्यथोदितान्।
रस्नैक्ष्च जियेदेनं प्रधानपुरुषः सह ॥

Having conquered his foe let him have a treaty signed by him. Let him, if necessary, depose him from the throne and appoint another righteous man from the same dynasty as king, and have a document signed by him to the effect that he would carry out his orders, in other words that he would adopt a just system of Government, serve his people and protect them. Let him give him the aforesaid advice and leave such men with him as would prevent any further disturbance.

Let him honour his vanquished foe with the gifts of gems and other valuable presents. Let him not behave so meanly as to deprive him even of his subsistence. Even if he were to keep him as his prisoner, let him show him such respect as may free him from the sorrow consequent on his defeat and make his life happy; because the seizure of others' property in this world gives rise to hatred, whilst the bestowal of gifts on others is the cause of love. Let him especially do the right thing for him at the right moment, it is a laudable thing to give the vanquished foe what is his heart's desire.

Let him never taunt him, nor laugh at him, nor poke fun at him, nor even remind him of his defeat. Instead let him always show him respect by addressing him as his own brother."

THE QUALIFICATIONS OF A FRIEND.

"A king does not gain in power so much by the acquisition Manu of gold and territory as by securing a friend who is VII, 208— firm, loving and far-seeing. Such a friend is valuable no matter whether he is powerful enough to help him in the attainment of his wishes or is even weak. It is laudable for a king to secure a friend—feeble though he be—who knows what is right, remembers gratefully any kindness shown to him, is cheerful in temper, affectionate and persevering. Let him bear in mind that it is not proper to make a foe of a man who is eminently wise, comes from an excellent family, and is brave, courageous, clever, liberal-minded, grateful, firm and patient. Whosoever makes such a man his foe is sure to suffer.

He is called neutral, (i.e., neither an avowed friend nor a declared foe) who is possessed of good qualities, knowledge of

आदानमियकरं दानञ्ज प्रियकारकम्।

अभीप्सितानामर्थानां काले युक्तं प्रशस्यते ॥ मनु० ७। १८४--१९२। १९४-१९६।२०३।२०४॥

हिरण्यभूमिसंप्राप्त्या पार्थिवो न तथैधते । यथा मित्रं धूषं लब्ध्वा कृशमप्यायतिकामः ॥ mankind, valour, kindness of heart, and who never discloses the secret of his heart.

Let a king get up early in the morning, attend to his toilet, worship God, perform Homat himself or have it done by his chaplain, consult with his ministers, inspect and review his troops, cheer their spirits, inspect stables of horses and elephants, cowhouses, etc., stores of arms and ammunition, Hospitals and the Treasury, in short, inspect everything with his own eyes and point out short-comings. Let him then go to the Gymnasium, take physical exercise and, thereafter, in the middle of the day enter his private apartments to dine with his wife. His food should be well-tested and be such as will promote health, strength, energy and intellect. It should consist of various kinds of eatables, drinks, and sweet, juicy and fragrant dishes as well as condiments, sauce, etc., that may keep him free from disease."

Let him thus promote the welfare of his people.

RATE OF TAXES.

"Let the king take from trades people and artisans one-fiftieth part of their profit in silver and gold, and one-sixth, one-eighth, or one twelfth of agricultural produce such as rice." If he take it in cash instead of in kind, then too let him take it in such a way that the farmers and others would not suffer from poverty or from want of necessariee of life such as, food, drink and so on. Because when the people are rich, healthy and have abundance of necessaries of life, the king flourishes. Let him therefore make his subjects happy as he would his own children, and let the people regard the king, his ministers and other officials as their natural protectors, since it is a fact that the farmers and other wealth producers are the real source of kingly power. The king is their guardian. If there were

धर्मम्नं च कृतज्ञं च तुष्टप्रकृतिमेव च ।

अनुरक्तं स्थिरारम्मं लघुमित्रं प्रशस्यते ॥

प्राज्ञं कुलीनं शूरं च दक्षं दातारमेव च ।

कृतज्ञ धृतिमन्तश्च कष्टमाहुरीरं बुधाः ॥

आर्य्यता पुरुषद्गानं शौर्य्यं करुणवेदिता ।

स्थौललच्यं च सततम्रदासीनगुणोदयः ॥ मनु० ७ । १३० ॥

एवं सर्वमिदं राजा सह संमन्त्र्य मन्त्रिमिः !

व्यायानगान्त्रत्य मध्याद्वे मोक्तुमन्तः पुरं विश्वेत् ॥ मनु० ७ । २१६ ॥

no subjects whose king should he be? Or on the other hand if there were no king whose subjects shall they be called? Let both—the rulers and the ruled—be independent of each other in the performance of their respective duties, but let them subordinate themselves to each other in all those matters that require mutual harmony and co-operation. Let not the rulers go against the voice of the people, nor let the people and ministers do anything against the wish of the sovereign.

The political duties of kings have thus been briefly described. Let those who want to study this subject in detail consult the four Vedas, the Mann Smrili, the Shukranili, the Mahabhart and other books. The method of administering justice may be studied form the eighth, and ainth chapters of Manu, but it is also described briefly below:-

THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.

"Let the king, the Court and the Judges daily decide justly Manu law-suits—which are classified under eighteen heads—VIII, 3—8. according to the laws of the land and the teachings of the Dharm Shástra. If it be found necessary to undertake fresh legislation—in respect of matters about which no laws are to be found in the Law books of Rishis—let such laws be framed as will promote the welfare of the rulers and the ruled.

These are the following eighteen causes of disputes:-

- (1), Debt,
- (2). Deposit—for instance when a man deposits an article with another and is refused its return on demand.
- (3). Sale by one person of a thing that is owned by another.

पश्चात्रज्ञाग आदेयो राज्ञा पश्चिहरण्ययोः ।

े नियानामध्मो भागः षष्ठो द्वादश एव वा ॥ मनु ० ७ । १३० ॥
प्रत्यहं देशदृष्टेश्व ज्ञास्त्रदृष्टेश्व हेतुमिः ।

अष्टादशसु मार्गेषु निबद्धानि पृथक् पृथक् ॥
तेषामाद्यमृणादानं निश्चपोऽस्वामिविकयः ।
संभूय च सम्रत्थानं दत्तस्यानपकर्म च ॥
वेतनस्यैव चादानं संविदश्व व्यतिक्रमः ।

क्रचिक्रसार्श्वयो विवादः स्वामिपालयोः ॥

 $[\]cdot$ 1. Books on the principles of justice written by Rishis in conformity with the Vedas.—Tr.

- (4). Association of some persons against a particular individual for a criminal purpose.
- (5). Refusal to return a loan.
- (6), Non-payment or inadequate payment of one's wages.
- Disputes with regard to sale or purchase. (8).
- (9). Disputes between the owner of an animal and the man who looks after it.
- (10).Boundry disputes.
- (11).Assault.
- (12). Slander.
- (13). Larceny, burglary, and dacoity. (14). Violence.
- (15)Adultery.
- (16). Disregard of duties between man and wife.
- (17). Disputes about inheritance.
- Gambling—with animate as well as inanimate (18). things.

These are the eighteen causes of dispute among men.

Let the judge observe the eternal law of justice and decide all these cases of disputes among men justly, that is, without partiality.

Where Justice, having been wounded by Injustice, approaches the Court, and no one extracts the dart, shot by Injustice, from the wound, all the judges who constitute the bench shall also be considered as wounded.

सीमाविवादधर्मश्र पारुष्ये दण्डवाचिके । स्तेयं च साहसं चैव स्त्रीसङ्ग्रहणमेव च ॥ स्त्रीपुंधर्मो विभागश्रद्यतमाह्वय एव च। पदान्यष्टादशैतानि व्यवहारस्थिताविह ॥ एषु स्थानेषु भृषिष्टं बिवादं चरतां नृणाम्। धर्म शाश्वतमाश्रित्य उर्यात्कार्यविनिर्णयम्॥ धर्मो विद्वस्त्वधर्मेण सभां यत्रोपातिष्ठते । श्चलं चास्य न कृन्तन्ति विद्वास्तत्र सभासदः

1. Ie., where the iniquitous go unpunished and the good, unrewarded and unhonoured.

Either a just and virtuous man should not enter an Assembly (or a Court of justice), or, when he does enter it, should invariably speak the truth. He, who looks on injutice perpetrated before his very eyes and still remains mute or says what is false or unjust, is the greatest sinner.

Where justice is destroyed by Injustice and Truth by Untruth under the very nose of the Judges whilst they simply look on, all the Judges in that Court are as if dead, not one of them is alive. Justice being destroyed shall destroy the destroyer. Justice being protected shall protect the protector. Let no man, therefore, violate the laws of justice, lest justice, being destroyed, destroy him. He who violates the laws of jusice—justice that gives power and prosperity, and showers happiness like rain from heaven—is considered as lowest of the low by the wise. Let no one, therefore, violate the laws of justice. Justice alone, in this world, is the true friend that accompanies a man even after death; all other companions become extinct with the extinction of the body. Justice never forsakes a man.

When injustice is perpetrated, in a Court of Justice (or an assembly) by partiality being shown to one party, the injustice is devided into four equal parts. One quarter falls on the party in the cause, one quarter on his witnesses, one quarter on all the judges (or members of the assembly), and one quarter on the presiding judge (or President of the assembly). Where he, who deserves condemnation, is condemned; he, who is worthy of praise, is praised; he, who merits punishment, is punished; and he, who deserves honour, is honoured, in that court (or assembly) the Presiding Judge and other Judges (or the President and the

सभां वा न प्रवेष्टच्या वक्तव्यं वासमंजसम्।
अन्नवन्त्रिनुन्वापि नरो भवति किल्विषी॥
यत्र धर्मो ह्यधर्मेण सन्यं यत्रानृतेन च।
हन्यते प्रेक्तमाणानां हतास्तत्र सभासदः॥
धर्म एव हतोहन्ति धर्मो रक्ति राक्तिः।
तस्माद्धर्मो न हन्तव्यो मा नो धर्मो हतोऽवधीत्॥
दृषो हि भगवान् धर्मस्तस्य यः कुरुते ह्यलम्।
दृषते तं विदुर्देवान्तस्माद्धर्म न लेपयेत्॥
एक एव सुहद्वर्मो निधनेप्यनुयाति यः।
घरीरेण समकाशं सध्मन्यद्वि गच्छति॥ members of the assembly) are guileless and innocent, and the evil deed recoils on him alone who committed it."

WITNESSES AND THEIR QUALIFICATIONS ETC.

Manu witnesses who are men of character, learned, straight-VIII, 63, forward, who know their duty properly, and are 68, 72, 75, truthful and free from covetousness. Never should 78, 81, 84, men of opposite character be considered as eligible to 96, 91, bear witness

Let women be witnesses for women, the hvice-born for the twice-born Shúdrus for Shúdrus, and outcasts for outcasts.

Let a judge never deem it extremely necessary to examine too strictly the competence of witnesses in cases of violence, theft, adultery, the use of abusive language and assault, all these thing being done in the private, witnesses are not easily available in such cases.

If there be contradictory evidence let him accept as true the evidence of the majority; if the conflicting parties are equal in number, that of those distinguished by good qualities; on a difference between equally distinguished witnesses, that of the best among the twice-born, viz., sages, seers and Sányasis—altruistic teachers of humanity.

Two kinds of evidence is admissible, (1) what has been seen and (2) what has been heard by the witnesses. A witness who speaks the truth in a court of law neither deviates from right-eousness nor deserves to be punished, but he, who does otherwise, should be properly punished.

A witness, who says anything, in a court of law or in an assembly of good men, different from what he had seen or heard,

पादोऽधर्मस्य कत्तार पादः साह्मिणमृच्छति ।

पादः समासदः सर्वान् पादो राजानमृच्छति ॥

राजाभवत्यनेनास्तु मुच्यन्ते च सभासदः ।

एनो गच्छति कर्त्तारं निन्दाहीं यत्र निन्दाते ॥ मनु०८। १०॥

११३-१९॥

आप्ताः सर्वेषु वर्णेषु कार्याः कार्येषु साक्षिणः ।

सर्वधर्माविदोऽछुन्धा विपरीतांस्तु वर्जयेत् ॥

स्त्रीणां साद्यं स्त्रियः-कुर्युर्द्वजानां सद्दशा द्विजाः ।

स्त्राम्च सन्तः श्रुद्वाणामन्त्यानामन्त्ययोनयः ॥

should have his tongue cut off. He shall cousequently live in misery and pain for the rest of his life and shall have no happiness after death in consequence of having perjured himself.

Let only that which a witness declares naturally be received as evidence, but what he says on being tutored by others be considered useless for the purposes of evidence by a judge.

The witnesses being assembled in the court let the judge or the counsels in the presence of the plaintiffs and defendants address then in the following way—

"O ye witnesses! Whatever you know with regard to the matter before us in relation to both parties declare truthfully, for, your evidence is needed in this case A witness who speaks the truth shall hereafter—in future rebirths—attain to exalted regions and states, and thereby enjoy happiness; he shall, obtain glory in this life as well as in the next; because the power of speech has been declared in the Vedas as the cause of honour and disgrace. He who invariably speaks the truth is worthy of honour, while he who falsifies his speech is disgraced. By trutfulness in speech is a witness exalted, and by truthfulness in speech is the cause of Justice and Righteousness advanced. It behoves witnesses of all classes, therefore, to speak the truth and nothing but truth. Verily, the soul itself is its own witness; the soul itself is its own motive power. O man! Thou who art the chief witness on behalf of others destroy not the purity of thy own soul; in other words do thou know what is in thy own mind and to which thy speech corresponds as truth and the reverse as untruth. The wise consider no man greater than one whose discerning soul feels no misgivings when he speaks.

साहसेषु च सर्भेषु स्तेयसङ्ग्रहणेषु च । वाग्दण्डयोइच पारुष्ये न परीक्षेत साक्षिणः॥ ंबहत्वं परीगृह्णीयात्साक्षिद्वेधे नराधिपः। समेषु त गुणोत्कृष्टान गुणदेधे दिजोत्तमान ॥ समन्नदर्शनात्साक्ष्यं श्रवणाचैव सिध्यति । तत्र सत्यं त्रवन्साक्षी धर्मार्थाभ्यां न हीयंत ॥ साक्षी व्हथ्रतादन्यद्वित्रवन्नार्य्य संसदि । आवङ्नरकमभ्येति प्रेत्य स्वर्गाच हथिते ॥ स्वभावेभ्येनैव यद् ब्रयुस्तद् प्राह्यं च्यावद्दारिकम्। अतो यदन्यदिवयुधर्मार्थं तदपार्थंकम् ॥ सभान्तः साक्षिणः प्राप्तीनर्थिप्रत्यर्थिसिक्यर्धा । प्राङ्विवाकोऽनुयुञ्जीत विधिनाऽनेन सान्त्वयन ॥ यद् इगोरनयोर्वेत्थ कार्येरिमन चेष्टितं मिथः। तद् व्रत सर्वं सत्येन् युष्माकं ह्यत्र साक्षिता । सत्यं साच्ये बूबन्साची लोकानामोति पुष्कलान्। इह चातुत्तमां कीर्ति वागेषा बद्धाप्रजिता ॥ सत्येन पूयते सान्ती धर्मः सत्येन बर्द्धते । त मात्सत्यं हि वक्तव्यं सर्ववर्णेषु साश्विभिः॥

O man! If thou desirest to obtain happiness by uttering a falsehood when thou art above thou art mistaken, for the Supreme spirit that resideth in thy soul seeth whatever thou doest—good or bad. Fear Him O man! And live constantly a truthful life."

"Evidence given through covetousness, through love through fear, through friendship, through lust, through VIII. 118. hunger, through anger, through ignorance and through childishness must be held false. Should a witness give false evidence from either of these motives, let fitting punishment be inflicted on him. If a man give false evidence through covelousness he shall be fixed one thousand

आत्मैव ह्यात्मनः सार्ची गतिरात्मी तथात्मनः ।

मावमंस्थाः स्वमात्मानं नृणां साक्षिणग्रुत्तमम् ॥

यस्य विद्वान् हि वदतः च्रेत्रज्ञो नाभि शङ्कते ।

तस्मान्न देवाः श्रेयांसं लोकेऽन्यं पुरुषं विदुः ॥

एकोऽहमस्मीत्यात्मानं यत्वं कल्याण मन्यसे ।

नित्यं स्थितस्ते हृद्येष पुण्यपापेचिता ग्रुनिः ॥ मनु०८॥ ६१ । ६८

७२-७५ । ७८-८१ । ८३ । ८४ । ६९ । ९६॥

लो प्रद्योशिष्ट्र यान्मैत्रात्कामात् क्रोधात्त्रयेव च । अज्ञानाद् बालमावाच साक्ष्यं वितथमुच्यते ॥ प्रामन्यतमे स्थाने यः साक्ष्यमनृतं वदेत् । तस्य प्रद्यविश्वेषांस्तुत्रवद्याम्यनुपूर्वश्वः ॥ panas 1 or one pound ten pence, if through love four shillings three pence, if through fear eight shillings four pence, if through friendship sixteen shillings eight pince, if through lust one pound thirteen shillings four pence, if through an jer, three pounds two shillings six pence, if through involute eight shillings, and if through childishness two shillings one pence. There are ten places whereon punishment may be inflicted, viz, the property, the penis, the back, the tongue, hands, feet, eyes, ears, the nose, and the whole body. The amount of various punishments, (with regard to fines) that have been described above or shall be done hereafter, should vary with the pecuniary direumstances of the offender, with the time and place and nature of the offence, and with the general character and position (social and the like) of the offender.

The infliction of unjust punishment destroys reputation and honour—past, present, and future—in this world as well as the glory to come. It causes great misery and intense suffering even after death; let a judge, therefore, avoid infliction of unjust punishment. A king who inflicts punishment on such as deserve it not, and inflicts no punishment on such as deserve it, brings infamy on himself in this life, and shall sink to great depths of misery in the next. Let the guilty, therefore, be invariably punished, and the innocent never punished.

For the first offence let the offender be punished by gentle admonisim, for the second by harsh reproof, for the third by a fine, and for the fourth by corporeal chastisement, such as flogging and caning, or by imprisonment or death penalty."

लोभात्सहस्दण्डयस्तु मोहात्पूर्वन्तु साहसप्।
भयाद् ह्री मध्यमी दण्डयी मैत्रात्पूर्व चर्तुगुणम्।।
कामाइश्रम्णं पूर्व क्रोधात्तु त्रिगुणं परम्।
अज्ञानाद् हे श्रते पूर्णे वालिक्या उद्धायेव तु ॥
उपस्थमुद्रं जिह्वा हस्ती पादी च पश्चमम् ।
चक्षुनीसा च कर्णी च धनं देहस्तथेव च ॥
अनुमन्धं परिज्ञाय देशकाली च तत्त्वतः।
साराऽपराधी चाली य दण्डं दण्डयेषु पातयेत् ॥
अधमेदण्डनं लोके यशोमं कीतिनाश्चनः।
अस्वर्यश्च परत्रापि तस्मात्तत्वा वर्जयेतः॥

^{1.} A pana is equal to a farthing.—Tr.

^{2.} For instance if he be very poor, let the fine be lighter than the ordinary rate, while if he be rich, let it be double, triple or even quadruple of it.—Ir.

With whatever limb a man commits an offence, even that limb shall the king remove or destroy in order vill, 334, to set an example to others and prevent the repetition of the same crime Whosoever—be he father, tutor, 347, 35°, friend, wife, son, or spiritual teacher—deviates from the path of duty, becomes liable to punishment; so other words, when a judge sits on the seat of justice, let him ihow partiality to no one and punish all justly.

Where an ordinary min would be fined one penny, a king shall be fined a thousand, i e., punishment inflicted on a king should be a thousand times heavier than that on an ordinary man," the king's minister eight hundred times, the official lower than him seven hundred, and one still lower six hundred and so on: even the lowest official, such as a constable, should be punished not less than eight times as heavily as an ordinary man would be, for if the government officials or servants be not punished more severely than ordinary people, they would tyrannise over them. As a lion requires a severer punishment than a goat to be well-broken, similarly do the rulers, (from the highest officials—the king—to the meanest servant of the State) require heavier punishment than ordinary people. If a person possess the power of discrimination, and yet commit theft, let his punishment be eishtfold-i. e., eight times the amount of the theft- if he be a Shúdra; si cleen feld, if a Vaishya; thirty-two fold, if a Kshatriya; sixty four or hundred fold or even one hundred and twentyeight fold if he be a Brahman, i. e., the more know-

अदण्डचान्दण्डयन् राजा दण्डचांश्वनाप्यदण्डयन । अयशो महदाप्रोति नरकं चैन गच्छति ॥ वाग्दण्डं प्रथमं कुर्याद्विग्दण्डं तदनन्तरम् । तृतीयं धनदण्डं तु बधदण्डमतः परम ॥ मनु ० ८ । ११८---१२१ । १२५---१२९ ॥

येन येन यथाक्नेन स्तेनो नृषु विचेष्टते । तत्त्वदेव इरेदस्य प्रत्यादेशाय पार्थिवः ॥ विक् िताचाय्यः सुन्माता भार्य्या पुत्रः पुरोहितः । ना ण्डचो नाम राक्कोऽित यः स्वधर्मे न तिष्टति ॥ कार्यापणं भवेदणचो यत्रान्यः प्राकृतो जनः । सत्र राजा-भवे ण्डचः सद्भागित धारणा ॥ ledge a man possesses, the greater his reputation and influence, the heavier his punishment should be.

Let not the king and other persons in authority, who desire wealth and prosperity, and love justice and righteousness, delay even for a single moment the punishment of a man who has committed atrocious violence as decoity, robbery, etc. A man who commits violence is more wicked and a more grievious offender than a slanderer, a thief, and even one who assaults another without provocation. A king, who suffers a man that perpetrates such atrocities to go unpunished, incurs public displeasure and shall soon perish. Neither through friendship, nor even at the offer of immense wealth should a king let a criminal, who commits violent acts, go unpunished. On a criminal who is a terror to the people, अष्टापाद्यन्तु श्रूद्रस्य स्तेये भवति किल्विषम् षोडशैव तु वंश्यस्य द्वात्रिशत् क्षत्रियस्य च ॥ ब्राह्मण स्य चतुः पष्टि पूर्ण वापि शतं भवेत् । द्विगुणा वा चतुःषष्टिस्तदोषगुणविद्धि सः ॥ ऐन्द्रं स्थानमभिष्पुर्यश्रश्राक्तयमव्ययम् । नोपेन्नेत क्तणमिप राजा साहसिकं नरम्। वाग्दुष्टात्तस्काराचैव दण्डेनैव च हिंसतः। साहसस्य नरः कर्ता विज्ञेयः पापकृत्तमः ॥ साइसे वर्तमानन्त यो मर्पयति पार्थिवः। साविनाशं त्रजत्याशु विदेषं चाधिगच्छति ॥ न मित्रकारणाद्राजा विपुलाद्वा धनागमात्। सञ्चत्स्रुजेत् साहासिकान्सर्वभूतभयावद्दान् । गुरुं वा बालवृद्धी वा बाह्यणं वा बहुश्रुतम्। आतताथिनमायान्तं इन्यादेवाविचारयन् ॥ नाततायिवधे दोषो इन्तुर्भवति कश्रन । प्रकाशं वाऽप्रकाशं वा मन्रस्तद्यद्यमुच्छति ॥ यस्य स्तेनः पुरे नास्ति नान्य स्त्रीगो न दुष्टवाक् । न साहांसजदण्डज्ञी स राजा शक्रलोकभाक् ।। मनु ० ८ ।३३४-३३८ । ३४४---३४७ । ३५० । ३५१ । ३८६॥ let the king inflict just punishment, such as inprisonment or death. Let him put a man, who is convicted of the murder of another (but not in self-defence, etc.,) to death without a moment's hesitation, be he his tutor, his child, his father or so ne other elderly person, a Brithman, or a great scholar. He commits no sin who passes the sentence of death on a criminal convicted of murder and such other highly henious crimes, whether he be executed publicly or privately. It is like opposing ang r to anger!

Most excellent is the king in whose realm, there is neither a thief, nor an adulterer, nor a slanderer, nor a perpetrator of atrocious violence such as a dacoit, nor a transgressor of the law."

"Should a wife out of her family pride desert her husband and misconduct herself, les the king conde an her to be devoured by dogs before all men and women. Similarly should a husband forsake his wife and misconduct himself with other women; let; the king cause that sinner to be burnt alive publicly on a red hot iron-bed."

- O.—Who shall punish the king or the queen, the Lord Chief Justice or, his wife, if any one of them commit such wicked crimes as adultery?
- A:—The Assembly (or the court of justice). They should be punished even more severely than other people.
- O.—Why will the king and other high personages suffer the assembly (or the court of justice) to punish them?
- A.—What is a king but a man endowed with virtue and favoured by fortune. Were he to go unpunished, why would others obey the law? Besides if the people and other persons in authority and the Assembly would deem it just and necessary to punish the king, how can he single-handed refuse to suffer punishment? Were the king and other high personages to go free, the king, ministers, and other men of influence and power would simply set justice and righteousness at naught, sink into the depths of injustice and ruin the people as well as themselves.

Remember ye the teaching of the Vedic text that says 'Verily the just Law alone is the true king, yes, the just Law is the true religion." Whosoever violates it is lowest of the low.

O.—How can it be right to inflict such severe punishments, since man has no power to make a limb or bring the dead to life again?

भर्तारं लंघयेद्या सी स्वज्ञातिगुणदर्पिता। तां श्वभिःखादयेद्राजा संस्थाने वहुंसीस्थेतें ॥

i. s., fighting the criminal with his own weapon.—Ir.

A.—Whosoever calls it severe punishment is ignorant of the true principles of Right Government. The infliction of a heavy punishment on one man prevents others from committing similar crimes, and tends to keep then steadfast in righteousness. Truly speaking this so-called heavy punishment is no heavier than the weight of a mustard seed when distributed among all the members of a connunity, whilst the so called light punishment, by its failure to check crime, is really a thousand times heavier than the first, as it is multiplied a thousand times by the proportional increase of crime. Now take for an illustration a community of one thousand persons. If every one of the n be punished, say, one pound each, the total purishment will be one thousand pounds. whilst if one man in this community of one thousand persons be punished, say, one hun fred pounds and should that, punishment succeed in preventing the repetition of similar crimes, the total punishment will not be more than a hundred pounds, which is ten times less than one thousand pounds. Thus the seemingly light punishment in the long run turns out to be the heavier one.

"Let the king impose toll on all the ships, and boats Manu VIII, passing up and down sea canals (or bays) and rivers 406, 419, 480, —big and small—proportionate to the length of the country that they traverse; at sea no settled duty can be imposed, hence let him do what best suits the occasion. Let him in such cases make laws that may prove beneficial both to the state and the proprietors of ships!"

Let him always protect his subjects, who go to different foreign lands by means of these ships, wherever they are. Let them never suffer in any way.

"Let the king daily watch the results of various measures, (adopted for the good of the state, etc.), inspect elephants, horses and other conveyances, inquire into his income and expenditure, inspect his mines of precious gems, and his treasury.

A king who discharges all these duties most faithfully is freed from all taint of sin, and shall attain to the Supreme State."

षुमांसं दाहवेत्पापं शयने तप्त आयसे। अभ्यादच्युश्च काष्टानि तत्र दसेत पापकृत्॥ दीर्घाष्ट्रानि यथादेशं यथाकालक्कंरोभवेत्। नदीतीरेषु ताह्यात्सादे नास्तिलक्कणम्॥

^{1.} If re it must be born in mind that those people who say that there were no ships in ancient times are absolutely in the wrong.

- O.—Is the ancient Aryan system of Government perfect or imperfect?
- A.—Perfect; because all other systems of Government, that prevail at present or shall prevail, have and will have for their basis the Aryan system of Government. The laws that have not been declared expressly have been provided for by the text. "Let the Parliament composed of profound scholars frame such laws as are just and beneficial to the rulers and the ruled"

Let the king as well as his advisers bear in mind that early marriage must not, so far as possible, be allowed, nor the marriage of grown up people without mutual consent. Let the king encourage the practice of Brahmacharya; let him put a stop to prostitution and the custom of plurality of wives (as polygamy, etc.,) so that both body and soul may attain perfect strength and power. For if only mental powers and knowledge be developed, but not physical strength, one man of great physical strength may vanguish hundreds of scholars. On the other hand if physical strength alone be sought after and not mental, the high duties or Government can never be rightly discharged Without proper training and requisite knowledge and without the proper discharge of these duties, there can be no harmony. All will be discord, division, mutual disputes, quarrels and feuds that ultimately ruin all. Let therefore, both mind and body be developed. There is nothing more prejudicial to the growth of physical and mental powers than prestitution and excessive sexual inclulgence. Kshatriyás should, in particular, be physically strong and possess well developed bodies, because if they be lascivious, the government of the country is irrevocably ruined. The proverb "As is the king, so shall the people be should never be lost sight of. It, therefore, behoves the king and other high presonages never to misconduct Instead, let them always set a good example to others in the matter of just and righteous living.

अहन्यहन्येव होत कर्मान्तान्वाहनानि च ।
आयव्ययो च नियतावाकरान्कोषमेव च ॥
एवं सर्वानिमानाजा व्यवहारान्समापयन् ।
व्यपोद्य किल्विषं सर्वं प्रामोति परमां गतिम् ॥ मनु०८। ३७१ । ३७२
। ४०६ । ४१६ । ४२०॥
प्रत्यहं लोकदृष्टेक्च शास्त्रदृष्टेक्च हेत्सिः ॥ मनु०८। ३॥

Thus have the duties of Rulers been briefly described. Those, who want to study them in detail, are referred to the Vedas. the seventh, eighth and ninth chapters of Manu, the Shukraniti, Vidurprajagar, Rajadharma, and Apatdharma chapters of Shintiparva of the Mahabharata. They should perfectly master the science and art of government, and rule one country or Empire or the whole earth. Let all understand "We are the subjects of the Lord of the Universe—the king of kings. He is over Yajur Veda. true king and we are all His humble servants" May we in this world, through His mercy, be privileged to occupy kingly and other high offices and may He make us the means of advancing. His Eternal Justice.

! In the next Chapter we shall discourse on the Veda and God.

THE END OF CHAPTER VI.

CHAPTER VII

ON

GOD AND THE VEDA.

HEY are atheists and of weak intellect, and continually remain sunk in the depths of misery and pain who do not believe in, know, and commune with Him who is Resplendent, All-glorious, All-Holy, All-knowledge, sustainer of the sun, the earth and other planets, Who pervades all like ether, list the Lord of all and is above all devates. It is by the knowledge and contemplation of God alone that all men attain true happiness."

- O.—There are more gods than one mentioned in the Vedus Do you believe this or not?
- A.—No, we do not; as nowhere in all the four Vedus there is written anything that could go to show that there are more gods than one. On the other hand, it is clearly said in many places that there is only one God.
- ().— What is meant by the mention of various devatés the Vedas then?

ऋचों अक्षरे परमे व्योमन्यस्मिन् देवा अधि विश्वनिषेदुः । यस्तस्न वेद किमृचा करिष्यति य इत्तद्विदुस्त इमे समासते ॥ ऋ०॥ मं० १। स० १६४॥ मं० ३९

t. The word Devata is erroniously translated into god by the orthodox Pundits and European scholars.—Tr.

A.—Whatsoever or whosoever possesses useful and brilliant qualities is called a devalá, as the earth for instance; but it is nowhere said that it is God or is the object of our adoration. Even in the above membra it is said that He, who is the sustainer of all devalás, is the adorable God, and is worthy of being sought after. They are greatly mistaken who take the word devotá to mean God. He is called devatá of devatás - greatest of all devatás, because He alone is the author of Creation, Sustenance and Dissolution of the Universe, the Great Judge and Lord of all. The Vedic text "The Lord of all, the Ruler of the universe, the Sustainer of all holds all things by thirty-three devatés" has been explained as follows in the fourteenth chapter of Sharpatha Bráhman:—(1) Heated cosmic bodies; (2) planets; (3) atmosphere; (4) super terrestrial space, (5) suns, (6) Rays of ethereal space, (7) satellities (8) stars; these eight are called Vusus, because they are the abode of all that lives, moves or exists. The eleven Riulras are the ten pran is2—nervauric forces - enlivening the human body and the eleventh is the human spirit. These are called Rudras, because when they desert the body, it becomes dead and the relations of the deceased, consequently, begin to weep. The twelve months of a year are called Adilyas, as they cause the lapse of the term of existence of each object or being. The (all-pervading) electricity is called Indra, as it is productive of Yajna³ is called Prajápati because it benfits mankind by the purification of air, water, rain and vegetables and because it aids the development of various arts, and because in it the honour is accorded to the learned and the wise.

These thirty-three aforesaid entities are called devatés by virtue of possessing useful properties and actions. Being Lord of all and greater than all, the Supreme Being is called the thirty-fourth, Devatés who alone is to be worshipped. The same thing is written in the other Shástrus. Had people consulted these books, they would not have fallen into this error, viz, the belief that there are more gods than one mentioned in the Vedus.

^{1.} I subjoin the definition of the word devatat from Nirukta (vii, 15) as translated by the late Pundit Guru Datta Vidyárthi, M. A., "Whatsoever or whosoever, is capable of conferring some advantages upon us, capable of illuminating things or capable of explaining things to us, and last of all, the Light of all lights—these are the fit subjects to be called devatas."—Tr.

^{2.} See Chapter IX for a description of the Pranas.

^{3.} A Yajna is an active voluntary association of objects on the part of man for the purpose of advancing art and assembling together of men for purposes of teaching and learning—Tr.

Ł.

Yajur Veda every world in the whole circle of nature. He is the XL, 1. the wealth of any creature existing. Renounce all that is unjust and enjoy pure delight—true spiritual happiness—by the practice of justice and righteousness which is another name for true religion."

God teaches in the Veda "I, O men, lived before the whole universe came into being. I am Lord of all. I am Rig Veda the eternal cause of the whole creation. I am the source and giver of all wealth. Let all men look up to me alone as children do to their parents. I have appointed different foods and drinks for all creatures to give them sustenance so that they may live in happiness."

"I am God Almighty, I am the Light of the world like the sun. Neither defeat, nor death, can ever approach Rig Veda me. I am the controller of the universe, know me X, 48, 5. alone as the Creator of all. Strive ye diligently for the acquisition of power and wealth such (as true knowledge). Ask ye of me. May ye never lose my friendship. I give true knowledge, which is real wealth, unto men who are truthful. I am the revealer of the Vedus which declare my true nature. It is through the Vedas that I advance the knowledge of all. I am the prompter of the good and true. I reward those who devote themselves to the good of humanity. I am the cause, I am the support of all that exists in this universe. May ye never turn away from me. May ye never accept another God in my place, nor worship him."

ईशावास्यिमद् सर्व यातिश्च जगत्याञ्चर्गत् ।
तेन त्यक्तेन अञ्जीथा मा गृधः कस्य खिद्धनम् ॥
यजुः ॥ अ० ४० । मं० १ ॥
अहम्भुवं वसुनः पूर्व्यस्पितिरहं धनानि संजयामि शश्चतः । मां इवेन्ते पितरं न जन्तवोऽहं दशुषे विभजामि भोजनम् ॥ अहमिन्द्रो न परां
जिग्य इद्धनं न मृत्यवेऽवंतस्थे कदांचन । सोम् मिन्मासुन्वन्तो याचता
वसु न में पूरवः सख्येरिषाथन ॥ ४ ॥ ऋ० मं० १० स० ४८ ।
मं० १ । ५ ॥

- "God, O men, existed in the beginning of the Creation.

 He is the Creator, Support and Sustainer of the sun Yajur Veda and other luminous worlds. He was the Lord of the past Creation He is the Lord of the present. He will be the Lord of the unborn universe. He created the whole world, and He sustains it. He is Eternal Bliss. May ye al praise and adore Him as we do."
- O.—You talk about God, but how can you prove His existence?
- A.—By the evidence of direct cognition and other evidences,
- O.—But there can be no evidence of direct cognition, with regard to God.
- A.—"The knowledge which is the result of the direct contact of the five senses optic, auditory, olfactory, gustatory and tactile—and of the mind, with light, sound, smell, taste and touch, with feelings of pleasure and pain, truth and untruth is called direct cognition. But this knowledge must be free from error and doubt."

On reflection it will be clear that it is only attributes that can be known through the senses and the mind, not substances, in which those qualities inhere. As for example, we are cognisant of a solid substance when it gives rise to the sensations of touch, smell, etc., by coming in contact with our four senses, such as tactile sense, and the senses with the mind, and the latter with the soul; similarly we are cognisant of the existence of God by observing such qualities as design and intelligence in this world. Besides, instantly the soul directs the mind and latter directs the senses to the pursuit of a certain object either good—such as, acts that promote public welfare—or bad such as theft, they all incline to the desired object, and at that very moment, feelings of fear, sham, and distrust arise in the soul if the action be sinful, and those

हिरण्यगर्भः समवर्त्तनाग्रे भूतस्य जातः पतिरेकं आसित्। स दोधार पृथिवीं द्याम्रतेमां कस्मैं देवायं हविषां विधेम ॥

यजुः०। अ० १३। ४॥

इदित्रार्धसारिको न्त्पनं ज्ञानमञ्यपदेश्यमञ्यभिचारि व्यवसायात्मः। भत्यत्तम् ॥ न्याय० । अ० १ । स्र० ४ ॥

1. See Chapter III, page 48.

of fearlessness, courage, and satisfaction or felicity, if it be good; these feelings are prompted not by the human soul, but by the Divine Spirit. Lastly when the soul, freed from all impurities, devotes itself to the contemplation and realization of God through you, it becomes cognisant of both—itself and the Divine Spirit. When we can be directly cognisant of the existence of God, how can there be any doubt about His existence by inference and other evidences, because the cause is inferred from its effects.

- O.—Is God All-pervading or does He reside in some particular locality?
- A.—He is All-pervading. If He were localised in some particular place, He could never be Omniscient, Inward Regular of all, Universal Controller, Creator of all, Sustainer of all and the Cause of resolution of all things into their elements, as it is impossible for the doer to do anything in a place where he is not.
 - O.—Is God Just as well as Merciful?
 - A.—Yes, he is both.
- O.—These two attributes are opposed to each other, since justice consists in giving a person the just amount of pleasure or pain,—neither more nor less—according to the nature of his deeds, while mercy consists in letting the offender go unpunished. How could He be both merciful and just at the same time.
- A Justice and mercy differ only in name. The object served by justice is the same as accomplished by mercy. Now the object of inflicting punishment through justice is to prevent people from committing crimes and thereby enable them to be freed from pain and misery. What is the object of mercy but to rid people of misery? Your definitions of justice and mercy are not correct. because the infliction of just punishment in exact accordance with the amount of crime is called justice. If the offender be not punished, mercy will be destroyed, for, suffering one such criminal, as a robber, to go unpunished amounts to giving pain to thousands of righteous and law abiding people. What mercy can it be then in allowing one man to go unpunished and making others suffer? It will be an act of mercy indeed to that robber to keep him in prisod and thereby prevent him from further commission of crines. It will also be an act of mercy to thousands of other people to rid them of that robber or dacoit by putting him to death or keeping him in imprisonment.
- O.—What is then the object of baving two terms—mercy and justice—both having the same meaning? It is useless to have two terms, it would have been far better to have only one. This shows that they do not mean the same.

- A.—Is not an idea expressed by more than one word, and can not one word be expressive of more than one idea?
 - O.—Yes, it is so,
 - A.—Why did you doubt it then?
 - O.—Because we hear it said in the world.
- A.—We hear both truthful and untruthful things being said in this world, but it is our duty to discriminate between them after due reflection. Behold the infinite mercy of God that He has created all things in this world for the good of all, and given them all freely! What mercy can be greater than this? On the other hand, the inequality in the conditions of men—some are in misery, while others in happiness—is a clear proof of the operation of His Law of Justice. They—mercy and justice—only differ in the fact that the intense desire in one's mind to bestow happiness on all and act accordingly, is mercy, whilst the outward action—such as the just infliction of punishment on an offender by imprisoning him or putting him to death is—justice. The one object served by both is to rescue all from sin and consequent suffering.

O.—Has God a form or is He formless?

A.—He is formless, because if He possess a form He could never be Omnipresent, nor, therefore Omniscient, since a finite substance can possess only finite attributes, actions and nature. Besides, He could never be free from hunger and thirst, heat and cold, disease imperfections and injuries. This proves, therefore, that God is formless. If He were to possess a body, another person would be required to make the different organs of His body, such as eyes, ears and the like, for, He, who is the product of the combination of the different parts, must have an intelligent formless maker. Here if it be urged that God Himself made His own body simply by willing it, this too goes to prove that He was formless before He made His body. It is clear, therefore, that God is never embodied. Being without a body He is able to make visible universe out of invisible causes.

O—Is God All-powerful or not?

- A.—Yes, He is; but what you understand by the word All-powerful is not right. It really means that God does not require the least assistance from any person in all His works such as Creation, Sustenance and Dissolution of the Universe, and adminststration of Divine Justice. In other words, He does all His works with His own infinite power.
- O.—But we believe that God can do whatever He likes. There is no one above Him.

- A.—What does He like? If you say that He likes and can do all things, we ask "Can God kill Himself?" Or "Can He make other Gods like Himself, become ignorant, commit sins such as theft, adultory and the like? Or Can He be unhappy?" Your answer can only be in the negative, as these things are opposed to the nature and attribute of God; hence your contention, that God can do all things, does not hold good. Our meaning only, therefore, of the word All-powerful is true.
 - O-Is God Anádi' or Sádi'?
 - A.—He is Anádi, that is, He has no cause or beginning.
 - .O.—What does God desire?
- A.—The good of all, and the happiness of all, but He does not, by the caprice of His Own Will, subordinate one person to another without an offence.
- O.—Should we glorify God, pray to Him and commune with Him?
 - A.—Yes.
- O_{\bullet} —Will God by one's doing so suspend His laws, and forgive the sins of His devotees?
 - A.—No.
 - O,-Why should we then worship God?
- A.—Its objects are altogether different from those you mentioned.
 - O.-What are they?
- A.—Glorification gives rise to love of the Supreme Being, reformation of one's nature, character and attributes in accordance with the nature, attributes, and character of God.

Prayer creates humility, courage, and obtains divine help-

Communion results in union with the Great Being and in direct cognition of him.

- O.—Will you please explain it in detail?
- A .- Glorification is of two kinds: Positive and Negative.

Posi ive glorification consists in praising God as possessed of positive attributes in the following manner:—

- "That Supreme Being overspreads all. He is entirely spirit, All-energy, All-powerful, Pure, Perfect Omniscient, 8. Inward Controller of all, Ruler of all, Eternal and selfexistent. He has from all eternity been
 - 1. These terms have been explained in the first Chapter.

teaching uncreated immortal human souls, the true knowledge of things through the revelation of the Veda—His eternal knowlegde.

Negative glorification consists in praising God as devoid of such ungodly qualities as passion and malice and the following way:—

"He is never embodied, is never born, is never liable to Yajur Veda impression or organization, never commits a sin, is IX, 8. never subject to pain, grief and ignorance and the like."

The object of Glorification is to reform one's nature, attributes and character after the nature, attributes and character of God, for instance let him be just as God is and so on. He who praises God like a flunkey, but does not reform his character does himself no good.

ii. Prayer to God is to be addressed in the following way:—

"Endow us, O Lord, who art All-glorious, through thy Vajur Veda mercy, at this very instant with that wisdom which XXXII, 14. the wise, the learned, and yoyis pray for."

"Thou art Light, be merciful and shed that light into my Yajur Veda heart. Thou art Infinite energy, through Thy grace XX, 9. endow me with unfailing energy. Thou art Infinite strength, endow me with strength. Thou art Infinite power,

स पर्यगाच्छुकंमकायमव्रणमंस्नाविरः ग्रुद्धमपापविद्धम् । किविमें -नीषी परिभूः स्वयम्भूर्याथातथ्यतोऽश्वीन् व्यदधाच्छाश्वतीभ्यः समाभ्यः ॥ यजु० ॥ अ० ४० । मं०८ ॥

यां मेघां देवगणाः पितरश्चोपासते । तया मामद्य मेघयाऽग्ने मे-धाविनं क्ररु खाहां ॥ यजुः ।। अ० ३२ । मं० १४ ॥

तेजोऽसि तेजो मिय 'घेहि। वीर्घ्यमिस वीर्घ्य मिय घेहि। बर्छमीस बर्छ मिय घेहि। ओजोस्योजो मिय घेहि। मन्युरेसि मन्युं मिय घेहि। सहोऽसि सहो मिय घेहि॥ यजुः०॥ अ०१९। मं०९॥

ाळाहतो द्रमुदैति दैवन्तदुं सुप्तस्य तथैवैति । द्रांगमं ज्योतिषां ज्योतिरेकन्तन्मे मनः शिवसंङ्गल्पमस्तु ॥ endow me with great power. Thou art wrathful with the wicked, make me also wrathful. Thou art moved neither by slander, nor, by praise; Thou art forbearing towards those who offend against Thee, make me also forbearing."

"May, O Ocean of mercy, through thy grace my mind—the Yajur Veda mind that in the wakeful state travels long distances, XXXIV, 1. and, possesses brilliant qualities, which self-same mind—the light of the senses—in sleep attains to the state of profound slumber and in dreams wanders over different places—always entertain pure thoughts for the good of the self as well as for that of all other living beings. May it never desire to injure any one."

"May, O Omniscient God, my mind—which is the source of all activity and which, thereby, enables men of learning, piety and courage to perform acts of great public good and heroic deeds on the field of battle and other occasions, which possesses wonderful powers and admirable qualities and rules the senses-harbour only righteous desires and completely renounce sin and vice."

"May, O Lord, my mind—the mind which is the repository of the highest form of knowledge, is the faculty for consciousness and judgment, is the light of the senses, and is immortal, the mind without which a man is powerless to do even the most insignificant thing—aspire for purity and shun wickedness."

"May, O Lord of the Universe, my mind—the mind which Yajur Veda is the medium through which all yojis acquire knowledge of the past, the present and the future, which becomes the means of the union of the immortal human soul with the Supreme Spirit and thereby makes it cognisant of the three periods of time, (the past, the present and

येन कर्माण्यपसो मनीषिणो यहे कुण्वन्ति विदथेषुं धीराः ।

यदंपर्व यत्तमन्तः प्रजानां तन्मे मनः शिवसंङ्कल्पमस्तु ॥

यत्प्रज्ञानंष्ठ्रत चेतो धृतिश्च यज्जोतिरन्तरमृतं प्रजासु ।

यस्माश्रमते किंचन कर्म क्रियते तन्मे मनः शिवसंङ्कल्पमस्तु ॥

यनेदं भूतं भूवनं मविष्यत्परि र शितममृतेन सर्वम् ।

यने य स्तायते सप्त होता तन्मे मनः शिवसंङ्कल्पमस्तु ॥

the future), the mind which is capable of conscious exertion and is closely united with the five senses, the faculty of discernment and the soul, and is the means of the advancement of that great $Y \cdot jna$ called yoya—be endowed with true knowledge and yoya and thereby be freed from all kinds of pain and ignorance."

- "May, O Great God, Wisest of the wise! through Thy grace my mind—which like the hub of a wheel into which all the spokes are inserted, is the repository of the Rij Vedu, the Yajur Vedu, the Sama Vedu and also the Atharva Vedu, the mind in which Omniscient, Omnipresent conscious Being—the Witness of all—makes Himself known—be freed from of all ignorance and be endowed with the love of knowledge."
- "May, O Lord, the Controller of the Universe! my mind—which is like a driver who can swing the horses round in all directions, sways men hither and thither, is seated in the heart, possessed of great activity and extreme energy—restrain all the senses from treading the path of wickedness and always direct them in the path of righteousness Mayest, Thou O Lord, of Thy kindness grant this my prayer."
- Yajur Veda Xu, 16. Supreme Spirit, into the path of rectitude and thereby inspire us with all kinds of knowledge and wisdom, rid us of all that is false and sinful in our conduct, and make us pure. To this end, we in all humility repeatedly praise and adore Thee."

मन्त्रब्रह्मणये।वेददामधेयम् ॥

यस्मिन्नृचः साम यज् षि यस्मिन्नितिष्ठिता रथना भाविताराः । यस्मिश्चित्तः सर्वमातं प्रजानां तन्मे मनः शिवसङ्कल्पमस्तु ॥ सुषारिथरश्चानिव यन्मनुष्याभेनीयतेऽ भीद्यंभिर्वाजिन इव । हृत्नितिष्ठंयदिज्ञरं जिवष्ठं तन्मे मनः
शिवसङ्कल्पमस्तु ॥ यज्ञ० । अ० ३४ । मं० । १ । २ । ३ । ४ । ५ । ६ ।

अग्ने नय सुपर्था रायेऽअस्मान् विश्वानि देव वयुनांनि विद्वान्।
गुरोध्यस्मज्जुहुराणमनो भ्यिष्ठां ते नमं उक्ति विधेम ॥ यजुः०॥ अ०४०। मं० १६॥

"Mayest not, Thou, O Punisher of the wicked! destroy our young ones, nor our old ones, fœtuses, mothers, and fathers, nor those who are dear to us, nor our relations, nor our bodies Direct us to that path by following which we may not be liable to punishment by Thy Law."

"Lead us, O Supreme Spirit, Teacher of teachers, from falsehood unto rectitude, from darkness into light of knowledge, from death and disease to Immortality and Eternal Happiness."

Prayer is said to be Positive or Negative according as the Deity is looked upon as possessed of good attributes or as free from bad qualities, faults and imperfections.

A man should act in accordance with what he prays for. For example, if he prays for the attainment of highest wisdom, let him do his utmost to attain it. In other words, prayer should be addressed to God for the attainment of an object after one has strenuously endeavoured to attain it. No one should pray in the following manner, nor does God ever answer such a prayer:—

'O Lord! destroy my enemies, make me superior to all. Let me alone be honoured by all, make all others subordinate to me, ect.' For, if both enemies were to pray for each other's destruction, should God destroy both of them? If some one were to say that of the two let that man's prayer be granted who bears more love to God, we answer that the enemy of the man whose loves is less, should also suffer less destruction in a lesser degree. If people began to address such foolish prayers the next thing, they will do, will be to pray in this manner, "O God! Cook our food for us, put it on the table for us, scrub our houses, do our washing, till our land, and do a bit of gardening as well for us." The greatest fools are they who, trusting to God in this wise, remain slothful and indolent; because whosoever will disobey God's commandment to work assiduously shall never be happy. God commands thus:—

मा नो महान्तं मुत मा ने । अर्थ में के मा न उत्तन्त मुत मा न उत्तितम् । मा नो वधीः पितरं मोत मातरं मानः प्रियास्तन्वो रुद्र रीरिषः यजुः ।। अ०१६। मं०१५॥ असतो मा सद् गमय तमसो मा ज्योतिर्गमय मृत्योमी अमृतं गमयेति॥ श्रतपथन्ना०१४।३।१।३०॥

Let a man aspire to live by doing work for a hundred years, i.e., as long as he lives. Let him never be Yajur Veda lazy." Behold! all the animate and the inanimate XL, 2. objects in this universe perform their respective The ants and other creatures are always active, the functions. earth and other planets are always in motion, the trees are always growing or decaying. Man should take a lesson from these, men help him who helps himself, so does God help him who works righteously Just as servants do their work only if the master himself is active and not lazy. Only a man with eyes and with a desire to see can be made to see and not a blind man, likewise God lends his help in answer to those prayers only that aim at the good of all, and not those that are meant to injure any one. He who only keeps on saying 'sugar is sweet, sugar is sweet' can never taste the sweetness of sugar, nor obtain it but he, who tries for it. sooner or later is sure to get it.

iii. Communion (upásaná). On this subject the Upnish ud says:—"No tongue can express that bliss which flows, from communion with the Supreme Spirit, into the soul of that man whose impurities are washed off by the practice of yoya, whose mind being abstracted from the outside world is centred in the Supreme Spirit; because that happiness is felt by the human soul in its inner self alone."

The word upásaná literally means to come close to. All that is required in order to come close to God by the practice of the Octapartite' yoya and directly see the Omnipresent, Omniscient God should be accomplished. For him who desires to begin Upásaná this alone is the beginning (1) "Let him cease to bear malice to any living being, let him always love all (2) Let him always speak the truth, never an untruth (1) Let him never commit theft, and let him be honest in his dealings (4) Let him practise

Yoga Sxshtra Sádhanpád

30

Yoga Shástra Sánadhiead 32 self-control, never be lustful, (5) Let him be humble, never vain. These five together comprise the first stage of Updsand and are called Yamas. Next come Niyamas which are also five:—(1) "Let a man be clean internally by renouncing all passions and vicious desires, and externally by the free use of water etc., (2) Let him work hard righteously but neither rejoice in the resulting profit nor be sorrowful in case of loss. Let him renounce sloth and be always cheer-

कुर्वन्नेवेह कर्माणि जिजीविषेच्छत १ सर्माः ॥ यजुः ।॥ अ० । ४० । सं ० २ ॥

I. That which has eight parts or stages.—Ir.

ful and active (3) Let him keep his mind unruffled no matter whether he is happy or miserable, and do righteous deeds (4) Let him always study the books of true knowledge, and teach them as well, and associate with good and pious men, and let him contemplate and mentally recite OM which is the highest name of the Supreme Spirit. (5) Let him resign his soul to the Will of God." These five together constitute the second stage of Upasana Yoga. The remaining six stages can be studied from the yoga shastra or our book called "An introduction to the exposition of the four Vedas."

When a man desires to engage in Upásaná, let him resort to a solitary, clean place and get comfortably seated, practise Prándyáma (control of breath) restrain the senses from the pursuit of outward objects, steady his mind in one of the following places:—the navel, the heart, the throat, eyes, the top of the head or the spine. Let him, then, discriminate between his own soul and the Supreme Spirit, get absorbed in contemplation of the latter and commune with Him, i. e., become a Sanyami. When a man follows these practices, his mind as well as the soul becomes pure and imbued with righteousness. His knowledge and wisdom advance day by day till he obtains salvation. He, who contemplates the Deity in this way even one hour out of the twenty-four hours, always continues to advance spiritually.

Updated is positive when God is contemplated as possessed of such attributes as Omniscience, and it is said to be negative when the human soul being deeply absorbed in the Supreme Spirit—who even pervades such a subtle thing as the human soul—contemplates Him as free from such qualities as malice, color, taste, smell and touch. Its result is that the soul, by coming close to God, is rid of all its impurities, sorrows and griefs, its nature, attributes and character become pure like those of God Himself, just as a man shivering from cold ceases to suffer from it by coming close to a fire. Therefore it behoves all to worship God—praise Him, pray to Him and commune with Him. Leaving out other results that

समाधिनिर्धृतमलस्य चेतसो निवेशितस्यात्मिन यत्सुखं भवेत् । न शक्यते वर्णयितुं गिरा सदा स्वयन्तदन्तः करणेन गृद्यते ॥ तत्राऽहिंसासत्यास्तेयब्रह्मचर्यापरिव्रहा यमाः ॥ योगशा० ॥ सा-धनपादे । स्र० ३० ॥

चिसन्तोषतपः स्वाध्ययेश्वरप्रणिधानानि नियमाः ॥ योगञ्चा० साधनपादे । स० ३२ ॥ accrue from Divine Worship, the gain in spiritual strength is such that even the approach of pain or sorrow of the greatest magnitude can not disturb the mental tranquility of the devotee which he is able to bear it most patiently. Is this a trifling thing? Besides, he who does not worship God is ungrateful as well as most foolish, because it is nothing but extreme ingratitude and foolishness to forget the kindness of that Supreme Spirit who has freely given away all things of this world to his creatures to cease to believe in His very existence.

- O.—How can God do the work which can only be done through organs of sense when He is devoid of them?
- Shweta by virtue of His Omnipotence. He has no feet but transcends all in speed by virtue of His Omnipotence. Upanishad He has no eyes but sees all perfectly, no ears but 3, 19. hears all, no internal organ of thought but knows all.

 No one can know His limits. He has been eternally existing. He is the Supreme Spirit that pervades all." In other words, though devoid of senses and mind He does all His work by virtue of His
- Omnipotence.

 O.—Many a person says that He is 'void of all activity and attributes.' Is this true?

- Shweta Shwatar Upanishad Cod been descitute of activity He could never create the world, sustain it and reduce it to its elementary form, He therefore, being Omnipresent and Omniscient also possesses activity.
 - O.—When He acts, is His action finite or infinite?
- A—In whatsoever space and time He wants to act, in the same He does, neither in less nor in more; because He is All-wise

अपाणियादो जवनो ग्रहीता पश्यत्यचक्षुः स शृणोत्यकर्णः ।
स वोत्ते वेद्यं न च तस्यास्ति वेत्ता तमाहुरग्यूं पुरुषं महान्तम् ॥
श्वेताश्वतर उपानिषद् ॥ अ ० ३ । मं ० १९ ॥
न तस्य कार्य्यं करणं च विद्यते न तत्समश्राभ्याधिकश्च दृश्यते ।
परास्य शक्तिविंविधेव श्रूयते स्वाभाविकी ज्ञानवलाक्रिया च ॥
श्वेताश्वतर उपनिषद् अ० ६ । मं ० ८ ॥

O.—Does God know His own limits or not?

- A.—The Supreme Spirit is all-knowledge. For what is knowledge but the cognisance of things just as they are. God is Infinite, therefore His knowledge of Himself as Infinite is true knowledge—the reverse is igyorance. To conceive a thing as infinite when it is really finite or vive versa is called ignorance. The conception of the nature, attributes and character of things as they are is called true knowledge. Therefore the Yoga Shastra Yoga Shastra defines God thus:—"The All-pervading spirit, who is Samádhipad free from all pain and grief, (such as ignorance) and I, 12 from desire for all those deeds which are productive of results that are good or bad, pleasant or unpleasant, or of a mixed character and who is distinct from and superior to all souls, is called God."
- O.—"The existence of God can not be proved owing to want of evidence of direct cognisance, and "In the Sánkhya absence of evidence of direct cognisance, there can be no Inferential and other evidences;" besides "from the absence of the relation of Vyápti (=the relation of the Sánkhya pervader to the pervaded) there can be no Inference." Shástra Both these evidences—Direct cognisance and Inference V. 10, 11—being unavailable, other evidences, such as Testimony of a truthful witness are out of question. Therefore the existence of God can not be proved.
- A.—No, what the above aphorisms really mean is that the evidence of direct cognisance is wanting not in order to prove the existence of God but to prove him as the Malerial cause of the universe, for, in the same chapter occur the following aphorisms:—
- "If the All-pervading Spiril be the Material Cause of the universe, He would be transformed into various material objects just as the primordial matter by the combination of invisible and minute atoms becomes metamorphosed into various visible and tangible objects. He is, therefore, not the material cause of the universe but the efficient cause."

ेशकमीविपाकाश्यरपरामृष्टः एरुषिविशेष ईश्वरः योग स् ।। समाधिपादे स् २ २४ ॥ ईश्वरासिद्धेः ॥ सां० अ० १। स् ० १२ ॥ प्रमाणाभावास तत्सिद्धिः ॥ सां० अ० ५ । स् ० १० ॥ सम्बन्धाभावासानुमानम् ॥ सां० अ० ५ । स् ० ११ ॥

- "If the Conscious Being—God—be the material cause of the universe, He being possessed of infinite power, Sánkhya Shástra V, 9. the world also should possess infinite power. But such is not the case. Therefore, God is not the material but the efficient cause of the world."
- "The Upnishad also describes the primordial matter alone as the material cause of the world" as in the following Sánkhva verse:-" The primordial matter is transformed Shástra V, 12 into the diverse objects of this world." Matter being subject to change is transformable, whereas God— Shwatá the All-pervading spirit—being unchangeable is not Shwatar metamorphosed into any other form or shape. He is Upnishad unchangeable and always resides in the interior of the heart. Therefore, whosoever calls the sage Kapil—the author of the above aphorism—an athiest, is himself an athiest. Similarly the authors of the other Shastrás, for instance, Mimánsá from the mention of the works Dharma and Dharmi, Vaisheshaka from that of the word Ishwer (God) and Niyáya from that of Atmá-All pervading spirit, are not atheists. Hs, who is Omnipresent, Omniscient and even pervades the human soul, is believed in by all of them-Mimánsá, Vaisheshala, etc.-to be God.
 - O.—Does God incarnate or not?
- A.—No; because it is said in the Yajur Veda. "He is unborn" again "He overspreads all. He is pure is, never born, never takes on a human form." It is clear from these quotations that God is never born.
- O.—But Krishma says in the Gilá. "Whenever there is decay of virtue I take on a human form." What is your answer to this?
- A.—Being opposed to the Veda it can not be held to be an authority. Though it is possible that Krishna, being very virtuous and being extremely anxious to further the cause of righteousness, might have wished that he would like to be born again and again at different times to protect the good and punish the wicked. If such was the case, there is no harm in it; because 'whatever the good and the great possess—their wealth, their bodies, aye even their hearts—is at the service of humanity'? Inspite of all this Krishna could never be God.

प्रधानंशक्तियोगाचेत्सङ्गापितः ॥ सत्तमात्राचेत्सवैश्वर्यम् ॥ श्रुतिरिप प्रधानकार्यत्वस्य ॥ सां० अ०५। स्०८।९।१२॥ अजामेकां लोहितशुक्ककृष्णां बह्वाः प्रजाः सृजमानां स्वरूपाः ॥ श्रेताश्वतर उपनिषद अ०४। मं०५॥

- O.—If this be the case, why do people then believe in the twenty-four incarnations of God?
- A.—From want of knowledge of the Vedas, from being led astray by the sectarians and being themselves uneducated, people are involved in ignorance and, therefore, no wonder, believe in and say such false things.
- O.—How could such wicked men as Rávana and Kans be destroyed if God did not incarnate?
- A. -Firstly, whosoever is born, is sure to die. Secondly what are Kansa and Rávana, when compared with the Almighty God, who without being incarnated has created this world, is sustaining it and can resolve it into its component elements? He being Omnipresent also pervaded the bodies of Kansa and Ravana and could at His will cut their vitals and instantaneously kill them. What shall we then call such a man but a fool who says that the Supreme Spirit possessed of Infinite power, attributes and activity takes on a human form and becomes subject to births and deaths in order to kill an insignificant man. Were any one to say that God incarnates for the salvation of his devotees, then too it could not be true, for, if the devotees conduct themselves according to the Will of God, He is powerful enough to save them. What! Is the destruction of a Kunsu or a Ravunu or the lifting of a mountain, such as Gov within, even more difficult than the creation, sustainent and dissolution of the sun, the moon and the earth and other planets? Whosoever ponders over the great things that God has done in this universe, can not but come to the conclusion that "There is no one like Him, nor shall ever be." Nor can the incarnation of God be demonstrated by reason, just as the saying of a man, that space entered a womb or was put in a close hand, can never be true, for space being Infinite and omnipresent can neither go in, nor come out: similarly, God, being Infinite and All-pervading, it can never be predicated of him that He can go in or come out. Coming and going can be possible only if it be believed that there are places where He is not. Then was not God already present in the womb and was not He already present outside that He is said to have gone into and come out of it. Who but men devoid of intelligence can believe in and say such things about God? Therefore, it should be understood that Christ and others were also not incarnations of the Deity. Being subject to passions and desires, hunger and thirst, fear and grief, births and deaths, they were all men.

यदा यदा हि धर्मस्य ग्लानिर्भवति भारत । अस्यत्यानमधमस्य तदात्मानं सृजाम्यहम् ॥ भ० गी० अ० ४। श्चो० ७॥

O.—Does God forgive the sins of His devotees or not?

A.—No; for, were He to forgive their sins, His Law of Justice would be destroyed, and all men would become most sinful. Knowing that their sins will be forgiven, they will become fearless and will be greatly encouraged to commit sins. For example, if the ruler of a country were to pardon the criminals, they would be encouraged to commit crimes greater still. For knowing well that the king will not punish them, they will be confident in their minds that they will get the king's pordon by folding their palms and doing other acts of humility. Even those who are not criminals, being no longer deterred by any fear of punishment, will begin to commit crimes. Therefore it is Gol's duty to give souls the just fruits of their deeds and not to forgive their sins.

O.—Is the human soul a free-agent or otherwise?

A.—It is a free-agent in the matter of performing deeds but it is subject to the laws of God in the matter of reaping the fruits thereof He alone is said to be a doer who is free to act?

O.—What is a free-agent?

A.—He is called a free-agent who has the body, the vital forces, the senses and the mind subordinate to his will. If the soul were not a free-ugent it would not reap the fruits of its deeds-good or bad. Just as soldiers acting under the direction of their commanding officer are not held guilty of murder even on killing many a man on the field of battle; similarly, if God were to influence the course of human conduct or if human actions were subordinate to His Will, it would not then be the human souls that would have to bear the consequences of those actions but God Himself. Being the prompter He alone would suffer pain or enjoy happiness. Just as it is that man alone who murders another with some kind of weapon is arrested and punished for the crime and not the weapon; likewise, the souls subordinate to the Will of God could not justly be made to reap the fruits of their deeds—sinful or virtuous. It follows, therefore, that the soul is free to act according to its capacity, but once it has committed a sinful act it becomes subject to the operation of the laws of God, and thereby reaps the consequences of its sin. In other words, the soul is a free-agent in so far as the performance of deeds is concerned but it has to submit to Divine laws in the matter of suffering pain and misery for its sins.

- O.—Had not God created the soul and endowed it with energy, it could never have been able to do anything; hence whatever a human soul does is done solely through Divine impulse?
- A.—The soul was never created. It is beginningless like God and the material cause of the universe-primordial matter. The body and the bodily organs were made by God, but they are all under the control of the soul. Now whoever performs an actgood or evil—reaps the fruits thereof and not God—the Maker of his body and bodily organs. This we can illustrate thus:-A man dug iron out of a mountain, a merchant bought it of him; a blacksmith bought it from the latter's shop, made a sword out of it and sold it to a soldier who killed a min with it. It is not the miner, nor the iron merchant, nor the blacksmith, nor the sword that are held responsible by the king for the crime of murder, and punished. It is the soldier alone, who killed another with the sword, that is apprehended. In the same way, it is not God—the Maker of the body and bodily organs—Who reaps the fruits of the deeds done by the soul. On the other hand, He it is Who makes the soul bear the consequences of its acts. Had God been the actual doer, no soul would ever have committed a sin, because being Pure and Righteous He could never have prompted any so ul to commit a sin. It, therefore, follows that the soul is a free-agent in doing deeds and the same may be predicated of God
- O.—What are God and the soul in essence, and what are their natures, attributes and actions?
- A—In essence they are both conscious entities. By nature both are pure, immortal and virtuous, etc., but the creation of the universe, its sustenance and dissolution into elementary form and its control, the awarding of the fruits of their deeds—good or evil—to souls are the righteous actions of God; whilst the reproduction and rearing of children, the distribution of knowledge and arts, etc., are acts of the soul which may be virtuous or sinful. Eternal knowledge, Eternal bliss and Omnipotence, &c., are the attributes of God whilst those of the soul are:—

Desire for the acquisition of things; Repulsion activity, felcings of pleasure, ferlings of pain, sorrow, displeasure; consciousness, inspiration and expiration, nictitation—closing and opening of the eyes, organic growth, discernment memory and individuality, movement, regulation of the senses, internal changes and disorders, such as hunger and thirst, joy or sorrow, etc., are the attributes of the soul which distinguish it from God. The existence of the soul is known only by these attributes, as it is not material nor perceptible by the senses. These attributes manifest themselves only so long as the soul is present in the body, but ceuse to do so as soon as the soul leaves it. Those qualities that manifest themselves in the presence of a substance and ceuse to do so its absence belong to that substance alone; as for example, light is the property of the sun and of the lamp, because it is absent in their absence and present in their presence. Similarly, God and the soul are known by their attributes.

^{1.} These six attributes are common both to Vaisheshika and Nyaya Shastras; but the attributes that follow are only found in the Vaisheshika.

- O.—God being 'cognisant of the three periods of time,' knows all things about the future, and as God knows so has the soul to act, consequently the soul ceases to be a free-agent. God, therefore, can not be justified in punishing it for its misdeeds, because it acts in accordance with what God fore knew.
- A.—It is foolishness to speak of God as being cognisant of the three periods of time, because what ceases to exist is called the Past and what does not exist now but will come into existence is called the Future. Now is there any kind of knowledge that ceases to exist with God or that He does not possess in the present but will possess in the future? Hence God's knowledge is always uniform and uninterrupted. He always lives in the Present. The past and the future relate to the human soul only. true though that the knowledge of the three periods of times can be said to exist in God when it is spoken of in relation to the actions of the soul, but not absolutely. As the soul acts by virtue of its free will, so does God know, what it does, by virtue of His Omniscience, and as God knows so the soul acts. In other words, God possesses the knowledge of the past, the present, and the future and gives souls their deserts; whilst the soul is a free agent in whatever it does and in possessing a limited knowledge of the present. Just as God's knowledge of actions of human souls is beginningless, so is His knowledge of awarding just punishment. Both kinds of knowledge in Him are true. Can it ever be possible that the knowledge of actions be true while that of doing justice be false? Hence your objection does not hold good.
- O.—Are the souls in different bodies distinct or is there only one soul pervading them all?
- A.—Distinct. Had there been only one soul pervading them all, wakeful state, slumber, deep sleep, birth and death,

I. Is., the past, the present and the future.

union and disunion (with the body and the senses) could never take place; the nature of the soul, therefore, is finite, and so is its knowledge; it is also subtle, whilst God is still more subtle, Infinite, Omnipresent, Omniscient by nature. Hence God and the human soul stand in the relation of the pervader to the pervaded.

- O—One thing can not contain another at the same time; therefore, God and the soul can only be in the relation of close union but not in that of the pervader to the pervaded.
- A.—This law holds good in the case of things of the same condition but not in that of different condition; just as iron is gross while electricity is subtle, the latter pervades the former and resides in the same space with it. Similarly, the human soul is less subtle than God, whilst the latter more subtle than the former, therefore, it is that God pervades the human soul while the latter is pervaded by the former.

Just as God and the soul stand to each other in the relation of the pervader and the pervaded, so do they do in the relations of one who is served and the servior, the supporter and the supported, the muster, and the servant, the ruler and the ruled, the Father and the son.

- O.—If God and the human soul be different, how will you interpret the following mighty texts of the Vedas? "I am God," "Thou art God" and "The soul is God."
- A.—These are not Vedic texts at all, but quotations from the Bráhmans. They are nowhere called 'mighty texts' in the true Shástras. Their true meanings are as follow:—We take the first quotation which does not mean "I am God" but "I live

इच्छाद्वेष प्रयत्तसुखदुःखज्ञानान्यात्मनो लिङ्गमिति ॥

न्यायस् ० अ० १ । आ० १ । स् ० १० ॥

प्राणापाननिमेषोन्मे स्पन्ते प्रतिन्द्रियान्तरिवकाराः सुखदुः खेच्छाद्रेषौ

प्रयत्नाश्चात्मनो लिङ्गानि ॥ वैशेषिकस् ० ॥ अ० ३ । आ० २ । स् ० ४

प्रज्ञानंब्र ॥ अहंब्रह्मास्मि ॥ तत्त्वमासि ॥ अयमात्माब्रह्म ॥

सदेव सोम्येदमप्र आसीदेकमेवाद्वितीयं ब्रह्म ॥

सदेव सोम्येदमप्र आसीदेकमेवाद्वितीयम् ॥

छां० प० ६ । सं २ मं० १ ॥

1. Ie, one who pervades. I am constrained to coin this word as there is no single word in the English language to express this idea.— Tr_{\bullet} in God." Here is used what is called 1 sustitution of the thing that contains or supports for the thing which is contained therein or supported thereby'; just as we say "watch platforms2 are shouting" Now the platforms, being inanimate do not possess the power of shouting hence it means that the men on those platforms shout. Thus the platforms, that support the watchmen. are substituted for the men who are supported by.3 Similarly it should be understood in the above text that God, the support, is substituted for the soul which is supported thereby or contained therein. If you say that all things exist in God what is then the special object of saying that the soul exists in God? We answer that though it is true that all things exist in God but nothing is so close to God as the human soul, being possessed of similar attributes, it is only the human soul that can know God, and during the time of salvation lives in the very presence of God, having direct cognisance of Him all the time. Hence the relation of God to the soul is that of a container or supporter to the thing contained therein or surported thereby and that of one companion to another. It is clear, therefore, that God and the soul are not one. Just as a person says in reference to another 'He and I are one, i.e., in complete harmony with each other, in the same way, the human soul, being irresistably drawn towards God by its extreme love for Him and thereby completely immersed in Him during Sumádhi4 can say "God and I are one," that is, in harmony with each other as well occupying the same space. That soul alone can declare its unity or harmony with God by virtue of similarities of attributes that becomes like God in its nature, attributes and character.

- O.-Well, what meaning will you give to the second text '(lat) God (lwam) thou (asi) art i, e., O soul! thou art God,"
 - A.—What do you understand by the word (tat)?
 - O.—Brahma (God).
- A.—How do you know that the word (lal) refers to Bruhm: ?
- O.—Because there is mention of the word Brahma in the sentence preceeding the above quotation. (Tadeva.......ádviliyam.)

Tatasthyopadhi.
 Platforms erected in the fields of corn in India on which watchmen sit and shout to scare away birds, animals, etc - Tr

³ Just as in the English language Wall street is used for the American Stock Market, White House for the President of U. S. A.—Tr.

^{4.} A stage of yoga wherein the concentration of mind of the devotee is perfect .- Tr 5. It a pronoun and means that .- Tr.

- A.—It seems that you have never read the Chhandogya Upanishad (the book from which the quotation is taken.) Had you read, you would not have told such an untruth that the word Brahma occurs in the said text. The true text runs as. Tadeva......ádvilíyam). There is no such word as Brahma there.
 - O.—What do you understand by the word lut then?
- A.—That Supreme Spirit who should be sought after. He is infinitely subtle. He is the Soul of the whole material universe as well as of the human soul: The Chhándogya Upanishad Self same Spirit is the Great Reality. He Himself is 6, 8, 6, 7. His Own soul. O my dear son Swetketo!! (Tat) "that Omniscient, Supreme Spirit is willim thee." This interpretation alone is in harmony with the Upanishadas. For instance the great sage Yajnaralkya says to his wife in the Brihadáranyak Upanishad "O Maitreyi, the Great God resides within the soul and is yet distinct from it. The ignorant soul does not know that Supreme Spirit pervades it. The soul is a body unto Him. In other words, just as the soul resides in the body, so does God reside within the soul, and yet He is distinct from it. He witnesses the deeds-good or evil-of the soul and gives it its deserts and thereby keeps it under control. Do thou know O Mailreyi, that same Immortal, Omniscient Being resides within the very thy soul."

Can any one give a different meaning to texts like these?

Now about the third so-called 'mighty text' "This (soul) is God (Brahma)." Its true sense is that when during the state of perfect concentration (samádhi) a yogi gets direct cognition of God, i.e., sees God, he says. "This (very God who resides within which occurs in the verse quoted by the author who holds that the text quoted by the objector does not mean "that art thou" but "that is within thee" because the word that refers to the Omnipresent, Omniscient, Supreme Spirits, Who is spoken of in the verse as the soul of all including the human soul, hence it means that (Supreme Spirit) is within thee."

स य एषेशिणमा ॥ एतदात्म्यिमदः सर्वं तत्सत्यः स आत्मा तत्त्व-मिस श्वेतकेतो इति ॥ छान्दो ० । प० ६ । खं ० ८ । मं० ६ । ७ ॥ तदात्मकस्तदन्तर्यामी त्वमासे ॥ य आत्मिन तिष्ठन्नात्मने।न्तरोयगात्मा न वेद यस्यात्मा शरीरम् । आत्मनोन्तरोयमयति स त आत्मान्तर्याम्यमृतः ॥

- me) is Brahma, i.e., pervades the whole universe." It is clear, therefore, that the Vedántists of to-day, who declare that the human soul and God are one and the same, do not understand the Vedánt Shástri.
- O.—In the Chhándogya Upanishada God says¹ "Having created the universe and different bodies. I enter the body as a soul and manifest myself under different names and forms." Again says the Taitreya Upanishad "Having created the universe and different bodies God Himself entered them." How can you give different meanings to these texts?
- A.—Had you understood the construction and meanings of words and sentences you would not have so perverted the sense of the original in translation. You must understand that here there are two things one is the pervader and the other post-pervader. Now God is like the post-pervader who enters after the soul has already entered the body and reveals the science of names and forms through the Veda. He caused the soul to enter the body and He Himself entered the soul thereafter. Had you understood the meaning the word anu (post or after) you would not have mistranslated it.
- O.—Suppose a man were to say that the same Deva Datt who, was seen at Káshi in the hot season, is here now-a days at Mathura in the wet season. Now if you disregard the differences of the time and locality (as hot and wet season, Káshi and Mathura) and take only the individual into consideration, the fact of the existence of the man Deva Datt only is established. Similarly on the 'principle of partial rejection and partial acceptance's if the unknown time, locality and, illusion—the upádhi, i.e., the obstructing medium—in the case of I'shwara (God in active state) and of the known time and locality, ignorance, and finiteness in the case of the human soul be disregarded, and only the property to consciousness common to both be taken into account, the existence

अनेन जीवेनात्मनानुप्रविद्य नामरूपे व्याकरवाणीति । छां० प्र० ६ । खं० ३ । मं० २ ॥

तत्सृष्ट्वा तदेवानुप्राविशत् । तैत्तरीयं० बृह्मानं० ॥ अनु० ६ ॥

- t. The orthodox recognise Upanishadas, such as Chhandogya, as revealed Books; the author does not. He recognises the four Vedas alone as revealed.
 - 2. I.e. One who pervades after the first one
- 3. Le, the principle of rejection of the differniating qualities and acceptance of the common qualities -2r.

of Brahma (God) in both is established. On the same principle by the rejection of Omniscience and similar other attributes of God, and of the finiteness of knowledge in the case of soul, and the acceptance of consciousness alone which is common to both, the unity of God and the soul is established. What answer can you give to this objection?

- A.—Would you first please tell us whether you hold rshvara and the soul to be elernal or non-elernal?
- O.—Both being the product of Opádhi, we regard them as non-eternal.
 - A.—Do you hold Upádhi eternal or non-eternal?
- O.—Our belief on this subject is summed up in the following verses:—
- "We Vedantis hold the following six entities as beginning-less.—(1) the soul (2) I'shwara—God in active state (3) Brahma—God in passive condition (4) the distinctive difference between I'shwara and the soul (5) Ignorance (6) the union of ignorance with a conscious entity. Of these six, Brahma alone is beginingless and endless, while the other five are beginningless but terminable like that kind of non-existence which though existing in the present shall cease to exist in the future. These five continue to exist as long as ignorance lasts; and because their beginning is not known, they are called beginningless, but as they cease to exist when the soul attains true knowledge they are called terminable or non eternal."
- A.—Both these verses of yours are wrong. As there can be no soul without the conjunction of ignorance with I'shwar, and no I'shwar without the conjunction of maya—illusion or ignorance—with Brahma, the sixth entity—of your verse—i e., the conjunction of ignorance with a conscious enlity as a separate entity becomes superfluous; because the ignorance or illusion is absorbed into the soul and I'shwara, and forms part and parcel of them. For the same reason it is useless to count I'shwara and the soul as beginningless entities distinct from Brahma. Hence according to your view only two entities—Brahma and ignorance—are demonstrable and not six. Besides your idea of I'shwara and the soul as two entities born of upádhi or ignorance can only be true if you could demonstrate the existence of ignorance or illusion in Brahma Who is Infinite, Eternal, Holy, All-knowledge, Immortal and Omnipresent. Were you to believe that the ignorance (depending upon and relating to self) in Brahma is restricted to one place at a time and exsists from eternity the whole Brahma can not entirely be pure. Besides when you admit the presence of ignorance in one place, it being moveable will keep shifting from place to place; hence whichever part of Brahma it goes to, that will become ignorant and whichever part it leaves, will become enlightened. This being the case you could call no part of Brahma as eternally pure and enlightened. Moreover ignorance on account of its presence and consequent pleasure and pain, etc., in one part of Brahma, will affect the whole, like a wound which though confined to one part of the body causes pain to be felt throughout the system. Again, that part of Brahma which is in the pale of ignorance will know that it is so, whilst the part of Bruhma that is outside the pale of ignorance will know itself free from it. Hence, Brahma will be divided into parts, one inside, the other outside the pale of ignorance. If you reply 'Let Him be divided, it would be of no consequence to Him, He would then no longer remain indivisible. could not be ignorant. Besides ignorance or incorrect knowledge being only an attribute must necessarily reside in some substance in permanent relation to it. Hence it could not temporarily reside in Brahma.

जीवेशो च विश्वाचिद्विमेदस्तु तयोद्वयोः। भविद्या तचितोर्योगः उस्माकमनादयः॥ कार्योपाभिरयं जीवः कारणोपाधिरीश्वरः। कार्यकारणतां हित्वा पूर्णवोधोऽविद्याष्ट्यते॥ ज्ञारीरिक भाष्ये

^{1.} See Chapter third, page 63.

If you believe that Brahma becomes soul through the intervention of an obstructing medium (upádhi) called Antahk.cran (internal organ of thought), we ask whether Brahma is All-pervading or circumscribed. If you answer that He is All-pervading but the obstructing medium is circumscribed i.e., limited as regards space, and is separate in each man, does that medium then move obout or not?

- O.—It moves about.
- A.—Does Brahma as well move with it or does it remain stationary?
 - O.—He remains stationary.
- A.—Then whichever part the obstructing medium—the antalkaran—leaves, that must become free from ignorance, whilst whichever part it goes to, that part of the pure enlightened Brahna must necessarily become ignorant. In other words, Brahma would in one moment become ignorant and in the next enlightened. Hence sativation and tondage will also become of momentary duration, and just as one can not temember what another has seen or heard, similarly what Brahma had seen or heard yesterday he could not possibly remember to-day; because the time and place of his observation are totally different from those of his remembrance.

But Brahma is the same in all you say. We ask, therefore, why Brahma is not All-knowing? If you say that the obstructing media—antalkaran is—are different or distinct from each other in different people, the resulting knowledge will, therefore, also be different. Our answer is that the medium being material, it can not be the seat of consciousness. And if you say that it is neither Brahma nor the antalkaran, (the obstructing medium)—internal organ of thought—but the 'image of Brahma'—chidabhas—that is the seat of knowledge, then too it is a conscious entity that possesses knowledge. Why is it then finite in knowledge and power?

It is clear, therefore, that you can not establish l'shwara and the soul as products of the influence of the 'obstructive medium, ignorance or illusion on Brahma. I'shwara, is really another name for Brahma—the All-pervading God, while the other conscious, eternal, uncreated and immortal entity is called the soul.

If you say that the soul is nothing but the image of Brahma (child hás), we answer that the image being of momentary duration will soon perish. Who will then enjoy the bliss of salvation? Hence God and the soul were never one, nor are they at present, nor shall they ever be.

- O.—How can you then establish the doctrine of non-duality which is clearly inculcated in the Upanishadas as shown by the following quotation from the Chhándo ya? "O my dear son, in the beginning there was but One (God) and no other." According to our belief the existence of every thing else—whether of the same kind as, Brithma or of a different kind from, or as differentiated parts of, the same Brahma—besides Brahma, being negatived, the existence of Brahma alone is established. How could the doctrine of non-duality hold good when you believe that Brahma (God) is distinct from the soul?
- A.—Why have you fallen into this error? Fear not and try to understand the relation of an adjective to a substantive. Now, what is the function of an adjective?
 - O.—Its function is to differentiate.
- A—Then why not also admit that it serves to elucidate and explain the character of the substantive. You should, therefore, understand that in the verse quoted above the word advait (i. e., and no other) is an adjective, qualifying the noun Bruhma; its differentiating function is that it differentiates Brahm v from innu nerable souls and atoms, whilst its explanatory function is that it serves to elucidate that there is one God and one only. when you say "In this town Deva Datta is the one rich man, There is no other" Or "In this regiment Vikram Singh is the one brave man and there is no other," you mean that in this town there is no one so rich as Deva Datta and there is none in the regiment so brave as Vikram Singh, but it does not negative the existence of other men less rich and less brave than Deva Datta and Vikram Singh respectively, nor of animate (as plants and animals, and inanimate (as land and water, etc.,) things in the town and the regiment. Similarly, in the text, 'In the beginning there was one God and no other,' it is implied that there was nothing besides God equal to Him, but it does not exclude the existence of other things such as the souls and the primordial elementary matrer which are inferior to God. It is clear then that it means that there is but one God whilst the soul and the material atoms are more than one, and the adjective advitiya (no other) serves to exclude others from God as well as to elucidate the oneness of God. Therefore, it does not mean that the soul and the matter—in atomic or the present visible condition—do not exist. other hand, they all exist but they are not equal to God. This exp'anation neither disproves the doctrine of non-duality nor that duality. Do not be perplexed, think over it and try to understand it.

- O.—God and the soul possess the attributes of Existence, Consciousness and Blissfulness common to each other and are, therefore, one. Why do you then refute this belief?
- A.—The fact of two things possessing a few attributes common to each other does not make them one. Take for instance, solids and liquids and fire, all these are inanimate and visible but that does not make them one. The dissimilar attributes differentiate them. The hardness, etc., found in solids, fluidity etc., in liquids, and heat and light in the fire differentiate them from one another and prevent them from being considered as one. Or take another illustration. Both a man and an ant see with their eyes, eat with their mouths and walk with their feet, but yet they are not one and the same, having their bodily forms different from each other, a man having two feet whilst an ant many, and so on. Similary, God's attributes of Omniscience, Omnipresence, Omnipotence, Infinite Bliss and Infinite activity, being different from those of the soul's, and the attributes of the soul, such as finite knowledge, finite power, finite nature, liability to error and circumscription, being different frem God's, God and the soul can never be one. Even in essence, they are different, God being most subtle, and the soul less subtle than God.

- Vrihadáranyaka Upani shad shad self)." Does not this inculcate the unity of the soul with Brahma?
- A—Your translation of this verse is wrong. The correct meaning is, that the soul that denies the existence of the Supreme Being or believes Him to be limited to some particular time or place, or conducts itself against the Will, nature, character and attributes of God or bears malice to another becomes subject to fear. Because that person alone is afraid of God or of man who believes that God has nothing to do with him or says to another man "What do, I care for you? What can you do against me?" or does others harm or gives them pain. Those who are in harmony with each other in all things are called one, as the following expression is very often used. "Deva Datta, Yajna Datta and Vishnu Datt are all one," meaning thereby that they are all of one mind. Harmony is the cause of happiness, whilst want of harmony begets misery and pain.
- O.—Do God and the soul always remain distinct from each other or do they ever become one?
- A.—We have already partly, answered this question but we will add here that on account of similarity in attributes and close relationship they are one, just as a material solid substance is one with space in being lifeless and inseparably associated with it; whilst they are dislinct from each other on account of dissimilarity of such attributes, as omnipresence, subtlety, formlessness and endlessness, etc., of space and limitation visibility and such other attributes of a solid object; in other words, a solid object can never be separate from space, as it must have space to exist in, whilst on account of dissimilitude in nature they are always distinct from each other. In the same way, the soul and the material objects can never be senurate from God as He pervades them all, nor, can they be one with Him as they are in nature different from Him. Before a house is built, the earth, water, iron and other building materials are found to exist in space; after a house is built they still exist in space, and continue to do so even after it is demolished, and the material composing it scattered broadcast; in short, the building material can never be separate from space, nor, can it, being different in nature, ever be one with it. Similarly, both the sord and the material cause of this universe, being pervaded by God, never were, nor are, nor shall ever be separate from Him, and being in their natures distinct from Him can ever be one with Him. The Vedántists of to-day are like one-eyed men who see only one side of the street they pass through, and are bent on giving such a great importance to the close connection or relationship between God and the soul that they completely ignore the dissimilitudes between the two. There is not a single substance in this world that is devoid of positiveness—the property of possessing some qualities—and negativeness—the property of being devoid of some qualities—of close relationship and its reverse, similitude and dissimilitude, etc.

O.—Is God positive—possessed of attributes (Saguna) or negative—destitute of attributes (Nirguna)?

A.—He is both.

- O.—How can two swords be put in one scabbard? How can one thing be both positive and nagative?
- A.—A thing that is possessed of certain qualities is called Sammer or Positive, whilst, one devoid of certain qualities is called Nirjuna or Negative. Hence all things are both positive and negative, being possessed of certain qualities and destitute of others, as the material objects being possessed of visibility and other properties are positive, whilst being devoid of intelligence and other attributes of conscious being, they are negative. the same way, conscious beings (as souls) are positive, as they possess intelligence, whilst they are negative, as they are devoid of visibility and other properties of the material object. things, therefore, are positive (Sajuna) and neg tive (Nirguna), by virtue of being possessed of certain natural qualities, and devoid of those that are antithetic to them. There is not a single substance that is only positive or only negative Both positiveness and negativeness always reside in the same objects. In the same way. God is positive being possessed of certain natural attributes. such as Omniscience, Omnipresence, etc. He is also negative being free from the attributes of visibility and other properties of material objects, and from feelings of pleasure and pain, and other attributes of the soul.
- O.—People generally speak of a thing as Nirguna (negative) when it is formless and as Sagunu (positive) when it is possessed of a form. In other words, God is called Saguna (positive) when He incarnates, and Nirguna (negative) when He is no embodied, its this view, of the terms positive and negative right?

- A.—No, it is a false conception entertained by ignorant minds that are destitute of true knowledge. The ignorant always make senseless noise like the lowing of cattle. Their utterances should be looked upon as valueless as the ravings of a man in delirium from high fever.
- O.—Is God Rági—one possessed of feelings and passions, etc.—or Virakta—one who has renounced all things?
- for the possession of a thing that exists without you, or is better than you; but as there is nothing that is outside or separate from God or better than He, He could not possibly be Ráyi. As a Virakta is one who renounces what he has, God being All-pervading cannot renounce anything, therefore, He is not Virakta either.
 - : O.—Does God possess desire (Ichahhá)?
- A.—No, not that kind of desire which is another name for a passion excited by the love of an object from which pleasure is expected, because, you only desire to obtain a thing which you do not already possess, which is of a superior quality and is productive of pleasure. Now there is nothing that God does not possess or is superior to Him, and being All-Bliss He can also have no desire for further happiness. Therefore, there is no possibility of the presence of desire in God. But there is in God what is called Pishan, that is, true knowledge and creative power.

We have treated this subject very briefly but it is hoped that it will suffice for the wise. Next we proceed to the treatment of the subject of the Veda.

The Vedas are books revealed by God They themselves Atharva claim to be revealed, for instance, the Atharva Vada Veda X, says "Who is that Great Being who revealed the Rig 23, 4, 20 Veda, the Yajur Veda, the Samu Veda and the Atharva Veda? He is the Supreme Spirit Who created the यस्माहचो अपातिश्वन् यजुर्यस्मा हाहि । सामानि यस्य लोमाः न्यथवाङ्गिरसो मुखम् । स्कम्भन्तं बृहि कतमः स्विदेव । सः अथर्व० कां० १० । प्रपा १ २३ । अनु० ४ । मं००२०॥ स्वयम्भूर्याश्वातथ्यतोऽर्थानं व्यद्धाच्छाश्वतीम्यः समान्यः ॥ यजुः० अ० ४० । मं०८॥ universe and sustains it." Again, says the Yujur Vede. The Great: Ruler of the Universe, Who is Self-existent, All pervading Holy, Eternal and Formless, has been eternally instructing. His Yajur Veda subjects—the immortal souls—in all kinds of know-XL, 8. ledge for their good through the Veda."

O.—Do you believe God to be Formless or Embodied?

A.—Formless.

- O.—Being formless how could He reveal the Veda without the use of the organs of speech, as in the pronunciation of words the use of such organs as the palite, and of a certain amount of effort with the tongue are indispensible.
- A.—Being Omnipotent and Omnipresent He does not stand in need of the organs of speech in order to reveal the Veda to the human souls; because the organs of spech, such as the mouth. the tongue, etc., are needed in pronouncing words only when you want to speak to another person, and not when you are speaking to yourself. It is our daily experience that various kinds of mental processes and the formation of words are continually going on in our mind without the use of the organs of speech. Even on shutting your ears with the fingers you can notice that many different varieties of sounds are audible that are not produced. by the use of the organs of speech. In the same way. God instructed human soul by virtue of his Omniscience and Omnipresence without the use of the organs of speech. After the Incorporeal God, has revealed the perfect knowledge of the Weda in the heart of a human being by virtue of His presence within it he teaches it to others through speech. Hence, this objection does not hold good in the case of God.
 - O.—Whose hearts did God reveal the Vedus in?
 - A.—"In the beginning, God revealed the four Vedas, Rig, Shatpatha Raju, Sama and Alburna, to Agni, Valgu, Adilya and Angirá, respectively."
 XI, 4, 2, 3.
 - O.—But it is written in the Shweldshwelar Upanishad

 "In the beginning God created Brahma and revealed the Vedus in his heart." Why do you say that they were revealed to Agni and other sages?

अग्नेर्ऋग्वेदो वायोर्यजुर्वेदः सर्व्यात्सामवेदः। ञ्चतः ११ । ४ । २ । ३ ॥

बो प्रकार्ण कि बाति स्रे बों वे वेदिश जि काति तस्मे ।। श्रेताश्व अव ६। मं• १८:॥

- A.—Brahmá was instructed in the knowledge of the Veda through the medium of the four sages, such as Ayni. Mark what Manu says. "In the beginning after human beings had been Manu!— created, the Supreme Spirit made the Vedas known to Brahmá through Ayni, etc., i.e., Brahmá hearnt the four Vedas from Ayni, Váyu, Adilya and Anyi. d."
- O.—Why should He have revealed the Vectors to these four men alone and not to others as well? That imputes favouritism to God.
- A.—Among all men those four alone were purest in heart therefore, God revealed the true knowledge to them only.
- O,—Why did He reveal the Veda in Sanskril instead of in the language of some particular country?
- A.—Had He revealed the Velu in the language of some particular country, He would have been partial to that country, because it would have been easier for the people of that country to learn and teach the Velu than for the foreigners, therefore, it is that He did it in Sunstrit that belongs to no country, and is the mother of all other languages. Just as He has ordained the material creation, such as the earth, etc, which is also the source of all the useful arts, for the equal good of all, so should the language of the Divine revelation be accessible to all countries and nations with the same amount of labour. Hence the revelation of the Vedu in Sansk it does not make God partial to any nation.
 - O.—What evidence have you to prove that the Veda is of Divine origin, and not the work of man?
- A.—The book in which God is described as He is, via., Holy, Omniscient, Pure in nature, character and attributes, Just, Merciful, etc., and in which nothing is said that is opposed to the laws of nature, reason, the evidence of direct cognitume etc., the teachings of the highly learned altruistic teachers of Riimanity (Aplas), and the intuitions of pure souls, and in which the laws, nature, and properties of matter and the soul, are propounded in just accordance with what they really are, is the Book of Divine revelation. Now the Vedus alone fulfil all the above conditions, hence they are the revealed books and no other broks, such as the Bible, the Qorán which shall be discussed fully in the thirteenth and fourteenth chapters (of this book) respectively.

⁻ अन्नियाः रीयभ्यस्तु त्रयं त्रक्षसनातम्।

[्]दुदोद् अब सिदापर्भेनुस्पर्धः सामक्रधणम् ॥ अद्धुः 🐮 🦄

- O.—There is no necessity for the Vedu to be revealed by God Men can by themselves by degrees augment their know-ledge and thereafter make books as well.
- A.—No, they cannot do that, because there can be no effect without a cause. Look at the savages, such as Bhils, Do they ever become enlightened by themselves without being instructed by others? The same is true of men in civilized communities, they need to be taught before they become educated. Similarly, Had not God instructed the primitive sages in the knowledge of the Veda, and had not they in their turn taught other men, all men would have remained ignorant. If a child were kept in a "sequestered place from its very birth with no other company but that of illiterate persons or animals, on attaining maturity he would be no better than one of his company. Take for example the cases of Egypt, Greece, or the Continent of Europe. The people of all these countries were without a trace of learning before the spread of knowledge from India. In the same way before Columbus and other Europeans went to America, the natives had been without any learning for hundreds and thousands of years. Now some of them have become enlightened after receiving education from the Europeans. Similarly, in the beginning of the world men received knowledge from God, and since then there have been various learned men in different periods. Says Pá'anjali in his Tajt. Shástri. "As in the present time we become enlightened only after being taught by our Yoga Shastra teachers, so were in the beginning of the world, Ami Samádhi and the other three Rishis (sages, taught by the Greatest of all teachers-God." His knowledge is eternal. He is quite unlike the human soul that becomes devoid of consciousness in profound slee, and during the period of dissolution. It is certain, therefore, that no effect can be produced without a cause.

- O.—The Vedas were revealed in the Sans'ril language. Those Rishis were ignorant of that language. How did they then understand the Veda?
- A.—They were made known to them by God, and whenever great sages, who were yojis, imbued with piety, and with the desire to understand the meanings of certain mantrus, and whose minds possessed the power of perfect concentration, entered the superior condition, called Sumidhi, in contemplation of the Deity, He made known unto them the meanings of the desired mintrus. When the Velu were thus revealed to many Rishis.

स ्वेनामपि गुरुः कालेनानव े दार ॥ योगस् ० समाधिपादे स्० २६॥ they made expositions with historical illustrations of the Vedic mantrus into books called the Bráhmanas which literally mean an exposition of the Veda. The names of the Rishis, who were seers of certain mantrus and for the first time published and literally the exposition of those mantrus, are written along with those mantrus as a token of rememberance. Those who look upon those Rishis as the authors of the mantrus should be considered absolutely in the wrong. They were simply seers of those mantrus

O.—Which books are called the Vedas?

A.—The books called the Rij Vala, the Yajur Veda, the Sama Veda and the Alharva Veda—the Mantras Sanhitás only and no others

Ox-But the sage Kályáyanu says. "Both maniras

Sanhilas and the Bra'manas together constitute the Veda.

A. - You must have a riced that in the beginning of every Mantra Sunhitá and at the end of each of its chapters it has valways been the practice from time immemorial to write the word . Veda, but it is never done so in the case of the Brahmanas. Nirukt We read in the Nirukt' This is in the Vedu, this is , V, 3 and 4 in the Bráhmanas;" in the same way we read, in the Panini. 'In the Chhanda (Veda and Brahman, Ashtadhyayi etc." It is clear from these quotations that the Veda is the name of books distinct from the Brahmanas. The Veda is what is called the M. ntra Sanhi'á or a collection of mantrus, whilst the Bráhmanus are the expositions of those mantras Those who want to know more about this subject can consult our book called "An introduction to the exposition of the Vedas," wherein it is proved on the authority of various kinds of evidence that the above quotation quoted as Káláyán's could never be his. Because if we believe that the Vedu could never be eternal, as in the Bráhmanas there are to be found biographies of various Rishis and sages, kings and princes; but since biographies of persons can only be written after their birth, the Brahmanas that contain those biographies must have been written after the birth of those Rishis and kings, etc., and, therefore, can not be eternal. The Veda does not contain the biography of any person, on the other hand in it only those words are used by which knowbilitige is made known. There is no mention of any proper names or stories of any particular event or individual in the Veld.

> ऋषयो (मन्त्रदृष्टयः)मन्त्रान्सम्प्रादुः ॥ निरु० १ । २० ॥ मन्त्र ब्रह्मणोर्वेद नाम धेयम् ॥ इत्यपि निगयो भवति । इति बाह्मणम् ॥ नि० अ० ५ । खं० ३ । ४ ॥

छन्दोबाह्मणानि च तद्भिषयाणि ॥ अष्टाध्यायी ४ । २ । ६६ ॥

- O .- low miny s'ididias (branches) are there of the Veili?
- A.—Eleven hundred twenty-seven.
- O.—What are shukhás (branches)?
- A.—The expositions are called shákhás.
- O.—We, hear of learned people speaking of the different parts of the Veda as shakhas. Are they in the wrong?
- A.—If you think over it a little you will understand that they are in the wrong, because all the shakhas are attributed to Rishis such as Ashwalayan and others, whilst the authorship of the Feda is ascribed to God. In other words, as the author of the four Vedas is believed to be God, so are Kishis held to be the authors of the shak ids, such as Ishwaldyani. And besides, all shikhds take Vedic texts and expound them, while in the Vedu texts only are given. Therefore, the four Vedas—the books of Divine revelation —are like the trunk of a tree whose branches (shaidis) are the books, such as Ashwaltiyani, written by Rishis and not revealed by God.2. As the parents are kind to their children and wish for their welfare, so has Supreme Spirit, out of kindness to all men, revealed the Veda by whose study men are freed from ignorance and error; and may attain the light of true knowledge and thereby enjoy extreme happiness as well as advance knowledge and promote their welfare.
 - O -Are the Vedas eternal or non eternal?
- A They are eternal. God being eternal, His knowledge affid attributes must necessarily be eternal, because the nature attributes and character of an eternal substance are also eternal and ordered.
 - O.—Is this book, called the Veda, also eternal.
- A.—Oh, no, because the book consists only of paper and this, it can never be eternal, but the words, the ideas expressed by those words and the relationship between the words and what they express are eternal.
- O.—Oh I see. God must have given knowledge to those Rishis who afterwards composed the Vedas. Is that what you mean?

2. For further clocidation of this subject, please see our book "An Introduction to the Exposition of the Victor."

^{1.} Just as the Taitry-shakha begins with the mantra, "Ishe tworje tweti, etc.," and then follows the exposition of the mantra.

A.—There can be no ideas without words. No one but an All-knowing Being has the power to make such compositions as are full of all kinds of knowledge, and require the perfect knowledge of music and poetry, meters, such as chhandas and notes, etc. True, after having studied the Veda, the Rishis, in order to elucidate the various branches of learning, made books on Grammar, Philology, Music and Poetry, etc. Had not God revealed the Veda, no man would have been able to write anything. The Vedas, therefore, are revealed books. All men should conduct themselves according to their teachings, and when questioned as to his religion let every one answer that his religion is Vedic, i. e. he beli yesiin whatever is said in the Veda.

The subjects of God and the Ved , have thus briefly been treated. In next Chapter we shall discyurse on the CREATION OF THE WORLD or COSMCCONY.

THE END OF CHAPTER VII,

ON

COSMOCONY.

(THE CREATION, SUSTENANCE AND DIS-SOLUTION OF THE UNIVERSE).

of the universe in whom the whole world exists, is sustained and then resolved into elementary condition, is the Supreme Rig Vella. Spirit. Know Him O man, to be your God and believe in no other as the Creator of the universe."

"In the beginning the whole world was enveloped in utter darkness. Nothing was discernible. It was like a dark Rig Veda night. Matter was in its very elementary form. It X, 129, 3 was like other The whole universe, completely overspread by darkness, was insignificantly small compared with the Infinite God who, thereafter, by His Omnipotence envolved this cosmic world—the effect,—out of t'e elementary matter—the cause"

"Love and worship that Supreme Spirit, O men, Who is the support of all the luminous bodies (such as the sun), the one Incomparable Lord of the present as well as of the future worlds, Who existed even before the world came into being, and has created all things that exist in space between the earth and the heaven.

ह्यं विस्तृष्टिर्यत आ बभूव यदि बा द्घे यदि वा न । यो अस्याध्यक्तः
परमे व्योमन्त्सो अङ्ग बेदं यदि वा न वेदं ॥ ऋ० १०। स०। १२९।८
तम आसीत्तमसागूढमेग्रं प्रकेतं सीललं सर्वमा इदम्। तुच्छयेनाम्बिप हितं यदासीत्तपंसस्तन्मांिना जायतैकम् ॥ ऋ०॥ म० १०।
स० १२९। म० ७। ३॥

- "O Men, That All-pervading Being alone is the Lord of the imperishable prakriti—the material cause of the world,—and the soul and yet distinct from both, is the Creator of the universe—the past, the present and the future."
- "That Supreme Spirit, from Whom all things proceed and Taifreya in Whom they live and perish, is the All-pervading Upanishad, God. Aspire, O men, to know Him.

 Bhrigu 1.
 - "That Great God should be sought after, Who is the cause Vedánt of the creation, the sustenance and the dissolution of the universe."

 I, 1, 2.
- O.—Has this universe proceeded from God or from something else?
- A.—God is the efficient cause of this universe, but the material cause is prakriti—the primordial elementary matter.
 - O.—Has not the prakriti emanated from God?

A.—No, it is beginningless.

O.—How many entities are eternal or beginningless?

A.—Three—God, the soul and the prakriti.

- O.—What are your authorities for this statement?
- A.—"Both God and soul are eternal, they are alike in consciousness and such other attributes. They are closely associated together—God pervading the soul,—and are mutual companions. The prakriti, which is likened to the trank of a tree whose branches are the multiform universe,

हिरण्यगर्भः समन्तिताग्रे अत्तर्य जातः पतिरेकं आसीत् । स दांधार पृथिवीं द्याग्रतेमां कस्मै देवायं हिवपां विधेम ॥ ऋ०॥ मं० १०। स्र० १२१। मं० १॥

पुरुष एवेद सर्व यद्भूतं यच भाव्यंम् । उता तत्वस्थेशांनो यदणे --नातिरोहेति ॥ यजुः ।। अ० ३१ । मं० २ ॥

यतो वा इमानि भूतानि जायंते येन जातानि जीवन्ति । यत्पयन्त्यभिसंविशन्ति तद्विजिज्ञासस्य तद्वसः ॥ तैतिरीयोपनि ।

भृगुवल्ली । अनु ० १ ।

जन्माद्यस्य यतः ॥ शारीरक स्र०। अ०१। पा०१। स्र०२॥

which is resolved into its elementary condition at the time of dissolution, is also eternal. The natures, attributes and characters of these three are also eternal. Of the two—God and the soul—the latter alone reaps the fruits of this tree of the universe—good or evil—whilst the former does not. He is the All-Glorious Being, who shines within, without and all around. God, the soul and the prakriti, all these are distinct from one another being different in their natures, but they are all eternal."

"The Great God—the King—revealed all kinds of know-Yajur ledge to the human souls—His eternal subjects— Veda, XL,8. through the Veda."

The prukrili, the soul and God, all of them, are uncrea-Shwatar Upanishad IV, 5. They have no cause and have been existing eternally. The eternal soul enjoys the eternal matter and is wrapped up in it, whilst God neither enjoys it, nor, is Heward was in it."

The attributes of God and the soul have been described in the last chapter. Here we will treat of the properties of the properties.

"That condition of matter in which the intellect-promoting (salra), passion-exciting (rajus) and stupidity producing (lamas) qualities are found combined in equal proportions is called rairili. From prairili emanated the principle of wisdom (Mahálaira), and from the latter proceeded the

दा सुंपर्णा सयुजा सखाया समानं वृत्तं परिषंश्वजाते ।

तयोरन्यः पिप्पंलं स्वाद्धत्त्यंनश्वनन्या अभि चांकशीति ॥

ऋ० मं० १। स० १६४ । मं० २० ॥

श्वाश्वतीभ्यः समाभ्यः ॥ यजुः० अ० ४० । मं०८ ॥

अजामेकां लोहितशुक्ककृष्णां बह्वाः प्रजा सृजमानां स्वरूपाः ।

अजो ह्येको जुषमाणोऽनुशेते जहात्येनां श्वक्तभोगामजोऽन्यः ॥

श्वेतश्वतोपनिषदि । अ० ४ । मं० ५ ॥

श्रेताश्वतरोपनिषदि । अ० ४ । मं० ५ ॥
सत्वरजस्तमसां साम्यावस्था प्रकृतिः प्रकृतेर्महान् महतोऽहङ्कारोऽ
हंकारात् पंचतन्मात्राण्युभयिमान्द्रयं पश्चतन्मात्रेभ्यः स्थूलभूतानिपुरुष इति पश्चिवशतिगणः ॥ सा० स्० । अ० १ । स्० ६१ ॥

ive subtle entities and the ten principles of sensation and action, and the manas, i.e., the principle of attention. From the five subtle entities issued forth the five gross entities, such as solids, liquids, etc. These twenty-four entites and the purush, i.e., the spirit—human and Divine—form a group of twenty-five noumena." Of all these twenty-four, the prakriti is uncreated, the principle of individuality, and the five subtle entities are the products of the prakriti and are in their turn the cause of the ten principles of sensation, and action and of the principle of attention. The purush—i e, the spirit—is neither the cause (material) nor the effect of anything.

Before But it is said in the Chhandogya Upanishad "Before Chiangogya Creation this universe was existent," whilst the Taitreya Upanishad says "It was non-existent or Upanishad nothing." Again the Vrihadáranyaka Upanishad 1016-2. (Chap: I, 4, 1.) says "It was all spirit," and lastly the Shaturathre Brahmana (Chap. XI, 1, 11, 1,) says "It was all God (Bruhma)" and again "by His Own Will the Great God transformed Himself into this multiform universe." In another Upanishad Taltreva it is written "Sarvam khalu, etc." which Upanishad "Verily this whole universe is God, all other things are Brahm. 7 nothing but God."

A.—Why do you pervert the meanings of these quotations? For in those very Upanishads it is said "O Shwelledo, proceed thou from effects to causes and learn that prilhivi (solids) proceed

सदेव सोम्येदमग्र आसीत् ॥ छांदो० । प्र०६ । खं० २ ॥
असद्भा इदमग्र आसीत् ॥ तेत्तिरीयोपनि० बृह्यानन्दव० अनु० ७ ॥
आत्मेवदमग्र आसीत् ॥ बृह० ॥ अ० १ । ब्रा० ४ । मं० १ ॥
बृद्धा वा इदमग्र आसीत् ॥ शत० ११ । १ । ११ । १ ॥
तदेत्तत बहुः स्यां प्रजायेयेति ॥ सोऽकामयत बहुः स्यां प्रजाययेति ।
तेत्तिरीयोपनि० बृह्यानन्दविक्षा । अनु० ६ ॥
सर्व खिश्वदं बृह्य नेह नानास्ति किञ्चन । उपनिषद् ।
[एवमव खु] सोम्यानेश शुक्तेनापो मूलमन्विच्छाद्धिस्सोम्यशुक्तेन
तेजो लेमान्वच्छ तेजसा सोम्य शुक्तेन सन्मूलमन्विच्छसन्मूलाः
बोम्येमाः सर्वाः प्रजाः सदायतनाः सत्प्रतिष्ठाः ॥ छान्दो० प्र० ६ । from liquids, apah (liquids) from teja—that condition of matter whose properties are heat and light, etc., -and teja from the uncreated prakriti. This prakriti—the true existence—is the source, abode and support of the whole universe. What you have translated as "This universe was non-existent" means that it was non-existent as universe in this gross physical and visible form. But it existed in essence or in elementary form as the eternal prakriti. It was not nothing, God and the soul also were existent. Your quotation with begins with Sarvam khalu is nothing but a pot-pourri, for, you have taken parts of two verses from two different Upanishads and put them together and formed them into one sentence. Survam khalu, etc., is taken from the Chhandogya Upanishad (Chap. 111, 14, 1) and Nehandud, from the Katha Upanishud (Chap. II, 4, 11). Just as the limbs of the body are of use only so long as they form part of it, but become useless as soon as they are separated or cut off from it, similarly, you can get sense out of words or sentences when read in their proper place in conjunction with what has gone before and what follows them, but they become meaningless as soon as they are dislocated from their proper places and joined to others. Now mark carefully the true meaning of the above quotation. Worship, thou, O soul, that Great Being Who is the Creator, the Support, and the Life of the universe. It is by His power that the whole universe came into being and is sustained, and it is in Him that it exists. Worship Him alone and no other. He is an Indivisible, Immutable, Conscious Being. There is no admixture of different things in Him, though all things with their distinct individual existence have their being in Him and are sustained by Him."

O.—How many causes are there of the Universe?

A.—Three.—The efficient, the material and the common. The efficient cause is one by whose directed activity a thing is made, and by the absence of whose directed activity nothing is made. It does not change itself, though it works changes in other thing. The material cause is one without which nothing can be made. It undergoes changes, is made and unmade.

The common cause is one that is an instrument in the making of a thing, and is common to many things. The efficient cause is of two kinds:—

सर्वे खल्विदं बृक्ष तज्जलानिति शान्त उपासीत ॥ छान्दो० प्र० ३। खं० १४। मं० १। और— नेइ नानाास्त किंचन । कठोपनि० अ० २। ब्रह्णां० ४ । मं० ११॥ The primary efficient cause is the Supreme Spirit—the Governor of all, Who creates the universe of the prakriti, systains it, and then resolves it into its elementary form.

The secondary efficient cause is the soul. It takes different materials out of the universe created by God and moulds them into different shapes.

The material cause is the prakriti which is the material used in the making of the universe. Being devoid of intelligence it can neither make nor unmake itself, but is always made on unmade by a conscious intelligent being; though here and their even one kind of dead inert matter is seen to produce changes is another kind of dead matter (but those changes are never ordered). Let us take an illustration. God made seeds (of different kinds), when they fall into a suitable soil and get the proper amount of water and nourishment, they develop into trees; but if they come in contact with fire they perish. All ordered changes in material things depend for their occurrence on God and the soul.

All such means as knowledge, strength and hands, and instruments, time and space, that are required for the making of a thing, constitute its common cause.

Now take for illustration a pot. The potter is its efficient cause, clay its material cause, whilst the rod, the wheel and other instruments, time, space, light, eyes, hands (of the potter), knowledge and the necessary labour, etc., constitute its common cause. Nothing can be made or unmade without these three causes.

The Neo-Vedantists¹ look upon God as the efficient as well as the material cause of the universe, but they are absolutely in the wrong.

- O.—" Just as a spider does not take in anything from outside,

 Mundaka

 Upanishad

 Upanishad

 I, I, 7

 the world out of His Own self, becomes metamorphosed into it, and enjoys Himself."
- "So Brahma desired and willed 'Let me assume diverse forms, in other words, become metamorphosed into the universe' and by the mere act of willing He became transformed into the universe."

यथोर्णनाभिः सुजते गृहणते च ॥ ः ज्ब्होपनि० हं• १ । सं०१। मं०७॥

1. I.e., the modern exponents of the Vedant Philosophy.—Tr.

It is said in the Metrical Commentary of Gaurrada (on the streather Aphorisms). "Whatever did not exist in the beginning The Gaurra and will cease to exist in the end, does not exist in the present either." In the beginning the world did not exist but Brahma did. After the dissolution the world will no longer exist, but Brahma will. Therefore the tworld does not exist even in the present, it is all Brahma Why is not the universe Brahma then?

A.—If, as you say, Brahma (God) were the material cause of the universe, He would become transformable, conditioned and changeable. Besides, the natures, attributes and characteristics of 'a ma'evial cause are always transmitted to its effect. Says the Faisheshi a Darshana, "The effect only reveals whatsoever pre-existed in the (material) cause." How could then Brahma and the material world be related as (material 11, 1 24 cause and effect? They are so dissimilar in their natures, attributes and characteristics. Why! Brahma is the Personification of true existence, consciousness and bliss, whilst the material universe is ephemeral, inanimate and devoid of bliss. Brahm is Uncreated, Invisible, whilst the material world is created, divisible and visible. Had the material objects such as solids been evolved out of Brahma He would possess the same attributes as the material objects. Just as solids and other muterial things are dead and inert, so would Brahma be or the material objects would possess consciousness just as Brahma does. Moreover the illustration of a spider and its web does not prove your contention. Instead, it disproves it because the material body of the spider is the material cause of the filaments, whilst the soul within is the efficient cause. In the same way, the All prevading God has evolved this gross visible universe out of the subtle, visible prakrili that resided in Him. He pervades the universe and witnesses all, and is perfect Bliss. The text you have translated into "God desired and willed Let me assume diverse forms. etc.,'" really means that God mentally saw, contemplated and willed 'Let me create the multiform universe and become revealed'; because it is only after the world has been created that God

आदावन्ते च यमास्ति वर्तमाने अप तत्तथा ॥ गौडपादीय कारिका

श्लोक ३१॥

कारणर्गुणपूर्वकः कार्य्यगुणो दृष्टः । वैशेषिक स्० ॥ अ०२। आ०१ स०२४॥

^{1.} It also injustrates the wonderful creative power of God that the soul cannot draw out filaments from the bodies of other creatures.

becomes contemporaneous with the various gross physical objects and is revealed to the human souls in their meditations, thoughts, knowledge, preachings and hearings. At the time of Dissolution no one except Himself and the emancipated souls know Him. The aphorism, you have quoted, is erroneous; because, though it is true that before Creation, the universe did not exist in this gross visible condition, nor will it exist in this form from the Dissolution onwards till the beginning of the next Creation, yet it was not nothing, nor will it be. Before Creation it existed in a subtle invisible elementary form, so will it be after Dissolution. Says the Rig Vedu "In the beginning it was all darkness, Rig- Veda X. 129, 3.

Manu

I. 5.

the whole universe was enveloped in utter darkness."
Again says Manu "In the beginning this universe was enshrouded in darkness. It was neither definable, nor discoverable by reason. Neither did it possess any physical signs, nor was it, therefore, perceptible by the senses." Nor shall it be after the beginning of, or, during the period of Dissolution. But at the present time it is definable, possessed of visible signs and characteristics and therefore perfectly discernable by the senses, and yet that commentator declared the non-existence of the world in the present, which is absolutely invalid. Because whatever a person knows on the authority of direct cognition and other evidences can not be nothing.

- O.—What object had God in creating the world?
- A.—What object could He has in not creating it?
- O—Had He not created it He would have lived in happiness; besides, the sould would have remained free from pleasure and pain and the like.
- A.—These are the ideas of the lazy and the indolent, but not of men of energetic and active habits. What happiness could the souls enjoy during the period of Dissolution? If the happiness and misery of this world were compared, it will be found that the happiness is many times greater than the misery. Besides, many a pure soul that adopts the means of obtaining salvation attain final beatitude; whilst during the period of Dissolution the souls simply remain idle as in deep sleep. Moreover had He not created this world, how could He have been able to award souls their deserts, and how could they have reaped the fruits of their deeds—good and तमं आसीत्तमंसा गूढमंग्रं ॥ ऋ०मं० १०। स० १२९ । मं • ३ ॥ आसीदिदं तमोभूतमप्रज्ञातमरुक्षणम् । अमतक्यमविश्वेयं प्रसप्तामिव सर्वतः ॥ मनु० १। ५॥ evil—done in the previous cycle of Creation¹? If you were asked, what is the function of the eyes, you can only say 'sight of course.' In the same way, of what use could the knowledge, activity, and power of creating the world be in God other than that of creating? Nothing else. The attributes of God, such as justice, mercy, the power of sustaining the world, can have a significance only when He makes the world. His Infinite power bears fruit only when it is applied to the creation, sustenance, government and dissolution of the universe. Just as sight is the natural function of the eye, so are the creation of the world, the free gift of all things to the souls and promoting the well being of all the natural attributes of God.

- O.—Was the seed made first or the tree?
- A.—The seed; because, the seed, cause, Hetú (source), Nillána Nimilta (origin), etc., are all synonymous terms. The cause being also called the seed must preced the effect.
- O.—God being Omnipotent, He can also create prakrili—the primordial matter—and the soul. If He can not, He can not be called Omnipotent.
- A.—We have explained the meaning of the word Omnipolent before. But does Omnipotent mean one who can work even impossibilities. If there be one who can do even such impossible things as the production of an effect without a cause, then can He make another God, Himself die, suffer pain, become dead and inert, inanimate, unjust, impure and immoral or not? Even God can not change the natural properties of things, as heat of the fire, fluidity of liquids and inertness of earth, etc. His laws being true and perfect He can not alter them. Omnipotence therefore, only means that He possesses the power of doing all His works without any help.
- o—Is God formless or embodied? If He be formless, how could He create the world without bodily organs? Of course an objection like this can not be urged if He be embodied.
- A.—God is formless. He can not be God who possesses a body; because, he would then have finite powers, be limited by time and space, be subject to hunger and thirst, heat and cold, wounds and injuries, pain and disease. Such a being may possess the attributes or powers of the soul, but no Divine attributes could be ascribed to him; since an incarnate God could never grasp and control the primordial elementary matter—the pri-kvili—ato ns and molecules, nor could be create the world out of those subtle elements, just as we, being embodied in flesh, can not grasp or control them. God does not possess a physical body or bodily organs, such as hands and feet, though He does possess Infinite power, Infinite energy and Infinite activity, by virtue of which He does all those works that neither matter nor the soul can do. It is only because He is even more subtle than the soul and the prateriti, and pervades them, that He can grasp them and transform them into this visible universe.

^{1.} That is, one preceeding the last Creation

- O.—If God be formless, this world created by Him should also be formless, just as in the case of other living beings, such as men, the children have bodies like their parents. Had they been formless, their children would have been the same.
- A.—What a childish question! We have, already stated that God is not the material cause of the universe. He is only its efficient cause. It is prakriti and paramanás—the premordial elementary matter and atoms,—which are less subtle than God, that are the material cause of the world. They are not altogether formless but are subtler than other material objects, while less subtle as compared with God.
 - O.—Can not God create an effect without a cause?
- A.—No; because that which does not exist (in any form) can not be called in to existence. It is absolutely impossible. It is as much impossible for an effect to be produced without its cause as the story of a man, who would brag in the following way, to be true. "I saw a man and a woman being married whose mothers never bore any children. They had bows made of human horns, and wore garlands of ethercal flowers. They bathed in the water of mirage and lived in a lown of angels where it rained without clouds, and cereals and vegetables grew without any soil, etc.," or "I had neither father nor mother and yet came into being. I have no tongue in my mouth and lo! I can speak. There was no snake in the hole and yet one came out of it. I was nowhere, nor were these people, and yet we are all here" Only lunatics can believe and say such things.
- O.—If there can be no effect without a cause, what is the cause of the first cause then.
- A.—Whatsoever is an absolute cause, can never be an effect of another, but that which is the cause of one and the effect of another is called a relative cause. Take an example. The earth is the cause of a house but an effect of liquids, but the first cause, prakrili, has no other cause, viz., it is beginningless or eternal.

मूले मूलाभावादमूलं मूलम् ॥ सांख्यदः । अ० १ । स ६७ ॥

r. Liquids are the causes of solids as they precede them in the order of formation. The earth is a solid.— Tr.

Says the Sánkhya Darshana, "The first cause having no cause is the cause of all effects." Every effect must have three causes before it comes into existence; just as before a piece of cloth can be made, it must have three things—the weaver, the thread and the machinery, in the same way the creation of the world presupposes the existence of God, the prakriti, the souls, time and space which are all uncreated and eternal. There would be no world if even one of them were absent.

The various objections of atheists are answered below:—

- (i) O.—Shúnya (nought or nothing) is the one true reality. In the beginning there was nothing but shúnya, and shúnya will survive in the end; because whatever now exists will cease to exist and become shúnya.
- A.—The ether, an invisible substance (such as prakriti), the space and a point are also called shinya. It is inanimate and all things invisibly exist in it. Lines are made up of points, while circles, squares, etc., are made up of lines. Thus has God, by the might of His creative power evolved the earth, mountains and objects of all other shapes and forms out of a point or nebula—shinya. Besides, he who knows shinya can not be shinya (nothing). [Hence shinya does no here mean nothing but a point or a nebula.]
- (ii) O.—Something c in come out of nothing, just as a seed does not germinate and send forth a sprout until it is split, but when you break a seed and look into it, you do not find any sprout in it. It is clear then that the sprout comes out of nothing.
- 1—That which splits a seed before it germinates, must have already been present in the seed, otherwise what causes the seed to split? Nor would it have come out had it not been there.
- (iii) O.—It is not true 'As you sow so shall you reap.' Many an act is seen that does not bear fruit; therefore, it is right to infer that it entirely rests with God to punish or reward a man for his deeds. It absolutely depends upon His wish.
- A.—If it were so, why does not God reward or punish a man for deeds he has never done? It follows, therefore, that God gives every man his due according to the nature of his deeds. God does not reward or punish men according to the caprice of his Will. On the other hand, He makes a man reap only what he has sown.

अत्र नास्तिका आहु:—ग्रून्यं तत्त्वं भावो विनक्यित वस्तुधर्म-त्वाद्विनाशस्य ॥ १ सांख्यद० अ० १ । स्र० ४४ ॥

- (iv) O.—Effects can be produced without a cause just as the sharp thorns of Acacia Arabic i spring out of branches that are not at all sharp and pointed but are soft and smooth. It is clear from this illustration, therefore, that in the beginning of Creation all material objects and bodies of living beings come into being without a (first) cause.
- A.—Whatever a thing springs from, is its cause. Thorns do not come out of nothing. They come out of a thorny tree, therefore, that tree is their cause. Hence the world was not created without a cause.
- (v) O.—All things have been created and are liable to decay. They are all ephemeral. The Neo-reductists put forward objections like this, because they say "Thousands of books support the doctrine that Brahma alone is the true reality, the world is a delusion and the soul is not distinct from Brahma (God). All else is unreal."
- A.—All can not be unreal if the fact of their being unreal is real.
- O.—Even the fact of their being unreal is unreal. Just as fire not only burns other things and thus destroys them, but is itself destroyed after others have been destroyed.
- A.—That which is perceptible by the senses can not be unreal or nothing, nor can the extremely subtle matter—the material cause of the world -be unreal or perishable The Neo-Vedantists hold Brahma as the (material) cause of the universe: He—the cause—being real, the world—the effect—can not be unreal. If it were said that the material world is only a mental conception and, therefore, unreal like the objects seen in a dream or like a piece of rope seen in the dark and mistaken for a snake. it can not be true; because a conception or an idea is something abstract which can not remain apart from the noumenon wherein it resides. When one that conceives (viz, the soul) is real, the conception can not be unreal, otherwise you will have to admit that the soul is also unreal. You can not see a thing in a dream unless you have seen or heard of it in the wakeful state, in other words, when the various objects of this world come in contact with our senses, they give rise to percepts called knowledge by direct अभाषात्भावोत्पत्तिर्नानुपमृद्य प्रादुर्भावात् ॥ २ ॥ ईश्वरः कारणं पुरुषकर्माफल्यदर्शनात् ॥ ३ ॥ अनिमित्ततो भावोत्पत्तिः कण्टकतैद्य्यादिदर्शनात् ॥ ४ ॥ सर्वमनित्यग्रुत्पत्तिविनाश्चधर्मकत्वात् ॥ ५ ॥ cognition—which leave impressions on our souls, it is these impressions which are recalled by, and become vivid to the soul in dreams. If it be possible for a man to dream of things of which he has had no impressions in his mind, a man born blind, should dream of colours which is not the case. It follows therefore, that in the mind are retained impressions and ideas of external things that exist in the outside world. And just as external things continue to exist even after a man ceases to have any consciousness of them as in sound sleep, so does prakriti—the material cause of the world—continue to exist ever after Dissolution.

- O.—As the external objects pass out of our consciousness in slumber and those, seen, and, of a dream in the state of profound sleep i.e., perish as far as we are concerned, in the same way why not believe that the external things seen in the wakeful state are also unreal?
- A.—No, we can not believe that; because both in slumber and profound sleep the external objects only pass out of our conciousness. They do not cease to exist, just as different things lying behind us are simply invisible to us but are there, and have not ceased to exist. Therefore, what we have said before, that God, the soul and the prakrili—the majerial cause—are three real entities, is alone true.
- (vi) O.—The five bhúls—the five states of matter as Prithivi Apáh etc.,—being eternal, the whole world is eternal or imperishable.
- A.—No it is not true; because if all those objects, the cause of whose formation or disintegration is seen every day, be eternal, the whole material visible world with all such perishable things as the bodies of men and animals, houses, and their furniture and the like would be eternal, which is absurd. Therefore, the effects can never be eternal.
- (vii) O.—All things are distinct from each other. There is no unity in them. Whatever we see precludes another.
- A.—The whole exists in its parts. Time, ether, space, God, and Order and Genus, though separate entities, are yet common to all. There is nothing that can exist separate from or without them. Hence all these are not separate from each other, though they are different by nature. Thus there is unity in variety

श्लोकार्धेन प्रवक्ष्यामि यदुक्तं ग्रन्थकोटिाभेः।
अक्ष सत्यं जगन्मिथ्या जीवो ब्रह्मैव नापरः॥

- (viii) O.—All things exclude each other, and are therefore non-existent, just as a cow is not a horse, nor is a horse a cow. Therefore, both the horse and the cow are non-existent. Similarly, all things are as if non-existent.
- A.—Though it is true that the 'relation of one thing excluding others' does exist in all things, but a thing does not exclude itself. For example, a cow is not a horse, nor is a horse a cow; but a cow as a cow and a horse as a horse do exist. If things were non-existent, how could you ever speak of this Itrelar-thhava relation of things, i.e., 'the relation of one thing excluding others from itself.' [Hence the world and things contained therein do exist. They are not non-existent].
- (ix) O.—The world comes into being by virtue of the fact that it is in the nature of things to combine together and produce different things. Just as maggots are produced by the coming together of food, moisture and by decomposition setting in; or as vegetables begin to grow when the seed, water, and soil are brought together under favourable conditions; or as the wind blowing on the sea is the cause of waves that in turn produce merchaum, which mixed with turmeric, lime and lemon juice forms what is called concrete, so does this world come into being by virtue of the natural properties of the elements. There is no Creator.
- A.—If formation be the natural property of matter, there would be no dissolution or disintegration; and if you say that disintegration is also a natural property of matter, there could then be no formation. But if you say that both formation and disintegration are the natural properties of matter, there could then be neither formation nor disintegration. If you say that an efficient agent is the cause of the creation and dissolution of the world, it must be other than, and distintegration. If formation and disintegration be the natural properties of matter, they may happen at any and every moment. Besides, if there is no Maker and the world came into being by virtue of the natural properties inherit in matter, why do not other earths, suns and moons come into existence near our earth? Moreover, whatever now grows or comes into being does so by virtue of the combination of different substances—made by God. Just as plants grow wherever the water, सर्वं नित्यं पश्चभूतनित्यत्वात् ॥ ६ ॥ सर्वं पृथम् भावलक्षणपृथक्त्वात् ॥ ७ ॥ सर्वमभावो भावेष्वितरेतराभावासिद्धेः ॥८॥ न्यायस्र०॥अ०४।आ० १ ॥ the soil and the seed come in contact under favourable conditions, and not otherwise; in the same way in the manufacture of concrete its components such as turneric, lime, lemon juice and merchaum do not come together by themselves, but are mixed together by some one, nor do they produce concrete unless mixed in the right proportion. Similarly, the prateri'i and atoms, until they are properly combined by God with the requisite knowledge and skill, can not by themselves produce anything. It follows, therefore, that the world did not come into being by itself, i.e., by virtue of the natural properties of matter, but was created by God.

- O.—This world has had no Creator, nor is there one at present, nor, shall there ever be one. It has been eternally existing as such. It was never created nor shall it ever perish.
- A.—No action or thing—which is the product of an action—can ever come into existence without an agent. All objects of this world such as, the earth, are subject to the processes of formation, that is, are the product of definite combination. They can never be eternal, because a thing which is the product of combination can never exist after its component parts come as under If you do not believe it, take the hardest rock or a diamond or a piece of steel and smash it into pieces, melt or roast it and see for yourself if it is composed of separate particles, called molecules and atoms, or not. If it is, then surely a time will come when those molecules will come apart.
- O.—There is no Eternal God, on the other hand a highly exalted soul, that by the practice of yoya attains such powers as the control of atoms, etc., and omniscience, becomes God.
- A.—Had there been no Eternal God, the Creator of the universe, who would have made the bodies, the sense organs and all other objects of this world, the very support and means of subsistence of the yoyi, by means of which he comes to possess such wonderful powers? Without their help no one can endeavour to accomplish anything. The endeavour being imossible how could he have acquired those wonderful powers? Whatsoever efforts a man may make, whatsoever means he may employ, whatsoever powers he may acquire, he can never equal God in His natural—in contradistinction to the soul's acquired—Everlasting or Eternal powers which are infinite and manifold; because, the knowledge of the soul, even if it were to go on improving till eternity, will still remain finite and his powers limited. Its power and knowledge can never become infinite. Mark no yoyi has ever been able to subvert the laws of nature as ordained by God, nor ever shall. God—the Eternal Seer—possessed of wonderful powers has ordained that eyes shall be the organs of sight, and ears the organs of hearing. No yoyi can ever alter this order. The human soul can never become God.

- O.—In different cycles of Creation does God make the universe of a uniform or of a different character?
- A.—Just as it is now, so was it in the past, so will it be in the future. It is said in the Vedu "Just as God created the sun, the earth, the moon, the electricity, the atmosphere in the Rig Veda previous cycles so has He done in the present and so X, 160, 3. will He do in the future." God's works being free from error or flaw, are always of a uniform character. It is only the works of one who is finite and whose knowledge is subject to increase or decrease that can be erroneous or faulty, not those of God.
- O.—Do the Yeda and Shástras harmonize with or contradict one another on the subject of Creation?
 - ... A.—They harmonize.
- O.—If they harmonize, why is it that in the Tailreya Upanishad Creation is described in the following manner? "Out of prakrili—the elementary material cruse of the Taittreva world—God first created Akash1. Then was evolved Uqauishad Brahma- Váyu—gaseous or vaporous condition of matter; out nand, 1. of Váyu proceeded Agni-matter which gives out heat, light and electricity—Out of Agni proceeded Liquids; and out of Liquids came solids (such as the earth); out of solids issued forth veyetables which yielded food. Food produced the reproductive element which is the cause of physical lody and bedily organs," In the Chhandogya it is written that Creation begins with Agni, in the Ai'reya Upanishad that it begins with Liquids, In the Vedu itself in some places Purush, while in others Hiranyatogether of the all-pervading elements Akash as well as space becomes manifest. In reality Akash is never created, because if there were no Akash and space, wherein could the prakriti exist?

सूर्याचन्द्रमसौ' धाता यथापूर्वमंकल्पयत्। दिवं च पृथिवीं चान्तरित्त-मथो स्वं:॥ ऋ०॥ मं० २०। स्व०१६०। मं०३॥

तस्माद्वा एतस्माद्वात्मन आकाशः सम्भूतः । अकाशाद्वायुः । वायो-रग्निः । अग्नेरापः । अद्भ्यः पृथिवी । पृथिव्या ओषधयः । ओषधि-भ्योऽन्नम् । अन्नाद्रेतः । रेतसः पुरुषः । स वा एष पुरुषोऽन्नरसमयः ॥ तंत्तिरीयोपनि ० न्नद्यानन्दव ० अनु ० १ ॥

garbha has been described as the cause of the universe; whilst in the Mimansa action or application, in Vaisheshika time, in Nyáya paramánás—atoms, in Yoja conscious exertion in Sánkhya prakriti,—the primordial elementery matter,—in Vedánt, God. Now out of all these which is right and which wrong?

A.—They are all right, not one of them is wrong. He is in the wrong who misunderstands them. God is the efficient cause and prederiti the material cause of the universe. After Mahápralaya - Grand Dissolution—the next Creation starts with Akásh. In Minor Dissolution when disintegration does not reach the stage of Vayu and Alicash but reaches only that of Agni. the next Creation begins with Agni. But when after Dissolution in which even Agni-electricity-is not disintegrated, the next creation begins with Liquids. In other words the next Creation starts at the stage where the previous Dissolution ends. Purush and. Hiranyagarbha, as we have described in the first chapter. are the names of God. Nor is there contrariety in the description of creation given in the six Shástrus, because what is contrariety but contradiction of statements when the subject under discussion is the same. Now mark how the descriptions of the six Shástras harmonize with each other. The Mimansa says "Nothing in this world can be produced without proper application." The Vaisheshika says "Nothing can be done or made without the expenditure of time." The Nyáya says "Nothing can be produced without the material cause." The Yoja says "Nothing can be made without the requisite skill, knowledge and thought." The Sankhya says "Nothing can be made without the definite combination of atoms.' The Vedánt says "Nothing can be made without a Maker." This shows that the Creation of the world requires six different causes which have been described separately one by each separate Shástra. There is no contradiction in these descriptions. The six Shastrus together serve to explain the phenomenon of Creation in the same way as six men would help each other to put a thatch on the roof of a house. A man took six men—five of them blind and the sixth possessed of dim sight and showed them each a different part of the body of an elephant, and then asked them what they thought the animal was like. The first one answered 'like a pillar,' the second 'like a fan, the third 'like a bij pestle,' the fourth 'like a broomstick,' the fifth 'like something flat,' and the sixth one said ' something dark like four pillars supporting the body of a buffalo,' Similar to these six men is the condition of those men who, instead of studying the books of rishis—the true seers of nature—, read the current Sans'crit or vernacular books written by narrow-minded men of little understanding who malign each other and wrangle over triffings. Why should they not suffer who are the blind followers of the blind? The lives of half educated, selfish, sensual and ease-loving men of to-day help to ruin and debase the world.

- O.—Why should a cause not have a cause, if there can be no effect without a cause?
- A.—O ye simple brethren! Why do you not use your common sense a little? Mark, there are only two things in this world, a cause and an effect. Whatsoever is a cause (absolute) can never be an effect; and whatsoever is an effect can never be a cause at the same time. As long as a man does not thoroughly understand the science of Creation, he can never have a true conception of the universe.

"The condition of matter in which intellect-promoting (savia) passion-existing (rajas) and stupidity producing (lamas) qualities are found combined in equal proportions is the uncreated, imperishable prakriti. The first combination of the highly subtle, indivisible separately existing particles called paramanús (atoms) derived from the prakriti, is called the Beginning (of Creation). The various combinations of atoms in different proportions and ways give rise to various grades and conditions—subtle and gross—of matter till it reaches the gross visible multiform stage called Srishti—the universe."

Now that which enters into the first combination and brings it about, existed before the combination, and shall exist after the component parts are pushed asunder is called the cause. Whilst that which comes into existence after the combination, and ceases to exist after it has come to an end is called the effect. He, who wants to know the cause of a cause, the effect of an effect, the maker of a maker, the agent of an agent, and the act of an act, is blind though he sees, is deaf though he hears, and is ignorant though well-read. Can there ever be the eye of an eye, the lamp of a lamp, and the sun of a sun? That out of which something is made is called a cause. Whatever is made from another is called an effect. Whoever produces an effect out of a cause is called the maker.

नित्यायाः सत्वरजस्तमसां साम्यावस्थायाः प्रकृतेरुत्पन्नानां परममूद्तमा-णां पृथक्पृथग्वर्त्तमानानां तत्वपरमाणूनां प्रथमः संयोगारम्भः संयोगि गविशेषादवस्थान्तरस्य स्थूलाकारपाप्तिः सृष्टिरुच्यते ।

^{1.} I have translated the word paramanu's into atom-, but perhaps it would be more correct to translate, the word into electrons.—Tr.

"Nothing can ever become something, nor can something ever become nothing. These two principles have been B. Gitá rightly ascertained by the true seers of nature." How can prejudiced, sophisticated, insincere, and ignorant minds understand them so easily? He who is neither well-read nor associates with the good and the learned, nor meditates on these abstrues subjects with profound attention, remains immersed in doubt and ignorance. Blessed are they who studiously endeavour to understand the principles of all sciences and, having mastered them, teach others honestly.

It is clear, therefore, that he who believes this world to have been created without a cause really knows nothing.

When the time of Creation comes, God gathers those extremely subtle particles (called Puramánus). The first principle that is produced out of the highly subtle elementary prakriti, is called Mahatatva—the principle of wisdom—which is one degree less subtle than the prakriti. Out of Mahatitva is evolved Ahan'tára—the principle of individuality—which is still less subtle and in its turn gives rise to the five subtle principles, called Bhúts, besides the five principles of sensation and the five principles of action² and the principle of attention, which are all a little less subtle than the principle of individuality? The five subtle bhúls, by passing through various stage of less subtle conditions of matter, are finally transformed into five least subtle states of matter, such as solids, liquids, etc. From the latter spring up various kinds of trees, plants, etc., which are the source of food, and out of food is produced the reproductive element which is the cause of the body. But the first creation (of bodies) was not the result of sexual intercourse; because it is only after the male and female bodies have been created by God and souls put into them that the Maithuni (i.e., by sexual intercourse) creation begins. Behold the wonderful organization of the body! How the learned are wonderstruck with it? First there is the osseous frame-work girt with a net-work of vessels-veins, arteries and nerves, etc.-invested with flesh, and the whole covered by skin with its appendages—nails and hairs. Then how beautifully are the different organs, such as the heart, the liver, the spleen and the lungs—the ventilating apparatus—laid out. The formation of the brain, of the optic nerve with the most reticulate formation of the retina, the demarking of the path of indriyas—the principles of sensation and action,—the linking of the soul with the body, the assigning of definite places to it for wakeful state, slumber and deep sleep, the formation of differents kinds of dhalús—tissues and secretions, such as muscle, bone-marrow, blood, reproductive elements—and the construction of various other wonderful structures and mechanisms in the body who but God could have caused? The earth studded with various kinds of precious stones and metals, the seeds of trees of a thousand different kinds! with their wonderfully exquisite structures, leaves with myriads of different colours and shades, flowers, fruits, roots, rhizomes and cereals with various scents and flavours? none but God could create. Nor could any one except God create myriads of earths, suns, moons and other heavenly bodies, and sustain, revolve and regulate them.

नासतो विद्यते भावो नाभावो विद्यते सतः। उभयोरपि दृष्टोन्तस्त्वनयोस्तत्वद्शिभिः॥ भगवद्गी० अ०२।१६॥

^{1.} I.e., of Hearing, seeing, smell, taste and touch.

² I. e., of Speech, grasp, locomotion, reproduction and excretion.

An object when perceived produces two kinds of knowledge in the mind of the observer, viz., of the nuture of the object itself and of its maker. For example, a man found a beautiful ornament in a jungle. On examination he saw that it was made of gold and that it must have been made by a clever goldsmith. In the same way, the wonderful workmanship and execution of this wonderful universe prove the existence of its Maker.

- O.—What was first created, man or earth, etc.?
- A.—The earth etc.; because without them where could man live and how could be maintain his life?
- O.—Was one man created in the beginning of Creation or more than one?
- A.—More than one; because souls, that on account of their previous good actions deserve to be born in the Aishwari—not the result of sexual intercourse—Creation, are born in the beginning of the world. It is said in the Veda " (In the beginning) there were born many men as well as rishis, i.e., learned seers of nature. They were progenitors of the human race." On the authority of this Vedic text it is certain then that in the beginning of Creation hundreds and thousands of men were born. By observing nature with the aid of reason we come to the same conclusion, viz., that men are descended from many fathers and mothers (i.e., not from one father and one mother).

^{1.} Such as Banyan tree, etc.

^{1.} Such as a sweet, alkaline, saltish, bitter, astringent, sharp and acid

a. Such as green, white, yellow, dark, be-spotted and other mixed colours.

- O.—In the beginning of Creation were men created as children, adults or old people or in all these conditions?
- A.—They were all adults, because had God created them as children they would have required adults to bring them up, and, had he created them as old men, they would not have been able to propagate the race, therefore He created them adults.
 - O.—Has Creation ever had a beginning?
- A.—No; just as the night follows the day and the day follows the night, the night precedes the day and the day precedes the night, so does Creation follow Dissolution and Dissolution follow Creation, Dissolution precede Creation, and Creation precede Dissolution. This alternate process has been eternally going on. It has neither a beginning, nor an end, but just as the beginning and end of a day or of a night are seen, so do Creations and Dissolutions have beginnings as well as ends. God, the soul and prakriti—the primordial elementary matter—are elemal by nature, whilst Creation, and Dissolution are etern it by pravah—i.e., they follow each other in alternate succession—like the flow of a river which is not continuous throughout the whole year. It dries up and disappears in summer, and reappears in the rainy season. Just as the nature, attributes, and character of God are eternal, so are His works—the Creation, Sustenance, and Dissolution (of the world)
- O.—God put some souls in human bodies, while others he clothed with the bodies of ferocious animals such as tigers, others with those of cattle, such as cows, others with those of birds and insects, others still with those of plants. Does not this belief impute partiality to God?
- A.—No, it does not impute any partiality, because He put those souls into the bodies they deserved according to deeds done in the previous birth. Had He done so without any consideration as to the nature of their deeds, He would have been unjust indeed
 - O.—Where was man first created?
 - A.—In Trivishtap otherwise called Tibet.
- O.—Were all men of one class or divided into different classes at the time of Creation?
- A.—They all belonged to one class, viz., that of man, but later on they were divided into two main classes,—the good and the wicked. The good were called Aryas and the wicked Dasyus. Says the Rij Veda "Do ye know (there are) two classes of men—Aryas and Dasyus." The good and learned were also called Devas, while the ignorant and wicked, such as dacoits, were called Asura. The Aryas were again divided into four Classes, viz.,

Brahmana, Kshalriya, Vaishya and Shudra. Those who belonged to the first three Classes being well-educated and bearing good character, were called Dwijas—the twice-born; whilst the fourth Class was so named because of being composed of ignorant and illitrate persons. They were also called Anáryás—not good. This division into Aryás and Shudras is supported by the Alharva Veda wherein it is said "Some are Aryas, others Shudras."

- O.—How did they happen to come here (in India) then?
- A.—When the relations between the Aryas and Dasyus, or between Devas and Asurs, (i.e., between the good and learned, and the ignorant and wicked) developed into a constant state of warfare, and serious troubles arose, the Aryas regarding this country as the best on the whole earth emigrated here and colonized it. For this reason it is called Aryávarla—the abode of Aryas.
 - O.—What are the boundaries of Ary 'varla?
- A.—"It is bounded on the North by the Himalays, on the South by the Vindhyachal mountains, on the East and West by the sea. It has also on its West the Surasvati river (the Sindh or Attack) and on the East the Dhrishvati river also called the Brahmaputra which rises from the mountains east of Nepal, and passing down to the east of Assam and the west of Burma, falls into the Bay of Bengal in the Southern Sea (Indian Ocean). All the countries included between the Himálaya on the north and the Vindyáchal mountains on the south as far as Rameshwar are called Aryávaria, because they were colonized and inhabited by Devas (the learned) and Aryas—the good or noble."
- O.—What was the name of this country before that, and who were its aboriginal inhabitants?
- A.—It had no name, nor was it inhabited by any other people before the Aryas (settled in it) who sometime after Creation came straight down here from Tibet and colonized this country.
- O.—Some people say that they came from Irán (Persia) and hence they were called Aryas. Before the Aryas came to this country it was inhabited by savages whom the Aryas called आसम्बद्धात्त वै पूर्वादासमुद्रात्तु पश्चिमात्। तयोरेवान्तरं गिर्योरार्व्यावर्तं विदुर्बधाः॥ सरस्वदारस्यक्रियेर्देवनद्योर्थदन्तरः। तं विनिर्मितं देशक्षार्व्यक्तिं प्रचन्नते॥ मनु ० २ । २२ । १७॥ Asuras and Rákshas as (demons), while they called themselves Devatas (gods). The wars between the two were called by the name Devasura Sangram as in the historical romances. Is this true?

A.—It is absolutely wrong. The Vedu declares what we have already repeated i.e. "The virtuous, learned, unselfish, and pious men are called Aryas, while the men of opposite Rig Veda character such as dacoits, wicked, unrighteous and 1, 51, 8 ignorant persons are called Dasyus." Besides, "The Dwijas (the twice-born)—Bráhmanas, Kshatriyas, Vaishyas are called Aryas, while the Shúdras are called Atharva Anáryas, or Non-Aryas." In the face of these Vedic Veda XIX, 62. authorities how can sensible people believe in the imaginary tales of the foreigners. In the Devásura wars, Prince Arjuna and Kinj Dashrath and others of Aryavarta used to go to the assistance of the Aryas in order to crush the Asuras. This shows that the people living outside Aryavarla were called Dasyus and Malechhas; because whenever those people attacked Aryas living on the Himalayas, the kings and rulers of Aryavarta, went to help the Aryas of the north, etc. But the war which Ram Chandra waged in the south against Rávan—the king of Ceylon -is called not by the name of Devásura war but by that of Ráma-Rávana war or the war between the Aryas and Rákshasas In no Sanskrit book—historical or otherwise—it is recorded that the iryás emigrated here from Irán, fought with and conquered the aboriginees, drove them out, and became the rulers of the country. How can then these statements of the foreigners be true? Besides, Manu also corroborates our position. He says. "The countries other than Aryavarta are called Dasyu and Malechha countries." The people living in the north-east, north, north-west and west of Aryavarta were called X, 45. Dasyus, Asurus and Malechhas, while those living in the south, south east and south-west were called Rakshusus. can still see that the description of Rákshusus given therein tallies with the ugly appearance of the negroes of to day. The people living in the antipodes of Aryávarlá were called Náyas, and their

विजानी ह्यायी च दस्यवी वहिष्मते रन्धया शासंद्वताः ॥ ऋश्मः १। स्र० ५१। मं०८॥
उत शुद्धे उतार्थे ॥ अर्थव० कां० १९। व० ६२॥
क्लेच्छवा रायवाचः सर्वे ते दस्यवः स्मृताः। मनु० १०। ४५॥
क्लेच्छवा रायवाचः सर्वे ते दस्यवः स्मृताः। मनु० १०। ४५॥
इ.इ.इ.इ.इ. इ.इ. ү. ү. ү. ү. ү.

country Putála because of being situated under the feet (of those living in Aryavaria). Their kings belonged to the Nága dynasty taking their name from that of the founder who was called Nága. His daughter Ulopi was married to Prince Arjuna. From the time of Ikshvuku to that of Kauravas and Pándavas, the Aryas were the soveriegn rulers of the whole earth, and the Vedas were preached and taught more or less even in countries other than Aryavaria.

Br. hmá was the first of the literati. His son was called Virát whose son was Manu who had ten sons, Marichi, etc., who were progenitors of seven king beginning with Swayambhava whose offspring were the kings beginning with Ikshváku. This Ikshváku colonized Aryavarta and was its first king. At the present moment, let alone governing foreign countries, the Aryas through indolence, negligence and mutual discord and ill-luck do not possess a free, independent, uninterupted and fearless rule even over their own country. Whatsoever rule is left to them, is being crushed under the heel of the foreigner. There are only a few independent states left. When a country falls upon evil days, the natives have to bear untold misery and suffering. Say what you will, the indigenous native rule is by far the best. A foreign government, perfectly free from religious prejudices, impartial towards all—the natives and the foreigners-kind, beneficent and just to the natives like their parents though it may be, can never render the people perfectly happy. It is extremely difficult to do away with differences in language, religion, education, customs and manners, but without doing that the people can never fully effect mutual good and accomplish their object. It behoves all good people to hold in due respect the teachings of the Veda and Shastras and ancient history.

- O,—How much time has elapsed since the Creation of the world?
- A.—One billion, nine hundred sixty millions and some hundred thousand years have passed since the creation of the world and the revelation of the Vedu. For detailed exposition of this subject the readers shoul! consult our book called 'An Introduction to the exposition of the Vedus.'

The minutest particle of matter that cannot be divided any further is called a Paramánú.

- 60 Paramánús make one Anu.
 - 2 Anus make one Dvyanuk, which enters into the composition of the ordinary physical Váyu (air).
 - 3 Dvyanuks make one Trasarenu that forms Agni—that condition of matter whose property is light, and heat.

- 4 Dvyanúks form Jala (Liquids).
- 5 Dvy inúles form Prithivi (Solids).

Three Dvyanúks make one trasarenu, by doubling which earth and visible objects are formed. It is in this way—i. e., by the process of combining Paramánus and Anus and so on till the visible things are produced—that the earth and other planets have been made by God.

O.—What supports this earth? One man says that is rests on the head of shesha—a thousand-hooded snake, another says that it is supported on the horns of a bull, a third says that it rests on nothing, a fourth one says that is supported on air, a fifth one says that it is kept in position by the solar attraction, and a sixth one says that being heavy the earth is going down and down in space. Out of all these different theories which shall we believe to be true?

A.—Those, who say that it rests on the head of shesha (a snake) or on the horns of a bull, should beasked, on what was the earth rested in the time of the parents of the shesha or of the bull before it was born and what supported it. The followers of the bull theory (Mohammadans) will be at once silenced. But the advocates of the sheshu theory will say that the sheshu rests on kúrm i (a tortoise) which rests on water, and the water on Agni and the Agni on air and the air rests on Akasha. They should be asked on what all of them rested. They will have to say "on God." If you ask them again whose children the sheshu and the bull were. They will tell you that the bull was the son of a cow and the shesha that of Kurma (a tortoise), the son of Marichi who was the son of Manu, the son of Vivit, who was that of Brahmá. This Brahmá was born in the beginning of Creation. Six generations had thus passed before the sheshi was born, who had sustained the earth till then? What did it rest on at the time of the birth of Kashy upa (the tortoise)? They will have nothing further to say 1 and will, therefore, begin to quarrel. What it really means is that shesha is another name for the remainder (that is, what is left behind in subtracting one sum from another). Some poet said 'The earth rests on shesha." Some ignorant man, not understanding the poet, invented this tale of the snake. What the poet really meant was that the earth was supported by God - the one Unchangeable Being in the midst of Creation and Dissolution, the One permanent element that undergoes no change during Creation or Dissolution. In the whole world lie is the only one that remains unchanged. He Atharva stands aloof from change. "That God who is Veda XIV, unaffected by time, and is imperishable sustains the sun and the earth and all other planets."

सत्येनोत्तिमता भूभिः ॥ अर्थव० कां० १४। व० १। मं० १॥ उश्चा दाघार पृथिवीसृत द्याम् ॥ ऋग्वेद ॥

^{1.} Literally 'thy silence and my silence. It is an Indian proverb .- Tr.

There is a passing in the Riy Vedu which means "Uksha sustains the moon and the earth." Some ignorant person seeing the word which invented the story of the bull supporting the earth, because Uksha does also mean a bull, but it never entered the head of that idiot as to how a bull could be powerful enough to support such a big planet. Uksha here means the sun, because he waters the earth through rain. He sustains this earth by solar attraction. But there is none besides God Who sustains the sun.

- O.—How could God sustain such big planets as the sun and the earth.
- A.—Just as these big planets are nothing compared to the infinite space (in which they exist)—(they are not even as big as a drop in the ocean),—similarly compared with the Infinite, Almighty God, these my riads of planets are not even as big as an atom. He pervades everything within and without. the Supreme Spirit created all things and sustains YajurVeda. them." Had He not been an All-pervading God (just as the Pouranics the Muhammadans and the Christians people say) He could never sustain this words, because no one can support a things without being present there. If some one says "All these planets are supporting each other by mutual attraction, where then is the necessity for God to sustain them?" He should be asked if the universe is finite or infinite. If he answers that it is infinite, it can not be true—since a thing possessing a form can never be infinite; and if he says that it is finite, we ask whose attraction supports what is beyond or outside its limits. Things when spoken of collectively are called smashii and when individually, Vyashti 1 If all the worlds were collectively called the universe, there is no one but God Who attracts and sustains it as it is said in the Yajur Veda "God it is Who creates and sustains the luminous bodies, (such as the sun) as well the nonluminous (such as the earth)." He pervades all. Yajur Veda He is the Creator and Sustainer of the universe. XIII, 4.
- O.—Do the earth and other planets revolves or are they stationary?

स दांधार पृथिवीं द्यामुतेमाम् ॥ यजुः० अ० १३ । म० ४ ।

^{1.—}For example, a group of trees would be called Smashii, while each tree individually Vyashii.

A.—They revolve.

O.—Some say that it is the sun that moves, not the earth, while others say just the reverse. Now which of the two is right?

A.—They are both half wrong; because it is written in the Veda "This earth with all its waters revolves Yajur Veda round the sun." This shows that the earth revolves. Again says the Vedu "The glorious, resplendent sun. Yayur Veda XXXIII. 4. who gives life and energy to all the world—animate and inanimate—through rain and solar rays, and makes all physical objects visible, attracts all other planets and rotates in his own orbit, but does not move round other planets." In each solar system there is one sun that gives light to all the planets (such as the earth). Says the Veda "As the moon is illuminated by the sun, so are other planets (such as the earth) illuminated by the light of the sun." But the day, and the night are constantly present. It is day in that part of the Weda XIV. cearth which in its revolutions round the sun confronts him, whilst it is night in the other half which is hidden from him. words, the sunrise, the sunset, the twlight, the mid-day and the mid night, etc., are always present in different countries at the same time; thus when it is sun rise in India, it is sinset in America and vice versa; when it is mid-day or mid-night in India it is midnight or mid-day in America and vice versa. Those, who say that the sun moves round the earth which is stationary, are all ignorant; because, had it been so, one day and one night would have lasted thousands of years, since the sun is called Brudhna which means that it is a hundred thousand times bigger than the earth; and millions of miles distant from it; consequently it would require much longer time for the sun to go round the earth than for the latter to go round the former. Just as if a mountain were to go round a mustard seed, it would take much longer time than when the latter would go round the former. Those who say that the sun is stationary are ignorant of Astronomy; because had it been so, how could he move from one zodiac to another; besides,

्रां भीः पृक्षिरक्रमीदसदन्मातरं पुरः । पितरं च नयन्त्स्वः ॥ यज्ञः० अ० ३ । म० ६ ॥

आकृष्णेन रजसा वर्त्तमानो निवेशयश्वमृतं मर्त्यं च। हिरण्ययेन सविता रथेना देवो याति भ्रवंनानि पत्र्यन्॥

यजुः० अ० ३३ । मं० ४३ ॥

दिवि सोमो अभि अभि ।। अथ ० कां० १४। अनु० १। मं० १॥

a heavy body like the sun could never remain in space without rotating constantly. The Jainees, who say that the earth does not move, but on the other hand is going down and down in space, and that in one Jainboo island alone there are two suns and two moons, are like one suffering from Delirium Tremensthe result of over-intoxication with cannabis Indica. If the earth were going down and down, it would smash into pieces from want of support of the air which could no longer encircle it. The people living on the top (uppermost) should have more air than those below, it being unequally distributed. Had there been two suns and two moons, there would have been no night and no dark half of the month. Therefore, there is only one moon for our planet and one sun amidst many planets.

O.—What are the sun, the moon and the stars, inhabited by man and other living creatures or not?

A.—They are worlds inhabited by men and other living beings. The Shatputha Brahman says "The earth, the Shatapitha water, the heated bodies, the space, the moon, the suu Bráhman and other planets are all called Vasus or abodes, because XIV, 6, 7,

- they are abodes of living beings as well as of inanimate When the sun, moon and other planets are abodes like our earth, what doubt can there be in their being inhabited? When this little earth of God is full of men and other living beings, can it ever be possible that all other worlds are void? Nothing that God has made is useless. How can myriads of other worlds be of any use unless they are inhabited by man and other beings? It follows therefore, that they are inhabited.
- O. Would men and other living beings in the other worlds have the same kind of bodies and bodily organs as they have here or different ?
- A.—Most likely there is some difference in their form and the like, just as you see some difference in form, countenance, appearance and complexion among people of different countries as the Ethiopeons, the Chinese, the Indians and the Europeans. But the creation of the same class or species on this earth and other planets is identical. The class or species that has its sense organs (as eyes) in some definite place in the body here (on this planet), will have them in the same place in other planets; for it is said in the Veda " Just as God created the sun, the moon, the Rig Veda earth, and other planets and the objects therein in the X, 190. previous cycles of Creation, the same has He done in एतेषु हीद् सर्व वसु हितमेते हीद् सर्व वासयन्ते तद्यदिद सर्व कासमन्ते तस्माद्वार इति ॥ यतः कां० १४ । म॰ ६ । 🕫 कं० ४ ॥ the present Creation." He does not make any alteration.

- O.—Are the same Vedas revaled in the other worlds as in this?
- A.—Just as the policy of a king is the same in all the countries under his rule, so is the Vedic system of Government of the King of kings identically the same in all the worlds over which He rules.
- O.—When you hold that the soul and the Prakriti are sternal and were never created by God, why should He have any control over them, as they are independent?
- A.—Just as a king and his subject live contemporaneously and yet they are subject to him, so are the soul and the prakriti under the control of God. Why should not the soul, with its finite powers and the dead mert matter be subject to His powers when He creates the whole universe, awards souls the fruits of their deeds, protects and sustains all, and possesses infinite powers. It is clear, therefore, that the soul is free to act, but is subject to the laws of God in reaping the fruits of its acts, while the Almighty God is the Creater, Protector and Sustainor of, the universe.

In the next Chapter we shall treat of IGNORANCE and KNOWLEDGE; BONDAGE and EMANCIPATION.

THE END OF CHAPTER VIII.

CHAPTER IX.

ON

Knowledge and Ignorance. EMANCIPATION AND BONDAGE.

who realizes the nature of Vidyá—true knowledge—and of Avidyá—good moral life and Divine contemplation

Yajır Veda
40, 14

and obtains Immortality by that of Vidyá."

Characteristics of Avidyá:--

- 1. "The false notion that the transient world and worldly Yoga Shástra things (such as bodies) are eternal, or in other words that the world of effects, that we see and feel, has always been existing and will continue to exist for ever, and that by virtue of the powers of yoga the physical bodies of godly men become imperishable, is the first kind of (Avidya) Ignorance.
 - 2. To regard impure things, such as lustfulness¹ and untruthfulness, as pure, is the second kind of (Avidya) Ignorance.
 - 3. To believe that execessive sexual indulgence is a source of happiness, whilst it really causes pain and suffering constitues the third variety of (Avidya) Ignorance.

विद्यां चाऽविद्यां च यस्तद्वेदोमयं सह । अविद्यया मृत्युं तीर्त्वा विद्ययाऽमृतम्भते ॥ यज्ञः ॥ अ० ४० । मं० १४ ॥ अनित्या चिदुःसानात्मसु नित्यः चिसुखात्मस्यातिरावद्या ॥ पातं • द० साधनपादे द्व० ५ ॥

I. (Literally) the female body which is full of a multitude of foul secre-

4. To consider dead material things as possessed of soul is the fourth kind of (Avidya) Ignorance."

This fourfold incorrect knowledge is called Avidya or I juorance. The reverse of it, viz., to look upon what is temporal as temporal, what is eternal as eternal, what is pure as pure, what is impure as impure, pain as pain, pleasure as pleasure, what is soul-less as soul-less, what is soul-possessing as soul-possessing, is called Vidya or Knowledge.

That by which the true nature of things is known is called Knowled je. Whilst that by which the true nature of things is not revealed and, instead, a false conception of things is formed, is called Isnorunce.

Virtuous life and contemplation of God are called Avidya (or not knowledge), because they are only bodily acts and mental processes. They are not knowledge. Therefore, it is said in the above manira that without pure life and contemplation of God no one can ever conquer death. Virtuous acts, the worship of one true God and correct knowledge, lead to Emuncipation, whilst an immoral life, the worship of idols (or other things or persons in place of God), and false knowledge are the cause of the Bondaye of the soul. No man can ever for a single moment be free from actions, thoughts and knowledge. The doing of righteous acts, as truthfulness in speach, and the renunciation of sinful acts, as untruthfulness, alone are the means of Salvation.

- O.—Who can not obtain Emancipation?
- 4.—One who is in Bondage.
- O.—Who is in Bondage?
- A.—One who is sunk in sin and ignorance.
- O.—Are Bondage and Emancipation natural to souls or acquired?
- A.—Acquired, because if they be natural they would be permanent.
- O.—"The soul being Brahma (God) is really neither ever veiled by ignorance, nor born. It is neither in bondage Káriká nor need it devise any means for its emancipation, neither it desires to be emancipated nor is it ever emancipated. How can it be emancipated when it was never in bondage?" What is your answer to this?

नं निरोधो न ोद्धारिष्टं बद्धो न च साधकः।

न ग्रमशुर्न ने ग्रक्त इत्येषा परमार्थता ॥

बौडपादीयक 'रिका प्र०२। कां० ३२॥

- A.—This statement of the Neo-Vedándists is not true, because the soul being finite by nature is veiled, takes on a body which is popularly called its birth, is also in bondage, because it suffers from the consequences of its sins and thinks out means to escape from sin and suffering and consequent bondage, and desires to free itself from pain. Being emancipated it "sees" the All-blissful God and thereby attains final beatitude (i.e., obtains salvation.)
- O.—These are all the properties of the body and mind—the internal organ of thought—not of the soul. The soul is free from sin and virtue. It is merely a witness of what the body and the mind do. Heat and cold are felt by the body. The soul is pure and untainted.
- A.—The body and mind—the internal organ of thought are material, hence dead and inert. They can never feel heat or cold, nor therefore the consequent pain or pleasure. It is concious beings (who possess souls) such as men, who feel neat and cold when a hot or a cold substance comes in contact with their bodies. Even the pranas—the nervauric forces—are devoid of consciousness. They can feel neither hunger nor thirst. It is the soul possessed of nervauric forces that feels the sensations of hunger or thirst. Similarly, the manas—the internal organ of thought—is also devoid of consciousness. It can feel neither sorrow nor joy but it is through the manus that the soul feels pleasure or pain, and joy or sorrow. Similarly, through the organs of sensation, such as ears, the soul receives different sensations, such as of hearing, and consequently feels pleasure or pain, just according to the nature of those sensations. It is the soul that thinks, knows, remembers and feels its individuality through the organs of thought, discernment. memory and indviduality. It is, therefore, the soul that enjoy's or suffers. Just as it is the man that uses his sword to kill another who is punished and not the sword, similarly, it is the soul. That, by the use of such instruments as the body, the bodily senses, the organs of thought, and nervauric forces, does acts-good or eviland consequently it is the soul alone that reaps the fruits thereofjoy or sorrow. The soul is not a witness of acts. It is the actual doer and reaps the fruits of deeds done. The One Incomparable Supreme Spirit alone is the Witness. It is the soul that does sets and is, therefore, naturally engrossed by them. The soul is not God and, consequently, it is not the seer of acts (but the actual doer).

- O.—The soul is the image of God, and just as when a mirror gets broken, the image (in it) ceases, to exist but it does in no way affect the object (whose image it was). similarly, the soul as the image of God lasts only so long as the (antahkaran) mind—the reflecting medium—endures, once that disappears, the soul no longer in bondage is emancipated—Is it not so?
- A.—It is a childish idea, because before you can have an mage, you must have two things that possess form—an object and a reflecting medium—distinct from each other. Take an example. The face and the looking glass are both essential to the formation of the image of the face. Both have form and are visible. They are also separate form each other. Had they not been so, there would have been no image. God being All-pervading and Formless it is impossible for Him to have an image.
- O.—But do you not see the all pervading, formless ether reflected in clear deep water? Similarly, God can be reflected in a pure mind. Therefore it is that the soul is called chidébhás—the image of God.
- A.—This is again childish babble, the ether being invisible no one can ever see it. How can any one see ether with his eyes when he can not even see air which is grosser than ether?
- O.—Is it not ether then, that you see in the sky above, blue and dusty?
 - A.—No.
 - O.—What is it then ?
- A.—It is the fine particles of earth, water and Agni (in the atmosphere). The blue colour is mainly due to the particles of water in the atmosphere that come down as rain, while the dusty appearance is due to the particles of dust which is carried up from the earth and floats about in the air. It is these things that are seen and reflected in water or in a mirror, and not ether.
- O.—Just as we find such terms as Ghuldkásha—the elher enclosed by a pot, Malákásha—the elher enclosed by a house, Meghákásha—the elher enclosed by a cloud—, used to denote various parts of elher; and after the pot, etc., are broken, the particular parts of elher cease to exist, only the universal elher is left; in the same way Brahma (God in Passive state), is I'shwara (God in active state) or the soul according as He is spoken of in relation to the universe or to the antahk cran—the internal organ of thought.

¹ Antahkaran means the internal organ of thought.

- A.—This is also a foolish argument. The ether (of the pot or of the house, etc.,) never perishes, nor it is ever shattered into pieces. It it the pot or the house that is broken or pulled down and comes into pieces. You never hear of a person saying to another "Bring me the ether of a pot." He always says "Bring me a pot." Your argument, therefore, is not valid.
- O.—As the fish and other marine creatures swim about in the sea or as birds fly about in air, so do all antahlaranas move about in Brahma—the truly conscious Being Who is All-pervading like ether. They are by themselves devoid of consciousness, but by virtue of Divine presence in them they become conscious, just as a piece of iron becomes hot by coming in contact with fire. The antahlaranas like the fish and birds move about, whilst Brahma is stationary like space. There can, therefore, be no harm in believing that the soul in fact is Brahma (God).
- A.—Even this illustration of yours is not right, because if the soul be the image or reflection of the All-pervading Brahma in the antahkaran why does it not possess such attributes as omniscience? If you say that it is not omniscient because of the limitations imposed upon the soul by the limiting medium, is Brahma then subject to obstruction, limitation and division or is He Indivisible? If you say that He is Indivisible, no limiting medium, or veil can stand in His way. Why should not the soul then be omniscient? On the other hand, if you say that the soul -which is really no other than Brahma, -forgets its divine nature and seemingly but not really moves about with the antahkaran. then the part of Brahma which the antehkeran—the villing medium—gets to, will become subject to doubt, and distrust, and destitute of true knowledge, whilst that part, which it leaves behind, will become omniscient, pure and blissful, Thus this antahkaran will disturb the whole universal Brahma, and consequently boudage1 and emancipation would become of momentary duration. Besides, if your assertion be true, no one should be able to remember whatever one had seen or heard in the past, because that Brahma who had seen or heard it had ceased to exist (on account of the antahkaran being in a state of constant motion and thus shifting from place to place). It follows, therefore, that God (Brahma) can never become the soul, nor can the soul become God. They can never be one. They are always distinct from each other.

^{1.} Ignorance being bondage and knowledge, Emancipation .-- Tr.

- O.—This is all adhyaropa, in other words, the substitution of one thing for another. The substitution of the world and worldly objects for Brahma, that is, to speak of them as if they were different from Brahma, is simply meant to help a seeker after truth to understand the subject with ease In reality everything is Brahma.
 - A.—Who is it that makes this substitution?
 - O.—The soul.
 - A.—What is this soul?
 - O.—The conscious entity limited by untahkaruna.
 - A.—Is it the same Brahma or something different?
 - O.—The same Brahma.
- A.—Was it Brahma Himself then Who formed an erroneous conception of the world²?
- O.—Even if it be Brahma who did it, it can do Him no harm.
- A.—Why is not he who forms an erroneous conception of things wrong then?
- O.—No, because whatsoever is conceived in mind or spoken with the tongue is all false.
- A.—Is not Brahma then, the author of false ideas and false speech, false and fallible?
- O.—Never mind that, let him be so Our object is simply to prove our position.
- (God), whose very desires, and conceptions are truth, the author of falsehood. Is it not the cause of your degradation? In which Upanishad, Aphoriom or Vedu is it written that Brahma is intruthful in thought or speech? Your conduct is like that of the burglar in the proverb which says "a thief sitting in judgment on the magistrate." It is right for the magistrate to punish a burglar but it is unnatural and wrong if a burglar tries to punish the magistrate. Similarly, you who are untruthful both in mind and speech try in vain to lay your faults on God. If a part of Br hma be untruthful in word, deed or thought, the whole Brahma would be the same, because He is uniform. His nature, knowledge and actions are all true. Untruthfulness in word, deed or thought is your failing but not of Brahma. What you call knowledge is really ignorance, and what you call your adhydrop i is also false, because you call yourselves Brahmi, when you are not Brhama, and regard the soul as Brahmi when it is not Brahma. Now what are these if not false ideas? He who is Omnipresent, can never become subject to limitations, ignorance and bondage. It is the soul that is limited by time and space, finite in nature, knowledge and power, but not the Omniscient, Omnipresent Brahma.

^{1.} Erroneously attributing the properties of one thing to another is called adhyaropa, ex considering Brahma (which is not really the material world) to be the material world—Tr.

^{2.} According to the beliefs of the Vedantists, there is really no world, it is only a delusion. All is God_{\bullet} —Tr.

BONDAGE AND EMANCIPATION.

- O.—What is Ein incipation?
- A.—That condition in which the souls are freed.
- O.—Freed from what?
- A.—What they desire to be freed from.
- O.—What do they desire to be freed from?
- A.—What they need to be freed from.
- O.—What do they need to be freed from?
- A.—From pain (or misery).
- O.—Being freed from pain what do they attain and where do they live?
 - A.—They attain happiness and live in God.
 - O.—What are the causes of Bondage and Emancipation.
- A.—Obedience to the Will of God, dissociation from sin, ignorance, bad company, evil influences and bad habits, the practice of truthfulness in speech, the promotion of public good, even-handed justice, righteousness and the advancement of knowledge, worship of God—Glorification, Prayer and Communion!—in other words, the practice you, study and tuition or instruction of others, and the advancement of knowledge by righteous efforts, the employment of best means towards the accomplishment of one's object, the regulation of one's conduct in strict accordance with the dictates of evenhanded justice which is righteousness, and so on are the means of obtaining Emancipation, whilst the reverse of these, disobedience to the Divine Will and the like lead to Bondaye
- O.—Does the soul in the state of Emancipation keep its individuality or is it absorbed (into God)?

^{1.} These have already been described in the seventh Chapter of this book.—Ir.

- A.—It lives and keeps its individuality.
- O.—Where does it live?
- A.—In God.
- O.—Where is God? And does an muncip ited soul remain in some definite place or go about just as it desires?
- A.—God is everywhere and purmeates everything. An emancipated soul well-endowed with perfect knowledge and bliss is free to go about in Him unobstructed.
 - O.—Does an emancipated soul possess a physical body?
 - A.—No.
 - O.—How does it enjoy the bliss of Emuncipation?
- A.—It retains its innite power, activity and attributes but no physical body. It is said in the Shutapatha Brahmana.
- "An emancipated soul has no physical body or bodily Shatapatha organs but it retains its pure natural attributes Brahman and powers. By virtue of its innate powers, an Kand 14, emancipated soul has the principle of hearing when it wants to hear, the principle of touch when it wants to feel, the principle of sight when it wishes to see, the principle of taste when it desires to taste, the principle of smell when it wants to smell, the principle of thought for thinking, the principle of judyment for ascertaining truth, the principle of memory for remembering, the principle of individuality for feeling its individuality. It can possess this so-called body—composed of the principles of sensation and thought, etc.,—at its will. Just as when the soul is embodied, it depends upon its physical body and bodily organs to carry out its will, so does it enjoy the bliss of Emancipation through the use of its innate power.
- O.—What is the nature of this power, and of how many kinds is it?
- A.—Really it is of one kind, but it may be said to consist of the following 24 varieties:—

शृष्वन् श्रोत्रं भवति, स्पर्शयन् त्वग्भवति, पश्यन् चक्षुर्भविति, रसयन् रसना भवति, जिद्यन् द्याणं भवति, मन्वानो मनो भवति, बोधयन् बुद्धिभवति । चेतयश्चित्तम्भवत्यहङ्कुर्वाणोऽहङ्कारो भवति ॥ श्वतपथ्य०

(1) Strength; (2) energy; (3) attraction; (4) suggestion; (5) motion; (6) intimidation; (7) analytic power; (8) skill; (9) courage; (10) memory; (11) discernment; (12) desire; (13) love; (14) hatred; (15) association; (6) dissociation; (17) dividing power; (18) combining power; (19) power of sight; (20) hearing; (21) touch; (22) taste; (23) smell; and (24) knowledge.

By the help of these very powers the soul attains and enjoys happiness even in Emancipation. If the soul, when emancipated, were to be absorbed into Brahma, who would then enjoy the bliss of emancipation. Those who regard the dissolution of the soul as emancipation are no doubt immersed in ignorance because the Emancipation of the soul consists in its exemption from all sin and suffering and in the enjoyment of perfect bliss in the All-pervadings All-blissful, Infinite, Omnipotent God. Mark! What the Vedáni, Shásira says on the subject:—

"According to Balri the soul as well as the mind—the principle of thought—is present in Em ncip ction." In Vedánt other words, Badri, otherwise known as Paráshar, the Shástra father of 1 y/18, does not believe in the absorption of 4, 10, 11. the soul (into God) nor in its dissolution nor in that of the principle of thought in the state of Emancipation. Vedánt "The great teacher Jaimini holds that an ema cipated Shéstra soul possesses the principle of thought as well as the IV, 4, ri spiritual or subtle body-the principles of sensation, and the nervauric ferces. The soul and the principle of thought, etc., are not absent during Fm ncip tion." Again "The sage Vydsa believes both in the presence and absence of these powers in the state of em neipation, in other words, he holds that Vedánt the soul exists and retains all its powers that are jure. Shástra whilst unholiness, sinfulness, pain and ignorance and IV, 4, 12. the like are absent "

"That condition of the soul in which it possesses a pure manus—the principle of thought—the five principles of sensation, and in which the deliberations of the II, 6, 10. principle of discernment are true and constant, is called the supreme state or Emancipation."

अभाषं वादिरिराह होवम् ॥ वेदान्तद० ४ । ४ । १० ॥ भावं जैमिनिर्विकल्पामननात् ॥ वेदान्तद० ४ । ४ । ११ ॥ द्वाद्यादृषदुभयविषं वादरायणोऽतः ॥ वेदान्तद० ४ । ४ । १२ ॥ "That Supreme Spirit, Who is free from sin, decay and Chhandogya death, pain and sorrow, hunger and thirst, Whose Upanishad thoughts and desires are the very essence of truth, VIII, 7, 1. should be sought after. It is by contact with the Divine Spirit that an emancip ited soul attains to all the conditions it wishes for, and realizes all its desires, and it is through the knowledge of the Supreme Soul that it learns the means of salvation and the ways of self-purification."

eyes and a pure minus and thereby enjoys extreme bliss. The Soul that rests in the All Glorious, Supreme Being—the Onnipresent, Omniscient Spirit, the Inward Controller of all—Whom all men of learning, imbued with piety and desirous of obtaining salvation worship, and adore (by the practice of yoya), enjoys the beatitude of emancipation. Verily it obtains all its hearts's desires and whitsoever worlds and states it wishes to attain to. The emancipated soul leaves off its mortal coil and roams about in space in the All-pervading God by the help of the Spiritual body. As long as the soul is embodied, it can never be free from worldly pains and sorrows. As Projapati said to Indira Listen, O thou who art wealthy and worthy of great respect! This physicat body is mortal. It is in the jaws of death very much like a goal under the jaws of a lion.¹ It is the dwelling place of the formless and immoral soul, which is, therefore, constantly afflicted with pain or engrossed in pleasure, because an embodied soul can never be free from worldly joys or sorrows. On the other hand, the unembodied emancipated soul, that lives in God, can neither be affected by joys nor by sorrows. It continually enjoys perfect bliss "

यदा पश्चावतिष्ठन्ते ज्ञानानि मनसा सह। बुद्धिश्च न विचेष्टते तामाहुः परमां गतिम् ॥ कठो॰ अ०२॥ व०६॥ मं १०॥

य आत्मा अपहतपाप्मा विजरो विमृत्युर्विशोकोऽविजिघत्सोपि-पासः सत्यकामः सत्यसङ्कल्पः सोऽन्वेष्टव्यः स विजिज्ञासितव्यः सर्वाय लोकानामोति सर्वाश्च कामान् यस्तमात्मानमनुविद्य वि-जाद्यातीति ॥ छान्दो० प्र०८। खं० ७। मं०१॥ स वा एष एतेन देवेन चक्षुषा मनसैतान् कामान् पश्यन् रमते ॥ य एते बृक्षलोके तं वा एतं देवा आत्मानम्रुपासते तस्मान्तेषा सर्वे च लोका आत्ताः सर्वे च कामाः स सर्वा श्व श्रेकानामोति सर्वा श्व कामान्यस्त्रपात्मानमनुविद्य विजानातीति ॥ छान्दो० १०८। स्रं०

33.1.42.5.1.E.

O.—Does the soul, once being emancipated, ever become subject to birth and death again? It is said in the Chhandogya "The soul after being Chhandogya Upanished. VIII, 15 emancipated never comes back again, never comes back again into this world." Again it is written in the Vedant Shastra. Vedánt "The Veda declares there is no coming back, no coming Shástra back declares the Veda." Gita also says "That IV, 4, 33. Supreme State from which it—the soul—never falls back (into this world), is mine." Gita

It is clear from these quotations that that alone is called (the state of) E nuncipation from which the soul never returns into this world. What is your view?

A.—It is not true that the emincipated soul never returns to this world because the Veda contradicts this view. "Whose name should we hold sacred? Who is that All-glorious, Resplendent Being Who is imperishable among all the perishable things; Who having made us enjoy the bliss of emancipation again invests us with bodies and thereby gives us the Rig I, 24, 1, 2 pleasure of seeing our parents? It is the All-glorious, Eternal, Immortal, All-pervading, Supreme Being Whose name we should hold sacred. He it is Who helps us to enjoy the bliss

मः वन्मत्ये वा इद् श्वरीरमात्तं मृत्युनातद्स्याः तस्याग्वरीरस्यात्मनो धिष्ठानमात्तो वै स शरीरः त्रियात्रियाभ्यां न वै सशरीरस्य सतः त्रिया त्रिययोरपहतिरस्त्यशरीरं अवाववासन्तं न त्रियात्रिये स्पृशतः । छान्दो० १०८। सं०१२। मं०१।

न च पुनरावर्तते न च पुनरावर्त्तते इति। छान्दो० प०८। खं० १५॥ अनावृत्तिः शब्दादनावृत्तिः शब्दात्॥ वेदान्त स्व० अ०४। पा० ४।

स्०३३॥

यद् गत्ना न निवर्तन्ते तद्वाम परमं मम । भवद्गी० ॥

¹⁾ Meaning thereby that death may overtake this body at any moment-Tr.

of Emancipation, and then brings us back into this world, clothes us with bodies, and thereby gives us the pleasure of seeing our parents. The same Divine Spirit it is Who regulates the period of Emancipation and lords over all."

Again says the Sankhya Shústra. "Souls live in Bond-Sánkhya age and in emancipation as they are at the present I, 159. time. There is no everlasting (Atyunta) Bondage or emancipation."

- O.—But the Niyaya Shastra says. "(Atyanta) Everlasting freedom from pain alone is called Emancipation, because it is only freedom from false ideas, ignorance, vices (such as covetousness) and from engrossment in sensual gratification and contraction of evil habits, and consequent immunity from birth and pain,—that bring about Emuncipation which is everlusting." *
- A.—The word atyanta does not necessarily always mean everlusting, because we very often say that such and such a man is in atyanta pain or enjoys atyanta pleasure. Now here atyanta means extreme What we, therefore, mean is that that man is in extreme pain or enjoys, extreme pleasure. Similarly the word atyanta in the above quotations means extreme, not everlasting or eternal.
- O.—If the soul returns to this world from the state of Emancipation, what is the duration of Emancipation then?

कस्य नुनं कंतमस्यामृतानां मनामहे चारुं देवस्य नाम । कोनो मह्या अदित्ये पुनर्दात् पितरं च दृश्यं मातरं च ॥ अग्नेवयं प्रथमस्यामृतानां मनामहे चारुं देवस्य नाम । स नो मह्या अदित्ये पुनर्दात् पितरं च दृश्यं मातरं च ॥ स नो मह्या अदित्ये पुनर्दात् पितरं च दृश्यं मातरं च ॥

ऋ० मं० १। स्० २४। मं०। १। २॥

इदानीमिव सर्वत्र नात्यन्तोच्छेदः। सांख्य ० अ० १। स् ० १५९॥ तद्त्यन्ताविमोक्षोऽपवर्गः।

दुःखजन्यभव्यतिदोषमिथ्याज्ञानानाग्रुत्तरोत्तरापाये तदनंन्तरापायाद-पवर्गः ॥ न्याय स्व ० अ० १ । स्व ० २२ । २ ॥

^{*} Even the word everlasting in English does not always mean unending, it is sometimes used to express the same idia as adayanta, i. e., extreme—Tr.

A.—"The emancipated soul enjoys the bliss of emanciMundak
Upanished the Grand-Dissolution (Mahák alpa), and thereafter
III, 2, 6 parts with that bliss and is again born into this world." The period covered by Grand-Dissolution is calculated thus:—

Time is first divided into four yugás or cycles, viz.,-

Salynga		••••	••••	17,28,000 years
Dvá paryuga	••••	••••	••••	12,96,000))
$Trelm{lpha}yuga$	••••	••••	••••	8 ,64,000	2,
Kaliyuya	••••	••••	••••	4,32,000	,,
		Total		4,320,000	,,

Thus 43,20,000 years make one Chaturyugi.

2,000 Ch thuryayis (8,640,000,000 years) = an Ahorátra (Day and Night.)

30 Ahoratras = one Mása (month).

12 Másus=one Varsha (year).

100 Varshus = one Prantakal (Grand-Dissolution).

Thus, the duration of Emancipation = $100 \times 12 \times 30 \times 2,000 \times 43,20,000 = 3,11,040,000,000,000$ years.

- O.—All other writers teach and all the world believes that the Emancipation is that condition from which no soul returns to this world and becomes subject to births and deaths.
- A.—This view can never be true. Firstly, when the powers of the soul, its instruments (such as body and bodily organs), and its means are all finite, how could the reward extend over an infinite period? Secondly, the soul does not possess infinite capacity, infinite means and activity to enjoy infinite bliss, how could it then enjoy Everlasting happiness? How could the end be eternal when the means to accomplish it are non-eternal? Thirdly, if no souls came back from the state of emancipation, the world should become bereft of them
 - O.—No, there can be no dearth of souls, because the emancipated souls are replaced by new ones that God creates.

A.—Firstly, if that be the case, the soul would become non-eternal (mortal), because a thing that is created must perish. Therefore, according to your own view the soul even on obtaining emancipation, would perish, hence emuncipation becomes non-eternal. Secondly, in the place wherein emincipited souls live-otherwise called Heaven-there will be a great deal of hustling, crowding and jostling, as there will be no end of increase in the population for the simple reason that immigration will be so great, whilst emigration will be nil. Thirdly, there can be no enjoyment of pleasure if there be no perception of pain, example, you would not know sweat taste from bitter or bitter from sweet, if you would only taste one of them-sweet or bitter-all your life time, because it is only by comparing the flavours of things possessing opposite tastes that we form an idea of both. If a man were always to eat and drink sweet things only, he would not enjoy them so much as one who tastes all kinds of food. Fourthly, if God were to give the soul unlimited happiness as the fruits of its actions that are limited (finite), His justice would be destroyed. A wise man does not put on his man's shoulders a load heavier than he can carry. If a man can only carry a load of eighty pounds and his master puts a weight of eight hundred pounds on his head he is certainly worthy of censure. Similarly, it would not be right for God to load the soul, possessed of finite power and finite knowbedge, everlasting happiness Fifthly, if you say that God creates new souls, the material out of which He creates them will eventually run short; because a bank, however wealthy it may be, that has a constant drain on it, but has no income, is sure to become bankrupt sooner or later. It follows, therefore, that this arrangement alone-viz., Emancipation and then return from it—is the right one. Sixthly. there is no man who would prefer life-imprisonment (or hanging) to imprisonment for a shorter term. There being no return from Emancipation, it differs from life-imprisonment only in this respect that one has not to work there.

With regard to Emancipation as absorption into *God it is like death by drowning one-self into the sea.

- O.—The soul can enjoy eternal bliss and be emancipated everlastingly just as God lives in enjoyment of Perfect and Everlasting Bliss and is Eternally free from worldly joy and sorrow, pleasure and pain.
- A.—God is infinite by nature. His essence, powers, attributes are all infinite. He can, therefore, never be subject ^{*} Which is the idea of salvation according to some people—Tr.

- to ignorance, pain and bondage, etc. The soul, even when emancipated, remains finite in knowledge, though pure in nature. Its attributes, powers and activity all remain finite. It can, therefore, never be like God.
- O.—This being the case, Emancipation is no better than birth and death—It is useless, therefore, to endeavour to obtain it.
- A.—It is not like birth and death. The bliss of Emancipation extends over the period of Creations and Dissolutions for thirty-six thousand times Is uninterrupted happiness with perfect absence of pain extending over such a long period trifling? You eat and drink to-day, though you know you will be hungry again before the day is out. Why do you try to appease your hunger and quench your thirst then? If it is considered necessary to endeavour to appease hunger and quench thirst, acquire worldly possessions, and temporal power and fame, have wife and children and the like, why is it not the same for emancipation? Though death is certain, yet we work in order to live. In like manner, though the return from emancipation is certain, still it is extremely desirable that we should do our best to obtain it.
 - O.—What are the means of obtaining Emancipation?
- A.—Some of them have already been mentioned but the special means are the following?
- (1) I.—Let him who desires emancipation be emancipated now in this life. In other words, let him renounce all those evil or sinful actions, such as untruthfulness in speech, that lead to misery and pain. Let him, instead, always live a virtuous life and do such good deeds (eg, veracity in speech) as leal to happiness. Let him, who wants to escape from pain and enjoy happiness, abondon sin and practise righteousness; because sin is the cause of pain and suffering, whilst righteousness begets happiness.
- II. Let him always associate with men of great learning and piety, and thereby studiously know truth from untruth, virtue from vice, and right conduct from wrong.
- III. Let him ascertain that the body comprises five systems (koshas1):—
 - (i) The Physical system which comprises all the tissues and fluids of the body from bone to skin. It is the gross physical body or system

I. Koshas are also translated into Sheaths by some writers,—Tr.

- (ii). The Vital system which comprises the five great vital or nervauric forces:—
 - (!) Prána or the Expiratory force which helps to draw the air out.
 - (2) Apána or the Inspiratory force that helps to draw air into the lungs.
 - (3) Sumana or the Solar-sympathetic force which is situated in the centre of the abdomen, and serves to carry rasa, i.e., chyle—the essence of food—and blood to all parts of the body.
 - (4) Unlana or the Glosso-pharynyeal force which helps to draw the food down the throat into the stomach, etc., and gives rise to strength and energy.
 - (5) Vyánu or the Motor-muscular force which helps the soul to move or do anything—the cause of motion.
- (iii). The Mento-motor system which comprises the principle of volition, the principle of individuality, and the five principles of action, viz., articulation, grasp, locomotion, reproduction and excretion.
- (iv). The Mento-sensory system which comprises the principle of judyment, the principle of memory, and the five principles of sensation, viz., sight, hearing, taste, smell and touch. It is through these that the soul carries on such processes, as thinking and the like.
- (v). Spirituo-emotional system which comprises love, cheerfulness, happiness—great or little. The elementary matter called prakriti being the medium through which the soul entertains these feelings.

The above mentioned five systems are the media through which the soul acquires all kinds of knowledge, carries on all the mental processes, and performs all its actions

IV.—Let him realize that there are three states or phases of the soul:—

(1) Wakeful phase,

- (2) Dreaming 1 has.
- (3) Slumbering physe, sound sleep or sushupti in which there is no consciousness of the outside world, nor there are any dreams.
- V.—Let him know that there are four kinds of bodies:—
- (1) The gross physical body which is seen and felt.
- (2) The subtle body* which comprises seventeen principles:—
 Five nerv curic or vital principles, five principles of sensation, and five physical principles such as Prithivi Apáh, Agni, etc., in subtle form, and the principles of volidion and discernment. It also accompanies the soul in all births and deaths. It is of two kinds:—
 - (a) Material which is derived from the fine particles of subtle matter.
 - (b) Spiritual or natural which comprises the natural powers and attributes of the soul Both these remain with the soul in the state of Emuncipation, and it is through them that the soul enjoys the bliss of emancipation.
- (3) The Causal body (kárana shrira) which consists of the elementary matter—prakriti. It is all-pervading and therefore, common to all souls. It is through this that the soul enters into the state called sound dreamless sleep.
- (4) The Turiy i body is that through which the soul is absorbed in the contemplation of the All-blissful Supreme Spirit in the state of sumadhi (superior condition) developed by the practice of yoya and perfect concentration. The energy born of this pure body—the product of the pure influence of the superior condition—is of great service to the soul in Emancipation.
 - The soul itself is distinct from all the above mentioned systems, states, and bodies. That the soul is distinct from states is evident from the fact that when a man dies, every one/says that the soul has passed out of the body. The soul alene is the prompter, the possessor, the seer the doer, and the reaper of the fruits of its actions. Know him, who says that the soul is not the doer nor the reaper, to be ignorant and destitute of reason; because all these bodies, etc., are by themselves dead and inert. They can never feel any pain nor pleasure, nor can they do any thing -good or evil-, though it is true that the soul in conjunction with them does sinful or virtuous deeds and reaps the fruits thereof—pain or pleasure. When the senses come in contact with the external objects, and the manas—the principle of attention acts in conjunction with the senses, and the scul with the manas, it incites the nervauric forces into action-good or evil-, the soul is then said to be directed outwardly, and at that very moment feelings. of happiness, cheerfulness and fearlessness spring up in the mind from within when the act is good, while those of fear, shame and distrust when it is evil. It is the voice of the Omniscient Divine spirit—the Inward Controller of all from within. Verily he alone who follows this voice and acts accordingly, enjoys the bliss of Emancipation. Whosoever goes against the dictates of this voice suffers from misery and pain—the result of londage.

^{*} Sometimes also called Spiritual or Astral body .- This

٠, .

The above constitutes the first means of salvation.

- (2) Vairagya is next. It consists in the practice of truth and renunciation of untruth after carefully discriminating right from wrong. In other words, it consists in acquiring the knowledge of the nature, properties and characteristics of all things from earth to Heaven (Literally God), in assiduously obeying God's commandments and worshipping Him, in never going against His Will and in making nature subservient to oneself.
 - (3). Shatk Sampatti—the performance of six kinds of acts:—
 - (a). Shama consists in restraining one's soul and manas from sin and temptation, and in always practising righteousness.
 - (b). Dame consists in keeping the body and the senses aloof from the doing of evill deeds, such as adultery and in practising self-control and living a chaste life'
 - (c). Uprati consists in never associating oneself with the wicked.

- (d). Tilikshá consists in becoming deaf to all wordly applause or censure, and indifferent profit or loss, joy or sorrow and in throwing oneself heart and soul into the pursuit of the ways and means of Emanci, ation.
- (e). Shrádha consists in having faith in the Ved and the Shástra and in the teachings of those altruistic teachers of truth who are profound scholars by virtue of having studied the above, and are men of great piety and high ideals.
- (f). Samádhána is the concentration of mind.
- (4). Mumukshatwa is perfect devotion to and inflinching love for nothing but emancipation and the means of obtaining it like a hungry or thirsty man who desires nothing else but food and drink. These are the four sadhanas or means of attaining Emancipation. Next come what are called Anubandh s (subsidiary mens) so called because they come after the sadha s or means.

Anubhandas (subsidiary means) are four in number:-

- (i). Adhikari is the worthiness to become a recepticle unto the Divine spirit.
- (ii). Sumbandha is the thorough knowledge of the Veda and the Shastra and of (the means of) amancipation—another name for seeing God—explained therein, and the realization thereof.
- (iii), Vishayee is making the realization of God—the subject matter of all the Shástras—as the one object of one's life.
- (iv). Prayojanu is the exemption from all misery and pain, and the perfect enjoyment of the great bliss of Emancipation.

After anubundhas (subsidiary means) come Shr. vana Chatushthayá. It is of four kinds:—

- (i). Shravana is to listen most attentively with a calm mind to the discourse or the speech of a learned man and more so if the subject be Divine coience, because it is most abstruse and subtlest of all the sciences.
- (ii). Manana is thinking over what one has heard in retirement, and in removing doubts if there be any by questioning the speaker. Questions may sometimes be asked even in the middle of a discourse if the speaker and the audience think proper.

- (iii). Nidhidhyásan i. When all doubts are cleared after hearing a discourse and thinking over it, let the enquirer enter into the superior condition and see for himself by the help of yog i whether it is the same as he had heard and reasoned out or not. This is called Nidhidhyásana.
- (iv). Sakhshata Karan't is the resulting correct knowledge of the nature, properties and characteristics of the desired object.

Let him (i. e, the seeker after Salvation) always renounce qualities and habits that are the result of the darkness of mind (Tamoju 1a), such as anger, uncleanliness—both physical and mental—indolence, and infatuation. Let him also hold himself aloof from Rajoguna, i. e., passions, such as jealousy, hatred, lust, conceit and restlessness of spirit, and instead, acquire Saloguna, i. e., good qualities, such as tranquility of mind, gentle disposition, purity, knowledge and ideas.

Let him be friends with the happy, kind to those who are in pain and distress, love those who are good and virtuous, but neither love nor hate those who are wicked. Let the seeker after salvation always devote at least two hours daily to meditation or devotional exercises and mentally see all the subtle principles within the body, such as the principle of thought etc. We are conscious beings. Therefore, it is that we can acquire and possess knowledge, and see exactly whatever state the mind—the minas—is in, as for instance tranquil or restless, happy or sorrowful. Similarly, we are conscious of the doings of the senses, can remember what we have seen before, are cognizant of different ideas and objects at different times, attract and sustain others and yet we are distinct from all of them; otherwise the soul could never be a free-agent, nor the prompter and sustainer of the principle of thought, the senses, the body and the bodily organs

In this world there are five kinds of Klesha (pain):-

- (i). Ignorance. It has already been described (in the beginning of this Chapter).
- (ii). Asmitá is to regard the principle of discernment, and the soul as one and the same thing.
- (iii). R dga is the love of pleasure.
- (iv). Dvesha is aversion to pain.

अविद्याऽस्मितारागद्वेषाभिनिवेशाः पश्च क्षेशाः । योगशास्त्रे पादे २ । स्र ० ३ ॥

(v). Abhinivesha is the fear of death. All living beings have continually the desire to live for ever and do not wish to die.

Let every man free himself from these five kinds of klesha (pain) by means of the practice of yoyu and the acquisition of spiritual knowledge, the realization of God, and enjoy the supreme bliss of Emanciplation.

- O.—The kind of salvation you believe in, is quite different from that of the rest of the world. Now the Jainees hold that salvation consists in going to Shivapuri and sitting there quiety on a platform called Moksha Shilla (the stone of salvationt); the salvation of the Christians consists in going to the fourth Heaven wherein they enjoy themselves by singing, playing and putting on fine dresses, and marrying, and fight (with each other); whilst the Mohamadans believe that salvation consists in going to the seventh Heaven, Váma Márgis to Shriqur, Shaivites to Kailásh, Vaishnavites to Baikunth, and Gosárens to Goloka and enjoying there by having beautiful wives, pretty dresses and houses, nice foods and drinks. The Pouraniks (the followers of the Puránas) believe in five kinds of salvation:—
 - (1) Residence in the same world with God.
 - (2) Living with God as His younger brother.
 - (3) Becoming like God in nature.
 - (4) Living near God as a servant lives near his master.
 - (5) Intimate union with God.

Last of all, the Vedánlists hold that salvation consists in the absorption of the soul into God.

A.—We shall discuss the different kinds of salvation which the Jainees, the Mohamadans, and the Christians believe in the twelveth, thirteenth and fourteenth Chapters, respectively, of this book. The salvation of Váma Máryis, which consists in nothing else but eating meat and drinking wine, hearing love songs and enjoying themselves with women, is no better than what you get in this world. They look upon all men as Muhadeva or Vishnu, and all women as Páravati or Lakshmi and enjoy themselves with each other. Now this is no better than what the Princes and other wealthy people do in this world except that they say that there will be no disease in Heaven and that you always remain young, which can never be true; because wherever there is enjoyment of sensual pleasures, there is disease, and wherever there is decease, there is old age. The Pouraniks should be told that their five kinds of salvation are attainable even to animals, insects and worms without any effort on their part. Take for example, (1) the first kind of their salvation, all these worlds wherein all living beings exist are God's, Who lives in all of them, hence they live in the same world with God. The salvation number (2) is also possessed by the soul without any effort on its part; because being smaller than God and both being conscious entities it is like a younger brother to God. (3) As regards the third kind of salvation, being a spirit and possessing consciousness and being pure in nature the soul is like God, but it can never be like Him in possessing infinite power, infinite activity and infinite attributes. As regards the salvation number (4), God being Omnipresent all souls are near Him, hence all of them already possess this kind of salvation. The same may be said of the salvation number (5). God being All-pervading He also resides in the soul. Hence the latter is in intimate union with God.

The disintegration of the body and the soul into their component parts, which is called salvation (nirvanu) by some atheists (Budhists), is attainable even to dogs and donkeys

All these kinds of salvations are no salvation at all. They are really prisons, because all those people believe their respective Heavens, such as Shivpuri, the fourth Heaven, or the seventh Heaven, Shripur, Kailash, Vaikunth and Goloka, to be definite worlds or places (of residence). Were their inmates to leave those places, they would lose their salvation. They are, therefore, rather like prisoners imprisoned in dark cells out of which they dare not go. The true salvation or emuncipation consists in this that the soul should go about wherever it likes without any hitch or hinderance, and should have no fears, nor doubts, nor sorrows.

The union of the soul with the body is called its birth, while the severance of this link is called death or dissolution.

The emancipated souls are born again in the due course of time.

- O.—Do you believe in the unity or pleurality of births (of the soul)?
 - A.—In the pleurality of births.
- O.—Why can not the soul then remember what happened in its previous births and deaths?
- A.—The soul is finite in knowledge and powers. It is not the scer of the three periods of time—the past, the present and the future, it can not therefore recall its past. Besides, the manas—the principle of thought and attention—by means of which the soul knows, can not have two ideas—i.e., of the past as well as of the present—at the same time. Let alone things that happened in the previous life of the soul, why can not a man remember what happens in this very life from the time of conception till, say, the age of five. We see and hear so many different things while we are awake, and dream of so many different things while in slumber, why can we not recall all those things when we are in deep sleep. You could never tell, if you were asked, for example, what you were doing on the ninth day of the fifth month of the thirteenth year of your life exactly at ten in the morning; which way you were looking; what the position of your head and hands was; whether your mouth was open or shut; and what you were then thinking of. When such is the case even in this life, how absurd then to question the validity of the previous existence of the soul simply because it can not recall what happened in that life? a good thing too that the soul can not remember its past, otherwise there would have been no happiness for it. It would have died of sheer pain and mental anguish brought on by brooding over the terrible sufferings and sorrows of its past lives. No man can ever know what happened in his past lives even if he were to try to do so; because the soul's power and knowledge are limited. God alone can know that.

- O.—How can the punishment, that God inflicts on the soul, reform it when it can not remember its past; because the punishment could prevent it from committing any further sins only if it were to know that such and such a punishment was metted out to it for such and such a sin.
 - A.—!How many kinds of knowledge do you believe in?
- O.—Eight kinds, such as knowledge through direct cognition, through Inference, through an dogy, etc.
- A.—Why can you not then infer the existence of the previous life of the soul from seeing different people born and brought up under different conditions in this world such as affluence and poverty, happiness and misery, talent and idiocy, etc. Suppose a physician and a layman are taken ill. The physician at once finds out the cause that brought on the disease on him, while the layman can not; because the for ner has studied Medical Science while the latter has not. But even the layman knows this much that he must have violated some law of nature—dietetic or sanitary, etc.,—to bring on the disease, such as fever. Similarly, why can you not infer the pre-existence of the soul by observing people afflicted with pain and suffering, or endowed with pleasures or joys of this world in unequal proportions—not the result of their actions in the present life? If you refuse to believe in the pre-existence of the soul, how do you think it to be consistent with the justice of God to bless some with riches, power, and talent etc., while afflict others with poverty, suffering, idiocy and the like without their having done anything—good or evil—in their previous lives to deserve them? God can be just only when He gives the soul pleasure or pain according to its good or evil deeds done in its previous lives.

- O.—The belief in the unity of birth is not inconsistent with the justice of God. He is like a Sovereign Ruler, whatsoever he does is just. He may also be likened to a gardener who implants trees big and small in his grove, some he trims, others he cuts down, others still he protects (from wind, and cattle, etc.), improves and multiplies. One can do whatever one likes with one's own. In like manner, God can do whatever He likes (with this world). There is no one above Him who could punish Him or whom He should fear.
- A.—God always deires justice and acts justly, therefore, it is that He is Great and worthy of our homage and adoration. He would not be God if He would act unjustly. A gardener who plants trees aimlessly on walks or other places, cuts down trees that do not require cutting, multiplies those that are not fit to be multiplied, and does not multiply those that are suitable for multiplying, is worthy of blame. In like manner would God be blameable were He to act without a reasonable cause. It is absolutely necessary for God to act justly, because He is pure and just by nature. Should He act like a madman He would even be beneath a good judge of this world, and would no longer be honoured. Does not a judge, in this world, who punishes the innocent and awards honour to those who have done nothing to deserve it, merit blame and forfeit his honour? God never does anything that is unjust. He, therefore, fears none.
- O.—God has preordained all. He gives one or acts by one whatsoever He had determined before-hand to give or do.
- A.—His determination is always in accordance with the actions of the soul. Should it be otherwise, He would be unjust and guilty.
- O.—All men have the same amount of misery and happiness. The great have great cares, whilst the small have small troubles and cares. A rich merchant, for instance, has a law suit, of say Rs. 1,00,000, in a Court of Law. He leaves his house in a palanquin (borne on the shoulders of men) for the Court on a very hot day. The ignoruit, when they see him thus passing through a street, cry out Behold the might of virtue and vice. One is comfortably sitting in the palanquin, whilst the others are bearing him on their shoulders barefooted with a burning ground underneath and a scorching sun over head." But the wise know that as the Court is drawing nigh, the anxiety of the merchant, his doubts and fears are increasing, while the palanquin bearers are getting easier at the prospect of being soon relieved from their burden. When at last they get to the Court, the merchant thinks of going hither and thither. He soliloquizes thus "Shall I go to see my counsel or shall I see the clerk of the Court first? Shall I win or lose today? Oh! I wish I knew what was going to happen" and so on. The palanquin bearers, on the other hand, chat together, smoke, feel happpy, and enjoy their siesta. If the merchant wins, he feels a bit happy, if he los is he sinks into the depths of injerv. whilst the palanquin bearers are affected neither one way nor the other. They remain just as they were before the case was decided. Similarly, when a king lays himself down on his beautiful and soft bed, he does not go to sleep quicker than a labourer who falls asleep as soon as he stretches himself on uneven earth covered with stones and pebbles. The same is true of all other conditions seemingly unequal.

A.—Only the ignorant can believe that all are equally happy or miserable. If a rich merchant and a palanquin bearer were asked to change their places with one another, the merchant would never like to become a palanquin bearer, while the latter would simply jump at the offer. Had they been equally happy or miserable, the merchant would never have refused to change his place with the palanquin bearer, nor, would the latter have liked to become a rich merchant.

Behold the difference between the happiness and misery of different people! One soul comes into the womb of the queen of a great righteous and learned king, whilst another in that of the wife of a poor miserable grass-cutter. One is happy and well-cared for in every way since the day of its conception, whilst the other suffers in a hundred different ways. When one is born, he is bathed with pure fragrant water, and his cord is carefully cut. He is properly fed and cared for. When he is hungry, he is given milk mixed with sugar and other necessary ingredients in proper proportions. There are servants to wait upon him, toys for him to play with, conveyances to take him out to pretty and healthy places. He is well-loved, and is happy. The other is born in a jungle, where not even water is to be had to wash him. When he is hungry and wants milk, he is slapped on the face instead, where most pitifully, but no one attends to him and so an.

The infliction of suffering or the awarding of happiness to souls, without their having previously done acts-sinfulor virtuous -to deserve it, would disgrace God. Besides, if we suffer or enjoy here in this world without having previously done anythingsinful or virtuous -, our going to Hell or Heaven after death ought not to be dependent on our deeds done in this life, because just as God has given us pleasure or pain here without our having previously done sinful or virtuous deeds, so would He send some of us to Hell, others to Heaven just according to His pleasure. Why should men then practise virtue. (If this logic be accepted) all would become wicked and lead sinful lives; because it is doubtful if virtue will bear any fruit. It all rests with God. He would do just as it would please Him. No one will thus fear sin which will consequently multiply, whilst virtue will decay. follows therefore that the present birth of the soul is in accordance with its deeds—sinful or virtuous—in the past, whilst the future will be determined by its present and past modes of life-righteous or unrighteous.

- O.—Are souls in the bodies of men and animals of the same nature or different?
- A.—They are all of the same nature, but are pure or impure according as they are virtuous or sinful.
- O.—Do the souls of men go into the bodies of animals and vice versa; and do the souls of men go into the souls of women and vice versa?
- A.—Yes, they do. When sin predominates over virtue in a man, his soul goes into the bodies of lower animals and the like, when virtue predominates over sin in a soul, it is born as a good and learned person. When sin and virtue are equal, the soul is born as an ordinary man. Sin and virtue being of three different grades—superior, medium and inferior—men can be divided into three classes according as they are possessed of superior, medium and inferior kind of material (i.e., bodies, bodily powers, mental capacities and talents, etc.) When sin preponderates over virtue, the soul suffers the consequences of its sin in the bodies of lower animals and the like, till its sins and virtues are equalised when it is invested with a human body. Similarly, when it has enjoyed the excess of virtue over sin, it is born as an ordinary man.

The separation of the soul from the body is called death, whilst its union with the body is called livih. When the soul leaves the body, it lives in the atmosphere (yama), because it is said in the Vedu "Yama is another name for air." Thereafter the Great Judge-God-embodies the soul according to the nature of its deeds done in the previous life. Guided by God it enters the body of some living creature with air, water, food, drink or through any one of the openings of the body. Having entered it. it gradually reaches the reproductive element, and thereby est iblishes itself in the womb, and is thus invested with a body and eventually born. It is clothed with a male or a female body. just as it merits a male or a female one; whilst a hermaphrodite is formed by the union of the male and the female reproductive elements in equal proportions at the time of conception. The soul is continually chained down to this wheel of births and deaths till by the practice of the highest virtue and complete absorption into Divine contemptation and the acquisition of the highest knowledge it obtains Emancipation. By the practice of deeds of the highest virtue etc., it is born as a good and great personage among men; and being freed from births and deaths and the consequent pain and suffering it enjoys perfect bliss in Emancipation till the end of the Grand-Dissolution.

^{1.} It is not the fictitions yama—the death angel of the Garur Purana (—one of the mythological books.—Tr). We shall treat of this subject more fully in the eleventh chapter.)

- O.—Can Emancipation be obtained in one life or in more than one?
- A.—In more than one; because it is said in the Upanishad"Verily it is only when all the knots of its heart—

 Mundak
 II, 8. darkness, and ignorance—are severed, all its doubts dispelled, and when it sins no longer that the soul finds rest in that Supereme Spirit Who pervades it both within and without."
- O.—Is the soul in Emuncipation absorbed into God or does it retain its individuality?
- A.—It retains its separate individuality, for should it get absorbed into the Divine Spirit, who would then enjoy the bliss of Emancipation. Besides, all the hardships borne, all the efforts made, and all the means employed to obtain Emancipation would

भिद्यते द्यम्रान्यिक्छिद्यन्ते सर्गसंशयाः । ज्ञीयन्ते चास्य कर्माणि तस्मिन् दृष्टेपराऽवरे ॥ मुण्डक २ । सं० २ । मं० ८ ॥

सत्यं ज्ञानमनन्तं ब्रह्म यो वेद निहितं गुहायां परमे व्योमन्। सो ऽज्ञते सर्वान् कामान् सह ब्रह्मणा विपिश्चतेति ॥ तैतिरी० ॥ आनन्दवछी । अनु० १ ॥ become useless. Absorption of the soul into the Divine Spirit is not Emancipation but its death or annhilation. It is only the soul, that obeys the Will of God, follows the highest virtue, associates with the good and the great, practises you and employs all the aforesaid means, that obtains emancipation. Says the Upnaishad:—

- "The soul that knows the Supreme Spirit Who is All-truth, All-knowledge and All-Bliss and resides in the very interior of the soul and in the principle of discernment, finds rest in the Omnipresent Great God and thereby, being in harmony with the Infinite Omniscient Supereme Being, all its (righteous) desires are gratified. In other words, whatever happiness it wishes for it obtains."
- O.—When the soul can not enjoy worldly happiness without a body, how could it then enjoy the bliss of Emancipation without a physical body?
- A,-We have answered this objection before, but will add that the soul enjoys the bliss of emancipation through God in the same way as it enjoys the worldly pleasures through the body. The emancipated soul roams about in the Infinite All-pervading God as it desires, sees all nature through pure knowledge, meets other emancipated souls, sees all the laws of nature in operation. goes about in all the worlds visible and invisible, sees all objects that come with in its knowledge, the more its knowledge increases the happier it feels. Being altogether pure, the soul acquires perfect knowledge of all hidden things in the state of Emancipation. This extreme bliss alone is called Heaven (swarga,) while the pursuit of worldly desires and consequent pain and suffering are called Hell (naraka). Swarga literally means happiness. ordinary happiness is called wordly happiness. Whilst the extreme happiness born of the realization of God is called Extraordinary happiness or Heaven (Swarga.) All men paturally desire to obtain happiness and escape from pain and miscry. But as long as they do not practise righteousness and renounce sin, so long they can not obtain happiness and be freed from pain and suffering; because the effect can not perish as long as the cause exists. It is said "All pain and suffering ceases as soon as sin is destroyed just as a tree perishes when its root is cut away."

किने युके नृत्रों सङ्यति तथा पापे क्षीणे दुःसं मानसं मनसेवायग्रुपश्चक्ते शुभाऽश्चमम् । वाचा नालाकृतं कर्म कामेनेव च कायिकम् ॥ Mark, how Manu describes the manifold course of sin and virtue: —

"Let a man thus know this three-fold nature (of mind)—

Manu the highest, the mean, and the lowest degree—

XII 8, 9, 25 cultivate the disposition of the highest degree and

-33, 35-38 reject the other two. Let him also bear in mind that the soul has a reward—happiness—or a punishment—pain and suffering—for his acts—mental through mind, verbal through its organs of speech, and corporcal through its physical body.

"For corpore it sinful acts (such as theft adultery and killing or injuring the good) a man shall assume a vegetable form; for verbal sinful acts, the form of a bird or an animal; and for sinful acts mostly mental, the lowest of human conditions."

"The quality that predominates in a physical body renders the embodied soul eminently distinguished for that quality."

"The possession of true ideas by the soul is declared to be an indication of Sattva. Ignorance betokens Tamas. Passions of love and hatred signify Rajas. These three attributes, i.w., Sattva, Rajas and Tamas of the prakriti are to be found in all things."

"When a man feels that there is tranquility, peacefulness, and contentment in his mind, and also his soul is pure as the purest light, let him know then that the sattva predominates; whilst the Rajas and Tamus occupy a subordinate position."

"When the soul is unhappy, has no peace of mind, is restlessly engaged in the pursuit of sensual objects, let him then शरीरजैः ऋिले द्विति स्थावरतां नरः । वाचिकैः पित्तम्गतां मानसैरन्त्यजातिताम् ॥ यो यदैषां गुणो देहे साकल्येनातिरिच्यते । स तदा तद्गुणमायं तं करोति शरीरिणम् ॥ सन्त्वं झानं तमोऽझानं रागद्वेषौ रजःस्मृतम् । एतद् व्याप्तिमदेतेषां सर्वभृताश्रितं वपुः ॥ तत्र यत्प्रीति संयुक्तं किश्चिदात्मनि लक्षयेत् । प्रतान्तिमव शुद्धामं सन्त्वं तदुपधारयेत् ॥ यत्तु दुःखसमायुक्तमप्रीतिकरमात्मनः । तद्रजोऽप्रतिपं विद्यात्सततं हारिदोहनाम् ॥ know that it is the Rajas that predominates, whilst the Sattva and Tamas are suppressed."

"When the soul and the manas the principle of thought—are engaged in the headlong pursuit of worldly things, lose all sense of right and wrong, are thoroughly infatuated with sensual gratification and absolutely incapable of discussing a subject, and are extremely dull of understanding, let him understand that it is the Tamas that predominates in him."

"Now we shall describe at large, the various results in the highest, mean and lowest degrees that proceed from those three qualities."

"The study of the Ved.1—the source of all true know-ledge—, strict devotion to duty, the advancement of knowledge, the desire for purity—corporeal and spiritual—, self-control, the practice of righteousness and Divine contemplation verily betoken Sattva."

"Spasmodic zeal, impatience, practice of unrighteous act and habitual indulgence in sensual gratification are the signs of the preponderance of Rajas and of the comparative suppression of the Tamas and Sattva,

"Extreme covetousness—the root of all evils—extreme indolence, stupidity and sleepiness, discontentedness, cruelty, atheism, i.e., want of faith in God and the Veda, distraction of mind, want of mental concentration, and contraction of evil habits should be looked upon by a wise men as indications of Tamas. It is the Tamas then that predominates whilst the Rajas and Sativa are not markedly manifest."

यत्तु स्यानमोहसं क्रमन्यक्तं विषयात्मकम् ।
अत्रत्वकर्यमिविश्वेयं तमस्तदुपधारयेत् ॥
त्रयाणामिप चैतेषां गुणानां यः फलोदयः ।
अग्यो मध्योद्धः न्यश्च तं प्रवक्ष्याम्यश्चेषतः ॥
वेदाम्यासस्तपो ज्ञानं शाचिमिन्द्रयनिष्रद्दः ।
धर्माक्रियात्मचिन्ता च साचिकं गुणलक्षणः ॥
आरम्भक्षचिताऽधेर्यमसत्कार्यपरिष्रदः ।
विषयोपसेवा चाजम् राजसं गुणलक्षणम् ॥
कोभः स्वमो धृतिःकार्यं नास्तिक्यं भिक्षशृतिता ।
याचिष्णता प्रमादश्च तामसं गुणलक्षणम् ॥

- "Besides, whenever a man's soul feels shame, doubt and fear in having done, in doing or in going to do an act, let him know that the Tumus greatly preponderates in him"
- "When a man seeks great fame in this world, and does not cease giving money to flatterers, flunkeys and parasites, poor though he be, let him understand that the Rajas preponderates in him."
- "When a man's soul thirsts after knowledge, no matter where it comes from, cultivates good qualities, feels no shame in doing good actions at which it greatly rejoices, in other words, it is always desirous of practising righteousness, let him know then that the Sattva predominates."
- "The craving for sensual gratification is an index of Tamas, the desire for the acquisition of worldly possession, of Rajus and the practice of righteousness, of Sattva. The last mentioned is superior to Rajas, and that in its turn is superior to Tamas. Now we shall describe the conditions that each of these qualities—Sattva, Rajas and Tamas—leads to:—
 - "Those endowed with Sattva attain to the state of the learned, godly men. Those, who are possessed of Manu XII Rajus, become men, while those immersed in 40, 42, 50, Tamas fall into the condition of lower orders."
 - "Vegetables (as trees) worms and insects, fish, snakes, tortoise, cattle, and deer, and the like are the forms which the lowest degree of Tamas leads to."
 - "Elephant, horses, extremely stupid and dull persons, men of dirty habits and uncouth speech and manners, ferocious animals

यत्कर्म कृत्वा कुर्वश्च करिष्यंश्वेव लज्जित ।
तज्ज्ञेयं विदुषा सर्व तामसं गुणलक्षणम् ॥
येनास्मिन्कर्मणा लोके ख्यातिमिच्छति : ज्कलाम् ।
न च क्रीह्त्व्यस्य प्रदेशे तिक्षेत्रेयं तु राजसम् ॥
यत्सर्वेशे च्छाति ज्ञातुं यज्ञ लज्जित चाचरन् ।
येन तुष्यति चात्मास्य तत्सच्चगुणलक्षणम् ॥
तमसो लक्षणं कामो रजसस्त्वर्थ उच्यते ।
सन्तस्य लक्षणंश्वर्मः १ ज्यमेषां यथोत्तरम् ॥ मनु० अ० १२ ॥ शहो०
८ | ९ | २५—१३ | ३५—१८ ॥

such as lions, wolves and boars are the forms that proceed from the mean degree of Tamas."

- "Flatterers, beautiful birls, bragg rts, cruel blood-thirsty men, and those who drink wine and other intoxicants habitually and are dirty in their habits, are the conditions which proceed from the highest degree of Tamas."
- "Fencers (cudgel players, etc.), gardners, sailors, acrobats, armed servants and those who are addicted to drinking and gambling result from the Rajas of the lowest degree."
- "Rulers, men of the governing Class (statesmen, soldiers, etc.), king's chaplains, controversialists, ambassadors, lawyers, judges, he ds of the army and the like are occasioned by the Rajas of the medium degree."
- "Singers, musicians, men of great wealth and resource, companions or associates of the great and good men of vast learning or those who wait upon them, and women of greaty beauty and physical charms are caused by the Rajas of the highest quality."
- "Those who are strictly devoted to their duties, truth and righteousness, inisters of their passions, altruistic teachers of humanity—Sanydsis, teachers of the Ved i, aeronants, astronomers, physicians or hygienists, i.e., those who devote themselves to the science and art of the perfect development of the human body, proceed from the Sattva of the lowest degree."

देवत्वं सारित्वका यान्ति मनुष्यत्वश्च राजसाः ।
तिर्यक्तवं तामसा नित्यमित्येषा त्रिविधा गतिः ॥
स्थावराः कृमिकीटाश्च मत्स्याः सर्पाश्च कच्छपाः ।
पश्चश्च मृगाश्चेव जघन्या तामसी गतिः ॥
हित्तनश्च तुरङ्गाश्च शूद्रा म्लेच्छाश्च गहिंताः ।
सिंहा व्याघा वराहाइच मध्यमा तामसी गतिः ॥
चारणाइच सुपर्णाः पुरुषाः चव दाम्भिकाः ।
रक्षांसि च पिशाचाइच तामनीष्त्रत्तमा गतिः ॥
स्रष्ठा मछा नटाश्चेव पुरुषाः शास्त्रश्चत्यः ।
धृतपानशसक्ताइच जघन्या राजसी गतिः ॥

Those who make poetical compositions, etc., in praise of others in order flamer them.

"Philanthrophists, seers of the Veda, godly learned men, great scholars of the Veda, professors of the science of electricity, astronomy, goology, etc., (literally, the science of time), those who possess true knowledge and power which they use for the good of others, and great Teachers result from the Saltva of the medium degree."

"Masters of all the four Vedas, masters of all the sciences and arts, who invent (or construct) air ships and such other machines, those who are embodiments of righteousness and wisdom, those who acquire control over the elementary matter! result from the Suttva of the highest degree."

"The ignorant, the basest among men who include their sensual appetites, renounce the practice of righteousness and the performance of their duties and lead sinful lives assume the basest forms and thereby suffer various afflictions."

Thus whatsoever act a man sows by virtue of the Sattva, Rajas and Tamas, the same shall he reap. Those who are emancipated are beyond the pale of those three qualities. I et everyman, therefore, endeavour to become a great yoyi by the practice of yoga, and employ himself in the pursuit of those means that lead to Emancipation. Let a man restrain his mind from the doing of acts that proceed from Rajas and Tamas and thereafter even from those that result from Sattva, and become imbued with purity and such other good qulities. Let him then withdraw his mind from the senses, aim it at righteousness, and concentrate it on God. "This withdrawal of the mind from all things and concentrating it on one point is called yoya."

"After the mind is withdrawn and concentrated, the soul is centered in God—the Seer of all—and finally rests in Him."

राजानः चित्रयाश्चैव राज्ञां चैव पुरोहिताः । वाद्युद्धप्रधानाश्च मध्यमा राजसी गतिः ॥ गन्धर्वा गुद्धका यच्चा विवुधानुचराश्च ये । तथैवाप्सरसः सर्वा राजसी च्चमागतिः ॥ तापसा यतयो विष्ठा ये च वैमानिका गणाः । नच्चत्राणि च दैत्याश्च प्रथम हात्विका गतिः ॥ यज्वान ऋषयो देवा नेदाज्योतिषि वत्सराः । पितरश्चैव साध्याश्च द्वितीया सात्विकी नतिः ॥

Literally atoms and the first stage after their combination.—Te.

Let a man practise all the above described means of Emancipation and understand that "Exemption from Sánkhya pain which is of three kinds—that from physical disorders, hunger and thirst, etc., that from other living beings, and that from natural causes such as excessive heat or cold, or excessive or deficient rain, or from the restlessness of mind and the senses—and the consequent attainment of Emancipation is the highest work."

In the next Chapter we shall discourse on CONDUCT—DESIRABLE and UNJESIRABLE, and on DIET—PERMISSIBLE and FORBIDDEN

THE END OF CHAPTER IX.

त्रक्षा विश्वसृजो धर्मी महानव्यक्तमेव च। उत्तमां सात्विकीमेतां गतिमाहुर्मनीषिणः॥ इन्द्रियाणां प्रसंगेन धर्मस्यासेवने च। पापान्संयान्ति संसारानविद्वांसो नराधमाः॥

मनु ० अ ० १२ ॥ श्लो ० ४० ।४२ – ५० । ५२ ॥

ते प्राचित्रच पद्मात्तिनिरोधः ॥ पा० १ । २ ॥

तदा द्रष्टुः स्वरूपेऽवस्थानम् ॥ पा० १ । ३ ॥

अथित्रिपिदुःस्वात्यन्तिनृत्तिरत्यन्तपुरुषार्थः ॥

सांख्ये अ • १। स • १॥

CHAPTER X.

ON

CONDUCT-DESIRABLE and UNDESIRABLE,

DIET-PERMISSIBLE AND FORBIDDEN.

of righteous actions, refinement of (character) speech and manners, association with men of learning and piety, and love of all true knowledge, etc.,—and undesirable conduct—the reverse of all these things:—

"People should always bear in mind that whatsoever is done by learned men—good and true—, who are free Manu II, I. from inordinate affection and hatred, or whatsoever is known to be true by the testimony of the inner monitor is the true conduct of life. That alone should be followed."

"In this world, neither inordinate desire nor its total absence is conducive to a man's happiness, because it would be impossible either to lead a virtuous life as enjoined by the Veda or to acquire true (Vedic) knowledge without desiring the same."

"It is impossible for any man to be altogether, free from desire because all our actions—philanthrophic works, II, 3. truthfulness in speech, the practice of Yamas¹ and Niyamas,² and other duties—proceed from desire for the same."

विद्वद्भिः सेवितः सि. निंत्यमद्वेषसागिभः ।

हदेयनाभ्यनुज्ञातो यो धर्मस्तिभवोधत ॥ मनु ०२।२॥

कामात्मता न प्रशस्ता न चेवहास्त्यकामता ।

काम्यो हि वेदाधिगमः कर्मयोगञ्च वैदिकः ॥मनु ०२। ३॥

- 1. Yamas are five: (1) kindness to all (2) truthfulness in word, deed, and thought (3 honesty in dealings (4) chastity (5) freedom from conceil: -Tr.
- 2. Niyamas are also five:—(1) Purity of mind and body (2) mental tran quility (3) strict devotion to duty (4) study of the Vedas and other true Shustras and contemplation of the Diety (5) Résignation to the Will of God—Tr.

"Even the most insignificant action (e. g., nictitation) in this world is impossible without a desire on the part of the doer. Therefore, whatever a man does (e. g., the movements of his hands, feet, eyes, and mental activity) is the outcome of his will."

"Let a man regulate his conduct according to what is sanctioned by the Vedas, taught by Smritis and other books of the Rishis—seers of the Veda—, practised by all men—good and true, and approved by his own soul." In other words, let him perform such actions in the doing of which no such feelings, as fear, distrust and shame, arise in the soul. Behold, when a man desires to tell a lie or steal anything, his soul is filled with feelings of fear, shame and doubt, it is, therefore, a proof of the fact that it is wrong to do such an act.

"Let a man, therefore, carefully view all these—the Veda, Manu the teachings of the Vedic seers, practices of good II, 8. men and true, and the approval of his own soul—with the eye of wisdom, and do his duty in obedience to what is sanctioned by the Veda and approved by his own soul."

"Verily that man, who follows rules of the righteous conduct as taught by the Veda and by the Smritis in conformity with the Veda, shall acquire fame in this life and highest bliss in the next."

"The Veda is called the shruti and the system of conduct of life as taught by the Vedic seers and teachers is embodied in the Smriti. It is by the help of these that the true conduct of life as well as the false is ascertained. He who holds them—the Vedus and the works of true teachers in conformity with the Vedu—to contempt should

संकल्पमूलः कामो वै यज्ञाः संकल्पसम्भवाः ।

व्रतानि यम धर्माञ्च सर्वे संकल्पजाः स्मृताः ॥ मनु० २ । ३ ॥

जकामस्य क्रिया काचिद् दृश्यते नेह कर्िंचित् ।

यद्यद्भि कुरुते किंचित् तत्तत्कामस्य चेष्टितम् ॥ मनु० २ । ४ ॥

वेदोऽखिलो धर्ममूलं स्मृतिशीले च तद्भिदाम् ।

आचारश्चेव साधूनामात्मनस्तुष्टिरेव च ॥ मनु० २ । ६ ॥

सर्वन्तु समवेश्येदं निखलं क्रानचक्षुषा ।

अतिप्रामाण्यतो विद्वान् स्वधर्मे निविशेत वै ॥ मनु० २ । ८ ॥

be excluded from all good society, as an athiest and a slanderer of the Veda.

"Therefore, the Veda, the Smrili, the practice of good II, 12. men and true and the approval of one's soul—these are undoubtedly the four criteria of the True conduct of life. In other words, it is by these alone that the true religion is ascertained."

Manu

Manu pursuit of both wealth and carnal desires that can II, 13. ever attain a knowledge of true religion. It is the duty of every one, who aspires to gain this object, to determine what true religion is by the help of the Veda, for, a clear and perfect ascertainment of true religion is not attained without the help of the Veda."

"Therefore it behoves all men to practise all those righteous deeds that are enjoined by the Veda. II, 26. Dwijas—Bráhmans, Kshatriyás and Vaishyas—should perform all Sanskárs i for their own good as well as that of their children. They lead to purity (mental and corporeal) in this fe as well as in the next.

श्रुतिस्मृत्युदितं धर्ममनुतिष्ठन् हि मानवः ।

इह की चिमवाप्नोति प्रेत्यचानुत्तमं सुखम् ॥ मनु॰ २ । ९ ॥

योऽषमन्येत ते मूले हेतुशास्त्राश्रयाद् द्विजः ।

स साधुभिविहिष्कार्यो नास्तिको वेदनिन्दकः । मनु॰ २ । ११। ।
वेदः स्मृतिः सदाचारः स्वस्य च प्रियमात्मनः ।

एतच्चतुर्विधं प्राहुः साज्ञाद्धमस्य लज्ञणम् ॥ मनु॰ २ । १२ ॥

शर्भकोमष्वसक्तानां धर्मज्ञानं विधीयते ।

धर्म जिज्ञासमानानां प्रमाणं परमं श्रुतिः ॥ मनु॰ २ । १३ ॥

वैदिकः कर्मिभः ज्यैनिवेकादिद्विजन्मनाः ।

कार्यः शर्रिं संस्कारः पावनः प्रेत्य चेह च ॥ मनु॰ २ । २६ ॥

केशान्तः षोडशे वर्षे एक्षणस्य विधीयते ।

राजन्यबन्धोद्वीविशे वैद्यस्य द्वयिके ततः ॥ मनु॰ २ । ६५ ॥

1. A sanskar is any thing done to improve, refine and purify the body and the soul. There are altogether sixteen sanskars; the first one is the sexual intercourse with the object of producing good children, as has been described in the beginning of the second Chapter of this book.—Tr.

Let the Tonsure Sanskár be performed in the sixteenth year of a Brahman, in the twenty-second of a Kshalriya, in the twenty-fourth of a Vaishya." (In II, 65. other words, it should not be delayed beyond those There ifter they should keep a tuft of hair on the top of the head and always cut or shave the hair of the head, mustache and beard. That is to say, they should never grow then afterwards. In a very cold climate they can please themselves as to cutting the hair or allowing it to grow. On the other hand, in a very hot climate they should have all the hair, not even barring the tuft of hair on the top of the head, cut or shaved; because too much hair on the head is productive of heat which causes dulness of intellect. The mustache and beard cause inconvenience in eating and drinking; because the particles of food adhere to them.

"As a skillful driver keeps his horses well under control and directs them in the right path, so should a man II, 88. strive to keep his senses—that are apt to lead one's mind to the pursuit of wicked objects and temptations—under thorough control, restrain them from the path of sin and temptation, and always guide them in the path of righteousness. This alone is the true conduct of life."

"Verily that men alone can achieve his heart's" desire

Manu who is master of his senses and directs them in the path of righteousness. But he who allows them to get engrossed in sensual gratification and sin, and thus becomes their slave, soon contracts evil habits, loses his character and suffers the evil consequences thereof."

Sensual desires are never fully gratified if they are indulged.

Manu
They are only inflammed still more hercely like fire
Which blazes more vehemently when fuel (and butter.)

इन्द्रियाणां विचरतां विषयेष्वपहारिषु ।
संयमे यत्नमातिष्ठेदिद्वान् यन्तेव वाजिनाम् ॥ मनु० २ । ८८ ॥
इन्द्रियाणां प्रसंगेन दोषमुच्छत्वसंशयम् ।
जिनयम्य तु तान्येव ततः सिद्धिं नियच्छति ॥ मनु० २ । ९३ ॥
न जातु कामः कामानामुप्रभोगेन शाम्यति ।
हिनया कृष्णवर्त्मेव भूय एवाभिवर्द्धते ॥ मनु० २ । ९४ ॥
वेदास्त्यागञ्च यशाञ्च नियमाञ्च तपांसि च ।
न विष्रदृष्टभावस्य सिद्धिं गच्छन्ति किहिंचित् ॥ मनु० २ । ९७ ॥ are added to it. Let a man, therefore, never indulge in sensual gratification."

Mann in acquiring knowledge of the Veda, in keeping up li, 97 his vows of chastity, truthfulness and the like, nor in fulfilling his duties towards man and God, practising right-eousness and doing good works. They are only attainable to the good and pious man who is the master of his senses."

"Let a man, therefore, have thorough control over his five organs of sense and five organs of action and the eleventh organ of thought,—the mind,—protect his body by proper dieting and by observing the laws of health, and, thereby achieve the ojbect of his life."

"He is verily the master of his senses who rejoices not when applauded, nor grieves when censured, is neither pleased by the sensation of nice soft things (such as soft comfortable bed and clothes), nor displeased by that of hard and course things, neither delighted with the sight of beautiful things nor vexed with that of ugly hideous things, neither pleased with a good dinner nor angered with a bad one, neither gladdened with the smell of perfumes, nor disgusted with that of disagreeable odours."

"Let a wise man never speak unless spoken to, nor answer a question when unjustly and hypocritically asked.

Among hypocrites let him remain as if he were dumb; but to the honest truth seeker let him preach even though unasked."

"Wealth, nobility of blood, age, professional skill or honest, industry (or character) and true knowledge, these are the five things to be respected but the one following more than the one preceeding it. In other words, a

वशे कृत्वेन्द्रियग्रामं सयम्यं च मनस्तथा ।
सर्वान् संसाधयेदर्थानाक्तिण्वन् योगतस्तनुम् ॥ मनु ० २ । १०० ॥
श्रुत्वा स्पृष्ट्वा च दृष्ट्वा च श्रुक्त्वा घ्रात्वा च यो नरः ।
न हृष्यित ग्लायित वा स विश्वेयो जितेन्द्रियः ॥ मनु ० । ९८ ॥
नापृष्टः कस्यचिद् श्रयाम चान्यानेन पृच्छतः ।
जानमपि हिडमेथावी जडवछोक आचरेत् ॥ मनु ० २ । ११० ॥
वित्तं बन्धुर्वयः कर्म विद्या भवति पश्चमी ।
एतानि मान्यस्थानानि गरीयो यददुत्तरम् ॥ मनु ० २ ॥ १४० ॥ man of noble lineage or one's relation ought to command more respect than a man, who is only wealthy, an aged man should be respected more than the first two, a man possessing some professional skill or good character more than the first three; again true knowledge and wisdom (the wealth of mind) should command more respect than professional skill or character."

- Manu 11, 153.

 Manu 12, 153.

 Manu 13, 153.

 Manu 14, 153.

 Manu 15, 153.

 Manu 1
- Manu
 II, 154.

 Manu
 triangle in the among us is old (great) by years, nor by gray hair, nor by wealth, nor by powerful kindreds and friends. The wise and holy sages have declared,—
 'He among us is old (great) who is most learned in the among us is old in the among us is old
 - Manu II, 155.

 Manu and a Shúdra by years."

 Manu power, a Vaishya by material wealth in his possession, and a Shúdra by years."
 - "A man is not, therefore, old (venerable), because his head is gray, but he, who has acquired wisdom though tender in years, is considered old (venerable) by the wise."
 - "As an elephant made of wood or as a deer made of Manu leather, so is a man destitute of knowledge. He is a II. 157. man only in name."

अहो भवति वै बालः पिता भवति मन्त्रदः ।
अहं हि बालंभित्याहुः पितंत्येव तु मन्त्रदम् ॥ मनु० ॥ २ । १५६ ॥
न हायनैर्न पिलंतैर्न वित्तेन न बन्धुभिः ।
ऋषयश्रीकरे धर्म योऽन्चानः स नो महान् ॥ मनु ० २ । १५४ ॥
विद्राणां ज्ञानतो ज्येष्ठयं चात्रियाणान्तु वीर्यतः ।
वैद्रयानां धान्यधनतः श्रूद्राणामेवं जन्मतः ॥ मनु ० ॥२ । १५५ ॥
न तेन षृद्धो मवति येनास्य पिलतं श्रिरः ।

अवी वै श्रुषाप्यकायान चं देवाः स्थीवर विद्राः ॥ मनु ० २ । १५६ ॥

"Let a man, therefore, gain knowledge and acquire wisdom, lead a virtuous life, and bear malice to none and show all men the path that leads to true happiness. Let his speech be sweet and kindly." Blessed are they who always preach the truth and thereby promote righteousness and destroy sin and wickedness.

Let a man always bathe regularly, keep his clothes clean, his food and drink clean and pure, and his house clean and tidy. The cleanliness and purity of these things lead to health and purity of mind, which in their turn increase strength and capacity for work.

Cleanliness should be sufficient to remove all traces of dirt and disagreeable odours.

"The practice of such virtues as veracity, and the doing of good works verily constitute the true conduct of life enjoined by the Veda and taught by the Smritis."

Yajur Veda XVI, 15.

"The service of father, mother, tutor and Atharva Veda Xl, 15, 17.

atithis, i. e., the altruistic teachers of humanity, is Taitreya Upanishad VII, 11.

called Devaj úja or the worship of godly persons."

Devotion to whatever promotes the good of the world as well as abstinence from all harmful acts are the chief duties of man. Let a man never associate with those who are atheists, and

यथां काष्ठमयो हस्ती यथा चर्ममयो मृगः।
यक्च विप्रोऽनधीयानस्त्रयस्ते नाम विश्वति ॥ मनु ०२। १५७॥
अहिंसयैव भूतानां कार्य श्रेयोऽनुशासनम्।
वाक् चैव मधुरा क्लक्ष्णा प्रयोज्या धर्मिमच्छता ॥ मनु ०२। १५९॥
आचारः प्रथमो धर्मः श्रृत्युक्तः स्मार्त्त एवच ॥ मनु ०अ०१। १०८॥
मा नो वधीः पितरं मातरम् ॥ यजुः ०अ०१६। मं १५।
आचार्यो ब्रह्मचर्येण ब्रह्मचारिणमिच्छते ॥ अथर्व ०कां०११। व०

मातृदेवो भव । पितृदेवो भव । आचार्य्यदेवो भव । अतिथि देवो भव ॥ तैतिरीयारण्यक ॥ प्र० ७ । अनु ० ११ ॥ liars, nor with those who are indolent, guilty of breach of faith, hypocritical, selfish and deceitful. Let him always move in the society of men who are learned, truthful, pious and have public good at heart. This in truth constitutes good conduct.

- O.—Is not the character of the people of Aryávarta (India) lost by going abroad?
- A.—No. It is not; because a man can retain a good character and is not polluted, no matter where he goes, as long as he is pure in mind and body and practises such virtues as truthfulness. Whoever is addicted to a sinful life and immoral practices, even though he lives in India, loses his character and is polluted. Had it not been so, why should the ancients have travelled abroad. Mark what is written in the Mahabharat. "Once Muliibharat upon a time the sage Vyása lived in Pálála (America) Shanti parva with his son and pupil Shuka. The son asked his Moksh tharma father if spiritual science was only what he had taught him or something more Vyása intentionally did not answer that question. He had lectured on that subject before. So in order to have his teaching confirmed by the testimony of another man, he addressed shu't thus, 'O my son, you go to Mithlapuri (Mathra) and ask this very question of King Junak. He would give you the right answer. Having heard what his father said, Shuk left America for Mathra. He first visited the continent that lay to the Nor h and North-west of the Himalayas and was called Harivarshal (now called Europe), then the countries of the Iews called Hoon (Asia Minor, etc.,) thence he came to China, from China he proceeded towards the Himalayas and thence to Mathra." It is recorded in the same book that Krishna and Arjunu went to America in an Ashwalári boat (i.e., one propelled by electricity)

मरोहरिश्च द्वे वर्षं हमवतं ततः ।

ऋमेणेव व्यतिऋम्य भारतं वर्षमासदत् ॥

स देशान् विविधान् पत्र्यंश्चीनहूणिनेषेवितान् ॥ महाभारत० ॥ शान्ति०

मोक्षध ० । अ ० ३२७ ॥

and brought the sage Uddálaka back with them on the occasion of the Rájasúya Yajna of Emperor Yudhishlira. Again Prince Dharilráshlra was married to a princess of Gandhár

I Hari a monkey, Varsha an abode, Hari-Varsha therefore literally means abode of monkeys, so-called because its inhabitants have red lips and brown eyes like those of a monkeys.

(Kandhar). Mádri, the wife of King Pándu was the daughter of the King of Iran (Persia). Prince Arjuna was married to Princess Ulopi of Pálálu (America). Now how could they have done all those things had they not gone abroad?

Again there is mention of a tax in the M_{c} in the M_{c} which was levied on all vessels leaving I_{c} in ports.

When Emperor Yudhisthira performed his Rájasúya Yajna, he sent his brothers, Prince Bhim, Prince Arjuna, Prince Natula and Prince Sahudeva with invitations to all the kings of the four quarters of the globe to join the Yajna. Had they considered it debasing to one's character to travel abroad, they would not have done all those things.

The ancient Indians used to go abroad to all parts of the world for the purposes of trade, travel, or on political business. The present day bug-bear of pollution of one's haracter and faith through travelling abroad is simply due to the false teachings of the wiseacres and the growth of dense ignorance. Those who do not hesitate to go abroad, and thereby associate with peoples of various foreign countries, study their customs and manners, increase their trade, and augment their political power, become fearless an I bold, and attain great power and prosperity by studiously imbibing the good qualities, and adopting the good customs and manners of the foreigners, and rejecting their faults and evil habits, and bad manners. O ye foolish people! Your character and faith are not polluted by having sexual intercourse with a low, despicable prostitute, but you consider it harmful and debasing to associate with good men of other countries! What is it, if not foolishness? It is true though that those, who live on flesh diet and take intoxicating drinks, have their bodies, bodily organs and secretions (as the reproductive elèment) saturated with the fine particles of those malodorous substances. The Aryas (natives of India) should, therefore, he car ful that they do not get infected with these evil habits. But there can be no harm or sin in learning trade, arts and other good qualities from the foreigners. When these foolish people consider it a sir even to see or touch them, they can never fight against them, as they must see and touch them in fighting. Let all good men remember that good conduct consists only in the avoidance of untruthfulness. injustice, inordinate affection or harted and other evil habits. and in the practice of love and kindness towards all, in the cultivation of gentle disposition and in the promotion of public good, etc. Let them also understand that religion has reference to one's soul and good life. When we live righteous lives, foreign travel can do us no harm. The evil consequences flow only from the commission of sins. It is right though that we should thoroughly understand what the true Vedic religion is, and also learn to refute false religions, so that no one may be able to mislead us. Can a country ever make any progress unless its people trade with or extend their rule over other countries? What can you expect but misery and poverty, when the people of a country trade only among themselves, whilst the foreigners control their trade and rule over them? These hypocrites—the so-called priests and other religious teachers perfectly understand that if they educated the people, and let them travel abroad, they would get enlightened, and consequently would no longer be ensnared in the net of fraud and hypocracy spread by them. They would thus lose their livelihood and respect. This is the reason that they make such a fuss in the matter of eating and drinking. Their object is to prevent people from going abroad It is quite true though that not even by mistake should they ever use meat or drink.

^{1.} Literally to different, countries, peninsulas and islands.—Ir.

Have all sensible men not ascertained that in time of war the cooking of food and its eating, or drinking (milk or water etc), under such absurd restrictions as those of Chouká by soldiers have invariably been the cause of their defeat. The duty of a soldier-whether on foot, mounted on a horse or on an elephant, or seated in a car—consists (if necessary) in eating and drinking with one hand whilst fighting the enemy with the other, and in winning the battle; while it is wrong on his part to let himself be defeated otherwise. By observing such absurd restrictions as of Chouká in the matter of eating and drinking, and other foolish practices, these stupid people have lost all indepedence, happiness, wealth, political power, learning and activity, in short, every thing. Now they are sitting idle with empty hands, praying for some one to come and releive their distress, and give them something in charity wherewith they could get some food and ease the pangs of hunger. But that help is never forthcoming. They have thus completely ruined Aryávartá (India). It is quite true though that no pains should be spared in washing, plistering, sweeping, cleaning and tidying up the kitchen. It should never be allowed to get dirty like that of the Mohamadans and Christians².

^{1.} The kitchen should be plasterd with a thin coating of mud mixed with a bit of cow dung. The food should be cooked by no one else but a high caste Bruhman and then served by the same within a marked area, etc -Tr.

² In India, the kitchens of the Mohamadans and Christcans are not generally kept clean. Among the Europeans residents in India it is chiefly due to the fact that the kitchens are entirely left in the hands of low caste Indian servants, who do not possess any great sense of cleanliness that they are kept in such a dirty condition.—Tr.

- O.—What are Sakharee and Nikharee?
- A.—The food that is cooked in water is called Sakharee, while what is cooked in milk or fried in butter is called Nikharee (i. è., nice). This is another froud invented by these rogues. The food cooked in milk and butter is always pleasing to the taste; they have originated these fraudulent practices (in the matter of food) in order to fill their stomachs with delicious, greasy articles of food. Otherwise, whatever has been ripened by heat and time is called ripe (another name for nikharee), and whatever has not been cooked or ripened is called raw (another name for sakharee). Even the permissibility of all ripe or cooked food and the prohibition of raw food is not applicable to all cases, for firstances, baked grams and other cereals, though uncooked, are still eaten and their use is not forbidden.
- O.—Should the Dwijas cook their food with their own hands or it is permissible to eat food cooked by the Shúdras?
- A.—They can eat what has been cooked by the shúdras; because it is the duty of the Dwijus—Bráhmans, Kshatriyas and Vaishyas (both men and women) to devote themselves to the dissenination of knowledge, the service of the state, the breeding of cattle, and to agriculture, trade and arts (and not to waste their time in cooking, etc.). But they should not eat or drink out of a Shúdra's utensils or what has been cooked in his own house except in case of emergency. Here is an authority for this statement:—"In the houses of the twice-lorn, Shúdras—
- i. e., ignorant men and women incapable of any higher pursuit—should do the cooking following and other domestic service." But they should keep their bodies and clothes, etc., clean. While engaged in cooking in the houses of the Aryas—the twice-born—they should have their mouths covered (with a piece of cloth) so that their breath may not contaminate the food, and their saliva may not fall into it; they should shave and have their nails pared regularly once a week. They should wash before cooking. They should take their food after the Aryas have been served.
- O.—How can it be permissible to eat food cooked by a Shúdra, when is held to be wrong to partake of food even touched by him?
- A.—It is a mere fabrication, and, therefore, absolutely wrong. Bear you well in min! that whosesoever has partaken of sugar (brown or white), butter, milk, flour. vegetables, fruits and roots has in fact eaten what has been prepared by men of all sorts and conditions, and their leavings. When the Shúdras, leatherworkers, servengers, Mohamadans, Christians and others gather sugar-canes from the fields, peel them, and press juice out of them, they handle them with their soiled hands, as they do not wash them even after micturating or delecating. They suck one half of a cane, and shove the remaining half into the Press, fill a jug out of a vessel containing cane jucice, drink as much as they care, and pour the remainder back into it. While evaporating the juice, they sometimes make cakes in the same pan and never clean it afterwards. In the manufacture of white sugar, they rub the brown sugar with their shoes, the soles of which are soiled with all kinds of dirt, offal, and dust. Milkmen adulterate milk with water kept in their dirty cans, and keep butter in the same. Similarly, in the manufacture of flour they—the labourers -handle it with their dirty hunds, and even their perspiration trickles down into it. The same kind of undesirable practices are to be seen in the circless handling of fruits, roots and tubers. Whoever has, therefore, eaten these things has in fact eaten of the hands of men of all sorts and conditions.

- O.—There is nothing wrong in partaking of foods and drinks that have been prepared and handled behind your back, such as fruits, roots and tubers etc., (by undesirable persons).
- A.—No wonder! what else would you have eaten? Dust or ashes? Sugar is sweet, milk and butter are nourishing, you could not forego the use of these articles. No wonder, therefore, that you extremely selfish people have invented such false doctrines and practices. Well, if there be no harm in eating or drinking what has not been prepared before your eyes by some undesirable person, would you eat food out of the hands of a scavenger or a Mohammadan² who cooked it with his own hands in some place out of your sight? If you say no, then there is harm even in eating things that have been prepared out of your sight. It is true that in eating and drinking out of the hands of flesh-eaters and wine-drinkers, such as the Mohammadans and the Christians, there is some danger of even the Aryas—followers of the Veda—contracting these evil habits, e.g., eating flesh and drinking intoxicants. But there can be no harm if the Aryas would eat and drink together. It is extremely difficult for people to make any progress as long as their religion and their interests are not the same. Again, they can not progress when they do not rejoice in each other's joys, nor sympathize in each others afflictions. But mere eating and drinking together can never lead to any real progress. As long as they do not avoid evil things—manners, customs etc., and embrace good things, instead of making any progress they will go from bad to worse. The causes of foreign rule in India are.,mutual feud, differences in religion, want of purity in life, lack of education, child-marriage, marriage in which the contracting parties have no voice in the selection of their life-partners, indulgence in carnal gratification, untruthfulness and other evil habits, the neglect of the study of the Veda, and other mal-practices It is only when brothers fight among themselves that an outsider poses as a judge. Have you people even forgotton the practices that were in vogue at the time of the Mahabharat war, a little over fiv thousand years ago? In that war they—the soldiers—ate an drank even while riding or driving in cars. Mutual feud ruined Kauravas, Pándavas and Yádavas in the past. The same fatal disease is still clinging to us. None knows whether this dreadful fiend will ever leave us, or rob us of all our happiness and plunge us in the depths of misery. The Aryus are still treading the wicked path of the despicable low Duryodhana, the destroyer of his race, the enemy of his country, and are suffering no end of misery. May God through His mercy rid us, Argus, of this dreadful disease.

^{1.} Leather-workers in India are of very dirty habits.—Tr.

^{2.} The Pouraniks do not partake of food touched by a Mohamadan or a Christian — Ir.

ON DIET-PERMISSIBLE AND FORBIDDEN.

Permissibility or prohibition in diet is based on two factors—one determined by the Science of morals and religion, and the other by the Science of Health.

- "The twice-born—Brahmans, Kshatriyas and Vaishyas—must not eat such vegetables, fruits and roots as are raised in night soil and other kinds of refuse."
 - "They should abstain from flesh diet and intoxicants," such as wine, Ganja, Cannabis-Indica, and opium etc.
 I, 177.
- "Let them never use those articles that are prejudicial to the growth of intellect." They should also avoid Sharangdhar the use of all those articles of food that are IV, 21. decomposed, fermented, unclean or foul smelling, etc., and those that are not properly cooked as well as those prepared and handled by such men as live on flesh-dict and intoxicating drinks whose very bodies are saturated with the fine particles of meat and alcohol. The Aryas should neither themselves kill such useful animals as cows, nor let others do the same. One cow in one generation benefits 475,600 men through her milk, butter and offspring-male and female. Thus, some cows give thirty-two pints of milk, others not more than three pints daily, say for twelve months (some give milk for eighteen months, others for six, hence we have taken the mean of the two). Calculating on this basis, we find that 24,960 persons can be fed at one meal with the milk given by one cow in her whole life-time average a cow calves about twelve times during her whole life. Supposing two of them die, of the remaining ten calves, say, there are five males and five females. The latter during their lives will together give enough milk to satisfy 124,800 persons at one meal, The remaining five male calves can produce at least 180 tons of corn, and supposing we allow 13 lb of corn per head, 180 tons will do on a rough estimate for 250 000 persons as food for one meal. Putting milk and corn together a cow in one generation can supply one good meal to 475,600 people. Similarly if we go on calculating the amount of corn and milk yielded by one cow in all her generations, it will be found that they would be sufficient to feed millions upon millions of people. Besides, bullocks are very useful to man for tilling the ground, riding, pulling carts and wagons, and carrying heavy loads, etc., but the chief use of cow is that they yield good milk. Buffaloes are also useful like cows and bullocks. But a buffaloe's milk is not so useful in promoting the growth of intellect as a cow's. Therefore, it is that the Aryas have always regarded the cow as the most useful animal. Other enlightened people will do the same. One goat yields enough milk to satisfy 25,920 people at one meal. Similarly, horses, elephants, camels, donkeys and sheep are of great service to man in various ways. Those who slaughter these animals should be looked upon as enemies of the whole human race. When the Aryas were in power, these most useful animals were never allowed to be killed. Consequently, man and other living beings lived in great peace and happiness. Because, milk and butter, and such animals as bullocks being plentiful, there was abundance of food and drink (as milk etc.) But since the meat-eating, and wine-drinking foreigners—the slayers of kine and other animals—have come into this country, वर्जयेम्मधु मांसश्च ॥ मनु ०२। '१७७॥ बुर्द्धि छम्पति यद् द्रव्यं मदकारि तदुच्यते।बाङ्गधर अ ०४। श्लो ० २१॥

^{1.} Bullocks are used in India for tilling the ground and other agricultural purposes.—27.

and become the ruling power, the troubles and Chanaktya sufferings of the Aryas have ever been on the increase; X, 13 because, it is said, "How can you get fruits and flowers of a tree when its root is cut off?"

- O.—Were all people to live on non-flesh diet, lions and other carnivorous animals would multiply in such large numbers that they would kill all such useful animals as cows. Your attempt to prevent their slaughter would come to nothing.
- A.—It is the business of the State to punish or even kill all those men and animals that are injurious (to the community)
- O.—Should their flesh i, e, (of the animals thus killed) be thrown away?
- A.—It would do no harm to the world whether it be thrown away, given to dogs or such other carnivorous animals, cremated or even eaten by some meat-eater. But if eaten by a man, it will tend to change his disposition and make him cruel.

The use of all such foods and drinks as are obtained through injuring or killing others or through theft, dishonesty, breach of faith, fraud or hypocracy is forbidden in other words, they all come under the heading of forbidden articles of diet. Whilst the acquisition of foods and drinks through righteous means without injurying or killing any living creature falls in the category of permissible articles of diet. This also includes all those articles that give health, and strength, destroy disease, promote intellectual power and energy and prolong life, such as rice, wheat, sugar, milk, butter, fruits, tubers and roots, when properly mixed in due proportion and cooked, and eaten in moderation at proper meal times. The abstinence from the use of all those things that do not agree with one's constitution and are apt to produce disease or other evil effects, and the use of those that are prescribed for one by his medical attendent) also constitute adherence to what is called the permissible diet.

- O.—Is there any harm in eating together i.e., out of the same dish?
- A.—Yes, it is harmful, because people differ in their nature and constitutions, &c., from each other. Just as one in eating out of the same dish with a leper is apt to catch the disease, likewise eating with other people is always liable to produce evil results. It can never do any good. Therefore it is said in the Manu Smrili: -

- "Let no man give the leavings of his food to another, nor eat out of the same dish with another, nor eat too much, nor after finishing his meal leave his seat without washing his hands and rinsing out his mouth,"
- O.—How will you then interpret the text "Let a pupil eat Uchhistha (the leavings of) his preceptor "?
- A.—It means that a pupil should serve his tutor first, and after he has finished his meal, let the pupil himself eat of what is left behind—not as leavings but what has not been used by the teacher, is still kept separately. This only implies that the teacher should have his meal before his pupil.
- O.—If the use of all kinds of leavings is forbidden, honey—the leavings of bees, milk—the leavings of calves, and one's own leavings—the food left after one has taken one morsel out of it—should also be forbidden.
- A.-Honey is leavings only in name. It is really the essence of many a medicinal plant, hence it is acceptable. The calf can only drink the milk that comes out of the teats of its mother, but not what is inside. Therefore the milk, is obtained by milking a cow after the calf has sucked it off the teats, can not be called leaving. But it is proper that the udder and teats should be carefully washed and cleansed with pure water after the calf has had its share, before the cow is milked, and the milking vessel should also be kept perfectly clean. One's own leaving can do no harm to oneself. Even nature clearly teaches us that it is wrong to eat another man's leavings. No one feels any great repugnance in touching the secretions from one's own nose, mouth, ears and organs of reproduction, micturition and defecation. but one does so in the case of others. It proves therefore that this practice is not against the laws of nature. No one, therefore. should eat the leavings of or in the same dish with another.
- O.—Should not even husband and wife eat each other's leavings?
 - A.—No, even their natures and constitutions differ?
- O.—Well Sir! What harm is there in eating what has been prepared by any one as long as he is a man; because the bodies of all men from a Brahman to the lowest of human beings, are made of flesh and bones? The same blood runs in the veins of all.

- A.—Yes, there is harm. A Bráhman and a Bráhman are fed on the very best of foods, hence their bodies are formed out of the reproductive elements that are free from impurities and other deleterious elements, which is not true of the bodies of the extremely degraded men and women that are simply laden with dirt and other foul matter. It is, therefore right that we should eat and drink with Bráhmans and other higher classes and not with scavengers and workers in leather 1. Now what answer will you make if you were asked. "Would you look upon all other women, such as your mother, sister, mother-in-law, sister-in-law, daughter-in-law with the same eye as your wife, because all of them are made of the same kind of flesh and blood?" You will simlpy be filled with shame and make no answer. Again, as good, clean food is eaten with hands and the mouth, so can the bad, unclean and decomposed food be eaten, would you then eat dirt, etc.? Can this ever be right?
- O.—As you plaster the kitchen floor with cow-dung (and mud) why do you not then also use human excrement for the same purpose? Why is not the kitchen poluted when the dung is used in it?
- A.—The dung is not so foul-smelling as the human excrement. The cow-dung being greasy does not so easily come off the floor, nor does it soil the dress, nor does it look dirty. Dirt does not come off the dry dung so easily as off the mud, that has been plastered with a thin coating of mud and dung properly mixed together looks nice. If the kitchen, wherein food is cooked and some times also eaten, and naturally therefore particles of food, such as bread-crumbs, sugar and butter, drop down on the floor which being thus made dirty attracts flies, insects and other such creatures, be not swept plastered and properly cleaned every day, it would be as dirty as a privy. The kitchen. therefore, should be properly plastered with mud and dung, swept and kept thoroughly clean. (This applies to the floor that is made of bricks and mud or of the latter only. But if it be cemented, it should be kept clean by washing it thoroughly with water. The kitchen should never be allowed to get dirty and untidy like that of a Mohammadan wherein there is a pile of charcoal in one place. a heap of ashes in another, and a bundle of sticks in the third, here is a broken kettle, and there an unwashed plate, here some bones, there some joints, and as about flies the less said about them, the better !!! That place is, as a rule, so dirty that if a respectable man were to go and sit there for a little while, it would soon

^{1.} Men and women who do this kind of work in India are extremely dirty in their habits—2r.

- with them? Why do you burn dried cow dung in your fire-place and use that fire to light your pipe hubble bubble)? Do not these things pollute your kitchen? We wonder!
 - O.—Should one take his meals in the chunks or outside it?
- A.—One may take his meals wherever the place is clean and tidy. But in times of war and other cases of emergency it is quite proper to eat and drink in all positions and places—sitting on horseback, driving in cars, or standing.
- O.—Should one eat only what has been cooked by one's own hands and not which has been done by another?
- A.—Among the Aryus as long as food has been prepared in a clean manner, no matter who has done it, there is no harm in eating it in company with all other Aryas. If Brahmans (men and women) and persons of other higher Classes were to devote their time to cooking, washing the utensils, sweeping and dusting. and observing such embarrasing restrictions as that of the chauka, who would then attend to higher pursuits, such as the advancement of sciences and arts. Behold! On the occasion of Rájsúya Yajna of Emperor Yudhisthira, kings and princes, sages and wise teachers had gathered from all parts of the world. They all ate and drank together. It is only since the Mohamadan, the Christian and other religions have come into existence, and the Aryas begun to quarrel and fight among themselves, and the Mohamadans and the Christians taken to eating beef and drinking wine that these troublesome restrictions in eating and drinking have come into vogue in this country.

The kings, princes and other Aryas of ancient India even used to have marriage relations with the foreigners, as we read in the Mahabharut, that Gandharee, Madree, Ulopee and other princesses, of Gandhar (Kundhar), Persia, America and Europe were married to some of the Indian princes. Shakuni and others used to ent and drink with Kuuravas and Pandvas. They never quarrelled with each other, because then only one religion prevailed in the whole world. And that was Vedic. They all firmly believed in it. They looked upon other's sorrows and joys, gains and losses as if they were their own. It was only then that peace and happiness reigned throughout the whole world. Baralus! Now it is different. The religions are various and so are their followers. Their mutual hatred and strife have greatly increased, and consequently their sufferings and sorrows have immensly multiplied. It is the duty of all wise men to do away with all these evils and relieve this suffering. May the Omniscient Ruler of all, sow the seed of tru religion in all hearts, whereby all false religions and false doctrines may soon p rish. Let all wise men ponder over it impartially, leave off all mutual hatred and malice, and promote the happiness of all.

^{*} Which is generaly kept extermely dirty especially among the poor .- Tr.

We have briefly discoursed in this chapter on Conduct—desirable and undesirable, and on Diet—permissible and forbidden.

The first part of this book is here finished. In the first ten chapters we have not criticised other religions and sects to any great extent for the simple reason, that people can never grasp the spirit of criticism-abstruse or otherwise-as long as their reasoning powers are not sufficiently developed to enable them to judge between right and wrong. We have, therefore, preached the gospel of truth in this first part of the book. Now in the second part (comprising the last four chapters) we shall mainly examine the chief religions of the world, viz, of the religions and sects of India in the eleventh chapter, of Jainism (Budhism) in the twelveth, of Christianity in the thirteenth, and of Mohammadanism in the fourteenth. At the end of the book we have also given our own beliefs and disbeliefs. Let those, who want to see chiefly the criticism of different sects and religions, consult these four chapters, though in a general way criticism is to be found also in the first ten chapters. Whosoever will read these fourteen chapters with an impartial eye and without any prejudice, the light of truth will undoubtedly shine in his heart, and he shall enjoy happiness; but he who reads them or hears them read in the spirit of jealousy, stubbornness and sophisty will hardly be able to grasp the spirit of this book. Whosoever will read it without due care and reflection, will fail to understand its purport and be lost in confusion. It behaves all wise men first to ascertain what truth is, and then to embrage what is true and reject what is false, and thereby enjoy supreme bliss. This and this alone is the highest duty. It is only such learned men as readily embrace good qualities that reap the four-fold fruits of this life, viz., the practice of righteousness, acquisition of wealth, realization of legitimate desires, and attainment of salvation.

THE END OF PART I

CHAPTER XI.

ON

AN EXAMINATION OF THE DIFFERENT RELIGIONS PREVAILING IN ARYAVARTA (INDIA).

ow we shall examine the religions of the Aryas, i.e., the people who live in Aryavarla (India). This country is such as no other country in the whole world can be compared with it. It is also called the Golden Land as it produces gold and precious stones. It was for this reason that in the beginning of the world the Aryas came to this country. We have already stated in the Chapter on C smojony that the good and noble men are called Aryas, whilst those who are otherwise are called Dasyus. The natives of all other countries on the earth praise this very country, and believe that the philosopher's stone is to be found here. Though this story of the philosopher's stone is a myth, yet it is true that this country (Aryavarta) itself is verily a philosopher's stone whose very touch converts all base metals—poor foreigners—into gold—rich nabobs.

Since the beginning of the world till 5,000 years back, the A :/as were the sovereign rulers of the whole earth, in other words, there was only one paramount power whose suzerainty was acknowledged by the rulers of all other countries on the surface of the earth. Till the time of Kunraras and Pandavas all other rulers of the earth and their subjects obeyed the law laid down by the rulers of this country, for it is said in the Manu Smrili, that was composed in the beginning of the world "Let all other people of the earth—Brahmans 1, Kshatriyas, Vaishyas,

एतदेशमस्तस्य सकाशान्त्रजनमनः।

स्वं स्वं चरित्रं शिक्षेरन् पृथिव्यां सर्वमानवाः ॥ मनु० २ । २० ॥

1. Brahmanus = Teachers-secular and spiritual.

Kshatriyas - Men of governing class, statesmen, soldiers, etc.

Vaishyas — Merchanis, artisans and farmers
Shudras — Men o the servant class.

Dasyus = Wicked people.

Malechhas = Barbarians.

Shidras, Dasyus and Malechhas-learn arts and sciences suitable to them from the learned people born in this country."

The perusal of the Mahábhárat proves to demonstration that the Aryas were the sovereign rulers of the earth till the coronation of Emperor Yudhisihira and the Great War of Mahabharata, for we read in that book that King Bhayadatta of China, Babruváhan of America, Vid lákha 2 of Europe, the Ruler of Greece, King Shalya of Persia and various other rulers came as ordered to take part in the Great War and in the coronation of Emperor Yudhishthira,

When the house of Rayhu held paramount authority (in this contry), even King Ravina of Ceylon acknowledged its suzerainty. Later when he revolted against its authority, l'rince Ram Chandra having vanguished and dethroned him placed his younger brother Viblishana on the throne instead. Since the time of Swayamlhava to that of the Pandarus, the Aryas were the paramount power throughout the whole world. Thereafter, mutual dissensions among them compassed their destruction, for in this world, over which a just God presides, the rule of the proud, the unjust and the ignorant (such as the Kanravas were) can not last very long. It is also a law of nature that the accumulation of wealth in a community out of all proportion to its needs and requirements brings in its train indolence, jealousy, mutual, hatred, lustfulness, luxury and neglect of duty which put an end to all sound learning and educations, whose place is usurped by evil customs, manners and practices like the use of meat and wine, child marriage, and licentiousness, Besides, when people acquire perfection in the military science and the art of war, and the army becomes so formidable that no one in the whole world can stand it on a field of battle, pride and party-spirit increase among them who then become unjust. Thereafter they lose all power either through mutual dissensions. or a strong min from among families of little importance rises to distinction and is powerful enough to subjugate them, just as Shivajee and Gobind Singh rose against the Mohammadan rule and completely annihilated the Mussalman power in India.

The fact that the Aryas were the sovereign rulers of the earth since the beginning of the world till the Great War, called Mahabharut, is also proved on the authority of the Muilreyo-panaishad which says "Why! Besides these, there have been

^{2.} Called so on account of his cat-like eyes

Maitrey other Mighty Rulers who were the Sovereign Lords Upanishad of the whole earth, such as Sudyumna, Bhuridyumna, I, 4. Indradyamna, Kuvalayáshwa, Yauvanáshwa, Baddhyrashwa, Ashwapati, Shashavindu Harishchandra, Ambarísha, Nanaktu, Saryáti, Anarunya, Akshasena, and also such like Emperors as Maruta and Bhurat."

The names of such Sovereign Rulers as Swayambhava, etc., are clearly mentioned in the Mahabharat, the Manu Smrili and other authoritative books. Only the prejudiced and the ignorant regard these statements as fallacious

- O.—Is it true that the ancients knew the use of fire-arms, such as Ayneyástra, about which we read in ancient Sanskrit literature. Were guns and muskets known to the ancients or not?
- A.—Yes. It is true. Guns and the like fire-arms were used in ancient times. The Ameyástra and the like weapons can be manufactured by the application of scientific principles.
- O.—Were they brought into existence through magical formulæ sanction fied by the gods.
- A.—No. The methods of manufacturing these weapons were evolved as the result of deep thought (manira). But the mere pronouncing of a manira, which is nothing but a collections of words, can not produce any substance. Were any one to say that the chanting of a manira (or a hymn) can produce fire, he may be asked as to why it should not burn the throat and tongue of the person who recites it. How funy, the person should burn himself to death while meditating the death of his enemy! A mantra literally means the power of thought, hence Raja mantri, (from Raja = state, and mantri one who thinks) is one who thinks over the affairs of a State and is the king's adviser.

Thus, men after deep study acquire a knowledge of the laws of nature, and by the proper application thereof make many discoveries in the domain of art and invent machines. As for instance, if an iron arrow or a ball be—filled with such substances

अथ किमेतैर्वा परेऽन्ये महाधनुर्धराइचक्रवार्तनः केचित् सुद्युम्नभूरिद्युम्नेन्द्रद्युम्नकुवलयाश्वयोवनाश्ववद्ध्यूश्वाश्वपतिश्चशविन्दुहीरइचन्द्राऽम्वरीषननक्तुसर्यातियात्यनरण्याच्चसेनादयः । अथ मरुत्तभरतप्रभृतयो राजानः ॥ मैत्र्युपनि ० प्र० १ । खं० ४ ॥

r. What a pity that the descendents of these Aryas are being crushed under the heel of the foreigner, as when ignited will produce smoke, which by coming in contact with air or the rays of the sun will catch fire, he will have invented an Ameyastra. The fire opened by it will fail of its effect, if the commander of the opposing army discharges a Varamastra which is made of such materials whose snoke is converted into a cloud the amount it comes in contact with air. It immediately begins to rain and extinguishes the fire. Likewise, there existed in ancient times other weapons of war, such as Nagarhansa—which when discharged against an enemy paralysed his limbs—and Molumastra—which was charged with such narcotic substances whose smoke could cause stupefaction of the soldiers of the enemy—, and Pashupalastra—anoth r kind of Ameyastra, in which electricity produced from a wire, glass or some other substance was employed to kill one's enemy.

As regards the words Top (Gun) and Bandook (musket) they belong to a foreign language and not to Sanskrit or to any of the Indian Vernaculars allied to it. Now what is called a Top (gun) by the foreigners, is spoken of as Shala jhni (literally that which kills hundreds at a time) and a bandook (musket), bhushundi in Susn crit and Arya Bháshá (one of the most widely spoken Indian Vernaculars). Those who are unacquainted with the Sanskrit literature write and say all sorts of nonsense. Their writings can never be considered as authentic by the learned. All the knowledge that is extant in the world orginated in Asyavaria Thence it spread to Egypt, thence to Greece, thence to the whole continent of Europe, thence to America and other countries. Even to-day India heads all others countries in the matter of Sanskril learning. The impression that the Germans are the best Sanskrit scholors and that no one has read so much of Sanskrit as Professor Max Muller is altogether unfounded. Yes, in a land where lofty trees never grow, even Recinis Communis or the common Castor oil plant may be called an oak. The study of Sanskrit being altogether out of question in Enrope, the Germans and Professor Max Muller, who have read a little Sanskrit may have come to be regarded as highest authorities in that country, but compared with India the number of Sanskrit scholars in Germany is very small. We came to know from a letter of a Principal of some German University that even men learned enough to interpret a Sanskit letter are rare in Germany. We have also made it plain from the study of Max Muller's History of Sanskrit Literature and his comments on some mintras of the Veda that Professor Max Muller has been able to scribble out something by the help of the so-called Tileás or paraphrases of the Vedas current in India. For instance, he translates the word bradhnam into a horse in the vedic verse which runs as:— "Yunjanti bradhnam arusham charantam..." Even Sáyandchárya's rendering of it into the sun is much better, but its real meaning is the All pervading spirit. This will suffice to show how much Sinsivit learning Professor Max Muller and other Germans possess

It is a fact that all the science and religions that are extant in the world originated in India, and thence spread to other countries. Mr. Jackoliot, a native of France, writes in his book called 'The Bisle in India,' That India is the source of all kinds of knowledge and good institutions. All the sciences and religions found in the world have spread from this very country. He prays to God thus "Mayest thou O Lord, raise my country to that height of civilization and progress that had been attained by India in ancient times.' Prince Dara Shikoh had also come to the same conclusion viz., in no other language is knowledge to be found so perfect as in Sanskrit. He says in his commentary on the Upanishuds that he read Arabic and other languages, but his doubts were never dispelled, nor was he ever so happy till he studied Sanskrit, which cleared all his doubts and made him extremely happy.

Again look at the Zodaic representation on the temple of Mán at Benares, how beautiful it is that even to-day what an amount of information on Astronomy it gives, even though it has not been properly looked after. It will be a very good thing if the Rulers of Jeypore were to look after the Temple and make the necessary repairs.

It is a pity that this jewel of a country received such a rude shock from the Great War that even to-day it has not recovered from its effects, for what doubt can there be in the ruin of a country wherein brothers begin to kill each other. Rightly has it Vridha been said "When the time of destruction is at hand, Chanikya intellect becomes perverted," and men do foolish things. XVI, 17. Should any one offer them good advice, they take it ill, but are always willing to follow unwhold-some advice. When most of the learned men, Kings and Emperors, sages and seers were killed or died in the Great War, the light of knowledge began to grow dim, and with it the dissemination of the Vedic Religion came to an end. The people became a prey to nutural jealousy, hatred, and vanity. The strong seized upon the country and proclaimed themselves kings. Thus, when the empire was divided into so many independent states even in India, who could then have kept the foreign possessions under control.

^{1.} Vile our book called "An Introduction to the exposition of the Vedas" wherein the true meaning of this martra is fully explained.

^{2.} These are not actually his words. This is what he says in substance.—Tr.

When the Bráhmans because destitute of knowledge, there could be no talk of the ignorance of the Kshalriy is, Vaishyus and Shúdrus. Even the ancient practice of the study of the Vedas and other Shástrus with their meanings died away. The Bráhmanus only learnt the Vedas by rote—just enough to enable them to earn their livelihood. Even that much they did not teach to the Kshutriyas and others. As the ignorant became the teachers of the people, decietfulness, fraud, hypocrisy and irreligion began to increase among them. The Bráhmans thought that they should make some arrangement for their livelihood. They held a council among themselves and agreed to preach to the Kshatriyas and others:—"We alone are the object of worship to you. You could never enter Heaven or obtain salvation except by serving us. Shoull you not serve us you shall fall into an awful Hell."

The Vedas, and the Sháslras written by the Vedic sages and seers have declared men of learning and rightousness as Bráhmans and worthy of respect; but here they, who were ignorant, lascivious, deceitful, licentious, lazy and irreligious, declared themselves as Bráhmans and worthy of homage But how could the sterling virtues of the righteous, learned and truthloving Bráhmans be found in them. When the Kshalriyas and others became a solutely destitute of Sanskril learning, whatever cock and bull stories the Bráhmans concocted, the simple ons believed. These nominal Bráhmans then became bolder still. They ensnared all in their net of hypocrisy brought them under thorough control and began to teach:—

Pan lava "Whatever a Bráhmun declares, is as infallible as words falling from Divine lips."

When the Kshalriyas and others who had more money than brains became their dupes, these so-called Bréhmans got a golden 'opportunity of enjoying sensual pleasures addibitum. They also declared that all the best things of the earth were meant for the Bréhmans only. In other words, they subverted the whole system of Classes and Orders, and based it on the mere accident of birth, instead of on the qualifications, character and works of the people, as it originally was. They even began to accept charity given in the name of the dead, in fact they did what ever they pleased. They went even so far as to say:—"We are the lords of the earth. No one can enter Heaven without serving us." The so-called Bráhmans of the present day say the same thing. Now if they were asked as to which place they would go to after death since they did such wicked deeds indeed that they deserved no better abode than a terrible Hell. They would be turned into worms, ants, moths and the like. They get highly enraged and cry out "Were we to curse you, you would be destroyed, for it is written 'He that wrongs a Bráhman shall be damned'." It may be said in reply to this, that yes it is true he that wrongs a man, who is a perfect scholar of the Veda, is well-versed in divine knowledge and imbued with piety and righteousness, and is devoted to the good of the whole world and is therefore called a Bráhman, shall certainly be damned, but you neither deserve to be called Bráhmans, nor are entitled to our homage.

- O.—What are we then?
- A.—You are popes.
- O.—What is a pope?
- A.—The word pope originally meant a father in Latin, but here this term is applied to a person who robs another through fraud and hypocrisy and achieves his selfish end.
- O.—No, we are Bráhmans and holy men (Sádhu) for our parents were Brá'r nans and we are the disciples of such and such a holy man
- A.—It may be true, but one does not become a Bráman or a Sádhu by being the offspring of Bráhman parents or a disciple of a Sádhu. A man becomes a Bráhman or a holy man by bearing a good character, by doing righteous deeds and by possessing such good virtues as altruism. It is said that the Popes of Rome used to say to their followers:-"If you will confess your sins before us, we shall grant you absolution from them. No one can enter Heaven unless one pays homage to us and thereby obtains our permission. Should you wish to go to Heaven you must deposit money with us and you will get your money's worth of property there." Upon hearing this, those ignorant men who had more money than brains, and were anxious to enter Heaven. would offer the stipulated amount of money to the Pope who would then stand before the image of Jesus Christ or Mary and write down a draft in the following words:—"O Lord Christ! The bearer has deposited Rs. 100,000 to thy credit with us in order to get admission into Heaven. When he comes there mayest. Thou be pleased to give him in Thy Father's Kingdom houses.

gardens and parks worth Rs 25,000, horses, carriages hounds and servants worth Rs. 25,000, foods, drinks and clothes, etc., worth Rs. 25,000 and get him the remaining Rs. 25,000 in cash so that he may entertain his friends, brothers and other relations etc." The Pope would then sign his name on the draft and give it to the supplicant saying:—"Tell your family members before-hard to put this draft under your head in the grave before you are burried. The angels will then come to take you to Heaven and after you have been conveyed there along with the draft, you shall get everything mentioned therein."

It seems as if the Popes had had the monopoly of Heaven. These popish, practices lasted in Europe only so long as it was sunk in ignorance, but now that the people have become enlightened, the fals: practices of the popes do not flourish so well, but at the same time have not altogether disappeared. As in Europe, so in India the popery appeared in a thousand different forms, and cast its net of hypocrisy and fraud, in other words, the Indian popes have kept the rulers and the ruled from acquiring learning and associating with the good. In fact, they have always been misleading the people and have done nothing else. But let it be borne in mind that it is only those who practise fraud and hypocrisy, and follow other evil occupations, that are called popes, whilst those, even among the so-called Brahmans who live righteous lives, are learned and devoted to the public good, deserve to be called true Bráhmans and holy-men. Thus it is proper to designate the deceitful, the hypocritical and the selfish— i, e_n those who serve their selfish ends at the sacrifice of the interests of others—alone as popes, while good and learned men as Bráhmans and holymen (Sádhus); because had there been no such true Bráhmans or Sádhus as escaped from the traps laid by the Jainees, Mohammadans and Christians, who would have helped to keep up love for the Vedas and the Shastras in the minds of the Aryun people, and maintain the system of Classes and Orders? This indeed has been the work of true Bráhmans and Sádhus. Manu has said:—"Let a wise man extract nectar even from poison." The escape of the Aryas, however misled into popish practices, from the snares of the Jain and other religions has indeed been like nectar extracted from poison.

Thus when the laity became bereft of knowledge, the popes who had read a little of the ritual became haughty. They combined together and declared before the kings and others in authority that it was unlawful to punish a Bráhman or a Sádhu, and such texts as declared "Let no Bráhman be killed; let no Sádhu be killed" that were intended for the truly righteous Bráhmans and Sádhus, were applied to themselves by the popes.

They also wrote books containing false statements whose authorship they attributed to the great sages and seers of the past in order to stamp them with authority. These books they passed off as the writings of the great Vedic seers and read them out to the people. Thus under the cover of these great names they succeeded in getting themselves out of the reach of the Law and did whatever they liked, in other words, they have framed such strict laws that no one dare sit or stand, eat or drink, come or go, slap or wake without their permission. They instilled into the minds of the rulers that these so-called Brá imans and Sádhus, who were really popes, might do whatever they liked. They should never be punished. The rulers should not even ever think of punishing them. When the people became so ignorant, the popes did and made others do whatever they wished.

This evil took root 1000 years before the Great War, and even though the Vedic sages and seers lived in that age, yet the seeds of indolence, negligence, mutual jealousy and hatred had begun to sprout a little, and gradually they grew into lofty trees. When the preaching of truth died away, ignorance spread all over India and its people began to quarrel and fight among themselves, for it is said "Righteousness, wealth, gratification of legiticate desires and salvation are attainable only when teachers of the highest type are found in a country, but in the absence of good teachers and good desciples dense ignorance prevails. Whenever good teachers are born who preach the truth, ignorance is dispelled and the light of truth begins to shine forth."

Then the popes got the laity to worship them and their feet, and began to say that in that alone consisted their (future) happiness. When the people were completely brought under subjection, the popes became entirely negligent of their duty, and extremely immerse in sensuality. As they were like shepherds, and the people like their sheep—ignorant dupes, knowledge, intellectual power, strength, courage, bravery and valour and all other good qualities were gradually lost. When they became licentious, they began to use meat and drink wine secretly. Then a sect sprung up among them whose followers wrote books called Tantras in which various statements were introduced with the उपदेश्योपदेष्ट्रत्वात् तात्सिद्धिः । इतरथान्धपरम्परा ।

सांख्य॰ अ० ३। स्व० ७९। ८१॥

मद्यं मांसं च भीनं च मुद्रा भेथुनभेव च । एत पश्च मकाराः स्युमेक्षिदा हि युगे युगे ॥ कालीतन्त्रादि में । words Shiva said, Párvati said, Bhairava said. In these books such curious things are written as follow:—

- "(Malya) wine, (Mánsa) meat, (Meená) fish, (Mudrá) cakes 'Maithuna' copulation, all these five beginning with the letter M lead to salvation in all ages."
- "While in the circle of Bhairava persons of all Classes are regarded as twice-born, but after leaving the Kuláin vi Tantra. Bhairavi circle they all revert to their respective Classes."
- "He, who drinks and drinks and drinks till he falls to the Mahanirmina ground, gets up and again drinks, shall never be born again."
- "Excepting his mother let a man have sexual intercourse with all women. The Vedas and the Shástras and other ancient books are like harlots. But the Shámbhavi Mudrá! is like a lady of high birth who lives in privacy."

Now look at the trickery of these stupid popes that whatever is considered to be highly sinful and opposed to the Veda is regarded as virtuous by the Váma Máryis. The use of meat, wine, fish, delicious eatables, such as various kinds of cakes, and copulation are considered as means of attaining salvation. Believing all men to be (incarnations of) Shiva and all women (incarnation of, Párvati they mutter the absurd couplet "I am Shiva and thou art Páravati, let us then co-habit and co-habit"—no matter who the man and the woman be, and they see no harm in it. The low women whose very touch is considered

प्रवृत्ते भैरवीचक्रे सर्वे वर्णा द्विजातयः ।
निष्टते भैरवीचक्रे सर्वे वर्णा पृथक् पृथक् ॥ कुलाणवतन्त्र ॥
पीत्वा पीत्वा पुनः पीत्वा यावत्पतित भूतले ।
पुनरुत्थाय वै पीत्वा पुनर्जन्म न विद्यते ॥ महानिर्माणतन्त्र ॥
मातृयोनि परित्यज्य विहरेत् सर्वयोनिषु ।
वेदशास्त्र राणानि सामान्यगणिका इव ॥
पक्तेव शाम्भवी मुद्रा गुप्ता कुलवधूरिव । ज्ञानसंकलनी तन्त्र ॥
अहं भैरवस्त्वं भैरवी ह्यावयोरस्तु सङ्गमः ॥

1. Shambhavi Mudra is the name of certain positions of the fingures practised in devotions or religious worship offered to Parvii—the wife of Shiva Tr.—

to be polluting are regarded extremely pure by them. As for instance the Shástra forbids the touch of a woman when she is menstruating, but the Váma Máryis believe her to be very clean. Mark, how meaningless is that verse of theirs which says:—"Sexual intercourse with a woman in menses Rudryá is like having a bath (in the sacred Tank) at Pushkar, mala with an outcast woman a pilgrimage to Kúshi Tantra. (Benares), with a woman working in leather like a bath (in the Ganges) at Prayaga (Allahabad), and with a washer woman like a pilgrimage to Mathurá, and with a prostitute like a pilgrimage to Ayudhyá." They call wine pilyrimage, meat purity and flower, fish No. 3 and water cucumber, a cake No. 4, and copulation, No. 5. They have employed such names to meat, etc., so that others may not understand them. They call themselves Lotus-like, Kind hearted, brave, merciful, mighty and the like, while they call others thorn-like, perverted, emaciated (like lean animals). They say that in a social gathering of the Vama Margis all persons, whether Brahmans or outcasts, become Dwijus, (i.e., twice born), but as soon as they leave that meeting, they revert to their respective Clusses.

In a Bhairavi circle¹ they mark or draw a triangle, a square, or a circle on the earth or on a piece of board, on which they place a pitcher full of wine, worship it and read this mantra "O IVine! Thou art free from the curse of Brahmá." In a sequestered place, where none but the Váma Máryis can go, men and women meet together; the men strip a woman naked and worship her, while the women strip a man naked and worship him. Then, any man can get hold of any woman, be she his own wife, daughter, mother, sister or daughter-in-law or any one else, and co-habit with her.

They fill a cup with wine and place meat and sweets on a plate. Then the officiating priest takes that cup in his hand and saying "I am Bhairava (the Indian baccus) or I am Shiva" drinks it up. Thereupon the rest of the company drinks out of the same cup. Having stripped naked some one's wife or a prostitute, or a man, they give a sword in her or his hand, call her a goddess (Devi) or him a great god (Mahádeva).

They worship her or his private organs and make that goddess or god, drink a cup of wine and themselves drink of the same cup turn by turn. They go on drinking till they get completely drunk. Any one of the men can then co-habit with any woman, be she his own sister, mother or daughter, he likes. Sometimes when extremely intoxicated they fight among themselves with their shoes or fists, pull each other's hair, or kick one another. If any one vomits there, he who has attained the highest stage of perfection, i e., is an ashori (an omnivorous person) or an adept would even eat up the vomited matter. The following are the qualifications of an adept among them: 'He that drinks away bottle after bottle in a public house, sleeps in a brothel in order to misconduct himself, and commits similar other sins without compunction or Sankalani shame is like a great Soveriegn Emperor of the whole Tantra earth among the Váma Máryis." In short, the greatest sinner among them is called great, whilst he who is virtuous and afraid of committing evil deeds is called small for it is recorded in one of their scriptures "He that is restrained from the commission of sinful deeds by the fear of public opinion, of disobedience to the dictates of the scriptures, of Inán i Sanktarnishing the family name and of being looked down alani upon by the country at large is human, whilst one Tantra. who commits wicke I deeds without any shame is Divine (Eternal Shiva)"

रजस्वला पुष्करं तीर्थं चाण्डाली तु स्वयं काशी चर्मकारी प्रयागः स्याद्रजकी मथुरा मता । अयोध्या पुकसी पोक्ता ॥ रुद्रायामल तन्त्र ॥ । . i. e., a social gathering of Vama Margis—Tr.

The Uddisa Tantra describes a ceremonial thus. Let bottles filled with wine be placed in nitches in all the four walls of a room. Then let a man drink a bottle of wine from one of the nitches and go to the next, and have another bottle, thence go to the third nitch, and have still another bottle, and then go to the fourth and go on drinking till he falls down on the earth like a log. When he comes round a bit, let him again drink in the same way till he falls a second time, let him repeat it a third time, and when he gets up a fourth time, he shall never be born again. But the fact is that it is extremely difficult for such men to be born again as men. They shall, on the contrary, enter the bodies of very low creatures and remain there for long time to come. The law has been laid down in the Tantra books of Váma Márgis that a man can have sexual intercourse with all women (except his mother), even if they be his daughters, sisters or other near relations. There are ten kinds of higher knowledge known among them. One of them is Matangi knowledge. One who is versel in this believes that even a mother should not be spared, that is, a man can have sexual intercourse even with his own mother. These people mutter some magical incantations while having sexual intercourse in the hope of acquiring occult power. Very few people indeed will there to be in this world who are so inside and so idiotic as these Váma Márjis!!!

हालां पिवति दीत्तितस्य मन्दिरे सुप्तो निशायां गणिका गृहेषु । विराजते कौलवचक्रवर्शी ॥

पाश्वबद्धो भवेज्जीवः पाश्चमुक्तः सदा शिवः ॥

He who would advocate untruth must revile the truth. Mark what the Váma Márgis say:—" The Vedas and the Shátras and other ancient books are like common harlots, but the Shímihavi Mulrá is like a lady of high birth and of great chastity."

No wonder! These Váma Máryees being so low and degraded in their morals founded a religion so entirely opposed to the Veda.

Later on when their religion had widely spread over India, they rogishly introduced some of their evil practices even in the name of the Veda as the following quotations will bear out.

"Let a man drink wine (surá) in the Sautrámani Yajna" "Let a man eat meat in a Yajna"

"A slaughter ceases to be slaughter when this deed is done in a Vedic sacrifice."

"There is no turpitude in eating flesh, drinking wine, and committing adultery, for that is the natural way of created beings, but abstinence brings great reward."

Now the word surá, that does not mean wine, has been translated as wine in one of the above quotations. The word surá really means the juice of a creeper called Soma. These Váma Máryis, who have started such wicked practices as killing animals in a sacrifice should be asked if, as they hold, a slaughter ceases to be as such in a Vedic sacrifice be true, what harm will there be if a Váma Máryi and his family members be slaughtered and then offered in a sacrifice.

It is childish to say that there is no sin in eating meat drinking wine and committing a lultery, for meat can not be had without killing animals, and it can never be right to hurt or kill animals without an offence With regard to drinking wine, it is interdicted everywhere, and nowhere except in the books of Váma Máryees has it been allowed, on the other hand its use has been forbidden in all (sacred) books.

Sexual intercourse with a woman excepting one's wedded wife is undoubtedly sinful. He who declares it permissible is indeed himself a great sinner.

They interpolated these and similar other verses into the works of the seers, and also wrote books in the name of many great sages and savants, and thus introduced such sacrifices as Gom tha—a sacrifice in which cows were slaughtered—and Ashvamedha—one in which horses were killed. They declared that by slaughtering these animals and offering them as a sacrifice both—the animals sacrified and the Yajmána—went to Heaven. This evil practice seems have originated on accoun of their ignorance of the true meanings of such words as Ashvamedha, Gomedha, and Navamedha that occur in the Bráhmans, for had they understood them, they would not have committed such blunders.

- O.—What are then the true meanings of such words as Ashvamedha, Gomedha, and Nara nedha?
- A.—Their meanings are not what the Váma Máryis think. Nowhere in the scriptures and other authentic books it is written that horses, cows and human beings should be killed and offered as a sacrifice in the sacred fire, called Homa. It is only in the books of the Váma Máryis that such absurd things are written. Wherever in the authentic books of the sages the sanction of such a sacrifice is found, it should be understood that the verse or the passage has been interpolated by the Váma Máryers. Now mark! What the Shathapatha Bráhmana says on the subject:—

Shathapatha Bráhmna XIII, i, 6, 3.

Shathapatha Bráinmna IV, iii, 1, 25. "A king governs his people justly and righteously. This is called Ashwamedha," "A learned man gives a free gift of knowledge to the people. This is also called Ashwamdha," "Again, The buring of clarified butter and odoriferous and nutritious substances in the fire in order to purify the air is also ealled Ashwamedha," "To keep the food

सौत्रामण्यां सुरां पिवेत् । प्रोक्तितं मक्षयेन्मांसं । वैदिकी हिंसा दिंसा न भवति ॥ न मांसमक्षणे दोषो न मद्ये न च मैथुने । प्रष्टृत्तिरेषा भूतानां निष्टृतिरतु महाफला ॥ मनु० अ०५।६॥ राष्ट्रं वा अश्वमेधः। ञ्चत० १३।१।६।३॥ अत्र ५ हि गाः। ञ्चत० ४।३॥ ३।१।२५॥ अग्निर्वा अश्वः। आउयं मेधः॥ ञ्चतपथनाद्यणे॥

pure or to keep the senses under control, or to make a good use of the rays of the sun or keep the earth free from impurities (clean) is called Gomedha." "The cremation of the body of a dead person in accordance with the principles laid down in the Vedas is called Naramedba."

- O.—The sacrificers assert that the Yajamana¹ and the animals burnt in a sacrifice both go to Heaven, and also that they bring the animals (burnt in the sacrifice) to life again. Do you thing it to be true or not?
- A.—No, if it be true that they go to Heaven, why should not he (as well as dear relations), who asserts it, be killed and burnt as a sacrifice and thereby sent to Heaven, or why could they, (i e., the sacrificer and his relations) not be brought back to life after they have been killed and burnt in the sacrifice.
- O.—If the Vedas do not sanction this kind of sacrifice, why should the Vedic hymns be chanted at the time?
- A.—The hymns can not prevent any one from chanting them, for they are only a collection of words, but they do not mean that the animals should be slaughtered and burnt in sacrifices. The Vedic hymns Agnaye Swáhá etc., mean that the clarified butter and other nutritious and odoriferous substances, when burnt in the fire, purify the air, rain, and water, and thereby promote happiness on this earth. How could those idiots understand the true meaning of the Vedic hymns, because the selfish minds know and believe in nothing else but serving their selfish ends.

Seeing these evil, popish practices as well as others, such as feeding the priests in order to satisfy the spirits of the dead, a most dreadful religion, called Jainism or Budhism, that reviled the Vedas and the Shástras, sprang up into existence. It is related that in this very country there was a certain king of Gorakhpur who performed a sacrifice in which these popes officiated. His beloved queen died during an act of sexual intercourse with a horse as required in such a sacrifice. This disgusted the king who renounced the world, handed over the government of his kingdom to his son, became a mendicant and began to expose the trickery of these popes. There were two sects of the Jain or Budha religion called Cháraváka and Ashánaka. Its followers wrote such verses as the following:

"If an animal when slaughtered and burnt in a sacrifice go to Heaven, why should the Yaimána (the master of ceremonies)

^{1.} The Yajmana is a person who institutes or performs a sacrifice and pays the expenses of it. This is the orthodox meaning of the word.—Tr.

ريآر not slay his own father and other dear relations and burn them in a sacrifice and thereby help them to go to Heaven?"

"If oblations offered to the priests in the name of a deceased ancestor satisfy the latter, it is useless for people going abroad to take any cash with them for maintaining themselves during the journey; because if eatables offered to the priests in the name of a departed ancestor can reach him, why can not the food and drink prepared at home and offered on plates and in cups in the name of the person gone abroad by his relations reach him in foreign lands? When a person living in a distant country or in a place, say, only 10 cubit away from where the food and drink are offered in his name, can not obtain them, it is impossible then for a departed ancestor to receive things offered in his name."

The people began to believe in these teachings of the Cháravákas, etc., that stood the test of reason. religion (Jainism or Budhism) began to spread. When good many kings and landlords became its followers, the popes too inclined towards it, for they would go wherever they got plenty of cash. They soon began to embrace Jainism. There are many popish practices, but of a different kind, even among the Jainers. These will be described in the XII Chapter. The majority of the people embraced their religion, but others who lived in the hills in Benares or at Canoui, and in the West and in the South (of India) did not accept it. The Jainees being ignorant of the knowledge of the Veda attributed the popish practices (then current among the followers of the Veda) to the Veda and began even to run down these scriptures. They prohibited the study and teaching of the Veda, suppressed the custom of wearing Yajnopavita (the sacred thread), which is a symbol of being educated and of belonging to one of the three upper Classes, abolished the system of Brahmacharya, etc., destroyed as many books of the Vedic literature as they could get hold of, and even persecuted and oppressed the Aryás a great deal. When they gained in power and had ceased to be afraid of any body, they began to favour and honour their followers—both the householders and the mendicants—and to dishonour and punish the followers of the Veda unjustly. They began to live in ease and lux:ry, and being puffed up with pride became over-bearing in their manners. They also made huge images of their religious teachers, called Tirthunkaras—from Rishabhdeva to Mahávira—and began to worship them. Thus the practice of worshipping idols originated with the Jainees (in this country). The belief in God declined and the people took to iodatory instead. Thus, the Jainism reigned supreme for about 300 years in India. The people during that time had become quite destitute of the knowledge of the Veda. This must have happened nearly 2,500 years ago.

पशुश्रीकहितः स्वर्गं ज्योतिष्टोमे गमिष्यति । स्विपता यजमानेन तत्र कस्मान हिंस्यते ॥ मृतानामिह जन्तुनां श्राद्धे चेत्त्रिकारणम् । स्व्यक्तािहाः जन्तुनां व्यर्थं पाथेयकल्पनम् ॥

About 2,200 years ago Shankaráchárya, a Bráhamna of Dravid (in Southern India), studied Grammar and all other Shástras-books on Logic, Philosophy, Metaphysics, Theology, etc.,-during student life, and seeing the religious degradation of his country began to soliloquize thus:—'What a pity! The true theistic Vedic religion had disappeared, whilst the atheistic Jain religion prevailed to the great detriment of the people. This (i, e_i) the Jain religion) must be put down somehow.' Shankaráchárya had not only read the Shástras but also the Jain scriptures. He was also a powerful debator. He began to think as to what was the best method of overthrowing Jainism. At last he came to the conclusion that preaching and holding discussions with the Jainees were the best methods to put down Jainism. With this object in view he went to Ujjain (in Central India). King Sudhanwá then ruled there. He had read the Jain books as well as a little Sanskrit. Shankaráchárya begin to preach the Vedic religion there. He went to the king and said "You have read the Jain books as well as Sanskrit, and also believe in the Jain Religion, I, therefore, ask you to arrange a discussion between the Professors of the Jain religion and myself on the condition that the vanguished party should embrace the religion of the victor and that you should also accept his faith. Although king Sudhamvá was a follower of the Jain religion, yet as he had read Sanskrit he had some light of knowledge in his heart, and his intellect had not been obscuired by extreme animalism, because a learned man can distinguish between right and wrong, and then embrace the truth and reject falsehood.

As long as king Sudhanwá had not come across a very learned teacher, he was in doubt as to which of the two— the Vedic and Jain—religions was right, and which false. When he heard Shankaráchárya, he was very much pleased with what he said, and replied that he would certainly arrange the desired discussion and find out which religion was true and which false. He invited many Professors of the Jain religion from very distant places and convened a meeting for a discussion between them and Shankar. In this Shankar was to prove the truth of the Vedic religion and to refute Jainism, whilst the Jain Professors were to prove their own religion to be true and refute the Vedic religion. The Jainees held that there was no Eternal Maker of this universe, and the soul and the world were beginningless, they were never created, nor will they ever be reduced to their component elements. On the other hand, Shankaráchárya maintained that the Beginningless, Omnipotent Supreme Spirit alone was the Maker of the Universe, the world and the soul were unreal, as the Great God had created the universe by virtue of His Máyá. He alone sustains it and causes its dissolution. The soul and the world are like things seen in a dream. God Himself became metamorphosed into this world and sports about in it. The discussion lasted for many days; in the end the religion of the Jains was refuted both by reason and cogent proofs, while that of Shankar remained unrefuted. There upon those Jain Professors and King Sudhamuá renounced Jainism and embraced the Vedic religion, i.e., the religion advocated by Shankaráchárya. Then there was a great stir and noise about it in the country. King Sudhamuá wrote letters to his friends and relations and other rulers of the country, by whose help discussions between Shankar and other Jai Professors were arranged in different places, but the Jainees having been defeated in the first discussion lost everywhere. Thereafter Sudhanwá and other kings arranged for Shankar's tour throughout the whole of India and furnished him with an escort of armed men to protect him and with servants to attend upon him. From that time onward the people (of India) began to wear the sacred thread and study and teach the Vedus. For ten years he toured all over the country refuted Jainism and advocated the Vedic religion. All the broken images that are now-a-days dug out of the earth were broken in the time of Shankar, whilst those that are found whole here and there under the ground had been buried by the Jainees for fear of their being broken (by those who had renounced Jainim). Shankar also refuted Shivism that had come into vogue a little before his time and also Váma Márgism. At that time this country was very rich, and its people were also patriotic. Shankar, king Sud hanwa and other kings had not had the Jain temples pulled down as they intended to establish schools therein to teach the Vedas and other Shástras. When the Vedic religion had been established in the country and they were about to adopt measures for the diffusion of knowledge, two men, outwardly followers of the Vedic religion but bigoted Jainees at heart, in other words, who were perfect hypocrites and with whom Shankar was highly pleased, on finding a suitable occasion poisoned him with such a poisonous substance that his appetite failed and an eruption broke out on his body, and he died within six months. Then all lost heart so much so that even the dissemination of knowledge that was about to take place did not do so. Shankar's disciples began to teach his commentary on the Vedánt Shástra, called Shankar Bháshya, and other books that had been written by him. In other words, they began to preach what had been professed by Shankar with a view to refute the Jainees more successfully, viz., that Brahma (God) was the true reality, the Universe was an illusion and that the human soul and God were one. They opened monastries, Shringeri in the South, Bhúgovardhan in the East and Josi in the North and Sárdá at Dyárká in the West (of India), became their abbots, gained wealth and power, and began to live in ease and luxury, as after the death of Shankar his disciples were highly honoured

Now it must be understood that if it was the belief of Shankar that God and the human soul were identical and that the world was an illusion, it was not good; but if he had avowed this doctrine simply in order to refute Jairism more successfully, it was a little good. The beliefs of the Neo-Veda vists are discussed below in the form of questions and answers:—

N.—The world is unreal like things seen in a dream, or like a piece of rope mistaken for a snake, or like a sea shell seen glittering in the sunshine for a piece of silver or like a miraje for water, or like a town of angels or like a juggler's trick. (Brahma) God alone is real.

- A.—What do you call unreal?
- N.—What does not exist and yet appears to do so.
- A.—How can a thing appear to exist when it does not exist at all?
 - N.—By adhyáropa.
 - A.—What do you mean by adhyáropa?
- N.-Adhyáropa or adhyása consists in believing a thing to be different from what it really is; the refutation of a wrong belief is called Apaváda by the help of these two this phenominal, world can be taken to exist in Bralma Who is Himself Unchangeable.
- A.—You have fallen into this mistake by believing a piece of rope to be real while a snake to be unreal. Is not a snake also real?

If you say that it does not exist in a piece of rope, we ask "does it not exist in some other place or does its idea not exist in our conciousness"? If it does, a snake then is not unreal. In the same way, other illustrations, such as that of a mollusk-shell mis aken for a piece of silver, can be shown to be wrong. Similarly, things seen in dreams also exist somewhere in the world. Their ideas exist in our consiousness, hence it can not be said of them that they exist by culhyáropa (i. e., by erroneously attributing the properties of one thing to another).

N.—If this be true, how can one see a thing in a dream that was never seen or heard to exist in the wakeful state, such as a man's head is cut off and he himself weeps, or a stream of water flows uphill?

A.—Even this argument does not support your contention, because impression of a thing can not exist in one's mind unless he has seen or heard of it, and there can be no remembrance without mental impressions, and without remembrance there can be no direct consciousness of a thing. When a person hears from another that such and such a person's head was cut off on a field of battle and his father or brother or some other relation was seen to weep or when a person sees water from a fountain jetting up, all these things make impressions on his mind. When he is no longer in his wakeful state and dreams in his sleep of what he had seen or heard, since he sees all these things in himself, it can be understood how he comes to imagine that his own head is cut off and he himself weeps or that a stream of water flows upwards. This is again not like imagining a thing to exist which does not exist at all, it is more like sketching, in which sketcher embodies his idea, of what he had seen or heard, on paper, or like painting in which a painter by forming a mental picture of his subject paints it on canvas. It is true though that sometimes such things are seen in dreams as are still remembered, for instance, one sees one's teacher (in a dream), while on other occasions one recalls things in a dream that had been seen or heard long time ago and had therefore completely passed out of one's memory; in such cases one forgets whether one sees, or hears the same as one had seen or heard before in the wakeful state. But things can not be remembered so methodically in dreams as in the wakeful state. Again a person born blind can never dream of colours, hence your definition of the words Adhyáropa or Adhyása is wrong. And what the Neo-Vedantists called Vivarttáváda is also untrue. The term Vivarttaváda means that a person erroneously considers the universe to be real, while it is only illusionary (Brahma alone being a real entity), just as one mistakes a piece of rope for a snake.

N.—There can be no knowledge of an Adhyasta—a thing that is supported—without the knowledge of its Adhishthán—that which supports it,—for in the above instance had there been no rope, the idea of a snake being there would never have entered one's mind. As there is no snake in a piece of rope, nor there ever was, nor shall it ever be, in dim light a man may mistake a piece of rope for a snake and tremble with fear, but when he sees it with the light of a good lamp, his mistake is at once corrected and he ceases to fear, in like manner a man erroneously conceives that this world exists in Bra'una. Now this is only an illusion. On the direct cognition of Brahma this illusion of the existence of the world comes to an end, and he finds that it is all Brahma.

A.—Who erroneously experiences this allusion of the world in Brahma.

N.—The human soul.

A.—Whence did the human soul originate?

N.-- Out of ignorance?

A.—What is the origin of ignorance and where does it reside?

N.—Ignorance is without a beginning and resides in Brahma.

A —Was there ignorance of self or of something else Brahma. And who was it that became ignorant?

N.—Chidábhása

A.—What is the nature of this Chidábhása?

N.—It is Brahma. Brahma becomes ignorant of Brahma, in other words, He forgets His own nature.

A.—What is the cause of this forgetfulness?

N.—Nescience.

A.—Is nescience an attribute of an Omnipresent, Omniscient Being or of one who possesses finite knowledge?

N.—Of the latter,

A.—Do you then believe in the existence of a second conscious entity besides the Infinite, Omniscient, Conscious Being? And where did the being, possessed of finite knowledge, you just spoke of, come from? Of course it would be alright if you were to believe in the existence of another beginningless, finite, conscious entity besides Brahma, but you do not, hence the objection.

Again, were Brahma to become ignorant of Self, this ignorance would spread throughout the whole Brahma, just as pain in one part of a man's body makes all other parts (of his body) helpless, so would Brahma, if afflicted with ignorance or pain in one part, feel Himself ignorant or afflicted with pain throughout His whole self.

- N.—It is all an attribute of Upádhi.
- A.—Is Upádhi possessed of consciousness or not? Is it real or otherwise?
- N.—It is indescribable, in other words it can not be said of it that it possesses consciousness or is without it, is real or apparent.
- A. This is quite absurd, for on the one hand you say that it is nescience, and on the other you hold that it can neither be said to be possessed of conciousness, nor devoid of it, neither real nor unreal. It can be compared to a piece of gold adultrated with copper which can neither be said to be gold nor copper, but a mixture of both.
- N.—Just as the ether of a pot, the ether of a house, and the ether of a cloud appear to be distinct from the universal ether by virtue of being enclosed by the pot, the house Upanishad and the cloud, while in reality they are all identical with the universal ether, in like manner Brahma appears to the ignorant different in different persons and things by virtue of the intervention of maya, nescience, and antahkaran (the internal organ of thought) and also by being spoken of collectively and individually, while in reality He is one and the same in all. It is said in the Katha Upanishad "Just as heat pervades objects of various sizes and shapes, such as big and small, long, broad and round, and assumes the different forms of those objects, so does God pervade different untahkarnas and assumes their forms, but as a matter of fact He is distinct from them."
- A.—Even this assertion of yours is wrong. Just as you believe the pot, the house and the cloud, in the examples cited by you, to be distinct from ether, in like manner why do you not believe the material world—both in its causal and present visible forms—and the soul to be distinct from the Supreme Spirit, and the latter distinct from the former (i.e., the matter and the soul)?
- N.—" Just as heat pervades all objects and thereby appears to assume various forms, so does the Supreme Spirit by pervading the soul and matter appear to the ignorant as one possessed of form, but in reality. He is neither matter nor the soul."

अग्निर्भयेको भुवनं प्रविष्टो रूपं रूपं प्रतिरूपो चभूव। एकस्तथा सर्वभूतान्तरात्मा रूपं रूपं प्रतिरूपा बहिश्र । कठ उ० बह्री ५। मं० ९॥

then a thousand trays full of water are placed in the sun, a thousand different reflections of the sun are seen, but in reality the sun is one, and does not perish, move or spread when the trays get broken or their water moves or spreads, in the same manner Brahma is reflected in the antahkaran—this reflection is called chidahhása or the image of God. The soul exists as a distinct entity only so long as the antahkaran lasts, but the moment of the antahkaran, having attained perfect knowledge ceases to exist, the soul attains the nature of Brahma, i.e., becomes God. But as long as the soul is ignorant of its true nature which is Divine, and thinks that it is the Chidáhhása that enjoys, feels pleasure or pain, commits sinful or virtuous deeds or is subject to birth and death, it can not get freedom from the bondage of this world

A.—This illustration of yours is of no good. The sun has a form, so do the trays, and the water therein possess forms. Again, the sun is separate from the trays and the water therein and vice versa. These two facts alone make it possible for the sun to be reflected. Had all these been formless or had they not been seperate from each other, there would have been no reflection of the sun. God is Formless and being Omnipresent like ether nothing can be separate from Him, nor can He be separate from anything in the whole universe, nor can they i.e., God and the Universe) be one and the same, as the relation of one that pervades and one that is pervaded by exists between God and the world, in other words, when the pervader and the pervaded seen from the anwaya and Vyalirekashava1 point of view, they are united together and yet are always distinct from each other. For, if they be one, the relation of the pervader and the pervaded can not exist but it is clearly said in the Brihdáranyaka Upanishad that this relation does exist between God and the world. Again there can be no reflection of God because it is impossible for formless object to be reflected (in a transparent medium). As to your belief redarding Brahma that He becomes the soul through the intervention of Antahkaran, it is like a child's prattle, for Antahkarana is mutable, moveable and separate, whilst ^{1.} Anwaya in Logic means a "statement of the constant and invariable concomitance of the Hetu (middle term) and the Sadhya (major term) of an Indian syllogism.....Anwaya. in fact, corresponds to the universal A proposition of European logic 'All A is B' Vyatirekabhuva means an assertion of the concomitance of the absence of sadhya and the absence of Hetu, and corresponds to the converted A proposition 'All not-B is not-A'.....A cause or Hetu is said to be connected with its effect by Inwaya Vyatirekavyapti when both the affirmative and negative relations between the thing to be proved and the cause that proves can be equally asserted; such a Hetu alone makes the argument perfectly sound and incapable of refutation. This process of arriving at the Vyapti or universal proposition corresponds to the methods of Agreement and Difference in Mills' Logic."—1r.

Brahma is immutable and entire. Should you not believe Brahma and the soul to be diffrent from each other, how would you answer the following objection. Antahkaran being moveable, the part of Brahma which it would occupy would become devoid of consciousness, whilst the part where it shifts from would become possessed of knowledge, just as an umbrella cuts off the sunshine wherever it is carried, ceases to intercept it where it has been shifted from in like manner will Antahkaran by acting as an intercepting medium make Brahma in one moment ignorant and bound, and in the next wise and free. From the effect of the presence of as intervening medium—like Antahkaran. and Brahma being indivisible the whole of Brahma will become ignorant, which can never be true as He is All-knowledge. Again, whatever Brahma, through the medium of a certain Antahkaran, has seen, say, at Mathura, the same can not be re-called in Káshi (Berares) by Brahma, since He does not possess the same Antahkaran, as what has been seen by one can not be remembered by another. The chilabhas that sees a thing at Mathura is not the same as lives in Benares, and the Brahma that illuminates the chidábhás of Mathura is not the same as lives in Benares. If the very Brahma be the soul and not distinct from it, the soul ought to be Omniscient. If the reflection of Brahma be distinct, none should be able to re-call what he has seen or heard in the past. If you say that one can remember because Brahma is one and the same. We answer that pain or ignorance in one part (of Brahma) should affect the whole of Brahma. Thus by such illustrations you have represented the Eternal, Holy, All-wise, Ever-free, Indivisible Brahma as non-eternal, unholy, ignorant, and subject to bondage, and divisible.

- N.—Even a formless object can be reflected, just as ether (sky) is reflected in a mirror or in water and looks blue or dull gray, in like manner Brahma casts His reflection in all Antahkarnas.
- A.—No one can see ether with his eyes as it is altogether formless. How can a thing be reflected in a looking-glass or in water when it can not even be seen. Only a thing that possesses some form can look blue or deep gray, but never a formless oné.
- N.—What is it then that looks bluish on high and is reflected in a mirror?
- A.—It is the particles of dust and water (that have gone up from the earth, and of $Aymi^{1}$. If there were no aquous vapour above, where could the rain come from? Hence what looks like a tent (and over-spreads us) is in reality a spherically-shaped mass of aquous vapour. Just as fog, when looked at from a distance, appears thick and tent-like but gets thinner on approaching nearer, so does the watery vapour up in the sky.

^{1.} That state of matter whose properties are light and heat, etc. See Chapter III for further information on this subject.—Tr.

- N.—Are then the illustrations relating to a coil of rope and a snake and to things seen in dreams and the like, which have been adduced above by us, beside the point?
- A.—No, it is your understanding that is to blame, and this has already been pointed out. Prey tell us who it is that first falls a prey to ignorance?
 - N.—Brahma.
- A,—Is Brahma Omniscient or possessed of finite knowedge?
- N.—He is neither Omniscient nor is He possessed of finite knowledge, because Omniscience and its reverse can be predicated of him alone whose (psychic vision) is barred by a limiting medium ($Up\acute{a}dhi$).
- A.—Who is it that becomes subject to the influence of Upadhi?
 - N.—Erahma.
- A.—Then it is proved that Brahma can be both Omniscient and its reverse, why did you then take exception to this statement? If you contend that $up\acute{a}dhi$ is something that has no reality in existence, with whom then did this false conception originate?
 - N.—Is the soul identical with Brahma or not?
- A.—It is different from Brahma, for if it were the same as Brahma, no false conception could originate with Him? He, whose conceptions can be wrong, can never be All-truth.
- N.—We recognise no distinction between right and wrong, and all human utterance is devoid of actuality.
- A.—If all that you believe and say is false, how can you 'afford safe guidance?
- N.—We don't care whether we afford safe guidance or not. Conceptions of right and wrong originate entirely with us (and have no objective reality). It is the soul that is the witness and seat thereof.
- A.—If conceptions of right and wrong are purely subjective phenomena, you would be a thief and an honest man at one and the same time and, therefore, a very unsafe guide. For he alone is a trustworthy guide whose conceptions are correct, who speaks what is right and acts up to his convictions in accordance with what is right, and not one who is otherwise. Your statement being self-contradictory you can not be right.

- N.—Do you believe in the existence of the beginningless $M\acute{a}y\acute{a}$ that resides in and envelopes Brahma?
- A.—No, we do not, because you interpret Máyá into something which is not and yet appears to be. Only he whose mental vision is blurred will subscribe to this belief. It is impossible that a thing, which does not exist at all, should appear to exist, even as it is impossible to photograph the son of a barren woman. Besides, your view is opposed to the teachings of the Upanishads as is proved by the following passage of the Chhándogya Upanishad "(Do thou,) O dear son, (bear in mind) that the world has verily a material cause."
- N.—Would you refute the teachings of even scholars like Vasishta, Shankar and Nischaldás who were possessed of greater learning than you are? To me it appears that Vasishtha, Shankar, and Nischaldás could speak with greater authority.
 - A.—Are you yourself a well-read man or not?
 - N.—Yes I have read a little.
- A.—Alright then, try if you can establish the truth of the doctrine promulgated by Vasishtha, Shankar and Nischaldás, we will refute your arguments. He whose position is proved to be right, will be regarded the greater authority. If the position held by you in common with those teachers had been impregnable, you would have succeeded in confuting us in debate by producing the arguments advanced by them, and in that case your position would have been accepted as right. It is very likely that Shankaráchárya had taken up this position with a view to refute more successfully the beliefs of the Jainees, for many a selfish scholar in response to the requirements of expediency preach doctrines opposed to the dictates of his conscience. But if he really held beliefs like the identity of God with the soul, and the unreality of the external universe, his position was altogether wrong. Let us now examine the claims of Nischaldás to scholarship. He says in his book, called Vrittiprahlákar, that the oneness of God and the soul can be inferred from the fact of both of them being possessed of consciousness. An argument like this can be adduced only by men possessed of a poor intellect, because things possessing similar attributes are not necessarily identical, as points of dissimilarity may differentiate them. Just las the statement that Prithivi (solids) and Jala (liquids) being dead and inert, are identical can not be valid, in the same manner the contention of Nischaldás stated above is illogical. Because finitude and fallibility differentiate the soul from God, and omniscience and infallibility differentiate God from the soul; it is, therefore, clear that God and the soul are two distinct entities. Even as solidity and gandha (the property of exciting olfactory impulses) are attributes of Prithivi (solids) which distinguish it from Jala (liquids) which possess rasa (the property of exciting gustatory impulses) and fluidity, and therefore solids and liquids are not identical. In like manner, God and the soul on account of possessing dissimilar attributes, never were, nor are, nor shall ever be one. This will suffice to show the extent of Nischal Dás's learning. As regards Yoya Vashishtha, its author was a Neo-Vedantist. It could not have been written by Bálmika, Vasishta or Rám Chandra, for all of them were followers of the Vedic religion and could not therefore have written a book opposed to its teachings, nor could they have preached anti Vedic doctrines.

N.—Vyása is the author of Shárírira sútras which also inculcate the identity of God with the soul. For example he says

Vedánt
Shástra
The soul manifests itself after attaining its true nature which is Divine, because the word (Swa) self stands for its Divine nature."

- Vedánt Shástra IV, 4, 5. "Jaimini holds that the soul is one with God, because there are passages in the Upadishads which declare that the soul can attain to a state of sinless ness."
- Vedánt retains the attribute of consciousness alone in the state of salvation (hence is identical with Brahma) as there IV, 4, 6. are passages in the Brihidáranya'ra which declare that the soul is of the same nature as God."
 - (१) साम्पाद्याऽऽविभीवः स्वेन शब्दातु ॥ वेदान्तद०४ । ४ । १ ॥
 - (२) ब्राह्मेण जैमिनिरुपन्यासादिभ्यः॥
 - (३) चितितन्मात्रेण तदात्मकत्वादित्यौडुलोमिः ॥
 - (४) एवमप्युपन्यासात् पूर्वभावादविरोधं वादरायणः ॥
 - (५) अत एव चानन्याधिपतिः ॥ वेदान्तद्० अ० ४ । पा● ४ ॥

- (4). "Vyása holds that God and the soul are not different, because the passages like the above occur in the Upanishads."
- Vedánt regains his Divinity, he is no longer subject to the Shástra authority of a higher power, i.e., by virtue of his IV, 4, 9. Divinity he attains final beatitude and remains in the state of Emancipation as his own master as well as the Supreme Governor of the universe." (Now how would you explain these passages?)
- A.—You have wrongly translated these aphorisms. The following is their correct translation:—
 - (1). "So long as the soul does not cleanse all its impurities, and regain its prestine purity, it can not acquire super-human powers and attain eternal bliss through communion with the Divine Spirit that pervades the soul."
 - (2). "In like manner the great sige Jaimini holds that so long as the soul does not attain super-human psychic powers and free itself from the bondage of sin, it can not attain and enjoy eternal bliss."
 - (3) "The great Teacher Audulomi believes that when the soul is freed from all faults and imperfections, such as ignorance, attains purity and retains the attribute of consciousness alone, it establishes direct relationship with the All-pervading Deity."
 - (4). "The great sage Vyása holds that when a man attains a beatific state in this life by virtue of direct communion with God and acquisition of super-human psychic powers and absolute knowledge, he recovers his original pure self and enjoys extreme bliss."
 - (5). "When a yoyi has reached a stage at which all his volitional activity is directed towards righteousness alone, he attains to a state of constant communion with God and obtains the bliss of salvation. Then he is free and is his own master quite unlike what we see in this world of ours, wherein one man is placed above another." Had the interpretation of the above

I. I have used this word for want of a better one. Here the term Super-human is used to express those powers that are not attainable to man except through the practice of the highest form of yoga.—Tr.

aphorisms been different from what is given here, the following aphorisms would not have occured in the same book.

- Vedánt Shástra the Cosmos. Hence the soul is distinct from God could not be the author of the universe, for being prossessed of finite energy and knowledge it has not the power to build up the Cosmos. Hence the soul is distinct from God."
- (ii). "The soul and God are distinct from each other, as it has been declared by the Upanishads that they are different. Had it not been so, it would not be true that the soul attains bliss through communion with God Who is All-bliss and that God is the object of realization, whilst the soul seeks realization." The soul and God are, therefore, not identical.
- It having been declared by the Upanishads that God is distinguished from the soul and the primordial Vedánt matter on account of His possessing the attributes of Shástra I, ii, 22 Resplendences, Holiness, All-glory. Absence incarnate existence, Omnipresence, and of His being Unborn and Deathless, without the necessity of respiration, bodily existence and mind, and subtler than the soul which again is subtler than the primordial matter. On account of the character and attributes stated above God is distinct from both the soul and matter."
- (iv). "The Upanishads inculcate the union of the Omnipresent God with the soul, and of the soul with the Divine spirit. God and the soul are therefore distinct from each other as union can only be predicated of two distinct entities."
- (v). "God has been declared Ommipresent, (in the Upunishud) and because He pervades the soul, the soul which is pervaded is distinct from God that pervades it. This relation can be true only of two distinct entities. Just as God is distinct from the soul, in like

१-नेतरोनुपपत्तेः ॥ १ । १ । १६ ॥

२-भेदव्यपदेशाच ॥ १ । १ । १७ ॥

३-विशेषण भेदव्यपदेशाभ्यां च नेतरौ ॥ १।२।२२॥

४-अस्मिकस्य च तद्योगं शास्ति ॥ १ । १ । १९ ॥

५-अन्तस्तद्धमापदेशाः ॥१।१।२०॥ manner is He different from learned men, otherwise called Devas, because the latter enjoy the use of the senses, and manas, the earth and other material objects, space, the atmosphere and lumaries like the sun."

- (vii). "As God and the soul are two distinct entities, the

 Vedánt
 Vedán
- (viii). "The soul circumscribed by a material body can not be identical with God as the nature, attributes and characteristics of God can not be predicated of it,"
- (ix). "God is distinct from the soul as He pervades the Vedánt senses, the manas, the earth and other Shástra material objects, and the soul. This I, ii, 18. fact of God being Omnipresent is clearly stated in all the Upanishads."
- (x). "The soul encased in a bodily tenement is not God
 Vedánt
 Shástra
 I, ii, 20.

 "The soul encased in a bodily tenement is not Godfor they are essentially different from each other in nature."

Thus even the Sháririk Sútras¹ teach that God and the soul are distinct from each other in their very nature. In the same manner, it can be proved that there can be no Upakram (i.e., the issuing of the Universe from Brahma) and Upsanhára (i.e., the merging of the Universe into God at the time of Dissolution) as held by the Neo-Vedántists. When they recognise no other entity excepting God, it must be He alone then that is subject to creation and dissolution, but the Vedas and other authoritative scriptures declare him otherwise. This belief of their is, therefore, sacrilegious, for it is impossible that God Who is Unchangeable,

भेदव्यदेशाचान्यः॥१।१।२१॥

- ७-गुहां प्रविष्टावात्मानौ हि तद्दर्शनात् ॥१।२।११॥
- ८-अनुपपत्तेस्तु न ज्ञारीरः ॥ १।२।३॥
- ९-अन्तर्याम्यिधदैवादिषु तद्धर्भव्यपदेशात् ॥ १ । २ । १८ ॥
- १०--शारीरश्रोभयेऽपि हि भेदेनैनमधीयते ॥ १ । २ । २० ॥ व्यास-

म्निकृतवेदान्तस्त्राणि ॥

1. Another name for the Vedant Shastra.

Infinite, Holy, Eternal, Infallible, should become subject to change, creation and ignorance. Even at the time of dissolution God, (prakriti) primordial matter, and the soul continue to exist separately. Therefore the Neo-Vedántic theories of Creation and Dissolution are also false. There are good many other beliefs of theirs that are opposed to the teachings of the Shástras and do not stand the tests of reason and experience.

After this both the Jainees and the followers of Shankar exercised some influence on the religious thought of the country and there were discussions and debates between them. Three hundred years after Shank or there flourished in Ujjain a glorious potentate named Vikramálitya. He put down internecine warfare among the ruling Princes of India and established peace. Later on Raja Bhartri Hari acquired some proficiency in poetry and allied branches of literature, and in other departments of learning. He renounced the world and abdicated the throne, 500 years after Vikrama there flourished another king called Bhoja. He encouraged the study of Sanskrit Grammar to some extent, and patronized artistic poetry so much so that even a shepherd, named Kálidás, became the author of Raghuvansha. Whoever composed a fine verse and presented himself at His Majesty's Court was richly rewarded and honoured.

After this the kings and the aristocracy gave up the pursuit of knowledge altogether. Though the Shivites existed before Shankar's time and after the Váma Márga had had its sway, they had not then acquired much influence. From Vikram's time onward this sect began to gain in influence and power. The Shivites were split up into many sections, such as Páshupata, even as the Váma márgis were divided into ten sections such as Mahá Vidyá. These people raised Shankar to the position of an incarnation of Shiva. Sanyásis also embraced the Shiva faith. They also kept on good relations with the Váma márgis who took to the worship of Devi, the consort of Shiva, whilst Shivites started the worship of Mahádeva.

Both the Váma Márijis and Shivites besmear their bodies with ashes and wear rosaries, the beads of which are made of Ruiráksha tree, but the latter are not so much opposed to the Vedic teachings as are the former. The Shivites composed many verses like the following "Fie on him whose forehead is not besmeared with ashes, and who has not got a Rudraksh rosary round his neck. He should be hoycotted like an outcaste. He who wears 32 beads on the neck, 40 on the head, 6 in each ear, 12 round each wrist, 16 round each arm, one on the top of the head, and 108 next to the heart is verily like unto Lord Mahádevi.

Himself." The Sháktas share this belief. Later on the Váma Máryis and Shaivites combined together and introduced the worship of the male and female reproductive organs which are termed Jaládhári and Linga. These unblushing wretches did not feel the slightest shame in following these idiotic practices. It has been well said by a poet "The selfish when blinded by self-interest mistake diabolical deeds for good actions, and are not alive to their sinful character." They began to look upon the worship of stalks and stones and of the reproductive organs, as the sole means of attaining rightcous ends, wealth, the fulfilment of legitimate desires and even salvation. When after Raja Bhoju, the Jainees installed idols in their temples and began to frequent them for paying homage and adoration to the images, the diciples of these popes (Vámu Márgis and Shivites) began to follow their example. At about the same time in Western India, Mohammadans and followers of other alien religions poured into India, the popes composed verses like the following:-"Whatever may be the amount of pain inflicted, and even though the life be in jeopardy let not the language of the Yavanás be employed in speech. Let no one save his life by seeking refuge in a Jain temple, even though he be pursued by a mad elephant, for it is better to be killed by him than to set foot in a Jain temple."!

They began to preach such pernicious doctrines to their followers. When asked to quote chapter and verse from some authoritative scriptures they expressed themselves (willing and ready to do so). On being pressed they quoted passages from Markandeya Purana and recited pieces from Durgapath purporting to sing the glories of Devi (goddess).

In the reign of Raja Bhoja some Pundits wrote Markandeya and Shiva Puránas and gave out that Vyása was the author thereof. When this was brought to the notice of His Majesty, these Pundits had their hands chopped off by way of punishment. Further he issued an order that all works on poetry and other subjects should bear on their title pages the names of the authors and not of sages and seers (of yore). This is written in the historical work Sanjívaní of Raja Bhoja. This book is to be found with the Tivári Bráhmans of Bhind, a village in the Gwalior State. The Rao Sahib of Lakhuna and his minister Rám Dyál Chaubey have seen it with their own eyes.

न वदेद्यावनीं भाषां प्राणैः कण्ठगतैरिप । हस्तिना ताडचमानोऽपि न गच्छेज्जैनमन्दिरम् ॥

^{1.} The term Youanas is equally applied to the Greeks and the Mohammadans, etc.—Tr.

It is clearly written therein that Vyása composed 4,400 verses of the Mahábhárata, and his pupils added another 5,600. Thus there were in all 10,000 verses in the original Mahábhárat. In the time of Raja Vikramáditya, the number of verses rose to 20,000. Raja Bhoja says that in his father's time the number came up to 25,000 and at the time of writing the book under notice, when he was a middle aged man, it had risen to 30,000; if it went on increasing at that rate the Mahábhárat will in no time become a camel's load. He further says that if books like the Puránas were made in the name of the ancient sages and seers, the people of Aryavarta (India) would he steeped in superstition and thus being deprived of the benefits of the Vedic Religion would sink deep in degradation. This shows that king Bhoja had some idea of the Vedic teachings.

In the country ruled over by Raja Bhoja and in the neighbourhood there lived some very clever mechanicians who, as the Bhoja Prahandha says, "had constructed a machine resembling a horse in shape that could traverse 27½ koshas or about 55 miles an hour on land as well as in air. "Another mechanician had invented a fan that gave plenty of air and worked automatically."

If these two machines had been still existent, the Europeans would not have been inflated with so much pride.

In spite of the efforts of the popes their disciples continued their visits to the temples of the Jainees, they even began to attend Jain meetings wherein passages from the Jain scriptures were recited. The Jain popes began to inveigh the followers of the Pouránic popes into their nets. The Pouránic popes then bethought of themselves that unless they devised some means to stem the tide of conversion, their disciples would become Jainees. Upon this the Pouránic popes by mutual consultation came to the conclusion that like the Jainees they should also have their incarnations, temples, images and mythological books. For instance they devised—24 incarnations in place of Jain Tirthankars which likewise are 24 in number. The Jainees have Tantras and sub-tintras. The Pouránic popes wrote out 18 Puránas (and sub-puránas).

The Vaishnava sect took its birth 150 years after Raja Bhoja. The founder Shath shopa was the son of a professional prostitute. In his time the movement achieved some success. His घळेकया क्रोशदशैकमक्वः सुकृतिमो गच्छति चारुगत्या । बायु ददाति व्यजनं सुपुष्कलं विना मनुष्येण चलत्यजस्रम् ॥ भोज प्रबन्ध ॥ successor was Muniváhana the son of a scavenger. Him succeeded Yávanáchárya who was born in a Muhammadan family. The fourth was Rámánnja, a Bráhman by birth. He propagated this creed. The Shivites had the Shiva Parán, and the Shaktas their Devi Bhágvat Purán, so the Vaishnavites their Vishnu Purán,

The authors did not publish these books in their own names, but instead fathered their publications on sages and seers like Vyása fearing that no one would attach any weight to what was published in their own names. These books should appropriately have been named Navina (i.e., of recent date). But there is nothing to wonder at if a poor man named his son Maháráj Adhirája (Emperor), and if a thing of recent origin was named Sanátui (ancient). The contents of the Puránas bear on them the stamp of the internecine warfare of these sects.

Mark! It is written in the Devi Bhágvat Purána that a goddess named Shri, the mistress of Shripur, was the author of the universe. She also created Brahmá, Vishnu and Mahádeva. She willed and then rubbed her hands and lo! There was a blister out of which Brahmá was born. The goddess asked him to marry her. Brahmá replied "Thou art my mother, therefore it does not behave me to marry thee." This enraged the mother goddess and she reduced her son to ashes. She again rubbed her hands and produced another son in the same way. She named him Vishnu. The same proposal was made to him with the like result. He too was reduced to ashes. A third son was brought into being in the same way. She named him Mahádeva and made a proposal of marriage to him. Mahádeva replied "I can not marry thee, unless thou art metamorphosed into a different woman." She did the needful Then Mahadeva asked her "What do these two heaps of ashes signify?" The goddess replied "These are the mortal remains of thy brothers. They did not obey my orders and were therefore reduced to ashes." Mahad va replied "What shall I alone do? Bring them to life again and produce two other girls and let the three of us marry the three of them." The goddess did what was asked of her and thus the three couples were married. What a shame! The fellows did not marry mother but married their own sisters!!! Can this action be regarded morally justifiable?

Thereafter the goddess brought into existence Indra, &c., Brahmá, Vishnu, Rudru, Indru, were appointed as palanquin bearers (of the goddess). Many such yarns have been spun out (in this book).

It might be asked (of the Sháletas) "What was the body of the goddess like? Who were her parents? Who was the creator of that Shripur." Should they say back in reply that the goddess had no beginning, it could not be right because whatever is the product of combination of elements must needs have a beginning. If the marriage of a mother with her son be a sin, why should not the marriage between brothers and sisters be regarded likewise.

Just as in the Devi Bhágvat Parán, Mahádeva, Vishnu, Brahmá, etc., have been spoken of disparagingly whilst the goddess (Devi) has been exalted, in like manner in the Shiva Purán, the Devi, etc., have been held up to contempt. All these have been described therein as the servants of Mahádeva who is proclamed their Lord and Master.

Now if the wearing of the stones of a fruit and the besmearing of the body with ashes can lead to salvation, why! then, the donkeys and pigs and other animals who wallow in dust, and Bhils and other low-born men who wear strings of fruit-stones on their bodies are already saved.

- O.—In the Kálágnirudra Upanishad the besmearing of the body with ashes is enjoined. Is that false? Even the Veda commends this practice, because the words Tryáyusham Jamadagni occur in the text of the Yujur Veda. In the Puránas it is stated that the tree which grew out of the tears that ran from the eyes of Rudra was named Rudráksha. It is for this very reason that the wearing of Rudráksha is a meritorious act. Even the wearing of one Rudráksha absolves one from all sins, leads him to Heaven and the terrors of hell are as nought for him.
- A.—The author of Kálágnirudra Upanishad must have been one who was in the habit of besmearing himself with ashes, because passages like 'the first line traced with ashes (on one's forehead) represents the earth' which occur therein are manifestly absurd, for how is it possible that a line drawn with the hand every day should stand for the earth. As regards the Vedic text Tryayusham Jamalayni it does not relate to the wearing of Rulráksha or besmearing one's body with ashes. On the contrary it means "Do thou, O Lord, ordain that my eye sight may be preserved uninjured for 300 years and that I may also follow such rules of health as may help to preserve it." This interpretation of the Vedic text is supported by the Shatapatha Bráhman which says "Jamadagni does verily signify eye sight." How foolish it is to assert that a tree can grow out of tears streaming from an eye! Who can subvert the laws of nature as ordained by God? Every tree grows out of the seed assigned to it by the Supreme Spirit, and not otherwise. It therefore follows that only savages, who are little better than beasts would wear

Rudráksha, Tulsi, lotus buds, blades of grass, Sundal, and besmear their bodies with ashes

Thus Váma Márjis and Shivites are given to evil practices and are malicious. They do not even perform their (religious, and other,) duties. Whoever is a good man among them, he does not believe in these things and does righteous deeds. If, as they say, Rudrálishu and ashes scare away the minions of the Angel of Death, why are not policemen inspired with fright at their sight? When these things can not frighten even dogs. lions, snakes, scorpions, flies and mosquitoes, why should the hosts of the Angel of Death (Lord of Justice) dread their sight?

- O.—The Váma Máryis and Shivites are not good, but I suppose the Vaishnavites are so.
- A.—Their sect being opposed to the teachings of the Vedas they are worse still.
- O.—Why do you refute the shaiva and other creeds, they find spport in the following Vedic texts:-
- "We adore Rulra the wrathful." "Thou art Vishmu." "Adoration to Vishnu." "We pray to Ganesh, the Lord of Hosts." "We pay homage to the goddess Bhagvati." "We worship the Sun, the life of the universe—animate and inanimate."
- A.—These texts lend no support to Shuiva and other creeds. for Rudra means God, vital air, the soul and heat. The text relating to Rudra would mean that we should render obeisance to God Who is the Punisher of all evil doers, and should take proper food to keep up the animal heat in the body. Besides, wherever texts relating to Shiva are found in the Vedas, they mean that we should pay homage to the All-merciful God Who showers blessings on all. A Shaiva is really one who worships Shiva—the All-merciful Being; a Vaishnava is one who worships Vish m—the All-pervading God. A Ganpata is one who worships Garpati.— The Lord of Hosts (i.e., of the universe); a Bháyvata is one who sits at the feet of the muses. A Saurka is one who is the devotee of the All-pervading God, the Soul of the universe—animate and inanimate. Thus Rudra, Shiva, Vishnu. Gun tti, Súrya, con note God, and Bhagvati connotes truthful speech.

These various Pouránic texts have risen owing to the wrong interpretation of the Vedic texts (quoted above) in the same manner, as the following story runs: - A faqir had two disciples who shampooed him every day. One undertook to massage the right foot and the other the left. One day it so happened that one of the disciples had gone out shopping, while the other was at his post. In the meantime the factive changed his side and it so happened that the foot in charge of the disciple, who was away, fell on the top of the other foot that was assigned to the disciple that was present. The latter took a stick and aimed a blow at the offending foot. The factor cried out "Oh you wicked one! What have you done?"

I. It is the holy basil held in reverence by the Vaishnavites.—Tr.

The disciple replied "Why has the other foot fallen on the one that I am kneading?" Just at that moment the other disciple returned home and began to knead the foot assigned to him and found that it was swollen. He asked the fazir as to what had happened to that foot. The fazir related the whole story. This fellow without uttering a word or making a sign took up a stick and struck a heavy blow at the other foot. The fazir screamed aloud and both the disciples fell to battering his feet. When there was a great uproar, a large number of people crowded in and asked the fazir what the matter was. A sensible man from among the crowd rescued the fazir, and expostulated with the foolish disciples thus "Look you here! Both these feet belong to the body of your preceptor. If you knead them, it is he alone that is benefited thereby, and if you cause injury to them, it is he again who suffers pain."

Just as the two disciples in the story made fools of themselves, likewise the Shivites, Sháktus, Vaishnavites and the like revile one another, because they are ignorant of the true meanings of the words Shiva, Rudra, Vishnu, etc., which, as is set forth in the first chapter of this book, are the different names of the Immutable God Who is Self-existent, All-wise and Blissful.

These men of little understanding do not use their brains and never give the least thought to the matter, otherwise they will soon find out that all such terms as Shiva, Rudra and Vishmu connote One Supreme, Incomparable, Omniscient God, the Controller of the universe, on account of His possessing multitudinous attributes. Would not the wrath of God descend on such people?

Now mark the wonderful trickery of the Chakránkitas and Vaishnavites!

तापः पुण्दं तथा नाम माला मन्त्रस्तथैव च । अमी हि पश्च संस्काराः परमैकान्तहेतवः ॥ अतप्तन्ति वदामो अञ्जेत । इतिश्रतेः ॥ रामार्जपटलपद्धतो ॥

The Rámánuja Patal Paddhati says:-

"Branding the body with red hot iron, making the mark of a trident on the forehead wearing a rosary, bearing a name (ending in Das) and receiving the knowledge of the mystic word are the five holy acts that lead to salvation." These people brand the uppermost part of their arms with a red hot iron marked with the sign of a conch-shell, a discus, a mace, or a lotus, then quench the iron in a vessel containing milk. Some even drink that milk. Now it is clear that the person drinking that milk must be tasting human flesh. These people hope to reach God by resorting to such practices. They argue that no one can reach God without branding his body in the way indicated above, for till then the devotee is raw (spiritually unregenerated).

Just as every one is afraid of a police constable in uniform, so the minions of Yama (Angel of death) dare not approach one who is branded with signs which make them out to be Vishnu's devotees. They further say "It is a meritorious act to mark the forehead with the sign of a crosier, to brand the body with the signs of conch shell, a discus, a mace, and to wear a rosary whose beads are made of lotus stalk. These symbols inspire the Angel of death and earthly potentates with awe. It is also a good thing to bear a name ending in Das (servant), such as Náráyan Das, Vishmu Das, and to be initiated into the knowledge of the mystic words such as "Adoration to Náráyana," This is for ordinary people. The mystic verse for rich and respectable people is "May we worship the feet of Náráyana. Adoration to the Great Náráyana, adoration to the great Rámánuja." Verily this is quite business like. The wording of the mystic verse varies with the social position of the initiate. The Chakránkits believe that these five holy acts (Sanskárs) are the means of salvation. Just as Vámá Máryees have five Makáras (so-called holy practices beginning with the letter M.), likewise the Vaishnavites have five Sanskars (so-called holy practices beginning with the word S).

The Vedic mantras, that they adduce in support of their belief as to branding the body with the signs of a discus, and a crosier etc., when rightly translated would stand as:—

Rig Veda
1X, 83, 1.

"O Lord Thou Who art the Protector of the universe and the Veda, and art Omnipotent, Omnipresent and

दोहा -- बाना बड़ा दलाल का, तिलक छाप और माल ।

यम डरपं काल कहे, भय माने भूपाल ॥ ओं नमो नारायणाय
श्रीमस्नारायणचरणं शरणं प्रपद्ये ॥ श्रीमते नारायणाय नमः ॥
श्रीमते रामानुजाय नमः ॥

Holy in nature cannot be approached by a human soul which has not been purified by means of thorough control of the senses, truthful speech, subjugation of the animal in man, conquest of the lower self, the practice of yout, association with good men (all these constitute Tapa) and is therefore not spiritually regenerated. It is only those, whose souls have been cleansed through righteous conduct and devotion to virtue, that can see Thee Who art All-holy."

"Only those who lead a thoroughly righteous life can attain Rig Veda to the realization of the All-glorious, Supreme IX, 83, 2. Spirit."

Now it is worth considering how Rámánuja and others can construe these texts to sanction the Chumkránkit creed. After this how could they be regarded learned. Had they been so, they would not have put upon these texts such an impossible construction, for in these texts the words atapta tanu (which would mean unbranded body according to the Chakránkitic interpretation) occur and not atapta bhujá (unbranded arm). Again the words atapta tanu comprehend the entire body from top to toe. the Chakrankitas take the word tapa to mean branding with fire, they may shove themselves into a furnace and burn their entire bodies, even then they will be acting against the spirit of this text. For in it tupu is stated to be the performing of righteous deeds like veracity in speech. The following verse from the Taitreya "Perfect purity of heart, upanishad also supports this view. truthfulness in word, deed and thought, restraining the mind from rioting in evil, keeping the senses under perfect control, i.e., the employment of the mind and sense organs for the practice of righteousness, the study of the Vedas and other books of true knowledge, and the moulding of conduct in accordance with the Vedic infiunctions constitute tapa." The burning of the body by branding it with red hot iron is not tara. It is a remarkable fact that the Chakránkitas pose as Vaishnavits of a very superior order but do not think of the origin of their sect and of the evil practices connected therewith. Their founder was a man named Shathakopa.

पवित्रं ते वितंतं ब्रह्मणस्पते प्रश्चगित्राणि पर्ये पि विश्वतः।

कार्यकृति तदामो अञ्जेते शृतास इद्धंन्तस्तत्समाञ्चत ॥

तपोष्पवित्रं वितंतं दिवस्पदे ॥ ऋ० मं० ९। स० ८३। मन्त्र १। २॥
ऋतं तपः सत्यं [तपः श्रुतं तपः शान्तं] तपो दमस्तपः स्वाध्यायस्तपः॥
तैतिरी० प्र० १० अ०८॥

It is written in the authoritative works of the Chakrankitas and in the Bhaktu Mál whose author was the bard Nálhá "The seer (Shathakopa) wove winnowing baskets and earned his living by selling them." He was born of a hore; it is very likely that when he wanted to read with Bráhmans, he was refused this privilege, thereupon (having been exasperated) he founded the Chakránkita sect and introduced the use of marks on the forehead and started the practice of branding the arms, all this was opposed to the teachings of the Shástrus and was evolved out of his own imagination. He was succeeded by his disciple Municaluma who was the son of an outcaste. His chief disciple was Yávanáchárya who was a Muhammadan by birth. Yávanáchárya is sometime corrupted into Yámunáchárya. After him Rámánuja who was a Bráhman by birth, was converted to this faith. His predecessors had written some (sacred) works in the local dialects. Rámánuja devoted sometime to the study of Sanskrit, was the author of a few books in Sanskrit verse and of a commentary on the Sháririka Sútras and the Upanishads which gave an interpretation of these books quite contrary to what was given by Shankar. He criticised Shankar a great deal. For instance, Shankar holds that the soul and the Divine Spirit are identical; nothing besides God has: an existence in fact. The phenomenal world is an illusion and is. therefore, unreal and perishable. Rámánnju on the contrary believes that God, the soul and matter are eternally co-existent. Shankar is wrong in so far as he says that the soul and the primordial matter as distinct from God do not exist Rámánuja's belief, that these three entities are eternally coexistent and yet the soul and God circumvented by Máyá (matter) are one,1 is altogether absurd. The denial of the freedom of will and a belief in the efficacy of tiluka (making a specific mark on the forehead) and of wearing a rosary, and in idol worship. and other evil doctrines and practices are found in the Chakránkit faith. The creed of Shankar is not so much opposed to the Vedic teachings as that of the Chalcránkits.

O.—With whom did idol worship originate?

A.—It originated with the Jainees.

O.—Why did the Jainees start idol worship?

A.—They did it out of their ignorance.

O.—The Jainees contend that when one looks at an idol which is symbolical of deep meditation and peaceful repose, one's soul is illumined by these spiritual influences.

1. This is called Vishishtadvaita,

विक्रीय शूर्वं विचचार योगी।।

- A.—The soul is possessed of consciousness, while the idol is dead and inert. Do you mean to say that the soul should also lose its consciousness and become lifeless like the idol. Idol worship is a fraud. The Jainees were the authors of this mode of worship. Their beliefs will be examined in the 12th Chapter.
- O.—It seems that the Sháktas have not borrowed thie practice from the Jainees, for their idols are not like those of the Jainees.
- A.—It is true that the Sháleta, idols are not like the Jain ones. Had they made idols resembling Jain idols in every detail, they would have become Jainees. It is for this reason that they dressed images totally different from those of the Jainees, for the Vaishnavites and others deemed it their duty to oppose the Jainees and vice versa. The Jain idols were always naked and represented a being who was seated in contemplative mood and had renounced the world, while on the contrary the Vaishnava idols symbolized gods having by their sides goddesses, who were dressed out in fine style and excited lascivious thoughts by their lewid charms and licentious looks. The Jainees never blow conche-shells, nor ring bells (at the time of worship), while the Vaishnavites (and others) make a tremendous noise (by blowing conche—shell and beating drums, etc.). It was thus that the disciples of the Vaishnavites and the like vily popes escaped from the clutchs of the Jainees and were ensnared into the nets spread out by these people. They also composed many books, which are replete with incredibly absurd stories, in the name of the great sters like Vyása. They named them Puránas (ancient books) and began to read out select portions from them. They then began to practise wonderful frauds and trickery. One of these popes would take an idol made of stone, conceal it in a mountain cave or a secret recess in a jungle or bury it in the ground. After this was done, he would proclaim to his disciples that Mahádeva, Párvati, Rádhá, Krishna, Sitá, Rám, Lakshmi, Náráyana, Bhairara, Hanumán, or some other god or goddess had visited him in his dreams and informed him that he or she was in such and such place, commanded him to get him or her (out of that place), install in a temple and become his (or her) priest. If these demands were complied with, he or she would grant him his heart's desires. The ignorant people who had more money than brains' would hear such stories and believe them to be true, they would enquire of him as to the exact site where the god or goddess was to be found. At this the pope would answer "The idol can be found in this mountain or that jungle, should you desire it I could lead you to the place."

Thereupon those fools would accompany that scoundrel to the place, find the idol and being struck with astonishment fall at the feet of the pope and exclaim "The god is indeed very gracious unto you. Take the idol home and we will build him a temple wherein the idol may be installed, you shall be his priest and we shall also gain our hearts desires by paying our adoration to him." When the trick played by one of the popes was successful, the others followed his example, had recourse to jugglery and imposture and installed idols with a view to earn their livelihood.

- O.—God being Formless can not be contemplated. Idols are, therefore, adsolutely needed. Where is the harm if we stand before an idol with folded palms, think of God and recite His name?
- A.—God being Formless and Omnipresent cannot have an image. If the sight of an idol puts one in mind of God, why can not this wonderful creation which comprehends the earth, water, fire, air, and vegetation and a hundred and one other things? Can not one think of God when he looks at the earth and the mountains which are wonderfully constructed, and out of which human beings fashion idols? It is altogether wrong to say that the sight of an idol makes one think of God. This would mean that when the idol is out of sight, the devotee would not think of God and, consequently when all alone, may succumb to the temptation of committing theft, adultery and the like sins. Believing as he does that there is no one to witness his actions, he would not scruple to commit the most degrading sins. are some of the evils that result from the worship of idols. Now mark the difference! He, who has no faith in idols and believes that the Omnipresent, Omniscient and Just God pervades the whole Universe, can not even harbour evil thoughts in his mind leave alone committing sins, because he knows that God witnesses all actions—good and bad—and that He is never away from him even for one moment. He is fully aware of the fact that if he committed a sin-in word, deed or thought-he can not but be punished by a Just Providence.

Merely taking the name of God is of no use, even as the repetition of the word sujur does not give a sweet taste to the mouth, nor does the repetition of the word Neem (Melia azadiracta) impart a bitter taste to the palate. The sensations of sweetness and bitterness are produced only when sweet and bitter substances are brought in contact with the tongue.

O.—Is it then a mistake to take the name of the Lord? The Puranas assign great merit to this act.

- A.—Your mode of taking the name of the Lord is erroneous and is not commendable.
 - O.—Why is our mode erroneous?
 - A.—Because it is anti-Vedic.
- O.—Pray tell us what the Vedic mode of taking the name of the Lord is.
- A.—It is this. Take for instance the name Nyáyakári (Just) which is one of His many names. Contemplate what it connotes. Even as God dispenses justice to all and is free from the least taint of partiality, so should you conform your conduct to the requirements of justice and always refrain from doing anything unjust. The contemplation of even one name of the Deity in this way conducts to one's spiritual welfare
- O.—We too know that God is Formless, but we believe that He incarnated as Shiva, Vishuu, Ganesha, Shiya and Devi, etc., and also appeared in flesh as Ráma, Krishuu, etc. That is why the images of the Deity are extant. Would you say that even this is wrong?
- A.—Of course we would, for the Veda declares God to be "Unborn Indivisible, Formless," etc., and, therefore, not subject to birth and death and the necessity of incurnation. The doctrine of the incarnation of God can not stand even the test of reasoning, for He, who pervades the universe like ether, is Infinite, Invisible, and is not susceptible to pleasure and pain, can not be contained in a drop of semen or in the uterus or in a bodily tenement.

Coming into and going out can only be predicated of a finite being. To say that the Immobile, Invisible God, Who pervades every particle of matter, can take on flesh is as absurd as it would be to assert that the son of a barren won an was married and her grandson was seen.

- O.—Being Omnipresent He pervades even an idol. Why is it not then right to contemplate and worship God in any object whatsoever, as it has been said "God resides neither in wooden objects, nor in stones, nor in things made of clay. The attainment of the Deity is possible only through faith God is to be found in any object which one may choose to pin his faith to"
- A.—Being All-pervading He can not be imagined to exist in any particular object only. To hold to the contrary would be tentamount to believing that the Sovereign Lord of the earth rules over a small cottage to the exclusion of his whole Enpire and would be an insult to him. In like manner, it is a blasphemy against God to imagine Him as existing in one particular object only. If you believe Him to be Omnipresent, why do you pluck flowers from the garden and offer them to the idol, make a thin paste of Sandal wood and apply this to it, burn incense, beat drums and cymbals, and blow trumpets before it? pervades your hands, why do you then stand before it with folded palms? He is in your head, why should you then prostrate yourself before the image? He is in foods and drinks, why should you then offer them to it? He is in water, why should you then bathe it? God pervades all these things. What do you worship, the pervader or the pervaded.? If the former, why do you then offer flowers, etc., to images made of stone or wood? If the latter, why do you then lay a false claim to the worship of God? Why don't you say that you worship stalks and stones etc., which is the bare truth? Now tell us, whether your faith is always right or not? If it be so, you will have to believe that God is subject to the power of your faith. Why don't you then convert clay into gold and silver, pebbles into diamonds and emaralds, etc., the sea foam into pearls, water into clarified butter, milk and curd. etc, and dust, into fine flour by the power of your faith? never desire sorrow why are you then afflicted with it? always desire happiness, why can you not always obtain it? Why don't the blind recover their sight through faith? You never desire death, why should you then die? Your faith then is not a true faith. True faith consists in believing things what they actually are-believing that fire is fire and water is water. To hold the opposite view is the reverse of true faith. True cognition of objects is attained only when we know things as they really are, The reverse of it is this false knowledge.

- O.—The fact is that so long as you do not invoke a god by means of Vedic Mantras he does not make his appearance in the image worshipped. He comes as soon as he is summond and leaves the moment he is requested to depart.
- A.—If as you say that the god comes into the image when invoked, why does not the idol show signs of consciousness and why does not the image also leave when the god is asked to depart? Whence does it come and where does it go? The fact of the matter is that the All-pervading Spirit can neither come into an idol, nor leave it. If your maintras are so efficacious that you can summon God, why can you not infuse life into your dead son by न काष्टे विद्यते देवो न पाषाणे न मृण्मये। भावे हि विद्यते देवस्तस्माद्भावो हि कारणम्॥ the force of the very same mantrus. Again why can you not bid the soul depart from the body of your enemy?

The truth is that the popes trade upon the creduality of unsophisticate people like you. There is not a single word in the Vedu to support idol worship and the belief that God can be sum noned and bidden to depart (at the will of the devote).

- O.—Here are some Vedic Muntrus that support idol workship etc., why do you then assert to the contrary?
- "May the vital airs enter it (the idol) and reside there is in ease for long. May the senses enter it and remain therein for long. May the Supernal Soul enter it and stay therein for long."
- A.—You betray woeful ignorance when you make this assertion. Why do you not use your understanding a little? These texts are not at all found in the Vedus. They are to be found in the apocryphal Tantra books of the Vánu Máryis.
 - O.—Are the Tantras then mythical?
- A—Undoubtedly they are so. Just as there is not a single verse in the Vedus to sanction invocation of the Deity and vitalization of the idol, likewise there is nothing to indicate that it is right to invoke idols, to bathe them, to install them in temples and apply sandal paste to them.
- O.—If the Vedas do not explicitly sanction idol-worship, they do not condemn the practice either. It they do condemn it, the inference is clear that the practice must have existed in ancient times, for it has been said "Only that can be condemned which prevails."
- A.—Of course there is no sanction for this practice (in the Veda and the Shástras), but on the other hand it is positively condemned thus:—
- (1) "They are enveloped in darkness, in other words, are steeped in ignorance and sunk in the greatest depths of misery who worship the uncreated, eternal purriti—the material cause of the world—in place of the All-pervading God, but those who worship visible things born of the prakriti, such as the earth, trees, bodies (human and the like),

प्राणा इहागच्छन्तु सुखं चिरं तिष्ठन्तु स्वाहा । आत्मेहागच्छतु सुखं चिरं तिष्ठतु स्वाहा । इन्द्रियाणीहागच्छन्तु सुखं चिरं तिष्ठन्तुस्वाहा ॥ १-अन्धन्तमः प्रविश्चन्ति येऽसम्भृतिग्रुपासते । ततो भूय इव ते तमो य उ सम्भूत्या रताः ॥ यद्ध० अ० ४० मं• ९ ॥ in place of God are enveloped in still greater darkness, in other words, they are extremely foolish, fall into an awful hell of pain and sorrow, and suffer terribly for a long time."

- (2) "The Formless Supreme Spirit that pervades the Yajur Veda universe can have no material representation, likeness XXXII, 3 or image."
- (3) "Do thou offer thy worship to the self same Brahma (All-pervading God) who transcends the power of speech and is the source thereof by virtue of His being Omnipotent. and is the support of the Universe. No other Being is worthy of adoration."
- (4) "Do thou offer thy worship to the self same Brahma who can not be comprehended by the human mind and yet is cognisant of the inner workings of the mind. Do thou never worship the soul and the intellect in place of God."
- Kenopanishad be seen with eyes, and yet, He it is from whom the power of sight is derived. Do thou never worship the sun, the fire and the lightening and other material objects which are distinct from Him."
- (i) "Do thou offer thy worship to the self same Brahma who is not the object of auditory perception, and yet, He it is who is the bestower of power of hearing. Do thou never worship sound etc. in place of the Lord.'

२-न तस्य प्रतिमा अस्ति ।। यज्ञ० अ० ३२ । मं० ३ ॥

- यद्वाचानभ्युदितं येन वागभ्युद्यते ।
 तदेव ब्रह्म त्वं विद्धि नेदं यदिद्यपासते ॥
- ४ यन्मनसा न मनुते येनाहुर्मनो मतम्। तदव ब्रह्म त्वं विद्धि नेदं यदिद्रमुपासते॥
- ५ यश्वश्चषा न पश्यति येन चक्षूषि पश्यन्ति । तदंव ब्रह्म त्वं विद्धि नेदं यदिदम्रपासते ॥
- ६ यच्छोत्रेण न शृणोति येन श्रोत्रामिद ५ श्रुतम्। तदेव ब्रह्म त्वं विद्धि नेदं यदिदम्रपासते ॥ केनोपनिषदः ॥
- 1. i.e., let not thy soul be held in bondage by the power o. sweet and seductive speech.—Tr.

(7) Do thou offer thy worship to the self sames Brahma who is not influenced by the nervauric forces and yet is the director thereof. Do thou never worship the atmosphere in place of the Lord (which is distinct from Him),"

It is clear therefore that idol worship is interdicted (in the Veda and the Shástra).

Prohibition applies to deeds that have been done as well as to those that have not been done, the first named kind may be illustrated thus. A man is sitting somewhere and he is asked to leave the place. The last named may be illustrated as follows:

(A father says to his son) "O my Son! Do thou never steal, nor jump into the well, nor associate with the wicked, nor remain without learning." God has thus interdicted practices which were within the purview of His knowledge, though not then within the knowledge of men. Hence the worship of stalks and stones and so forth is absolutely prohibited.

O.—Well, if idol worship be not a meritorious act it is not a sin any how.

- A.—(Human) Acts are of two kinds only:—injunctions—i e, acts like veracity in speech that have been positively enjoined by the Vedas and prohibitions—i e, acts like mendacity that have been positively prohibited by the Vedas. Just as it is a righteous act to do what has been enjoined by the Vedas and a sin not to do it, so it is sinful to do what has been forbidden and righteous not to do it. If you resort to practices like idol worship which have been interdicted by the Vedas why then are you not a sinner."
- O.—Mark! The Vedus are eternal. The practice of Idol worship could not have existed in remote antiquity. At that time the gods were visible. This practice originated with the authors of the Tantras and Paránus. When the knowledge and mental capacity of men suffered diminution, they found it hard to contemplate the Deity. Such men can ofcourse fix their minds on idols only, hence idol worship is meant for the ignorant, even as a man can get to the top of a house only if he uses all the staircases in the house. Should he try to do without the staircases, he could never succeed in his object. Idol worship is therefore the first step. When after worshipping images for a length of time the devotee will gain in (divine) knowledge and in purity of heart, he will then be fitted for divine meditation. Just as a marksman acquires skill in his art by shooting at the target and by continued practice learns to hit smaller objects, in like manner, one who worships the visible symbols of the Deity will of course in course of time attain to the realization of the abstract Deity. Little girls play with dolls only so long as they do not actually get married. For these reasons idolworship is not an evil practice.

A.—When it is held that only those acts are righteous that are sanctioned by the Vedus, while those that have been interdicted by them are sinful, idol worship is a sin even from your standpoint. Whoever accepts as authoritative books whose teachings are opposed to the Vedus may not inappropriately be athiest Mann says "Whoever reviles, rejects, dishonours or contravenes the teachings of the Vedas Manu II, rt. is called an athiest." Whatever books have been written by low, despicable people who are opposed to the Vedas drag down the world to the lowest depths of misery and are therefore useless and false. They further envelop the world in dark ignorance and are the cause of 95, 96. great misery in this world as well as the next." All books whose teachings are opposed to the Vedus gain publication and enjoy an ephemeral existence as they do not inculcate eternal principles. It is useless and wrong to believe in them " All the sages from Brahmá down to Jaimini have held that righteous conduct consists solely in rejecting all that is opposed to the Vedas and in practising whatever has been enjoined by them, the reason being that the Vedas expound truth and nothing but truth, while all books like the Tantras and Puránas that are replete with anti-Vedic teachings are false and, therefore, the worship of idols which they inculcate is likewise a sin. never gain knowledge by the worship of material objects, on the contrary they forget even what they have previously acquired. Knowledge is increased by serving the learned and by associating with them-not by image worship. Can God ever be contemplated through the worship of stalks and stones? Certainly not. Idol worship can not be compared with a staircase. It may more

यत्प्राणेन् न प्राणिति येन प्राणः प्रणीयते ।

तदेव ब्रह्म त्वं विद्धि नेदं यदिदम्रुपासते ॥ केनोपिनषिदि ॥

नास्तिको वेदनिन्दकः ॥ मनु० २ । ११ ॥

या वेदवाद्याः स्मृतयो याश्र काश्र कुदृष्टयः ।

सर्वास्ता निष्फलाः प्रेत्य तमोनिष्ठा हि ताः स्मृताः ॥

उत्पद्यन्ते च्यवन्ते च यान्यतोन्यानि कानिचित् ।

तान्यवीकालिकतया निष्फलान्यनृतानि च ॥ मनु० अ० १२ ॥

९५ । ९६ ॥

appropriately be looked upon as a deep ditch, whoever falls into it is hacked into pieces, can never come out of it and even dies there. Undoubtedly the acquisition of true knowledge and cultivation of habits of truthfulness and the like virtues by association with pious and learned men of the ordinary stamp as well as with learned Yo, is of the highest order constitute steps that lead to the realization of the Great God, even as a ladder takes one to the upper story of a house. No one has vet become a learned man through the worship of idols, on the contrary most of the idolworshippers have remained in ignorance and wasted their precious lives and died (in despair). Moreover, all those who worship idols now and will do so in future will die without enjoying the fruits of (human) life which are the practice of righteousness, acquisition of wealth, realization of legitimate desires and attainment of salvation. Idol worship can not be likened to target shooting. Association with pious and learned men and a study of the laws of nature constitute the seal target, by practising at which one can reach God by gradual steps. Nor is the worship of images like playing with dolls. Whereas the learning of the alphabet and good habits may fitly be compared to playing with dolls and is, therefore, the first step towards the realization of God. Bear in mind that whoever receives the right sort of training and culture will also, in due course of time, reach God, his true Master,

- O.—Mind can be concentrated on a material object, but it is difficult to rivet it on an immaterial one, hence the worship of idols is justifiable.
- A.—No, the concentration of mind on a material object is impossible, for it can grasp it at once and after mastering all the details wanders over fresh objects. On the other hand, in the case of Immaterial, Infinite God, do what it will, the mind will never be able to comprehend Him. God being Indivisible the mind can not wander it, contemplates His nature, attributes, characteristics and being beatified is perfectly focussed. Had it been possible to concentrate the mind on a material object, all the people of the world would have been able to concentrate their minds, beatise if remains engrossed in worldly objects such as other mind one's wile, children and friends and wealth, but no one can concentrate his mind except on an abstract Being, because He is Indivisible. Hence idol worship is a sin. (This is the first argument against idol worship).
 - 2. Millions of Rupees are spent in constructing temples for idol worship. This leads to poverty and indolence.

- 3. Free and promiscuous mixing together of the sexes in the temples leads to adultory, internecine quarrels and the spread of disease (contagious).
- 4. The idol worshippers regard this mode of worship as the sole means of the practice of righteousness, the acquisition of wealth, the fulfilment of legitimate desires and the attainment of salvation. They, therefore, give up all active work and waste away their precious lives.
- 5. Since the people worship idols with different names, forms and characteristics, they have no unity of faith and their mutually antagonistic beliefs and practices create bad blood in the country and lead it to its ruin.
- 6. They depend upon the idols for the defeat of their enemies and the triumph of their arms, and, therefore, do not exert themselves. The result is that they are defeated, and government of the country, independence and wealth with it attendant pleasures, fall to the lot of their enemies. They are themselves robbed of their independence and reduced to the condition of a subject race, suffer in a hundred different ways like the pony of the baker and the donkey of the potter.
- 7. If some one were to say to another person that he would put a stone in his name or place, he will feel angry and will most likely abuse him or hit him back. In like manner the ignorant peole who take a stone to be the symbol of the Deity and worship idols in place of God will surely have the Divine wrath visited upon them.
- 8. Labouring under mistaken notions they peregrinate from temple to temple and from one country to another, endure untold miscry, lay axe at the root of their worldly and spiritual welfare, suffer at the hands of thieves and are duped by thuss.
- 9. Money is given away to wicked priests who spend it on debauchery and the gratification of the beastial appetites, on flesh and wine and in fomenting quarrels and in promoting litigation. Thereby the donor forfeits his happiness and is pained beyond measure.
- 10. These people lay themselves open to the charge of ingratitude by not showing due respect to their parents - and other persons worthy of esteem and worshipping idols instead.

- 11. When those idols are stolen by thieves or are dashed into pieces (by some conoclast), they set up a loud lamentation.
- 12. The priestesses and priests are corrupted on account of illicit intercourse with other men and women and thus forfeit their connubial felicity.
- 13. The servants do not properly obey their masters and they turn against each other and are thereby ruined.
- 14. The soul by constant contemplation of dead and inert matter loses the power of sound judgment, because the material properties of the object contemplated (such as a stone) are transmitted to the soul through the manus.
- 15. God has created fragrant substances like the flowers to purify air and water and to prevent disease. If the priests were not to pluck the flowers the purificatory process would go on for an indefinitely long period, air and water would be purified and the flowers would continue shedding fragrance till the time of their natural decay. They cut off their useful career in the prime of their life. The flowers get mixed with mud, are decomposed and emit stench instead of sweet odour. Has God created flowers and other odoriferous substances for making an offering of them to the idols?
- 16. Sandal wood, unhusked grain and the like offerings get mixed with water and mud, and are then thrown into a drain or a cistern where they putrify and give off such offensive odours as issue from human excremence. Thousands of tiny creatures fall into that putrifying liquid and die and cause it to stink still more.

These are a few evils caused by the worship of idols. It should, therefore, be given up by all righteous men. Whoever worshipped idols, worship it, or will do so in future could not have, nor can they now escape from the effects of these evils.

O.—Is no form of idol worship parmissible? What is then meant by the expression worship of the five gods which has been in common use since times immemorial. Does it not imply the worship of the five gods called Shiva, Vishnu, Ambiká, Gunesha and Súrya.

- A.—No form of idol worship is permissible, but the worship of the five living gods is our duty. This expression Pancha Yajna or the worship of the five gods—has a very good meaning, but the ignorant fools have degraded it and construed it to mean something altogether different from what was originally intended. The worship of Shiva and the like gods has already been condemned. But we shall now explain what is meant by the worship of the five yods which is sanctioned by the Vedas. This may be termed worship of gods that are truly worthy of reverence. "The first object of worship is the mother. It is the duty of her sons and daughters to serve this goddess with all their heart and all their soul, and keep her happy. Let her never be treated harshly." "The second object of worship is the father god should also be served like the mother." The third object of worship is the teacher who bestows knowledge (upon his pupils). This god should also be served with utmost devotion." fourth object of worship is the altruistic teacher of humanity who is learned, deeply religious, upright, well-wisher of all and goes from place to place preaching the truth and thereby making the people happy." "The fifth object of worship is the husband for the wife and the wife for the husband." These are the five living gods who bring a man into being and bring him up, and it is through them that he gains true knowledge, sound culture and is instructed into the righteous principles of conduct. It is the worship of these that leads one to God. Whoever does not worship them and worship idols instead is a transgress ar of Vedic principles.
- O.—What harm would there be if people worship these as well the idols?
- A—True happiness consists solely in giving up altogether the worship of idols and in serving mother and other living gods. It is an awful shame that people should have given up the worship of the living gods that impart happiness and have taken to the अतिथिर्गृहानागच्छेत् ॥ अथर्व । कां० १५।व०१३। मं०६ ॥ अर्चत प्रार्चत नियमेघासो अर्चत ॥ ऋग्वेदे ॥ त्वमेव प्रत्यत्तं ब्रह्मासि त्वामेव प्रत्यत्तं ब्रह्म वदिष्यामि ॥ तैतिरीयो-पनि० ॥ बल्ली० १ । अतु० १ ॥ worship of idols instead. The priests have started this practice, because they thought that if the people placed eatables as offering before their parents, they would accept and eat them up, and in that case they (the priests) would get nothing to eat and would receive no offerings. It is for this reason that they make idols, place eatables before them, blow triumpets and conch-shalls, beat cymbals, tom toms and produce tintinnabulation and thus make a tremendous noise and poke their thumbs at them as if to say 'Take you the thumb, while we enjoy the viand!" It is like this: one man hoaxes another and irritates him by putting food before him and saying to him. "Take thou the bell" and poking his thumb at him, removes the food placed before him, eats it himself with gusto. This sort of hocus-pocus is resorted to by these pujáris! (priests).

मा नो वधीः पितरं मोत मारतम् ॥ यजुः १६ ॥ मं० १५ ॥ आचार्ग्यो ब्रह्मचर्येण ब्रह्मचारिणमिच्छते ॥ अर्थव० कां० ११ । व०५ । अ० १७ ॥

The priests adorn and beautify their idols so much that they glitter with dazzling brilliancy. Like that is they adorn their persons to look attractive, and enjoy themselves at the expense of these ignorant, gullible, unsophisticated fools. Under a righteous Government these lovers of idols (priests) would have been compelled to earn their living by breaking stones, making bricks and carrying materials for building purposes or doing the like work.

- O.—If one looks at the statue of a wo.man, his imagination is inflamed with sexual desire; similarly when one looks at an image symbolic of supernal peace and imperturbability, there is no reason why he should not attain to a state of quietitude and indifference to joy or sorrow.
- A.—He cannot; because his thinking faculty as blunted on account of his soul being influenced, by the innertness characteristic of dead matter (out of which the idol has been fashioned). Loss

कतम एको देव इति स ब्रह्म त्यदित्याचत्तते ॥ श्वतपथ० कां॰ १४ ।
प्रा० ६ । ब्राह्म० ७ । कंडिका १० ॥
मातृदेवो भव पितृदेवो भव आचार्यदेवो भव अतिथिदेवो भव ॥
तैतिर्ध्येष्टि० ॥ व० १ । अनु० ११ ॥
पितृभिर्श्रातृभिश्रेताः पतिभिर्देवरैस्तथा ।
पूज्या भूषियतच्याश्च बहुकल्याणमीप्सुभिः ॥ मनु० अ० ३ । ५५ ॥
उपचर्यः स्त्रिया साध्च्या सततं देववत्पतिः ॥ मनुस्मृतौं ॥

^{1.} The word Pujaree is made up of 2 syllable, Puja=worship Ari=enemy; hence a Pujaree is one who is an enemy of divine worship. (This a pun made by the author at the expense of the priests.—Tr.)

of judgment entails loss of the blessed state of indifference (to joy or sorrow). This is a hinderance to the attainment of Divine knowledge, without which the attainment of bliss is not possible. Whatever benefits accrue to a man proceed from association with the learned, study of their biographies and perusal of their books (and not from the worship of their statues). If you merely look at the image of a person and know nothing about his good qualities, you are not inspired with affectionate reverence for him. It is the knowledge of his good qualities alone which inspires that feeling. It is evil practices like idol worship that are responsible for the existence of millions of idle, lazy, idolent, and beggarly priests in India. It is they who are mainly answerable for this wide-spread ignorance, fraud and mendacity in the world.

- O.—Lát Bhuiruvu and other gods displayed many miracles in Káshi (Benares) when Emperor Aurangzeb with a huge following of Mohammadans attacked that city on his mission of iconoclasm. When the invaders discharged a volley of rifle shots and canon bombs millions of hornets issued forth and put to flight the bewildered hosts.
- A.—This was not a miracle worked by the idol, it is very likely that there were a large number of hornets' nests in the temple. The hornets are irascibly by nature. When their nests are disturbed, they run after their invaders and sting them. The miracle of the stream of milk (that flowed from the idol) was only a trickery on the part of priests.
- O.—Here is another instance. Mahádeva being desirous that he should not be seen by an infidel hid himself in a well, and Veni Mahádeva idol cohcealed himself in a Bráhman's house for the same reason. (Are not even these miracles?)
- A.—The wonder is that the army of sprites officered by Lát Bhairava and Kálbhairava and the hosts of the Angel of Death mentioned in the Garur Purána did not fight the Mohammadan and route them. It is related about Mahádeva and Vishmu in the Puránas that they annihilated many a formidable fiend like Tripurásura, why could they not annihilate the Mohammadan invaders. This clearly shows that the poor idols could not fight with the enemy or help their devotees in their fight. When the Mohammadan invaders who had been breaking idols and pulling down temples in their march to Benares came close to the town, the priests took the idol of Mahádeva and threw it into a well and hid the idol of Veni Máddava in a Bráhman's house. If it be true that the eminissaries of the Angel of Death dase not visit Káshi through fear of Kála Bhairava who would not let Káshi be destroyed even at the time of Dissolution, why were not the infidel soldiers scared away. Why did they permit the destruction of their king's (i.e., Mahádeva's) temple. All this is invention of priests.

- O--When a man offers oblations to the manes of his ancestors at Gayá, their sins are forgiven, and, by virtue of the merits of this Shráddha, they go to heaven. The ancestors put out their hands to receive the cakes offered. Now is this also false?
- A—It is absolutely false. Hundreds and thousands of Rupees are given away in charity to the priests for the good and happiness of the manes these priests of Gayá waste all this money in prostitution and other sinful practices. If this be the merit of offering cakes to the manes at Gayá, why can Gayá not be freed from sins like prostitution. No other hands but those of priests are seen coming out (of the earth) now-a-days, Some rogue might have dug a pit in the ground and hid a man in it and then covered the mouth of the pit with soft grass. He might have then induced a man to offer cakes to the manes of his ancestors by the mouth of the pit. That rascal in the pit must have put his hand out and taken the cakes. There would be nothing surprising if something like this happened in the past. Likewise the story of Rúvana having brought Baijnáth is also false.
- O.—Millions of people believe in the Káli and Kámákshá and other goddesses of Calcutta. Is it not a miracle (in itself)?
- A.—Not a bit. These people are intellectually blind, follow one another like the sheep and fall into a ditch or a well, and can not help themselves. One fool follows another and both fall into the ditch of idol-worship and remain therein and suffer.
- O.—Well, let it go. In Jagyan Náth anyhow the miracles are plainly visible. Every time the god Jagyan Náth changes its body, a log of sandal wood comes by itself to the shore from some distant part of the sea. Cooking pans containing rice and water are placed on fire, one top of the other; rice is done in the upper as well as in the lower pans, but it is not done at all in the middle one. Whosoever does eat the present from the Jagyan Náth idol becomes a leper. The Jagyan Náth car goes by itself. The idol does not let itself be seen by a sinner. The gods built its templs while Indradamana was the ruler of the country. Whenever the god changes its body, three men—a king, a carpenter and a priest—die. Now, how could you prove the falsity of these miracles?
- A.—A man, who had worshipped Jaggan Náth for twelve long years, had then renounced the world and become a Sanyási, came to Mathurá and met us there. We inquired from him about all these miracles. He told us that they were all false. On reflection we are convinced that when the time for the god changing its body comes, a log of sandal wood is taken to the sea in a boat and then dropped into it. This is, then, washed to the shore by the sea-waves. Out of this log the carpenters shape idols.

^{1.} i.e., the miracle mentioned above.

As regards the miracles of the cooking pans, when cooking is done, none but the cooks are admitted into the kitchen and allowed to see anything there. Six round fireplaces are made in a circle and the seventh is made in the centre. Clarified butter. dust and shes are applied to the bottom of the six pans into which water and rice are placed. They are, then, placed on the six fireplaces, when the rice therein is done, they are taken off the fire and their bottom well cleansed. Now they put fresh rice and water in the seventh cooking pan. The pans are put on the central fireplace, one on top of the other, and the seventh one in the centre of the lot. The mouths of the six fireplaces are then closed with iron sheets. The place is then thrown open to the visitors. Those among them who are rich are invited to see that the rice in the upper and lower pans is done, whilst that in the central pan is not at all done. They are then asked to offer something to the pans. Those who seem to have 'more money than brains' place gold and silver by way of an offering; some even promise to contribute something monthly, Shidras and other low class people bring catables as an offering into the temple. After they have been offered to the Juggan Valle idol, these people eat a little of these eatables and leave the rest in the pans which are sent to the houses of those who pay for them. All people—from the poor householders, Sádhra and mendicants down to the Shúdras and outcaste—sit in a row and eat together. When one set of people have finished eating, another set take their places and eat out of the same leaf-plates as the first one—in other words, they eat their leav-It is a most pernicious practice. As regards the third miracle, good many who go there return home without having eaten the leaving of others. As long as they stay there, they take the food prepared with their own hands. They never get leprosy and the like diseases in consequence. Besides, even in that town of Jaggan Náth there are to be found good many lepers who, in spite of daily eating leavings of others, can not get rid of their disease. This practice of eating each other's leavings was started by Vámá Márjis as part of their Bhuirvi circle. In proof of this may be mentioned that the idol of Subhadrá, who was sister to both Krishna and Baldeva, is seated in place of wife between the idols of the two brothers. Had it no been due to Bhairvi circle no such thing could ever have happened. As regards the fourth miracle, it may be said that there must be some mechanism connected with the wheels of the car; when it is worked in the right way, the car moves, but when in the midst of the gathering the mechanism is worked in the opposite way, the car stops. Thereupon the priests shout "Give alms and do some meritorious acts whereby the god Jaggan Náth may be propitiated and allow the car to move and preserve our faith. As long as the money keeps pouring in, they keep on shouting like this but as soon as it ceases to pour in a native of Braj nicely-dressed and wrapped in shawls, etc., standing before the car with folded palms prays "Do Thou, O Lord Jaggan Náth, allow this car to move on and thereby preserve our faith. Then he kneels down, salutes the god and mounts the car, at that very moment the mechanism is turned the right way, the crowd shouts 'Hail Lord! Hail!' Thousands of people pull the cord, (attached to the cur) forward and the car moves.

The same kind of trickery is carried on in the temple of Jaggan Náth. Hundreds and thousands of people go to pay their homage to the idol, but the place is so big and so dark that even in the daytime lamps have to be lighted up before anything can be seen. A curtain is hanging before the idol, the priests and popes stand inside. When the curtain is pulled from one side, it comes before the idol and hides it. Thereupon they shout "Present your offerings. Your sins will be forgiven and you will then be enabled to see the god. Make haste, make haste." Those poor simpletons are taken in by these scoundrels of priests. Then as soon as the curtain is drawn to the other side, the idol becomes visible. Thereupon all those foolish people shout "Hail! Lord! Hail!!" After being hustled and jostled and put to various other indignities they return home. It is the same Indradaman whose descendants are still to be found in Calcutta. He was a great king. He was a devotee of Devi (goddess). He had this temple built at the cost of millions of Rupees in order to do away vexatious restrictions in connection with eating and drinking from among the people of Aryávarta, but these foolish people never like to be freed from their shackles. As regards your belief that the gods built the temple of Juggan Náth, there were no other gods but the builders who raised it,

A king, a priest and a carpenter do not at all die when the god changes body. They are all predominantly present there. It is very likely that in times gone by these three might have proved very troublesome to their inferiors who, in order to revenge themselves, might have poisoned them to death. The interior of the Jaggan Náth idol is hollow wherein is placed another idol called Sháligrám in a golden vessel. This is washed every day with water and the wash is used for making what is called the sucred drink. Possibly they—the poisoners—smeared this idol with the essence of some poison at the time of evening prayers. The next morning the sacred drink was made and given to those three persons—the king, the priest and the carpenter who died of it. Thereupon those slaves to Mammon might have given it out that the god, at the time of changing his body, carried away the three devotees along with him. Such wicked frauds are very often practised (by selfish people) to rob others of their wealth.

- A.—In Rámeshwara the linga increases in length when the stream of water from the Ganyotri is let fall on it. Now is this also false?
- O—Yes, it is false, that temple also is so dark even in the daytime that lamps have to be kept lit up day and night. When the stream of water is let fall on the idol, the light from the lamps is reflected like a flash of lightning in the water. Besides this there is nothing else that happens there. The stone neither increases nor decreases in size, it remains as it is. They (i. e., the priests) by such impostures rob those poor idiots—the lay people.
- O.—Rámeshwara was built by Ráma Chandra. Had the worship of idols been opposed to the Vedus, why should he have founded an idolatrous temple and Válmiku mentioned it in his Rámáyana?
- A -In Ráma Chandra's time there was not a trace of of the lingu or its temple. It is true, though, that a king of Deccan by the name of Rámu had this temple built and placed the lingu in it and called it Rámeshwara—the Lord of Ráma. When Ráma Chandra, while he was travelling back in an airship from Ceylon to Ayudhia accompanied by his wife Sitá, and Hammán and others, reached this place, he addressed her thus "O Sitá, dear, being quite upset by your separation, we were wandering about in your quest and in this very place spent the four months of the rainy season. Here we used to worship and contemplate the Great God Who pervades all, is above all

अत्र पूर्व महादेवाः प्रसादमकरोद्धिश्वः। सेतुबन्ध इतिविख्यातम् ॥ बाल्मीकि रा० । लंकाकां० सर्ग १२५ । श्चो ०२०॥

I. The linga is a representation of the reproductive organ of the God the devas,—sages, seers, and the most powerful material objects and forces—and is the Supernal Soul of all. Through His grace we got all the material of war¹. Look at this bridge which we built across the sea (between India and Ceylon). We, then, crossed over to Ceylon and killed that (wicked) Rávan and have brought you back." Válmiku has written nothing more than this in his Rámáyanu.

- O.—There is an idol of Káliyákuni in the Deccan, which smokes the hubble-bubble up to this day. If idolatry be a false practice, this miracle should also be false.
- A.—It is undoubtedly false. It is altogether an imposition of the popes. Very likely the mouth of the idol is hollow and there is a hole just opposite to the mouth in the back from which a pipe is carried through the adjoining wall to the room situated at the back of the one the idol is placed in. As soon as the priest, having got the hookká ready and introduced its tube into the mouth of the idol and fixed it there properly and pulled down the curtains, comes out of the room, the man in the backroom begins to smoke. While, on the one hand bubbling noise is produced in the hookká on the other, smoke issues forth from the mouth and nostrils of the idol which has been blown into it through the tube that connects the back hole of the idol with its mouth. At that time the popes no doubt rob many an ignorant man of his money and reduce him to poverty.
- O.—Behold! The idol of Dákor left Dwariká with one of its devotees about scriptarious. The idol, several mounds in weight, was weighed against two grains and a half of gold. Is not even this a miracle?
- A.—No, it is not. That devotee must have stolen the idel, whilst as regards the idel having been weighed against 2½ grains of gold some one under the influence of Cannabis Indica must have spun this yarn.
- O.—Somnáth used to live in mid air. It was a great miracle. Is this also untrue?
- A.—Of course, it is. There were magnetic rocks placed both above and below the idol. On account of their attraction and counter-attraction, it stood in mid air. When Mahmud of Ghazni attacked this temple, it was raised to the ground, its priests and other devotees were humbled and reduced to a most wretched condition, and an army of hundreds of thousands of soldiers was put to flight by a force of 10,000 men. A pretty miracle indeed! The popish priests offered presents to the god, worshipped and praised him and addressed prayers to him, thus "O god of gods! Do thou destroy this barbarian and take us under thy protection." They would tell their dupes—the ruling princes "Do not be at all anxious, Rest assured, Mahadeva is sure to send Bhairava or Virabhadra for your assistance who will destroy or blind all these barbarians," Or they would tell them "Our god is sure to manifest himself presently. Havamán (monkey-god), Bhairava (the Indian Baccus) and Duryá had appeared to us in a dream and promised to do every thing for us. Those poor simple Rajas were easily taken in by these popes. They believed in all that they said and, therefore, did not resist the invader. Many pones. who were astrologers, said that that was not an auspicious time for them to fight, because one said it was the 8th moon while the other said that the Yoyinee star would face them (when they go to fight) and so on, they were altogether misled by the popes (and therefore they did nothing to defend themselves). When they were surrounded on all sides by the barbarians, they tried to escape from their miserable plight. Hundreds of popish priests' and their dupes fell into the hands of the enemies. The priests with folded hands implored the Mohammadans to spare their temple and the idol, and offered to pay Rs, 30,000,000 ransom but the Mohammadans answered that they were not idolworshippers but idol-breakers, off they went and began to demolish the temple. When the roof fell, and the magnetic rocks were shifted, down fell the idol which, when broken, was found to contain Rs 18,00,00,000 worth of diamonds. When the popish priests were flogged, they began to weep. They were told to point out where the treasury was. Through fear of punishment they revealed everything. Thereupon the Mohammadans, having looted the treasury and thrashed the priests, made slaves of them as well as of their dupes. They made them grind corn, cut grass and carry urine and feeces but gave them nothing but baked grams to eat. Oh! Why did these people ruin themselves by the worship of stones? Why did they not worship the Almighty God whereby they would have put the barbarians to rout and gained a victory over them? Had they worshipped heroes and brave men in place of all those idols, what a protection they would have afforded them. The priests worshipped those stones so devoutly and yet not one of them shifted from its place, fell upon the head of one of the invaders and broke it. Had they served a single brave man as they did the idols, he would have done his best to protect those who had served him and to destroy their enemies.

''रङ्ग है कालिया कन्त को। जिस ने हुका पिलाया सन्त को।।

^{1.} This war was waged against Ravan (King of Ceylon) who had stolen away Sila.

- O.—Ranchhora¹ sent a hundi (bank-draft) to Narsee Mehta and thereby helped him to pay off his debts. Is this also false?
- A.—Some bankers must have helped him with money to pay off his debts, and some one must have given it out falsely that the Lord Krishuu had sent him a handi (bank-draft). In the year 1858 the English demolished the temple and its idols with artillery fire, where were the idols, then? (Why did they not do anything to defend themselves). Baghers, no doubt, fought very bravely and killed many of their enemies, but the idols could not even break one leg of a fly. Had there been even one so brave as Krishuu, he would have utterly routed the enemies and put them to flight. Why should not those who seek his protection be soundly thrashed when their protector himself is beaten?
- O.—Jwáládevi is a veritable goddess. It consumes everything. When anything is offered to it, it consumes one half of it and leaves the other half (untouched). The Mohammadan emperors had a canal of water let fall on it to extinguish it and sheets of iron fixed on it to choke it, but the flame (of fire) was neither put out nor choked. The goddess Hinglaja also is to be seen on the mountains at midnight mounted on a horse; it produces a thundering noise in the interior of the mountain.

The Chandrakoop—a well sacred to the moon—can talk. One who once passes through Yoni Yantra is never born again. By tying a thumrá a man becomes great. As long as a man does not go to Hinyláj, however holy he may be, he is a semi-great man. Are these things not credible?

A.—No, that fire issues forth from the volcanic mountain called Jwala Mulchi. The impostures of the priest at that place are simply wonderful. When melted clarified butter is placed in a spoon on a flame, it takes fire at once, but when it is taken off the flame or is blown out, it is found that a little of the butter has been consumed, while the rest of it remains in the spoon. The same thing happens in the case of Jwala Mulchi. Just as the fire of a fire place consumes everything that is put into it or when fire, breaks out in a jungle or a house it destroys every thing, in like manner the fire of Jwala Mulchi consumes everything that is placed in it. There is nothing peculiar to it. No goddess mounted (on a horse) is to be seen at Hinglaj, nor there is anything else but a temple, a small reservoir of water and a few water pipes here and there. There is nothing much besides the trickery of the popes at that place. They have also got ^{1.} It is another name for Krishne.

- a marshy pool of water from whose bottom bubbles (of gas) rise to the surface of the water. The idiots call it Suphalyatrá (literally successful pilgrimage). The Yoni youtra is a mechanical contrivance invented by these popes to rob the pilgrims. The wearing of Thumras is also a priestly fraud. If the wearing of Thumras makes a man great, would not they also make a donkey, loaded with them, a mahápurush (great man)? It is the doing of great works righteously that makes a man great (mahápurush).
- O.—The lake at Amritsar is verily nectar itself. One half of a fruit of Sapindus Detergens is sweet (whilst the other half is bitter) There is a wall (at Gurdaspur) which (when shaken) bends but does not fall down. At Reválsar rocks float on the surface of the water. At Amarnáth lingus of ice) form by themselves, (several) pairs of pigeons are seen to come out of the Himalaya mountains and go back to the place whence they came. Are these things also not worthy of belief?
- A.—No. That lake is Amritsar (Amrit—nectar, sar—lake) only in name. When the place (where the town of Amritsar is situated) was a jungle, the water must have been good and sweet, hence it was named Amritsar (lake) or a lake of sweet water. Had it been real nectar, no one (as held by the followers of the Puránas) ought to have died there. That wall (at Gurdaspur) must have been constructed in such a manner that it would bend (when shaken) but would not fall. As regards the fruit of Spindus Detergens being sweet it can be accounted for in two ways; either asclepias pulchella must have been grafted on it, or it is only a yarn. With regard to the Rewalsar miracle, their must be some mechanism by which the rocks are made to float. At Amarnáth glaciers of ice are formed, what to say of small lingas of ice. Those pigeons must be tamed ones and are let fly by men hidden behind the mountains. By such means these scoundrels rob the ignorant of their money.
- O.—Haridwár is the gate of heaven. If one bathes on the steps of Hari he is freed from his sins. A man who resides in Tapovana (grove of austerity) becomes an ascetic. Gomukh the (mouth of a cow) is seen at Gangotri, Gupta (hidden Káshi and Triyuyi Náráyan (god of the three periods of time) at Uttar Kánshi, Kedár and Badri Náráyan are worshipped by men for six months and by gods for the other six months of the year. The mouth of Mahádeva called Pashupati is in Nepaul, his buttocks at Kedár his knees at Jayan Náth and his feet at Amarnáth. By making pilgrimage to these places and bathing there one obtains salvation. Should a man desire to go to heaven from Kedár and Badri he could easily do so. What do you think of these things?

A—Hardwar is the starting point of the road that leads to the (Himalaya mountain) in the north. Harki pauri are the steps that lead to the pond close by, and are meant facilitating bathing therein. To tell you the truth it is Hárki pauri (steps of bones) as the bones of the dead from all parts of Aryawarta are thrown in there. One is never freed from his sins until he has suffered for them. The Tapovana may have been a grove of austerity in ancient times, but now-a-days it is only a grove of beggars. One does not become an ascetic by living in Tapovana but by practising austerities, as there are plenty of untruthful shopkeepers who also live there.

The water that falls from the top of the mountain (Gangotri) forms the river Ganges. Some scoundrel must have shaped it like the mouth of a cow in order to rob the ignorant. It should also be remembered that that very mountain is the heaven of the popes.

Uttur Káshi and the like places are very good for those who engage in meditation and contemplation, but shopkeepers can do plenty of shopkeeping even there.

As regards Prayája (Allahabad) being the abode of gods, hence called Prayája, it is also an invention of the Purána. It is a mere nonsense. Prayája is situated at the junction of the Ala'chnan'la and the Canjes. If the Puránas were not to spin such yarns who would go there and offer money to the popes?

Káshi is not hidden at all, it is quite visible. The fire there may have been kept up for ten or twenty generations (of these pop:s), but it has certainly not been burning for the last three ages.

The water in the tapta kunda (pond of hot water) is hot, because it gets heated by its passages through the interior of the mountains where there is plenty of natural heat. In another pond close by, the water is cold as it comes from the surface or such part of the mountains that are not hot. Kedar is a pretty and healthy place, but even there the popes or their dupes have got a temple built on a firm rock. The chief priest and other popes fleece many a man who has more money than brain and indulge in sensual pleasures. Similarly, at Burli Náráyan there are plenty of these thurs. Rávaljee is their chief. Let alone one, he has kept many women. They call the temple there Pushupati and the idol therein panchámurchi (fivemouthed). It is only where there is no law to punish such frauds that they become so rampant. But it must be borne in mind that the natives of these hills are not such rogues as the residents of the holy places of pilgrimage who strip the pilgrims of their money. That part of the country is very beautiful and clean.

- O.—(!) On the Vindhyáchal mountain the goddess Vindhyeshwari¹ Káli² and Ashtabhuji³ are all visibly present.
- (2). Vindheyshwaree assumes three different forms in a day. There is not a single fly to be found in the premises of its temple.
- (3). Prayága (Allahabad) is the king of the places of pilgrimage. By having one's head shaved there one attains perfection. By bathing at the confluence of the Ganges and the Jumná one obtains his heart's desire.
- (4). Similarly, the town of Ayodhiá has with all that inhabited it flown to heaven many a time.
 - (5). Mathura is the greatest of all tirthas (sacred places).
- (6). Vrindávanu is the scene of (Krishna's) sport (with the milkmaids).
- (7). Pilgrimage to Govardhon and Vraja only falls to the lot of the fortunate.
- (8). At the time of a sun eclipse hundreds of thousand of men gather together at Kurukshetra (and this is held very meritorious).

Are all these things false?

- A.—(1). What is visible to one's eyes is that there are three idols and they are made of stone.
 - (2). The assumption of three different forms on three different occasions in a day by Vindhyeshwari is due to the cleverness with which the priests dress and adorn the idol with ornaments. As regards the absence of flies, why! There are myriads of them there. We have noticed this fact with our own eyes.
 - (3). There must have been a barber in olden times at Prayáya who composed some verses (or paid some pope to do it for him) to the effect that it was a meritorious act to have one's head shaved there. Had it been true that by bathing at

The mistress of Vindhya Tr.

^{2.} Literally Kali means black .-- Tr.

³ Literally Ashtabhuji means eight armed.—Tr.

Prayága people went to heaven, no one should have seen them returning to their homes, but the fact is that they are all seen coming back to their homes, and even if one got drowned there, his soul wasted on air would be carried up into space and be born again. The name of the king of tirthas has been given to it by these lovers of Mammon. The relation of one being a king while the others his subjects can not be predicated of material objects, hence it is absurd to call Prayága the sing of sacred places.

- (4). It is impossible to believe that the town of Ayodhiá along with all that was to be found in it—dogs, donkeys, street sweepers, workers in skin, privies etc.—has been to heaven three times. It never went to heaven, on the other hand, it is where it was, but it is only in stories invented by the popes that Ayodhia flew away to heaven. This story has, indeed, passed from mouth to mouth. All that is said about Naimisháranya is also an invention of these very priests.
- As regards the belief that Mathurá is altogether (5). different from the three worlds, it is quite false; but it is true in the sense that there are three creatures at Mulhurá that are very troublesome. indeed so much so that on their account no one can get any rest on land, in water or in air. One of them is the Mathurá priest. ever goes to bathe in the Jumna finds him there waiting for exacting his toll and jabbering senselessly "Give me alms wherewith I may, enjoy myself by drinking infusion of cannabis Indica, eating pepper and sweets and bless you. The second is the tortoise that will bite do what you will, and is in such abundance that it is only with the greatest difficulty that one can bathe at the bathing-place. The third is the red-mouthed monkey that lives up in the air (i.e., on the tops of trees and houses). It would run away with anything it can get hold of, such as a turban, a cap, an ornament or a shoe would bite, push and even kill a person. All these three are regarded as fit objects of worship by the pope and his dupes. Several maunds1 of grams and sugar are offered to the tortoise and the monkeys, cash and sweets to the popes. Thus they are all served by their votaries—the ignorant laity. Vrindrávana may have been a beautiful grove in ancient times, but now-a-days it is more like a grove of prostitutes, wherein young men and women, mendicants and their female dupes carry on most immoral practices. In like manner, the popes are highly successful in fleecing pilgrims in the Dipumálá fair of Government and in the religious gathering of Similar religious frauds are practised at Kurukshetra by the popes in order to make a good living for themselves. Good and righteous men even in their midst, who have the public good at heart, keep aloof from these popish practices.

- O.—Idol-worship and pilgrimage to holy places have been in vogue since time immemorial. How can they be false?
- A.—What do you call time immemorial? If you say that by the use of these words you mean that these practices have always been in vogue it can not be right, otherwise how would you account for the fact that there is no mention of these things in the Vedus, Brithmanas and other ancient books of sages and seers. The practice of worshipping idols originated with the Váma Márgis and the Jainees a little under 2,000 or 2,500 years back. It did not exist in India in ancient times, nor were there any places held sucred (tirthus) then. When the Jainees instituted Girnar, Palitáná, Shikhar, Shatrúnjaya and Abu as places of pilgrimage (Tirthus), the Pouránis followed suit and established their own Tirtluis. Should a man desire to inquire into the origin of these Tirthus, he should examine the oldest records and brass plates kept by the pandá priests. He would, then, be satisfied that they were all instituted within a period of 500 to 1,000 years, and that there is not a single record that goes back further Hence Tirthas are not ancient but of a than 1,000 years. recent origin.
 - O.—Is there no merit then in making pilgrimage to Tirthus (sacred places) or taking the name of gods; for instance, it is ^{1.} A maund is an Indian measure of weight, it is equal to 80 ths .- Tr.

- said that "By making pilgrimage to Kurukshetra one is freed from all his sins committed in other places." Are these things true or not?
- A.—No, they are not. If sins could be destroyed, the poor should become rich and prosperous, the blind get sight and the lepers be cured of their leprosy, but it is not so. Hence sin and virtue can never be destroyed.
- O.—"Whosoever repeats the name of the Ganges, thousand of miles distant though he be (from it), his sins are forgiven and he goes to heaven (the realm of Vishum). The utterance of Hari—a word composed of two letters—destroys all sins. (In like manner there is great merit in taking the name of Rámu, Krishna, Shiva, Bhayvali, or some other god or goddess.)"
- "If a man sees the idol of Shiva or the linga in the morning, all his sins committed in the previous night are forgiven, if at noon, his sins committed in the whole life, if in the evening those committed in the seven previous births are destroyed." So you see that there is a great merit in seeing the idols of Shiva, etc. Can it ever be falsified?
- A.—What doubt can there be in its being false? No sin can ever be destroyed by taking the name of Hari, Rámu, Krishnu, Náráyan, Shiva, Bhayvati, otherwise none in the whole world should suffer or be afraid of sinning. Now this is the reason that now-a-days sin is on the increase among the popes and their dupes. The idiots are convinced that they can be freed from their sins by taking the name of some god or making pilgrimage to some holy place. Acting on this conviction, they sin freely and thereby forfeit true happiness in this world as well as in the next. But (God has ordained that) whosoever commits a sin must suffer for it.
- O.—Is there any kind of Tirth or any mode of taking the name (of the Lord) which is desirable?
- A.—Yes, there is. The study and teaching of the Veda and the Shástras, association with righteous men of learning, गङ्गागङ्गेति यो बूयाद्योजनानां शतैरपि । मुच्यते सर्वपापेभ्यो विष्णुलोकं स गच्छति ॥ हरिर्हरति पापानि हरिरित्यक्षरद्वयम् ॥ मातःकाले शिवंदष्ट्वा निशि पापं विनश्यति । आजन्मकृतं मध्याह्वे सप्तजन्मनाम् ॥ पोपपुराण ॥ promotion of public good, righteous living the practice of yoya, freedom from malice and hypocrisy, truthfuluess in word, deed and thought, the practice of Brahmucharya, the service of one's father, mother, tutor and the learned guests, worship of God, mental tranquility, control of the senses, gentleness, activity acquisition of knowledge, both material and spiritual, and of other good qualities, and the performance of such other good works are all Tirthas, as they help one to cross the ocean of misery and sorrow. Land and water can never be called Tirthas, since that which helps one to swim across (an ocean of) misery and sorrow alone constitues a Tirtha.

Land and water do not possess this property, on the other hand water can help one to get drowned (if he be so bent). A boat or a ship can be called a Tirtha as by means of it one can get across a river or an ocean. "Those Brahmacháris who study under the same teacher and the same book are spoken of as serving the same Tiratha. (samán tirthe vási). So says the sage Pánini.

"Let food and raiment, etc., be given to those who study the Vedu and Shástru and possess such qualities, as truthfulness in speech that constitute righteous living, and let the people in return, acquire learning from such persons. This is what the Yajur Vedu says. Such people alone are entitled to be called Tirthus. As regards the method of taking the name (of God) the Yajur Vedu says:

Yajur Veda
XXXII,3.

"Taking the name of the Great God consits in performing great works of righteousness."

God is called by as hundred different names (such as Brahma, Parmeshwar, Ishwara, Nyaya'zári, Dayálu, Sarvasha'ztimán, etc.,) by virtue of possessing manifold nature, attributes and characteristics. Now He is called Brahma because He is greatest of all, Parameshwar (Great God) because He is the Lord of the powerful, Ishwara because He is Almighty, Nyáya'zári (Just) because He is Just, never unjust, Dayálu (Merciful) because He is Merciful to all, Sarvashaktimán (Omnipotent) because He creates an sustains the world and समानतीर्थे वासी ॥ अ ० ४। पा ० ४। स ० १०८॥ नमह्तीर्थ्याय च ॥ यजु ०॥ अ ० १६॥ यस्य नाम महद्रज्ञः॥ यजु ० अ ० ३२। मं ० ३॥

- 1. Land stands for temples, etc.—Tr.
- 2. Water stands for rivers, lakes, etc.—Tr.

resolves it into its elementary condition by His power alone and does not need the help of any other being, Vishnu because He pervades all and protects all. Muhádeva because He is the Lord of all devas—all material and spiritual objects that possess brilliant or useful properties as wellas sages, seers and wise men, Rudra because He is the cause of the dissolution of the world. Let a man, therefore, try to imbibe His virtues (i,e., to be like God in nature and attributes, etc.) Thus let him be great by the performance of great works, let him be powerful among the powerful, let him augment his power, let him never commit a sinful act. Let him be kind to all. Let him perfect his means of progress. Let him develop technical arts and, with their help, make different kinds of things. Let him do unto others as he would be done by. Let him protect all Let him be learned amongst the learned. Let him diligently punish the wicked and protect the good In short, moulding one's nature, attributes and character in accordance with those of God alone constitutes the true method of taking His name.

O.—"The Guru is Brahmá, the Guru is Vishnu, the Guru is the Almighty Lord, the Guru is even:—

Brahma (Great Lord), therefore, we bow unto the Guru." Is this kind of Guru-worship right? Is it right to drink the water in which his feet have been washed, to obey him in all things, to look upon him as Bávan (an incarnation of the Deity) if he be covetous, as Nara Sinjh (Half man and half lion incarnation of God) if he be wrathful, as Ráma, if he be attached to worldly things, as Krishna if he be sensual, never to lose faith in him commit whatever sin he may, to believe that every step one takes in going to see his gran or a sant (so-called holy person) is as meritorious as the performance of an Ashwamedha Yajna?

A.—No, it is not right. Brahmá, Vishnu, Maheshwara and Parabrahma are all names of God, the guru can never equal Him. This book (from which the verse quoted above has been called,) called Gurugitá which teaches the great sanctity of the guru, is the work of some pope. It inculcates extremely popish practices. The true gurus are one's father, mother, tutor, and atithis. To serve them and acquire knowledge and culture from them is the duty of the children and pupils, but if a guru be covetous, worldly, sensual or possess a nasty temper these men (i. e. the so-called gurus or holymen) should be left गुरुर्नेक्षा गुरुर्विष्णुर्गुरुदेवो महेश्वरः । गुरुरेव परम बूह्य तस्मै श्रीगुरवे नमः alone (but it is the duty of the king) to correct these men first by gentle admonition, if still intractible to inflict bodily punishments or even to put them to death. There is nothing wrong in punishing them, such men do not become gurus by virtue of possessing learning and other good qualities. They are false yurns who tie strings of beads round the necks of their (chelas) dupes, make marks on their foreheads called tilakas, and teach mantras (mystic words), etc., quite oppose to the teachings of the Vedas. They are not yurus but shepherds, because just as shepherds keep goats and sheep for the purpose of obtaining milk, etc., likewise these so-called yurus have male and female disciples (chelás and chelees) in order to strip them of their money with which they enjoy the nselves. It is said of them by some one "Coveteous guru and avaricious cheld play tricks with each other. They are drowned in the sea of misery like those who try to cross the sea in a boat made of stone." The Gurn thinks that the chelus and chelees are sure to give him something, whilst the latter think that even if the guru is of no other use he is good enough for swearing (falsely) or for obtaining absolution from sins. They are both selfish and embodiment of hypocrisy. They get drowned in the ocean of misery in this world like those who try to cross the sea in a boat made of stone. Fie on such gurus and chelás. Let no one associate with such persons, but whoever does so, will sink to the greatest depths of misery.

The imposture of these shepherd gurus is just like that of the Puranic priests. They are extremely selfish people. Those who have the good of the public at heart may have themselves to suffer, but never do they cease doing what is good for the world. Both the guru-mahatmya (the doctrine of the sanctity of the person of the yuru) and the Guruyitá are the inventions of these immoral, wicked gurus.

- O,—(1), "Vyása is the author of the 18 Puránas. Whatever he has declared must certainly be held as authoritative."
- (2), "Let a man learn the meaning of the Veda by the help of Itiliás (Historical books such as the Mahábharata. Mahábhárata) and the 18 Puránas as they are all in harmony with the teachings of the Veda."

दो ० — लोभी गुरु लालची चेला । दोनों खेलें दाव । भवसागर में इवते, बैठ पथर की नाव ॥ (१) अष्टादञ्जपुराणानां कत्ती सत्यवतीसुतः ॥ (२) इतिहासपुराणाभ्यां वेदार्थम्रुपचंहयेत् ॥ महाभारते ॥

- (3). "In Pitrikarma (i. e., the ceremony in which oblations are offered to the manes of one's ancestors) let a man hear stories from the Purána and the Harivansha recited.
- (4). "On the completion of an Ashwamedha Yajnas sútragrantha. let a man hear portions of the Purána recited on the 10th day."
 - (5). "The Purána is the Veda as its teachings are in harmony with those of the Veda."
 - (6). "Itiliás (History) and the Purána are called the fifth Veda.

Chhándogya Upanishad VII,1.

These quotations eonclusively prove that the Puránas are authoritative books, and once this is admitted, idol-worship and pilgrimage to sacred places are proved to be desirable, as both of them are inculcated by the Puránas

A.—Had Vyása been the author of the 18 Puránas, there would not have been so many stories in them, as it appears from the perusal of his other works, such as his commentry on the Yoya Shástra, and the Vedánta Shástra, that he was a very truthful and righteous man of vast learning and a great yoyi. He could never have written such falsehoods (as are recorded in the Puránas. Those sectarians—so hostile to each other—who wrote the so-called Puránus, (ancient books) such as the Bháyvata, which are in fact approphal of recent origin, did not possess a particle of the noble qualities of Vyása. It is not learned men like Yyása who could write what is false and opposed to the Vedus and other true Shástras. It is the work of the selfish, ignorant and malevolent men.

Besides, Purána is not the name of such books as the Shiv Purána, since it is said in the Bráhmanas and Sútra books:—" Itihás, Purána, Kalpa, Gáthá and Náráshansi are five names given to the Bráhman books.¹

(1) They are called Itihas (History) as they record

(३) पुराणान्याखिलानि च ॥ मनु ० ॥

इतिहासपुराषः पश्चमे वेदानां वेदः ॥ छान्दोग्यः प्र ० ७ खं० १ ॥ दशमेऽहानि किंचित्पुराणमाचक्षीत ॥ पुराणविद्या वेदः ॥ ६ ॥ सूत्रम् ॥

^{1.} i.e., the Aitreya, Shatapath, Shama and Gopath a.

such events as the discussion between king Janak and the sage Yajnavalka. They are called Puránas (ancient) as they discuss such subjects as Cosmogony, Kulpa, because they discuss the power of the Vedic words and clearly demonstrate their true meaning, Gáthá because they narrate stories by way of illustrating certain truths Naráshansi because they chronicle human acts—praiseworthy or otherwise.

(2). By the help of these (books) alone can the true meaning of the Vedic mantrás be understood.

(3). Let a man hear something in pitrikarma or the praise of the learned.

In this quotation also the same Bráhmun books (4). are meant by the word Purána as the books written by Vyása could possibly be recited after his birth (and never before this event), but it is a fact that even long before the birth of Vyása expositions of the Vedus (Puránus) were read, taught and recited Hence the word Purána can only be applicable to the most ancient Bráhman books and not to the so-called Puránus, such as the Shrimal Bhágvat or the Shiv Purána, which are really of a very recent origin, and are replete with mythology and filthy stories. When Vyása read the Vedas and taught them to others and thereby disseminated their knowledge, he was named Veda Vyása. Now Vyása (in Sanskril) means the diameter (of a circle) which is a line that passes right through the centre of a circle from one end to the other Vyás i was called so, because he read and mastered all the four Vedas, from the Rig Veda to the Atharva Veda, and taught them to his pupils, such as Shuka and Jaimini. Vyása was his title only. His real name was Krishna Dwinayana.

O.—Is everything that is said in the Puránas false? Is there nothing true in them?

Those who say that Vyasa had collected the Vedas are altogether wrong, since even his father (Paraskare), grandfather (Shakti), and great-grandfather (Vasishtha), and Brahma, and other sages, who lived long before him, had, read all the four Vedas; this would have been impossible, had it been Iyusa who collected them.

A.—They are mostly false but there may be a thing here and there that is true, but that is taken from the Vedus and the Shastras, while that which is false is the invention of the popes. Just as in the Shiva Parána, Shiva is described as the Lord of all, while Vishnu, Brahma, Indra, Ganesha, and Súrya are spoken of as his servants, whilst in the Vishmu, Purána, Vishmu has been held as the Supreme Spirit and Shiva and other gods, as his servants. Again, in Devi-Purána, Devi is described as the Supreme Deity and Shiva, Vishmi, and the like as her servants In Ganesha Khand, Ganesh is called the Lord of all, while the other gods as his servants Why! If this is not the invention of the sectarian priests whose else could it be? Such self-contradictions are not possible even in the writings of an ordinary man, leave alone a learned man. Of all the above statments if we were to hold the first statement as true, the second naturally must be false, and if the s cond statement be held to be the right, the third must be wrong, and if the third be considered as correct, all the rest must be incorrect.

Again, the Shiv Purána describes Shiva; Vishna Purána, Vishnu: Devi Parán: Devi Genesh Khand Ganesha; Súrya Purán, Súrya; Vayu, Puran, Vayu; as the author of the creation and dissolution of the Universe and then each of them considers them as created beings. If the Pauranics were asked how the author of the creation, sustenence and dissolution of the Universe could be a created being and how could a created being be the First Cause of the Universe, they would never be able to answer this objection. Besides, the bodies of these beings must have been formed out of the matter composing the universe When they form part of the created world and are localized, how can any one of them be the auther of the universe? More-over, Gosmogony is described differently in the different Paranas and in a manner which is altogether impossible. For instance, it is written in the Shive Invana "Shiva willed "Let me create the world." Thereupon he created an expanse of water called Náráy ina, from its naval sprang up a lots plant, out of which issued forth Brahma who saw that it was all water. He took a handful of water, looked at it and threw it back (into the ocean) which caused a bubble to rise from its surface. Out of this bubble came a man who addressed Brahma thus "O my Son! Create the world." Bruhmi replied "I am not your son, rither you are my son." Thereupon they began to quarrel over it and continued fighting with each other on the surface of the water for one thousand years of the gods. Then Mahadeva b gan to think that those whom he has sent forth to create the world were fighting with each other.

he must, therefore, adopt some method of settling this dispute. For this reason he created out of them a bright linga, which immediately spread heavenward. Both were puzzled at its sight. They agreed that its beginning and end should be found out and he that returns first, after having discovered its limits, should be considered as the father, while the other who returns later or without having discovered its two ends as the son. Thereupon Vishmu assumed the form of a tortoise and went down, whilst Brahmá embodied himself as a swan and flew ubwards along the linga Both travelled for one thousand years (of the gods) at the same speed as the human mind and yet they could not fathom Therefore, Brahmá above and Vishnu below began to think that if the other came back sooner after having found its end he would have to become the son. Whilst Brahmá was thinking in this strain, a cow and a tree, called Strychnos Potatorum, descended down from above. Brahmá asked them "Whence have you come?" They replied that they had been traveling along that lingu for one thousand years. Brahmá enquired "Has this lingu any limits or is it endless?" They replied in the negative. Then Brahmá said to them "Both of you accompany me and let the cow give evidence to the effect that she has been pouring milk over the head of the linga and let the tree say that it showered flowers over it, if you do this I shall take you to a resting-place?" They refused to give false evidence This enraged Brahmá and he cried "If you refuse to give the desired evidence, I will reduce you to ashes (i.e. annihilate you) at once." This frightened them both and consquently they promised to give the desired evidence. Then all of them began to descend and continued in their downward course till they got back to the place whence Brahma had started. Vishma had already got back there. Brahma asked him if he had found the limits of the linga. Vislam replied "I have not be able to fathem it. Brahma, then, said "But I have succeded." Vishmu wanted him to produce his evidence. Thereupon the cow and the Strychnos Potatorum tree gave evidence to the effect that they were both above the head of the linja. Upon this a voice came out of the linga and cursed the tree saying "Since thou hast told a lie, thy flowers shall never be offered to me or any other god in the whole world, and whosoever offers them shall be destroyed." It then cursed the cow saying "Since thou hast uttered a lie with thy mouth. Thou shalt eat exerement with it and no one shall ever worship it. But in its stead thy tail shall be worshipped." It also cursed Brahmá saying "Since thou hast told a falsehood, thou shalt not be worshipped anywhere in the world." It blessed Vishim saying "Since thou hast spoken the truth, thou shalt be worshipped all over the world " After this both (Brahmá and Vishnu) glorified the linga. This highly pleased it and out came a man from the inside of the linga with tresses of hair twisted on the top of his head who said "I sent you both to create the world why have you been quarrelling with each other." They replied "How could we create the world without some metrial?" Thereupon Mahádeva took a ball of ashes out his matted hair and gave it to them saying "Go forth and create the world out of this ball." The authors of the Puránas shoud be asked "Where did the bodies of Brahmá, Vish m and Mahádeva, the expanse of water, the lotus, the linga, the cow and the Strychnos Polatorum tree and the ball of ashes come from when even the primordial—matter atoms and the five subtle principles (Mahábhuts) did not exist?" They could never answer this objection satisfactorily)

The story of Creation is given thus in the Bhágvat:—A lotus came out of the navel of Vishia, and Bráhma out of the lotus, Swayambhava out of the big toe of Brhma's right foot and the queen Satyrupa out of his left great toe. Out of his forehead were born ten sons such as Rudra and Marichi who begot ten Prajápatis, whose thirteen daughters were married to Kashyapa. Out of these thirteen wives of Kushyapa, Diti gave birth to fiends Danu to demons, Aditi to the sun, Vinutá to birds, Kudru to snakes. Sharma to dogs and jackals, etc; and others to elephants, horse, donkeys, buffaloes, grass, straw and trees such as acacia with thorns and all Fie on you! O You senseless, idiotic author of the Bhágrat Purána. What a shameless creature you were! You did not feel a bit of shame or hesitation in writing such falsehood! You became so utterlyblind. Human beings are, no doubt, the result of the union of the male and female reproductive elements of human parents but never animals, birds, snakes, etc. Such a thing being against the laws of nature as ordained by God is quite impossible; besides' how can there be any room for elephants. camels, lions, dogs, donkeys and trees in the womb of a woman? Moreover, why did not the lions and the like animals, after their birth, eat up their own parents? How can it be possible for animals, birds and tree to born out of a human body? It is a great pity that these people should have practised such imposture as have kept the world in darkness and doubt even upto this day. These blind popes and their blind dupes hear and believe in such to utterly false things One wonder if they are even men! Oh! Why did not the writers of Bhájvat and other Puránas die in their mothers wombs or as soon as they were born? Had the people (of India) been saved from the hands of these Topes, they would have been spared the pain and suffering that they are afflicted with

^{1.} See Chapter III for further information on this subject.

- O.—There can be no contrariety in these different versions of the Creation as the old proverb says "Songs on marriage occasions are sung in praise of the person whose marriage it is " When the devotee praises Vishuu, he regards him as the Allmighty God, whilst all other gods are treated as his servants; when he begins to glorify Shira, he looks upon him as the Supreme Spirit and on all others as his attendants or slaves. Every thing is possible with God. Even other than human beings can be produced by the sexual union of men and women, if God will it so Behold! He has created the whole universe out of nothing by virtue of $M\acute{a}y\acute{a}$ There is nothing that is impossible with Him. He can do whatever he likes.
- A.—O you simpleton! On marriage occasions you, no doubt, sing praises of the person who is to be married, but you never call him greatest of all, norbelittle or revile others, nor regard him as father of all. Now, pray tell us donot you popes. beat even wheedlers, fawners, and flunkeys in the art of flattery and story telling? Whosoever you follow, you call him greatest of all. Whosoever you oppose, you call him the lowest of all. What have you to do with truth, justice and righteousness? You have your own selfish interests alone at heart. $M\acute{a}y\acute{a}$ is only possible in man as he is very often deceitful and hypocritical. They alone can be called Máyári who posssess these evil attributes God, being free from deceit, hypocrisy and the like evil attributes, can never be called Máyári. If it be true that animals, birds. snakes, trees, etc., were the offspring of Kashyapa and his thirteen wives in the beginning of Creation, why are they not produced in the same way in our time. The order of creation we have described (in the 7th Chapter) is alone true. It seems that the pope having been misled by the following text of Shatpatha Bráhman must ed this nonsense "Therefore, all this world was created by Kashyapa.' Now "God is called Kashtalked this nonsense Nirukta yapa because He is pashyaka or Seer of all, in other words, witnesses the whole universe—animate and inanimate—souls and their acts and clearly sees all kinds of knowledge." By the rule of Máhá'sháshya which says that "the first and last letters of a word change places with each other, p pashyaka¹ changes its place with k and becomes kashyapa.

तस्मात् काश्यप्य इमाः प्रजाः ॥ शत् ० ७ । ५ । १ । ५ ॥ कश्यपः कस्मात् पश्यको भवतीति ॥ निरु० अ० २। खं० २॥

1. Pashyaka literally means a seer.

Being ignorant of the true meaning of these texts, and intoxicated with Cannabis Indica decoction they (i.e., the authors of the Puranus) wasted their lives in writing what was opposed to the Laws of Nature.

In the Márka aleya Parána, in the section devoted to the goddess Durga, it is stated that out of the bodies of the gods issued forth light which formed a goddess who killed a demon called Mahishasura or Raktabija. A drop of blood fell from his body and the like demons were produced in such large numbers out of this drop of blood that the whole world was filled with them (i.e., Rairtahijas). Again blood flowed from his body in such a large quantity that it actually formed a stream. The book is full of similar other cock and bull stories. Now where was the goddess Devi, her lion and her army when the world became full of Raktabija demons. If you say that they were at a considerable distance from the goddess, the whole world was not then filled with Raitabijas. Had this been the case where would have been (room for) animals, birds, human beings, water, land, crocodiles, tortoises, fishes (big and small), plants and trees? One feels convinced that all these must have taken refuge in the house of the author of Duryapáthu! What a wonderfully incredible story has he told whilst under the influence of Cannabis Indica!

Now we shall expose the trickery and fallacies of what is called Shrimad Bhá javal. Nará yana (God) taught Bhá yavata to Brahmá in 4 verses thus: "Learn thou, O Brahmá, from me my highest and secret knowledge. It is also (highest) and hidden. It leads to the acquisition of righteousness and wealth, gratification of legitimate desires and attainment of Eternal bliss."

When the knowledge was called Vigana (i.e., highest) why should it also have the qualifying word highest when it has already been called secret, it is a mere repetition to call it hidden also. When the verse which forms the basis of the book is meaningless, why would not the whole book be the same in the 2nd Chapter, Náráya a blesses Brahmá saying "Thou shalt never be a victim to infatuation, either during Creation or Dissolution," but in the 10th Chapter we find that Brahmá through infatuation stole calves!!! Now only one of these two contradictory statements can be true, while the other must be false or both may be false When you hold that there is no such thing as love, malice, anger, jealousy or pain to be found heaven (Bakuntha), why did Sanaka and others become angry at the gate of heaven. If anger was there, it was no heaven. Jaya and Vijaha, being gate keepers, were bound to obey their master's order and if they stopped Sanaka and others from entering the gate, what wrong did they do? Being blameless, they could not be cursed, but a curse was pronounced against them, viz., "You shall fall on the earth." From the nature of the curse it is clear there was no earth (land) there, water, air, A mi and Akásha may have been there, what did the place, its gate and water, etc., rest on? Thereafter, Jaya and Vijaya glorified Sanakas and begged to be told when they would be allowed to enter heaven (Baikuntha). They were informed that if they worshipped Narayana through love, they would gain entrance into heaven in their seventh re-birth, but, if through malice, in their third rebirth Now it must considered here that Juyu and Vija u were the servants of Náráyana, it was his duty to protect and help them. If a master were to allow his servants to be oppressed by others and do nothing to punish the oppressors, the consequence will be that every one will trample on them. It was incumbent on Náráyana to reward Jaya and Vijya for having discharged their duty faithfully, and punish Sanaka and others for having persisted in attempting a forcible entry into Baikuntha (heaven) and quarrelled with his servants and cursed them. It would have been an act of justice on Nárágana's part to have thrown Sanak, etc, instead of Jaya and Vijaya, on the earth. When there is such an utter lack of justice in Náráyana's kingdom, the more his devotees—called Vaishmaviles—are ill-treated the better it would be for them.

ज्ञानं परमगुद्धं मे यद्विज्ञानसमन्वितम् । सरहस्यं तदक्कश्च गृहाण गदितं मया ॥ भा० स्क० २ । अ०९। स्रो० २०॥

Again, later on, it is said in the Bháyval that after Hiranyársha and Hiranyálashypa were born, lii unyalasha was killed by a boar (who was an incarnation of Vishum). This story is narrated thus. Hiranyársha folded the earth like a mattress and made a pillow of it which he placed under his head and went to sleep. Vishum incarnate! himself as a boar, caught hold of the earth from under his head. This woke भवान् कल्यविकल्पेषु न निम्रुत्यति किहिंचित् ॥ भागः स्कं १ । अ•। ९ । श्लो० ३६ ॥ Hiranyalisha. If the followers of the Bháyvat Purána were asked whether the earth was round or flat like a mattress, they would never be able to answer this question as they are enemies of the Science of Geography. Well! When Hiranyalish rolled the earth into a pillow, and placed it under his head, what did he himself sleep on and what did the boar walk on, since he held the earth in his mouth? What did they—Hiranyálisha and the boar—stand on whilst fighting, as there was no other resting place? It seems that they must have fought on the chest of the pope who wrote this Bháyvat Purána, but then the question arises what did the pope lie on? Now, this is all like what happens when liars and gossips meet each other. There is no end of idle talk, of telling tales and spinning yarns.

Now, as regards Hiranyahashaypa, his son Prahlada was a great devotee of Náráyana. When his father sent him to school, he would ask his teachers to write the word Ráma on his slate. When his father heard about it, he asked him why he worshipped his (father's) enemy, the boy made no answer; he simply would not obey his father who, at last, had him tied hand and foot and dropped from the top of a mountain and thrown into a well, but he was not at all hurt. Thereupon his father had a red hot iron pillar heated in fire and said to the boy 'If your God Ramu whom you worship be the true God you should not be burnt by embracing the pillar." Prahlada made a start to embrace the pillar; doubt arose in his mind as to whether he would escape being burnt or not. Náráyana made rows of ants crawl on that pillar. That gave Prahlad heart, off he went and embraced the pillar which burst and a man-lion came out of it who caught hold of his father and ripped his belly and then began to lick Pruhlad lovingly and asked him to utter a wish. He requested that his father should be saved. The man-lion blessed him saying "Twenty-one of thy forefathers have been saved"

Now, this is another yarn like the previous ones. Let a man who recites Bháyvat or hears it read be thrown down a hill; if this story be true, he should reach the bottom unhurt. But we know what will actually happen. No Náráyana will come to his help, the poor man will simply be hacked to pieces. Pralud's father sent him to school now what wrong did he do? That boy was such an idiot that he wanted to leave off all studies and renounce the world (i.e., become a Vairáyi).

Let him who holds it true that ants did crawl over the red-hot iron pillar and Prahlad was not burnt by thing it ocn be placed in contact with a red-hot pillar; if he suffers no harm, we could believe that Pruhláda might not have been burnt Again, why was not the man-lion burnt?

Now did your Náráyana forget that Sanak and others had been granted this boon that they would enter heaven in their third rebirth. According to the Bhágvata, Prahláda was only in the fourth generation from Brahmá. First was Brahmá. He begot Kashyapa whose sons were Hiranyáksha and Hiranya-The latter begot Pruhláda. To say then that twenty one of Pruhládu's forelathers were saved, when he had had only three, is nothing short of idiocy. Then the same Hiranyáksha and Hiranyakashyapa were reborn as Rávana and Kumbhakaran and as Shishupála and Dantavakra, What became of the man-lion's boon granted to Prablada. Only idiots can hear or talk such nonsense and not men who are possessed of learning and wisdom. It is written about Pútaná and Akrúra that "Akrūra on being sent by Kansa left Mathurá in a carriage drawn by horses that ran as fast as the wind at sunrise and reached Gokala which is 4 miles distant from Mathurá sunset." Now it seems that those horses must have been going round and round the author of Bhayvata, or the drivers lost their way and along with Kansa gone to sleep in the house of the author of the Bhágvata Purána. The body of Pútaná. it is mentioned, was 8 miles broad and good many miles long. Shri Krishna slew him and placed his body between Mathura and Gokala. Had this been true, both these towns as well as this pope's house would have been buried (under his body). There is a story related of Ajámel which is altogether absurd. It runs as follows:—Ajámel named his son Náráyana at Nárada's advice. When he was dying, he shouted for his son (by name). In came Náráyana (God) instead of his son. Now, did not Náráyana know what was passing in Ajámel's mind. viz. that he was calling his son, not Him? If such be the Náma-mahátmya, i. e., if taking the name of the Lord be such a meritorous act as evidenced by the above story, why does Nárayana not come now a-days to free those, who take his name. of their misery and suffering? Why can prisoners not get their liberty by repeating His name?

In like manner the dimensions of the Sumeru mountain given in the Bhá jvata are quite at variance with the teaching of the Science of Astronomy. Oceans were caused by the tracks रथेन वायुवेगेन । भा० स्कं० १० । अ० ३९ । श्लोक० ३८ ॥ जगाम गोकुलं प्रति ॥ भा० स्कं० १० । पू० अ० ३८ । श्लो० २४॥ of the wheels of King Priyavrata's carriage. The earth was 2,450,000,000 miles in diameter. These and similar other stories are given in the $Bh\acute{a}gvata$. They are simply countless.

This book was made by Bobaleva whose brother Jayadeva wrote Gitá jovinda. He has written some verses in his book called Himádri to the effect that he was the author of Shrimad Bhá jvata. We had 3 leaves of that book with us, out of which the first one was lost. We have composed the following two verses of the same purport as those that were on the leaf that was lost. Whosoever cares to see the original verses should consult the Himádri.

"The Prime Minister Himádri said to Pundit Bohaleva, I have no time to read or hear your book called the Shrimad Bháyvata completely. Please make a brief summary of it in verse so that by reading it I may be briefly acquainted with the story of the Bháyvata." There were altogether 10 verses on the leaf that was lost. The following verses beginning with No. 11 that are given below are all the composition of Boladeva:—

- (11) ".....certainly the story of the Bhá prata is retold.

 The five questions of Shamaka and Sútas's answers (are given) in three (verses)"
 - (12) Questions and (the subject of) incarnations, Vyása's disinclination from (writing) work, Nárada's convincing speech supported by arguments and (an account of his) own birth.
 - (13) Murder (of Arjuna's children) while askep by Drona, protection of Pari'sshita while he was (in his mother's womb) by the Pándavas with arms, attainment of his position by Bhishma, and Krishna's arrival at Dwáriká.
 - १. हिमाद्रेः सचिवस्यार्थे सूचना क्रियतेऽधुना । स्कन्धाऽध्यायकथानां च यत्त्रमाणं समासतः ॥
 - े. श्रीमद्भागवतं नाम पुराणं च मयेरितम्। विदुषा बोबदेवेन श्रीकृष्णस्य यशोन्वितम्॥
- ११. बोधयन्तीति हि प्राहुः श्रीमद्भागवतं पुनः । पश्च प्रश्नाः शौनकस्य स्तरस्यात्रोत्तरं त्रिषु ॥
- १२. प्रश्नावतारयोश्चैव व्यासस्य निर्वृतिः कृतात् । नारदश्यात्र हेत्।क्तिः प्रतीत्यर्थं ,वजन्म च ।।

- (14) The birth of Parileshita, who had heard Bhágvata read, Dhritráshtra's going away, Krishna's shuffling off his mortal coil and then Pándavas departure for the Himalayas (have all been described in the Bhágvata).
- (15). Thus have 18 Chapters (of the first Book of the Bhágvata) been summarized in 18 pádas¹ (of this, summary) in consecutive order. The king (Yudhishthira) renounced his extensive kingdom in which justice was meted out to all, etc.²

This completes (the summary of) the Book I."

Thus was a brief summary of the 12 Chapters of Bhágvata prepued by Pinulit Bobaleva and given to the Prime Minister Himádri. Whosever wants to see a detailed account of it should consult the book called Himádri.

The same kind of imposture has been practised by he authors of other Paránas.

Now the life-sketch of Krishna given in the Mahábhárata is very good. His nature, attributes, character, and life-history are all like that of an ápta. Nothing is written therein that would go to show that he committed any sinful act during his whole life, but the author of the Bhúgvata has attributed to him as many vices and sinful practices as he liked. He has charged him falsely with the theft of milk, curd, and butter, etc, adultery with the female servant called Kubjá, flirtation with other people's wives in the Rás mandala, and many other vices like these

- 1. A pada is the fourth part of a verse.—7r.
- 2 In the original these verses that are in Sanskrit have not been translated into Bhasha—the language in which the original is written. I have translated them into English directly from Sanskrit -lr
- 3. This name is given to the circular dance of Krishna with the cowherdesses of Vrindavana 1r.
 - ? ३. सुप्तन्नं द्रौण्याभिभवस्तदस्त्रात्पाण्डवा वनम् । भीष्मस्य स्वपदप्राप्तिः कृष्णस्य द्वारिकागमः ॥
 - १४. श्रोतुः परीक्तितो जन्म धृतराष्ट्रस्य निर्गमः । कृष्णस्यमर्त्यत्यागसूचा ततःपार्थमहापथः ॥
 - १५. इत्यष्टादशभिः पाँदेरध्यायार्थः क्रमात् स्मृतः ।
 स्वपरप्रतिबन्धोनं स्फीतं राज्यं जहाँ मृपः ।
 [हिमाद्रि ॥
 इति वैराक्को दाढ्योंको पोक्ता द्रौणिजयादयः । इति पथमः स्कन्धः ॥

After reading this account of Krishna's life, the followers of other religions speak ill of him. Had there been no Bhágvata, great men like Krishna would not have been wrongly lowered in the estimation of the world.

In the Shiva Puranu the linga has been spoken of as possessed of twelve lights. Now in this linga there is not a trace of light, nor can it be seen at night without a lamp. All this is nothing but the trickery of the popes.

- O.—When the power of studying the Vedas was lost, Smritis were composed, and when the intellect was so weakened as to render men unfit to grasp the Smritis, the Shástras were made, and when the mental vigour diminished to such an extent that the people were unable to study the Shástras, the Puránas were written. They are only meant for women and Shúdras, as they are denied the privilege of reading the Veda or hearing it read.
- A.—This is quite wrong; mental power can only come from studying and teaching. Besides, all men have a right to read the Veda or hear it read. History bears testimony to it, as for instance it is written in the Chhándoyya Upanishada that Gáryee and other women of yore had read the Veda, and even Jánshrutí, a Shúdra by birth, had studied the Veda under Raikyamuní. Moreover, it is clearly written in the 2nd mantra of the 26th chapter of the Yajur Veda that every one, irrespective of caste or sex, has a right to read the Veda or hear it read. Such being the case, why were not all those, who wrote false books, thereby led the people astray from the study of the true books and ensnared them in their own nets to serve their selfish interests, the greatest sinners?

Now what a wonderful net of Astrology they—the popes—have spread! By means of it they have ensuared all who are destitute of knowledge. They say that different hymns are dedicated to different planets thus:—

- (1). Akrishmena Rajsá, etc., to the Sun.
- (2. Imam Devá Asapatnam Suvadhwam, etc., to the Moon
- (3). Ayuirmurádhá divah kakutpatih, etc., to the Mars.
- (4). Vrihaspati atiyadaryo, etc., to Jupitor.
- (5). Udbudhya swagne, etc., to Mercury.
- (6) Shukramandhasah, etc., to Venus.
- (7). Shanno devirabhishtaya, etc., to Saturn.
- (8) Kayá Nashchitra, etc., to Ráhu.
- (9) Ketum Krinvanna Ketave, etc., to Ketu.

- But their interpretation of these hymns is altogether wrong
 Thus:—
- No. (1) relates to the attraction between the sun and the earth.
- No. (2) describes the attributes of a good king.
- No. (3) describes (the preperties of) heat.
- No. (4) refers to the performer of a Yajna.
- No. (5) speaks of (the qualifications and duties of a) learned man.
- No. (6) describes (the relation between) the food and the reproductive element.
- No. (7) described (the nature and properties of) water, nervauric force and God.
- No. (8) discusses (the qualification of a good) friend.
- No. (9) discusses (the importance and necessity of) acquiring knowledge.

These hymns have nothing to do with the planets (and their influence on man and his actions). Being ignorant of their true meaning the people have been led astray.

- O.—Have planets any influence on us?
- A.—Not the kind of influence the popes tell you about. It is true though that the sun and the moon by their heat and cold and by their influence on the seasons are the cause of pleasure and pain to human beings according as they i, e., heat and cold, etc., agree with their nature or not. But the popes deceive you when they say "Hear us O great banker! The sun or the moon, by virtue of his or her being in the 8th sign of the Zodiac, is maleficent to you or to her." "The Saturn has chiefly affected your feet, for 21/2 years you will suffer greatly through it. It will make you leave your home and hearth, wander in foreign lands, but shoul I you give alms, have the sacred hymns chanted, the, holy books recited and their worship performed and thereby propitiate the planets, you may escape their wrath and the consequent suffering." They shold be asked "Tell us O popes what relation do the planets bear to you? What is the nature of these planets." (We are sure they would never be able to answer these questions)
- O.—It has been said "The whole world is under the authority of the gods, and the gods are under the authority of the mantras, while those mantras are under the control of the Brahmans, hence the Brahmans are called gods. We (the Brahmans) alone are privileged to invoke any deity (we like), with the aid of the mantrus, propitiate him and thereby obtain our heart's desire. Had we not been possessed of this power. such atheists as you would not have even suffered us to live in this world.

A.—Are even thieves, robbers and other wicked people under the authority of your gods? Is it gods, then, that prompt them to do evil deeds? If this be the case, there can be no difference between your gods and fiends. If the mantras are under your control and, by their help, you could do anything you liked, why do you not, then, bring gods under your control and make them steal king's treasures, carry them to your houses, fill your coffers and ther by enable you to live in ease and comfort? Why are you, then, going about from door to door begging for oil (given in charity by the laity, in order to propitiate the Saturn)? Why do you not bring the god whom you call Kuvera—the god of wealth -under your control and get as much wealth as you desire. instead of robbing the ignorant poor. You say that the sun and other planets are pleased when you are given charity in their name and displeased when no charity is given. Give us some positive proof of their pleasure and displeasure. Now, let any two persons be made to walk bare-footed on the heated ground in June—the hottest month of the year—the feet and body of the one with whom the sun is pleased should not be burnt, while those of the other with whom the sun is displeased should get scorched. Or let any two persons, with one of whom the moon is pleased while angry with the other, be stripped naked and exposed to cold all night on the day of full moon in December—the coldest. month of the year. If one of them feel cold and the other not one could believe that the planets are maleficent as well as beneficent. Are they related to you in any way? Are you in postal or telegraphic communication with them? If you possess the power conferred by the mantras, why do you not your selves. become kings or millionaires or bring your enemies under control?

An atheist is he who does not believe in God and the Vedas, and is the author of popish practices opposed to the Vedas. What harm can there be if a person who is supposed to be under the evil influence of a star, keep what is given in the name of the star and enjoy it himself. Should you say that the stars can only be propitiated when charity (in the name of stars) is given to you alone and not otherwise, we ask: have you got the monopoly of the stars? If so, send for the sun and the दैवाधीनं जगत्सर्व मन्त्राधीनाश्च देवताः। ते मन्त्रा नाराणाद्वादाद्वस्माद् त्राक्षणदैवतम्॥ like planets to your houses and burn yourselves. The fact of the matter is that the sun and the other planets are inanimate, they can do nothing to give us pleasure or pain, but all of you who live on the charity given in the name of the planets are real grahas, as the meaning of this word is truly applicable to you alone. Grahas mean those that accept (charity). As long as you do not go to a king, a millionaire, a nabob or a banker, no one ever thinks of the Navagrahas, (i.e., nine planets), but as soon as you—the very personification of the sun, the Saturn or other planets—attack any one, you never leave him till you have got something out of him and whosoever tries to escape your grip, you revile him and call him an atheist and so on.

O.—Look at the positive (visual) results of the Science of stars! The eclipses of the heavenly bodies, such as the sun and the moon, are predicted. In like manner, the results of the science of the influence of stars on human beings are no less positive, one man is a millionaire, and the other a beggar, one is a prince, the other a peasant; one happy, the other miserable is not this all due to the influence of the stars?

A.—Eclipses and the like events are foretold with the help of the Science of Astronomy and not of Astrology. Astronomy is a true science, while Astrology, excepting in so far as it relates to the natural influence of the planet such as the heat of the sun, coolness of the moon, is false. By the position of the earth and the moon that rotate in opposite directions to each other, (* the earth moves from west to east. whilst the moon from east to west). With the help of Astronomy one can exactly know that at such and such time and such and such place there will be seen an eclipse of the part or whole of the sun or of the moon, In the fourth verse of the 4th Chapter of Grahlághava it is written that when the moon comes between the sun and the earth, an eclipse of the sun occurs whilst when the earth intervenes between the sun and the moon, an eclipse of the moon follows. In other words, in the first case a shadow is cast upon the earth by the moon, and in the second case it is just the reverse. The sun being a luminous body no shadow can be cast on it as in the case of the sun or a lamp various objects held in front of it cast their shadows in the opposite direction, so does it happen in the case of an eclipse. People are born rich or poor, princes or peasants as the result of their past deeds, and not as that of the influence of the planets. Many an astrologer marries his children in the most auspicious hour fixed according to the teachings of Astrology, and yet some of those marriages turn out to be so unhappy. Now why should such a thing take place and why should there be any widows or widowers (after such marriages), if astrology be true. Hence it follows that one's deeds (past and present) are the only factors in the causation of pleasure and pain to him and not the influence of stars. It is strange that when the stars and the earth are situated in space so distant from each other that no relation whatever between them and man and his deeds can be demonstrated, how could stars influence human destiny? It is the human soul that is the author of deeds and reaps the fruits there of, whilst it is God that makes the soul reap the fruits of its acts. If, as you believe that stars could shape the destiny of man, tell us, then, whether more than one person are born at the same moment on this earth or not. If you reply in the negative, you cannot be right, but if you say yes, why does not then one man become an Emperor like the other? We could very well believe it, if you were to say that all this has been invented by you simply to earn your living.

- O.—Is Garura Purána also false?
- A.—Yes, it is so.
- O.—Then, what becomes of the soul after death?
- A.—The soul suffers or enjoys according to the nature of its deeds.
- O.—It is said in the Garura Purána that Yamrája (a King of Death) his minister Chitra Gupta, and his host of messengers, who are very fearful looking and whose bodies are like mountains of lamp-black, are always at work. These latter get hold of the soul after death and put it in heaven or hell according to the nature of its deeds. Alms are given to benefit the dead, oblations to the manes are offered, ceremonies are performed to satiates the spirits of the dead and cows are given away to the Bráhmans to help the departed soul to cross the Vaitarnee river. How can all these things be false?
- A.—These are yarns spun by the popes. When the souls, after death, go there (from other planets) (i.e. to the region of Yama,) the King of death, with the help of his minister Chitra Gupta, judges them according to their deeds, but if the souls residing in Yam'o'ra, were to sin, there ought to be another Yamlok i (region of Yama) and another Yamraja, etc., to judge them. If the bodies of the messengers of Death were as big as a mountain, why are they not visible, then? Being so big, one would think that not even one finger of Yamdút (a messenger of death) who came to take the soul after death to the region of Yama, could get admitted through a small door into the room in which a dying person may be lying. Why are they not obstructed in their way on roads or in streets? If it be said that they can also assume a subtle form, where else but in his own house could the pope place the big bones of their mountainous bodies? When a forest takes fire, hundreds and thousands of ants and other insects lose their lives, the number of the messengers of Death that come to fetch the souls of those creatures must, in deed, be countless and consequently their huge bodies ought to darken the horizon. Besides, in their rush to get hold of the souls of the dead, they would knock against each other. And just as huge rocks come off the tops of big mountains and fall to the earth, so would big pieces of their bodies, fall into the common of those who read the Garura Purána and hear it read. They would indeed, get buried under them and die. Or the gates of their houses or the road on which they are situated will get obstructed; it would be, then, very difficult for them to come out of their houses or walk on the roads, Oblations offered to the manes and alms given in their names do not reach the spirits of the dead, but they do reach the house, stomach or hands of their representative, the pope. The cow that is given away to help the departed soul to cross the river Vaitaranee never gets to that river, but it does reach the house of the pope or (the slaughter-house), whose tail would, then, the poor soul get hold of to cross the Vaitaranee? Besides the hands of a dead person are buried or cremated here, how would his soul be able to catch the tail (of the cow)? There is an apt story to illustrate it.

^{1.} The moment of one's birth is called Dhruvá Iruti which helps an astrologer to cast the horoscope of a person.

Once upon a time there was a peasant who had a fine cow that yielded 4 gallons of milk per day. This milk was very delicious. Now and then even the pope (the priest attached to the family of the peasant) had the pleasure of drinking it. He was always thinking of somehow or other making the peasant give that cow away (in charity) to him on the occasion of the death of his father. At last, when the father was at the point of death, had lost the power of speech, was taken down from his bed and laid on the ground and the friends and relations of the peasant were also present, the pope cried out "O Yajmán, let a cow now be given away in charity by your father." The peasant took ten Rupees out of his pocket; placed them in his father's hand, and asked the priest to read the Sankalpa! The pope said: How funny! Is your father going to die more than once that you should have substituted money for a cow. At this moment you should bring a real cow that yields milk, is not old and is good in every other respect. Such a cow should be given away in charity." (The peasant) I have got only one cow and my family can not do without her, I cannot, therefore, part with her. Come now, I give ten Rupees more. Read the Sankalpa. You could buy a milker with this money." (The pope) "Well! well! Do you, then, hold your cow even dearer than your father. Would you let your father get drowned in the Vaitarnee and suffer. You are, indeed, a dutiful son!" Thereupon all the relatives backed the pope who had previously been misled and brought round to his opinion by him. He dropped a hint to them even at that time, whereupon they all combined together and, through sheer obstinacy, compelled the poor peasant to make a gift of that very cow to the priest. At that time he kept quiet, his father died. the priest took the cow, her calf and the milk-pail home, and, having tied the cow there and placed the pail in a safe place came back to the peasant's house, followed the bier to the crematorium, helped in cremating the body of the deceased. Even there he resorted to some trickery, fleeced the poor peasant in the performance of such rites as dasha gátra and sapindi, the Mahábráhmans¹ also fleeced him and the beggars got a great deal out of him. As long as the kriyá2 ceremony was not over, somehow or other he managed to get milk by begging from his neighbours or relations, but on the 14th day after the death of his father early in the morning he went to the house of the pope. On his arrival he saw that, having milked the cow and filled the milk pail, the pope was about to get up. As soon as the pope saw the peasant, he said "Come, O Yajamána! And seat yourself. The peasant answered, rather you come hither, O Revered Sir!" (PP)3 Let me first place the milk-pail safely. (P)4 No, No! bring the nilk-pail hither. The poor priest went towards the peasant and seated himself by him and placed the milk-pail in front of him. (P) You are a big liar. (PP) What lie have I uttered? (P) Tell me, pray, what did you get the cow for from me. (PP) To help your father to cross the river Vaitarnee. (P) Well! Then, why did not you cause the cow to be sent to the banks of the river Vaitarnee. I trusted

^{1.} Sankalpa is the formula read by the priest whenever anything is given away in charity by a person.—Tr.

^{1.} Mahabrahmans, a class of priests who accept charity given away by the relations of a dead person -Tr.

² This ceremony is performed on the 13th day after death.—Tr.

³ P P stands here for the priest.—Tr.

^{4.} P stands for the peasant.—Tr.

all along that you must have done it, whilst you have kept the cow in your own house. Who knows how my father must have suffered in crossing the Vaitarnee. (P P) Oh No! By virtue of this gift of a cow to me here another cow must have been created there to help your father to cross the river. (P) How far is the river Vaitarnee from here and on which side is it?

(P P). It is nearly 300,000,000 kosas from here, as the diameter of the earth is 490,000,000 kosus and is situated in the south-west. (P) You must have sent a letter or a telegram to such a distant place. If you have got a reply to the effect that a cow had been created there by virtue of the gift of a cow to you which helped such and such a person's father to cross the Vuitarance, please show it to me. (PP) I have got no letter or telegram to that effect, I have only the authority of the Garura Purána to assure you (that your father has safely crossed the Vaitaranee by the help of the cow created by virtue of the gift of the cow that was made to me). (P) That book was written by one of your forefathers to enable you to make a good living by it, as none can be so dear to a father as his own sons. How can I believe what is written in it. When my father sends me a letter or a telegram asking for a cow, I will cause her to be sent to the banks of the Vaitaranee, help my father to cross that river, and bring her back home. My family members and myself will drink her milk. Bring hither that pailful of milk, the cow and her calf. He got hold of all these and returned to his house. (P P) As you take back what you had given in charity, you shall perish. (P) Hold your tongue, otherwise I will make up for all that we have suffered from want of milk for thirteen days. This silenced the priest and the peasant went back to his house with the cow, her calf and the milk-pail.

If there were more people like this peasant of the story there would not be so many popish practices extant in the world. Again, these people (priests) say that, by offering cakes to the ten parts of the body of the manes, ten bodily organs are produced and by the performance of Sapindi² the soul is united to this body) consisting of ten parts (which is about the size of a thumb and departs to the region of the Yama. Now, if this be true, the coming of the messengers of Death at the time of one's death must be useless. They ought to come after the 13th day of death. If it be true that the body is again broght into being by performing the ceremonies above alluded to why does not the deceased come back home through love for his wife and children?

1. A kosa is equal to a mile and a quarter.— Tr

^{2.} Sapindi is a funeral rite performed on the 13th day after death.—Tr.

- O.—Nothing is to be got in Heaven except what has been given here in charity, hence all kinds of things should be given in charity.
- A.—It seems that even this world is better than your heaven wherein there are rest houses for the weary, people give alms to the needy, (dinner) parties to their friends and relations, and get pretty clothes and enjoy themselves in other ways. According to your statement, nothing is to be got in Heaven, let the popes go to such a heartless, poverty-striken, miserable heaven and live in wretchedness. No sensible person will have anything to do with it.
- O.—When you hold that there is no Yama and no Yamálaya, where do the souls go after death and who judges them?
- A.—What is said in your Garura Purána about them (Yama and Yamálaya to be) is false, but the Vedic teaching regarding them is true. From such passages in the Vedas as "Yamena, Váyuná," etc., it is quite clear that Yama is another name for air or the atmosphere. The souls after death live in space supported by air, and the True, Just, Supreme Spirit, the King of Righteousness, alone judges them all.
- O.—It seems from what you have said that no one should give alms, nor should one ever give away cows, etc., in charity.
- A—Your assertion is altogether absurd as gold, silver, diamonds, pecils, rubis, food and drink, clothes and houses must be given away in charity to the deserving recipients, who have the interest of others at heart, for the promotion of public good, but never to unworthy recipients.

O.—How do you distinguish between a worthy recipients and an unworthy recipients?

A.—Whosoever is deceitful, hypocritical, selfish, sensual, lustful, wrathful, avaricious, and subject to infatuation, injures others, is greedy, untruthful and devoid of learning, associates with bad people, is lazy, repeatedly begs for alms from the same donor, compels a person to give alms by sitting at his door and causing him annoyance, does not take a refusal and keeps on begging, is never contented, reviles, curses or abuses those that do not give him anything in charity, turns into an enemy of one who has refused him alms once, though he has always helped him before, is a wolf in the sheep's skin, misleads others and cheats them, pleads poverty even when he has plenty, serves his selfish purpose by coaxing and cajoling others is engaged in begging day and night, when invited to a dinner stimulates his appetite by the use of intoxicants such as Cannabis Indica and eats to excess at the expense of others, and then gets intoxicated and neglects his dúties. opposes the path of rigteousness and follows that of unrighteousness to gain his selfish ends, teaches his dicisples to respect and serve him alone, never other good and learned men who are worthy of respect, opposes the dissemination of light and knowledge, brings about discord in one's relations towards his wife and husband. father, mother, children, friends, king and fellow-subjects by teaching falsely that all these relations are unreal and the world is also an illusion, is an unworthy recipient. While he who leads a chaste life keeps his senses under thorough control, studies and teaches the Vedas and Vedic books, is gentle, truthful, loves to promote public good, is of active habits, generous, helps to disseminate knowledge and righteousness, is virtuous, keeps an even n ind. is not influenced by praise or censure, is fearless, full of courage and hope, is a youi, is enlightened, acts in accordance with the laws of nature, the teachings of the Veda and Nature, attributes and characteristics of God, preaches truth justly, without favour or fear, examines scholars of the Vedas and other true Shástras flatters none answers questions to the satisfaction of his questioners. loves others like his own self, is free from ignorance, obstinacy, prejudiced and conceit, and regards the censure of the world as nectar and public praise as poison, even when compelled to beg for alms in time of emergency and is refused, does not feel hurt nor speaks ill of him who did not give him alms and leaves that place at once, is contented with whatever one gives him through love, is friend with the happy, kind to those who are in trouble, pleased with the rigteous and indifferent towards the sinful, in other words free from inordinate love or malice, is truthful in word, deed and thought, free from hypocrisy, jealousy and malevolence, is a man of high ideals, is highly virtuous and altogether free from any vice, is devoted to the promotion of public good with all his heart and with all his souls, even sacrifies his life for the happiness of others, and is possessed of such other excellent qualities, is verily a worthy recipient. But in time of famine and want all living creatures can be considered as entitled to get food, water, clothes, medicines and other necessaries of life.

- O.—How many kinds of donors are there?
- A.—Three—Best, middlin, and lowest. The best donor is he who takes time and place and worthiness of the recipient into consideration before he gives charity and does it for the purpose of furthering the cause of enlightenment, righteousness and public good. The donor of middling kind is one who gives charity for the love of fame or some other selfish gain; whilst the donor of the lowest kind is one who does not do anything for his own good or for that of others, but simply wastes his money on prostitutes, flatterers and buffoons, bestows gifts in an insulti ng manner, makes on distinction between a worthy and an unworthy recipient, and gives alms to all like the shopkeeper in the proverb who sold all kinds of foods-stuffs at the rate of 9 stones a rupee, inflicts suffering on the good and righteous to benefit himself. In other words, he who honours those about whom he makes himself sure, after a thorough enquiry, that they are good, learned, and righteous men is the best kind of donor, whilst he, who may or may not care to enquire whether a person is a worthy recipient or not but bestows gifts for gaining public applicase, is the milling kind of donor; but he who grants gifts blindly without making an in juiry into the worthiness or unworth ness of recipient is indeed the lowest kind of donor.

- O.—Are the fruits of charity reaped here or in the next world?
 - A.—Everywhere.
- O.—Does one resp the fruits (of his charity) hanself or is there any other power that makes one do it?
- A.—It is God who distributes the fruits of deels. Just as a burglar or a dacoit does not himself want to go to jail, but is sent there by the order of the king who looks after the comfort of the righteous and the good and protects them from the hands of dispits, etc., and thereby keeps them in happiness; in like minner does the Supreme Spirit distribute the fruits—pleasure and pain—of deeds—virtuous and sinful.
- O.—Do the Garura and other Puranas support the Veda and Vedic teachings or not.
- A.—No; on the other hand, they are opposed to the Veda, and teach what is contrary to its dictates. The same is true of the Tantras. A believer in the Puránas and Tantras is like one who is a friend to one person and an enemy of the whole world, because the teachings of these books create bad blood among the people; no man with any pretensions to learning could ever believe in them. A belief in them is a clear indication of the lack of learning.

Now, following are the fasting days according to the different Puránas, etc. The 13th day of (each) month and Monday (in each week) according to Shiva Purána, Sunday according to Aditya Purána; Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday according to Chandra Khanda, the 11th day of each lunar month according to the Vishnu Purána, the 12th is sacred to Váman, the 14th to Nrisinha and Ananta; the day of full moon to the moon, the 10th to Dikpálas; the 9th to the goddess Durgá; the 8th to Vasus, the 7th to Munis; the 6th to Swami Kártiká; the 5th to Nága; the 4th to Ganesha; the 3rd to Gauri; the 2nd to Ashvani kumára; the 1st to Adyá devi; and Amávásyá—the 16th clay of the dark half of each lunar month—to the manes. These are all fasting days according to the Puránas and it is written everywhere (in these books) that whoever partakes of food or drink on these days or dates shall go to hell. It is incumbent on the pope and his dupes that they should not take food on any day or date, otherwise they shall have to go to hell. The Nirnaya Sindhu, the Dharma Sindhu, the Vratárka and other such books as have been written by lunatics have played such a havoc with every one of these fasts that the Shivites fast on the 11th day of each lunar month, whilst others fast on the 12th holding it to be the 11th. What a strange state of affairs has been brought about by popish practices that people quarrel even over fasting! The object of instituting a fast on the 11th (day of every fortnight of a lunar month) could be nothing else but selfish gain on the part of the popes. There is not a trace of fellow-feeling in them. The pope says, "All sins reside in food on the 11th day (of every fortnight of a lunar month)" Now this pope should be asked "whose sins reside in food? Your sins or those of your father's?" If it be true that all sins reside in food on the 11th day, no one should suffer or be afflicted with pain on that day, but such is not the case. On the other hand, there is a great deal of suffering on account of hunger and thirst. Pain or suffering is the result of sin, hence it is a sin to fast. The popes have declared fasting to be a meritorious act and many a simpleton is taken in by hearing some such silly stories as the following:

There was a prostitute in heaven (the region of Brahma). She did some wrongful act, thereupon she was cursed and hurled back on earth. She praised (God) and begged to be told how she could re-enter heaven, she was told that she would regain entrance into heaven whenever some one forewent the reward of a fast on ekádashi (11th day of fortnight of a lunar month) in her favour. She came down in her airship to some town on earth. The king of that place asked her who she was She repeated her story and said that if some one renounced the reward of fasting on ekádashi she could go back to heaven. The king had the whole town searched for a person who had kept that fast, but none could be found. One day a man and his wife, who belonged to the Shúdra Class quarrelled with each other and the wife through anger had not taken her food for the whole day and night, and it happened to be ekádashi on that day. Upon being questioned by the king's messengers she answered that she had not knowingly kept fast on that day but had only accidently gone without food. They brought her before the king who ordered her to touch the airship. She did as ordered and instantly the airship flew upwards. When such is the reward of fasting unknowingly on ekádashi, that of keeping a fast willingly on skádashi can have no bounds. O you blind people! If what you say be true, we should like to send a betel-leaf to heaven. It is a thing which is not to be found there. Let all who fast on eliádashi renounce the consequent reward in our favour. If we succeeded in sending one betel-leaf to heaven in this manner. we shall then send hundreds of thousands of betel-leaves there, and we shall also keep this fast; on the other hand if one betelleaf failed to reach heaven, we shall save you from fasting and the consequent pain and suffering. They (i.e., the popes) have given different names to the 24 Ekádshis (of the year). One they have called Dhanadá or "bestower of wealth", the other Kámdá, i.e., one that gratifies one's desires, another Putradá or bestower of sons, another still Nirjala or waterless. Many a poor, needy or childless man has kept the ekádashi fast all his life and grown grey and even died without obtaining wealth. the object of his desire or a son. The popes have instituted this waterless ekádashi fast in the bright half of the month of lyeshtha (corresponding to June) when it is so hot that it is enough to overpower a man if he goes without water even for one hour. Those who keep this fast suffer terribly from hunger and thirst. The widows of Bengal especially are indeed the greatest sufferers from this fast. The heartless butcher—who instituted this fast—had not had the least pity, otherwise he could have called it Sajalá (with water) instead of waterless, and in its place could have named the Ekádashi of the bright half of the month of Pausha (corresponding to December) waterless. Had he done so, it would have been a little better. But what had this pope to do with the feelings of pity and compassion. He acted on the proverb "Let a man live or die, but in either case "he should feed the pope well." A pregnant woman a a child or a youth should never fast; but if one must fast at all. one should do so when one has no appetite, and got indigestion. On such an occasion one should take syrup (of fruits) mixed with water or milk. Whosoever does not eat when hungry and eats when not hungry suffers terribly from diverse diseases. Let no one, therefore, believe in the writings of these lunatics—e, g, the founders of these fasts, etc.

Now we shall discuss the doings of Gives (so-called preceptors), and their chelás (disciples), the various sects and their teachings:—

The idol worshippers and others of the orthodox cult say that the Vedas are endless; the Rij V da has 21 shákhás (bra ches), the Yajur Veda 101, the Sama Veda 1,000 and the Atharva Veda 9; out of these only a few shákhás are met with now-a-days, the rest have been lost; the latter must have contained authorities for the practice of idol-worship and pilgrimage to sacred places, etc., otherwise how could they have found their way into the Puranas? Since the cause can be inferred by observing its effects, there can be no doubt in the truth of idol worship when it is taught by the Puránas. We answer by saying that the branches of a tree, be they small or large, are always like (its trunk) and not unlike it, likewise when the shákhás, that are extant, do not sanction idol worship pilgrimage to sacred places, such as rivers, and the like practices, it is not possible that they were sanctioned by the lost shakhas. Besides the four Vedas are found in their entirety the shakahs could never be opposed to the Vedas and whatever is opposed to Vedas could never be proved to be their shákhás. This being the case the Puranas are not the shakhas of the Vedas, they are on the other hand books that contradict each other and have been written by sectarians, If you hold the Veda to be the word of God, why do you regard such books as go under the names of sages and seers as Ashwalayana and the like Divine in origin? Just as trees like the Ficus Religiosum, Bunyani and Mango are known by their distinctive branches and leaves, so are the true meanings of the Vedus known by the study of the Vedánjas, the four Bráhmunas, the Anyas, the Upányas and the Upvedus and other books written by sages and seers, hence it is that they are called shákhás. What is opposed to the Vedas can never be held as authoritative, nor what is in confirmity with them as unauthoritative Should you say that the idolworship and the like practices were sanctioned by the lost shákhás, one could retort by saying that very likely according to the lost shalchas the system of Classes and Orders was the reverse of what obtained in the sháithás that are extant, viz, a Shúdra or an outcast was called a a Brahman and vice versa, what is unlawful regarded as lawful, duty as not-duty, untruthfulness in speech, a virtue, while truthfulness in speech a sin. Now how could you meet such an objection except by saying what we have already said. In other words, we are bound to believe that the lost shirhis were in confirmity with the Vedu and the shakhas, that are extant, in their teachings with regard to the system of Classes and Orders viz, a Bráhman was called a Brahman, while a Shrubra a Shrubra, otherwise the whole system of Classes and Orders and the like institutions will be topsyturvy. Don't you think that all the shákhás were extant till the time of Jaimini, Vyása and Patanjali? If you answer in the affirmative, how is it then that they do not even mention such practices as Idol-worship in their works? But if you say no, what proof have you then of the fact that those lost shaichas even did exist? Now Jaimini describes the whole Karmakánda (duty of man) in his Mimánsá Patanjali the whole Upásanákánal methods of communion with and the realization of God) in this Yoya Shástra, and the sage Vyása the whole Inanakánda (Divine knowledge) in his Sháririka Shástras quite in accordance with the teachings of Vedus. There is no mention even by name of idol-worship or pilgrimage to Prayiga and other sacred places to be found in their writings, and how could they have mentioned such things when they did not exist in the Vedas. Had these thing: been in the Vedas, they would not have but mentioned them in their books. Hence it is clear that the worship of idols was not sauctioned even by the lost shálthás, nor are these books inluded in the term Vedu,—the Word of God—because they take certain mantras of the Veda as texts and then expound them, and also because they contain biographies of various men and women. These things are not possible in the case of the Veilus, because they simply teach principles of knowledge for the guidance of man. There is not the least mention of any man's name in the Vedus. The practice of idolatory is, therefore, absolutely condemned (by all authoritative books). Mark now! How the practice of idolatory has brought Shri Krishn, Ráma Chandra, Shira, Ná áyana, and other great men into public contempt and ridicule. Every body knows that were great Emperors and their wives Sitá, Rukmani, Lakshmi and Párrati, etc., great queens, but the priests place their idols in the temples and beg for alms in their name (i.e., they turn them into beggars) thus :- "Come O Great Banker! Come Sir! And see the idol, seat yourself and take charanamrit and offer something (to the god) Oh Sir! Sitá and Rámu. Ládhá ard Krishna, Lukshmi and Náráyani, or Nakádeva and Párvati

^{1.} Charanamrita (literally nector of the fact) is the water in which the idel has been washed.—T have not had a morsel of food or a drop of water for the last three days and they have absolutely nothing to day (to eat or drink). Come, O Queen! Come, Great lady! Get a nose-ring made for Sild. Send us some food to enable us to offer it to (the idol of) Ráma or Krishmu. All their garments are tattered and torn, all the corners of the temple have come down, and it also leaks. Whatever the idols had, the wicked theives made away with. Some of their property was destroyed by rats. One day the rats did such an awfully wicked thing as to take one of the eyes of the idol out of its socket and ran away with it. We could not afford to replace it by a silver eye, hence we have merely put a sea-shell in its place."

people—the priests and the laity—also have Rásulilá (a dance which enacts the amorous pastimes of Krishna with cowherdesses) and Rám dílá (a Pauránic play in which the deeds of Ráma are represented). (During the course of these performances) Sitá and Ráma, Rádhá and Krishna are dancing while the priests and princes—their servants—are seated at their ease watching the dance! Sitá and Rámu are standing in the temple while their priests or devotces are comfortably seated on cushioned seats (with their heads or elbows) resting on bolsters. Even in hot season they lock the idols in, while they themselves enjoy their siesta in comfortable beds in a place where a pleasant, cool breeze blows. Many a priest puts his Náráyana (God) in a small box and wraps a piece of cloth round it and wears it hanging from his neck just as a female monkey carries about her little one hanging from her neck. When any one breaks an idol the priest laments pitifully and beats his breast and cries out "The devil has broken the idol of Sitá. Ráma, Rádhá, Krishna, Ma'ní leva or Párvati. Now it should be replaced by an idol of murble made by a c'ever sculptor." Food can not be offered to Narayanu without some clarified butter. Please do send a little if you can't send much. The priests say this and similar such other things about Sitá, Ráma, etc. All the end of Ráslilá or Rámali á they send (the boys taking the parts of Rádhá and Krishnu or Silá and Ránu. round to beg (fron the spectators). Wherever there is a festival or a fair they get hold of a boy, and place a Mulcutu(a kind of tiara peculiar to Krishnut) on his head; he thus is transformed into Krishna, placed, on a public road and made to leg. The reader can judge how disgraceful it is to do such things. Now tell us, pray, were Sitá and Ráma, etc., such poor, miserable beggars (as you represent them)? What is all this if not holding them to contempt and ridicule? Such things, bring our great men into great disrepute. Had a priest placed Sitá, Rukmani.

Lakshami and Párvati, when they were alive, on a public road or in a house and said to the people "Come and see them and place something by way of an offering before them," (Sitá, etc.) would never have done or allowed these idiot to do, what they pleased. (with them). Had any one done any thing to hold them to public redicule, they would never have suffered them to go unpunished. But as these men were allowed to go unpunished, their miscleeds have helped them to get a good thrashing at the hands of iconoclasts, and they are still getting in and will continue to do so as long as they do not cease committing such sinful acts. Can there be any doubt that the daily ruin of Aryávarta and subjection of the idolators are due to their misdeeds, since the fruit of sin is misery and sorrow? Bear in mind that belief in the idols made of stones, etc., has chiefly been the cause of your downfall and if you don't leave off the worship of stalks and stones even now, lower and lower you will sink everyday. Among all these (idol-worshippers) the Váma Margis are the greatest sinners. When they make a man their disciple (cheld) they teach him, if he be an ordinary person, the following mantras:—

Dam Duryayai namah [we bow unto (goddess) Duryá], Bham Bhairaváyai namah [we bow unto Bhairava (Indian Baccus)] Ain hrím klim chámundáyai vichche.

In Bengal the mantra that is chiefly taught consists only of one word such as Hrim, shrim or klim. If the disciples be rich, they are taught the complete mantra.

The mantrus of the ten kinds of higher knowledge are like the following:—

Hrám hrím hrum bagalámukhyai phat swáhá. or, Hrúm phat swáhá.

They also resort to various practices in which mantrus are put to practical use for killing other persons, seducing women, or causing them to dislike their lovers, or bringing about subjugation of lovers, etc. Of course mantrus are of no use in helping them to achieve these objects. When they resort to practices whose object is to kill some person, they take the stipulited price दन्दुर्गाये नमः । मं भैरबाय नमः । ऐं हीं क्लीं चामुण्डाये विचे ॥ हीं, श्रीं क्लीं ॥ शावरतं० बं॰ प्रकी॰ प्र० ४४ ॥ हां हीं हुरूं बगलामुख्ये फट् स्वाहा ॥ शा॰ प्रका॰ प्र० ४१ ॥ हं फट स्वाहा ॥ कामरत्न तन्त्र वीजमनः ४ ॥ of murder from the person who wants somebody to be removed. On the one hand they make an effigy of flour or clay, stab it with big knives in the chest, naval and throat drive nails into its eyes, hands and feet, make an idel of Bhairara or Durgá above it, give a trident in one of its hands and touch the effigy in the situation of its heart, also make an alter on which they burn flesh (of animals) as an offering, while on the other they send a man secretly to poison the would-be victim or employ other means of killing him. If they succeed in killing him while the special rites for the purpose are going on, they call themselves Sidhas (men possessed of miraculous powers) of the goddess Bhairava, and recite such mantras as Bhairar Bhútanáthashcha," etc.

They also mutter such mantras, as, "Máraya, Máraya Uchchátaya, etc.," eat meat and drink wine to their heart's content, or draw lines with vermillion on their foreheads in the space between the eyebrows. Sometimes they would get hold of a man and kill him and offer his flesh as a sacrifice to the goddess Káli, etc., and burn it on the alter, and even eat it. Whosoever joins their Bhirava circle, but refuses to eat meat and drink wine is killed by them and his flesh burnt on the alter. Those who are ayhorees among them will even eat flesh of a dead human body, while ajarees and Bajarees will even eat excrement and drink urine. There are two sects among Váma Márjis, one is called Choli Márji—the path of bodice, while the other is called Bíja Márji—the path of Bíja or seed (semen).

Choli mar jists—their wives and husbands, boys and girls, sisters and mothers, daughters in-law—meet together in a sacret place, eat meat and drink wine together. They strip a woman naked, all men worship her private parts and call her Durgádevi (the goddess Durgá) The women strip a man naked and worship his private parts. When they get quite intoxicated with drink, they take bodices of all the women present and shuffle them together and place them in a big earthen vessel. Each man goes there, puts his hand into the vessel, picks up a bodice, the owner of the bodice, be she his mother, sister, daughter or daughter in-law, becomes for the time being his wife, and he has sexual intercourse with her. When they get highly intoxicated, they would even fight each other with shoes, etc. Early in the morning when it is still dark they go back home where they treat their mother, sister, daughters and daughters in-law as such.

मारय २, उच्चाटय २, विद्वय २, छिन्धि २, भिन्ध २,वशीकुरु २, खादय २, भक्षय २, त्रोटय २, नाशय २, मम शत्रून वशीकुरु २, हुं

पद् स्वाहा ॥ कामरत तन्त्र उचाटन प्रकरण मं० ५७ ॥

^{1.} It literally means kill, kil', cause dislike (between the lover and the beloved), cause hatred (between them) cut off, split, pierce, bring under control, eat, swallow, break, destroy, subjugate my enemies.—Ze.

The Bija Maryists at the time of sexual intercourse drop the semen in water and mix it well with it hand take this drink. These vile wretches believe that such acts lead to salvation! They are as a rule altogether destitute of learning, culture, understanding and other good qulities.

.... O.—Well! Are the Shivites then good?

A.—How can they be good? The proverb "As is the Lord of spirits, so is the Lord of ghosts" is applicable to them. Just as the Váma Márjis teach their mantra and thereby rob their dupes, so do the Shivites teach their mantra of five words "We bow unto Lord Shiva," wear rosaries of Rudráksha (berries of the Eleocarpus ganitrus tree), smear their bodies with ashes. worship linjus made of clay and stone, shout Har (i.ord) Har (Lord) Bam Bam and mak: a noise some what like the bleating of a goat.— Th: reason they give for doing this is that the clapping of hands and the shouting of Bam Bam pleases Párvati and displeases Mahadeva, because when the latter ran away from the demon Blusm, derisive cheers were given, and Bam Bam was shouted. Whilst making of the noise like the bleating of a goat pleases Mahádeva and displeases Párrati, because when her father Da'sha Prajápati's heal was cut off and put into fire and instead of it a goat's head was placed on the top of his lody, he made a noise like the ble ting of a goat. This is imitated by striking with fingers the blown out cheeks alternately in quick succession. The Shivit's also keep a fast on the day of Shivaratari.² They look upon all these things as means towards the attainment of salvation. They are as much mistaken as the Váma Marsis, Fagirs with pierced ears, Náthas, Giris, Purees Vanas, Arányas, Purvatus and Sájuras and many householders are also Shivites. Some ride on both horses, ie., are Shivites and Váma Márgees at the same time, whilst others are Vaishnavites as well. One of the Tantra books says "Inwardly they are Váma Márgis, but outwarldly they are Shivites, i.e., wear Rudrákshu. smear their bodies with ashes, while in the midst of an assembly they aver that they worship Vishini. Thus do the Vámu Margees go about the world in various guises."

O.—Are Vaishnavites good.

^{2.} Shivaratri is the night of the birthday of Shiva.—Tr.

- A.—Not a bit. They are just as bad as the Shivites. Look at imposture of the Vaishnavites! They declare themselves to be the servants of Vislam. Among them Shrivatishmarites also called Chalerankits, hold themselves to be the best of all, which is altogether absurd.
- 9.—Why, we (Shri Vaishnavites) are, indeed, superior to all.
- 1.—We make marks on our foreh ads like the sacred foot of Náráyana and draw a yellow line called Shri-the wife of Náráyana-in the centre. This is the reason we call ourselves Shri Vaishnavites. We believe in none but Náráyana, do not even look at the lingu of Mahádeva, because Shri is present on our foreheads who feels ashamed. We recite Stotrus called A'll and Mandára, worship Náráyana by chanting the mantras sacred to Him. We donot eat meat, nor do we drink wine. Why are we not good, then?
- A.—It is absurd to believe the marks on your foreheads to be impressions of the foot Náráyana, and the yellow line as Shri since they are made with your own hands. Your fereheads are painted like those of the elephants when they turn out in procession. How did the impression of the foot of Nárdyana come to be formed on your foreheads? Did any one go to (Vaikuutha Vaishuarite heaven) and had the impression of Náráyana's foot taken on his forehead? Besides, is Shri animate or inanimate?
 - O.—It is animate.
- A —Then this yellow line (drawn on the forehead) being inanimate could not be Shri. Moreover, is Shri brought into being or is it self, existent? If the latter, the yellow line on your forehead can not be Sluce as you draw it with your hands every day. Had it been Shri-beauty-on the foreheads of Vaishnavites, so many of them would not have been ugly-looking. When you have Shri-prosperity or wealth -on your forcheads, why should you be begging from door to door and live on alms given by charitable people. It is, indeed, like obstinate and shameless people to have Shri on their foreheads and act like those who are in abject poverty.

There was a man among Vaishnavites, called Porikal, a great devotee of the Lord Vishing. It was his great delight to steal or rob others of their wealth or acquire it through fraud, hypocrisy, and present it to Vaishnavites. One day it so happened that he did not meet a single man whom he could rob nor did he get a chance of stealing anything. He was, therefore, greatly put out and was going about in this condition when Náráyana thought that his devotee was in trouble. He disguised himself as a banker and put on finger-rings and other ornaments, seated himself in a carriage and came before Purikál who, as soon as he saw the carriage, went towards it and shouted to the banker "Take off everything (valuable you have on) and give it to me, otherwise I will kill you." Narayana was a little slow in taking off one of his finger-rings, thereupon Purikál cut his finger off and got hold of the ring. Nardyana was highly pleased with Parival and manifested himself in his four-armed body and said "You are my dearly beloved devotee as you serve the Vaishnuvites with everything you get through robbery, theft or murder. You are, therefore, blessed." Parileal then went and placed all the jewellery before the Vaishnavites.

अन्तः शाक्ता बहिशैंवाः समामध्ये च वैष्णवाः । नानारूपधराः कौला विचरान्ति महीतले ॥

On another occasion Purileal took service with a merchant who look him along with him to a distant country in a ship. On the return journey, the merchant loaded his ship with a cargo of areca-nuts. Purikál took an areca-nut and cut it into two equal halves and asked the merchant to put one of the two halves in his ship and write down to the effect that one half of the nut on board the shiq belonged to Purikal. The merchant replied that there was no occasion for doing it, he could take a thousand nuts, if he like! Thereupon Purikal said that he was not a dishonest person that he would falsely take what did not belong to him, he wanted only his half nut. The merchant was a simpleminded, guileless person. He wrote down as desired by Purikal. When the ship reached the port of destinatish and the cargo was about to be discharged, Pari ral demanded half of the nuts. The merchant offered him his half nut but Parikal contended that half the nuts or board the ship belonged to him and he would have his share. The matter was taken to a Court of law where Puri'rál produced the written document in the Court in which the merchant had agreed to give half the nuts on board the ship to him The merchant strongly protested against it, but Parital would not give in, the Court was compelled to gi e the verdict against the merchant Puriled took away half his share of the nuts and offered them to the Vaishnavites who were highly pleved with Rurival. The idol of that thief and robber is kept to this (day in the temple) of Vaishnavites. This story is narrated in B'ca'ctamála. Now, let the wise see whether the Vaishurwiles, their discriples and Nárányana, all these three, are a set of thieves or not. It is true that a man can be good in certain respects, though he may belong to one of thess various sects, but he can not be wholly good as long as he belongs to that sect. Now observe how the Vaishnavites are divided among themselves with regard to their tilals and rosaries. Pámánandees make thier tilals with sandal marks on the sides and red in the centre, Vimávatas two fine lines on the sides and a black dot in the centre, Mádhava, a black central line. Gaur Bengalees a dagger like mark, Rámá Prasádists draw a half moon on either side and a white round mark in the centre. The significance of these marks is also different with these different sects. For instance, Rámánandists hold that the red line represents Lakshmi seated in the heart of Náráyana while Gosáeens say that it represents Rádhá seated in the heart of Sri Krishna.

There is a story recorded in Bhaktamála which runs as follows:—

A man was sleeping under the shade of a tree, he died in his sleep, a crow sitting above on the tree passed its excrement that fell on the dead man's forehead and formed itself into a tilaka. The messengers of Yama came to fetch the body, Vishmu's messengers also got there at the same time. There arose a quarrel between them over the body. Both said that they had their respective masters' orders to fetch the corpse. The messengers of Vishmu, in support of their claim, pointed out to the mark on the forehead of the dead man that was sacred to Vishmi and said "With that mark on the deadman's forehead, how could you take him with you." Thereupon the messengers of Yama kept quiet and went away, whilst the messengers of Vishnu carried him confortably to Vaikuntha wherein he was admitted by Náráyana When such is the merit of a tilak made accidently, can there be any wonder then if those who make their tilakas lovingly and with their own hands escape the terrors of hell and go to Vaileunthat? Now, what we should like to say is that if a man goes to Heaven by making a small tilak on his forehead, he is sure to go to a place farther than heaven by plaster ng. or blackening his whole face or plastering his whole body. It is clear, therefore, that all these things are altogeth r absurd. Now many a Kháki among Vaishnavites wears a small piece of cloth round his loins and before woodfire, grows long matted hair and assumes the appearance of a saint, sits as if in deep meditation smokes hemp (cannabis Ind.) and charas awefully, and thereby keeps his eyes

^{1.} Khakish (from khak=dust) are called so because they be smear their bodies with dust and ashes -Ir.

² One of the products of Indian hemps -- Te

red and congested, begs for handfuls of flour and grain, coppers and shells, dupes the child ren of the householders and makes them his chelás (disciples). Tháiris are chiefly men from the working class. If they find a man engaged in acquiring knowledge, they dissuade him from doing it by saying "What have godly persons (santas) to do with studying, since those who read die and so, do others who do not. Why should a man, then, wear out his teeth by reading? It behoves Sádhus (so called holymen) to roam about the world, serve the santas (so-called saints) and sing the praises of Ráma."

Whosoever has never seen an incarnation of ignorance and idiocy, let him, then, go and have a look at a Khaki. He calls every one who visits him, be he or she as old as his father or mother, a child. As is the Kháki so are the Rukharas, Sukharas, Godariyes, Jamátwale, and Suturesáins, Akálees, Joyces with pierced ears and Augharas, etc. The following story related of a Khavi will serve to truthfully depict his character. A chelá (disciple) of a Kháki was repeating his lesson, which consisted of Shriyaneshaya namah, frequently in order to learn it by heart; whilst doing it he went to draw water from a well. A Sanskrita scholar, who was seated by the well, hearing the Sádhu repeat Sriganesá Janamen said "O Sádhu! You are repeating incorrectly, you should say Shriganeshaya namah instead of Sriyanesá Janamen." He filled his jug with water and off he went to his yuru (preceptor) and told him that a certain Bamman called his reading wrong. On hearing that, the Kháki got up at once and went straight to the well and addressed the Pundit thus, "You have been misleading my pupil. Curse on you, what have you read? Look here! You know only one reading of the text, while I know three, viz., Srigaensáyannamen, Sriganesáyannamen, Sriganesáyannamen." The P.undit replied "Hear, O Sádhu! It is difficult to acquire knowledge. You can't acquire it without studying." The Kháki retorted "Get away. I have licked all the (Sanskrit) scholars. ground them all in pestle and mortar and drunk them off in a cup of the infusion of Cannabis Indica Great is the might of the santas. What can you a tattler know"? The Pundit rejoined "Had you been a learned man; you would not have called me names. You would have known how to behave" The Kháki cried out "Hallo! You want to become my yuru! I will hear no sermons from you." The Pendit answered "How can you listen to good advice when you have no understanding. One must possess some sense in order to be able to profit by good advice." The Kháki retorted "He who reads all the Vedas and the Shástras but does not respect or serve the santas is indeed like one who has not read at all." The Pundit added "I do respect and serve the santus but not disorderly men like you, because the santas are those who are good, learned and righteous and promote public good." (Kháki) "Look here we (Khá/vis) remain naked day and night, sit before fire wood in all weathers, smoke hemp and charas fearfully, drink as many as three jugfuls of Cannabis Indica infusion in twentyfour hours, cook leaves of Indian hepm and dhatura eating them like vegetables; even bolt down arsenic and opium, remain intoxicated day and night and have no cares and worries, do not care for (the opinion of) the world, live (on alms), have such dreadful fits of coughing during the night that it becomes impossible for a man to sleep near by. Such are our powers and saintly qualities. Why do you then run us down? Bear in mind you old tattler! If you bother me again, I will at once reduce you to ashes.

^{1.} It is a corruption of the word Brahmana.—Ir.

Prodit,—All these are the qualifications and characteristics of rogues and charlatans and not of saintly men (Sádhus). A Sáilliu is one who does righteous deeds, is always engaged in furthering public good, is free from vices, learned, and benefits all by preaching the truth.

Kháki.—Get away. What do you know of the duties and qualifications of a Sádhu. Great is the might of the santas! Don't you try conclusions with a santa, otherwise he may strike you with a pair of fire tongs and break your skull, Pundit.—Alright Kháki! go back to your place. Don't get so angry with me. Don't you know what a just government it is that watches over us now-a-days. If you beat any one, you may be arrested, sent to jail or caned for it or you may be paid in your own coin. What will you do, then? This is not the qualification of a Sádhu.

Khá/ci.—Come along, my pupil! What a find you have introduced me to!

Pundit.—You have never been in the society of a great soul, otherwise you would not have remained densely ignorant.

Kháki.—I am myself a great soul and have, therefore. nothing to do with any one else.

Pundit .- Most unfortunate are they whose understanding is perverted like yours and who are so filled with pride as you are.

The Kháki went back to his seat, while the Pundit wended his way back home. After the evening-prayer was over, many Khákees thinking him o'd and therefore worthy of respect came to see him and said "salutations unto thee" and, after having prostrated themselves before him, took their seats. That old Kháki then addressed one of them "What have you read? O Rámadása—servant of Ráma!"

Rámdáss replied "I Reverend Sir! I have read the Vesnusahasurnámu."

Then he asked another "What have you read? O Gobindas servant of Gobinda." Then the latter replied that he had read the Rámusatvarája with such-and such a Kháki. Thereupon Rámadása asked that old Kháki. "What have you read? O Great Sir!" The Kháki replied "I have read the Gútá." Rám ulása rejoined "Of whom"? The Kháki retorted "Get away chill! I never had a master. Look here, when I lived in Puryája rája (Allahabad) I could not read a word. Whenever I happened to meet a Pundit with a long dhoti! I would take my Gútá and point out a certain letter and ask him the name of the letter with a crown. In this way I went through all the 18 Chapters of the Gútá but did not call a single man my master."

Now, if ignorance would not make such people its permanent home where else should it go? These people do nothing useful but instead drink, and remain intoxicated (most of the time), quarrel, eat, sleep beat cymbols, ring bells, blow conches, sit over a smouldering fire, bathe (frequently) and roam about uselessly in all parts of the country. It is easier to melt even stones than to knock sense into the heads of these Khákees, as most of these men are really servants, labourers, peasants or water-bearers who have given up their work and become Vairagees or Khakees by just smearing their bodies with ashes. They can never understand the great advantages of acquiring knowledge or associating with good men. All these sects have their respective mantrus each of which is a sort of watchword. For instance, the Náthas have "I bow unto the Lord Shiva." The Khákees. "I bow unto the Man-lion, the Rámáv ttárs "I bow unto the great Ráma Chardra" or "I bow unto Sitá and Ráma," the followers of Krishna "I bow unto the great Rádhá and Krishna" or I bow unto the great Vasudeva;" and the Berjalees 'I bow unto Gobinda. They make their disciples by simply repeating those mantrus into their ears and teach such things as the following: -O my son! Learn the mantra

t. Dholi is a loose garment for the lower part of the body. - Tr.

of the water-gourd! "sacred is the water, sacred is the ground and sacred is the well. Shira says, hear O Parvati! Sacred has become the water gourd."

Now can such men ever be considered Sádhus, learned men, or fit persons for promoting the good of the world.

The Khákees burn wood and bramble day and night, they consume wood worth many a Rupee in one month, if they were instead to buy blankets and other warm clothing with the price of one month's fuel, they would live in great comfort at a cost of one hundredth part of what they spend on wood in a year, but where are they to get the sense to understand it. They call themselves Tapaswis (austere devotees) simply because they sit over wood-fire. this could make men Tapaswis, savages would be greater Tapaswis. If growing of longmatted hair, smearing the body, with ashes and making tila'ras on the forehead can make a man tapasmi any one would become a tapasmi. Outwardly they pretend to have renounced the world but at heart they are engrossed in it.

- O.—Are, then, Kabirpunthers good?
- A No
- O.—Why are not they good? They condemn idol-worship, etc., Kabir was born among flowers and (in the end) became a flower. Kubir lived even before Brahmá, Vishmu or Mahádeva was born. He possessed great and miraculous powers. What the authors of the Vedus and the Parán is did not know he knew! It is Kabir alone who has shown the right path. His mantia is "Kabir is the true name, etc."
- A.—Leave alone idol worship, his followers worship even beds, cushioned seats, pillows, wooden sandals and lamps The worship of these objects is nothing short of idol-worship. Kabir a flower insect that he was born among flowers and became a flower after death. It seems that the rumour current about Kabir is, after all, true. This is as follows:—There lived a weaver in Káshi (Benares), he was altogether childless. One day, a little before dawn while he was passing through a street, he happened to see a newly-born infant lying amidst flowers in a basket by the roadside. He lifted the child out of the basket and took it home to his wife. She reared that child till he grew up when he began to follow the business of a weaver. He went to a Pundit to learn Sanskrit with him, but he insulted him by saying that he would not teach a weaver. In like manner, he went to several other Pundits but no one would teach him, thereupon he began to compose hymns, &c., in an incorrect and broken language and sing them to weavers and other low class people to the accompaniment of a tumbura. He especially spoke ill of the Vedas, the Shastrus and the Pundits. Some ignorant persons were ensnared into his net. After his death his followers made a great saint of him. His disciples kept on reading whatever he had composed in his lifetime. The noises that are heard on closing one's ears are called Anuh ita Shalda by them. This is their chief doctrine. They call the activity of mind Surati. To direct that in hearing anuhata shubda is the highest contemplation of God and the chief qualification of a Santa (holyman). It is beyond the reach of time. The followers of Kubir make tildicus of the form of a dagger, wear trings of beads made of Sandal-wood round their necks. Now a little refletion will show that these things can be of no help in the betterment of the soul and advancement of knowledge. All this is more like a child's play.

्रजल पिवतर स्थल पिवतर और पिवतर कुआ। शिव कहे सुम पार्वित तूंवा पवितर हुआ।।

I. It is a hollow gourd in which mendicats carry water.

O.—Nának has founded a sect in the Punjab. He refuted idol-worship, and saved many people from embracing Mohamadanism. Moreover he never became a Sádhu and, instead, remained a householder. He taught the following Mantra:—

the All-pervading. Being who is Nirbhum (free from fear) and enmity, is beyond the reach of time, is never born and is an All-glorious Being. Worship Him, (O disciple!) may your preceptor help you to do it. That Supreme Spirit lived in the beginning of Creation, lives in present and shall live in the future."

Now the perusal of this mantra makes it quite clear that the object of Nána's (in founding the sect) was good.

A.—The ain of Nana's was, no doubt, good, but he did not possess any learning and was merely acquainted with the dealect of the (Punjabi) villagers among whom he was born. He was quite ignorant of the Vedas and the Shastras and of Sanskrit, otherwise why should he have written Nirhau instead of Nirhaya. Another proof of his ignorance of the Sanskrit

ओं सत्यनाः कर्ता पुरूष निर्मी निर्वेर अकालमूर्त अजोनि सहभंगुरू प्रसाद जप आदि सच खुगादि सच है भी सच नानक होसी भी सच॥ जपजी पौडी १॥

^{1.} A tamburd is a musical instrument with 6 wires.—Tr.

language is his composition called Sanskrit hymns (Stotras). He wanted to show that he had some pretentions to the knowledge of Sanskrit. But how could one know Sanskrit without learning it. It is possible that he might have passed for a Sanskrit scholar before those ignorant villagers who had never heard a man speak Sans.crit. He could never have done it unless he ws anxious for gaining public applause, fame and glory. He must have sought fter fame or he would have preached in the lans uage he knew and told the people that he hady not read Sunkrit. Since he was a little vain, he must have even resorted to some sort of imposture to gain reputation, and acquire fame, hence it is that in his book called the Grantha the Vedus have been praised as well as censured, because had he not done so, some one might have asked him the meaning of a Vedic Mantra and as he would not have been able to explain it he would have been lowered in the estimation of the people Anticipating this difficulty, he, from the first, denounced the Velas here and there, but occasionally also spoke well of the Vedas, because had he not done so, the people would have called him a Nástika, i, e, an athiest or a reviler of the Vedas. For instance, it is recorded in the Grantha "even Brahmá who constantly read the Sukamani V14. 8. Vedas died. All the four Vedas are mere fiction. The Vedus can never know the greatness of a Sudhu."

"Nának says that a man versed in Divine knowledge is Sukhmani himself God.
VIII. 6.

If the scholars of the Vedas like Brahmá are dead, have not Nána'r, etc., also shared the same fate. Did they consider themselves immortal? The Vedas are a mine of all kinds'of knowledge. Whatever a man, who calls the Vedas mere fiction, says, is a mere fabrication. If, the word Sádhus is another name for idiots, how can they ever understand the greatness of the Vedas? Had Nának held up the Vedas alone as the supreme authority, he would not succeeded in foundding his sect, nor would he have been recognised a Guru (Master). As he was quite ignorant of Sanskrit he would not have been able to teach others and thereby make them his disciples. It is true though that in Nának's time the Punjab was altogether destitute of Sanskrit learning and was groaning under the tyranny of the Mohamma dans.

वेद पढ़त ब्रह्मा मरे चारों वेद कहानि। साध कि महिमा वेद न जाने ॥ सुखमनी पौदी ७। चे ०८॥ नानक ब्रह्मज्ञानी आप परमेश्वर छ ० पौ ०८। चौ • ६॥

He did save some persons from embracing Mohammadanism. Nanak in his lifetime had not had many followers, nor did his sect flourish much. But it is a habit with the ignorant that they make a saint of their Guru after his death, then invest him with a halo and believe him to be an incarnation of God. Nának was neither, a richman, nor was he one of the aristocracy and yet his followers have written in Nána's Chandrodaya and Janmashalchi that he was a great saint who possessed great miraculous powers, he met Bruhmá and other (sages of yore) had long talks with them, all paid him homage on the occasion of his marriage when he went to marry his bride, he had a long procession of horses, carriages and elephants ornamented with silver, gold, pearls and diamonds. All this is recorded in the above mentioned books. Now what are these but yarns spun by his followers, it is his followers who are to blame for this and not Nána'r. "After his death, the sect of Udásees originated with his son, while that of Nirmalas with Ráma Dása, etc. Many a successor to the throne of Nának has incorporated his writings in the Grantha The tenth Guru of the Sikhs was Guru Gobinda. Since his time no addition has been made to it, but, instead, all the smaller books that were extant then were collected together and bound in one volume (and the ntame of Grantha was given to it.) The successors of Nanale wrooe various treatises; some of them invented fictitious stories like those of the Puranas and acting on the precept "The man versed in Divine knowledge is himself God" arrogated to themselves Divine drivileges. Their followers renounced the practice of good works and Divine contemplation rand, instead, paid their Gurus the homage due to God.) This has done a great mischief. It would have been very good had these men kept on worshipping God in the way pointed out by Nanak. Now the Udásses claim to be superior to all others, while the Nirmal is make the same claim for themselves. The Akalees and suthre hahes hold that they are above all. Gobinda Singh was indeed a very brave man among the followers of Nanak. The Mohamadans had oppressed his people very much. He was anxious to revenge himself on them, but he had neither men nor the necessary material for the purpose whilst the Mohamedans were at the zenith of their power. He, therefore, resorted to a strategem. He gave it that out the goddess had given him a sword an l'a blessing saying 'Go forth and fight against the Mohammadans. You shall win " He gained many supporters from amongst the people. He (appointed) five kakars, i.e., five articles all beginning with the letter K as the signs of his faith just I ke five makars of the Vama Mar pees—and five Sunskars of the Chakraultils. The five huliars of Sikhs-were of great use in the fighting. They are as follow:—

- 1. Kesha=long unshaven hair this protects the head, to some extent, against blows from sticks and sword thrusts.
- Kangana=a big iron ring worn by alcalees on their turbans.
 Kara = an iron bangle worn on the wrist which helps to protect the wrist and the head.
- 3. Káchha=a kind of knickers used in running and jumping. very commonly used by wrestlers and acrobats for the same purpose. It protects the most vital parts of the body as well as makes it movements
- 4. Karda = a double-edged knife useful in hand-to-hand fight with the enemy.
- 5. Kanghá = a comb for dressing the hair.

Govind Singh, through his wisdom, started the practice of wearing these five articles. They were very useful for the time in which he lived, but they are of no use at the present time. (It is strange—that) those things which were required to be used because of their being of great service in fighting (with the enemy) have now come to be regarded as part and parcel of the religions of the Sikhs. It is true that they do not practise idolatory but they worship the Grantha even more than idols. Now is not this idolatory? To bow down before any material object or worship it is all idolatory. They ply their trade just like all othre idolators and make a good living by it. Just as the idolator priests show their idols (in the temples) to the visitors and receive (gifts offered by them to the idols), likewise do the followers of Nának worship the Grantha and teach others to do the same and receive what is offered to it. The followers of the rantha do not show the same amount of respect to the Vedas as do the idolators. Of course it can be urged in their defence, that these people had neither even read the Vedas, nor heard them being read, they could not therefore be blamed for showing scanty respect to them. If they were to read the Vedas or hear them being read those among them, who are free from prejudice and bigotry, would no doubt embrace the Vedic religion. It is greatly to the credit of these people that they have done away with various troublesome and useless restrictions in the matter of eating and drinking, it will be a very good thing indeed if they would also free themselves from sensualism and vanity, false pride and advance the cause of the Vedic religion.

O.—Are then the teachings of Dadoopanthee true?

A.—The only true path is that of the Vedas. Follow it if you can, otherwise you will always be sunk in ignorance and misery. According to his followers Dadú was born in Guirat. Later on he lived at Americ near Jaipur where he followed the business of a teli. Wonderful are the workings of the laws that operate in this Universe created by God, that even Dudú came to be worshipped. Now they—the Dudúpanthees—have renounced the teachings of the Vedas and Shástras and taken, instead, to the muttering of Dádú Rám i Dádú Ráma2 which alone is held to be the means of obtaining salvation. It is only in the absence of true teachers that such malpractices come into vogue. It is only a short time ago since the Rama Sanehi (lover of Rama) sect came into existance at Shahpur. They have given up the performance of duties enjoined by the Vedic religion and have, instead, come to believe that the repeating of the word Ráma is a very good thing, it alone leads to the attainment of true knowledge, concentration of mind necessary for Divine contemplation, and Salvation, but it is a pity when hungry they can not get bread and vegetables by the repetition of this name, as food and drink can only be had from the house-holders. They also decry idol-worship but have themselves become objects of worship (like the idols). They mostly live in the company of women, as Ráma³ can never be happy without Rámalo."

There was a Sádhu named Ráma Charana. He founded a sect at Sháhpura (Udeypur State.) His followers believe the repetition of the word Ráma to be the highest Mantra and the holiest doctrine. The following is written in one of their books which records the utterances of Sant Das and others.

- *"When a man repeats the name of the Lord, all his doubts are dispelled, diseases afflict him no longer and the Great Judge, Yama, tears his record into pieces and all his sins are forgiven."
- O.—Now, let the intelligent reader see how, by the mere repetition of the word Ráma doubts, which is another name for ignorance, can be dispelled, the judgment of the Gread Judge given

I. A teli is one who manufactures oil.

^{2.} Lit Dadu Rama, God, God, which may mean verily Dudu is God or O Dadu! repeatedly take the name of Rama an incarnation of the Deity.—Tr.

^{3.} This is a play upon word. As these men are always repeating the word Rama, they are called Rama'; Ramaki literally means of Rama—a female devotee of Rama—Tr.

^{4.} A document in which are noted all the good or evil deeds done by a person.—Tr.

in accordance with the nature of one's deeds, good and bad, averted or sins forgiven. Such teachings simply tempt men to live in sin and thereby waste their lives.

The following are the utteracnes of Ráma Charana, the founder of the sect "Hear, O friend most attentively how great is the might of the name of the Lord! By repeatedly taking the name of Rámu one is freed from all sins. Whosoever has taken His name has crossed the ocean of misery but whosoever has forgotten Him shall fall into the hands of Yumu. It has been said that all but $R\acute{a}ma$ is false. By the worship of $R\acute{a}mi$ one ceases to do all (evil) deeds. The sun and the moon shall dance attendance on him. Ráma says he has nothing to fear, all the three worlds shall sing his praises. Yama has no power over him who repeats the name of Ráma. By repeatedly writing the name of Ráma (on a slate or paper, etc.), rocks have been floated (on water). The Lord has incarnated for the good of His devotees. Whosoever makes a distinction (between men) on account of caste, high or low, surely wastes his life. The Santus see no inequities (among men) on account of caste. Repeatedly mutter the name of Ráma, as Ráma pervades all. He who sings the praises of Rúma is great, his

भरम रोग तब हि मिट्या, रट्या निरंजन राई।
तब जम का कागज फट्या, कट्या करम तब जाई ॥ साखी ॥ ६ ॥
महमां नांव प्रताप की सुणौ, सरवण चित लाई।
जिम जिन सुमर्या नांव कूं, सो सब उत्तरचा पार ॥
रामचरण जो वीसर्या, सो ही जम के द्वार ॥
राम बिना सब झुठ बतायो॥

राम भजन छूट्या सब ऋम्मा । चंद अरु खर देइ परकम्मा । राम कहे तिन कूं भय नाहीं । तीन लोक में कीरति गाहीं ॥

राम रटत जगजोर न लागे ॥

राम राम लिख पथर तराई । भगति हेति औतार ही घरहि ॥
ऊंच नीच कुल भेद विचारे । सो तो जन्म आपणो हारे ॥
संता के कुल दीसे नाहीं । राम राम कह सम्हांहीं ॥
ऐसो कुण जो कीरति गावे । हिर हिर जन को पार न पावे ॥
राम संतां का अन्त न आवे । आप की चुद्धि सम गावे ॥ power can not be guaged. Ráma (says) the end of Santas' greatness can neve be found. Let a man sing His praises according to his own understanding.

From the perusal of the books of Ráma Charana and the like it appears that he was a simple villager who was quite illiterate, otherwise he would not have spun such yarns. They are altogether mistaken who teach that, by the mere repetition of the word Ráma, one's sins are forgiven. By teaching such false doctrines these people waste their lives as well as those of others. One is not freed even from the fear of police constables. thieves, dacoits, wolves, snakes, scorpions and mosquites, let alone that of Yama which is very great, indeed, even if he repeat the name of Ráma day and night. Just as by repeatedly saying the word sugar one's mouth does not become sweet, in like manner the mere repetition of the word Ráma can be of no avail. It is the practice of righteous deeds, such as truthfulness in speech that can free a man fron the fear of death. If Rama would not hear his devotees when they utter his name once, it is not likely that he would ever hear them even if they were to repeat it all their lives. But if he hear them when they take his name once, it is useless then to take it second time. They have started these frauds to make their living by robbing others and thereby waste their lives. It is strange that these people should call themselves lovers of Rama, while they conduct themselves as lovers of widows. Whenever you see them you fin I them in the company of widows. Had not such frauds flourished in India. it would not have been reduced to its present wretched condition. These people give the leavings of their food to their disciples and even women pay homage to them by prostrating themselves on the ground. Their Swilius and women very often also sit together in retirement.

The second branch of this sect originated at Kherapa in Márwár. Its history is as follows: There was a man called Ráma Dás who was a Dhera by caste. He was a very clever man. He had two wives. First of all he led the life of an aghori, and ate with dogs, then he became a Váma Márgi of the kúndá panth (Lit. the path of kúndá or an earthen pot) type and later a kámará of Ráma Deva and went about from place

^{1.} Dhera is one of the lowest classes in India. The higher class people regard that even the touch of a person belonging to this class is enough to pollute them.—Tr.

^{2.} Chamars are a low class people who follow the business of shoemaking. Those who wear ochre-coloured garments and sing hymns composed by Ruma Deva, which they call shabda (the Word) to people of their own caste as well as to others are called Kamaris.

to place, singing hymns along with his two wives till he met Rama Das, the Guru of Dherus, at Seethala who taught him the doctrine preached by Ráma Deva and made him his disciple. This Ráma Dás established himself at Khairápá. His sect flourished there, while that of Rámu Cluruna at Shahpura whose history is related thus:—He was a Baniá (shopkeeper) of Jaipore, he got himself initiated into the Fourth Order, i.e., of Sannya's by a Sádhu and made the latter his Guru, went to Shahpura and set up there. Imposture soon takes root among the ignorant and so it happened in this case. Following the teaching of Ráma Churana regarding making no distinction of caste, the people of this sect receive in their fold men of all castes from Bráhmans down to out castes. They are even to day very much like kúndápantheis as they eat out of earthen pots only. The lay people of this sect eat the leavings of their Sadhus who lead the people astray from the path of the Vedus, cause them to forsake their parents and give up their business. They make people their chelás and hold the name of Ráma to be the highest mantra which they also call the sultle Vedu. They also believe that, by repeatedly muttering the name of Rámu one is freed from the sins of his countless previous lives. No one can obtain salvation without it. Whoever teaches that the name of Ráma should be taken with every breath is looked upon as the true guru who is regarded even greater than God His image is worshipped. They lay people wash the feet of these Sádhus and drink that water. When a chelá (disciple) lives away from his guru, he is directed to keep the nails and a few hairs of the beard of his guru with him and daily wash them with water and drink it. show greater respect to the book containing the utterances of Ráma Dás and Har Ráma Dás then to the Vedas, walk round it and pay homage to it by lying down on all their fours. They teach men and women the same mantra. The followers of this cult believe that their happiness consists in taking the name of Ráma alone and consider it a sin to read.

It is recorded in one of their books "Learning is useless, it is sinful to read. All works are useless unless one repeatedly takes the name of Ráma. Even the study of the Vedas, the Puránus and the Citá is of no avail if it is not accompanied by the utterring of the name of Ráma."

Such are their teachings. They further teach that it is a sin for a women to serve her husband but it is a meriterious act on her part to serve Sádhus. They have no faith in the duties of each Class and Order They call a Bráhmana, who does not belong to their sect, low, but an outcaste who belongs to their sect is considered exalted. They regard an outcaste who belongs to their sect ever superior to a Bráhman who is not of their cult. On the one hand, they say that they do not believe in the incarnation of the Deity, while on the other they also believe in the above quoted utterance of Ráma Charana, viz. "The Lord has incarnated for good of His devotees." All this fraud and trickery, which they practise, is highly detrimental to the interests of the Indian people.

We have but very briefly criticised their creed in the belief that a few words on the subject will be quite sufficient to the wise.

- O.—The cult of Golculiye Gosáeens is undoubtedly very good. Mark! How they are rolling in wealth and luxuries. Can it ever be possible to enjoy such luxuries unless they were possessed of Divine powers?
- A.—The luxuries the Cosácens enjoy are not the result of their own efforts. It is at the expense of the householders that they live such luxurious lives.
- O.—Nonsense! It is all due to the Divine powers of Gosácens, otherwise why don't other people enjoy the same pleasures as they?
- A.—Should they resort to the same kind of fraud and deception as the Gosúcens do, they would surely obtain all those luxuries that they enjoy. Whilst those who would practise greater rascality would be still more prosperous.
- O.—What rascality is there in it? It is all Illá (work) Goloka.
- A.—It is not the work of Goloka but of Gosáeens; if it be that of Goloka it must be like this (world). This sect originated in Teelung Its founder was a Teelung Bráhman by the name of Lakshmanbhall who, after he was married, deserted his parents and wife—it is not known why—, went to Káshi and took Sanyása. At the time of his initiation into this order he told a lie to the effect that he was not married. By chance his parents and wife happened to hear that he had turned a Sanyasi at पंडताइ पाने पड़ी ओ पूरव लो पाप।

राम २ सुमर्यो विना, रइग्यो रीतो आप ॥
वेद पुराण पढ़े पढ़ गीता, राजभजन विनं रइ गये रीता ॥
भगति हेति औतार हि धरहि ॥

Káshi, they came there and remonstrated with his yuru for having initiated him into sannyása while he had a young wife living. His wife asked him to initiate her also into sannyása, if he could not send her husband back with her. He sent for Lakshman and told him that he was a great liar, bade him renounce samyása, and live with his wife as he had taken samyása through telling a lie. He did what he was bidden i.e., renounced Sanyása and went back with his wife. It is worth remembering that this sect was founded in falsehood and hypocricy. When they went back to Teelung, their caste people refused to take him back into the caste. Then they took to wandering from place to place. When he, along with his wife, was passing through a jungle, called Champaranya, near Charna Garha a place not far from Benares, he found that some one had left a child there, after having lighted up fire all round at some distance from the child. The object of the deserter seems to have been to save the child from immediate death at the hand of wild animals. Lukshmunubhutta and his wife took the boy and adopted him as their son. They went to Káshi and began to live there. When the boy grew up, his parents died. He had read a little in his boyhood. He went to the temple of a Vishnu Swámi and became his chela (disciple). He happened to kick up a row there and consequently came back to Káshi and became a sanyási Later on he came across a Bráhmana who was also an outcaste like himself. He had a daughter and asked him to leave off sunyásu and accept the hand of his daughter. He did the same. Why should not the son have done what the father had done before him? After marriage he went back to the same temple of Vishuu Swami where he had taken Sanyása. But he was turned out of it on account of his marriage. Then he went to Brajdesha where ignorance is ripe and began to spread his net of fraud and hypocrisy and falsely gave out that Shri Krishna had met him and asked him to send back to Goloka all the godly souls, that had come down from Goloka to this mortal world, after having purified them by means of Brahma Sambandha (bringing about union with क्कीं कृष्णाय गोपीजनवल्लभाय स्वाहा ॥ गोपालसहस्रनाम ॥ श्रीकृष्णः शरणं मम सहस्रपरिवत्सरमितकालजातकृष्णवियोगजनित-तापक्केशानन्तितरोभावोऽहं भगवते कृष्णाय देहेन्द्रियप्राणान्तःकरण-तद्धर्माश्च दारागारपुत्राप्तवित्तेहपराण्यात्मना सह समर्प्यामि दासोऽहं कृष्ण तवास्मि ॥ Brahma or God). By telling the ignorant people alluring stories, he gained over a few persons. He made altogether 84 converts. He also adopted the following Mantras as his watch-words which are of different kinds:—

श्रीकृष्णः शरणं मम ॥

"The Great Krishna is my shelter" "Unto the beloved Krishna of cowherdesses." These are the two mantras for ordinary purposes. But the next mantra is for Brahma Sambandha, i. e., for bringing about union with Brahma as well as for Samarpana (offering). "The great Krishna is my shelter. I who am overpowered by (ananta) eternal tapa and kalesha (pain) caused by separation from Krishna from a thousand years offer my body, senses, vital airs and their function, my wife, house, son and wealth to my Master Krishna. I am thy servant, O Krishna!" This is the mantra for both male and female disciples.

Now the second mantra begins with the word kleem which is only to be found is the Tuntrus books on Váma Márya. This shows that this (Ballabha) sect is a branch of Váma Márya. This is the reason that the Gosaeeus pass much of their time in the company of women. Was Krishna only beloved of cowherdesses and not of others? He alone is beloved of women who is engrossed in sensualism. Was Krishnu, such a man then? It is useless to use the words a thousand as Ballabha and his disciples are not omniscient that they could tell with such exactness the number of years since Krishna lived. The world had been suffering from Krishna's separation for thousands of year before the birth of Ballabha and his cult, but no one was sent down for the salvation of the souls that had come down on this earth from Goloka. Tapa (pain) and kalesha (pain) are synonymous words, one of them ought to have been used and not both. It is also useless to use the word ananta (eternal) as the word sahasra (a thousand) had already been used. Only one of the two words could be used. Either the word thousand or the word eternal ought to have been omitted. It is most absurd to use both Besides, even the birth of Balla'ha can not be of any use to one who has been eternally overpowered by pain or sorrow, since what is eternal or endless can have no end. Moreover, why should one's body and bodily senses, vital airs, the internal organ of thought, and their functions, wife, house, son and wealth be offered to Krishna? He being Púra atráma—one whose desires completely fulfilled—cannot desire for any one's body, etc., besides the body and the like can not, properly speaking, be offered as the term boly includes all parts of it from top of the head to the nails of fingers and toes. By offering the body even every thing that is foul in it, such as urine and foeces, is offered. Now. how would you like to do that? Besides, all the sins and virtues of the devotee having been offered to Krishna-it is Krishna who will have to reap the fruits thereof. It is a curious thing that the Gosácens ask people to offer all these things to Krishna, while the offerings are appropriated by them. Why don't the Gosdeens also accept all the foul excretions such as the urine, that are to be found in the body (which is accepted as an offering)? Do they act on the proverb that says "Gulp down all that is sweat and spit out what is bitter?" It is also written (in their books) that an offering should be made to Gosácens only and never to one who belongs to some other sect. Is not this extreme selfishness? All this fraud has been invented to rob others of their money and uproot the pure religion of the Vedas. By the perusal of the following verses from Siddhant Rahasya—the book on which the Godscen sect is chiefly formed—let the reader observe what kind of trickery was practised by Ballabha?

On the 11th of Shrávanu, in the middle of night, I was thus spoken to by the Mighty Krishnu Himself:—

Criticism.—Now these people should be asked how it could be possible for Ballubha to meet Krishna who died about 5,000 years back.

- 2. Whosoever becomes a chelá (disciple) of Gosáeen and presents everything to him by way of offering (thereby comes in contact with Brahma) is freed of all sins—physical and spiritual—which are of five kinds.
- C. This falsehood was invented by Ballabha to mislead people in order to allure them into his set. Why should the male and female disciples of Gosácens suffer from disease and poverty, if it be true that they are freed of all sins?
- 3. (i) "Sins that are natural, such as are caused by animal passion and anger.
 - (ii) Sins that are related to time and locality
 - (iii) Sins that are declared to be such by public opinion (such as the use of proscribed food) and by the
- श्रावणस्यामले पत्त एकाद्द्यां महानिशि । सालाद्भगवता प्रोक्तं तदत्तरश उच्यते ।।
- २. ब्रह्मसम्बन्धकरणात्सर्वेषां देहजीवयोः । सर्वदोषनिवृत्तिहिं दोषाः पश्चविधाः स्मृताः ।

Vedas, such as untruthfulness in speech.

- (iv) Sins that are the result of bad company, such as theft, illicit intercourse, sexual intercourse with one's mother, sister, daughter-in-law, or tutor's wife, etc.
- (v) Sins caused by touching those that should not be touched (such as outcasts.—Tr.)

 Let no disciple of Gosáeen ever believe in such sins, in other words, he can do as he likes."
- (4). "There is no other way but the Gosácen faith to free one of his sins, therefore let not the followers of this faith ever enjoy things—animate and inanimate—that have not previously been offered to the Gosácen.
- C. This is the reason that these people even offer their wives, daughters, daughters-in-law and their wealth, etc., to Gosdeens. The rule regarding the offering of females is that no one should co-habit with his wife unless she has previously been to the Gosdeen."
- (5). "Therefore let the followers of this faith first offer all things to (fosáeens as nothing can be offered after the owner has enjoyed it himself."
- (6) Hence let the disciples of Gosácens, in whatever they do, first offer all things to them. Let them offer their wives to Gosácens before they have sexual intercourse with them."
- सहजा देशकालोत्था लोकवेदनिरूपिताः ॥ संयोगजाः स्पर्शजाश्च न मन्तव्याः कदाचन ॥
- अन्यथा सर्वदोषाणां न निवृत्तिः कथञ्चन ।
 असमर्पितवस्तुनां तस्माद्वज्जनमाचरेत ।।
- ५. निवेदिभि समप्यें व सर्व कुर्यादिति स्थिति । न मतं देव देवस्य स्वामिश्चक्तिसमपेणम् ॥
- ६. तस्मादादौ सर्वकार्ये सर्ववस्तुसमर्पणम् । दत्तापहारवचनं तथा च सकलं हरेः॥

- (7). "Let not the male and female disciples of Gosdeens ever hear or accept a word of the teachings of faiths other than the Gosdeen cult. It is well known that such is their practice."
- (8). "Let a man of this faith offer all things to the Gosáven and believe that Bruhma exists in all things, and just as all the streams that flow into the river Ganges lose their individuality and their water takes the name of Ganges water, so do all who join the Gosáven faith lose their bad qualities and embrace good qualities. Let them, therefore, always declare that their faith is supremely excellent and has no defects."

Now let the reader see whether it is true or not that of all faiths that of Gosáeens is the most selfish. Well, Mr. Gosáeen! You do not possess even one attribute of Bruhmá, how could you then bring about union of your disciples with Brahma? If you answer that you are yourself Brahma and, therefore, by coming in contact with you one is united with Brahma, we can not believe you as you do not possess a single attribute, characteristic or power of Brahma. Have you then become Brahma simply in order to live in luxury and ease, and have sensual enjoyment? You purify your disciples—male or female—by having them offered to-you, but you yourself as well as your wife, daughter, daughterin-law and other relations must remain impure, as you and they are never offered. Now you believe that what has not been offered is impure, why are not you yourself, who are born of impure mothers, impure? Hence it behoves you to offer your wife, daughter, daughter-in-law to persons of other faiths (in order to have them purified). If you say "No, no, that wo'nt do," why is it not right then that you should also give up the practice of having other people's wives and wealth etc., offered to yourself. Let by-gones be by-gones. Henceforth you should give up all your false and evil practices and tread the path of the beautiful and Divine religion of the Vedas, realize the object of man's existence on earth, reap the four-fold fruit (of human life), viz., practice of righteousness, acquisition of wealth, gratification of legitimate desires and attainment of salvation and thereby enjoy happiness. Now mark again! These Gosdeens call people of their cult followers of the path of nourishment. In other words, eating,

७. न ब्राह्ममिति वाक्यं हि भिन्नमार्ग परं मतम् । सेवकानां यथा लोके व्यवहारः प्रसिध्यति ॥

८. तथा कार्य्य समप्येंन सर्वेषां ब्रह्मता ततः । गंगात्ने गुणदोषाणां गुणदोषादिवर्णनम् ॥ drinking, waxing fat and enjoying oneself by having sexual intercourse with all sorts of women constitutes the path of nourishment. They alone must know how they suffer from most terrible diseases such as Fistula-in-ano and die a lingering and painful death (in consequence of sexual excesses). The Truth is that it is not the path of pushti (nourishment) but of kushti (leprosy). Just as all the tissues of a lepor's body disintegrate, liquify and are discharged and he groans most fearfully and finally dies, in like manner of the Gosáeens are seen to suffer terribly and die most miserable deaths. Hence the name of the path of hell can be very well applied to the Gosáeen cult, as hell is another name for pain and suffering, whilst heaven is another name for happiness.

These Gosáeens have thus cast their net of hypocrisy and fraud and ensuared the poor simpletons into it. They declare themselves to be incarnations of Shri Krishnu and hence Masters of all. They say that they who are the best among men are born to save all those daivi (anglic) souls who have come down on this earth from Goloka. As long as one does not become their disciple he shall never enter Goloka, wherein there is only one man and that is Krishnu, all others are women. Bravo! Yours is a fine faith! All the disciples of Gosácens will became Gopees (cowherdesses), mistresses of Krishnu. One can imagin the wretched plight of a man who has the ill-fortune of having two wives but pity the man who has millions of wives. His sufferings can have no bounds. Now what will you say to this Mr. Gosáeen. If you say that Krishna possesses mighty powers, he can please all of them, his wife called swamini (mistress) must possess powers equal to Krishnu as she is his other half. Animal passions are equally strong in men and women or rather a little stronger in women than in men, why would the same not hold good in Goloka. This being the case wives of Krishna other than the mistress will quarrel and wrangle with her, as wives of the same husband are as a rule, very jealous of each other, and consequently Galoka compared to heaven will be no better than hell and such terrible diseases as Fistula-in-ano which are the result of sexual excesses will be rampant in Goloka as here. Tut! Tut! Tut! Even this poor mortal world is better than your Goloka. The Gosácens who declare themselves to be incarnations of Krishna live most sensual lives and consequently are afflicted with such diseases as Fistula-inano, Spermatorrhea, why would not Krishna, the Lord of Goloka, suffer from the same kind of diseases as his representative the Gosácens here. If you say he would not, how is it then that his incarnations, the Gosdeens, suffer, so much here?

- O.—Disease can afflict incarnations (of Krishna) in this mortal world but not in Goloku. Disease can not approach Krishna there.
- A.—No, this can not be true as disease is sure to follow sensual enjoyment. Are any children born of those millions of wives of Krishna? If you answer in the affirmative, we ask, are those children male and female or both? If you say they are all girls, whom are they married to, as there is no other man but Krishna there? If you say there are other men besides Krishna, you will be contradicting your original proposition. If you say that all the children are boys, the same objection will hold good, viz., whom are they married to? Or shall we believe that they manage to arrange the whole affair with so many female inmates of Goloka. If you say there are other women besides the Gopies—wives of Krishna-you contradict what you said in the beginning viz. "There was no man but Krishna and no women but his wives in Goloka." If you hold that there are no children born in Goloka. impotence will be attributable to Krishuu and sterility to his wives. This Golo'a looks more like the harem of the Emperor of Delhi with its army of women.

Again the Gosdeens cause their disciples-male and female to offer their bodies, hearts, and wealth to them. Now this can not be right, because at the time of marriage the body of the husband, has been offered to the wife and that of the wife to the husband, hence they wholly belong to each others, how can their hearts then be offered to some one clse, because the body cannot belong to one while the heart is in some other place. When the heart has been offered to one i.e., the husband or the wife, it is nothing short of adultery to offer the body to another. The same holds good of wealth; in other words, nothing can be offered to one person when the heart has been offered to another. The real object of Gosáeens in inventing these frauds is that they want their disciples to work and themselves to enjoy the fruits there of. All the Gosdeens of B llabha sect are outside the pale of the caste of Teling Brahmanus and whoever, through mistake, gives his daughter's hand in marriage to one of them is turned out of his caste and considered as polluted, because the Gosdeens are outcastes. They are destitute of knowledge and live most indolent lives. Mark! How a Gosáven behaves when he is invited to the house of one of his disciples. When he gets there, he quietly sits down and remains silent like a wooden doll, he does not say a word. The poor Gosaeen would uncountedly speak if he were not an idiot as it has been said "The strength of the ignorant lies in silence." Were he to speak he would betray his ignorance.

He keeps on staring at women most attentively and whoever is looked at by him thinks herself most lucky, and her husband, brother, father, mother and other relations are highly pleased! All the women touch his feet and whosoever becomes the object of his favour or choice has one of her fingers pressed a little by his big toe. That woman and her husband and other relations consider themselves most fortunate. Her husband and other relations address her thus "Go there and serve the feet of the Gosáeen." But if the husband and other relations are not pleased with this kind of favour from the Gosáeen, he accomplishes his object through the help of go-betweens and touts. The truth is that there are plenty of such people in and about the temples of Gasácens. Now as regard their method of extorting money (from their disciples) they ask for it in the following fashion. "Bring an offering for the Gosácen, his wife, son, daughter, the chief servant, the footman, the musician and the god (i.e., idol of Krishna). Thus they rob their disciples of their money in the name of seven persons. When a disciple of the Gosácen is about to die, the Gosacen puts his foot on his chest and avariously accepts whatever he gets. Is not it more like the work of Mahá Bráhmans. Occasionally a disciple of the Gosáeen, when about to marry, sends for him and makes him accept the hand of his bride at the ceremony.

At the saffron bath men and women, especially the latter. rub a paste containing saffron on the Cosaeen's body, seat him on a wooden board placed in a tub and help him to wash. Then he puts on a pitámbar—lower garment and his wooden sandals and comes out of the bath. His dhoti—the garment covering the loins and legs worn at the time of bathing—is then thrown into the tub. His disciples then use the water of the tub as a sacred drink and offer the Gosáren betel leaf containing condiments which he chews, swallows a little of the juice and spits out the rest in a silver cup held up by a disciple near his mouth. This is distributed among his disciples as a special yift. Now, what kind of men are they? Can stupidity and irreligious conduct go any further? A great many of the Gosdeen who accept offerings (from their followers) would eat of the hands of Vaishnavites alone, others would never do so much so that they would even wash their fire-wood. Now aren't they polluted by using their flour, sugar (red and white), clarified butter, etc., unwashed? But they are helpless in this matter, because should they wash these articles, they would lose them altogether. They also say that they spend a great deal on the amorous sport and sensual enjoyment of Sri Krishna, but it is really Gosdeens themselves on the gratification of whose sensual appetites all this money is spent. The Truth is that most abominable things are done by these Gosaeens, for instance during Holi days they fill syringes with coloured water which they discharge at the private parts of women. They also sell eatables which is not permissible Brahmans.

- O.—The Gosácens do not themselves keep an open shop for selling eatables, such as bread, dál, curry, rice, vegetables and sweets. They distribute leaf-plateful of these articles to their servants who sell them but not the Gosáeens
- A.—Why would the servants accept these things if the Gosácens would pay them their monthly wages instead. The Gosácens sell the eatables such as rice and dál in the hands of their servants in lieu of wages. They then go and sell them in shops, etc. Had the Gosácens themselves sold these articles they would have at least saved their servants, who are Bráhmanas, from the doing of an act which is forbidden (by the Shástra). In that case Gosácens alone would have been responsible for the sin of selling eatables. Thus the Gosáceus themselves first commit a sin and then drag others down with them. In some places, such as Nathdwara, even the Gosacens themselves sell these things. To sell eatables is the work of the low and not of the high. It is such men who have reduced Aryávarta to its present wretched condition.
 - O.-What do you think of Swami Náráyana Cult.?
- A. The proverb "Like the goddess Shitla like her beast for riding—the donkey" aptly applies to this sect. In other words, the followers of Swami Narayana resort to the same sort of wonderful trickery in order to fleece others as the Gosácens. The brief history of this sect is as follows:-

There was a man called Sahjánanda. He was a native of a village near Ayudhia. While he was wandering as a Bruhma-chári through Gujerat, Kathiawar, Kuchh and the like countries he noticed that the natives of those countries were very ignorant and guileless, one could easily lead them to believe in whatever religion one liked. He, therefore, cast his net of fraud and hypocrisy there and made three or four disciples who took counsel among themselves and gave it out that Sahjánanda was an incarnation of Náráyana and possessed of great miraculous powers. He could assume the four-armed body of Nárdyana Himself for the pleasure of those who are devoted to him. One of his disciples asked Dádákháchar, a great landowner of Puran in Kathiawar. that if he desired to see the four-armed Náráyana they could request Sahjánanda to grant his wish. He answered that he thought, it would be a very good thing, if Sahjanand could do it. That Dádákháchar was a perfect dunce Sahjanand in a dark room put on a diadem on his head and held a conch-shell in one hand and a discus in the other—both hands looking upwards.

^{1.} This is a festival celebrated in spring all over India. Its chief feature is that the people throw coloured water at each other.—Tr.

Another man stood behind him with a mace in one hand and a lotus in the other and then thrust his hands forward under his armpits and lo there was a veritable four-armed Náráyana! The disciples of Sahjánand instructed him to have only one peep at Náráyana and then immediately close his eyes and come out of the room, otherwise if he looked at him too long Náráyana might get angry with him. The disciples were afraid that their fraud might not be detected by him. They took him to the dark room in which Sahjánunda was standing motionless, like a statue, wearing shining silk garments. They turned light on him by means of a lantern. The moment Dádákháchar saw the form of the four-armed Náráyana light was turned off. All of them fell down on their knees and paid their homage to Náráyana and came out of the room. At the same time they said to Dádá Kháchar that he was a very lucky man, he should now become the disciple of His Holiness. He assented to their proposal. By the time they got to another room, Sahjanand had changed his dress and was found seated on a cushioned seat there. They pointed out to Dádákháchar that His His Holiness had assumed another form and was present there. He fell in their trap and from that very moment the Swami Narayana cult took root as Dádákháchar was a great landowner. Sa'jánand made that place his headquarter. He wandered here and there preaching to all. He initiated (sádhus) many of his disciples into the Order of mendicants Occasionly he would press some nerve in the neck of a sádhu and render him unconscious and tell people that he had caused him to attain clairvoyant state. The simple, guileless people of Kathiawar were ensnared by him by such acts of scoundrelism. After his death his followers practised a great deal of fraud and hypocrisy. Their case will be aptly illustrated by the following story:—

A man was caught burgling. The judge ordered his nose and ears to be cut off by way of punishment. As soon as his nose was cut, that scoundrel began to sing, dance and laugh. The people asked him why he did it. He replied it was not a thing that could be told. They, again, inquired what kind of thing it was that could not be talked about. He answered it was such a thing that he had never heard of it before. They again said Come come, tell us what it is." He rejoined that he could see the very four-armed Náráyana Himself standing before him and that is the reason that he sang and danced and blessed his stars that he had seen the Lord face to face. The people wanted to know why they could not see Náráyuna. He replied that their noses were in the way, they could only see Him when their noses were cut off, and not otherwise. Some dunce among the people wanted to see Náráyana even at the sacrifice of his nose. He offered his nose to be cut so that he could see Náráyuna. That rogue chopped off his nose and whispered in his ears "you should also do like me, otherwise we shall be laughed at." Thereupon that man also began to sing, dance, skip about, play and laugh, and say that he could also see Náráyana. By and by, the number of the people who had their noses cut in order to see Náráyana reached about 1,000. There was then a great hallabaloo, they called their sect "The cult of Náráyana-scers." An ignorant king heard of it and sent for those people. When they got there, they began to sing, dance and laugh The king asked them the reason of all this. They replied that they saw the Náráyana Himself face to face. The king asked why he did not see Him. The 'Náráyanu-seers answered that he could not do so on account of his nose. As soon as he would have his nose cut, he would see Náráyana face to face, The king thought that it appeared to be right. He, thereupon, asked his astrologer to find out what was the most auspicious time for having his nose removed. He replied: "May it please Your Majesty! O giver of food! 8 o' clock in the morning of the tenth instant is the most auspicious time for having Your Majesty's nose cut and for seeing Nárdyana." Well done, O pope! Is in your almanack even the time for chopping off one's nose recorded. When the king made up his mind to have his nose cut off, he ordered that all those thousand men be fed at the expense of the State. On this they went into ecstasy and began to sing, dance and skip about. The ministers and some other wise people of the State did not like this affair. There was an old man 90 years old who was Prime Minister four generations back. His great grandson who was Prime Minister at the time told him everything. Thereupon he said 'that man is a scoundrel, take me to the king. He did as he was asked to do. When he had taken his seat, the king gladly told him everything about the Náráyana-seers, the old Diwan i.e., the late Prime Minister answered, Hear, O king. Do not be in such a hurry. One soon repents of what one has done precipitately without properly inquiring into it."

King.—Could all those thousand men be telling a lie?

Diwan.—They might be telling the truth or a lie. That cannot be decided until the matter has been properly investigated.

- K.—How to investigate it?
- D.—By the help of our knowledge of the Laws of Nature and the eight kinds of evidence, such as Direct Cognition.
 - K. How can one, who has not read, inquire into a matter?
 - D. By advancing his knowledge, by associating with the learned.
 - K. What should one do if one could not find a learned man?
 - D. Nothing is impossible for one who strives after a thing.
 - K. Pray, then, tell us what is to be done in this case?
 - D. I am an old man, live an indoor life and have only a few days more to live, let me then first test the truth of the contention of these men. You can, afterwards, do whatever you think proper.
 - K.—It is a very good suggestion. Find out, O Astrologer, the most auspicious time for our beloved Diwan (to have his nose cut).

Astrologer.—May it please Your Majesty! 10 A.M. on the 5th of this bright half of the current month is the most propitious time for this purpose. On the appointed day the old Diwan went to—the King at 8 A.M. and asked him to take a couple of thousand soldiers with him (to the place where his nose was to be cut).

- K.—What is the use of the soldiers there?
- , D.—Your Majesty is not so well-versed in state-craft. Have the kindness to do as I suggest.
- K.—Well, General! Go and get the soldiers ready. The King formed a procession and set out with ministers and other influential men at 9-30 A.M. When the Náráyana-seers saw the King coming towards them, they began to sing and dance The King sent for their leader who was the founder of this sect and was the first one whose nose was cut, spoke to him thus "Show Náráyana to our Diwan to day." He assented. When it was ten o' clock, a man held a plate under the nose of the old Diwan, while the leader of the Náráyana-seers chopped off his nose with a sharp knife and placed it on the plate. A stream of blood began to flow from his nose, and the Diwan's face became pale. That rascal, then, whispered into his ear "You too also laugh and tell the people that you see Náráyana now. Remember a cut nose cannot be made whole and if you don't say what I tell you, every body will laugh at you." After he had said this, he stood apart. The Diwan took his handkerchief and pressed it against his cut nose. The King asked him "Tell us pray if you can see Náráyana now." He whispered in the King's ear "I see nothing. This rascal has, without any cause, disfigured and misled these thousand people." The King, then, asked him what he advised The Diwan answered "Arrest them all, inflict him to do. heavy punishment on them and keep them in prison as long as they live. whilst the scoundrel who led them all astray should be placed on the back of a donkey. Let various indignities be heaped upon him and let him, then, be put to death. When the Náráyanaseers saw the King and his Diwan whispering into each other's ears they made preparations for running away, but being surrounded on all sides by the soldiers they could not escape. The King ordered. "Let all of them be arrested and fettered. Let their villanous ring-leader's face be blackened. Let him be made to ride on a donkey and wear a necklace of torn and tattered shoes and pass through all the principal streets of the town in this condition. Let the children throw dust and ashes on him. Let him then be beaten with shoes in all the chief thoroughfares and finally put to death by being torn to pieces by dogs. If this rogue be suffered to go unpunished, nothing will deter others from following his evil example." Thus did the cult of the Náráyana-seers come to an ignominous end. Like them there are plenty of other people opposed to the teachings of the Veda who are very clever in defrauding others of their money. Such are the evil doings of various sects. The followers of the Swami Narayana cult resort to trickery, fraud, and imposition in order to fleece others. Many among them, in order to mislead the ignorant, declare on their death-bed that sahjanand seated on a white house has come to convey them to heaven and that he always came to that temple once a day. On the occasion of a fair the priests remain inside the temple while down below a shop is kept open which communicates with the temple through an opening. Whenever a cocoanut has been offered in the temple, it is thrown down into the shop through that whole. That cocoanut is again bought and offered by some other worshipper. Thus the same cocoanut is sold about a thousand times in a single day. Other articles are sold in the same way.

There is another thing peculiar to this sect. A Sadhu of this sect is made to do the work of the caste he belongs to, for instance, a barber Sadhu shaves, a potter Sadhu makes pots, a Sadhu who belongs to the artisan caste does the work of an artisan. A Sadhu, who is a bania (a shopkeeper) by caste does the work of a bania.

A Shudra Sadhu that of a Shudra. The priests of this sect have imposed a sort of tax on their followers and by their quackery amassed millions which go on multiplying every day. Whoever succeeds the Sahjanund throne marries and becomes a householder, wears jewellery (ornaments). Whenever he is invited to the house of one of his disciples, like the Gosácens he accepts offerings in his own name as well as in that of his wife, children, etc. The followers of this sect call themselves good company, whilst others they call but company! They never serve any one or show respect to any one, however good and learned he may be, if he belongs to some other faith, as it is considered a sin by them to do so. In public the Sádhus of this sect do not even see the face of a woman but in private who knows what evil practices are rampant among them. Nothing n uch has come to light. Here and there a few cases of adultery with men have come out. When those who hold high positions among them are about to die, their disciples throw them down into a secret well and give it out that such and such a holy man with body and all has gone to heaven. Salijánand himself came to take him away. He carried him away, in spite of our repeated requests, to let that holy man remain here as he was of great use here on this earth, but he replied that he was badly needed in heaven. They would say that they saw Salijanund and the air-ship with their own eyes. He seated that holy man in the air-ship and carried him up, while flowers were being showered on him.

Whenever a Sádlm falls ill and there is no hope of his recovery, he declares that he will go to heaven to-morrow night. The rumour says that if he did not happen to die that night but lost consciousness, he is still thrown (alive) into a well for fear of his prophecy turning out to be false. Similarly, when a Gokuliyá Gosáeen dies, his disciples say that the Gosáeen has spread out his lilá (sport)?

The Mantra that is taught by the Gosácens and Swámi Náráyana priests is the same, viz "Shri Krishna my shelter" which, they say, means that Shri Krishna is my shelter but it may also mean that Shri Krishna may seek my shelter.

All these sects compose mantras of absurd construction quite contrary to the rules of Grammar, etc. Their leaders being illiterate, cannot be acquainted with the laws of Grammar, and Philosophy.

O.—Is the Mádluwa faith good, then?

A.—Madhwists are like other sectarians. They are also Chakránkitus with this difference that the latter i.e, the followers of Rámánuja have themselves branded (with red hot-iron) only once in life while the Mádhwists brand themselves once a year, the Chakránkits make a yellow line on the forehead while the Mádhawists a black one. A Mahátma (great soul) had the following discussion with a Mádhwa Pandit.

(Muhátmá). Why have you made that black line and a moon like mark on your fore-head?

(The Pundit). It will lead me to heaven (Baikuntha), besides, the great Krishna was also dark, this is another reason for our making a black line on the forehead.

(Mahátmá). If, by drawing a black line and making a moon-like mark on the forehead you go to heaven, where will you go if you were to blacken your whole face. If you want to become like Krishnu, you will have to blacken your whole body as he was black all over his body.

It is clear, then, that the Mádhavists are no better than other sectarians.

- O.—What do you think of Lingankit faith?
- A.—It is quite like the Chalrránleit cult Just as the Chalrránleits are banded with a red-hot iron ring and believe in none but Náráyana, in like manner the Linyánleits are branded with a red-hot linys a (phallus) and believe in none but Mahádeva, with this addition that a linyánleit wears a linya of stone covered with silver or gold hanging from his neck. Even before he drinks water, he shows it to the linya. The mantra of Linyanleits is like that of Shivites.
 - O.—Are the Bráhmu Samáj and Prárthná Samája good?
- A.—Their system of belief has a few good points whilst many that are objectionable,
- O.—The Bráhma Samája and Prárthná Samája are the best of all, as their principles are very good.
- A.—Their principles are not altogether good, since it is impossible that the work of men ignorant o' the Vedas could ever be altogether good.

Their good points are:-

- 1. They have saved a small number of people from embracing Christianity.
- 2. They have helped to abolish idolatry to some extent.
- 3. They have freed people to some extent from the shackles of false books.

Their objectionable points are:-

- (i) The people belonging to these Samájes are very much wanting in patriotism, have imitated the Christians in many things, have even altered the rules and regulations governing marriage and eating and drinking with others.
- (ii) Let alone being proud of their country and the greatness of their fore-fathers, they run them down to their hearts' content, laud the Christians and other Europeans to the skies in their lectures. They not only never mention the names of Brahmá and other sages of yore, but, on the other hand, they say that since Creation there have never been men so learned as the Europeans. The people of Aryávartta (India) have always been ignorant and never made any progress.
- Leave alone speaking well of the Vedas and the (iii) Shástrus, they have not even kept aloof from speaking ill of them. In the sacred book of the Bráh na Samája the names of Christ, Moses, Muhammad, Nanak, and Chaitanya are mentioned in the list of holy men but not a single name from among the sages and seers of the past. One can easily infer from this that these people hold the same beliefs as have been taught by those whose names are recorded in their sacred book as holy Though these men are born in Aryávartta. have lived on its products and are still doing the same, yet they have renounced the religion of their fore-fathers and are, instead, inclined too much towards the foreign religions, call themselves scholars, while they are quite destitute of the indigenous Sanskrit learning, and, pluming themselves on the knowledge of English, have been so precipitate in founding a new religion. how can these things conduce to lasting happiness and progress of mankind?
- (iv) They eat and drink most indiscriminately, i.e., they even cat and drink with the Europeans, Muhammadans and out-caste people, &c. They must have thought that promiscuous eating and drinking and the breaking of caste alone will lead to their reformation as well as to that of their country but such things can bring about no reformation, on the contrary can cause great mischief.

- O.—Is class-distinction God-made or man made?
- A.—It is both God-made and man-made.
- O.—Which distinction is God-made and which man-made.
- A.—The division of living beings into men, animals, birds, water-creatures, has been created by God, and again, division of animals into such classes as cows, horses, elephants, and of trees into such classes as Ficus Religiosum, bunyan and mango, and of birds into swans, crows, herons and the like, and of water-creatures into fishes and crocodiles is God-made, in like manner the divisions of men into Bráhmans, Kshalriyas, Vaishyas, and Shúdras is Godmade (but this does not mean that men are born as Bráhmans Kshatriyas, etc., it only means that in every community men naturally fall under four heads, Brahmans, Kshatriyas, Vaishyas and Shudras). The system of Classes and Orders should be instituted in accordance with what has been written before; in other words men should be divided into different classes according to their respective nature, attributes, qualifications and merits Now. this is the work of man himself, hence it is said that this distinction of classes is man-made. It is the duty of the king and other good and learned men to examine all men thoroughly and then place every one of them into one of the four classes—Brahman, Kshatriya, Vaishya and Shúdra—according to his qualifications and merits.

Even the differences of food are God-made and man-made. For instance, the lion is a carnivora whilst the rhinoceros is a vegetarian. This difference in their foods is God-made. But the differences in food among men vary with the customs and manner of different countries and ages. These differences are man-made.

- O.—Look at the Europeans! They wear boots, jackets and trousers, live in hotels and eat of the hands of all. These are the causes of their advancement.
- A.—This is your mistake, since the Muhammadans and low-caste people eat of the hands of every one and yet they are so backward. The causes of their advancement are:—
 - 1. The custom of child-marriage does not prevail among them.
 - 2. They give their boys and girls sound training and education.

- 3. They choose their own life-partners. Such marriages are called Swyamvara, because a maid chooses her own consort.
- 4. They do not allow their children to associate with bad people. Being well educated, they do not fall into the snares of any unprincipled person.
- 5. Whatever they do, they do after discussing it thoroughly among themselves and referring it to their representative assembly.
- 6. They sacrifice every thing, their wealth—their hearts, aye their very lives—for the good of their nation.
- 7. They are not irdolent, on the contrary, live active lives.
- 8. They allow boots and shoes made in their country, (or those made after their pattern in this country) to be taken into courts, and offices, but never Indian shoes. This must suffice to convince you that they value their boots much more than the natives of this country.
- 9. They have been in this country for more than one hundred years, and yet they wear thick clothing, as they used to do at home, up to this day. They have not changed the fashion of their country, but many among you have copied their dress. This shows that you are foolish, while they are wise. No wise man will ever imitate others.
 - 10. Every one among them does his duty most faithfully.
 - 11. They always obey orders (of their superiors).
 - 12. They help their countrymen in trade, etc.

It is the possession of such sterling qualities and the doing of such noble deeds that have contributed to the advancement of the Europeans. They have not become great by wearing boots, shoes and eating in hotels and doing such other ordinary things or by doing evil things.

Besides, caste distinctions are also to be found among them. Whenever an European, however high his rank or station in life may be, marries a girl of non-European parentage or one whose religion is different from his own or when a European girl marries a non-European, they stop all intercourse with him or her. He or she is an outcast. They do not invite him or her to their social functions, nor do they eat at the same table with him or her, nor do they have such relations as of marriage with his or her children.

What are these if not caste? They mislead you simpletons by saying that there are no caste distinctions among them, and you, through your simplicity, are even foolish enough to believe what they say.

Hence, whatever you do, do it after giving it a most careful thought and attention, so that you may not have to repent of it afterwards.

It is a sick man that needs a physician and his medicines, but not one who is in good health. An enlightened man is like a healthy man whilst an ignorant man is like one who is efflicted with disease. His disease is ignorance. To cure him of this disease, the teaching and preaching of truth and the imparting of true knowledge are the proper remedies Through their ignorance the orthodox imagine that religion consists in proper eating and drinking alone. Whenever they find a person conducting himself improperly in the matter of eating and drinking, they at once infer and say that he is polluted and forthwith they cease to pay any attention to what he says and associate with him. Now pray tell us whether your knowledge is for your selfish good or for the good of others. Of course, it would have been for the good of others had those ignorant people been profited by it. If you say that you can't help it if they do not profit by it, it can not be true. You are to blame and not they, because had you behaved properly, they would have loved you and consequently profited by your knowledge. You have sought after your happiness and consequently destroyed the good of thousands. You have greatly sinned in doing so, since it is a sin to do others harm while it is meritorious to promote public good. Hence it behoves an enlightened man to conduct himself properly and help the ignorant to cross the ocean of misery. He should not act like a fool. On the contrary, he should act in such a manner as would help him as well as others to make some progress every day.

- 5. O.—We do not believe that any book is revealed by God or contains nothing but truth, since no man is infallible, all books made by him must be fallible. Hence we accept truth from all quarters and reject untruth. Truth, be that in the Vedu, the Bible or the Qoran, is acceptable to us but not untruth found in any book.
- A.—That which helps you to embrace truth, will also cause you to accept untruth. When all men are falliable, you being men cannot be otherwise. Consequently whatever you say or write cannot be altogether true, hence you cannot be entirely depended upon. This being the case, your beliefs deserve to be rejected like the food which is mixed with poison. No one can, there fore, accept your sacred book as authoritative. You are no more omniscient than others, hence occasionally you would, through error of judgment, be liable to reject a truth and accept an untruth. It, therefore, behoves us all, whose nature and knowledge are finite, to lean on the Word of the infinite, Omniscient, Omnipotent, Supreme Spirit as we have stated in the 7th Chapter of this book which treats of the Vedus as revealed books. You should also believe the same, otherwise the proverb. "Lost on one side as well as on the other" will be applicable to you. When truth and nothing but truth is to be found in the Vedas, you do yourselves as well as others harm in hesitating to accept them (as the Supreme Authority in the ascertainment of truth). This is the reason that the people of this country (Aryavarta) do not look upon you as their own (flesh and blood). You have not been of any help in the advancement of your country as you beg from door to door (i.e. have borrowed a few religious beliefs, (truths) from the Mohamadans, and a few others from the Christians and so on). You think that by, doing so you will be able to do good to yourselves as well as to others, but that you will never be able to do Just as if the parents of a child were to take upon themselves to nurse all the childern in the world, it will be impossible for them to succeed in it, on the contrary, they will lose even their own childern (i.e., their own childern will die from want of care), the same is true of you. Now, how can you test the truth or error of your beliefs or bring about the advancement of your country without accepting the Vedus and the Shástras as the Supreme authority. You have no remedy for the disease this country is afflicted with. The Europeans do not care for you, whilst the natives of this country look upon you as followers of an alien religion. Even now it is not too late for you to recognise your mistake and further the cause of your country with the help of the Vedas and other true Shástras. When you to hold that all truths come from God, why don't you then, accept the truths embodied in the Vedas revealed to the sages by God? Of course, it is because you have neither read the Vedas nor have any desire to do so, how can you then profit by the knowledge embodied in them?

- 6. You believe in the creation of the world without a material cause and also that the soul was created just as the Christians and the Mohamedans do. We have discussed this subject in the 7th and 8th Chapters of this book and shown therein that this position is quite untenable. It is altogether impossible for an effect to come into being without a cause and it is equally impossible for a created object not to cease to exist.
- 7. Another objection against your faith is that you believe in the forgiveness of sins through prayer and repetence. This doctrine is responsible for the increase of sin in this world. For, according to the pauranics a man can be rid of his sins by making pilgrimage to holy places, according to the Jainers by muttering the mantrus called Navalar and making pilgrimage (to sacred places), according to the Christians by (believing in) Christ, and according to the Mohamadans by saying 'I repent.' There being nothing in these faiths to deter people from the commission of sins, the tendency towards sinful life has greatly increased. You are quite like the Pauranics in this respect. Had you read the Vedas or heard them being read, you would have known that no sin can be remitted till one has suffered for it. This would have deterred you from sinning and caused you to tread the path of righteousness. If one could be freed of his sins without having previously suffered for them, God would stand guilty of being unjust.

- 8. You believe in the eternal progress of the soul. Now, this belief is altogether untenable, since the finite nature, attributes and actions of the soul can only produce finite results.
- O.—God being Merciful can award infinite merit for finite actions.
- A.—Should He do so His justice will be destroyed. Besides, no one will make any progress in the practice of virtue, because even a few good works will suffice to produce infinite results. Such doctrines as the forgiveness of sins, however numerous, through repetence and prayer lead to the increase of sins and decay of virtue.
- O.—We believe that the instinctive knowledge is even superior to the Vedus. Had there been no instinctive knowledge given to us by God how could we have learnt the Vedus and tought them to others? Hence our faith is very good.
- A.—This is all nonsense. The knowledge given by another cannot be called instinctive. What is instinctive is natural, it can neither increase nor decrease nor can it help any one to make any progress, since the savages also possess this instinctive knowledge and yet they have not made any progress. The acquired knowledge alone is the cause of progress. Now, mark you! All of us during our childhood did not posses accurate knowledge of right and wrong, virtue and vice, but after having studied under our learned teachers, we were enabled to distinguish between right and wrong, virtue and vice. Hence it is wrong to hold that the instinctive knowledge is the best.
 - 9. You must have copied the Christians and Muhammadans in your disbelief in the pre-existence of the soul and its re-birth (after death). For full discussion of the subject the 7th Chapter of this book may be consulted, wherein we have refuted various objections urged against this doctrine (of metampsychosis). You should understand that the soul is eternal (beginningless and endless), its actions also must be eternal like the flow of a river.1 The doer and the deed are eternally related to each other (i.e., the relation between the doer and the deed is indissoluble). Was the soul, then, sitting idle before its present birth or will it remain idle after death? If your belief be pushed to its logical conclusion, it will end in showing that even God (will be) idle (after the present Creation). Disbelief in the previous existence of the soul and its rebirth after death attributes to God the injustice of conferring benefits or inflicting suffering for deeds never done and of depriving the soil of the fruits, pleisure or pain -- of its libour, respectively. For, if there were no rebirth of the soul after death, all the deeds done in this life will bear no fruit, since the fruits of virtuous or sinful acts done in this life cannot be reaped till the re-embodied. And, again, how can it be consistent with the justice of God to bestow happinessor inflict suffering on the soul during this life, if it had had no previous life (and, therefore had not done any deeds to merit reward or punishment). If it were otherwise i e., if the pleasure or pain in this life be not awarded in accordance with one's deeds done during his previous life, God will be guilty of injustice and besides, the deeds done in this life will go unawarded (as the soul will not be re-embodied). fore. it is not right not to believe in the doctrine of metampsychosis.

- 10 It is also wrong on your part not to believe in other devas, such as those objects that possess useful and brilliant qualities or learned men, besides God, because God is called Mahádeva (or the Lord of devas. How would be have been called Mahádeva had there been no devas.
- 11. It is also not good of you not to regard the performance of $hom \, \iota$ and other useful acts that promote public good, as duties incumbent on every individual.
- 12. It is also not right on your part not to feel grateful to the sages and seers of yore who have conferred so many benefits on man kind and, instead, incline so much towards Christ etc.
- 13. The belief that the various kinds of knowledge, science and philosophy—the effect—came into existence without the help of the Vedus, the source of all light and knowledge—the cause—is altogether untenable.

^{1.} See Chapter IX for an explanation of the expression elernal like the flow of a river.-Tr.

- 14. It is also absurd to do away with Yajnopavíta and Shikhá—signs of learning that distinguish the literate twice-born Classes from the illitrate Shúdrus—and become like the Muhammadans and the Christians—when you dress in English clothes to look respectable and educated, and seek medals, etc. Had Yujnopavíta and Shijhá become too cumbersome for you?
- 15. There have been many good and learned men since the time of Brahmá. You never say a word in their praise, while you are never tired of singing the praises of the Europeans. Now, what would you call it but flattery and prejudice?
- 16. It is self-contradictory to believe that the soul was the result of the union of the inanimate with the animate, just as a sprout comes out as result of the union of the seed with the soil, to deny its existence before it was created and then to say that, though created, it shall never cease to exist. If there was nothing, animate or inanimate, besides God, before Creation, where did the soul come from? Whose union took place (which resulted in the production of the soul)? Of course, it will be alright if you were to believe that the soul and matter were eternal beginningless). But this will go against your belief that, before the Creation of the world, nothing but God existed.

Hence if you are anxious for the advancement of your country, you would do well to join the Arya Samaj and conduct yourselves in accordance with its aims and objects. Otherwise, you (will simply waste your lives and) gain nothing in the end. It behoves us all to lovingly devote ourselves with all our heart, with all our wealth, and aye even with our lives, to the good of our country, the land of our birth, the land of the products of which we have lived, the land which sustains us still and will continue to do so in the future. No other Samaj or Society can equal the Arya Samaj in its power to raise Aryavarta. It will be a very good thing, indeed, if you, would all help this Samaj, as the capability of a Samaj or Society to do good depends not, on any single individual but on all the members that support it.

O.—You have all along been refuting every body. All religions are good, hence it is not good to criticise any one (of them). What do you tell us better than others? Even if you do, has there been no one equal to you or greater than you? It does not become you to be so vain. In this universe, created by God, there are men of all grades. Let no one, therefore, harbour conceit.

A.—Does the same Dharma (religion) hold good for all? If you say no, we ask, are the different religions opposed to each other or otherwise? If you answer they are opposed to one another, one of them can only be true, but if you aver that they are in harmony with each other, it is useless to have different names. It follows, therefore, the same dharma (religion) and adharma (irreligion) hold good for all. This is what we teach differently from others. If an Emperor were to make a list of all the different religions, (extant in the world) they would not be less than one thousand but the chief among them are only four in number viz., the Puranic, the Christian, the Jain, (or the Budhistic) and the Muhammadan. All other sects are included in these four. If he should now turn an enquirer after truth and ask a Váma Márji "Reverenced Sir! I have never had a preceptor before, nor embraced any religion yet. Tell me, pray, which you think is the best religion in the world, so that I should embrace it.

V.—Our religion is the best.

Inquirer.—What do you think of the remaining nine hundred and ninety-nine?

V.—They are all false and lead their followers to hell. It is also written "There si no religion higher than the Váma Márga."

I.—What is your religion?

- V.—It consists in believing in the Goddess Bhagvati, in using five things beginning with the letter M, such as mánsa (meat) Madrá (wine), etc., and holding the 64 Tantras, such as Rudra-yámal etc. as sacred books If you want to be saved, embrace our faith and become our disciple.
- I.—Alright, I will see other holy men as well and make enquiries about their religion. I will, afterwards, embrace the religion in which I have the greatest faith and for which I feel the greatest love.
- V.—My goodman! Why are you in doubt? These people will mislead and ensnare you into their nets. Don't you go to any other religionists, take refuge in our faith or you will repent. Mark you! Our faith holds too the prospect of enjoyment of sensual pleasures as well as the hope of salvation.
- I.—Well, anyhow I will inquire into this question (from others). He, then, went to a Shivite and put him the same question as he had done to the Váma Máry who gave him the same sort of answer as the latter had done, with this addition that without believing in Shiva, wearing Rudráksha and smearing the body with ashes and worshipping phallus, no one can be saved. He left the Shivite and went to a Neo-Vedántist and addressed him thus "Tell me, O Reverend Sir! what is your Dharma?"

Neo-Vedántist.—We do not believe in religion or irreligion. We believe ourselves to be God, we can not be effected by religion or irreligion. The whole world is an allusion. Shouldest thou desire to be possessed of true wisdom and pure consciousness, get it out of thy mind that thou art soul, believe thyself to be Brahmu (God) and thou shall be saved for ever.

- I.—If you are Brahma (God), Who is Eternally-free, why don't you possess the nature, attributes and characteristics of Brahma, and why are you imprisoned in this (human) body?
- N.—Thou seest body (we don't). This is because thou art in ignorance. We see nothing but Brahma.
 - I.—Who are you that see, and whom do you see?
 - N.—It is Brahmu that sees and Brahma sees Brahma.
 - I.—Are there two Brahmas, then?
 - N.-No, Brahma sees His Ownself.
- I.—Can any one stand on his own shoulders? There is no sense in what you say. You talk like a madman.

He, then, went further and inquired from Jainees what they thought was the true religion. They answered in the same fashion as the other three had done but with this addition that all other religions but the Jain, are false. There is no eternal God, the Maker of this world. The world has been eternally existing as it is and will continue to exist for ever. Come, become our disciple, since, we are good in all respects, and all our doctrines, are true. All faiths except the Jain are false Then he proceeded further and put the same question to a Christian as he had done to others, who answered him in the same strain as the Váma Márja, but with this addition that all men are sinners, and can not free themselves from sin by their own exertions. No one can be saved until he has been purified through faith in Christ who revealed his (infinite) mercy by sacrificing his life by way of atonement for the sins of all mankind. Come and become a Christian. Having heard this, he went to a Maulvi (Muhammadan priest) and asked him the same question. gave him the same answer as others had done, with this addition that no one could obtain salvation without believing in one God Incomparable without a second, His prophet and the Holy Qoran:

Whosoever refused to believe in this religion would go to hell. He was an infidel and deserved to be put to the sword. He, then, went to a Vaishmavite and had the same sort of conversation with him who also added that a Yamarája (king of death) "trembles with fear at the sight of our tilak1 and chháp2." The inquirer thought in his mind "Well, if these things had no terror for mosquitoes, police constables, thieves and robbers, and one's enemies, why should the messengers of Death fear them?" As he went further, he found that every religionist called his own religion the best and the truest. One said that his religious teacher Kair was the true prophet. Another said the Nanak was the greatest teacher. Another said that Ballabha was the greatest among men, he was God incarnate whilst others said the same of Sahjánand and Mádhava, etc. Having questioned all those thousand religionists and found that they were all opposed to each other, he came to the conclusion that there was not one among them whose religion he could embrace as there were 999 witnesses against every one of them (who could swear that he was wrong). They were no better than the lying shopkeepers, prostitutes, and buffoons who bragged about their own commodities (at the expense of others) and cried down others. thought of those verses of the Upnishad which say "Let a seeker after truth, then, repair to a preceptor well versed in Vedas, who has realized God with a suitable present in his hands (and void the snares of hypocrites). He should initiate such an inquirer as is possessed of self-control, contentment and tran-Mundaka quility of mind, into the truly Divine science,—which I, ii, 12,13. treats of the nature, attributes and characteristics of God—and do all in his power to teach him what means he should adopt to learn the true nature of righteousness, wealth, legitimate desires, emancipation and God" When he met such a man he addressed him thus "O Reverend Sir! My mind is greatly perplexed by the wrangling of these various sects, should I become the follower of one of these, I shall make the remaining 999 my

4

तिहिज्ञानार् स गुरुमेवाभिगच्छेत्। समित्पाणिः श्रोत्रियं ब्रह्मानिष्ठम्॥ तत्मे स विद्वानुपत्तन्नाय सम्यक् प्रशान्ताचित्ताय शमिन्ताय। येनाच्तरं पुरुपं वेद सत्यं प्रोवाच तान्तच्वतो ब्रह्मविद्याम्॥ प्रुण्डक १।

¹ A mark made on the forehead.—Tr.

^{... 2.} Marks of having been branded with red-hot iron.—Tr.

enemies. How can one be happy who has 999 enemies and only one friend? Teach me, Sir, what I should accept."

The true teacher.—All these religions are the product of ignorance. They are the enemies of knowledge, mislead the ignorant, the foolish and the unenlightened and ensnare them into their nets, and thereby gain their selfish ends; these poor, ignorant people miss the object of their lives and waste them. In whatever they agree with each other, know that to be the Vedic religion, worthy of being accepted, but in whatever they all disagree, know that to be wrong, false, sinful and unacceptable.

I.—How am I to test what you say?

The true teacher.—You go and ask them all the 'following questions', they will be unanimous in their answers.

Thereupon the seeker after truth went to the assembly of 1.000 religionists and said with a loud voice "All you people! Lend me your eare. Tell me pray, whether it is dharma (right) to speak the truth or otherwise." They all answered with one voice. "It is right (dharma), to speak the truth, and wrong (adharma) to tell a lie." Similarly, on being questioned they declared unanimously that Dharma (true religion) consisted in acquiring knowledge, controlling sensual passions, marrying in the full bloom of life, associating with the good, cultivating active habits and being honest in dealings with others, whilst it was irreligion to remain ignorant, become a slave of the senses, commit adultery, keep bad company, be dishonest in dealings, practise fraud and hypocrisy, bear malice and do harm to others. Thereupon he asked them "Why don't you agree in this manner and advance the cause of true religion and eradicate false religions." They replied "should we do so, who will care for us. Our disciples will leave us, won't obey us, we shall lose our livelihood. We are new enjoying ourselves, all this enjoyment will be lost to us therefore even when we know what true religion is, we continue to teach our false, secretarian religions and refuse to abjure falsehood and embrace the true religion, acting on the proverb 'cheat the world with your cunning and enjoy youself.' Look here! it is like this. No one in this world gives anything to a man who is honest and true, nor does any body care for him. But he that resorts to hypocricy and fraud lives in plenty."

I.—Why does not the king punish you for swindling others by means of fraudulent practices?

These questions are the same as the inquirer puts to religionists in the next paragraph.—Ir.

We have made even the king our disciple. So you see, our arrangements are perfect. None shall escape us.

- I.—You rob others through fraud and thereby injure them, what answer will you give to your God? You will undoubtedly fall into an awful hell. You commit such sins for enjoying yourselves for this short span of (human) life. Why can't you give up these frauds?
- R.—When that happens we shall see what hell we fall into what punishment God inflicts on us, but now we enjoy ourselves. Why should the king punish us when we do not take anything from others by force, the people give us wealth out of their own free-will.
- I—You are just as punishable as a man who robs a child by coaxing him, or for it is said. "He who is ignormant is a child. He who is wise is called a father or an old man." Whosever is learned and wise does not fall into your snares but the ignorant who are like children fall an easy prey to your tickery and fraud. You ought to be punishable by law for defrauding them.
- R.—Who can punish us when both the ruler and the ruled are ourfollowers. When our profession is made punishable by law, we will change our programme, and make a different one
- I.—You now sit idle and swindle others, would it not be to your good as well as to that of the house-holders if you would pass your time in acquiring knowlege and teaching their childern?
- R.—Why should we give up life-long pleasures, pass our childhood and youth in acquiring knowledge and the rest of our lives in teaching and preaching? What shall we gain by it. We can now get hundreds and thousands of Rupees without doing any thing, live in ease and comfort and enjoy ourselves, why should we give up this easy life?
- I.—But it has awful consequences. You are afflicted with terrible diseases, die young, are looked down upon by the wise and yet you don't understand
- R.—Friend. You are a mere child yet and do not understand the world. Nothing can be done without money, no religion can exist without money, no good works can be performed without money and no salvation obtained without money. He who has no money always talks of money, looks at the good things of (his world) with avidity and sighs. His imagination runs in this strain : -Alas! I have no money. I wish I had money to enjoy all these good things. All men hear of the Indivisible, All-powerful, Being described as possessed of powers, but no one has seen Him. On the other hand, the Rupee of 16 annás is the real and visible God, hence it is that every one is engaged in the pursuit of making money, since all things can be accomplished with the help of money.

- I.—At last, the cat is out of the bag and we know you in your true colours. All this fraud that you have set up is for your selfish gain, but it tends to ruin the world. Just as the preaching of truth benefits the world, so does the teaching of untruth injure it. When what you want is only wealth, why don't you engage yourselves in trade and make your pile.
- R_{\bullet} —But, then, we shall have to work hard and run some risks of loss as well, while now in our present trade it is all profit and no loss. Now, mark! We make nectar water by putting a small branch of the holy basil in a jug of water and give a few drops of it to a man, tie a string of beads round his neck, (make him our Chela) disciple or He is like a best of burden for us as long as he lives. We can, then, drive him about as we like.
 - I.—What do these people give you all this money for?
- R.—For acquiring virtue, (dharma) entering heaven and attaining salvation.
- I.—When you are not yourseles saved, nor know the nature of salvation, nor the way to attain it, what would they get who serve you?
- R.—Is the reward for service ever to be got in this world? No, Sir! They are compensated for it (in the next world). Their reward will becommensurate with their services (to us) here.

टका धर्मष्टका कर्म टका हि परमं पद्म्। यस्य गृहे टका नास्ति हा । टका टकटकायते ॥ आना अंशकलाः प्रोक्ता रूपयोऽसो भगवान् स्वयम् । अतस्त सर्वे इच्छन्ति रूप्यं हि गुणवत्तमम् ॥

An Anna is equal to a penny.—Tr.

- I.—Whether they will get any thing in return for their services or not (is rather doubtful), what I should like to know is what will you, who accept their services (and money, etc.,) get? Hell or something else?
- R.—We devote ourseles to prayer, we shall gain happiness, in consequence thereof.
- I.—All your prayers are for gold which will all be left here after death, and ever the lump of flesh (i. e., human bodies) which you so nourish fondly will be (cremated) and reduced to ashes and remain here. Had you worshipped God (instead of Mammon) your hearts would have been pure.
 - R.—Are we impure, then?
 - I.—Your hearts are very impure, indeed
 - R.—How do you know that?
 - I.—From your conduct and dealings (with others).
- R.—The conduct of great men is like the treth of an elephant. He has one set of teeth to eat with, whilst another set (tusks) for show. In like manner, we are pure at heart but outwardly we resort to these (friudulent) practices by way of amusement.
- I.—Hid you been pure at heart you would have been upright in dealings with others. But you are not so, hence you have a very dirty interior.
- R.—We may be anything but our followers at least are good.
 - I.—Like masters, like pupils.
- R.—There can never be one religion for all mankind, for people differ so much in their nature, temperaments and characteristics.
- I.—If all were educated alike in childhood and would practise Dharma (righteousness) such as truthfulness in speech, and abhor albarma (unrighteousness) such as untruthfulness in speech, they would all certainly be of one religion. It is true thought that there will always be two kind of men, viz., righteous and unrighteous. But that does not matter. As long as the righteous outnumber the unrighteous, there is happiness in the world, but when the unrighteous, preponderate, suffering and misery increase. Were all good and learned men to teach alike, there will be one religion among all men in no time.
- R.—It is the Koliyuja (Iron age) now. Don't you expect things of the Satyuja (Golden age) in this age.

I—Kaliyuya is the name of a period of time. Time is actionless. It can not be a foctor in the causation of righteousness or unrighteousness. You yourselves are the incarnations of Kaliyuya. Virtue and vice in men are not natural but the result of the influence of association, (elucation, and envoironments etc.).

Having said this, he went to the Ipla (the true teacher) and addressed him thus: "O Reverend Sir! You have, indeed saved me, otherwise I should have fallen into the snares of one of these seets and ruined myself. Now I will expose the fraud of these hypocrites and preach the true religion of the Vedas."

The true teacher.—This is, indeed, the duty of all men, especially of learned men and Sányásis, to teach all men how to defend truth and refute untruth and thus, by the preaching of truth, promote public good.

O.—Are the Bruhmucháris and Sanyásis (of to-day) good.

A.—These to Orders are good in principle, but there is a great deal of hypocrisy rampant even among them now-a days. There are many among them who assume the name of Brahmachari, grow long-matted hair, pretened to possess wonderful powers, but are engrossed in muttering the name of some deity and in rituals. They never even take the name of studying. They do not at all exert themselves for the study of that Brahma - Veda-which gives them the name of Brahmachárí. All these Brahmachári are as useless as the teats (loose flesh) hanging from the neck of a goat. There are also any number of Sauliasees who are destitute of knowledge, and carry staffs and water-gourds -symbols of their Order-with them, but do nothing to further the cause of the Vedic religion. Such men generally enter into Sanyas when they are quite young, leave off their studies and wander about begging from place to place. Such Brahmacharis and Sanyásees waste their time, in visiting sacred places (such as rivers, hills, temples etc.,) and stone images, and paying homage to them, do not preach even when they are well-versed in learning and find hypocrisy, and false practices rompant in the land, eat and drink and live in ease (not caring a brass farthing for their country). They are engrossed in their little jealousies and feuds. revile each other and conduct themselves improperly (in various other ways. It is thus that they pass their time.

They seem to think that they have done their duty simply by wearing ochre-coloured garments and carrying their staffs and water-gourdo, believe themselves to be superior to all, never do any good work. Such Shanásis live useles lives in this world. Of course, those among them who are engaged in altruistic works are alright.

O.—Are Giris Paris and Bhártis and other Gosarens good? They go about in groups, help thousands of Sádhus to enjoy themselves, preach Vodánta (pantheism) wherever they go, and read and teach a little, therefore, they must be very good people, indeed.

A.—All these ten names such as Giri, Puri, etc., are not ancient but of recent origin. They form themselves into groups for the sake of getting good food. There are plenty of Sád hus who join these compunies for food only. They practise a great deal of hyprocrisy as well For instance, they make one of their company their Milliant (religious superior) wdo is also their headman. Every evening he sits on a raised cushioned seat, all the Sádhus and Bráhmans stand up before him with flowers in their hands, read such couplets as "Unto Narayana, Padama'ha, Vasis-Shakti, his son Parashar, Vyása, Shuka, and the great Gaurhthapida," and then shout Hara Hara (God, God), shower flowers on him and prostrate themselves before him. Whosoever does not want to do it, finds it hard even to live among them. They practise all this hypocrisy for mere show so that they may get a name for holiness in the world, and thereby obtain plenty of money to enjoy themselves. There are any number of abdots, (heads of convents or sacred places) who, though married, pride them selves on being Sanáysis. They do nothing (useful). They never perform the duties of Sanyásis (Vide Chapter V) and simply waste their time. They even oppose one who gives them good advice. Mostly these people smear their bodies with ashes and wear Rudrálesha. Some of them are proud of belonging to the Shriv sect. In religious discussions they advocate Shrivism as taught by Shan'carachárya and refute Chakránkitism. They never engage in advocating the Vedic religion nor in refuting false faiths. These Savyasis hold they have nothing to do with the advocacy of truth or the refutation of untruth, because they are great souls Such people are a mere burden to the community. No wonder then that religions and sects opposed to the Ved is, such as the Váma Máry, the Christian and Mohammadan have multiplied and are still on the increase while they (i. e., the followers of the Vedic religion) themselves are being decimated and yet their eyes won't open, but how is it possible when there is no zeal in their hearts for promoting public good and doing their duties. These people set a higher value on their dinner than on anything else, are very much afraid of the consure of the world. Sanyasis are enjoined to abujure love of public applause, love of wealth and sensual enjoyments and love of kith and kin and disciples. How can they be called Sanyásis when they have not been able to renounce these passions? It is the paramoun duty of a Sanyásis to devote himself day and night to the promotion of the good and happiness of the world by impartial preaching of the Vedic religion It is useless for them to call themselves Sanyásis as long as they do not do the duties obligatory on their Order. It is only when the Sanyasis devote themselves to the promotion of public good more earestly than do the househdolers, actuated by self-interest to their own affairs, that all Orders remain progressive. Mark you, False faiths are increasing before your very eyes the people are even turning Christions and Mohammudans, you do not make the least effort to protoct pour own people and convert others to your faith (i.e., Vedie religion)? You could do it only if vou had a mind (to doit). As long as you Sanyásis do not improve your-selves, the inhabitants of Aryav rta and other countries will not make any real progress. A country makes genuine progress only when the causes of advancement such as the study and teaching of the Vedus and other true Shástrás, the keeping f Brahmachurya and other Orders in good condition, and preaching of truth, are in operation, Bear (you Sányásis) in mind. there are many false and hypocritical practices in vogue which you really know to be such. For hypocritical instance, a Sádhu with trading propensities declares himself to be a saint (Sidh t). He claims to possess miraculcus powers such as making the childless women bear children. On hearing this many women go to him and, with folded palms, pray for sons, that fraud of a Saint blesses them all saying "You shall bear sons." Whosoever among them bears a son, attributes this happy event to the blessing of our Saint. Poor woman! What answer will she make if she were asked "by whose blessing did pigs, donkeys, bitches and hens get their little ones? There are others who declare that they can bring the dead to life. The ignorant believe it to be true. Now, why should these people themselves die if they possessed the power they pretend to. There are other rascals. again, who invent such cunning devices as to deceive the cleverest.

नारायणं पद्मभवं विसष्ठं शक्तिं च तत्पुत्रपराशरं च । ब्यासं शुकं गोडप्दं महान्तम् ॥

Take, for instance, the thugs of Dhundsuri. They go to distant countries in parties of five or seven. Whoever among them looks robust and is of a taking appearance is appointed their-leader. Henceforth, he is a Sidha (sain. They place him in a sequestered place outside a rich town or village and themselves go into the town and ask every one who comes across their way if he has seen or heard of such and such Mahatmá (Saint). He asks "Who and of what kind is that Máhalmá?" They answer. he is a great Saint. He can tell what passes in your midd, Whatever he says comes to pass. He is the king of yojis, we have left our hearths and homes in his juest we heard from some one that he had come this way. The house-holder rejoins: "When you happed to meet that Saint, please do not fail to inform me also of it. I shall also have the pleasuse of seeing him and questioning him about my heart's desires." All day long they repect the same story to any one who meets them. At night they all assemble together at the rendezvo, eat and drink together and sleep in the some place. They get up in the morning and all the four accomplices of our Saint again go into the town and repeat the same story. This goes on for two or three days. Then they go to a rich man and tell him that they have found the Saint and if desired to see him they could take him. When he is about to accompany them, they ask him what he wanted to inquire (from the Saint). He says, that he wanted to have a son or wealth or to be cured of some disease or overcome his enemy. They then take him to our Saint and seat him according to the understanding between the Saint and his accomplices. Thus if the visitor be desirous of getting wealth, they seat him on the right of our Saint, if of a son, in his front, if of getting cured of some disease on his left, if of overcoming his enemy, they bring him fro n behind and seat him among those who are in front. The instant the visitor salutes him, our Saint, proud of his powers, cries out with a loud voice "Do I keep sons in store here that thou hast come with the desire of getting a son," or "Do I keep bags full of gold here that thou hast come with the desire of getting wealth. Mendicants never have wealth," or "Am I a doctor that thou hast come with the desire of getting cured. I am not a doctor that I should cure thee. Go thou to a doctor." These rogues have also certain signs by means of which they indicate to the Saint what relation the sick man bears to the visitor; for instance, if it be his father, one of the accomplices raises his thumb, if his mother, index finger, if his brother, middle finger, if his wife ring-finger

i. i. e, the man who was addressed to first.—Tr.

if his daughter little finger; and therefore our Saint, can at once tell if his father, mother, brother, wife or daughter is ill. The visitor is quite captivated by these answers. The scoundrels say to him " Is not he what we told you." The visitor replies "Yes, he is the same as you told me, you have done me a great favour. I am, indeed, very lucky to have had the pleasure of seeing him." Thereupon the rogues say "Look here, brother, this Saint is his own master. He is not likely to stay here for long. If you want to have his blessing, serve him with all your heart, soul and wealth because it is said "It is service that bears fruit." Should he get pleased with any one, who knows what blessing he may give him as the old proverb says "Most inscrutable are the ways of Saints!" The visitor having heard such soft and soapy words is highly pleased and wends his way back home praising the Saint. The swindlers also go with him, lest any one should expose their fraud. He also praises our Saint before his friends or other people who happen to meet him in the way. By and by, the news spread all over the town and then there is a great hallobaloo. Every one is heard to say "A great Saint has come and put up at such and such a place, let us go to see him." When people go there and put questions to the Saint as to what their heart-felt desires are, all order being lost he does not answer any question and remains quite silent execpt that he says "Pray don't tease me." Thereupon all his accomplices begin to say. "If you tease him any more, he will go away." Whoever is a very rich man in the crowd, takes one of the accomplices to one side and says "Let the Saint tell me what passes in my mind and I shall believe him to be true." The Swindler asks him what it is, the rich man tells him what his desire is, the Swindler, then, takes him and seats him according to the above understanding. The Saint at once tells him what his desire is. The whole crowd hears his answer, it is in the mouth of every one that he is indeed a very great Saint. Every one brings an offering according to his position, such as sweets, copper, silver, gold, cloth and flour, etc. The swindlers fleece them as long as the presents keep pouring in. Some time our Saint can come across one or two such men as have more money than brains' who pay him a thousand rupees or so in return for which he gives them a pinch of ashes and his blessing for a son in the following words "If thy devotion be true, thou shalt get a son." There are many such thugs who can only be found out by men of intelligence and enlightenment. The study of the Vedas and association with the good and the learned enables one to escape the clutches of such swindlers since the true visual organ of man is knowledge. Without education and culture, there can be no enlightenment. They alone are entitled to be called men and scholars who receive good education and training in early life, whilst those who live in bad company, become wicked, sinful and remain most foolish and thereby suffer terribly. Hence it is declared that knowledge is the highest thing in the world. Whosoever knows believes.

It is said "Whosoever does not know the merits or the properties of an object always runs it down just as a Bhil rejects the beautifully-fragrant Gajamuktás flowers and, instead, wear a garland of Gunjá. In like manner, he alone, who is learned, wise, and virtuous and associates with the good, is a Yoyi, is studious, energetic, possesses self-control and is gentle, reaps the fourfold fruit of human life, viz., practice of right-eousness, acquisition of wealth, gratification of legitimate desires, and attainment of salvation and thereby lives in happiness here in this world as well as in the life to come.

We have thus briefly discussed the religions of the people of Aryávarta. We shall now publish, for the informance of all, a brief history that we have come across of the Arya kings.

We give a list of the Arya kings of Aryavarta which includes all the rulers from the Emperor Yudhisthira to the Emperor Yushapála. The history of the Aryan Emperors of India from Swayambhwa to Yudhisthira is given in such books as the Muhábhárata. The reader will get an idea of the history of the Aryun Rulers from Yudhisthira downwards. This is a translation of what appeared in the fortnightly, called Harish Chandriká and Mohan Chandriká issused from Shrináthdwára at Chittora, the capital of Udaypur State in Rajputana. It will, indeed, greatly benefit the country if the Arya people (i. e., the natives of India) will make a continued search for books on ancient history (of India) and on other branches of knowledge and publish them. The Editor of the said fortnightly got a book in manuscript written in 1782 Vikram (1725 A. D.) from a friend of his and published a brief summary of the Aryan Emperors in the two issues of his Journal, Nos. 19 and 20, in the year 1939 Vikrama (or 1882 A. D.), which is given below:—

न वेत्ति यो यस्य गुणप्रकर्षं स तस्य निन्दां सततं करोति । यथा किराती करिकुम्भजाता मुक्ताः परित्यज्य विभर्ति गुङ्जाः ॥ वृ० चा• अ० ११ । श्लो० १२ ..

GENEOLOGY OF THE ARYAN EMPERORS OF ARYAVARTA.

The Aryas ruled in Indraprasthu (Modern Delhi) from the time of the Emperor Yudhishthira down to that of the Emperor Yashpála. The total number of the Rulers is about 124, the period covered by their rules 4,157 years, 9 months and 14 days. Its detail is as follows:—

About 30 emperors belonging to the House of Yudhish-thira ruled in Indraprastha collectively for 1,70 years, 11 months and 10 days. Its detail is as follows:—

No.	Names of Aryan Emperors.		Years.	Months.	Days
1	Ywlhishthira		36	8	35
2	Paríkshita		60		••••
3	Janamejaya	••••	84	7	23
4	Ashwamedha	••••	82	. 8	22
5	Ráma II.		88	2	8
6	Chhatra Mala	•••	81	11	27
7	Chítraratha		75	3	18
8	Dushtashail ya	•••	75	10	24
9	Uyrasena	••••	78	7	21
10	Shúrasena		78	7	21
11	Bhuvanapati	•••	6 9	5	5
			1	 	l

No.	Names of Ar	yan E	Emperors	Years.	Months.	Days.
12	Ranajita	••••	••••	65	10	4
13	Rikshaka	••••	••••	64	7	4
14	Sukhdeva	••••	••••	6 2	••••	24
15	Naraharideva	 .	••••	51	10	2
16	Suchiratha	••••	••••	42	11	2
17	Shúrasena II	••••	••••	58	10	8
18	Parvatasena		•••	5 5	8	10
19	Medh á ví	••••	••••	52	10	10
20	Sonachíra _.	••••	••••	50	8	21
21	Bh ím ad e v a	••••		47	9	20
24	Nriharideva			45	11	23
23	Púrnamala	••••		44	8	7
24	Karadaví			44	10	8
25	Alammika	••		50	11	8
26	Udayap á la			38	9	••••
27	Duvanamala	••••		40	10	26
28	Da má ta			32		••••
29	Bhímapála	••••		58	5	8
30	Kshemaka	••••		48	11	21

The Prime Minister Vishravá killed his Emperor Kshemaka and began to rule himself in his place. Fourteen emperors belonged to his House who ruled collectively in Indraprastha for 500 years, 3 months, and 17 days, thus:—

No.	Names of Aryan Emperors.			Years.	Months.	Days.
1	Vishravá	•••	•••	17	3	29
2	Purasení			42	8	21
3	Víraseni	•••		52	10	7
4	Ananyash áy í	•••	•••	47	8	23
5	 Harij í t	•••	•••	35	9	17
6	Paramsení	•••		44	2	23
7	Sukhap átál a	•••	•••	30	2	21
8	Kadruta	•••	•••	42	9	24
9	 Sajja	•••	••••	 32	2	14
10	Amarchúra	•••	•••	27	3	16
11	Amípála	•••	•••	22	11	25
12	Dashratha	•••	•••	25	4	12
13	Víras á la	•••	•••	31	8	11
14	Vírasalasena	•••	•••	47		14

The Prime Minister Viramahá killed his Emperor Virasálusena and began to reign in his place. Sixteen emperors of his House ruled (in Indraprastha) collectively for 445 years, 5 months and 8 days, thus:—

No.	Names of Ary	yan En	operors	Years.	Months.	Days.
1	Vírmah á		•••	35	10	8
2	Ajita Singh	•••		27	7	19
3	Sarvadatta	•••	•••	28	3	10
4	Bhuvanapati	•••	•••	15	4	10
5	Vírasena	••••		21	2	13
6	Mahip á la	•••	•••	40	8	7
7	 Shatrush á la	•••	•••	26	4	3
8	Sanyhr á ja	•••	•••	17	2	10
9	Tejap á la	•••		2 8	11	10
10	Má nika Chan	da		37	7	21
11	Kamasení	•••	•••	42	5	10
12	Shatrumardan	ıa	•••	8	11	13
13	Jiv analoka	•••	•••	28	9	17
14	Harir á va	•••	•••	26	10	29
15	Virasena II	••••	•••	35	2	2 0
16	Adityaketu	••••		23	11	13

King Dhanadhara of Prayag (Allahabad) killed Emperor Adityaketu of Magadha and began to reign in his place. Nine kings of his House ruled for 374 years, 11 months and 26 days, thus:—

No.	Names of Ary	an Em	perors.	Years,	Months	Days•
1	Dhwnad har a	••••	•••	42	7	24
2	Maharshi	•••	•	41 -	2	29
3	Sanarachchí	•••		50	10	19
4	Maháyuddha	•••		30	3	8
5	Duranátha	•••	• • •	28	5	25
6	Jívanrá ja	••••	•••	45	2	5
7	Rudrasena	•••	•••	47	4	28
8	Arîlaka	•••		52	10	8
9	Rájapála		•••	36	•••

Sámanta Mahánpála killed the Emperor Rájapála and reigned for 14 years. Raja Vikramáditya of Avantiká (Ujjain) invaded his territory and put the Emperor Mahánpála to death. He reigned for 93 years. He was killed by a minister of King Sháliváhana called Samudrápála Yoyi of Paithana who began to reign in Raja Vikramadity's time. Sixteen kings of his House ruled collectively for 372 years, 4 months and 27 days, thus:—

No	Names of Aryan Emperors.	Years,	Months.	Days.
1	Samudrapála	54		2 0
2	Chandrap á la	36	5	4

Names of Arya	an Emperors.	Years,	Months.	Days.
Sáhá yapála		11	4	11
Devap á la		27	1	28
 Narasinyhap á	la	18	•••	20
Sámapál a		27	1	17
Raghup á la	•••	22	3	52
Govindapála		27	1	17
A mri ta pá la		36	10	13
Bal ípá la		12	5	27
Mahípála		13	8	4
Har i p á la		14	8	4
Sísapála		11	10	13
Madanap á la		17	10	19
Karmapála	•••	16	2	2
Vikramapála		24	11	13
	Sáháyapála Devapála Narasinyhapá Sámapála Raghupála Govindapála Amritapála Balípála Mahípála Haripála Sísapála Madanapála Karmapála	Devapála Narasinyhapála Sámapála Raghupála Govindapála Amritapála Balípála Mahípála Haripála Sísapála Madanapála Madanapála	Sáháyapála 11 Devapála 27 Narasinghapála 18 Sámapála 27 Raghupála 22 Govindapála 27 Amritapála 36 Balípála 12 Mahípála 13 Haripála 14 Sísapála 11 Madanapála 17 Karmapála 16	Sáháyapála 11 4 Devapála 27 1 Narasinghapála 18 Sámapála 27 1 Raghupála 22 3 Govindapála 27 1 Amritapála 36 10 Balípála 12 5 Mahípála 13 8 Haripála 14 8 Sísapála 11 10 Madanapála 17 10 Karmapála 16 2

Vikramapála led an expedition against Malukha Chanda Bohará, King of the West (of India), and fought a battle with him in an open field and was killed at the hand of Malukha Chanda who began to reign in Indraprastha (Delhi). Ten kings of his House ruled collectively for 191 years, 1 month and 16 days, thus:—

No.	Names of Aryan Emperors.		Years.	Months.	Days.
i	Malukh Chand	••••	54	2	10
2	Vikram Ch and		12	7	12
3	Amin Chand*		10	••••	5
4	Rám Chand		13	11	8
5	Hari Chand		14	9	24
6	Kaliy á n Chand		10	5	4
7	Bhima Chand		16	2	9
8	Lova Chand		26	3.	22
9	Govind Chand	••••	31	7	12
10	Queen Padmavati, wife Govind Chand,	of	1

Queen Pulmávati died childless. All her ministers unanimously placed Hari Ráma Vairagee (mendicant) on the vacant throne and began to rule in his name. Four kings of his House ruled collectively for 50 years and 21 days, thus:—

No.	Names of Aryan	Emperors.	Years.	Months.	Days.
	Hari Kámu Govind Ráma Gopál Prima Mahábahú		7 20 15 6	5 2 7 8	16 8 28 29

^{*} In some historical books he is called Manck Chand

Raja Mahábáhu abdicated his throne and went to live in a forest, in order to engage himself in Divine contemplation. Adhísena, King of Bengal, having heard this, came to Indraprastha and took possession of the capital and began to reign there. Twelve kings of his House ruled in Indraprastha for 151 years, 11 months and 2 days, thus:—

No.	Names of Aryan Em	perors.	Years.	Months.	Days.
1	Adhina Sena	••••	8	5	21
· 2	Vilába Sena		12	4	2
3	Keshab Serui		15	7	12
4	Mádha Sena		12	4	2
5	Mayúra Sena		20	11	27
6	Bhíma Scna		5	10	9
7	Kaly á na Sena		4	8	21
8	Hari Sena		12	••••	25
9	Kshema Sera		8	11	15
10	Náráyana Sena		2	2	29
11	Lakshami Sena		36	10	••••
12	D ámod ara Sena		11	. 5	19
_

Damodra Sena oppressed his nobles very much. One of them, called Dipa Singh, revolted against him and got the army to join him. He slew the Raja in a battle and began to reign himself. There were 6 kings of his dyn sty who collectively ruled for 107 years, 6 months and 22 days. The detail is as follows—

No.	Names of Ar	yan	Emperors.	Years.	Months.	Days.
·1	Dipa Singh	••••		17	1	26
2	Raj Singh	••••		14	5	0
3	Ran Singh			9	8	11.
4	Nar Singh	••••	••••	45	•••	15
5	Hari Singh	••••		13	2	29
6	Jivan Singh	••••		8		1

Raja Jivan Singh, for some reason, sent all his army to the North. Prithvi Ráj Chauhán, King of Vairat, on nearing this, marched against him, killed him in a battle and began to reign* in Indraprastha. There were 5 kings of his dynasty who collectively ruled for 86 years and 20 days, thus:—

No.	Names of Aryan Emperors.	Years.	Months.	Days.
1	Prithvi Raj	12	2	19
2	Abhayap á la	14	5	17
3	Durjanapála	11	4	84
4	Udayap á la	11	7	3
5	Yashupála	36	4	27

It is written in other histories that Sultan Shahab-ud-din Ghauri marched against Prithviraj and had to return home defeated several times. In the end in the year 1249 Vikram, through mutual dissentions among the supporters of the Emperor Prithviraj, Shahab ud-din defeated Prithviraj, blinded him and took him back home with and took the reigns of the government of Indraprustha in his own hands. The Mohammadan rule lasted for 613 years during which time there were altogether 45 (Mohammadan) rulers.

*Sultan Shahab-ud-din Gauri of Ghazni invaded the kingdon of Raja Yashapála, (defeated him) and imprisoned him in the fort of Prayaya (Allahabad) in 1249 Vikram (1306 A. D.) and himself began to reign in Indraprastha (Delhi). The account of the reign of 53 Kings covering the remaining period of 754 years, 1 month and 17 days is given fully in many historical books, hence it has been omitted here

In the next Chapter we shall discuss the Budhistic or Jain religion.

THE END OF CHAPTER XI.

^{*} This is evidently a mistake. It was Mahmud of Ghazni-and not Shihab ui din -who marched against Raja Yaspal and defeated him. - Tr.

INTRODUCTION

To

CHAPTER XII.

HEN the people of Aryávartta gave up the study of the Vedic lore which alone enables one to discriminate between right and wrong, ignorance spread over the land and many sects sprang up, the Jain religion, whose teachings are opposed to science, took root in the country. We find no mention of the Jainees in the Rámáyana by Válmíka and in the Mahábhárata while in the Jain scriptures we find the life stories, of Ráma, Krishnu, etc.,—the heroes of the two poems in detail. This goes show that this religion came into existence after the period of the Epics, for, if the Juinees have been right in holding that their faith dates from remote antiquity references to it would surely have been met with in the books like the Rámáyana. It is clear, therefore, that the Jain religion was later than the period of these books. If it be argued that the authors of the Rámáyana (and the Mahábhárata borrowed the stories from the Jain scriptures the question may be asked as to why the sacred books of the Jainees are not referred to in the Epics, while the latter are adverted to in the holy books of the Jainees. Is it possible for the son to be present on the occasion of his father's birth? From this it may be safely inferred that the Jain and the Budhist religions originated even after the Shivite and Váma Máriju sects had sprung into existence. Whatever has been written about the Jain religion in this chapter has been supported by quotations from the Jain scriptures (for chapter and verse have been cited in each case). The Jainees should not take offence at our comments, for in offering them we have been actuated solely by the desire of ascertaining what is true and what is false, and not by malice or the desire of injuring, susceptibilities. The perusal of this chapter by the Jaines, the Budhists and other people will engender in them the spirit of enquiry into truth and prompt them to lift up their pen in their defence and study the subject with this end in view. So long as discussions, whether oral or written, are not carried on and the parties in the debate do not maintain a spirit of love, it is impossible to arrive at any conclusion as to the correctness or otherwise of a belief. It is only when learned men do not act in this spirit, that the ignorant people are steeped in utter darkness and suffer extreme misery. Hence in order that the cause of truth may triumph and (that of) untruth may fail it is the bounden duty of all men to conduct debates, whether written or oral in a friendly spirit. Unless this course is followed the human race can make no progress. It is believed that this chapter which treats of the Buddhist and the Jain religions will be of immense help to the followers of other religions and will considerably add to the stock of knowledge because the followers of the Jain religion do not let others read or copy out their books. By dint of great efforts made by the author and especially by Mr. Sevak Lal Krishna Dass, Secretary Arya Samaj, Bombay, some books have been obtained. Again, the study of the Jain religion has been facilitated by the publication of some books at the Benares Jain Prubháleara Press and by that of the book called Prakarana Ratnákura at Bomby. What would you think of those learned men who would monopolise the right of studying their sacred books and deprive others of the same. From this it is clear that the authors of these books were in constant fear that if the followers of other religions read their books they would refute the doctrines of their faith, and if their co-religionists read the Jain religion the reason being that there was a lingering doubt in the minds of the Jain writers that their works were replete with incredible absurdities. This, however is patent to all that there are many people in the world who can not perceive their own faults but they are ever ready to notice the short comings of others. This is hardly just, for one should find out and remove his own short comings before he proceeds to discover and remove the faults of others. An examination of the doctrines of the Jain and Buddhist religions is now submitted to the judgement of all impartial readers.

This introduction though short will, we hope, satisfy the discerning reader.

CHAPTER XII.

AN EXPOSITION AND A REFUTATION OF THE CHARVAKA, THE BUDHISTIC AND THE JAIN FAITHS ALL OF WHICH ARE ATHEISTIC.

NCE there lived (in India) a man named Vrihaspati, who did not believe in the existence of God, in (the revealed character of) the Vedu and in the efficacy of good works, such as Yujnas. This is what he believed—

O,-" No living creature—not even a human being—is immertal. All are subject to death; let a man, therefore, live in ease and comfort so long as he draws breath. If it be objected that the practice of virtue entails suffering, while deviation from the path of rectitude brings on misery in the next birth, in reply to this it may be urged that, after death, the body is burnt to ashes and, therefore, the man who enjoyed himself during his life-time never returns to this world after his demise. Let a man. then, enjoy himself to his utmost capacity, deport himself in this world as expediency may direct, accumulate wealth and spend it in the gratification of his desires All our interests are centred in this world. There is no hereafter." The four elements, earth, water, fire and air, have entered into the composition of the human body; consciousness results from their combination even as inebriation results from the use of intoxicants. Similarly, the soul takes its birth simultaneously with the body and is dissolved. with its dissolution. The reaping of the fruits of good or evil deeds is, therefore, an utter impossibility.

"The soul is called into existence as the result of the combination of the four elements an is annihilated synchroneously with the dissolution of the body, for, the existence of the soul, after death, is not demonstrable by direct cognition." We believe in direct cognition only. Because the inferential and cognate modes of reasoning have for their basis direct cognition.

Direct Cognition being, therefore, of primary importance, all the rest sink into secondary importance, and are, therefore, not acceptable. The enjoyment that results from embracing a beautiful woman is the greatest reward of human effort.

A.—Your so-called elements are devoid of consciousness. therefore consciousness can not result from their combination. Just as in our day the human body is formed as the result of sexual congress between the husband and the wife, likewise, it was impossible for the bodies of men and other living beings to come into shape without the author of the Universe causing them to do It is wrong to say that consciousness is called into existence or annihilated even as inebriation is produced or removed, for, it is a concious being that is susceptible to the effects of inebriation but not one devoid of consciousness. All things are distroyed, i. e., pass into a state of invisibility, but nothing is ever annihilated. Similarly it is not a rational belief that the shol becomes nonexistent, because it is not an object of visual perception. The existence of the soul is made manifest only when it is embodied. When it leaves the body, the latter suffers dissolution and causes to be the habitation of consciousness.

is even this which the Vrihadáranyaka Upanishada (Yájnavalka says to his wife) "O Maitreyi! What I say is not promted by infatuation. The soul is immortal. Being untited with it, the body becomes possessed of conscious effort. When it is separated from the body, consciousness is altogether dislodged from the latter. If the soul be not distinct from the body, how could it be that its union with the latter produces consciousness, while its separation from the same makes it devoid of consciousness. The eye sees all objects but can not see itself, even so the soul, which possesses the power of sensuous. perception, can not itself be an object of that mode of perception. Through the instrumentality of the eye, the soul sees all (visible) objects, such as a pitcher or a piece of cloth, but it is conscious of the existence of the eye by inferential reasoning. The seer is always a seer and can never be transformed into an object of visual perception. Just as the thing supported cannot exist without a supporter, an effect without a cause, constituent parts without a whole, an act without a doer; even so there can be no sensuous perception without the perceiver.

तच्चैतन्यविशिष्ठदेह एव आत्मा देहातिरिक्त आत्मिन । प्रमाणाभावात् ॥ नाहं मोहं ब्रवीमि अनुच्छित्ति धर्मायमारमेति ॥

If the ultimate aim of human effort be the pleasure resulting from sexual intercourse with a pretty woman, it cannot be true because it is momentary. Again, this act also produces some undesirable results, and it cannot be said that they are the aim of human effort. Otherwise, the carnal pleasure not being an unnixed pleasure, suffering will result. If it be said that the aim of human endeavour should be to obtain exemption from pain and an increase of pleasure, that aim will be frustrated. Hence carnal pleasure can not be the aim of human effort.

C iárváka.—They are foolish who renounce (carnal) pleasure because it is mixed with pain. Just as a farmer thrashes out the corn, keeps the grain and throws away the husk, likewise, a wise man should enjoy pleasure and reject pain, for those people that renounce immediate pleasures of this world and desire to obtain mediate and uncertain joys of paradise and, with that end in view, perform Homa, do righteous deeds, offer worship, devote themselves acquisition of spiritual knowledge—all these practices having been enjoined by the Vedas which have been composed by rogues—are sunk in ignorance. It is foolish to hope for heavenly bliss when it is clear that there is no hereafter. (the founder of the Cháravák faith) says that the performance of Homa, (sacred) recitations from the three Vedas, the use of three staves, the smearing of the body with ashes have been turned into means of subsistence by people devoid of understanding and ln our opinion physical pain such as caused by puncturing the body with a thorn constitutes hell. Salvation is nothing but attaining to the position of a king-who is in point of fact God—possessed of glory or the dissolution of the body.

A.—It is sheer folly to believe that the aim of human endeavour is the gratification of beastiff appetites and that the realization of the heavenly state and the faithful discharge of duty consist in getting rid of pain which accompanies sensual gratification. Performance of Yajnus like Homa contributes to the purification of air, rain and water and thus promotes health and enables one to acquire virtue, wealth, gratify natural desires and obtain salvation Whoever does not understand this and scoffs at God and the Vedu and the teachings of the Vedu religion is a scoundrel. The author of this verse is right in denouncing the use of the three (sacred) staves and the smearing of the body with ashes. If the pain caused by pricking the thorn constitutes hell, why should not terrible maladies, which bring on greater suffering, be designated by the same name. It is, no doubt, quite true that a king, who is possessed of glory and is the protector of his subjects, is deserving of homage, but none except a perfect dunce would accord divine honours to an unjust and wicked king. If salvation is only another name for the dissolution of the body, wherein then lies the difference between human beings and beasts (like dogs and donkeys) excepting in the external appearance?

^{1.} The loss of the reproductive element brings on physical weakness which brings, in its train, disease and decay. There is no carnal pleasure which has not its attendant disadvantage.—Tr.

अग्निहोत्रं त्रयो वेदास्त्रिदण्डं भस्मगुण्ठनम् ।
बुद्धि पौरुनहीनानां जीविकेति बृहस्पतिः ॥

- o.—1. "There is no author of the universe. All things combine together by virtue of properties inherent in them."
- 2. "There is neither heaven nor hell, nor is there any entity like the soul to reap, hereafter, the fruits of deeds done in this life, nor does the performance of duties pertaining to one's Class and Order bear any fruit."
- 3. "If the animal offered as sacrifice goes to heaven, why does not the Yajmana (master of ceremonies) send his parents, etc., to heaven, by killing them by way of sacrifice."
- 4. "If oblations offered to the manes of departed ancestors satisfy the latter, what need is there, then, for people going abroad to take with them victuals, clothes, cash, etc., for maintaining themselves during the journey. If a thing offered in the name of
 - (१) अग्निहण्णो जलं शीतं शीतत्पर्शस्तथाऽनिलः । केनेदं चित्रितं तस्मात्स्त्रभावात्तद् व्यवस्थितिः ॥
 - (२) न स्वर्गी नाऽपवर्गी वा नैवात्मा पारलैकिकः। नैव वर्णाश्रमादीनां क्रियाश्र फलदायिकाः॥
 - (,) पशुश्रेतिइतः स्वर्गं ज्योतिष्टोमे गिमण्यति । स्विपता यजमानेन तत्र कस्मान्त्र हिंस्यते ॥
 - ... (४) मृतानामपि जन्तूनां श्राद्धं चेत्तृप्तिकारणम् । गच्छताभिह जन्तूनां व्यर्थं पाथेयकल्पनम् ॥

^{1.} Charavakas, Bulhists, Jainess and Abharakas -all these tour orders of atheists hold the same view with regarl to Cosmogony i. e., there is no author of the Universe.

The Charrakas have no belief in the existence of the soul and in a future life but the Budhists and Jainee subscribe to that belief. In other matters their beliefs are almost identical.

a departed ancestor reaches him in heaven, why cannot things, offered in the name of the person gone abroad by his relations staying at home reach him in foreign lands. If it be impossible to convey anything to foreign lands in this way for the benefit of a traveller, how much more so would it be to convey things to heaven (for the benefit of the departed ancestor)?"

- 5. "If the physical wants of an ancestor in heaven can be satisfied by offerings made in his name in this mortal world, why cannot the cravings of hunger, felt by a person in the upper story of a house, be satisfied if eatables are offered in his name by some one in the lower story."
- 5. "Therefore, let a man pass his life in ease and comfort; if he has got nothing with him, let him borrow money from others. No obligations exist to pay back debts hereafter, for a particular individual (combination of the body and the soul) that contracted the debt will never return to this world. Who will, then, demand payment and who will have to pay?"
- 7. "It is wrong to say that, after death, the soul leaves the body and is transported to the next world, for if it be otherwise, why does not the departed soul return home, impelled by love for its family."
- 8. "Hence, all these practices have been invented by the priests for their own pecuniary benefit. The ceremony of offering rice balls on the 10th day after death, and other funeral ceremonies like this have been devised for the same selfish purpose."
- 9. "The authors of the Vedas were buffoons, scoundrels and devils. The words like jurfuri and turfuri are symbolic of the rascally teachings of pundits."
 - (५) स्वर्गस्थिता यदा तृप्तिं गच्छेयुस्तत्र दानतः। प्रासादस्योपस्थानामत्र कस्मान्न दीयते॥
 - (६) यावज्जीवे सुखं जीवेदणं कृत्वा घृतं पिवेत् । भस्मीभृतस्य देहस्य पुनरागमनं कृतः ।
 - (७) यदिगच्छेत्परं लोकं देहादेषे विनिर्गतः।
 कर गद्भयो न चायाति बन्धुस्नेहसमाकुलः॥
 - (८) ततश्च जीवनोपायो ब्राह्मणैर्विहितिह्त्वह । मृतानां प्रेतकार्याणि न त्वन्यद्विद्यते क्वचित् ॥
 - । ९ । त्रयो वेदस्य कर्न्तरो भण्डधूर्तनिशाचराः। जर्फरी तुर्फरीत्यादि पण्डितानां गचः स्मृतम् ॥

- 10. "Mark! What the rascals teach. Who but a scoundrel can promulgate that the wife of the master of ceremonies should have sexual intercourse with a horse and obscene jokes should to cracked—at the expense of the bride."
- 11. "The portion of the Veda which inculcates indulgence in flesh-diet has been composed by some fiend (in the garb of a man).
- A.—(1). Dead and inert substances can not combine together of their own account and according to some design unless the Concious Being—God—fashions and shapes them. If they could combine together by virtue of inherent properties why does not another set of the sun, the moon, the earth and other planets spring into existence by themselves. The enjoyment of happiness constitutes heaven, while the suffering of (extreme) misery constitutes heal. If there be no soul, who would enjoy happiness or suffer misery, just as in this life the soul enjoys and suffers, likewise it will enjoy and suffer in the next birth. Will the cultivation of even such virtues as veracity in speech and benevolence by people belonging to a particular Class and a particular Order go unrewarded?
- (3, 4, 5.) The Veda and other Shástras do not at all sanction animal sacrifice; the practice of offering oblations to the manes of departed ancestors is an invention of priests, because it is opposed to the Vedic and Shástriz teachings and finds sanction only in the Puránus like the Bháyvat. We have, therefore, nothing to say against the refutation of this doctrine.
- (6). Whatever exists can not cease to exists. The soul is an entity, therefore it can never become a non-entity. It is not the soul but the body that is reduced to ashes, (when it has been cremated). The soul (after death) passes into another body. Whoever, therefore, enjoys himself by borrowing from others and does not pay back his debts is verily a sinner and will, doubtless suffer terribly in the next birth.
- (7) After leaving the body, the soul is transported to another place and takes on another body; it forgets all about its previous birth and its family, hence it is impossible for it to return to its previous family.
- (8). Yes, it is true that the priests have devised these funeral rites from motives of pecuniary gain, but, being opposed to the Vedas, they are condemnable.
 - । १०। अङ्गस्यात्र हि शिक्षन्तु पत्नीग्राह्यं प्रकीर्तितम् ॥ भण्डैस्तग्रात्परं चेत्र ग्राह्यजातं प्रकीर्तित्तम् ॥ । ११। मांसानां खादनं तद्वाम्निशाचरसमीरितम्॥

- (9). It can not, therefore, be gainsaid that if the Chárvakas had read the Vedas or heard them read, they would never have reviled them by saying that they had been composed by buffoons, scoundrels, and devils. It is, no doubt, true that commentators like Mahidhar were the real buffoons, scoundrels and devils. It is on account of their rascality that such teachings have been fathered upon the Vedas. What a pity that the Chárvakas, the Abhánukas, the Budhists and the Jains never cared to study the four Vedas in original with a learned man. This was the reason why their intellectual vision was blurred and distorted and they began to revile the Vedus in a foolish and nonsensical fashion. They read only the unauthoritative, absolutely wrong, and dirty commentaries by wicked Váma Máryis, turned against the Vecla and fell deep down in the bottomless pit of ignorance.
- (10). No sane man would believe that any people except the Vâma Már lis are capable of sanctioning such practices as the co-habitation of the wife of the master of ceremonies with a horse and poking obscene fun at his daughter. Who but these vile reprobates (i. e., Váma Maryis) could have thought out such a filthy, incorrect exposition quite at variance with the Vedic text? It is much to be deplored that the Chárrákus, etc., took to a thoughtless vilification of the Vedus. They ought to have made some use at least of their sense. But they were greatly to be pitied because they did not possess enough knowledge to enable them to sift truth from falsehood, to champion the cause of truth and denounce error.
- (11). Flesh eating is not at all enjoined by the Veda, it is only the Vámu Már ji commentators who have perverted the Vedic texts to yield this meaning, they verily deserve to be called demons in human shape. The Vámu Máryi commentators and those, who have thoughtlessly reviled the Vedas without having properly studied them or picked up any reliable information about them, will doubtless suffer for having committed this sin. To tell the truth, all those, who have opposed the Vedus in the past, do so now, or will do the same in future, being steeped in dense ignorance, can never suffer too much pain and misery. therefore, the duty of all men to mould their conduct according to the teachings of the Vedus. The Váma Máryis, in order to gain their selfish end—which was to be free to resort to wicked practices such as the use of flesh and spirituous liquors, and adultery with impunity—invented their creed—which finds no sanction in the Shastras—in the name of the Vedas, and thus brought them into disrepute. The Charavaka, the Budhists and the Jainees began to revile the Vedas when they saw that the professed believers in these scriptures followed such wicked modes of conduct. They founded a new religion which is atheistic and anti-Vedic. Had the Chárvákus, etc., read the originals, they would never have been misled by false commentaries into forsaking the Vedic religion. They are very much to be pitied. When ruin is at hand, understanding is warped and perverted.

We shall now point out the doctrinal differences between the Chárvá'ca and allied faiths. They are alike in most respects.

- (a) The Chárvákas believe that the soul comes into being simultaneously with the body and ceases to exist as soon as the body is dissolved.
- (b) They do not believe in metampsychosis, nor in a future life.
- (c) They reject all kinds of evidence except that of direct cognition.

The etemological meaning of the word Chárráku is a person who is clever in speech and is extremely fond of wrangling.

On the other hand, the Budhists and the Jainess believe in the four kinds of evidence, such as direct cognition, the immortality of the soul, metampsychosis, the future life and mancipation. These are the main differences between the Chárváltas on one hand and the Budhists and the Jainess on the other.

Points of agreement are following:

- 1. Atheism.
- 2. Reviling God and His Word—the Veda.
- 3. Malicious antagonism against other religions.
- 4. Belief in the efficacy of six acts to be discribed later on.
- 5. Disbelief in the First Cause.

We have briefly explained the doctrines of the Chárvákas.

Now, we shall briefly discuss Budhism.

They believe that there is an "Inseparable relation between cause and effect, i. e, the cause invariably suggests the effect and the effect the cause. In this mental process inference follows Direct cognition. Without the help of the Inferential mode of reasoning the affairs of the world can not be satisfactorily carried on." The Budhism, therefore, attaches special importance to Inference and, therefore, constitutes a system of belief different from that of the Chárvúlcas कार्यकारणमावाद्वा स्वभावाद्वा नियामकात्। अविनाभावनियमो दर्शनान्तरदर्शनात्॥ The following are the different forms of Budhism:

- (1) Mádhyamika.
- (2) Yoyáchára.
- (3) Sautrántika.
- (4) Vaibháshika.

Etymologically the word Bandha (Budhist) 'means one who acts in accordance with the dictates of reasoning' that is one who accepts reasoning as the supreme and final authority.

- (1) Mádhyami/ca.—It teaches that all is nought, i. e, all things originally proceeded from nought and will ultimately resolve into nought. Whatever we perceive continues to exist only so long as our perceptive faculties are at work. When they cease to act, the objects of perception recede into nought. For example, no pitcher was in existence before it was made, it ceases to exist after it is broken. It seems to exist when it is an object of perception on our part, but when our consciousness is concentrated on other objects, it passes out of its range (and therefore ceases to exist). Hence nought is the sole entity.
- Yo.jáclura teaches that nothing exists outside human consciousness, i. e., all objects seem to exist in the mind. For example, the knowledge of the existence of the pitcher resides in the soul (consciousness), that is why a man calls a particular object by the name of pitcher. If this delusion had not previously existed in consciousness, who would he have clothed it in words?
- (3) Sautrántika teaches that the existence of the objects of the universe is mainly inferred. There is nothing that can be wholly known by direct cognition. It only affords the data but complete perception is arrived at by means of inference only.
- (4) Vaibháshika teaches that when a thing is known by direct cosmition, no mental images of the outside objects are formed in consciousness. For example, when one says "Here is a blue pitcher", he means that the blue substance in the form of a pitcher appears to exist outside his consciousness.

Although the founder of the (Budhistic) faith was one— Budha, yet on account of intellectual differences among his disciples it came to have four forms. Take an example. When the shades of the evening close in, a rake meets his inumorata, while a good an learned man busies himself with the performance of righteous acts such as truthfulness. Thus at one and the same time two different persons act differently; each acting according to his understanding.

Of the four forms, the Mádhyamika teaches that all perception is of a transient nature, i. e., each individual state of consciousness being of momentary duration, the perception of a thing at one moment differs from what it was a moment before. All knowledge is, therefore, transient.

The Yojáchára form (of Budhism) teaches that all enjoyment results in pain, because gratification of desires does not bring on contentment. When one desire is satisfied, a new one takes its place (and thus peace of mind is never secured).

The Santrántika form (of Budhism) teaches that all things are known by their Lakshanas, *just as the cow is known by its distinctive Lakshanas and the horse by its own distinctive Lakshanas. Lakshanas always reside in objects of which they are the attributes.

The Vaibhashika form teaches that nought is the sole entity. In this matter there is an agreement between the Mádhyamika and Vaibháshika forms. Hence, there are many antagonistic forms of belief among the Budhists. The chief of them are these four.

A.—If all be nough', the knower of nought can never be nought, for if he also be nought he can not (being himself nought know nought. It is, therefore, clear that (even from the Budhistic point of view) there must be two entities—the knower who perceives the nought and the thing known—the nought. As regards the Yo, nachára form of belief according to which nothing exists outside consciousness, it may be said that even big objects like a mountain must be believed to exist in the seat of consciousness. But this is absurd, because it is incapable of holding a mountain. The mountain, therefore, exists outside consciousness and a perception of this object is formed in consciousness—the soul.

The Sautrántika form (of Budhism) teaches that nothing is known by direct cognition (all knowledge is gained by inference). (We say in reply that) if it be so, the declaration of belief and the existence of the person making it must be held to be the result of inference. This being the case, it would not be logically right to say. "This is a pitcher." It rather ought to be said. "This is a part of the pitcher," but the name pitcher can not be applied to a part of it, it is applicable to all the constituent parts of the pitcher taken as one object. "This is a pitcher" is a proposition which can only be made by one who has gained this knowledge by direct comition and not by inference, because the whole pervades its constituent parts, and, therefore, as soon as the whole is perceived by direct comition, all its constituent parts may be said to have been individually perceived in the same manner. In other words, the pitcher is perceived as composed of constituent parts.

^{*} A Lakshana is that by means of which an object is known. Attributes are also lakshanas, but the two terms do not coincide in extension.—Tr,

The Vaibháshikites are not right in holding that when a thing is known by direct cognition, no mental images of the outside objects are formed in consciousness. For, direct cognition is impossible unless there be the perception of an object and a knower. Although the object of perception is outside consciousness, yet perception is impossible, unless a mental image of the outside object is formed in consciousness.

We now proceed to examine other doctrines of the aforesaid four schools of Budhism.

- 1. If all perception be of a transient character, there should be no recollection of past events, but the fact is that we do recollect what we had seen or heard in the past, hence this belief in the momentumy character of perception is erroneous.
- 2. It is not right to say that in this world there is nothing but sorrow and misery, and there is absolutely no happiness. For, sorrow can not be conceived but in relation to happiness, even as one can conceive of the night only in relation to the day, and vice, versa.
- 3. It is wrong to believe that lakshana always resides in the object (of which it is a lakshana) sometimes it does, and at others it does not). Take an example. Light is always perceived by the eye and, therefore, the latter is the lakshana of the former, while light is the lakshya (i. e., that which is known by means of lakshana). But the eye—the lakshana is distinct from light, the lakshya. This proposition can also be demonstrated by taking the relation between the colour of the pitcher and the eye as an illustration. [Now we offer an illustration to show, that a lakshana may also reside in the lakshyas] The power of exciting olfactory impulses is a lakshana of Prithivi. It resides in Prithivi and can never be separated from it. It is, therefore, clear that lakshanas do not necessarily reside in their lokshyas.

^{1.} In inferential reasoning we proceed from the part to the whole, from particulars to generals, from example to rules, etc. It is by direct cognition alone hat the knowledge of an object as a whole is gained al! at once.—Tr.:

4. The belief about the nought being the sole entity has already been examined and refuted.

The Jainees believe in the same tiruthan'raras (perfect beings or incarnations) as the Budhists. Both these religions are, therefore, identical.

They hold that the four kinds of beliefs stated above constitute the means towards the attainment of freedom from all (worldly) desires which leads to Nirvánu, or extinction (of the soul). This is their salvation. They teach their pupils the path of Yogáchára and also that whatever falls from the lips of one's preceptor is worthy of belief and that the beginningless intellect, being clouded by passions and desires, appears, to assume different forms.

The five mundane forms of consciousness:

- (1) Perception of objects, such as colour by the senses such as eyes, constitutes Rúpa Skandha.
- (2) Knowledge of the activity of the thinking faculty constitutes Vijnána Skandha.
- (3) Sensations of pleasure or pain—the result of Rúpa Skandha and Vijnána Skandha—constitute Vedaná Skandha.
- (4) The belief in the relation of the words, such as cow with the objects signified by them constitutes Sanjná Skandha.
- (5) Different kinds of Klesha (affliction) such as inordinate love and hatred or upa'rlesha (minor kinds of affliction) such as hunger and thirst, ardent passion, negligence, vanity, virtuous and sinful acts—the result of Vedaná Skandhá—constitute Sanskára Skandha.

The Budhists hold that one should realize that the whole world is full of sorrow and pain, it is a vale of tears. With this belief one should exert himself so as to be freed from (the troubles of) this world. This constitutes the highest form of salvation according to the Charava'cus. The Budhists also believe in the Inferential mode of reasoning and deny the existence of the soul. One of their scriptures says:—

सर्वस्य संसारस्य दुःखात्मकत्वं सर्वतीर्थंकरसंगतम् । रूपविज्ञानवेदनासंज्ञासंस्कारसंज्ञकः ॥

- (1) "It is the duty of the Budhists to believe in one who understands all about the Lords of the worlds, otherwise known as Tirthankaras such as Budha, who is possessed of perfect knowledge and his renounced the world and attained the blessed state of beatitude in this life, who preaches all things separately and has been described minutely and in different ways."
- (4) "One should also believe in the teachings (with regard to nought, etc.) of different gurus (preceptors) which have a clear and a deep significance and have briefly been described before openly or convertly.
- (3) "The Dwadashayatanu pújá (or the worship of twelve places) alone can lead to salvation. Let (a Budhist, therefore,) collect all kinds of material for offering this kind of worship and build twelve places and worship them in the proper manner. Why should be worship, anything else?
- (4) "The Budhistic Dwaddshayutum púju consists in showing respect to the five organs of sensation, such as ears, eyes, nose, mouth, and the organs of touch, five organs of action such as those of speech, locomotion, excretion and reproduction, the principle of attention and the principle of discernment by giving them unlimited license. This is the Budhistic faith."
- A. Had there been nothing in this world but pain and sorrow, no living soul would have had an inclination for anything in this world; but it is our daily experience that the souls do desire for the objects of this world, hence it can not be true that in the whole universe there is nothing but pain and sorrow. Both happiness and misery are to be found in this world. If the Budhists really believe in the above doctrine, why do they attend to the health of their bodies, and for this purpose take food and drink and follow the laws of health, and in case of
 - १—देशना लोकनाथानां सत्वाशयवशानुगाः।
 भिद्यन्ते बहुधा लोके उपायैर्बहुभिः किल।।
 - २—गम्भीरोत्तानभेदेन कचिच्चोभयलत्तणा । भिन्ना हि देशना भिन्ना शून्यताद्वयलत्तणाः ॥
 - ३---अर्थानुपार्ज्य बहुशो द्वादशायतनानि ते । परितः पूजनीयानि किमन्यैरिह पूजितैः ॥
 - ४— ज्ञानेन्द्रियाणि पश्चैव तथा कर्मेन्द्रियाणि च । मनो बुद्धिरिति शोक्तं द्वादशायतनं बुधेः ॥ sickness take medicine, etc.? Why do they believe that these things are conducive to one's happiness? If they answer that they certainly do these things but at the same time believe that they lead to misery and pain, it can never be true because the soul takes to what is conducive to its happiness and shuns what entails misery and suffering. Practice of virtue, acquisition of knowledge and widom, association with the good and the like undoubtedly are conducive to man's happiness. No wise man can ever assent that these result in pain and sorrow. It is Bulhists alone who hold such a belief. As regards the five skanthas (given above), they are not exhaustive, since if one were to classify skandly is like that, one does not know where he would They believe that the Tirthunkarus were the teachers and lords of the world, while they refuse to believe in the Eternal. Supreme Spirit who is the Lord of lords. Now, we should like to know who was the teacher of those Tirthuricaras. answer that they evolved knowledge out of their own minds, it can not be right, because no effect can come into existence without a cause. Besides, if what they assert be true, why don't the Budhists in our day become learned, without studying with others or hearing what they teach and associating with the learned. Such being the case, their assertion, which is altogether groundless and opposed to reason, is as valueless as the mutterings of a patient suffering from dilirium due to high fever If negation of all that exists be the belief of the Budhists, it can never be valid since that which exists can never cease to exist, though it can be converted into its subtle causal form—the elementary matter from which the whole universe has proceeded. Hence, this statement (of the Budhists) is also erroneous.

If they believe that it is only through the acquisition of wealth and other worldly possessions that the above-mentioned Dwadashayatanapája (worship of the twelve places), which leads to salvation, can be offered, why don't they also worship the ten Pranas—nervauric forces and the soul (which is eleventh)? If the worship of the senses and the mind (i. e., becoming a slave to them) is held to be the means of attaining salvation, what difference is there, then, between the Budhists and the sensualists? When the Budhists did not escape being slaves to the senses, how could they ever attain salvation? People who are slaves to their senses can never have an idea of what salvation really is. What a wonderful progress have they, (i. e., the Budhists) made in ignorance? They have really no equal in this respect. It is certain that this is the result of their opposing the Veda and God. First they imagined that in the whole world there was nothing but sorrow and suffering and then they for nulated this doctrine of Dwádasháyatanapúja (worship of the twelve places). Now, does this Dwádasháyatanapúja consist in worshipping objects which are outside the world? If this mode of worship could lead to salvation, we should think a man, with closed eyes, could as well find diamonds. These people have come to believe in such stupid things by rejecting the Veda and God. Even now if they seek happiness, they should lean on the Veda and God and thereby realize the true aim of human life.

These twelve places represent the ten organs of sense and action, and the manas—the principle of attention and Budhi the principle of discernment.—

Tr.

The book called Vivekavilása thus describes the Budha religon:—

(1) "There are four first principles recognised as articles of faith by the Budhists, viz:—

(a). Sugatadeva, otherwise known as Budha, is the Lord worthy of homage.

(b). The universe is transient in nature.

(c). All men and women should endeavour to be good.

(d). All should study the science of tativas or true principles.

- (2) "Let a man first understand that this world is a vale of tears, it is, then, that he can make any progress. Here follow the successive steps of this (progress)."
- (3) "There is nothing but sorrow and suffering in this world. Let a min realize that there are five Skan lius or mundane forms of consciousness which are as follow:—

Rúpa Skandha, Vijnána Skandha, Vedaná Skandha, Sanjná Skandha, Sanskára Skandha, १-बौद्धानां सुगतो देवो विश्वं च चणभगुरम् ।

आर्य्यसत्वाख्पादत्वचतुष्टयिमदं क्रमात् ॥
२-दुःखमायतनं चैव ततः सम्रुदयो मतः ।
मार्गश्चेत्यस्य च व्याख्या क्रमेण श्रूयतामतः ॥
३-दुःखसंसारिणस्कन्धास्ते च पञ्च प्रकीतिंताः ।
विज्ञानं वेदना संज्ञां संस्कारो रूपमेव च ॥
४-पंचेन्द्रियाणि शब्दा वा विषयाः पञ्च मानसम् ।
भर्मायतनमेतानि द्धाः श्रायतनाने तु ॥

32, A.

- (4) The five organs of sense and their five objects, the principle of attention, the principle of discernment and the twelve Ayutanas (seats) of the trans (righteousness).
- (5) "The springing up of passions, such as love and hatred, in the heart of min is called Samudaya. The soul, and its nature (and attributes) constitute Alchyá which, again gives rise to Samudaya."
- (6) "All impressions are of a transient nature; cessation of desires is the path of the Budhists and the resolution of the soul into nothing constitutes (their) salvaton."
- (7) "The Bullhists believe only in two kinds of evidence—Direct Cognition and Inference. Budhism is divided into 4" forms:

Vaibháshika, Sautrántika.

Yoyáchára, and Mádhyamika.

- (8) "Vabháshika holds that all objects, whose knowledge exists in our consciousness, have an objective existence, because a perfect man (i. e., a Budhist) can not believe in the existence of what is not present in his consciousness; while Sautrántika holds that all ojects have only a subjective existence, they do not exist in the outside world."
- (9) "Yogáchára believes that the reasoning faculty has a form, while Mádhyamika believes in the existence of the ideas of objects in consciousness, but does not believe that the objects exist (in the outside world)."
 - ५-रागादीनां गणा यः स्यातसमुदेति नृणां हृदि । आत्मात्मीयस्वभावाख्यः स स्यात्समुनयः पुनः ॥
 - ६-न्नाणिकाः सर्वसंस्कारा इति या वामना स्थिरा। स मार्ग इति विज्ञेयः स च मोन्नोऽभिधीयते॥
 - ७-प्रत्यक्षानुमानं च प्रमाणं द्वितय तथा । चतुः प्रस्थानिका बौद्धाः रूयाता वैभाषिकादयः ॥
 - ८-अथो ज्ञानान्वितो वैमाषिकेण बहु मन्यते । सौत्रान्तिकेन प्रत्यत्तप्राह्योऽथीं न बहिर्मतः ॥
 - ९-आकारसहिता बुद्धियोगाचारस्य संमता । केवलां संविदांस्य थां मन्यन्ते मध्यमाः पुनः ॥

- (10) "All the four kinds of Budhists believe that salvation consists in the cessation of love and the like passions in (human) consciousness."
- (11) To use deer skin (as a seat) and water-gourd (for carrying water), shave the head, beard, and moustache, etc., wear garments made of bark, eat before 9 A.M., avoid seclusion and wear redcoloured clothes is the fashion of the Budhistic mendicants."
- A.—(1) If Sugatadeva, otherwise called Budha, alone is the deva or Lord of the Budhists, (we should like to know) who was his teacher?
- (6) If the world is transient in nature, one on seeing an object again after a long-time should not be able to recollect that it is the same as he had seen before, nor should that object have been there, no one, hence, would have been able to remember it. If the Budhists really believe in the doctrine that the world is transient, their salvation will also be of momentary duration.
- (8) If all objects that are perceived of consciousness, even inert substances should possess consciousness and conscious exertion. Now how could that which is perceptible to the senses. be nothing?
- (9) If the intellect possess a form, it should be visible, If the outside world exists only in our consciousness and has no objective reality, it can never be true, since there can be no perception without the existence of objects whose percepts are formed in our consciousness.
- (10) If the cessation of passions and desires constitutes salvation, sushupti (dreamless sleep) should also be regarded as salvation, but such a belief being opposed to the dictates of knowledge is not worthy of acceptance.

We have very briefly discussed some of the doctrinal points and beliefs of the Budhists. All enlightened and thoutful men after going through this (description of their beliefs, etc.) will know how much learning the writers of the Budhistic scriptures possessed and what kind of religion Budhism is. The Jainees also share these beliefs.

१ • -रागादिज्ञानसन्तावासनाच्छेदसंभवा । चतुर्णामपि बौद्धानां मुक्तिरेषा प्रकीर्तिता ॥ ११-कृति कमण्डलुर्मीण्ड्यं चीरं पूर्वाह्मभोजनम् । संघो रक्तांबरत्वं च शिश्रिये बाद्धिमिक्षमिः ॥

NOW WE SHALL MAINLY DISCUSS THE JAIN RELIGION.

It is written in the Prakaranaratnákara, Part 1, called Nayachakrasára, that the Budhists believe in four substrata (which are renewable in different ages) viz:—

- 1. A'kásha—a subtle form of matter, something like ether.
 - 2. Time.
 - 3. The soul.
 - 4. Puljala—material atoms.

The Jainees believe in six substrata which are as follow: -

- 1. Dharma,
- 2. Adharma
- 3. Akácha
- 4. Pudgala,—material atoms.
- 5. The soul.
- 6. Time

They also hold that out of these six, time is not an asticaya, (a substratum) it is only supposed to be a substratum but it is not really so.

Dharma is that substatum, which exists in the soul and Puljala—the material atoms—(in which changes are brought about by changes in motion), and becomes the means of sustaining this motion. It is to be found in countless places, worlds and in an unlimited measure.

- 2. Adharm is that substratum which the means of sustaining rest in the soul and the material atoms in which changes have been wrought by rest.
- 3. Akásha is that omnipresent substratum which is the support of all souls and materials atoms and in which they move about and their ingress take place.
- 4. Pudgala (primordial matter) is that substratum which is the cause (of the universe); it is also invisible, eternal and simple. It is known by its effects such as taste, colour and smell, and is subject to development and disintegration.
- 5. Jiva (the soul) is that substratum which is the seat of consciousness, and is of service in acquiring knowledge and is affected by countless changes (wrought in its environments). It is the doer (of acts) and reaper (of fruits).

- 6. Kála (time) is that which is indicative of the abovementioned five substrata being near or far, new or old and in which all the present events take place.
- A. The belief of the Budhists with regard to the substrata being new in each age is quite erroneous, as Alcásha, time, the soul and atoms can never be new or old, since they are beginningless and imperishable on account of being factors in the causation (of the universe). How can then such terms as new and old be applicable to them.

The belief of the Jainees (in the existence of the above mentioned six substrata) is also untenable, since dharma (righteousness) and alharma (unrighteousness) are not substrata but attributes (of the soul), hence they have no seperate existence from the soul. It would have been alright, if they had believed in (four substrata viz.) Air isha, ato as, the soul, and time. The Vaisheshik i Shastra teaches that there are nine substrata viz Prithivi Apa, Teja, Váya, Aicásha* time, space, the soul (human or Divine) and the manus. This teaching alone is the right one, because these nine distinct substrata have been ascertained (by the philosophers). It is sheer prejudice on the part of the Budhists to believe in one conscious entity—the soul—and refuse to believe in the other—God.

The seven Bh ingas or Periphases and Syádvádá! of the Budhists and the Jainees are as follow:—

- 1. To affirm the existence of an object constitutes the first Bhanga. For example, when we say "The pot exists," we affirm its existence and negative its non-existence.
- 2. To affir n the non-existence of an object constitutes the second Bhanja. For example, when we say "They pot does not exist," we negative its existence.
- 3. To affirm the existence of an object but to deny its being different from what it is not, constitutes the third Bhanga. For example, when we say "The pot exists but it is not a (piece of) cloth," we affirm the existence of the pot and deny its being a (piece of)

^{*} These terms have already been explained in the 3rd Chapter of this book.—Tr.

^{1.} Syadvada is an assertion of probability, (Philosophy), it also means a form of septicism.—Tr.

cloth. This is quite distinct from the first two Bhangas.

- 4. To affirm the existence of an object and deny its existence if looked upon as a second object of the same kind constitutes the fourth Bhanga. For example, when we say "The pot exists but it does not exist as a second pot," we affirm its existence as well its non-existence at the same time.
- 5. To affirm, that it is wrong to call an object what it is not, constitutes the fifth Bhanya. For example, it is wrong to call a pot a (piece of) cloth. It is right to affirm potship! (i e., the fact of its being a pot) of a yhat (pot) and wrong to affirm patship [i. e., the fact of its being a (piece of) cloth].
- 6. To affirm, that it is not right to call an object what it is not, and that whatever it is, it is and that it is right to speak of it as such, constitutes the sixth Bhanga. For example, whatever is not a pot should not be spoken of as a pot, and whatever is a pot, is so and should be spoken of as such.
- 7. To affirm that it is desirable to speak of an object but it does not exist, while it is not desirable to speak of another (object) such as a pot, constitutes the seventh Bhanya.

Similaray—1. "To affirm that the soul is, but does not exist in the dead inert objects is called the first Bhanya.

- 2. To affirm that the soul does not exist in the dead, inert matter constitutes the second Bhanga.
- 3. (To affirm that) the soul is indescribable constitutes the third Bhanga.
- manifest, but when it leaves the body, it remains non-manifest constitutes the fourth Bhanya.
- :5. To affirm that the soul is but is indescribable constitutes fifth Bhany.
- 6. To affirm that the soul not being coginiable by the senses and is not visible constitutes the sixth Bhanya.
- 7. To affirm that the soul is, because its existence can be inferred, and at the same time it is not because it is not visible, that it is not unchangeable, on the other hand it changes every moment, and that it cannot be said of it that after being something it becomes nothing, nor that being nothing it becomes something constitutes the seventh Bhanya.

^{1.} I owe the reader an apology for coining these terms but I am constrained to do so.—Zr.

In like manner there are eternal and non-eternal Saptabhan Jas (seven periphases). Saptabhan Jas can be spoken of every object by virtue of its special characteristics and common characteristics, properties and changes (taking place in it).

This is the Saptublumyi and Syádváda philosophy of the Budhists and the Jainees.

A.—All the above could be expressed by the use of the terms Anyonyábháva* (or reciprocal negation of idéntity) Sádharmya (Similitude) and Vaidharmya (Dissimilitude). To discard such easy expressions and concoct circumlocatory methods of expressing thought could have no object other than that of ensnaring the ignorant. Now mark! The soul as a soul-less object does not exist, nor does the soul-less object exist as a soulpossessing one. The fact of the mere existence of the soul and the dead, inert matter constitutes their similitude, while the fact of one being possessed of consciousness and the other devoid of it constitutes their dissimilitude, in other words consciousness exists in the soul but innertness does not. In likemanner, their and Syádváda become easily intelligible by Sa rtarh yas reflecting a little on the similarities and dissimilarities between the characteristics (of different objects). Why should then such circumlocutory and absurd expression be concocted.

Both the Bullists and the Jainees equally believe in Suptabhanya and Syádvála, though there are some minor points on which they are divided.

NOW WE SHALL DISCUSS THE JAIN RELIGION ONLY.

1. The Jainees believe in "two principal entities only; viz., one possessed of consciousness, and the other devoid of consciousness; I weka consists in distinguishing one from the other. A Viveki is one who accepts what is worth of being accepted and rejects what is worthy of being rejected."

स्यादिस्त जीवोऽयं प्रथमो रंगः ॥ १ ॥ स्यान्नास्त जीवो द्वितीयो मंगः ॥ २ ॥ स्याद्वकव्यो जीवस्तृतीयो मंगः ॥ ३ ॥ स्याद्स्ति नास्ति नास्तिरूपो जीवश्रतुर्थो मंगः ॥ ४॥ स्याद्दित अवक्रव्यो जीवः पश्चमो मंगः ॥ ५ ॥ स्यान्नाित अवक्रव्यो जीवः पृष्ठो अंगः ॥ ६ ॥ स्यादिस्त नास्ति अवक्रव्यो जीव इति सप्तमो मंगः ॥ ७ ॥

^{*} It is one of the different forms of non-existence described in Chapter III—Tr.

2. "It is best to reject that senseless religion which teaches that there is a Maker of the Universe, free from passions and desires. Who created the world, and to embrace (the Jain religion which teaches that) the soul is possessed of the highest light and can be realized through (the practice of) Yo Ja"

They do not believe in any other conscious entity—God besides the soul. The Budhists and the Jainees hold that there is no ternal, Herfect God. Raja Shiva Prasad writes in his book called Itihás Timaranáshaka that they have got two names -Jain and Bauddhi (Budhist) These two terms are synonymous. But some of the Bu lhists are Váma Márjis and eat meat and drink spirituous liquors. The Jainees differ from them. Mahávíra and Gautama Gandharas (Lords of hosts) are called Buddhas by the Budhists, while they have been named Gandhara and Jinavara by the Jainees. Raja Shiva Prasal whose forefathers have been Jainees for generations together writes in the third chapter of his book called Itihása Timaranásha a that before Shankaráchárya, who lived altogether about 1,000 ago, the Budhist or the Jain religion prevailed in the whole of Bháratávarsha (India). He then adds the following foot note. "By the term Baul'vi (Budhist religion) we mean than anti-Vedio religion which prevailed in all India from the time of Ganadhara Mahávira, or Gautama Swámi to that of Swámi Shan'tar and was believed in by the Emperors Asho'ra and Samprati. The Jain religion ennnot but be included in it. The words Jina from which the word Jain is derived and Budha-from which the word Baudha (Budhist) is derived—are both synonymous. The dictionary gives the same meaning of both these words. Both (the Jainees and the Budhists) believe in Gautama. Besides, Shakyamuni Gautama Budha is often called Mahavira in the ancient books, such as Dipavansha, of the Budhists. It is clear then that in his time at any rate both these religions were one and the same. The foreigners (Europeons) have in their books called them by the name of Budhists, it is only for this reason that we have not used the term Jaine's for the followers of Guttam's and have instead called them Bandha (Budhists)."

१-चिद्विद्दे परे तत्वे विवेक तिद्विवेचनम् । उपादेयग्रुपादेयं हेयं हेयं च कुर्वतः ॥ २-हेयं हि कर्तृरागादि तत् कार्र्यमविवेकिनः। उपादेयं परं ज्योतिरुपयोगैकलः ग्रम्

The Amarakosha* says the same thing—

"He is called Sarvajna Sugata, Budha, Dharmarája Amarakosha. Tathá jata Samantabhadra, Bhaguán Marajít, (and) Jina etc."

It is not clear even now that Budha and Jina, or Baudha (Baudhist) and Juinee, are one and the same? Has even Amara Singh made a mistake in writing that Budha and Jina are the names of the same person? The ignorant Jainees neither know anything about their own religion nor that of others. Being blinded by prejudice they simply talk nonsense, but those who are learned among them know very well that the word Budha is synonymous with Jina and Baudha (Budhist) with Jainee. There is not the least doubt about it.

The Jainees hold that soul itself becomes God, their tirathankaras having attained salvation became God. They do not believe in an eternal God.

Sarvajna (Omniscient: Vitarája (free from passions of love, etc.) Arhan (worthy of ho nage), Kevali saved) Tirthankrita (sanctified) and Jina (victorious) are the six names of the gods of the atheists (Jainees and Budhists).

Chandrasúri thus describes the nature (and attributes) of the Supreme Deity in his book called the Aptanishchayalan-lear:—

O.—(1) "Verily. He that is free from such evils as passions of love, etc., worthy of being worshipped in the three worlds, rightly expounds all branches of knowledge is Omniscient and Adorable is the Supreme God."

' Tautátitas' have written to the same effect-

सर्वज्ञः सुगतो बुद्धो धर्मराजस्तथागतः ।
समन्तमद्रो भगवान्मारजिल्लोकजिज्ञिनः ॥
षडिभिन्नो दशवलोऽद्वयवादी विनायकः ।
सुनीन्द्रः श्रीधनः शास्ता सुनि शाक्यसुनिस्तु यः ॥
स शाक्यसिंहः सर्वाथः सिद्धश्रोद्धोदनिश्र सः ।
गौतमश्राक्वनन्धृश्र मायादेवीसुतश्र सः ॥ अमरकोश कां० १। वर्ग
१ । स्रो० ८ से १० तक ॥

I. It is the name of a big Sanskril lexicon. It was written by Amara Singh who professed Jain religion.—Tr.

- (2) "There is no Onniscient, Eternal God demonstrable by ocular evidence since we do not see one at the present time. In the absence of ocular proof, there can be no inferential evidence, because the inferential proof of an object can only be available after direct perception of a part of it."
- (3) "In the absence of direct perception and inference, testimony or verbal authority also cannot be available in order to prove the existence of an Eternal, I nmortal, Omniscient Supreme Spirit. These three proofs being unavailable, Arthaváda (praise and dispraise) Para'rriti (or life-ketch) and Itihása (history) can be of no good."
- (4) "Like bahubrihi* compound the existence of the Invisible Supreme can not be demonstrated. Without hearing about God from preachers, the reiteration of His nature, attributes, etc., is impossible."
- A.—Had there been no Eternal God, who would have created the bodies of the parents of your god Arhan? A body possessed of all the necessary organs in the proper proportions and place, etc., and fit to perfectly discharge all its functions verily needs a maker—one who combines all the different elements properly—to come into being, because, being inert, such a beautifully constructed body can not, by itself, come into existence, as its constituent elements do not possess the knowledge of combining together properly. Besides, one that is first possessed of such faults as the passions of love, etc., and then later on becomes free from them, can not be God; because when the
 - ?--सर्वज्ञो वीतरागादिदोषस्त्रैलोक्यपूजितः ।
 यथास्थितार्भवादी च देवोऽर्हन् परमेश्वरः ॥
 २--सर्वज्ञो दृश्यते तावभेदानीमस्मदादिभिः ।
 दृष्टो न चैकदेशोऽिहत लिङ्गं वा योऽनुमापयेत् ॥
 ३ न चागमविधिः किञ्चिनित्यसर्वज्ञबोधकः ।
 न च तत्रार्थवादानां ताल्पर्यमिष कृष्यते ॥
 ४ न चान्यर्थप्रधानस्तिस्तदस्तित्वं विधीयते ।
 न चानुवादितुं शक्यः पूर्वमन्यरबोधितः ॥

^{*} It is one of the principal kin is of compounds in Sanskrit. In it, to or more nouns in apposition to each other are compounded, the attributive member (whether a noun or an adjective) being placed first and made to qualify another substantive, and neither of the two members separately, but the sense of the whole compound, qualifies that substantive.— The practical Sanskrit-English Dictionary by V.S. Apte, M. A.

causes, whose operation helps the soul to free itself from the bondage of evils (such as passions of love, etc.,) cease to act, their effect—the salvation—will come to an end. One that is possessed of finite power and finite knowlege can never be Onnipresent and Omniscient. Since the soul is by nature circumscribed and possessed of a finite nature, and finite attributes and activity, it can never expound perfectly all the different branches of knowledge, hence your Tirthankaras can never become God.

- 2. Do you only believe in what is perceptible to the senses, and not in what is otherwise? Just as colour can not be perceived by ears, nor sound by eyes; in like manner, the Eternal Supreme Spririt is not perceptible to the senses He can only be seen by a pure soul through the purity of heart, acquisition of knowledge and the practice of your. Just as one can not re ip the advantages of knowledge without acquiring it, likewise the Supreme Spirit can not be seen without the practice of youa and gaining the highest knowledge. Moreover, just as the earth is mide directly comizable by observing its properties, such as form, etc., which are inseparably related to it, similarly we become directly comizant of God by observing the wonderful design of this world Again, when we are inclined to commit a sin, feelings of fear, shame and heritation arise in our soul. Now, these feelings are given rise to by the Omniscient Supreme Spirit. We, thus become directly cognizant of the presence of God.
- 3. The evidence of direct cognition as well, as that of Infere 102 being thus available, the evidence of Testimony in support of the Eternal, Beginningless, Omniscient God is also valid. All these proofs being available it can not but be right to praise His powers and attributes, because the nature, attributes and characteristics of an eternal substance are also eternal, hence, there is nothing to prevent us from glorifying the Eternal Supreme Spirit.
- 4. Just as no human work can be done without the doer, likewise, this great master-piece—the universe—could not possibly have come into existence without a Maker. Such being the case, even an idiot cannot doubt His existence. On hearing about God from preachers, it also becomes easy to reiterate what one has heard.

Hence, it is wrong on the part of the Jainees to deny the existence of God on the ground that such proofs as direct cognition, etc., are wanting,

O.—(1) "It cannot be said of an eternal Shastra that it is created, because how could a non-eternal and,

- therefore, unreliable book correctly explain an Omniscient God?
- (2) "If the existence of God is proved on the authority of His word, it comes to this that the truth of an eternal revelation rests on the authority of an Eternal God, while the existence of an Eternal God is proved on the authority of His Eternal, Word. This is an argument in a circlee."
- (3) "When you hold the Veda to be true, because it is the Word of an Omniscient God, how can you, then, prove the existence of God on the authority of that very Veda? In order to prove that God exists and the Veda is His Word, you will have to look for some other authority-Hence there will be no finality in authority."
- A.—We (believers in the Veda) hold that God, His nature, attributes and actions are eternal. Eternal and beginningless substances cannot be subject to anyonyáshraya dosha, i. e, the charge of being dependent on each other for authority. Just as an effect is known by its cause and vice versa, and the nature and properties of a cause reside permanently in its effect, while those of an effect in its cause; in like manner, God and His infinite attributes, such as knowledge, etc., being eternal, the Veda which is God's Word, can not be charged with anvasthá dosha (absence of finality in authority.)

You believe your tirthankaras to be God. Now, this can never be true, because unless they had parents, their bodies could

^{1.} Literally it would mean that they, e i., God and the Veda will be subject to anyonyashray adosha, i.e., the charge of being dependent on each other or arguing in a circle.—Tr.

^{2.} In Sanskrit philosophy it is called anavastha dosha and is regarded as one of the faults of reasoning. It means absence of finality or conclusion, or an endless series of statements or causes and effects.—Tr.

१ अनादेरागमस्यार्थी न च सर्वज्ञ आदिमान् । कृत्रिमेण त्वसत्येन स कथं प्रतिपाद्यते ॥

२ अथ तद्धचनेनैव सर्वज्ञोऽन्यः प्रदीयते । प्रकल्पेत कथं सिद्धिरन्योऽन्य श्रिययोस्तयोः ॥

र सर्वज्ञोक्ततया वाक्यं सत्यं तेनतदिस्तता । कथं तदुभयं सिध्यते सिद्धः लान्तराहते ॥ not be formed. How could they have, then, practised austerities and attained knowledge and salvation? What is the result of combination, must have a beginning, since combination presupposes separate existence (of the constituent elements). Hence you should believe in an Eternal Creator of the world. However great siddha¹ a man may be, he can never perfectly understand the construction of the human body. Besides, when a siddha passes into the condition of dreamless sleep, he does not remain conscious of any thing. Again, when a man is afflicted with (physical or mental) suffering, his knowledge also diminishes.

No one but Jainees with warped intellects could believe an entity which is possessed of finite power and is circumscribed as God. If you say that those tirthank tras were born of their parents, whose children were their parents and so on. There will thus be an absence of finality.

A DISCUSSION ON THEISM AND ATHEISM.

Now we give here questions² set forth, in part II of the Prakarana Ratnákar on theism and atheism, with our answers:—

- O.—Nothing happens in this world as the result of the Will of God. Whatever happens is the result of deeds.
- A.—If everything is the result of deeds, who is the doer of deeds? If you answer that the soul is the doer (of deeds), we ask who created the organs such as ears with which the soul does deeds? If you answer that they are beginningless and it is in their nature to come into being, we rejoin that what is beginningless can never cease to exist, hence salvation will be impossible. If you say that like prágabháva (that kind of non-existence which did not exist before it came into being) it has no beginning but has an end, all will be freed of the necessity of doing deeds without any effort on their part. If there were no God, the giver of the fruits of their deeds (to souls), no soul will ever, of its own free-will, suffer punishment for its sins, just as burglars and other criminals do not voluntarily suffer punishment for their crimes such as burglary, it is the law that compels them to do so; in like manner, it is God Who makes the soul reap the fruits of its actions,—good or bad, otherwise all order will be lost; in other words, one soul will do deeds while the other will reap the fruits thereof.

t.-A Siddha is one who has attained the highest state of perfection possible to man.—Tr.

^{2.} These have been approved of, and published, by many a well-known Jainees.

- O.—God is actionless, because if He did any deeds He would have to reap the fruits thereof. Hence you should also believe like us in the perfect beings who have attained salvation and are actionless.
- A.—God is not actionless, on the other hand, He is active, Why is He not active when He is a Conscious Being. When He is active, He cannot be actionless. No enlightened man can believe in your fictitions God who is no other than your tirthankaras—human souls who have attained the state of salvation, since whoever becomes God through the operation of certain causes would become non-eternal and dependent (on causes, etc.). Such a God was a mere human soul before he attained God-head and then, through some cause or another, it became God, some day he will again become a soul as it can never get rid of its own nature. It has been a soul for an infinite number of years and will remain so eternally. Hence it is right to believe in the Eternal, Self-existent god, Now mark! The soul at the present time does act-virtuous or sinful-and reaps the fruits thereof—pleasure or pain, but God does not. Had God not been active. He would not have been able to create the world. If you believe acts to be beginningless but perishable like Prágablava, they will not stand in intimate, inseparable relation to the soul, and if this be the case, they will be sanyoyaja (the result of union1) and hence perishable If you believe that the souls in the state of emancipation are actionless, (we should like to know) if they are possessed of consciousness or not. If you answer in the affirmative, then it is clear that they do possess mental activity, but if you deny them consciousness, (we ask) do they. then, become dead, inert like stones in the state of emancipation, lie in one place and remain idle? If you say yes, your salvation is no salvation at all but darkness and bondage.
- O.—God is not All pervading, because if He be so, all objects could be possessed of consciousness, and men should not be divided into four Classes, viz, Bráhmana, Kshatriya, Vaishya and Shúdra, some of which are higher than others. The same God pervading all there should be no inequality among human beings.
- A.—The 'pervader' and the pervaded are not one and the same; on the other hand, one that is pervaded is localized, whilst the pervader is present in all places, just as ether pervades all, while the earth and other objects such as a pot and a piece of cloth are localized, but the ether and the earth are not one; in like manner God and the Universe are not one. Just as ether pervades all objects, such as a pot or a piece of cloth, and yet they are not ether, likewise, God Who is possessed of consciousness pervades all object; but they do not become conscious (like God). Just as a learned man and an ignorant man, a righteous man and an unrighteous man are not equal, in like manner, on account of differences in their qualities, such as knowledge, in actions, such as truthfulness in speech, and in disposition, such as gentleness, Bráhmanas, Kshatriyas, Vaishyas and Shúdras, and the out caste are regarded unequal. The duties, and qualifications of the four Classes, have already been dealt with. (Vide Chapter IV).

^{1.} i e., not inherent in or inseperably related to the soul but united to it—in other words, they are a sort of accretion.—Ir.

- O.—If God be the author of creation what is, then, the use of parents?
- A.—Males and females created by God in the beginning of creation were not the result of sexual congress. This is called aishvari srishti; but He is not the Author of Jaivi Srishti, i. e. creation which is the result of sexual union), God cannot do what is the work of the soul. God has created trees, fruits, medicinal herbs and cereals etc; if min would not take cereals, etc., thrash and grind them and make them into bread and eat it, will God do these things in his place? No being could even exist if it did not do its work. Hence it rests with God to create (human) bodies in the beginning of Creation, (but after He has done so) it becomes the work of man to procreate children, etc.
- O.—Why did God get Himself involved in the troubles and worries of this world, when He is Eternal, Beginningless. Conscious, All-Blissful and All-knowledge? Even an ordinary man would not give up his pleasures and take to what entails pain and suffering, why should God have done such a thing?
- A.—The Supreme Spirit is never involved in troubles and worries of this world, nor does He ever give up His Blissful state. since he that is circumscribed is involved in pain and ignorance but not one who is All-pervading. Who but the Eternal, Conscious, All-Blissful and Omniscient Supreme Spirit could create the world. The soul does not possess the power of creating the world nor does the innert matter possess the power to mould itself, hence it is the Supreme Spirit alone Who creates the world and also remains in blissful state. Just as God has created this world out of the material atoms, likewise it is He who has ordained that children should be born of their parents,—their efficient cause.
- O.—Why did God give up the bliss of Emancipation and bother Himself with the creation, sustenance and dissolution of the universe?

- A.—God is Ever free and Eternal He is not like your Tirthanicars who lived in one place and were in bondage before they were emancipated. He that possesses an infinite nature, infinite powers, infinite attributes, infinite activity does not become subject to bondage by creating, sustaining and dissolving this little—compared to God—world. Bondage and emancipation are correlated. Bondage has reference to Emancipation and vice versa. How could enancipation be predicated of Him Who was never in bondage. It is the circumscribed soul that becomes subject to bondage and emancipation. The Infinite, All-pervading, Omnipresent God does not become subject to bondage or emancipation, dependent upon particular causes. That Supreme Spirit is, therefore, called Ever-free.
- O.—The soul can reap the fruits of its deeds without the instrumentality of a higher power even as intoxicants such as Indian hemp (Cannabis Indica) inebriate a man with out any extrinsic aid. Hence, God is not the giver of fruits (of deeds).
- A.—Just as a dacoit or a burglar does not voluntarily go to the jail, nor does a homicide, of his free-will, mount the gallows, it is the king by whose those sentences are executed; likewise God justly punishes the soul for its sins in accordance with the laws ordained by Him because no soul wants to suffer punishment for its evil deeds. Hence the necessity of a Just Ruler of the Universe is established.
- O.—There is not one God in the universe, all the emancipated souls become God.
- A.—This assertion is altogether absurd, because the soul, being emancipated after having been in bondage, must necessarily become subject to bondage again, because it is not free by nature. Your twenty-four Tirthankars were in bondage before they were emancipated, hence they will necessarily become subject to bondage again. If there are many Gods, don't they quarrel and wrangle with each other just as men do here.
- O.—O idiot! There is no Maker of this world. The universe has come into existence by itself.
- A.—This is a great blunder of Jaine s Can an act ever be done without a doer? Can an effect ever come into being without any effort (on the part of the doer)? Has any one ever seen wheat being ground into flour and flour made into bread without the agency of man and the bread going without any effort on their part down the throats of the Jaines? Cotton is never seen to be transformed except through the instrumentality of man, into thread and clothes such as a coat, a dhoti,* a handkerchief. a jacket, a turban in the cotton fields before it is sent into towns? When such is not the case, how could this multifarious world with its wonderful construction come into being without a Maker? If you, through sheer prejudice, hold on to the belief that the universe came into being without the instrumentality of a higher power, you ought to prove to us by ocular demonstration that the above mentioned articles, such as clothes, come into existence without the agency of man. When you can't do it, how can a sensible man, then, ever believe in your most unwarrantable statements.

- O.—Is God Virakta (one who has renounced all pleasures) or Mohita (one who is attached to worldly objects)? If He be Virakta, why did He bother himself about creating this world? But if he be Mohita, he could not possess the power to create the world.
- A.—Neither Vairajya (Renunciation) nor Moha (infatuation) can be predicated of God, because He that is All-pervading neither accept nor renounce anyting. There is nothing higher than God, nor there is anything that is unattainable to Him. hence He cannot be attached to anything. Renunciation and infatuation can be predicated of the soul and not of God.
- O-Should you hold that God created the world and gives souls the fruits of their deeds, He would be involved in the manifold affairs of this world and will consequently be afflicted with miserv.
- A.—When a righteous, and learned judge of this world who discharges manifold duties and awards men just fruits of their deeds, does not get invovled in their affairs nor is afflicted with misery, why should the Great God, possessed of Infinite powers, be involved in the affairs of this world, and afflicted with misery? You, through your ignorance, seem to think that God is also like you or one of your Tirthunkars. Now, this is the result of your lack of knowledge. Should you desire to rid yourself of your ignorance and the like evils you should depend on the Veda and other shastras for guidance. Oh Why do you doubt and stumble?

Now, we shall show, on the authority of their (scriptural) aphorisms, what the beliefs of the Jainees with regard to the universe are. We shall briefly give the meaning of the Sútras (scriptural aphorisms) and then discuss them in order to show how far they are right and how far wrong.

^{*} It is a garment for the lower half of the body.—Tr.

"This world has no beginning nor an end. Neither it was ever created, nor will it ever perish; in other words, this world has never been created by any one."

602.
Adiscussion between Mahayira
and Gautama.

In the above-mentioned discussion on theism and atheism it has been stated "O, idiot! there is no creator of the world. It was never made, nor will it ever parish."

A.—That which is the result of the combination (of different elements) can never be beginningless or endless. An effect must have a beginning as well as an end. All objects of this world are the result of the combination of their constituent elements, and are subject to creation and dissolution, why is not this world, then, subject to creation and dissolution, had your Tirthankaras possessed correct knowledge, they would not have written such impossible things (in their books). You are as ignorant as the founders of your faith were. A man who believes what you Jainees say can never know the true nature of things. Why can't you believe that that which is clearly the result of the combination of its constituent elements is subject to creation and dissolution? It is clear, then, that the teachers or the founders of the Jui. religion were not acquainted with the sciences of Geography and Astronomy, nor do the Jainees, at the present moment, possess any knowledge of these subjects, otherwise how could they have believed in, and taught, the under mentioned incredible things.

Mark! According to the Jainees, even the earth is the body of a soul; they also believe in such creatures whose bodies are made of water. No. man could ever believe in such things.

Now, here are a few samples of the false teachings of Tirth inters whom the Jainees believe to be possessed of correct knowledge and the state of God-head.

Time has been described in the Ratnasárahlája [The Jainess believe this book to be authoritative. It was printed and published in the Jainprabhávar Press, Benares, by Nanak Chand Jati, on the 28th of April, 1879 A. D.] on page 145 thus:—

Samaya is called Súkshmakála (smallest period of time).

Asankhyáta Samıjıs = Kvali. 1,67,70,216 Avalis = Muhúrta.

मूल-सामित्रणाइ अणन्ते च न्।इ संसार घोरकान्तरे । मोहाइ कम्मगुरु ठिइ विवाग वसनुभमइजीव रेा । प्रकरणरताकर भाग दुसरा २ प्रश्चितक(६०) सूत्र० २ ॥

```
30 Muhúrtas = 1 Divasa (day).

15 Divasas = 1 Paksh t (fortnight).

2 Pakshas = 1 Mása (month)

12 Másas = 1 Varsha (year).

| 7,0 0,000 \times 0,000 000 \ +56,000 \times 0,000,000 \ Asankhyála Púrvas = 1 Palyopama kála.
```

Now, as to the exposition of the meaning of the word Asan'chyáta.

Let a pit, square in shape, each side of which is four koshus* long and the same in depth be dug, let it be filled with pieces of the hairs of the body of juguli men in the following manner: The hair of a juguli man is 4,096 times finer than that of an ordinary man of our days, in other words, 4096 hairs of a juguli man make one hair of an ordinary man. Now, take the hair of a juguli man about one finger's breadth and length and divide it into 8 parts and then repeat this process seven times and you get altogether 2,097, 52 pieces Fill the above-described pit with such pieces of hair. Then get one piece of hair out of the pit in 100 years, when all the pieces of hairs have been removed in this way and the pit is emptied, the time occupied by this process is still Sankhyáta, not (Asankhyáta. When each of those pieces is again divided into Asankyáta pieces and the pit is again filled with such pieces of hair so compactly that even if the army of an Emperor of the whole earth were to pass over the pit, it should not make any impressions on it. Then let each piece of hair he taken out one in one hundred years, when that pit is thus emptied, the period covered by the whole process is called púrva. Such Asankhyáta Púrvas make one Palyopamukála.

 $10,000,000 \times 100,000,000$ Palyopamakálas = 1 Ságaropama kála $10,000,000 \times 100,000,000$ Ságaropamakálas = Utsarpani. † 1 Utsarpanu + 1 Avas urpani = Kála Chakra (one cycle of time).

Ananta Kálachakras = 1 pudyala parávritta. Ananta Kála is that which is beyond the calculation of time given in the Jain Scriptures and has been exemplified by nine illustrations.

Such Ananta Pudjula parávritas have passed since the soul has been wandering about.

Now, W ll you, methematicians be able to calculate the time given in the Jain books, and will you be able to believe it to be correct? The Tirthankaras of the Jainees had studied a novel kind of mathematics. Such are the teachers and followers of the Jain faith. Their ignorance is unfathomable. We give here a few more specimens of their dense ignorance.

^{* 1} mile=11 kosha. In some parts of India 2 miles=1 kosha.—Tt.

In the Ratnasárabháya on page 133, begins what is called the essence of the Jain scriptures written by their Tirthankaras from Risha)hdeva to Mahavira who are 24 in number. On page 148 of the same book it is written that the earth and stones, which are different forms of earth, should be regarded as Prithivi Káya creatures. The bodies of such creatures are the minutest part of a finger breadth, in other words, they are very very small. Their age is 22,000 years at the most. There are countless souls in one plant. These are called ordinary plants. Bulbouss Ratnasarbhaga roots, roots, etc., and Anantakáya, etc., are the souls of ordinary plants. Their age is Anta muhurtta, but this muhurtta is the Jain Muhurtta that has been described above. The simple plant is one which possesses only one sense, (i. e., of touch) and only one soul. The body of such a soul measures 4,000 yojanas on length. [According to the believers in the Puránas, 1 yojana= 4 koshas but, according to the Jainees, 1 yojana=10,000 koshas.] Its age is, at the most, 10,000 years.

Now, we come to the souls which possess a body with two senses, i. e., one body and the other mouth, such as a conch-shell and a louse. Their physical bodies measure, at the most, 48 koshas in length and their age, at the most, is 12 years. The writer has made a mistake here. A creature with such a big body should have a longer duration of life.

Lice with bodies 43 koshas long will surely be found on the bodies of the Jainees alone and they alone must have seen them. Other people could never be so lucky as they.

Their scorpions, bugs, fleas and flies have bodies 1 yojana long Their age, at the most, is 6 months. We are sure no Ratnasarbhagı. one besides the Jainees has ever seen a scorpion 8 miles long. Scorpions and flies 8 miles long are to be found according to the Jain faith alone. Such scorpions and flies must be surely found in the houses of the Jainees alone and they alone in the whole world must have seen them. Should one of such scorpions sting a Jainee, it is hard to imagine how he would suffer. The watery creatures such as fish have bodies 1,000 yojanas. One yojana being equal to 10,000 koshas, the body of a watery creature must be 10,000,000 koshas long. Their age is 10,000,000 Púrva varshas. None but the Jainces, could ever have seen such big creatures. The bodies of quadrupeds, such as elephants, range between 2 and 9 koshus in length and their age is 84,000 years. No one but the Jainees could ever have seen them. and it is they alone who could believe in their existence. No sensible man could believe in such things.

The mam nals that live in water have bodies 1,000 yojanas or 10,000,000 kochas long and their age is 100,000,000 years. The founders of the Jain faith alone mushave seen such animals with such huge bodies in their dreams. Now, are these not huge lies? These things are so utt terly incredible.

Now, we come to the measurements of the earth:

On this crooked planet there are Asankhydta lands and AsanRatnasar khydta oceans. By the term Asankhydta is here, bluga meant the period covered by 2½ Sá jaropamkála. On this earth Jam'nudwípa is in the midst of all islands.
Its area is 100,000 yojanas or 1,000,000000 (sq.) koshas. This island is surrounded on all sides by the salt sea. Its area is 200,000 yojanas or 2,000, 000,000 (sq.) koshas. Next to it is the ocean called Kálodadhis; its area is 8,000,000,000 (sq.) koshas.
Further back is Push'arávantta island. Its interior is divided into zones. One-half of it is occupied by mon Further than this there are countless oceans and islands in which crawling creatures live.

Ratnasarbhaga prgs 153. In the Jambu island there are 6 continents:—

1. Himavanta, 2. Airandavanta, 3. Harivarsha. 4. Bamya'ta, 5. Deva'turu, 6. Uttarakuru,

A.—Georgrapher please! Have you made a mistake in taking the measurements of the earth or the Jainees? Will you please correct the Jainees if it be their mistake or correct your selves if you have made a mistake. Anyhow settle this little matter between yourselves. A little reflection will show that the writers of the Juin scriptures and their disciples were quite ignorant of Geography, Astronomy, and Mathematics. Had they been conversant with these branches of knowledge, why would they have concocted such cock-and-bull stories? No wonder! Such people believe the universe to be uncreated and deny the existence of God. The Jainzes do not let learned men of other faiths have their books to read, because the books they believe to have been written by their reliable Tirthankaras, are full of such things as are opposed to the dictum of knowledge. They do not let other people see them, lest some one might expose their absurdities. No one, besides the Jainees, who possesses a grain of sense can ever believe in such yarns. They have introduced all these absurdities, in order to prove that the world is beginningless, but it is altogether wrong. It is true though that the initerial cause of the world (called prakriti) is beginningless, because those pramanus—the minutest particles of matter which cannot be further divided by any menaare the basic principles and are uncreated, but they do not possess any power for ordered formation and disintegration. The pramanus are simple entities. They are separate from each other and inert by nature. They cannot combine with each other in an ordered manner, hence it is imperative that there should be a Conscious Being to combine them who should also be Omniscient. It is the work of the Beginningless, Eternal, Conscious, Supreme-Spirit to regulate the sun and the earth and other planets. The physical world, in which combination (of different elements) and a special design are to be seen, can never be beginningless. Should you believe the effect to be beginningless, it will have no cause; in other words, it will be both an effect and its own cause and, therefore, átmáshrayi. But this can never be true since a man cannot stand on his own shoulders, nor can one become his own father or son. Hence the necessity of a Maker of the Universe is clearly demonstrated.

O.—If God be held the Maker of the universe, Who is His Maker?

A.—There can be no Maker of the (first) Maker, the Cause of the first) Cause It is only because the first Maker or the first Cause exists that (the world—) an effect—comes into b ing. That of which combination (with others) or seperation (from them) cannot be predicated and which is the cause of the first combination or disintegration can never have another maker or cause This subject has been fully discussed in the 8th Chapter of this book. The reader is advised to consult that Chapter for further information. How can the Jainees understand the abstruse Science of Cosmogony when they do not even properly understand simple and easy things?

The belief of the Jainees with regard to the world being beginningless and endless, to formation in each substatum being also beginningless and endless, and to attributes of each substratum being also endless which is recorded in the Prakaranaratnákara is quite untenable, because attributes and other characteristics that are finite must have an end. Even if by the word endless you mean countless, you cannot be right. It may be alright from the point of view of the soul but cannot be true from that of God.

The belief that because each object of the world is distinct from all other objects and cannot be classified with any other object, possesses the power of producing an effect, of being transformed into its causal forms and, because there are an endless number of objects in the world, the number of forms will be infinite, and the power residing in objects will also be infinite, betrays the ignorance (of the Jainees). How could a paramánu (an atom) contain endless unclassified formations when it has limits? In like manner it is childish to believe that an object can possess endless formations in its attributes, because when a space has limits how can its contents be endless. There are many other cock-and-bull stories told in the scriptures of the Jainees.

Now, we shall set forth (and discuss) the belief of the Jainees with regard to jiva (the soul) and ajiva (inert matter). In the Jivalattsú i it is written:—"What possesses consciousness is jiva (the soul) and that which is devoid of it is ajiva (dead, inert matter). Good and righteous atoms constitute virtue, and evil atoms constitute vice.

A.—The soul and inert matter have, of course, been rightly defined, but it is wrong to say that the inert atoms are righteous or vicious, for, the power of doing right and wrong can exsist only in a consious entity. Mark! All inert substances are incapable of doing deeds-good or bad. The doctrine of the immortality of the human spirit is sound, but it is foolish to believe that the human soul, whose capacities are limited, can, when emancipated, attain to a state of omniscience, for whatsover is finite can never attain infinite power. The Jainees believe that, the universe, the soul, the action of the soul, and the concatenation of births and deaths are eternally co-existent. Here, too, it seems, that tirthankaras of the Jai iees have fallen into an error, for it is impossible that the created universe (i. e., the world which is the product of the combination of elements), the natural process called into being after creation, the actions of men and metampsychosis should be eternal. If it be so, how can the Jainees believe consistently that the concatenation of existences and the necessity of doing deeds may come to an end? Whatever is eternal can have no end. If it be said that eternal substances are subject to destruction, all eternal substances believed in by the Jainees will naturally be thought to be capable of exsisting only for a limited period. If, however, the word eternal be taken to mean "that which can never come to an end" it is impossible not to believe that human actions and metampsychosis will exsist for ever. This being the case, it is clear that salvation, being dependent on a particular cause, viz., the temporary cessation of actions, will last only for a limited period and not for ever. Moreover, on account of the relation between the doer and his actions being perpetual, actions will never cease to exsist. This conclusion subverts the Jain belief that the Tirthankaras have attained salvation for ever and that the ordinary Jainees can also attain to that state.

चेतनालक्षणो जीवःस्यादजीवस्तदन्यकः। सत्कर्भाव्यस्ताः पुण्यं पापं तस्य विपर्ययः॥

- O.—If a rice-grain be divested of its outer covering or be brought in contact with fire, the seed cannot grow; even so a soul once emancipated (from physical bondage) can never again become subject to births and deaths.
- A.—The relation between the soul and the necessity of doing deeds does not resemble that which subsists between a rice-grain and its outer covering. It is one of inseparable inherence. The soul is eternal and from eternity action and the souls power of doing deeds are intimately related. If it be believed that the human spirit is devoid of the power of doing deeds it will naturally follow that all souls are inert like stones and, therefore, incapable of enjoying the bliss which falls to the share of emancipated spirits. If the soul is emancipated from the bondage of actions, the power of doing which has inhered in the soul from eternity, it will surely after attaining salvation which (according to the Jain belief) is perpetual, again become subject to metampsychosis, for if it is possible that a soul being freed from the necessity of doing deeds-which are the means of salvation—can attain to the state of final beatitude, it is equally possible for it to revert from perpetual salvation to the bondage (of births and deaths). An effect which is due to the operation of certain causes can never be perpetual. If, however, you believe that salvation is attainable without the adoption of the means of attaining it, what then is the difficulty in believing that the soul's (reversion to the state of) bondage is possible without its being under the necessity of doing deeds. A piece of cloth, which has become dirty on account of contact with dirt is cleaned by washing, and can again become dirty; similarly, the soul is placed under the necessity of doing deeds when it has committed sins like dissimulation and been dominated by malice, etc. If you believe that the soul is purified by the attainment of true knowledge, by keeping good company and by righteous conduct and is contaminated if the causes which go to contaminate it are in operation, you cannot escape the conclusion that souls in a state of emancipation can revert to the bondage (of birth and deaths) and rice versa, for if adventitious circumstances can remove dirt, they can, likewise, bring on pollution. The sound belief, therefore, is that the soul has been subject to metampsychosis and emancipation since creation and is not so eternal.
- O.—The soul was never pure. It is always (somewhat)
- A.—If it was never quite pure, it cannot ever be so. It is possible to remove by washing the dirt that may have soiled a sheet originally clean, but it is impossible to remove its naturally white colour. The dirt can soil the sheet again, even if it has been once washed; similary, the emancipated soul can be branded once again with the taint of sin,

- O—It is foolish to believe in the existence of God, for a man can take on a new body as a result of deeds done in the past birth.
- A.—If it be in the power of the soul to take on a new body without Divine instrumentality, it is inconcievable that it will, of its own free will, be re-incarnated amidst surroundings calculated to inflict pain upon it, every soul will like to incarnate amidst happy environments. The plea that the soul is subject to the fruits of its deeds will not hold good, for even a thief does not go to jail volunt urily nor does (a homicide) mount the gallows of his own free-will. It is the king by whose authority these sentences are executed. You cannot, therefore, but believe that God exists in order to cause the soul to take on new bodily forms and to reward or punish it according to its (good or evil) deeds.
- O.—Even as drinking causes intoxication (without extrinsic aid) so does the soul receive the fruits of its deeds without the instrumentality of any other power.
- A.—This is absurd! Inveterate drunkards do not feel the effects of intoxication as do those who are not addicted to the view. If your contention be right, those that are sinners of the deepest dye should be punished less severely than those who are not given much to sinful practices.
- instincts.
- A.—If the punishment is due to natural instincts, it cannot be predicated of it that it has begun or ended 'for it must always endure). (It is, therefore, clear that the award of reward or punishment is not due to adventitious causes) even as accidental causes soil the clean sheet and their removal restores to it its former purity.
- O,—Combination is essential to the production of a result, just as clarified butter cannot be produced unless milk and some acid thing are combined. Why not, then, believe that (reward or punishment) is the result of the union of the soul with an action?
- A—Milk and an acid thing are combined through the instrumentality of a third entity. There ought, therefore, be a third entity—God—to establish a relationship between the soul and the fruits of the deeds done by it, for inert substances can never, of themselves, combine methodically and the soul, being bossessed of finite power, cannot of itself, toccive the fruits of its actions This shows that, without the operation of laws made by God, the system of rewards and punishments according to deeds done by men cannot work.

- O.—Whoever is freed from the necessity of doing deeds (attains salvation and) becomes God.
- A.—The power of doing actions, being eternally inherent in the soul, the latter can never be deprived of it.
 - O.—The necessity of doing deeds is not beginningless.
- . A.—If it is so, there must have been a time when the soul was incupable of doing deeds, and thus the capacity of doing actions was planted in an entity which did not possess it. Why cannot, then, emancipated souls be made to perform deeds? relation between the doer and the deeds is of an inseparable character and can never cease. What we have written on this subject in the 9th Chapter is, therefore, worthy of belief. soul can never be equal to God, no matter how extensive its knowledge and power are, these latter being necessarily limited. Of course, by force of psyschic practices, the soul can secure the development of its knowledge to the greatest possible extent. The drhatas among the Jainees believe that, like the body, the soul also possesses the property of extension. That is absurd, for, if it be so, the soul of a little insect could not be contained in the body of an elephant and vice versa. The soul is a fine entity which can reside even in an atom. Its powers, however, are linked with nervauric and electric forces and the nerves, etc., and it is, therefore, kept informed of all that goes on in the body. If healthy influences act upon it, it becomes virtuous, and if unhealthy influences operate, it becomes sinful. The following verses clearly set forth the Jain eliefs:—
- (1) O man! Only by following that Dharama, pain caused by the concatenation of births and deaths and pursuit of mundane aims is destroyed, which has been expounded by a deified Jain saint (lit. one who has subdued his passions). Do thou believe that only Jain preceptors are good teachers and real Devas; Brahmá, Harihara and in fact all except the Jain saints, the first of whom was named Rishabhdeva and the last Mahávir, are not worthy of adoration. Whoever worships them with the desire of securing his well-being is a dupe." The up-shot of this is that no good accrues if one does not follow the good Jain faith and its good saints and follows the bad religion and so-called saints of others.

मूल-रे जीव भवदुहाई इकं चिय हरइ जिणमयं धम्मं । इयराणं परम तो सहकप्ये मृदत्म्वति ओसि ॥

A.—Learned men should mark how stupid the Jain scriptures are.

The regeneration of people grovelling in misery is only possible if they follow the system of conduct expounded by Jin who is the god of gods, glorious, deified saint, possessed of all knowledge, the expounder of scriptures, pure, free from the stain of vice—, possessed of the qualities of mercy and elemency.

The religion taught by Harihara is not such as can promote the well-being of the world.

The four virtues expounded by the supreme saints are exalted. They are:—

- (1) Mercy (2) forgiveness. (3) possession of correct know-ledge, (4) good company and good conduct.
- A.—If mercy is not shown to all mankind, it is of no use. The same may be said of forgiveness. It is not good to remain ignorant, while boasting of knowledge, to grope in the dark while talking of good company and to mistake starvation (fasting) for good conduct.

The following has been said in praise of the Jain religion:—

Prakarana Ratnakara part 2, 60, 2. This is a beautiful belief which will be the cause of your regeneration."

मूल-अरिहं देवो सुगुरु सुद्धं धम्मं च पंच नवकारो ।
धन्नाणं कयच्छाणं निरन्तरं वसइ हिसययाम्म ॥
प्रक्त० भा०२। पष्ठी०६०। सू०१॥
मूल - जइन कुणासि तव चरणं न पढिस न गुणोि देसि नो दाणम्।
ता इत्तियं न सिकासिजं देवो इक अरिहन्तो ॥ प्रकरण० भा०२।
ो० स०२॥

A.—Although mercy and forgiveness are good qualities, yet if they be prompted by unreasoning prejudice, mercy becomes equivalent to cruelty and forgiveness becomes as bad as revenge. What we mean to say is that it is not possible to enforce the principle of not causing pain to any living creature on all occasions. Punishing the wicked is, in fact, an act of mercy. If a wicked person be exempted from punishment thousands will suffer at his hands

This act of (misplaced) mercy will be as much fruitful of mischief as cruelty, and this act of forgiveness will prove as bad as revenge. It is quite true that mercy consists in endeavonring to promote the happiness of all sentient beings and to wean them from sorrow. It does not consist in merely drinking water filtered by means of a piece of cloth or in saving the lives of tiny creatures. This species of mercy is only theoretically believed in by the Jainees; they do not show it in their practical conduct. Is it not an act of true mercy to feed the needy without distinction of creed and to reverence and serve the learned men professing a religion other than one's own. If (the teachers of the Jain religion) had the right conception of mercy, they would not have preached as follows:—

"The Jains are strictly prohibited to (1) praise a person vivekasar, belonging to another religion or to talk of his good qualities, (2) to salute him, (3) to talk much to him, (4) to talk to hin frequently, (5) to bestow upon him food and clothes, (6) to supply adoriferous substances and flowers to enable him to worship his idol."

A.—Let the wise consider with what feelings of hatred, malice, and hostility the Jainees are actuated in their relation with those who profess a religion different from theirs. Those who show so little consideration for people who do-not belong to their religion surely deserve to be called merciless. It is not an act of very great piety to serve the members of one's own family. The Jainees may be called members of one great household (fraternity). A person, therefore, who has absolutely no regard for others will not be called merciful by the wise. In the Vivelcasára (page 103) it is written that the Jainees murdered Namuchi, the Prime Minister, of the then king of Mathúrá, because they thought him their enemy and the murderers were purified by the performance of penance. Was not this an act calculated to destroy all feelings of mercy and forgiveness? People whose malice against those who differ from them in religion is so great that they do not scruple to murder them should rather be termed actively hostile than mereful. The definitions of good company, etc., are given in Paramajumanasara which is a synopsis of the teachings of the Jain saints.

Right faith, good company, knowledge and good conduct—these four—lead to salvation. Yogadeva has given an exposition of these duties.

The possession of a firm and perfectly sincere faith in what the Jain scriptures teach about the soul and other entities and a love for the Jain religion constitute true faith and good company.

"One must believe in those entities in which Jina believed and in no others,"

The wise call a full or a superficial knowledge of the entities blieved in by Jain—a knowledge of them as they really exist—" correct knowledge."

Good conduct is the renouncing of all connection with other religions—which deserve to be denounced. Again there are five Vratas (obligatory duties): (1, alinesa (abstention from killing any sentient creature), (2) Eurrita (sweet speech), (3) asteya (abstention from encroaching upon the rights of others, (4) Brahmacharya (thorough control of the sexual impulses, (5) aparigraha (renunciation). Most of these injunctions are sound, such as those relating to abstention from killing and to the giving up of theft and other evil practices but the behosts enjoining hatred and denunciation of other religions are likely to mar the wholesome effect of these sound teachings also.

In the very first aphorism quoted above it is laid down that the religions expounded by Hari Hara, etc., cannot help forward the regeneration of the world. The denunciation of a religion, the study of which makes one learned in all sciences and virtues, is surely a malicious act. People who extol to the heavens their tirthankaras (saints) who teach doctrines which are absolutely opposed to the laws of nature cannot be prompted by wrongheadedness and unreasoning prejudice. How absurd that a

रुचिर्जिनाक्ततत्वेषु सम्यक्श्रद्धानग्रुच्यते । यथावास्थिततत्त्वानां संत्तेपाद्धिस्तरेण वा ॥ यो बोध तमत्राहुः सम्यग्झानं मनीषिणः। सर्वथाऽनवद्ययोगानां त्यागश्चारित्रग्रुच्यते । कीर्तितं तदहिंसादि व्रतभेदेन पञ्चधा ॥ अदिसा सनुतास्तेय व्रश्चचर्यापरित्रहाः।

Jainee should be regarded a good man merely because he declares that the Jain religion is a true religion, even though he be not possessed of good conduct, of knowledge, and of habits of benevolence, while philanthropic and virtuous people who are non-Jainees should be regarded bad men, merely because they do not profess a belief in the Jain religion. We wonder what to say about such people, except that they are possessed of a defective and childish understanding. The only conclusion that can be drawn from all this is that their teachers were not deeply learned men. They were, on the contrary, selfiish. If they had not denounced all religions, no body would have been reduced from the right path and led to believe their false teachings and they would surely have been baffled in their object. Mark! It can be proved that the Jain faith is calculated to ruin people (morally and spiritually) and the Vedic Religion tends to the redemption of the world and that Hari Hara, etc., were the true devas, while Rishabhileva, etc., were the false devas. How would the Jainees like being told this by other people? We should now expose further the errors of the Jain teachers.

"Whoever disobeys the behests of the Jain saints by deviating from the path, carved out by them and thus falls into moral turpitude commits a sin and is involved in misery. It is very difficult to follow duties like—laid down by the Lord of J in (Tirthankaras) therefore, it is best to always act in such a way that his behests may not be violated."

It is foolish to indulge in self-praise, to extol one's own religion and to denounce other religions. That alone is worthy of praise which is praised by learned men belonging to another faith. Even thieves praise themselves. Does this prove that thievishness is worthy of praise?

Again, the Jain teachers teach:—

"Just as a ruby, which is embedded in the head of a venomous snake should not be sought after, even so it behoves the Jainis to shun the company of a non-Jaini, no matter how virtuous and learned he is."

मूल — बर्गुणविज्ञा निलयो उस्मृत्तुभासी तहा विम्रुत्तब्बो । जहवरमणिजुतो विहुविग्घकरो विसहरो लोए ॥ प्रकर ० भा० २ । षष्ट्री० स० १८॥

मूल—जिणवर आणा भंगं उमग्ग उस्सुत्तले सदेसणउ।
आणा भंगे पावंता जिणमय दुकरं धम्मम्।। प्रकर० भाग०२।
पष्टी भ्र०६ स्र०११॥

How erroneous is this teaching! If the Jain teachers and their disciples had been learned men, they would have (tried to inculcate) a love for the learned. When even their tirthankaras were ignorant, how could they be expected to reverence the—learned? Who would not like to take hold of gold even if it be lying in filth or dust? It is clear, therefore, that no sectarians are so much biassed, perverse, wrong-headed and ignorant as the Jains are.

Again, the Jain scripture says:-

Prakarana Ratnakara, Part II, 26. "Let not the Jain religion."

"Let not the Jain religion."

How stupid this injunction is, the wise can find out for themselves. There is no doubt about it that he who preaches the true religion stands in no dread of any body. The Jain teachers knew very well that their teachings were absurd and could not stand the test of discussion and, therefore, thought it best to denounce all and thus to ensure fools in their net."

Again, it is thought in the Jain books:

"All religions that are opposed to the Jain faith led mankind to sin. It is, therefore, best to shun all other faiths and to believe in the Jain religion only."

This shows that the Jain religion teaches its followers to hate, denounce and regard with malice all that does not belong to it. It thus makes people wicked. No sectarians are so unreasonable and violent in their hatred of others as are the Jainees. It is the wic ed only who denounce all inbiscrimnately and praise themselves in hyperbolic terms. Discerning men—no matter to what religion they belong—praise the good points in a religion and express disapproval of the weak points therein. Here is another specimen of Jain teaching:—

मृल—अइ सयपा विषया वाधिम अपब्दे खतो विषावरेगा। न चलन्ति सुद्धमार धन्ना किविपावपव्देसु ॥ प्रकर० भा० २ । षष्टी ० स ० २९॥

मूळ—नामं पितस्सअ सुहं जेणनिदिठाइ मिच्छपब्वाइ । जेसि अणुसंगा उधम्मीणविहोइ पावमई ॥ प्रक ० भा ● २ । पष्टी ० ६ । स ० २७ ॥

"The other faiths and their teachers dwindle into insignificance, when compared with the Jain faith, the teachings of the Omniscient Jins and the teachers of the Jainees. It means that the Jain teachers are the true devas and the Jain religion is the true religion; while the teachers of other religions are the false devas and their teachings are false."

It seems that the Jainees are like market-women that sell plums—who always trumpet forth, that their plums are sweet even though they be sour, and invariably run down the plum, sold by others. The Jain religion teaches that it is a sin for the Jainees to serve people professing other creeds.

We have already stated that, according to the Jainees, it is best to shun even the good and virtuous among the non-Jainees even as it is advisable not to seek the ruby embedded in the head of a snake. But the Jainees have gone a step further in their denunciation of other religions. Say they:—

"All except the Jain teachers are false teachers and are worse than snakes. It is, therefore, not right to see Rainakara.

Part 11, 37. them, to serve or to associate with them, because snake-bite kills a man once only but by association with false teachers belonging to non-Jain religions one becomes subject to a concatenation of births and deaths. O Good man! Do thou never stand by the side of a non-Jain teacher because thou wilt court misery, if thou served him even a little."

Who can possibly be hard-hearted, mistaken, hostile in a greater degree than are the Jainees. Perhaps, the Jain teachers think that if they will not denounce others and praise themselves, nobody will serve and respect them. But in reality they are very unfortunate, for so long as they will not associate with, and serve, good and learned men, they will never obtain true knowledge and attain to a right conception of duty. It, therefore, behoves the Jainees to give up their false beliefs and to accept the truths taught by the Veda. In this consists their real well being.

मूल—हाहा गुरुअअ कज्मं सामीनहु अञ्छिस्सक पुक्करिमो ।

कह जिण क्यण कह सुगुरु साक्या कहह्य अकज्मं ॥ प्रक ० मा ०
२ । वष्टी ० स ० ३५ ॥

मूल—सप्पोक्कं मरणं कुगुरु अणंता इदेइ मरणाइ । तोश्वरिसप्पं गहियुं मा उग्रद्धोदयां भइम् ॥ प्रक ० भा ० २ । सू ० ३७॥ Again, the Jain saints teach:

"One must always shun company of him who is past all reform, refractory, and skillful in doing evil deeds. Such a person is sure to compass the ruin of his benefactor. The man who seeks to do good to a false teacher (belonging to another religion) seeks his own ruin even as a person who, prompted by compassion, undertakes to remove the bandage from the eyes of a blindfolded lion is eaten up by the animal. It is, therefore, safest to keep away from a false teacher.

If the Jainees were regarded by others with the same amount of hostility with which they (are taught to) regard all non-Jainees, their lot would become intolerable. If nobody were to do them a good turn, they would grovel in misery and much of their work would remain undone. Why do not the Jainees do unto others as they would be done by.

Again, the Jain book teaches-

"What a wonder that the more people respect and reverence preachers whose very sight is abhorrent, who are so wicked that they can be purified only by penance, who are deserving of punishment and vicious, who keep with them (with a view to dupe others) three staves which are the symbols of the fourth Order, who are Sanyasis or Bráhmanas, the more the true knowledge possessed by the Jain saints (that are possessed of discernment) is manifested."

Mark! How can it be possible for any body to be possessed by vindictiveness, hostility and unreasoning prejudice against others in a greater degree than are the Jainees. Other sectarians have also these weaknesses but not to the extent to which the Jains have them. Vindictiveness is at the root of all sins. What wonder, then, if some Jainees are wicked!

मूल--किं भणिमो किं करिमो ताण यासाण धिठदुठाणं । जेदंसि ऊण लिंगं खिवंति नरयम्मि मुद्धजणं ॥ प्रक० मा ० पष्टी० च्या १० ४०॥

मूल-जहजहतुद्द्र धम्मो जहजह दुठाणहोय अइउदउ । समा किजियाण तह तह उल्लसइस मत्तं ॥ मक ० भा ० २ । प्रदी ० स ० ४२ ॥ Again the Jain teachers say:

"People belonging to non-Jain sects which are composed of theres do not shun (moral) deterioration even as katnakara, ignorant people who mix with thieves shake off all fear of their noses being lopped off* (by way of punishment)."

A man's own inner self is often reflected in his judgment about others. Can it ever be true that the Jain sect alone consists of honest men, while all other sects are composed of thieves? It is only ignorant persons and those whose intellect has been perverted on account of association with the wicked that are hostile and vindictive in their treatment of others. There is no religion which enjoins so much hostility towards people belonging to other faiths as does the Jain faith.

Again, the Jain books inculcate:—

"In a former aphorism it has been stated that all not Prakarana belonging to the Jain religion are preachers of false-Ratnakara, hood and the Jainees alone are possessed of true Part II, 76. knowledge. Whoever, then, helps forward the cause of a religion started by a preacher of falsehood is a sinner."

If the naumi fast observed in the honour of Chamunda Kalka and Jwala is a sinful act, why are not the Jain fasts like "Pajusana" sinful acts? These fasts involve much pain. The Jain are right in denouncing the hopus copus of Vama Maryis but there seems to be no reason why they should not denounce the worship of their own goddesses like Shasana and Maruta. It cannot be said in reply that these goddesses do not favour cruelty, for it is recorded about—the goddess Shasana she had taken out the eye of one man and of one goat. Why should not that she fiend be regarded the real sister of Durya or Kalka Talta is the height of foolishness on the part of the Jainees to call their fasts Yachchakhana virtuous acts and to denounce fasts like Naumi. True Vratas (vows) like those of truthfulness are good for all. But Vratas (fasts) observed by Jainis and others are not good.

मूल-संगा विजाण अहिउते सिंघम्माइ जेपकुब्बन्ति । मुतूण चोरसंगं करन्ति ते चोरियं पावा ॥ प्रक० मा० २ । ए० सू० ७५ ॥

मूल-जच्छपसुमहिसलरका पव्यंहोमन्ति पावन वमीए । पूजन्तितंपि सद्दाहा ही लावी परायस्सं ॥ प्रअ० भा० पष्ठी० सू० ७६ ॥

This was the punishment usually awarded to this ves in ancient time. — Tr.

Again, their books say: --

Those who admire prostitutes, mimics and bards, and Bráhmanas, are in favour of Yajnas and worship false Rutnakara, gods and goddesses like Ganesha who should never even Part I, 82 be looked at, are themselves sunk in ignorance and mislead others, because they expect those godesses to gratify all their desires and, therefore, keep away from Jain ascetics."

It is sheer prejudice on the part of Jainees to call the gods of others false and their own gods true. They donounce the goddess of the Váma Márjis but it is strange that they do not call their goddess shásana cruel. It is recorded about her in the Shrádhadina-Kritya (page 46) that she aimed a blow at a man and took out one of his eyes, because he had taken supper on a night (on which he ought to have fasted). Then she took out the eye of a goat and put it in the empty socket of the man. Just see what is written in the Ratna Sáyara (Part I, page 67). The goddess Maruta transformed herself into a tone idol to help the wayfarers.

Again, the Jain teachers say: -

"It would have been very much better if the non-Jains—Prakarana the preachers of falsehood—had not been born at all or had not attained growth, even if born."

Part II. 81.

Just mark! The Jain religion which has been enjoined by saints and is professed to be based upon mercy enjoins that the death of non-Jainees should be desired. The truth is that the Jainees only talk about mercy (i. e., they do not practise this virtue) and if they do show mecry, it is to tiny creatures and beasts, not to non Jainee human beings.

मूल—चेसाणवंदियाणय माहण इं बाणजर किसरकाणं।
भत्ता भर कठाणंवियाणंजिन्त द्रेणं।। प्रक० भा०२। षष्टी० ६८२
मूल—किसोपि जणिण जाओ जाणो जणणी इकिं अगोविदि।
जहिमच्छरओ जाओ गुणे सुनमच्छरं वहह।। प्रक० भा०२।
० स ० ८१॥

Again, it is written in Jain scriptures.

"It is no wonder if a man born in a Jain family attains Prakarana salvation, but is surprising if one born in a non-Ratnakara, Jain family and belonging to a false religion attains Part II, 83, final beatitude."

The up-shot of this is that only Jainees attain salvation. All who do not accept that religion go to hell. Is there no wicked man among the Jainees or none that deserves to be sent to hell? Do all of them attain salvation? It is sheer madness to assert that. Who but a simpleton can believe in such absurdities.

Again, the Jain scriptures say:-

"It is a good thing to worship Jain idols but worshipping ;Prakarana idols of non-Jain gods is no good. Whoever obeys the commandments of the Jain religion is a philosopher, whoever does not is not so."

How funny! Are not Jain idols like the idols of the Vaishnavites inert and lifeless? Idol-worship is bad—no matter whether that form of worship is Jain etc., or Vaishnavite. The Jains call themselves philosophers and do not consider others so. This shows they know nothing of philosophy.

Again, the Jain religion teaches:—

Prakarana constitute Dharma (the true ideal of conduct). The Ratnakara, Part II, 92.

How unjust is it to assert that none among the non-Jainis is truthful and virtuous? Should not one respect a non-Jaini, even if he possess a righteous character. This (i. e., the monopoly of religious conduct) could have been claimed for the Jainees if their bodily make had been different from that of others. The Jainees, in lavishing and unbecoming excessive praise upon their books, their saints and their sayings, excel even hired bards. Hence is another quotation from the same book:—

मूल गुढ़े मग्गे जाया सुहेण मच्छत्ति सुद्धिमग्गमि। जे पुणअमग्गजाया मग्गे गच्छन्ति ते चुप्पं॥ प्रक० भा० २। षष्टी ० स्व०८५॥

मूल-तिच्छाणं पूआसंमत्तगुणाणकारिणी भणिया। सार्वमनिच्छत्तयी जिण समये देसिया पूआ॥ प्रक० माग २। वष्टी० स्०९०॥ The increase in the influence and power of gods (i. e., Prakarana teachers) like Harihara will lead people to hell, the Ratnakara, Jainees cannot view this without feelings of horior. Part II, 95. When violation of orders promulgated by an earthly sovereign entails upon the offender penalty of death, why will not one who goes against the behests of the Jain god (great teacher) become subject to metempsychosis."

Look at the Jain's teacher! Now, their real inner motives have been disclosed not to speak of the trickery and deceptive practices. They cannot bear the enhancement of the temporal influence of Harihara and his followers. If people belonging to other sects accumulate riches, they are comsumed with jealousy. Perhaps, they desire that all worldly belongings of non-Jainees may be transferred to them and that (their adversaries) may be reduced to poverty.

They have compared the commands of their teachers to those promulgated by a king, because these people are liars and cowards. It is absolutely necessary to obey all the commands of a king—even those that conflict with the ideals of truthful conduct. We do not think that there are any people more vindictive and malevolent than the Jainees. Here is another citation from the same work:

"Only fools are opposed to the Jain religion. Religious Prakarana preachers, recluses, householders and authors described by the great Jain teacher (Jina) are equal in position to the tirthankaras, none can equal them."

How funny! If the Jainees had not been possessed of childlike intellects they would not have pinned their faith to such absurd sayings. These teachers are like the devi monde who take delight in dwelling on their personal charms. Here is another verse from the same book.

मूल-जिण आणा एधम्मो आणा रहि आण फुंड अहम्रुत्ति । इयमुणि ऊण यतत्तं जिण आगाए कुणहु घम्मं । प्रक भाग २ । षष्टा ० स्व ० ९२ ॥

मूल-वन्नेमिनारया उविजेसिन्दुरकाइ सम्मरताणम् । मन्त्राण जणइ हरिहररिद्धि समिद्धी विउद्धोसं ॥ प्रक० भा० २ । षष्टी ० स ० ९५ ॥

मूल-जो देहगुद्धधम्मं सो परमप्या जयम्मि नहु अन्नो ।
किं कप्यद्दुम्मं सरिसो इयरतरू होइकइयावि ॥ पकः भाः २ । पष्टीः ।
सः ० १०१ ॥

Prakarana the great god (Jina), the Jain preacher, and to give up their faith in the doctrines propounded by the former."

It appears that the Jainees are perverse, ignorant and biassed; otherwise they would never have said so. The truth is that almost all the teachings of the Jain religion are unacceptable. If even a man possessed of a limited understanding has an occasion to learn something about Jain gods, their book and their preachers, he is sure to make up his mind to have nothing to do with them.

"Only these that act in accordance with the teachings of Prakarana Jina deserve to be adored—not those that contravene those teachings. One must follow the Jain preceptors and none others."

If the Jain teachers had not ensuared ignorant people and driven them before them like dumb cattle, the latter would have been enabled to avail themselves fully of the advantages of life and thus to fit themselves for the attainment of salvation. Would not the Jainees feel aggrieved, if they were addressed as misguided people, liars and preachers of falsehoods? By addressing others in these terms they surely cause them pain. These religious teachers teach many more foolish things like this. Here is another verse from the Jain literature.

"Let the Jainees never engage in trade and agriculture, Prakarana even though they risked their lives by obeying this Ratnakara, injunction These occupations lead one to hell."

109.

मूल—जे अमुणि अगुण दोषाते कह अवुहाणहुन्तिमझच्छा । अहते विहम झच्छाता विसअमि आण तुल्लत्तं ।। प्रक० भा० २ । षष्टी ० स ० १०२ ॥ Prakarana opposed to those of Jain scriptures are extremely wicked. Let no one believe or speak anything against the Jain religion even if by doing that he can gain his end. Let no other religion be accepted even if by so doing some end be gained."

मूल-वयणे विसुगुरुजिणवल्लहस्सके सिंन उल्लस इसम्मं । अहकहदिण मणितेयं उल्जआणंहरइ अन्धतं ॥ प्रकः भाः २ । षष्टी ० सः ० १०८ ॥

मूल-तिहुअण जणं मरंतं दट्टण निअन्तिजेन अप्पाणं। विरमंतिन पावा उधिद्वीधिठत्तणं ताणम् ॥ प्रक० मा० २ । षष्टी ० स. ० १०९ ॥ It is, indeed, strange that the Jainees take to these occupations (in defiance of the behests of their religion) and do not give them up. If they gave them up, they could not support themselves. If all people fo lowed this Jain commandment, the Jainees would get nothing to eat and could not live. It is foolish to preach such absurdities. But the Jain teachers are not much to blame. They were devoid of learning and had never associated with the learned and, therefore, thoughlessly wrote down such things. Here is another verse from the same book:—

All the Jain teachers, not excepting founder of the religion, have done nothing but indulged in vilification of other religions. Nor is it expected that future Jain teachers will depart from this course. When, a selfish object is to be gained, the Jainees are found willing to enlist disciples of those who themselves are disciples of others. What then, is the use of indulging in boggodocia like the above. It is a pity that they feel no shame in doing this. We quote another verse from the same book.

Prakarana and so are others, he would be doomed to pass billions of years in hell and thereafter will be re-born as a despised creature."

How stupid! These enemies of enlightenment have laid down this danning injunction, so that none may dare contradict their teachings. But this is impossible. How can one go on arguing with these people. They think it a pleasing occupation to indulge in misrepresentation and to gain their (selfish) object by denouncing and crying down other religions. Here is another specimen of their teachings.

मूल-तह्या हमाण अहमा कारण रहिया अनाण गव्येण ।
जेजपन्ति उशुत्तं तेसिंदिदिछपमिच्वं ॥ प्रक० मा० २ |
पष्टी० स० १२१ ॥
मूल-जम्बीर जिणस्मजिओ मिरई उस्सुत्तले सदेसणाओ ।
सागर कोड़ा केडिंहिं मह अह भी भवरणे ॥ प्रक० मह० ३ ८ ॥
पष्टी० स० १२२ ॥

"Even if a man cannot act up to the precepts of the Jain religion, he crosses the sea of pain and misery if he conly believes this to be the only true religion in the world."

What a nice trap have the Jainees set to attract fools who would like nothing better than to be placed in the way of attaining salvation without having to do (righteous) deeds. We do not think that there exists a religion more idiotic than this. Mark! What the scriptures of this religion teach.

"If a man has only a desire to believe in Jain scriptures

Prakarana and never to pin his faith to non-Jain books he can view to entrap simpletons, for no one can cross the sea of misery in this world, simply by entertaining this desire, and escape suffering pain for evil deeds done in the past birth. If the Jain teachers had not preached such false and foolish notions—notions opposed to the dictates of knowledge—, their followers would have taken to the study of the Veda and other true Shástras, found out the truth and renounced all belief in the teachings of their foolish books. Ignorant fools have, however, been completely entrapped. It is possible that some wise man, who associates with learned men, may snap asunder these chains but a fool can never do that. Here is another Jain teaching.

Ratnakara, Part II.

"Only those people attain happiness and become virtuous Prakarana that study books on Grammar, Annotations, Books Ratnakara, containing authoritative expositions and codes of Law written by the Jain teachers—not those who study book written by others." Is it righteous conduct to suffer the pangs of (self-imposed) starvation (fasting? If going without food and drink constitutes righteous conduct there is no

मूल-दूरे करणं दूरिम साहूणं तहयभावणा दूरे।
जिथणाम्म सदहाणं पितिर कदुरकाएनिटवए।। प्रक० मा॰ २।
पष्टी० स० १२७॥
मूल-कएया होही दिवसो जएया सुगुरुण पायमूलामा।
उस्सुत्त सविसलवर हिलेओनिसुणे सुजिणधम्मं " प्रक० मा० २।
पष्टी० स० १२८॥
मूल-महाजेणं हिंमणियं सुणववहारं विसोहियंतस्स। [पष्टी० १३८॥
जाएय विसद बोही जिणभाषा सह मनाओं ॥ प्रक० डा० २।

reason why people that starve when famine decimates a country or those that starve because they have no means of subsistence should not become sanctified and thus attain righteous ends. In point of fact neither such people are purified in this way nor are the Jainees. Such people instead of attaining happiness, suffer pain, for they are consumed by internal heat which gets no fuel). In reality, continence, equity and truthfulness in speech constitute virtuous conduct and mendacity and inequity constitutes vicious conduct. "Desirable conduct" may be defined as the establishment of living and benovolent relations with all. Going without food and drink—as the Jainees do—has nothing to do with virtue. Whoever accepts the guidance of the Jain aphorisms jumps into a sea of misery, for much of what they teach is false. Only very little of it is based upon truth. Here is another Jain aphorism.

"The Jain religion is accepted only by those that are Prakarana possessed of good fortune; in other words, all non-Ratnakara, Part II,

Is not this statement erroneous and false. fortune never smile on non-Jains and does fate never frown upon The Jain teachers say that the Jainees should not quarrel among themselves, but should love one another. shows that no harm will accrue if they will quarrel with the followers of other religions. This is also foolish, for good men always make it a point to love good men and to reform bad men. Again, the Jun teachers hold that Bráhmanas, ascetics, sanyásis and recluses are enemies of the Jain religion. How can the Jainees be said to cultivate the virtues of mercy and forgiveness when they regard all people with feelings of hostility and denounce them. Hostility towards others is inconsistent with forgiveness Nothing is calculated to do greater injury to others than this attitude. The Jainees are the embodiments of hostility towards others-no other people approach them in this matter. How would the Jainees take it, if all the 24 tirthankaras from Rishabh leva to Mahavira were called jealous, vindictive and mendacious and the Juinees are denounced as people suffering fron insanity, and their religion were regarded as a hellish faith inculcating venomous doctrines? The reason why the Jainees are suffering incalculable pain is that they are given to an unreasonable denunciation of other faiths. It would be very much better if they gave up this habit.

मूल-ज्यजाणसि जिणनाहो लोयाया राविपरकएभूओ । तातंतं समं तो कहममासि लोअ आयारं ॥ मक् भा २ । बद्दी ० स ० १४८ ॥ Now we quote another aphorism:-

"All true disciples (Jainees) have one god, one teacher, one Prakarana religion. It is the highest virtue to protect the Jain Rainakara, idols, Jain temples and the property attached thereto and to worship Jain idols"

The fact is that idol-worship with all its attendant evils originated with the Jaines and therefore, the Jain religion is at the root of all fraud. Following is given from the Shradhdinkritya

Page 1, about idol worship.

"All shrava's as (Jain disciples) should first prostrate themselves at the gate of a temple. When he has prostrated himself at the second gate he should say 'I am a true disciple." After prostrating himself at the third gate, he should say to himself, 'How many have we' saints. After prostrating himself at the fourth gate, he should mutter to himself 'Of the four principal aims of life salvation takes the foremost rank. True knowledge is the means of attaining it and is, therefore, called yoga.' These are the six ways in which a man can be purified of all his sins. They also are said to constitute youa We shall realize them.' At the fifth gate, let him think of prostrating himself before the idol, of presenting offerings to it and of worshipping it in the mind. At the sixth gate he must think of the duty of repeating legends—the nine authoritative legends." Further on, in the same book, it is written that at the time of supper the idols of tirthankuras should be worshipped and the temple-door should be worshipped. The cere nony connected with door worship is very tedious. As regards temple-building, it is written that a man will attain salvation if he gets old temples re-built and renovated. The worshipper is enjoined to sit in the temple in the prescribed manner, to offer his worship with great reverence, to mutter texts like "Salutation to the great god Jina" at the time of bathing the idol and to mutter texts like "offer water, sandal, flowers, incence and lamps" at the time of offering fragrant substances. It is written on page 12 of Ratusára Bháya that the Jain priests are not even subject to the authority of a king. On page 3 of Ratnsára Bháya it is written that, by worshipping idols, one becomes immune from sickness and is freed from the principal

मूल-एगो अगरू एगो विसाव गोचे एआणि विवहाणि। षष्टी० स्० १५० तच्छयजं जिणदब्वं परुप्परंतं न विच्चन्ति ॥ प्रक० मा० २। नवकारेण विवोहो।। १॥ अनुसरणं सावउ। २॥ वयादं एमे ॥ ३॥ जोगो॥ ४॥ विष वन्दणगो॥ ५॥ यच्चरखाणं तु विहि पुच्छस्॥ ६

A man once offered to an idol a flower worth five shells and got in exchange sovereignty of 18 kingdoms. His name was Kumarpaal, all these statements are mendacious and are meant only to ensuare fools. There are many Jainees who worship idols and yet fall ill and by worshipping idols do not obtain the sovereignty of even one acre of land. If the offering of a flower worth 5 shells can secure sovereignity, why do not the Jainces become master of the entire world by offering to their idols many flowers worth 5 shells each. Why do they submit to punishment inflicted by the government of their country. If idol-worship enables one to cross the ocean of misery, what need is there, then, for acquiring true knowledge, good company, and practising virtue. On page 14 of the Ratiosára it is written that the water of immortality is to be found in the thumb of Gautama and that. by meditating on him one gains the desired end. If it be really so, all the Jainees would become immortal, but, as a matter of fact—they are subject to death. This shows that this story is simply meant to lead astray fools. There is no truth in it. The verse which they chant at the time of offering worship is written on page 92 of the Ratusára Bháya. It means "May we worship the (idols of) the Tirthunkurus-who had completely mastered their passions and offer to them water, sanda', rice, flowers, incense." This is the reason why we say that idol-worship originated with the Jainees.

"In a Jain temple one is not dominated by inordinate affection. It enables one to cross the ocean of worldliness (vide Vivekasára page 21.)"

"Idol-worship leads to salvation and by visiting a Jain temple one becomes possessed of admirable qualities. Whoever worships the idols of the Tirthankaras by offering them water and sandal is released from hell and goes to heaven "(vide Vivelrasara. pages 51 and 52).

"By worshipping the idol of Risha'shadeva, placed in a Jain temple, one attains righteous ends, wealth, the fulfilment of desires and salvation" (vide Vivekasára page 55).

"One who worships Jain idols is freed from all worldly sorrow." (vide Vivekasára, page 61).

Now, mark! How stupid and foolish are these statements! If it were true that in this way, i. e., (by worshipping idols) one is weaned from sin, ceases to be dominated by inordinate affection, crosses the sea of worldliness, becomes possessed of good qualities. is released from hell and goes to heaven, attains righteous ends, wealth, fulfilment of desires, and salvation, and is freed from sorrow, how is it that all the Jainees are not happy and do not become possessed of all the good things of earth. On page 3 of the same book, it is written that those that have installed Jain idols solve the problem of bread for themselves and their ancestors. On page 225 of the same book, it is written that it is a very bad act to worship the idols of Shiva Vishuu, &c. I heir worship leads one to hell. Now, it may be asked as to why Jain idols will not lead one to hell, if those of Shiva and Vishnu do so. it be said in reply that the Jain idols are symbolic of renunciation, placidity and are such as confer blessings, the question arises as to why Jain idols, which are installed in temples costing thousands of pounds, and to which sandal and saffron are offered, should be regarded as symbolic of remunciation, if the idols of Shiva, etc., which are sometimes under the canopy of the heaven cannot be so regarded. If you speak of placidity, all inanimate substances look placid because they cannot move.

- O.—Our idols are good, because they are not adored with clothes, ornaments. &c.
- A.—It is a beastly act to keep idols representing human beings in a state of primitive nudity exposed to the public view.
- O.—Just as one's passions are excited if he looks at the idol of a female so good qualities will be cultivated if one looks at the idol of saints, Yogis and sádhús.
- A.—If you believe that, by looking at a stone idol, you become possessed of good qualities why do you not also believe that attributes like inertness belonging to the idol are transferred to you? If you become devoid of intelligence, you will be utterly useless Again, if you take to idol-worship, instead of keeping company with learned men, you will become greater dunces than you were before. An idol-worshipper falls a prey to all the vices which have been enumerated in the 11th chapter of this book. Just as the Jin es talk much nonsense about idol-worship, so their mantras also teach many absurdities. Here is one of them:—
- "Salutations unto Arihant, salutations unto Sidhas (perfect beings), etc."

This mantra is said to be very holy. It is a mantra which is recited at the time of the initiation of a disciple into the Jain religion and it is said that the chanting of it confers incalculable benefits. In the matter of hyperbolic praise (bestowed on this mantra) the Jainees have outstripped even the authors of the Puranas and the Tantras and the bards.

जलचः नधूपनैरथ दीपात्ततकैर्नेवेद्यवहत्रैः ॥ उपचारचरैजिनेन्द्राम् रुचिरैरद्य यजामहे ॥

In the Shraddhadinakritya is written that this mantra is holy and exalted Among the mantras worthy of meditation it holds the foremost position. It is the most real of all realities. The Navakar mantra is as helpful for the worldly as a ship is for those that desire to cross the sea. This Navakára is like a ship. Those that do not seek its aid are drowned in the sea of worldliness and those that do are weanel from misery. This matra alone keeps the soul from suffering pain, weans it from sin and enables it to attain salvation. It is this which enables one to cross the sea of worldlines i.e, releases one from pain consequent upon deeds done in many incarnations. At the time of the inflicition of eight kinds of tortures like fire nothing is helpful except this mantra. The preceptor who is competent to teach this mantra is as much to be congratulated as the possessor of Vaidúnya (the prince of rubies), or of unerring weapon of warfare when one is in dread of his enemy. Of the twelve sacred mantras this navkar mantra is the most secret It means :-

- (1). Salutation to all the Tirthankaras.
- (2). Salutation to all the Jain saints.
- 3). Salutation to all the Jain teachers.
- (4). Salutation to all professors of Jain theology.
- (5). Salutation to all Jain sádhús that are in this world.

The word Jain does not occur in the text, but we have नमो अरिहन्ताणं नमो सिद्धाणं नमो आयरियाणं नमोउवज्झायाणं नमो लोए सनवसाहूणं ऐसा पञ्च नमुक्कारो सन्त्र पावण्पणासणो मङ्गलाचरणं च सब्बे सिपढमं हवइ मङ्गलम् १।।

नमुक्कार तेउपढ ॥ ९

जउकव्यं । मन्ताणमन्तो परमो इमुत्ति धेयाणधेयं परमं इम्रात्ति । तत्ताणतत्तं परमं पवित्तं संसारसत्ताणदुहाइयाणं ॥ १०॥ ताणं असन्तु नो अत्थि । जीवणं भवसायरे । सुद्दं ताणं इमं मृत्तुं । न मुक्कारंसुपोययम् ॥ ११॥

कन्त्रं । अणेगजम्मंतरसं चिआणं । दुइ।णंसारीरिअमाणुसाणुसाणं । कस्तोय भव्ताणः विज्जनासो न जावपस्ती नवकारमन्तो ॥ १२ ॥ added it in the translation, because in most Jain books it is recorded that no non-Jainee is worthy of being saluted.

On page 169 of the Tatvaviveka it is written that whoever worships stone and wood, thinking them to be god is rewarded well for his pains. Now, if it be really so, why do not all the Jainees gain in happiness, even though they worship idols? On page tenth of the Ratnasára Bhága it is written that by offering worship to the idol of Párshwanátha one is absolved from sins. On page 51 of the Kalpa Bhága it is written that 1 lac and 25 thousand temples were repaired. There are many other statements like these which go to prove that idol-worship originated with the Jainees.

NOW WE SHALL TREAT OF THE EVIL PRACTICES OF JAIN SADHUS.

On page 228 of the Viveleasárii is written that a Jain sadhu, who was paramour of a prostitute named Kosha, renounced the world and went to heaven. On page 10 of the same book it is recorded that Arnaka Muni (ascetic) departed from the course of righteousness, misconducted himself for years together in the family of Datta, the banker, and then went to heaven. Stháliyá spirited away Dhandhan Muni, the son of Sri Krishna, and afterwards became a god. On page 193 of the same book it is written that the Shrávakas (the Jain laity) should revere Jain sadhu, even if he only bear the symbols of the Order. These sadhus ar worthy of reverence, no matter whether they bear a good character or a bad one. On page 168 it is said that a characterless Jain sadhu is to be much more respected than a sadhu of good character belonging to another persuasion. On page 71 it has been said that the Jain laity should serve the Jain eddhus even if they be characterless, reprobates. On page 275 it is related that a thief tore his hair, followed the rules of good conduct, adopted a penitent attitude and, in the sixth month after this, became a perfect man on account of his having attained true knowledge. Now mark! Of what stuff the Jain sadhus and householders are made! According to their religious beliefs, even a rakish sadhu attained to a state of blessedness, while Sri Krishna is believed to have gone to the third hell (vide page 106). On page 145 it is written that Dhanvuntri* went to hell. On page 48 it is written that the yojis and other Pauranic Sádhus, Qazis (Mohammadan priests), and Mullahs (Moslim holymen) attain to a lower state on account of their ignorance, even though they practise austerities and consequently submit to much suffering. On page 171 it is written that of the 9 Vásudevas, viz., Triprishthi Vásuleva, Dviprishta Vásudeva, Swayambhú deva Vásudeva, Purushottama Vásudeva, Sinha Purusha Vásudeva, Purushapundrika Vásudeva, Datta Vásudeva, Lakhshmana Vásudeva and Shri Krishnu Vásudeva went to hell in the time of the 11th, the 12th, the 14th, the 15th, the 18th, the 20th, and the 22nd Tirthunkaras and the 9 Prati Vásudevas, viz., Ashvagriv i Prativasudeva, Taraka Prativasudeva, Modáka Prativasudeva, Madhu Prativasudeva, Nishumbha Prativasudeva, Baliprativasudev i, Prahlada Prativasudeva, Rávana Pratirasudeva, and Jarásindhu Prativasudeva all went to hell. In the Kalpa Bháshya it is written that the 24 Tirthankaras of whom the first was Rishabhadeva and the last Mahávíra all attained salvation.

[•] He was a great sage who is an authority on Medicine and Surgery. He is the Indian Galen — Tr.

Let the wise consider how wrong it is to say that the Jain sádhus, house-holders, and Tirthunkuras, many of whom were adulterers, paramours of prostitutes, all went to heaven and attained slalvation, while mighty souls like Shri Krishna all went to hell. To tell the truth, a good man ought not to keep company with the Jainees or even look at them, for, if he does keep their company, he will also begin to believe in absurdities. The company of such bigotted and biassed men leads to evil results. There is, of course, no harm in associating with good people among the Jainees. On page 55 of the Viveleasar, it is written that no righteous ends can be gained by visiting places of pilgrimage like Haridwara and Kashi (Benares), while the Jain places of pilgrimage like Grinára, Pálitáná and Abu are such that by visiting them we can attain even salvation. point to be carefully noted is that the Jain places of pilgrimage are on land and water just like those of the Shivites, Vaishnavites, etc. It is a foolish act to denounce the latter and to hold up the former to admiration.

NOW WE SHALL DISCUSS THE JAIN (CONCEPTION OF) SALVATION.

On page 23 of the Ratnesára it is written, that Mahádeva Tirthankara, addressing Goutama said: "There is a place in the higher region called Siddhshila. It is higher up than heaven and 4½ millions of leagues long and as many leagues broad. It is eight leagues in thickness. It is whiter than a necklace of white pearls and cow-milk. It is situated at the top of the 19th region. It is more resplendant than gold and clearer than cystal. Higher up is Shivapura where also emancipated souls dwell. There they are not subject to birth and death and enjoy bliss. They do not return to this world and are not required to do deeds.

This is the Jain conception of salvation. On deep reflection, it appears that the Jainees have fixed upon Siddhshild and shivapura as abode of perpetual bliss, even as the Pauranikas have fixed upon Vaikuntha, Kailásh, Goloka, Shripur, etc., the Christians, the fourth sky and the Muhammandans the seventh Whatever is thought to be higher up by the Jainees will be thought to be lower down by people inhabiting certain portions of the globe. Up and down are not absolute terms. Whatever is higher up for Jainees residing in India is lower down for the Americans and vic versu. Even if Siddhashilá be supposed 9 millions of leagues long, the so called emancipated souls will remain in a state of imprisonment, for the moment they leave the place, they will cease to be in the state of salvation. It is also natural for the emancipated souls to feel an attachment for the place and a disinclination to go outside it. How can that state be called a state of salvation which involves special attachments, inclinations and disinclinations? The true state of salvation has been described by us in the 9th chapter. Salvation believed in by the Jainees is like unto a state of imprisonment. In the matter of the true conception of salvation, the Jinees have fallen into an error. The truth is that the right conception of the state of blessedness cannot be attained without a right understanding of the Veda. Now, we shall relate a few more cock-and bull stories believed in by the Jains The following is taken from the Vivekasára:-"When Mahávír was born, he was bathed with water contained in, 16 millions of buckets. (page 78). King Dasharna went to Mahavira to pay his respects and displayed some hauteur. To wean him from this, 16777,216,000 men of the shape of Indra and 13,370,572,800,000,000 Indranis (female figures of the shape of the wife of Indra) appeared on the scene. The sight struck the king dumb with astonishment,"

How many worlds to the dimensions of our earth) were required to enable the Indras and the Indranis to find a standing place. On page 13 of this Shradahadinakritya (Atmanindá Bhánwaná) the injunction is laid down that wells should not be sunknor should tanks be dug out.

Now, if this injunction be followed, it does not appear how people will obtain their water-supply.

- O.—The Jainees do not do this, because they think that if tinks are dug out, many sentient creatures die and the person at whose expense they are dug out commits a sin.
- A.— What an idiot you are! If you think of the sin involved in the destruction of tiny creatures, why do you not, likewise, think of the merit to be won by making arrangements for the supply of drinking water to higher animals like men and cows. On page 196 of the Tatwaviveka it is written that a banker named Nandamanikára had a bauli (a kind of well) sunk in his town. He departed from the right course and was, therefore, afflicted with 16 terrible diseases. After he had died, he was reborn as a frog doomed to pass his days in that self-save well. When he (the frog) saw Mahávíra he became conscious of his own self. Mahávíra says that he recognised him as his Lord in the previous birth and ran to prostrate himself before him. He was crushed to death by the horse of a shreniha and, on account of this good thought, he became a great god named Darduránka. On account of his limited knowledge, he thought that Mahávíra was there, prostrated himself and went back, after displaying his good fortune.

It is an act of folly to regard as very exalted Mahávira who could talk of such absurd things, which are opposed to the dictates of knowledge.

On page 36 of Shraddhdinakrityd it is written that a Sadhu may possess himself of the clothes on the body of a dead man.

Are not these Sádhus like the Mahábráhmanas? Who is to take the ornaments? Perhaps, the survivors keep them with themselves on account of their value. Now, what is one to think of such people?

On page 105 of the Ratnas & ar it is written that it is a sin to roast, to use pestle and mortar, to grind and to cook

Now, is not this an extremely foolish injunction? How can people live if these things be not done? Even the Jains would, in that case, die of suffering.

On page 10+ of the Ratnasára it is written that the gardener who plants a garden is hundred thousand times a sinner.

How foolish of the composer of this verse not to think that if the gardener was 1,00,000 times a sinner, he was also millions of times a doer of meritorious act because the leaves, fruits, flowers and the shade of trees afforded relief to a countless number of sentient creatures.

On page 202 of the Tatwvaiveka it is written that a Sádhu named Lábdhi once entered the house of a prostitute by mistake and begged for alms in the name of righteousness. The prostitute replied that righteousness had no place in her scheme of life and that she thought only of wealth. On this he scattered 12½ lac of mohars in her house.

Now, who would believe in such nonsense except a dunce? On page 67 of the Ratnasára Bhága it is written that a stone-idol rides a horse and comes to the rescue, whenever and wherever its aid is invoked.

Now why are not the Jainees defended, by that idol when they are attacked by thieves or robbers or are in dread of the enemy? Why do they look for redress at the police stations.

The follollowing verses have been composed by Jinudatlasúri with a view to bring into prominence the good qualities of the Jain Sádhus:—

- 1—A yati is one who has conquered his lower self who keeps a chowri,* begs his bread, keeps his head shaved, wears whitegarments, is given to forgiveness and keeps away from the company of other men.
- 2. "The Diyambara Sádhus are those that do not put on any clothes, pull out their hair, and keep with them a woollen brush for sweeping the floor and eat what they get by way of alms. "Jinarshi sudhus are those that take their food after the house-holders have partaken of it."
- 3. The only difference between the Digambaras and Swetambaras (or Yatis) is that, according to the latter, women can attain salvation, while, according to the former, they never can." Such are the means of salvation believed in by the Jainees. It is generally known that the Jainees pull out their hair. It is also written in their books that five handfulls of hair should be pulled out. On page 216 of the Vivelcasára Bháya it is written that a person was admitted into the Order of sádhus when he had pulled out five handfuls of his hair; on page 108 of the Kalpasútra Bháshya it is written that let the hair of a sádhu be pulled till only as much remains as covers the body of a cow.

In the face of this, how can the Jainees claim that they are merciful. The pulling out of the hair causes great pain,

- (१) सरजोहरणभैक्षभ्रजो छिश्वतमूर्द्रजाः । श्वेताम्बराः क्षमाशीला निःसंगा जैनसाधवः ॥
- (२) छुञ्चिता पित्तिकाहस्तः पाणिपात्रा दिगंबराः । ऊर्ध्वासिनो गृहे दातुरिईतियाः स्युर्जिनर्षयः॥
- (३) शुक्कुते न केवलं न स्त्री मोक्षमेति दिगंबरः ॥

 प्रार्थनामयं भेदो महाने श्वेतांबरेः सह ॥
- * A kin 1 of brush carried by every Jain Sadhu for sweeping the place he sits on.—Tr.

no matter whether the act is done by the candidate himself or by his preceptor. Hinsá consists in giving pain to any sentient creature.

In the Vivelcasára it is written that in the year 1033 Vilcrama (976 A.D.) the Dhúndias, a sect of the Shwetambura sprang up. In the same year Terapapathis, (a sect of the Dhúndias) came into being. The Dhúndias have no faith in the worship of stone-idols and they always keep a piece of cloth tied to their mouths, except at the time of bathing and eating. The Yatis tie this piece of cloth only at the time of study and at no other time.

- O.—It is absolutely necessary to tie a piece of cloth to the mouth, for the microscopic creatures that live in the air are killed by the hot breath and, therefore, those that do not tie the piece of cloth commit a sin (because they are responsible for the death of so many creatures).
- A.—This argument is opposed to the dictates of knowledge and the canons of logical reasoning. The soul is eternal and cannot be killed by the hot breath. This is what you also believe.
- O.—Of course, the soul does not perish but the hot breath expired by the mouth causes pain to many souls and one who causes pain to others is a sinner. For this reason it is right to tie a piece of cloth round one's mouth.
- A.—What you propose to do can never be done The affairs of the world can never be carried on, without causing pain to some creatures or others. If, according to your faith, the hot air emitted by the mouth causes pain, why do not the bodily movements like walking, sitting, raising hands, or the winking of the eye cause pain. Therefore, by following your line of argument, one cannot but come to the conclusion that to live without causing pain to others is impossible.
- O.—One should try his best to protect creatures. What is to be done if sometimes a man is helpless and cannot do his duty in this matter. The air is full of creatures. If we did not tie a piece of cloth to our mouths a larger number would be killed.
- A.—Your statement is foolish, because if the piece of cloth is tied, a greater amount of pain is caused to the creatures concerned, for, when this is done or the mouths remain shut up the air which is to be exhaled up by the mouth, getting no egress, is collected and then forcibly pushes itself at the sides in the first case and out of nose in the second. The air will, thus, get hotter and will, therefore, according to you, cause greater pain. Now, just mark! If all the doors of a house or a cell are shut up or screened, its temprature mounts up to a higher degree than it was when they were open. By following your line of argument it is, therefore, proved that you cause greater pain to living creatures, for if the mouth is tied the accumulated air, which is pushed out through the nostrils, must needs strike against the living creatures with greater force and inflict great suffering on them. another example. One man sets the fire ablaze by blowing through a tube. ow, the air in the mouth, being scattered over a greater area strikes the fire with less force in the first case than does the concentrated air in the tube. The same may be said of the air which is concentrated in the nostrils on account of the mouth being closed Those therefore, that do not tie the piece of cloth to their mouths are more righteous than those who do. Another disadvantage of this practice is that the letters cannot be properly articulated, enunciated and pronounced. Is it not faulty to utter with a nisal twaning words which ought not to be pronounced like that. Again, the mouth begins to give forth stench which comes from within (and is not allowed to escape). All the air that comes out is foul. If it is not allowed to go out, it must give out bad smell. A latrine which is ill-ventilated stinks more than one which is well-ventilated The Jains tie their mouths, do not clean their teeth, nor wash their face, nor bathe, they, therefore, increase disease by emitting stench and thus commit a sin. Whenever there is a great fair, diseases like cholera spread on account of the increase of foulness in the air and decimate the people. If the foulness be less, the diseases do not spread so rapidly. The Jainees contribute a good deal more to the foulness of the air than other people and are, therefore, greater sinners than those who do not tie the piece of cloth and are particular about cleaning their teeth, washing their face and bathing and keeping their clothes clean. The latter are much better than the former, even as those that keep away from dirty outcasts1 are good men. The intellect of a Jainee cannot but be obfuscated even as that of a person who keeps company with filthy larine-sweepers is never illumined. diseased person who has got a perverted intellect cannot follow the precepts of Dharma. This truth must needs apply to the case of the Jainees.

O.—The flames of fire burnt in a closed house cannot escape and give pain to creatures outside the house, even so, by tying the piece of cloth to the mouth, creatures outside it are not pained. When the fire is burning in front of one and he protects himself by keeping his hand traversely before his face, he does not feel so much the effects of heat. The creatures in the air possess bodies and are, therefore, subject to pain.

^{1.} Such people as attend to latrines, etc.—Tr.

- A.—This is a childish statement. In the first place, fite cannot be burnt in a house the walls of which possess no chinks and the air inside cannot communicate with the outside air and vice versa. You can see this for yourself. Put a lighted candle in a closed vessel and it will be extinguished all of a sudden. Just as sentient creatures cannot live so long as they do not momentarily get fresh supplies of air from the atmosphere, so there can be no combustion without air. If the force of a flame be checked at one end, it will escape at the other with greater vigor. If the face is protected by the hand from the effects of heat, the hand itself is exposed to it to a greater degree. You, therefore, are not on the right point.
- O.—Everybody knows that when a man of an inferior standing desires, to whisper something to a man of superior position or draws nearer to him for conversational convenience, he puts over his mouth either a piece of cloth or his own hand, so that his companion may not feel any offensive smell or the spittle be thrown at him. When a man reads aloud from a book particles of saliva do; undoubtedly, soil it. For the reasons explained above, it is highly desirable to tie a piece of cloth over the mouth.
- A.—From your statement it may be safely inferred that it is foolish to cover the mouth with the object of affording relief to creation When a man is engaged in private conversation with a person of superior standing he covers the mouth with cloth or with hand so that the talk may not be overheard. If it be not so, why is it not covered when the conversation is not of a confidential character? Your mouth and other bodily organs give out an offensive smell, because you do not clean your teeth. No wonder, then, that your proximity offends the olfactory sense of one who sits by you, The reason why the mouth is covered with the hand or the cloth is other than that stated by you. When something confidential be whispered in the presence of many people and the mouth be not covered, it is very likely that vibrations of air (being unrestricted in their course) will carry the sound far and wide. When the talk is carried on at a place where none is present except the speaker and the person spoken to, the mouth is not covered. If the object of covering the mouth is to save the face of a man of superior position from being soiled with the particles of spittle (cjected from the mouth of the speaker) it may be concluded that there is no harm if the spittle falls on person of an inferior rank. In fact, the spittle cannot but reach the person spoken to. Suppose the person talks ing to you is sitting at a safe distance but the air blows that way, the minute particles of spittle will, of a surety, be carried to his body with the current of air. It is foolish to think that a contamination of the heat of the exhaled air could kill animalcules living in the air or give pain to them had it been so, then the heat of midsummer would kill them all It is, therefore, wrong to say that they are killed that way. Your religious belief (as regards tying the cloth) is, therefore, false. If your Tirthankars had been profoundly learned men, they would not have made such foolish statements.

Again, only those creatures are capable of feeling pain whose thinking faculty is provided with all the sense-organs.

Here is our authority for this statement :-

- "The soul feels pleasure or pain only when the five organs of sense corre in contact with their objects." Just as a shower of vituperative epithets cannot produce any Shastra change in the consciousness if one is deaf; the flitting in front of one of various forms and animals like the snake and the wolf cannot affect him who is blind; odours cannot affect one whose olfactory apparatus is out of order, tactile sensation can not be felt by one suffering from anesthesia, and sensations of tiste cannot be experienced by one who has got no tongue. In like manner these little creatures do not feel pain. Just mark! At the time of profound slumber the soul of a man does not feel pleasure or pain; for though it is even then present in the body, its connection with the bodily organs is interrupted. When a surgeon puts his patient under chloroform with a view to operate on his diseased organ, the patient is quite insensible to pain; similary the atmospheric and other (microscopic) animalcules are not sensible to pleasure and pain because they do not possess the senseorgans. Just as a being who has is comatose cannot feel pleasure or pain, so cannot these creatures, because they are always in a state of stupor. Why, then, talk of saving them from pain?
- O.—When all souls are subject to pleasure and pain, why are not theirs' so.
- A.—Credulous people! Tell us why you do not feel pleasure or pain, when you are in the enjoyment of dreamless sleep. The cause of pleasure and pain is evidently the connection (between the soul and the sense organs). We have already stated that when surgeons amputate limbs, or open the bodily cavities of their patients under chloroform, they are not at all sensible to pain; similarly, the souls that are in a perpetual stupor cannot experience the sensations of pleasure or pain, because they have not the means of doing so
- O.—Mark! We do not eat green vegetables, roots and tubers, because the former contain many creatures and the latter an infinite number of them. If we were to eat these things, we shall be comitting the sin of killing and inflicting pain upon those creatures.

A.—This belief of yours has its roots in ignorance. How can it be believed that, by eating vegetables, any creatures are pained or killed? Do you know by direct cognition that they feel. If so, please show it to us as well.

Neither you know it yourself, nor can you demonstrate it to us. If this knowledge cannot be gained by direct cognition, it is no use appealing to the inferential made of reasoning, analogy and authority. Again, as we have explained above, it is a mistake on the part of your tirthankaras to think that souls that are enveloped in great darkness and are in an extreme stupor or coma can experience pleasureable or painful sensations. Your tirthankaras have preached to you doctrines utterly opposed to sound reasoning and dictates of knowledge.

How can an infinite number of creatures reside in an object which is limited as regards extension? When we know that a great root such as a radish is limited in size, how can it be believed that it can hold an infinite number of animalcules, The argument advanced by you is, therefore, foolish.

- O.—You commit a sin in drinking water that has not been heated by fire. You should, like us, drink the water that has been heated.
- A.—This is also foolish. When you heat the water, all the animalcules in it must needs die. The particles of their bodies are so thoroughly mixed with water which is being boiled, that you in a way drink a decoction of the dead bodies of those tiny creaturs. You are, therefore, very great sinners. Those that drink water that has not been heated commit no sin because when the cold water will be heated in the stomach the animalcules will escape with the hot air which will be exhaled. To speak the truth, neither the one set of people commits a sin nor the other, for the tiny (microscopic) creatures, as has been proved above, are insensible to pleasure and pain.
- O.—If the fire in the stomach can send up the animalcules, why cannot the heat, applied externally, drive them away?
- A.—Of course, they are driven away. But, according to you, animalcules are killed even by the hot exhalations from the mouth, why will they not, then, they be killed by the heat of the water or be excessively pained before they go out of their bodies or be completely mixed up with the water. Will you not be greater sinners in that way?

^{1.} The author has here tried to fight the Jainess with their own weapons It: should not be understood that he is against the use of boiled water.—Ir.

^{2.} The objector here is supposed to be a Jain Sadhu as distinguished from Jain householder.—Tr.

- O.—We never heat water with our own hands, nor do we ask any househoder among us to do so. We, therefore, commit no sin.
- A.—If you refused to use boiled water or to drink it, the 4 : : householder would not heat it (for you), you are, therefore, answerable for the sin. You are, we think, greater sinners than the householders, because if you had asked a particular householder to heat water, it would have been heated only once at a time. Now; because the householders do not know when one of you sadhus will turn up, each one keeps boild water, you therefore, the chief sinners. By following the same line of argument, it may be proved that it is you that are chiefly answerable for the sin involved in combustion, in cooking of food and in carrying on agricultural operations and, therefore, deserve to be sent to hell Being the chief cause of water being heated and the chief preachers of the desirability of drinking boiled water and not using cold unboiled water you are the chief sinner, and those that follow you are also sinners. Again, it cannot be gainsaid that you are engrossed in ignorance. Is it not a sin to take pity upon tiny creatures and to malign and injure non-Jainees? If the doctrines preached by your Tirthankaras are true tell us why (your) God has caused so many rivers to flow and created so much water since the beginning of the world He ought not to have produced even the sun, for, according to your belief, its heat must be causing the death of billions of creatures. When those to whom you ascribe Divine power (i. e., your Tirthankaras) have been eternally present, why did they not, out of their mercy, deprive the sun of its heat and stop the formation of clouds.
- We have already proved that it is only the creatures and not those living on green roots and tubers, etc, creatures possessing visible bodies that can experience the feelings of pleasure and pain. Again, it is a source of pain to be always merciful towards all creatures, for if all (those creatures) were, according to your belief, to be reincarnated as human beings, and even the thieves and robbers among them were not punished, sin would increase fearfully. Hence (true) mercy consists in inflicting condign punishment on the wicked and protecting the righteous.
- The reverse of this is a negation of mercy and forgiveness. There are many Jainees who are shopkeepers, tell lies in the course of business, gain money by fraud, and cheat the poor. Why do you not, in your sermons, lay special stress on the desirability of their giving up such wicked practices? Why do you resort to trickery like that of covering the mouth When you initiate a new votary (male or female) why do you lay yourself open to the charge of cruelty towards self and others by pulling the hair and compelling the novitiate to fast and thus giving him as well as yourself pain. Why do you not consider it a sin to ride elephants, horses, oxen and camels and to make other people labour for you? If the ordinary men among you cannot prove to be true what is obviously foolish and nonsensical, even your tirthankaras cannot do it. When you recite portions of your religious books it is clear that, according to your belief, your disciples and yourself kill many creatures. Why should you become the chief factor in the commission of this sin?

We have not treated the subject in detail but it should be clearly understood that creatures in a state of stupor that possess bodies devoid of the power of locomotion cannot experience sensations of pleasure and pain. Now, we shall comment on few more fatuities taught by the Jain religion. It should be borne in mind that a dhanush is for the purpose of measurement, three and a half times the length of a human hand, the true measure we have already treated. In the Ratanasar, Part I (pages 166 and 167), it is written:—

The body of—

1.	Rishabdeva was	500	Dhanush	long and he	was 8,400,000	Purva years old.
2.	Ajitnáth "	450	,,	3 ,	7,200,000	91
	Shambhunáth	400	,,	,,	6,000,000	. ,,
4.	Abhinandan ,	350	,,	,,	5,000,000	·) ,,
5.		3 00) ,	91	4,000,000	99
6	Padmaprabha"	140	"	"	3,000,000	19
_	Párehasnáth .	2 00	,,) 1	2,000,000	. ,,
	Chandraprabha	150	23	,	1,000,000	,
	Suvidbináth ,,	100	,,	"	2,000,00	יני
	Shitalnáth "	90	,,,	,,	200,000	. 2)
	Shreyánsnáth"	80	,,	32	84,00,000	,,,
12.			"	,,	7,200,000	17
	Vimaluáth	60	1,	1)	6,0,0,000	"
14.	Amantmáth	40	,,	,,	3,000,000	9,
	Dhammanáth	45	") ·	1,000,000	•
	Chantinath	40		"	100,000	,,
17.	Transhandth	35	,,	"	95,000	3)
	Amarnáth was	.0	"	,,	84,000	19
19.		25			55,000	1)
		20	•	"	30,000
44.	Munisuvri tt	ĄU	")†		70

21.	Namináth "	14	• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •	••	10,00 0	,,
22.	Nemináth "	10	7.	,,	10,000	,
41.	Párisnáth "	9	••	31	100	21
24.	Mahávirswámi	7	••	.,	72	,,

The above named twenty-four were the chief preceptors and teachers of the Jainees, who founded the Jain religion. The Jainees ascribe to them the attributes of God All of them are believed to have attained salvation. Let the wise consider if it is possible for any man to have so gigantic a body and to live so long. If the globe were inhabited by people of such demensions, very few would be contained by it Following the example of the Jainees, the Puraniles have written of persons who lived for 1,000 years and of others again who lived for 10,000 years and even for 100,000 years. All this is absurd and so is what the Jainees say. Here are a few more absurd statements made by the Jain teachers.

- 1. Nágket lifted on his finger a stone as big as a village.—
 (Kalp Bháshya, page 4).
- 2. Mahavir pressed the earth with his finger. This caused the snake (which supports the earth) to tremble (Ibid, page 46).
- 3. A snake bit Mahin. Instead of blood, milk spurted out of his body. That snake also went to heaven (Ibid, page 46).
- 4. Rice pudding was cooked on the foot of Muhávir but the limb was not burnt (Ibid, page 47).
- 5. A camel was made to stand in a small vessel (Ibid, page 10).
- 6. The dirt on the body should not be removed or rubbed away. (Ratansár, part 1, page 14).
- 7. A Jain Sallin, named Damsár, who was beloved of the Tirthankar Mahavir, chanted the aphorism which brings on terrible calamities and a city was set on fire (Vivelesar page 15).
- 7. The king must needs be obeyed (Vive/csar, part I, page 14.)
- 8. A prostitute named Koshar heaped up oil-seeds in a plate and fixed in the heap a needle covered with flowers and danced on it. The foot, however, was not pricked by the needle, nor was the heap of oil-seeds scattered (Ibid, page 227).
- 9. The sage Sothulmuni misconducted with this very prostitute for 12 years, afterwards he got himself initiated and attained final beatitude, and so did the prostitute, because she followed the precepts of the Jain religion (Tatvaviveka, page 228).

- 10. The loose jacket of an ascestic always bestowed 500 mohars on a prostitute (Vivelsar, part I, page 185).
- 11. If the precepts of religion are disregarded in obedience to the commands of a physically strong man of a god, of a spiritual guide, of one's parents, family-priest and relations and at the critical conjuncture of time in the jungle, the merit (to be earned by following those precepts) is not lost. (Vivelsar, part I, page 228).

Now mark! How false all these statements are. Is it ever possible for a man to lift a stone as big as a village on his finger or to press down the earth with his thum? When there is no snake underground, how could it be said that it trembled? Why were the feet of Maliavir not burnt when pudding and rice were cooked upon them? Can a camel ever be contained in a small vessel. Those that do not wash away or rub away the dirt on their bodies must feel extreme discomforty on account of stench. The sádhu who burnt the city must be utterly cruel and merciless. When even the company of M thávir could not purify his soul. how can the Jainees obtain salvation through him? now that he is dead. Of course, it is right to obey the king but the Jains being banias, it is probable that this injunction was inspired by fear. It is utterly false to say that the prostitute Kosha—no matter how light her body was—could have danced on a needle fixed in a heap of oil-seeds, without her foot being pinched or the seeds being scattered. One must always follow the precepts of Dharma, no matter what happens.

How can a garment which is only cloth bestow 500 gold mohars for ever?

If we were to go on quoting such absurd stories, our book would become as voluminous as the Jain books. All that the Jain religion teaches is false, except a few in Junctions. Mark! What there books teach:—

The Jambu region has an area of 1,00,0.0 leagues. It is the first of the great regions. It contains two moons and two suns. In the salt water ocean there are 4 suns and 4 moons. In the Dhátki of metal, there are 12 suns and 12 moons. 12 × is 36 and add to this the 2 suns and 2 moons belonging to Jambu region and 4 belonging to salt-water ocean and you will find that there are 42 suns and 42 moons in the Kálodadhi ocean. In like manner $42 \times 3 = 126$, add to this number of suns and moon, the 4 suns and 4 moons belonging to the salt water ocean, 12 belonging to the region of Dhátki and two belonging to the Jimhu region and you will find that there are 144 moons in the Pushkar. This calculation embraces only the inhabited portion of the globe which is half of the whole. There are many suns and moons in the uninhabited portion also, but they are stationary. $144 \times 3 = 432$, add 2 of Jamhu, 4 of salt-water-ocean, 11 of Dhátki, and 42 of Kalodadhi, and you will find that there are 492 suns and 492 moons in the Pushkar region. All this has been taught by god in Bhadrayankshimhi man Sanghyani. Yotisa'karandak payanna chandra pannati and Súrapannati-books which treat of Jain beliefs.

दोसिस दोरिन पढमे । दुगुणा लवणं मिघाय ईसं मे । बारसस्यः वारसरिन । तत्यिम इनि दिठ सिस रिनणो ॥ प्रकरण ०० मा० ४ संग्रहणी सुत्र ७७॥

An Indian caste notorious for its cowardice.-Tr.

Now mark! Ye scholars of geography and geology. The Jainees believe that in this earth there are 492 suns and 492 moons according to one mode of calculation and innumerable suns and moons according to another mode of calculation. You are very fortunate that, by the study of Siddhant and other astronomical works written by followers in the veda, you have learnt the real teachings of these sciences. If you had been enveloped in the darkness of Jainism, you would be groping in the dark as the Jainees are. These ignorant people must have thought that one sun and one moon would not do for the whole Jumbu region, for it would be impossible for one sun and one moon to light up so huge a body as the earth in 24 hours. People who believe the earth to be larger than the sun fall into mistakes like this. Again, the Jain books teach:

"Now we shall deal with the number of chains of the sun and the moons. There are two chains of the sun and the moons. Each moves at a distance of 10,000 Ratnakar. leagues from the next to it. There is a chain of moons next to a chain of suns and a chain of suns next to a chain of moons and so on in this way there are 4 chains. There are 66 suns in each chain of suns and 66 moons in each chain of moons. All these four chains after circumvallating the Mount Meru of the Jam's region, move about in the inhabited portion of the globe. When one sun moves to the south of the Meru another moves to the north of it. In each direction of the salt-water ocean two suns move about, in the region of Dhatki 6 suns move about, in the region of Kálodadhi 21 and in the Pushkar region 26. In this way 66 suns fly about in the northerly direction and 66 in the southerly direction according to the laws of their motion. If we add up, we find that 132 suns and 132 moons move about in the inhabited portion of the globe. There are many chains of constellations in connection with the moons." Now, mark! Perhaps 132 suns and 132 moons are to be found in the houses of the Jainees and if they are, it would be a wonder how the inmates can stand the heat of so many suns and are not frozen by cold at night. Such prepostrous stories can be credited only by those that are ignorant of the sciences of Geography and Geology. When one sun actually lights up many planets like ours how can its capacity to light up our little earth be doubted? If neither the earth were to move round the sun, nor the sun round the earth, we would be in light or darkness for many a year. Smeru is another name for the Ilimalayas. It is even smaller in comparison with the sun as the mustard seed is in with the pitcher. The Jainees will never understand these (scientific) facts and will continue to grope in the dark so long as they continue in their own religion. Again, the Jain teachers say:-

"Righteous souls that have attained salvation will, on Prakaran account of being free, roam about the 14 kingdoms. Ratnakar. This is due to the power of their psychic faculties." IV. 135 On the crest of the 14th kingdom a little above the flag of the air-ship which secures the gratification of all desires there is, according to the Jainis, Sidhshild or the Divydkasha otherwise called Shivpura. Only perfect beings, that is those that have attained the state of omniscience and perfect purity, go to this region and become All-knowing, on account of their psychic powers."

Now, what is limited by space cannot be All-pervading, and what is not All-pervading can never be All-knowing. It can only be predicated of a soul which is circumscribed that it is enclosed (in a fleshy tenement) or emancipated, or possessed of knowledge or devoid of it. I his can never be said of the All-pervading and All-knowing spirit. If the Tirthankaras of the Jainees were of limited capacities and were circumscribed by space, they could never by Omnipresent and Omniscient, All-holy, and All-knowing. It is a pity that the Jainees do not believe in the Being who possesses these attributes. Again, the Jain scriptures say:-

दोसिस दो रविपंती एगंतरियाछ सठिसंखाया । [संग्रह सूत्र ७९ ॥ मेहंपयाहिणंता । माणुसिखत्ते परिअडंति ॥ नकरण मा० ४ । समत्तचरण सन्यासञ्बंहोग् फुसे निरन्तसेसं ।

सत्त्वचन्त्र-समाए पंचय अदेसविरई ॥मकरण० मा० ४ । संब्रहस्० ॥ १३५

" Human beings are divided into 2 classes. These are:—(1) men who are born as the result of sexual intercourse. (2) Those that are born without sexual Ratnakar congress. The latter live for 3 Palyopamas and are 3 Kosas long.

We believe, very few men having so much age and such size can be contained in this world. Again, if they live for the full period, then the children that they will beget will also be like them. In a city like Bombay only 2 such men can live, and in a city like Calcutta 3 or 4. The Jainers say that in towns lacs of such people lived. Then those towns must have extended over lakhs of miles. The entire universe cannot form one such town.

"Siddhashila, which is at a distance of 12 leagues above the flag of the air-ship that secures the fulfilment of all desires, is 55 lakhs of leagues in area.

Siddhu bhumi is the abode of perfect saints which is located in the Sidhshilá, white, resplendent, golden and transparent like crystal Some people call it "Isautor" Ratnakar "praybhra." At a distance of 12 miles from the 3-241. air-ship that secures the fufilment of all desires there is the Alok (the region that cannot be felt. This mystery is known only to the emancipated beings. The air-ship is 8 leagues thick in the middle. The Sidhshila is situated in 4 directions and then curbes from there. It is shaped like an open umbrella and is then like the wing of a very small fly. At the distance of 1 mile above that shilá is the extremity of the region of bliss. Beings that have attained to a state of perfection dwell there."

Now mark! The Jain abode of bliss is above the flag of the airship and has an area of 41 millions of leagues. The emancipated souls are there in a state of imprisonment, no matter how beautiful and transparent it is, because the moment they quit they will cease to enjoy the bliss which is an accompaniment of a state Besides, if they live cooped up in that abode they of salvation. cannot breathe fresh air. All this is a net of fraud spread with a view to ensuare ignorant people. Again, it is written in the Jain books:-

गब्भनरति पलियाऊ । तिगाउ उक्कोसते जहन्नेणं। मुच्छिम दुहावि अन्तमुहु। अङ्गुल असंख भागतण्॥ २४१॥ पणया ललरकयोण । विरकंमा सिद्धिशिलफलिहविमला । तद्ववरि गजोयणन्ते । लोगन्तो तच्छ सिद्धिठिई ॥ २५८ ॥

Parkarn only one organ of sense is 1,000 leagues, of that of a creature possessing two organs of sense (like the conchshell) is 12 leagues, of that of a creature possessing four organs (like the black bee) 5 miles, of that of a creature possessing five organs of sense 1,000 leagues.

If there were beings of the bodily length of 1,000 leagues, the entire globe would become full to overflowing and will, perhaps accommodate only a few hundreds. If, at that time, people ask them where they should live and also how to find their way, and what is written in the books would be locked up in their own houses. But for a person of the bodily length of 4000 lossus a house of the length of 3,20,000 lossus at least is required. Even if the Jain community were to spend all its accumulated wealth, a house of such dimensions could not be built. How will they obtain beams to build a roof extending over 8000 miles? How could a pillar be placed into a house like this. All that is, therefore, false. Again in the same book it is written:—

"A well 4 kosas in width and 4 kosas in depth is filled with hair each of the length of a finger. All the parts into which the hair of the length of a finger can be divided are 20,97,152 in number. The hairs contained in a palyoma of the extent of 330,762,108,246,562,542 199,6097,5361,030,0000 constitute sankhyát kál number. If one conceives of so many parts of a hair that it is beyond the power of man to count them, he will be forming a conception of the Asankhyáta."

Now, look at the Jain mode of calculation! How can a hair be the unit of calculation? When it is said that to form the conception of the asankhayáta divisions of a hair must be imagined it is implied that in the first calculation (that of sankhyát kál) the hair was divided into so many billions of parts by means of the hand. When the hand could not do this work, the powers of imagination were enlisted. Is it even possible to divide into san-

वितिचर्डारं दिस सरीरं । वार सजोयणित कोसच उकोसं । जोयणसहस पणिदिय । उहे बुच्छन्ति विसेसन्त ॥ प्रकरण भा० ४ । सग्रह० सू० २६७ ॥ ते थूला पक्ले विदुसं खिज्जाचे बहुति सव्वेवि । तेइकिक असंखे । सुदुमे खम्मे पकप्येह ॥ प्रकरणर० भा० ४ । लघुक्तेत्र । सिर्मासंमकरण सत्र ४ ॥

INTRODUCTION

TO

CHAPTER XIII.

HE Christian religion is not the only one that is based on the Bible, there are others as well the Bible, there are others as well, such as the Jewish The reason, why we have only discussed Chrisreligion. tianity (and omitted Judaism, etc.,) in the thirteenth Chapter is. that now-a-days it takes the first place among all religions founded on the Bible whilst the Jewish religion and the like are left in the back ground hence it may be understood that our criticisim on the Bible will equally hold good in the case of Iudaism, and the allied religions which are of secondary importance compared with Christianity which is of primary importance. Our criticism is only directed against the Bible which is believed in by the Christains and the Jews alike and upon which their respective religions are founded. There are many Bhásha and Sanskrit translations of the Bible done by well-known Missionaries. perusal of these has given rise to many doubts in our mind. Some of them we have set forth in this chapter for the consideration of all (thinking people). Our sole aim in writing this chapter is to further the cause of truth and eradicate error, and not to injure the feelings of others or do them harm or bring false charges against them. After going through this chapter all our readers will know what kind of book (the Bible) is, and what doctrines it teaches. It (the discussion of Christianity in this chapter) will also make it easy for all men to examine the tenets of Christianity and make a comparative study of it. It will further augment the knowledge of men concerning religion and thereby make it easy them to discriminate between right and wrong, between desirable conduct and undesirable conduct; and to embrace truth and practise virtue, to reject error and shun vice. It behoves all men to carefully study the (sacred) books of all religions before they give or publishe their opinions for or against them. person be illiterate, he could hear them being read because just as a man by reading becomes a scholar, likewise by hearing others read he can become what is called bahushruta (one who has heard much). Though the latter may not be able to explain anything to others, yet he can understand it himself. Those who are iaundiced can neither see their own merits and demerits nor those of others. The soul of man possesses the capacity of ascertaining truth. A man can decide whether what he has heard or read is No subject can be mutually discussed if both right or wrong parties are not well acquainted with (the teachings of) each other's religion. The ignorant are very apt to fall into an abyss of superstition and error. It is in order to save them from such a fate that we have briefly discussed all the prevalent religions. The truth or error of other subjects (that have not been discussed in this book) can be inferred. All that is true and (therefore) worthy of acceptance to all is alike in all religions. Differences arise over doctrines which are false or even when one party (in a discussion) is right, while the other wrong, but should the both parties discuss a subject with the sole desire of ascertaining truth they can succeed in it.

Now we place our criticism of Christianity in the thirteenth chapter before all (our readers). They can form their own epinions about it.

We hope these few words will suffice to the wise.

CHAPTER XIII.

AN EXAMINATION OF THE DOCTRINES OF CHRISTIANITY.

OW we shall discuss the Christian religion in order to make it clear to all whether this religion is free from faults and its sacred book called the Bible is the Word of God or not. We shall first deal with the Old Testament.

GENESIS.

- 1. In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was without from, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. (I. 1, 2.)
 - * C.—What do you call the beginning?

Christian.—The first creation of the world.

- O.—Is this the first creation? Was the world never created before?
- Ch.—We do not know whether it was created before or not. God alone knows that.
- C.—When you do not know that, why should you believe in this look (i.e., the Bible) which can not enlighten you on these points and pinning your faith to it, preach it to other and thereby ensuare them into this religion which is so full of doubts. Why don't you embrac: the Vedic religion which is free from all doubts an I enlightens one on all points. When you do not understand the world created by God—His handiwork, how can you then know God?
 - C.—What do you understand by the term heaven?
 - Ch.—The empty space and what is above.
- C.—How was this empty space created? Besides, it is all-pervading and very subtle and uniform both above and below. Did the space exist or not before the heaven was created? If it did not, wherein did God, the material cause of the universe, and the souls live? Nothing can exist without space, but your ^{*} C - In this chapter as well as in the next stands for the author - Ir.

Bible says that it was created, hence this statement can never be true. Is God inharmonious? Do His knowledge and works lack harmonious? He as well as His knowledge and works harmonious?

- Ch.—Harmonious.
- G.—Why is it then recorded here that the earth created by God was misshapen or without form.
- Ch.—The term without form means uneven, i. e., the earth was not then even.
- God's work can never lack harmony or be ill-shapen (without form). He being All-knowing His works are always free from error or faults but the Bile teaches that the earth created by God was without form, hence this book can never be the work of God. First tell us pray what you think the Spirit of God is.
 - Ch.—He is a Conscious Being.
 - C.—Is he Formless or embodied, All-pervading or localized.
- Ch.—He is Formless Conscious and All-pervading but He is more particularly present in such places as the Mount Sinai and the fourth heaven.
- C.—If He be formless who could have then seen Him? What is All pervading could not move on the face of the waters. Well! Where was God when His Spirit was 'moving upon the face of waters'? It only 'goes to) show, that His body must have been in some other place or He must have let a piece of His Spirit move on the face of the waters, but in that case He could never be All-pervading and All-knowing and consequently could not create, sustain and support the world, reduce it to its elementary condition, nor could He award the souls just reward or punishment for their deeds—good or bad—, because one who is localized or circumscribed by nature must have his powers and actions also limited. Such being the case He can never be God but He has been described in the Vedas, as All-pervading, possessed of Infinite nature, attributes and powers, Truly Consious and All-blissful, Eternal, Holy, All-wise and Free by nature, Beginningless and Endless, and so on. Faith in such a God alone will save you.
- 2. And God said, Let there be light: and there was light. And God saw the light that it was good and God divided the light from the darkness. (I. 3, 4.)
- C.—Was the dead inert light able to hear what God said? If so, why can not the sun, the lamp and the light of fire hear us.

: .

The light is dead and inert and therefore can not hear any one. Did God only, after he had seen the light, know that the light was good. It appears that He did not know that before hand. Had he known it before hand he would not have waited till he had seen it to pronounce it good. If he did not know it before hand he could not have been God. Hence the Bible is not the Word of God, nor is God mentioned in it an Omniscient Being.

- And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters. And God made the fir nament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament: and it was so. And God called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and morning were the second day. (1, 6, 7, 8)
- Ch.—Did the fermament and the waters also hear what God there said? Had there been no ákásha* in water, where would it have existed. The creation of the heaven is mentioned in the first verse (of Genesis), it was useless then to create it again. If ákásha be the Heaven, it would also be everywhere. It is useless then to say that the Heaven is situated some where above. How could there be the morning and the evening when the sun had not yet been created? The succeeding verses also treat of such impossible things.
- 4. And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. And God blessed them. (1. 26, 27, 28.)
- C.—If God made man in his own image why is not man then All-holy, All-knowledge and All-bliss, etc., like God in nature? This shows that man was not made in the image of God. Now man was created, and being in the image of God and after His likeness it follows as a natural consequence that His nature is also creatable hence he can not be eternal. Besides, what did He create the man out of?

Ch.—Out of the dust (of the ground).

C.—What did He create the dust out of?

Ch.—Out of his power.

C.—Is his power beginningless or has it a beginning ? Ch.—It is beginningless.

^{*} The world firmament is translated into akasha in the Sanskrit and Bhasha versions of the Bible. Now akasha is held by Sanskrit philosophers to be an All-pervaling subtle ether like substance which fills all things in the universe hence this objection.—Tr. المراجع والمنافع والمنافع المراجع والمنافع والمن

- C.—It is clear that His power being beginningless the cause of the (material) world is also beginningless. Why do you, then, believe that something came out of nothing?
- Ch.—Nothing but God existed before the beginning of the creation.
 - C.—Where did this world then come from?

Is the power of God a substance or an attribute. If it be a substance, there was then something besides God (before the creation of the world). On the other hand, if it be an attribute, as no substance can come out of an attribute (the world could not have been produced out of it), as for instance, fire cannot proceed from light nor water from fluidity. Had God been the Materialcause of the World, the letter would have possessed all the attributes, nature, and characteristics of God but such being not the case, it is certain that it was not produced out of God but out of the Material cause the primordial matter in atomic condition. It behoves you therefore to believe that God is the Efficient Cause of the Universe as is recorded in the Vedas and other true Shástras If, as held by the Christians, Adam's inward nature be that of the soul and his outward (appearance) that of man, why is not God's nature the some, because since Adam was made in the image of God the latter must necessarily be like Adam.

- 5. And the Lord God fromed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed. And out of the ground the Lord God made to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the trees of knowledge of good and evil. (II 7.8.9.)
- C. When God planted the garden at Eden and placed Adam therein did not He know then that he would have to turn Him out of it?

Since God formed Adam of the dust of the ground he was not made in the image of God, otherwise, God also must have been made of the dust. When God breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, was that breath God Himself or something else? Is it was some thing different, man was not made in the image of God, but if it was so Adam and God are alike and being alike God also like man becomes subject to birth and death, growth and deay, hunger and thirst. How can then such a being be called God? For this reason this statement recorded in the old testament does appear to be right, nor can, therefore, this book be the Word of God.

- 6. And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead therefore: And the rib, which the Lord God had taken from man, made he a women, and brought her unto the man. (II.21,22.)
- C.—When God made man out of the dust, why did He not make his wife out of the same material? If He made his wife out of a bone why did He not make him as well out of the same Now if Woman was named so because she was taken out of Man,* the word man should also have been derived from the word Woman as he is born of a woman. They should also love each other. A wife should love her husband as a man loves his wife. Mark ye scholars! How wonderfully shines the beautifull philosophy of the (Biblical God! If Woman was made of one rib taken out of Man why are not all men short of one rib? Besides there ought to be only one rib in the body of a woman as she was made out of the rib. Could not God have made Woman of the same material as He had used in the creation of the Universe? It is clear, therefore, that the teachings of the Bible on the subject of creation are opposed to the Laws of Nature.
- Now the serpent was more subtile than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made. And he said unto the woman, Ya, hath said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden? And the woman God unto the serpent. We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden: But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die. And the serpent said unto ehe woman, Ye shall not die: For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your surely eyes shall be opened, and ve shall be as gods, knowing good and evil. And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her: and he did eat. And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons. And the LORD God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beasts of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of the life: And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between they seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel. Unto the woman he said, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and they conception; in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; and thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee. And unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of the wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life; Thorns also and thristles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field: (III. 1—7, 14—18.)

Vide verse 23 and 24, Chapter II, "She shall be called Woman because she was taken out of Man, Therefore shall a man cleaved unto his wife."

C.—Had the God of the Christians been an Omniscient Being why would He have created this 'Subtle serpent or Satan.' But as He did create him, He alone is responsible for all the evil deeds done by Satan, for had He not created him evil (by nature) he would not have done evil deeds. The Christian God does not believe in the previous existence of the soul why did He then create him wicked without any fault on his part. the truth he was not a serpent, but a man, otherwise how could he have been able to speak the hum in tongue? Besides, it is he who tells lies and directs others to do the same, that should be called Satan but in this case he (Satan) spoke the truth and, therefore, did not mislead the Woman (Eve) but told her what was true. On the other hand God told Adam and Eve a lie when he said that by eating of the tree of knowledge of good and evil he would surely die. Since those trees were such as gave life perpetual and the knowledge of good and evil to those who ate the fruits thereof, why did God forbid them their use but as He did it He stands guilty of having told a lie and misled them, as the fruit of those trees bestowed life and knowledge upon men, not death and ignor-Moreover why did God create those trees and forbid their use for men? If He created them for His own use, was He ignorant and mortal then that He needed them? But if He did for others there could possibly be no sin (for them) in eating their Besides, such trees as give life and knowledge to those who eat the fruits thereof, are nowhere to be seen nowadays. Has God destroyed even their seeds? If a man behaves like this he is called a cheat and a hypocrite why should not such a God be called the same since he alone who cheats others and practises hypocricy deserves to be called a cheat and hypocrite. Again since God cursed them all, He stands guilty of having perpetrated injustice. On the contrary it is God Who ought to have been cursed because He told a lie and He be guiled Adam and Eve. Could it have ever been possible for a woman to conceive and bear children without pain and 'sorrow' what a fine philosophy it is! Could any one earn his living without working for it? Were there no thorns and thistles before? Since it is right for man to live on herbs and vegetables according to the commandant of God why is it not wrong to sanction flesh diet which has been done later on in the Bible? One of the two statements must be wrong. Since no charge of a sin has been brought home to Adam who should the Christians call all men by virtue of being the descendents of Adam sinners? Can such a book (as the Bible) and such a God command any respect in the eyes of wise men?

- 8. And the Lord God said, beheld, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever; So he drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden Cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life. (III. 22, 24.)
- C.—Why did God become so jealous of Adam's becoming His equal in knowledge, and was it such a bad thing indeed? Why did He entertain such mis-givings at all since no one can ever become God's equal? This also shows that he was not God but a man. Wherever there is mention of God in the Bible it is related of Him as if He was a man. Now mark! How miserable Adam's progress in knowledge made God! How jealous He was of Adam's eating the fruit of tree of life!

When he first placed Adam and Eve in the garden (of Eden.) He was not aware that he would have to turn them out or it. It follows, therefore, that the God of Christians is not Omniscient. That he had to place a flaming sword to guard the tree of life clearly shows that this was also the work of a man not of God.

- 10. And in process of time it became to pass, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LOND. And Abel, he also brought of the firstlings of his flock and of the fat thereof. And the Lord had respect unto Abel and to his offering: But unto Cain and to his offering he had no respect. And Cain was very with and his countenance fell. And the Lord said unto Cain, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen? (IV. 3, 4, 5, 6.)
- C.—If God was not a flesh eater why did he respect Abel and accept his offering of sheep and did not respect Cain and accept his offering? God is really responsible or this quarrel (between the two brothers) and for the death of Abel. The Christian God here (in these verses) talks life a man. His planting of the garden (of Eden), coming into it and going out of it are quite like the doings of a man. This shows that the Bibie is the work of man, not of God.
- 10. And the Lord said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, I know not: am I my brother's keeper? And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground. And now art thou cursed from the earth. (VI. 9, 10, 11.)

- C.—Could not God known about Abel's death without inquiring from Cain? Can the voice of blood ever cry unto any one from the ground? All these things are like the doings of the ignorant. This book could not, therefore, have been made by God or even by a learned man.
- 11. And Enoch walked with God after he begat Methuselah three hundred years. (V. 22)
- C.—Had not the Christian God been a man how would Enoch have been able to walk with Him? It behoves Christians, therefore, to accept the formless Supreme Spirit of the Vedas as their God. Their true happiness lies in this alone.
- 12. And daughters were born unto them. That the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they chose. There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became might men which were of old, men of renown. And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. And it repented the Lord that he had made on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart. And the Lord said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man, and beast, and creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repented me that I have made them. (VI. 1—7.)
- C.—Will the Christians tell us who are the sons of God and who are his wife, mother-in law, father-in-iaw, brother-in law and other relations? His sons having been married to the daughters of men God becomes related to them and the children bron of those marriages are His grand children. Can such thing be true of God? Can they find place in His book? It appears that the authors of the Bible were savages who had not the least idea of the true God. He that is not Omniscient nor knows the future is not God but a human being. Did He not before He created the world know that men would turn wicked?

The feelings of grief and repentence after doing some thing wrong through error of judgment can be attributed only to the ^{1.} It is greatly to be regretted that those who translated the Bible into the Indian Vernaculars were so literal in translating this sentence as to lead our author to think that Methan Saleh actually walked about with God. Hence this criticism—Ir.

Christian God since He is neither well-versed in learning nor a yogi with perfect control over his passions and feelings or He would have over come His great grief and sorrow with the aid of mental equilibrium and wisdom

Had even birds and animals become wicked that He wanted to destroy them all? Surely He is not an All-knowing God, else He would not have been so destitute of sense. It is clear that neither he is God nor is the Bible the Word of God. Had the Christians believed and were they even now to believe in the Vedic God Who is free from all sin, pain grief and sorrow, etc., and is the embodiment of all existence, consciousness and bliss they would have realised and will even now realise the true aim of human life.

- 13. The length of the ark shall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits, and thou shalt come into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons, wives with thee. And of every living thing of all flesh, two of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee; they shall be male and female, Of fowls after their kind, and of cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after his kind, two of every sort shall come unto thee, to keep them alive. And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten, and thou shalt gather it to thee; and it shall be for food for thee, and for them. Thus did Noah; according to all that God commanded him, so did he. (VI. 15, 18, 19-22.)
- C.—Now can any enlightened man ever believe such a being, who uttered such impossible things which are opposed to the dictum of knowledge, to be God?" How could an ark of the said dimensions contain (male and female) elephants, camels and millions of other living beings, and all the different kinds of foods and drinks that they as well as the whole family of Noah would need? This book is, therefore, a human work. Whoever wrote it was not a learned man either.
- 14. And Noah builded an altar unto the Lord; and took of every clean beast, and of every clean fowls, and offered burnt offerings on the altar. And the Lord smelled a sweet savour; and the Lord said in his heart, I will not again curse the ground any more for man's sake; for imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth; neither will I again smite any more every thing living, as I have done. While the earth remaineth, seed time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease. (VIII. 20, 21, 22.)
- C.—The mention of the building of an altar and the offering of burnt offerings on the altar clearly shows that these things have been borrowed by the Bible from the Vedas. Has God even god a nose where with he "smelt a sweet savour"? Is not the God of the Christians so like a man in the finiteness of his powers, knowledge and capacity that sometime he curses, then he repents of it, again he says he will not curse the ground any more He has cursed before, and he will curse again. First He destroyed all living creatures, now he says, he will never do so again. All these things are like the doings of children not of God nor even of an educated man for even he is true to his word and keeps his pledges.

- 15. And God blessed Noah and his sons, and said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth. Every moving thing that liveth shall be meat for you; even as the green herb have I given you all things. But flesh with the life thereof, which is the boold thereof, shall ye not eat. (IX. 1, 3, 4.)
- C.—Is not the God of the Christians destitute of mercy, since he helps some to enjoy at the expense of the lives of others? Are not the parents, who cause one of their children to be killed in order to feed the other, considered most sinful? The same is true in this case since all living creatures are like children to God. The Christian God (in their case) is more like a butcher. It is this that has made men so hard-hearted and cruel towards other sentient creatures. Why is not the Christian God sinful since He is destitute of tenderness of feeling.
- 16. And the whole earth was of one language, and of one speech. And they said, Go to, let us build as a city and a tower, whose top may reach unto heaven; and let us make us a name, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth. And the Lord care down to see the city and the tower, which the children of men build. And the Lord said, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have imagined to do. Go to, let us go down, and there confound their language, that they may not understand one another's speech. So the Lord scattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth: and they left off to build the city. (XI. 1, 4—8.)
- C.—All men must indeed have been very happy when the whole world had one language, but what shall we say of this Jealous God of the Christians who confounded their speech and destroyed the happiness of all. He did a most criminal thing. Is it not worse than any thing than Satan has ever done. Did not He even beat Satan in this? This also shows that the God of the Christian lived on the top of some mountain as Sinai and was not wishful of their welfare. Let alone God, even an enlightened man would not do such a thing. How can then such a book be the Word of God?

- 17. He said unto Sarai his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a fair woman to look upon: Therefore it shall come to pass, when the Egyptians shall see thee, that they shall say, This is his wife: and they will kill me, but they will save thee alive. Say, I pray thee thou art my sister: that it may be well with me for thy sake; and my soul shall live because of thee. (XII, 11-13)
- C-Now reader mark! This Abraham, who is looked upon as a great prophet both by the Christians and the Mohammadans alike, tells lies and does such other wicked deeds. How can such people find the way to true happiness and knowledge whose prophets were men of such a low character?
- 18. And God said unto Abraham, Thou shalt keep my covenant therefore, thou, and thy seed, after thee in their generations. This is my covenant, which ye shall keep, between me and vou and thy seed after thee; Every man child among you shall be circumcised. And ye shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskin; and it shall be a token of the covenant betwixt me and you. And he that is eight days old shall be circumcised among you, every man child in your generations, he that is born in the house, or bought with money of any stronger, which is not of thy seed, He that is born in thy house, and he that is bought with thy money must needs be circumcised: and my covenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting covenant. And the uncircumcised man child whose flesh of his foreskin is not circumcised, that soul shall be cut off from his people; he hath broken my covenant. (XVII. 9—14.)
- C.—Now loak at the most unnatural command of God. Had He approved of circumcision He would not have made the foreskin at all in the beginning of creation. It serves to protect (delicate) (structure) beneath just as the eyelids protect the eyeball. This structure is so extremely that delicate that the bite of an ant, or the most insignificant hurt will cause great deal of pain if there were no fore-skin. It also serves, to prevent the soiling of clothes after micturition. These are a few of its uses. Hence it is wrong to circumcise it. Why don't the Christians obey this commandment now? This was an everlasting and not a temporary covenant. Besides, Christs' testimony as to the truth of the Law in the words "one jot or one title shall in wise pass from the law" will turn out to be false.

The Christians should seriously think about this matter and give this question their whole attention.

- 19. And he left off talking with him, and God went up from Abraham (XVII. 22).
- C.—This shows that this God was either a man or a bird that went up and down. He seems to be more like a juggler.
- 20. And the Lord appeared unto him in the plains of Mamre; and he sat in the tent door in the heat of the day. And he lift up his eyes and looked, and, lo, three men stood by him; and when he saw them, he ran to meet then from the tent door, and bowed himself towards the ground. And, My Lord, if now I have found favour in thy sight, pass not away, I pray thee, from thy servant. Let a little water, I pray you, be fetched, and wash your feet, and rest yourselves under the tree. And I will fetch a morsel of bread, and comfort ye your hearts; after that ye shall pass on; for therefore are ye come to your servant. And they said, So do, as thou hast said. And Abraham hastened into the tent unto Sarah, and said, Make ready quickly three measures of fine, meal, knead it, and make cakes upon the hearth. And Abraham ran unto the herd, and fetcht a calf tender and good. and gave it unto a young man; and he hasted to dress it. And he took butter, and milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree, and they did eat. (XVIII. 2-8).
- C.—Now why should they, whose God eats calf's flesh, spare cows, calves and other animals? He that has no compassion (on dumb animals) and enjoys flesh-eating cannot be God. He can only be a man who feels no scruples in injuring other sentient creatures for his gratification. We are not told who the other two men (besides God) were. It apears that there was a party of savages whose leader is styled God in the Bible. It is such things (as flesh-eating, etc.,) that prevent wise men from accepting this book as the Word of God and its God as the true God.
- 21. And the Lord said unto Abraham, Wherefore did Sarah laugh, saying, Shall I of a surety bear a child, which am old? Is any thing too hard for the Lord? (XVIII. 13, 14.)
- C.—Now look at this God of the Christians! How like women and children He is (so easily) vexed and how He taunts Sarah.
- 22. Then the Lord rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimstone and fire from the Lord out of heaven. And he overthrew those cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground. (XIX. 24, 25)
- C.—Now look at this Biblical God! He is so destitute of mercy that He did not take any pity even on children and the - like. Were they all so wicked that He overthrew cities and burried them all underneath. Such a thing is opposed to justice, mercy and reason. Why should not they, whose God is guilty of such things, do likewise?

- 23. Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we may preserve seed our father. And they made their father drink wine that night: and the first born went in, and lay with her father; let us make him drink wine this night also; and go thou in, and lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father. Thus were both the daughters of Lot with child by their father. (X1X, 32—34, 36.)
- C.—The vices of the Christians and others who are addicted to drink—the wicked drink that has degraded men and women so much that even a father and his daughters have not escaped from being guilty of misconducting themselves with each other—know no bounds. Good people, therefore, should not even think of drinking wine.
- 24. And the Lord visited Sarah as he had said, and the Lord did unto Sarah as he had spoken. For Sarah conceived. (XX1, 1, 2,)
- C.—Now let the reader judge what kind of thing this was. God visited Sarah and the result of this visit was that she conceived. Could there be any one else besides God and Sarah who was the cause of her conception? It seems that Sarah conceived through the grace of God !!!
- And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and took bread and a bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar, putting it on her shoulder, and the child, and sent her away......and she departed.....and she cast the child under one of the shrubs and she sat over against him, and lift up her voice, and wept. And God heard the voice of the lad. (XXI, 14-17.)
- C.—Now (gentle reader!) look at the crooked doings of this Christian God! First he unjustly sided with Sarah (vide XXI, 12) and had Haggar driven out of the house. Then it is Haggar that lifted up her voice and wept whilst it was the lad's voice that God heard. How wonderful! Is not it? Can such a being ever be God! Can such a thing ever be found in the Word of God? Excepting a few (ordinary) truths that could have been written by a man of ordinary intelligence the whole book abounds in absurdities.
- 26. And it came to the pass after these things, that God did tempt Abraham, and said unto him. Take now thy son, thine only son Isaac, whom thou lovest, and get into the land of Moriah; and offer him there for a burnt offering upon one of the mountains which I will tell thee of......and bound Isaac his son, and laid him on the altar upon the wood. And Abraham stretched forth his hand, and took the kinfe to slay his son. And the angel of the Lord called unto him out of heaven, and said, Abraham, Abraham: Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now I know that thou fearest God. (XXII. 1, 2, and 9—12)

- C.—Now it is quite clear that the Biblical God possesses finite knowledge and that He is not Omniscient. Abraham too was simpleton else he would not have acted in the way he did. Had the Biblical God been an Omniscient Being He would have been able to find out all about the firmness of Abraham's faith through His Omniscience. It is certain then that the God of the Christians is not an All-knowing God.
- 27. In the choice of our sepulchres bury thy dead......but that thou mayest bury thy dead. (XXIII. 6.)
- C.—The burial of the dead is highly injurious to the (health of the inhabitants of the) world, because decomposition of the dead bodies sets in which pollutes the air which in its turn gives rise to disease.

(Christian). It is not good, to cremate those whom we love, while the burial of the dead is like laying them down to sleep; hence this mode of the disposal of the dead is good.

C.—If you love your dead, why don't you keep them in the house? Why do you even bury them? The soul you love leaves the body after death, what is the good of loving the dead decomposing body? But since you love it, why do you bury it under the ground? It pleases no one to be addressed "Let us bury you under the ground." Besides, how can it be an act of love on your part to throw earth, bricks, stones, lime, etc., on his eyes, mouth, chest and other parts of the body? If the dead body? If the dead body be placed in a coffin before it is buried, foul smell issues fort from the ground. It then pollutes the air which in turn gives rise to terrible diseases. Again, a piece measuring at least 3 yards, long and 2 yards broad is required for burying one dead body. At this rate one can imagine how much ground is inquired for the burial of hundreds of thousands of dead bodies and rendred useless, neither that ground can be tilled, nor can it be used for gardening, nor can it be fit for human habitation. Hence burial is the worst of all methods in vogue for the disposal of the dead. A little better than this is to throw the dead body into (flowing) water, because crocodiles and other creatures living in water soon tear it into pieces an eat it up, but still the bones and other matter that will remain behind will decompose and pollute the water and air and thereby injure the (health of the inhabitants of the) world. A little less injurious method (of disposing of the dead) is to leave the body in a jungle. The carnivorous animals and birds will devour it but still the extent to which the marrow of bones and other refuse, that will be left behind, will pollute the air, the same will be the measure of its being injurious to public health. The cremation is the best of all (methods) for the disposal (of the dead because) the fire breake up the dead body into its component elements which are carried away by air.

Ch.—Even cremation gives rise to foul smell.

C.—Yes a little, if cremation be not conducted properly, but nothing compared with what takes place in other methods such as the burial. But if cremation be conducted in accordance with what has been prescribed in the Vedas no pollution of the air results. The Vedic method of cremation is brief, as follows:—

Let a Vedi, $7\frac{1}{2}$ feet long, $5\frac{1}{4}$ feet broad and $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet deep, be dug in the ground. The walls should slope in such a manner that breath of the Vedi at the bottom is one-half of that at the top, and let sufficient quantity of wood of such trees, as Butea Fondoea as well as sandal wood (at least 40 lbs.) be piled in the Vedi and the dead body placed on it. Let the same kind of wood be puts on its top till it is one foot short of the mouth of Vedi. Let sufficient amount of camphor, ayar, tayar be also scattered here and there in the pile of wood. Now, let fire be set to the pile and oblations of clarified butter, the whole amount of which should weigh as much as the weight of the dead body, and to which musk at the rate of 1 grain, and saffron, at the rate of 8 grains, per pound of ghee, has been added, be poured over it. This mode of cremation causes no foul smell. Even this is called Antyeshthi, Narmedha, Purushmedha Yujuu. However poor the deceased be, in no case should less than 40 lbs of yhee be used in cremating the body, whether that quantity of ghee be obtained by begging or as a gift from his caste people or from the Government, if need be, but the body should always be cremated only in the abovedescribed manner. But if the yluce and other materials (mentioned above) could not be procured in any way, mere cremation with wood alone is far better than burial. Millions of dead bodies can be cremated on a piece of ground having an area of 201 sq. yards or even in one Vedi, nor is the soil polluted as in burial. The sight of graves is also the cause of fear to the timid. Hence, burial and other methods of the dead are altogether reprehensible.

22. Blessed be the Lord God of my Master Abraham, who hath not left destitute my master of his mercy and his truth: I being in the way, the Lord led me to the house of my master's hrethren (XXIV—27.)

- C.—Was He God of Abraham alone? God acted in the same way as a fore-runner or a guide walks in front of his master in order to show him the way. Why does He not do the same nowadays? Why does He not now talk with men in the same way as He did in the past? Such things can never be true of God or of His Word. They can only be true of savages.
- 29. And these are the names of the sons of Ishmael, by their names, according to their generations: the first born of Ishmael, Nebajoth; and Kedar, and Adbeel, and Mibsam. And Mishma, and Dumah, and Massa, Hadar, and Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. (XXV.—13, 15.)
- C.—This Ishmael was Abraham's son born of Haggar, his hand-maid.
- 30. I will make them savoury meat for thy father, such as he loveth: And thou shall bring it to thy father, that he may eat and that he may bless thee before his death. And Rebekah took goodly raiment of her eldest son Esau, which were with her in the house, and put them upon Jacob her younger son: And she put the skins of the kids of the goats upon his hands, and upon the smooth of his neck: And Jacob said unto his father, I am Esau, thy first-born; I have done according as thou badest me, arise, I pray thee, sit and eat of my vension, that thy soul may bless me, (XXVII.—9, 10, 15, 17, 19.)
- C.—Now, look at this min, first he gets the blessing (of his father) fraudulently and, then, poses as a great saint and a prophet. Is it not very strange? Such having been the teachers of the Christian religion, there is nothing to wonder at if it is so full of absurdities?
- 31. And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put for his pillows, and set it up for a pillar, and poured oil upon the top of it. And he called the name of that place Beth-el: And this stone, which I have set for a pillar, shall be God's house. (XXVIII 18, 19 and 22)
- C.—Now mark! Did not they act like savages in worshipping stones and causing others to do the same. Now this place is placed called Holy Bathel by the Muhammadans. Is that stone alone the house of God and does He reside in that stone alone? Bravo Christians! You are indeed great idolators!
- 32. And God remembered Rachel and God hearkened to her, and opened her womb. And she conceived, and bare a son; and said, God hath taken away my reproach. (XXX. 22, 23.)

- C.—Well done! O Christian God! You are indeed a great surgeon! What were the instruments or medicines with which you opened women's wombs, or was all this done blindly?
- 33. And God came to Laban the Syrian in a dream by night, and said unto him, Take heed that thou speak not to Jacob, either good or bad. Because thou sore longedst after thy father's house, yet wherefore hast thou stolen my gods? (XXXI. 24, 30).
- C.—This is one instance out of a thousand that are recorded in the Bible, in which God said to have come to people in dreams and conversed with them, visited them in wakeful state, eaten and drank, come and gone, but one can not say whether He exists now or not, as he visits no one either in dreams or in the wakeful condition. It also appears that these savages regarded stones as their gods and worshipped them, but even the Christian God believes stone to be gods else how could He have used the words stealing of gods.
- 34. And a Jacob went on his way and the angels of God met him. And when Jacob saw them, he said, This is God's host: and he called the name of that place Mahanaim. (XXXII. 1, 2).
- C.—Now there can be no doubt that the Christian God is a man as He also keeps an army (host). He must, therefore, also have war implements (arms and ammunition), and be in the habit of attacking others and fighting with them; otherwise it would be of no use to keep an Army.
- 36. And Jacob was left alone; and there wrestled a man with him until the breaking of the day. And when he saw that he prevailed not against him, he touched the hollow of his thigh; and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint, as he wrestled with him. And he said, Let me go, for the day breaketh. And he said, I will not let thee go, except thou bless me. And he said unto him, What is thy name? And he said, Jacob. And he said, thy name shall be called no more Jacob, but Israel: for as a prince hast thou power with God and with men, and hast prevailed. lacob asked him, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name. he said, wherefore is it that thou dost ask after my name? And he blessed him there. And Jacob called the name of the place Peniel: for I have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved. And as he pas ed over Peniel, the sun rose upon him, and he halted upon his thigh. Therefore, children of Israel eat not of the sinow which shrank which is upon the hollow of the thigh, unto this day: because he touched the hollow of Jacob's thigh in the sinew that shrank. (XXXII 24-32).
- C.—It is only because the Christian God is a regular wrestler that He blessed Sarah and Rackel with sons!! "Can such a Being ever be God? Again, look at His behaviour! The fellow, Jacob asked Him His name, and He won't tell it. No doubt (the Christian) God put the hollow of Jacob's thigh out of joint and prevailed upon him but had He been a doctor He would also have got his thigh set right. By devotion to such a God, other devotees, like Jacob must also be limping. Now Jacob saw God face to face and wrestled with him, it could only be true of one who possessed a physical body. Away with this childish prattle.

- 37. And Er, Judah's first-born, was wicked in the sight of the Lord; and the Lord slew him. And Judah said unto Onan, Go in unto thy brother's wife, and marry her, and raise up seed to thy brother. And Onan knew that the seed should not be his; and it came to pass, when he went in unto his brother's wife, that he spilled it on the ground, lest that he should give seed to his brother. And the thing which he did displeased the Lord: wherefore, he slew him also. XXXVII 7-10.
- of man, not of God. Onan entered into Niyoya* with Ers'wife why did God slay him? Why did not He guide his understanding?

EXODUS.

- 38. And it came to pass in those days, when Moses was grown that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burden: and he spied an Egyptian smiting an Hebrew, one of his brethren And he looked this way and that way, and when he saw that there was no man, he slew the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand. And when he went out the second day, behold, two men of the Hebrews strove together: and he said to him that did the wrong. Wherefore smitest thou thy fellow? And he said, Who made thee a prince and a judge over us? Intendest thou to kill me, as thou killedest the Egyptian? And Moses feared, and said, Surely this thing is known. (I. 11—14).
- C.—Now, mark, reader. This Moses—the chief prophet of the Bible, the founder of its religion—was slave to such passions as anger, was a homicide who wanted to escape his punishment like an ordinary theif. As he concealed his crime, he must have been in the habit of telling lies Even such a man (as Moses) met God, became a great prophet and founded the Jewish religion—a religion that reflected the character of its founder. Hence all the chief prophets of the Christians from Moses downwards were uncivilized......and devoid of culture.

^{*} This also conclusively proves that Niyoga was in vogue in all countries in ancient times.

- 39......kill the passover. And ye shall take a bunch of hyssop, and dip it in the blood that is in the bason, and strike the linten and the two side-posts with the blood that is in the bason; and none of you shall go out at the door of his house until the morning. For the Lord will pass through to smite the Egytians; and when he seeth the blood upon the lintel, and on the two side-posts, the Lord will pass over the door, and will not suffer the destroyer to come in unto your houses to smite you. (XII.21—23.)
- C.—This looks more like making a charm. Can such a God ever be All-knowing who could not know the houses of the children of Israel but by seeing blood prints (on their lintels and side posts). This is more like a man with a poor understanding. It shows that these things were written by some savage.
- 39. And it came to pass, that at midnight the Lord smote all the first-born in the land of Egypt, from the first-born of Pharaoh that sat on his throne unto the first-born of the captive that was in the dungeon; and all the first-born of cattle. And Pharaoh rose up in the night, he, and all his servants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in Egypt; for there was not a house where there was not one dead. (XII. 29, 30.)
- C.—Bravo! What a fine thing did this God of the Christians do! How like a burglar, at midnight He mercilessly killed children, infants and the aged and even cattle that were all innocent! He had not had the least pity on them. 'There was a great cry in Egypt' and yet the heart of this Christian God would not melt. Let alone God, even an ordinary man would not do such a thing and yet there is nothing strange in it as it has been said "A flesh-eater knows no pity." When the God of the Christians is a flesh-eater, what can He have to do with pity and compassion.
- 40. The Lord shall fight for you......speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward. But life thou up they rod, and stretch out thine hand over the sea, and divide it: and the children of Israel shall go on dry ground through the midst of the sea. (XIV. 14—16.)
- C.—Well Sir! In ancient time God used to follow the children of Israel as does a shephered his flock of sheep. We wonder where has he hidden himself now? Had he been in evidence now, He would have helped the Christians to make rail-roads throughout the sea which would have been a great boon to the world. They would also have been saved the trouble of constructing boats and ships. But what is to be done. None knows where this Christian God has hidden himself. The Biblical God has done many an impossible thing in his dealings with Moses.

But it appears that like God "like devotee and His Book" is but too true in this case. May such a God and such a book remain fat from us. In this alone lies our good.

- 41......for I the Lord thy God, am a jealous God visiting the inquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;(XX. 5.)
- C.—Now what kind of justice is this to consider it good to visit, the sins of fathers upon children unto the fourth generation. Does not a good father even have wicked children or vice versa? If this be true how could (the Christian) God be justified in inflicting punishment on children into the fourth generation for the sins of their father? It is unjust to inflict punishment on the innocent
- 42. Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour....But the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord the God....the Lord blessed the sabbath day (XX. 9—11.)
- C.—Is Sunday alone the holy day? Are the other six days (of the week) unholy? Had God worked so hard for six days that he got tired and went to sleep on the seventh? If he blessed Sunday, what did He do unto the six days? He must have cursed them. Leave alone God, even an enlightened man would not do such a thing. What good did He see in the subbith day and what wrong had the other six days done that He blessed and hallowed the one and without any cause pronounced the others unholy?
- 43. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his man-servant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's. (XX, 16, 17.)
- C.—Bravo! No wonder that the Christians covet the wealth and possessions of the foreigners so aviduously as a thirsty man thirsts for water or a hungry man hungers after food. The Christian God would be as selfish and partial as is the author of this (so-called) commandment. If a Christian were to say that the word neighbour here includes all men, it cannot be true because none will be left out whose wife and servants one could covet. Hence these are the inventions of selfish men and not the commandments of God.
- 44. Now therefore kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman that hath known man by lying with him. But all the women, children that have not known a man by lying with him keep alive for yourselves. (XXXI. 17, 18.)

- C.—Well done (Christians)! How good is your prophet Moses as well as your God, who could not keep aloof from taking even the lives of children, the aged and the cattle. It also conclusively proves that Moses was voluptuous, since had he not been sensual, he would not have spared virgin girls for himself as well as for his followers, nor would he have issued such a cruel order (as encouraged sensualism).
- 45. He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death. And if a man lie not in wait, but God deliver him into his hand; then I will appoint thee a place wither he shall flee. (XXI, 12, 13.)

C.—If this act of God be just, why was not the same punishment meted out to Moses who slayed a man, buried him and then ran away. He stands guilty of partiality to Moses or else why did He not let Moses be judged by the ruler of the country.

46....and sacrified peace offerings of oxen unto the Lord. And Moses took half of the blood and put it in basons; and half of the blood he sprinkled on the alter. And Moses took the blood, and sprinkled it on the people, and said Behold the blood of the covenant which the Lord hath made with you concerning all these words. (XXIV. 5, 6, 8, 12.)

- C.—Now reader judge for yourself whether the authors of all these acts were savages or not. How like a savage and a barbarian to think that the God Almighty accepts burnt offerings of oxen and sanctions the sprinkling of blood on the alter. Such being their God why should not His votaries fill their stomachs with the meat of oxen and cows and thereby cause a great loss to the world. The Bible is simply full of such evil teachings. It is under their evil influence that the Christians try to bring the same sort of false charge against the Vedas, but there is absolutely no mention of animal sacrifice and the like practices in them. Further this conclusively proves that the God of Christians was a hill-man who lived on a mountain. He could neither make nor procure paper, ink and pen and therefore was compelled to write on tablets of stones which He gave to Moses. He might have passed for God before those savages.
- 47. And he said, Thou canst not see my face; for there shall no man see me, and alive And the Lord said, Behold, there is a place by, and thou shalt stand upon a rock: And it shall come to pass, while my glory passeth by, that I will put these in a clift of the rock, and will cover thee with my hand while I pass by: And I will take away mine hand, and thou shalt see my back parts: but my face shall not be seen. (XXXIII .0—23.)
- C.—Now reader! Is there any doubt left in your mind as to the God of the Christians having a body like that of a man?

(Mark) How He played tricks with Moses and posed as God! (LEVITICUS).

- 48. And the Lord called unto Moses, and spake unto him out of the tabernacle of the congregation, saying. Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto the n, If any man of you bring an offering unto the Lord, ye shall bring your offering of the cattle, even of the herd, and of the flock. (I. 1, 2.)
- C.—Now does not the God of the Christians, Who accepts the offerings of oxen and cows, etc., and enjoins upon His votaries to bring such offerings to Him, thirst for the blood and hunger after the flesh of such animals? Such a being can never be considered as God or even as a man of a tender-hearted nature, on the other hand he looks more like a flesh-eating trickster.
- 49. And he shall kill the bullock before the Lord: and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall bring the blood, and sprinkle the blood round about the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. And he shall flay the burnt offering, and cut it into his pieces. And the sons of Aaron the priest shall put fire upon the altar, and lay the wood in order upon the fire! And the priest, Aaron's sons, shall lay the parts, the head, and the fat, in order upon the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar: But his inwards and his legs shall he wash in water: and the priest shall burn on the altar, to be a burnt sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the Lord. (I, 5—9.)
- C.—A little consideration will show that the place, where a bullock is killed by His votaries before the Lord (who sanctions that act) his blood is sprinkled on all sides of the altar and the flesh of the animals offered as a burnt offering on the altar when the Lord smells a sweet savour, is no better than a slaughter-house. These things serve to show that the Bible can never be the Word of God nor can its God be any better than a savage trickster.
- 50. And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying. If the priest that is anointed do sin according to the sin of the people; then let him bring for his sin, which he hath sinned, a young bullock without blemish unto the Lord for a sinned offering. And he shall bring the bullock unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the Lord; and shall lay his hand upon the bullock's head, and kill the bullock before the Lord. (IV. 1, 3, 4).
- C.—Now look at this atonement for sins! A man commits a sin and in order to atone for it kills useful animals and the (Christian) God sanctions such an act. Well done, Christians! Even such a Being as this you hold to be God and hope to be saved through His grace.

51, When a ruler hath sinned,.....he shall bring his offering a kid of the goats, a male without blemish:......they kill the burnt offering before the Lord: it is sin offering. (IV. 22—24.)

C.—Bravo, ye Christians! Such being the case why should the Christian rulers, judges and commanders (of the army) and the like officials fear sin. It is strange that these people should sin for their gratification and by way of atonement for their sins take the lives of cows, calves and other (useful) animals This is why the Christians have no scruples, in taking the life of any bird or animal. Come ye Christian, renounce this barbarous religion and embrace—the Vedic faith the religion of light, culture and righteousness. That alone will give you true happiness.

52. And if he be not able to bring a lamb, then he shall bring for his trespass, which he hath committed, two turtledoves, or two young pigeons, unto the Lord; and wring off his head from his neck,but shall not divide it asunder.....shall make an atonement for him for his sin which he hath sinned and it shall be forgiven him. But if he be not able to bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons, then he that sinned shall bring for his offering the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a sin offering*; he shall put no oil upon it. (V. 8, 7, 10, 11, 13.)

C.—Neither the rich nor the poor among the Christians can have any fear in the commission of sins, because their God has made the atonement for sins so easy. Now this is one of the oddest things in the Christian Bible that it teaches that one can escape the consequence of one's sins without any great effort merely by committing other sins. A Christian commits a sin and in order to ward off its consequences kills other (animals), enjoys their flesh and gets his sins forgiven. When the head of a pigeon is wrung off from its neck, it is sure to writhe for some time, do not the Christians even then feel any pity on the poor creature, But (we forget) why should they have any such feelings when their God teaches them to kill other creatures to offer them as an atonement for their sins)? Besides, when all sins can thus be expiated, why have they set up this big fraud of forgiveness of sins through faith in Christ?

^{*} A thousand thanks to this God who has made a covenant of accepting calves, sheep lambs and pigeons and even flour Very strange that he accepted pigeons whose heads had been wrung off from their necks in otherwords, he had not had to trouble himself for wringing their necks The mention of such things in the Bible compels one to infer that among those savages there was one cleverer than the rest, he took to living on a mountain and declared himself as God. Those ignorant savages accepted him as such. Through his cunning devices, he managed to get animals birds and flour and other articles for his food on the mountain and enjoyed himself. He had touts called angels to work for him. Let the good reader compare this God of the Bible who eats, calves, sheep, lambs, pigeons and fine flour with The vedic God who is Omnipresent, Omniscient, Unborn, Formless, Omnipotent and fust and possessed of other good attributes,

- 53. Even the priest shall have to himself the skin of the burnt offering which he hath offered. And all the meat offering that is baken in the oven, and all that is dressed in the frying pan and in the pan, shall be the priest's that offereth it. (VII. 8, 9.)
- C.—We were under the impression that the trickery—of the priests of the temple of the goddess (Bhairava) Indian Baccus—and of other temples were mighty wonderful indeed, but we find that the trickery of the Christian God and his priests is a thousandfold greater. The Christians must have greatly enjoyed themselves and (perhaps ever enjoy now) when they got money by selling the skin of the animals offered as sacrifice and had their flesh to eat. Now will a father kill one of his two children and offer his flesh to the other to eat? Is such a thing ever possible? How could then God unto Whom all living creatures—men, animals, birds, etc.,—are like children, do such a thing? It is clear then that the Bible can never be the Word of God, nor can the God of the Bible be the true God, nor can his followers know what truth and righteousness are. This book is simply full of such absurdities too numerous to mention.

(NUMBERS.)

- 54. And the ass saw the angel of the Lord standing in the way and his sword drawn in his hand: and the ass turned aside out of the way, and went into the field: and Balaam smote the ass, to turn her into the way. And the Lord opened the mouth of the ass, and she said unto Balaam, What have I done unto thee, that thou has smitten me these three times? (XXII. 23, 28)
- C.—In olden times even an ass could see the angels of God, but now-a-days, even bishops, clergymen and other men—good or bad—cannot see God or His messengers. Do God and His messengers exist now-a-days? If they do, what has become of them that they are not visible? Are they sleeping a very heavy sleep or are they ill, or have they gone away to some other world or busied themselves with some thing else, or are they now offended with the Christians or have they died? One does not know what has happened to them, but one can very well infer that they do not exist now nor are visible, never existed before nor were ever visible. The author (or authors) of the Bible has spun all these yarns.

(II SAMUEL).

55. And it came to pass that night, that the word of the Lord came unto Nathan saying, Go and tell my servant David, Thus saith the Lord, Shalt thou build me an house for me to dwell in? Whereas I have not dwelt in any house since the time that I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt even to this day, but have walked in a tent and in a tabernacle (VII. 4446)

C.—There is no doubt now that the Christian God is embodied like a man. He complains that He worked very hard, walked hither and thither in tents and tabernacles but never had a house to dwell in Now if David would make him a house, he would rest in it. Are not the Christians ashamed of believing in such a God and in such a book as the Word of God? But they are to be pitied. Poor Christians! They were caught in the trap (of the Christian religion). They should now make a great effort to get out of it?

(II KINGS).

- 56. And in the fifth month, on the seventh day of the month, which is the nineteenth year of king Nebuchadnezrar king of Baylon came Nebzar-adan captain of the guard, a servent of the king Babylon unto Jerusalem: And he burnt the house of the Lord, and the king's house and all the houses of Jerusalem, and every great man's house burnt he with fire. And all the army of the Chaldees, that were with the captain of the guard brake down the walls of Jerusalem round about. (XXV. 8, 9, 10)
- C.—The God of the Christian is indeed to be pitied. He had a house built for him by David to dwell in. He must have been living comfortably in it but Nebasar-adan burnt it to ashes. God and his army of angles could not do any thing against him. This God used to fight and win great battles before, but now He let Nebuzar-adin completly destroye His house. One wonders why He sat quitely (and did nothing to defend His house) and where His angles ran away At such a critical moment no one was of any use (to him). Besides, what became of the Omnipotence of God? Did it take wings and fly away? If what is stated here be true, all that has been said before in the Bible about the victories of God will have no meaning. Did His bravery and valour consist in killing Egyptian children only? Now why did He keep quiet in the presence of brave men? By such a behaviour the Christian God brought disgrace and dishonour on Himself. The book is simply full of thousands of such silly stories

(I. CHRONICLES.)

- 57. So the Lord sent pestilence upon Israel and there fell of Israel seventy thousand men. (XXI. 14.)
- C.—Look at the stange doings of this Christian God! On the house of Israel that He had blessed so often and for whoes welfare He had been exerting Himself day and night He sends pestilence in a fit of rage and destroys 70,000 men. Some poet has said "He that is pleased in one moment and displeased in the next, in other words, whose pleasure and displeasure are momentary, is to be feared even when pleased." This is but too true of the Christian God.

(THE BOOK OF JOB.)

- 58. Again there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the Lord, and Satan came also among them to present himself before the Lord. And the Lord said unto Satan. From whence comest thou? And Satan answered the Lord, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it. And the Lord said unto Satan, Hast thou considered my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and escheweth evil? and still he holceth fast his integrity, although thou movedst me against him, to destroy him without cause. And Satan answered the Lord, and said, Skin, for skin, yea, all that a man hath will he give for his life. But put forth thine hand now, and touch his bone and his flesh and he will curse thee to thy face. And the Lord said unto Satan, behold, he is in thine hand; but save his life. So went Satan forth from the presence of the Lord, and smote Job with sore boils from the sole of his foot unto his crown. (II. 1—7.)
- C.—Now behold! How great is the might of the God of the Christian! Satan smites His devotee in His very presence and yet He neither punishes him, nor protects His votaries, nor can any one of His (so many) angels face him. One Satan has stricken them with fear. It also seems that the Christian God is not Omniscient, otherwise why should He have tested Job through Satan?

(ECELESIASTES.)

- 59......yea, my heart had great experience of wisdom and knowledge And I gave my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness and folly: I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit. For in much wisdom is much grief and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow.
- C.—Now mark reader! Wisdom and knowledge, that are synonymous terms, are believed by them to be two different things. Who but an ignorant man will say that increase in knowledge is the cause of grief and sorrow? Leave alone the idea that God is त्तणे रुष्टः श्वणे तुष्टो रुष्टस्तुष्टः श्वणे श्वणे ॥ अव्यववस्थितचित्तस्य प्रसादोऽपिमयंकरः॥ १॥ the author of the Bible, even an enlightened man could not have written it.

So far we have briefly discussed the Old Testament. Next we shall write a little about the New Testament that comprises Gospels according to St. Mathew, etc., and is held in great reverence by the Christians who call it the Bible. We should now examine it and see what kind of book it is.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. MATHEW.

- 60. Now the birth of Jesus Christ was of on this wise: When as his mother Mary was espoused to Joseph before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost....behold the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph. thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary the wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost. (I. 18, 20.)
- C.—No educated man can ever believe in such thing as are opposed to all kinds of evidence such as direct Cognition, Inference, etc.) and to the laws of nature. Only people in a state of barbarism can believe them. It does not become educated and civilized men to do so. Breathes there a man who could violate the laws of God? Should any one succeed in subverting His law, no one will ever obey His commandments, nor would God Himself break his own laws as He is Omniscient and infallible. If this story of the birth of Christ were held to be true, any unmarried girl that happens to conceive could say that she was with child of the Holy Ghost. She could also falsely say that the angel of the Lord told her in a dream that that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost'! This story is as possible as that recorded in the Puranus about Kunti being conceived of the Sun Only those who have more money than brain' can believe in such things and fall an easy prey to superstition. It must have happened like this that Marry co-habited with some one and thereby became encient. some one else gave out such an impossible thing) that she had conceived of Holy Ghost.
- Then was Jesus led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungred. And when the temper came to him, he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread. (IV. 1-3.
- C.—This conclusively proves that the Christian God was not Omniscient, otherwise, why should He have had Jesus tempted of the devil? He would have known all about him by His: Omniscience. Will a Christian live if he be kept without food for 40 days and 40 nights? It also proves that Jesus was neither the son of God nor did he possess any miraculous power or why would he not have turned stones into bread. Why would he have himself suffered from the pangs of hunger? The truth is that what God has created as stones no one could ever turn into bread, nor could God Himself subvert His laws ordained by Himself since He is Omniscient and, all His works are free from error

- 62. And he saith unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men And they straight way left their nets, and followed him.
- C.—It seems that it was in consequence of this sin alone, viz., breaking the fifth Commandment which says "Honour thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long upon the land.......," that he did not live long, since neither served his father and mother, nor let others do it. It also shows that Jesus founded his religion in order to entrap others. He wanted to accomplish his object by ensnaring others into his net like fisherman, any wonder then if Christian missionaries follow their Master in ensnaring other men into their religion? Just as a man who catches a large number of big fish, makes a name for himself as a good fisherman and also makes a good living by it, in like manner, a missionary who ensnares a large number of converts into the net of Christianity gets a good salary and makes a name for himself, These people (missionaries) ensnare such simple men into their nets as are ignorant of the teachings of the Vedus and Shastras and separate them from their parents and other members of the family. It, therefore, behoves all enlightened Aryas to escape their net of superstition and error and exert themselves to save their ignorant brethren from the same.
- 63. And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people. And his fame went throughout all Syrial: and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatick, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them. (IV. 23, 24.)
- C.—We would have believed all this about Jesus that is written in the Bible, had the claims of the (popes and magicians), who in our day pretend to drive out devils and cure disease through charms and incantations, blessings or a pinch of ash been true. All these things are meant for ensnaring poor, ignorant, ghileless people into superstition. If the Christians believe that the Jesus really worked miracles, why do not they believe all that is claimed by the popes of the goddess (in India to be true, because their claims ere very much like those of Jesus.

- 64. Blessed are the poor in spirit: for their is the kingdom of heaven. For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one title shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled. Whosoever thereforefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven. (V. 3, 18, 19.)
- C.—If the heaven is one, there can be only one king there, If all those who are 'poor in spirit' will go to heaven, who will be the king among them? Very likely there will be a great row over this matter and all order will be set at nought. If by the term poor in spirit are meant all those who are penniless, it could never be right, but if this term means free from conceit, then, too it could not be true as poor in spirit and free from conceit can never be synonymous. He that is poor in spirit can never be contented. To say that the law will hold good only so long as heaven and earth last can only be true of man—made laws, since they are not eternal. But this can not be spoken of the eternal laws of the Omniscient God. "Whosoever shall break one of these comments shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven" has been said merely to tempt men and inspire them with fear.
- 65. Give us this day our daily bread. Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth. (VI 11, 19.)
- C.—This shows that in the age when Jesus Christ lived, people were more savages in a state of poverty, and Christ was also poor like the rest of them, therefore, it is that he prays to God for his daily bread and teaches others to do the same Why do the Christians lay up treasures when their Bible teaches to the contrary. They should act on their Master's advice and give away a!! that they possess in charity end become poor.
- 66. Not every one that saith unto me, Lord. Lord, shall enter into kingdom of heaven. (VII, 21.)
- C.—Now if all the great Bishops, Missionaries and other Christians hold what Christ has said (in the verse) to be true, they should never call Christ Lord (or God). Should they refuse to do so, they will be sinners.
- 67. Many will say to me in that day. And then will I profess unto them I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity. (VII. 22, 3.)
- C.—Mark reader! How Christ in order to convince the savages pretended to be the Judge who will sit on the seat of justice on the day of judgment. This was meant simply to tempt simple quileless men.

- 68. And, behold, there came a leper and worshipped him, saying Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And Jesus put forth his hind, and touched him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately his leprosy was cleansed. (VIII. 2, 3.)
- C.—All these things are meant to ensnare ignorant men. If the Christians hold all these things, that are opposed to the dectum of knowledge and the laws of nature, to be true, why do they say that the stories told about Shukracharya Dhanvantri in the Puranas are false? For instance, it is recorded in the Mahabharat and the Puranas that the whole dead army of daity as fiends was made alive. Kach the son of Vrihaspati was cut into pieces that were eaten by fishes and yet Shukracharya brought him back to life. Again, the same sage killed Kach and gave it to be eaten and then made him alive in the stomach and brought him out as such. Shukráchárya himself died and Kach brought him to life. The sage Kashyapa brought a tree and a man back to life that had been burnt to ashes. Dhanvantri made hundreds of thousands of dead persons alive, cured millions of lepers, granted sight to hundreds and thousands of blind men and gave hearing to millions of deaf men. If these stories be false, why is not the story of Christ's having performed miracles also false? Why should a man not be called obstinate and unjust who calls whatever another person says, to be wrong and declares himself to be right, however, wrong he may be? In like manner, all that the Christians say about the miracles of Christ is based on wrongheadedness and injustice. It is a mere childish prattle.
- 69. There met him two possessed with devils, coming out of the tombs. And, behold, they cried out, saying, What have we to do with thee. Jesus, thou Son of God? art thou come hither to torment us before the time? And there was a good way off from them as herd of many swine feeding. So the devils besought him, saying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go away into the herd of swine. And he said unto them, Go and when they were come out, they went into the herd of swine: and, behold, the whole herd of swine ran violently down a steep place into the sea, and perished in the waters. (VIII. 28, 83.)
- C.—A little consideration will show that all these things are false. Dead persons can never come out of their graves, nor can they go to any one and speak to him. Only the most ignorant savages can believe in such things. Christ was the cause of the death of that herd of swine, and he therefore stands guilty of the sin of having inflicted (pecuniary) loss on the owner of the swine.

- The Christians hold that Christ could forgive sins and purify the impure, why could not he cleanse the devils of their impurities? Why did he not recompense the owner for the loss he had sustained? Do the cultured Christians, such as the Europeans, also believe in these yarns? If they do, they are indeed immersed in superstition.
- 70. And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee. For I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance. (IX. 2, 13.)
- C.—Now this thing is as impossible as others that have been mentioned before. As regards the forgiveness of sins it is only a bait thrown to the simpletons to ensuare them. Just as alcohol, Indian henp, or opium taken by one pers n cannot intoxicate another, likewise, a sin committed by one cannot affect another. On the other hand, it is he alone suffers who sins. Verily this is Divine Justice! God would indeed be unjust if good or bad deeds done by one man should affect another, or if the judge should take on himself the consequences of the crimes of the criminal. Remember righteousness alone is the cause of felicity, (happiness) not Christ or any other saint or prophet The righteous do not at all stand in the need of Christ, etc., nor do the sinners as their sins can never be forgiven.
- 71. And when he had called unto him his twelve disciples. he gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of disease For it is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of your Father which speaketh in you. Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword. For I come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. And a men's foes shall be they of his own household. (X. 1, 20, 34 --36)
- C.—These are the very disciples one of whom betrayed Christ for 30 Rupees, all others also forsook him and fled. All such things as one's being possessed of devils, or casting them out, curing of disease without proper medicine and diet are impossible as they are opposed to the dictum of knowledge and contrary to the laws of nature. Only the ignorant people can believe in them. If it be the spirit of God that speaks in man and not the human soul what does the latter do? It must be God then Who enjoys or suffers the consequences of virtuous or sinful acts done by man. This is altogether wrong. Christ came to set men against each other and cause them to fight and he succeeded. The same strife is raging among men to this day. How wicked it is to sow discord among men as it inflicts great suffering on them, but it seems that the Christians regard it as the highest doctrine, since when Christ thought it good to turn men against each other, why should not they—his followers? Yes it becomes Christ alone to turn the members of one's own household into his foes; no good man will ever do such a thing.

- 72. And Jesus saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, seven, and a few little fishes. And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground. And he took the seven loaves and the fishes, and gave thanks, and brake them, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude. And they did all eat and were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets full. And they that did eat were four thousand men, beside women and children. (XV. 34—39.)
- C.—Are these things any better than the tricks of a wonderworker or of a juggler of to-day? Where did all these loaves come from to feed the multitude)? Had Christ possessed such miraculous powers, why would he have hankered after the fruit of a fig tree when he was hungry? Why did he not turn stones, earth and water into loaves and delicious sweets? These things look more like children's play Many a Vairagee and other mendicants defraud guileless, ignorant men of their money by such tricks (as these)
- 73. And then he shall reward every man according to his works. (XVI. 27.)
- C.—When all men shall be rewarded according to their works, it is useless for the Christians to preach the doctrine of the forgiveness of sins. If the latter be true, the former must be false. If the Christians say that those that deserve to be forgiven shall be for given, while those that do not deserve it shall not be forgiven, it cannot be right, since justice and mercy consist only in awarding punishment and reward for all works.
- 74. O ye faithless and preverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me. For verily I say unto you. If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you. XVII. 17, 20.)
- C—The Christians go about preaching "Come, embrace our religion, get your sins forgiven and be saved." All this is untrue, since had Christ possessed the power of having sins remitted, instilling faith in others and purifying them, why would he have not freed his disciples from sin, made them faithful and pure. When he could not make those who went about with him pure, faithfull and sinless, how could he now that no one knows where he is purify any one? Now disciples of Christ were. destitute of as much faith as a grain of mustard seed and it is they that wrote the Bible, how could then such a book be held as an authority. Those who seek happiness should not believe in the works of the faithless, the impure (at heart) and the unrighteous. It also proves that if the word of Christ be held to be true, no Christian possesses as much faith as a grain of mustard. If a Christian should say that he possessed it more or less, let him then be asked to remove a mountain from one place to another. Even if he succeeded in doing it, he could not be said to possess perfect faith but only about as much as a grain of mustard. On the contrary, if he did not succeed, he was then distitute even of an atom of faith or righteousness. If any one were to say that all this is allegorical and the word mountain stands or pride and other evil quailities of the mind, it cannot be right, as raising the dead curing the blind, the lepers and those possessed of devils could also be allegorical. Christ raising the dead, etc., may mean curing the lazies of their laziness, curing the blind, dispelling the ignorance of the mentally blind, the licentious of licenteousness and the superstious of those who were superstitious.

Even this interpretation would not hold water, since had this been the case, why would he have not been able to cure his disciples of their faithlessness, ignorance, etc.? Hence Christ betrays his ignorance by saying such impossible things. Had Christ possessed even a little knowledge, why would he have talked such nonsense like a savage. However as it has been said, "In a country where no trees are seen to grow, even the castroil plant is considered to be the biggest and the best tree" in like manner in a country where none but the most ignorant savages lived, Christ was rightly considered a great man but Christ can be of no count among the learned and wise men of the present day.

- 75. Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. (XVIII. 3.)
- C.—If the convertion of a man by the offering of his will be the cause of his entering into heaven and his not doing so the cause of his going to hell, it is elear then that no one can take upon himself the sins or virtues of another. And the use of the expression "except ye......become as little children," etc., shows:

that most of the teachings of Christ were opposed to the dictum of knowledge and contrary to the laws of nature, and he also wished that the people should accept them like children without questioning their validity, in other words, accept them with their eyes closed. Plenty of Christians have blind faith like children, otherwise why should they believe in such things as are opposed to reason and science. It is also clear that had not Christ himself been destitute of knowledge and understanding like children, he would not have taught others to become as children, since a man always wants to make others like himself.

- 76. Verily I say unto you, That a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven. And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God. (XIX. 23, 24)
- C.—It appears from this that Christ was a poor man. The rich very-likely did not respect him, hence he taught the above; but this teaching is not true, because there are good and bad people among the rich as well as among the poor. A man may be rich or poor, but he always reaps the fruits of his deedsgood or bad—as the case may be. It is also clear that Christ believed that the kingdom of God was in some particular locality and not everywhere. Such being the case, He cannot be God, since God's kingdom must be everywhere and it is foolish to speak of it as one shall or shall not enter into it. Again will all the Christians that are rich go to hell and those that are poor enter into heaven? A little reflection would have made it clear to Jesus Christ that the poor do not possess so many means (to do good) as the rich. If the rich, after due deliberation, spend their wealth in furthering the cause of righteousness, they could attain the highest state, whilst the poor without any means for their improvement would remain in a wretched plight.
- 77. And Jesus said unto them: I say unto you, That ye which have followed me in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit on the throne of his glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. And every one that hath forsaken houses, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's sake shall receive an hundredfold, and shall inherit evarlasting life. But many that are first shall be last; and the last shall be first. (XIX. 28, 29.)
- C.—Now, behold! The cat is out of the bag. The real motive of Jesus in saying this to his followers was that they should not get out of his net even after he was dead. Even that rascal who betrayed his Master and helped him to be crucified for a paltry sum of Rs. 30 would sit on a throne by him. It is said that they (his 12 disciples) would sit on judgment on the twelve tribes of Israel, but it seems they will judge people of tribes other than those of Israel, since all the sins of the children of Israel will be forgiven. It seems that this is the reason that the Christians are so very partial to their co religionists (and fellow-countrymen). It is very often seen (in India) that if a whiteman kills a dark (native of India) (the judge through racial prejudice and the jury) who are white men very often give the verdict of non-guilty against the accused and let him go unpunished. Very likely the same kind of justice is done in the heaven of Christ. Besides, there is one great objection against all being judged on one special day, called the day of judyment, one man for instance died in the beginning of the world, while another on the Eve of the Judyment day One kept waiting all this time from the beginning to the end of Creation for the hour when he would be judged, while the other was judged at one, he who goes to hell heaven will have to stay there for ever. Now this is very unjust, since the powers and acts (of the soul) are finite, their result-pleasure or painalso should be finite. Besides, the good and bad deeds of two souls can never be equal, consequently the result i.e., the pleasure or pain, being unequal, there ought to be millions of heavens or hells, so that each soul may enjoy or suffer the just amount of pleasure or pain. But there is no mention of such an arrangement in the (holy) book of the Christians, hence it can never be the Word of God, nor can Jesus be the Son of God. It is most absurd to say that any one can have a hundred fathers and mother. One can have only one father and one mother. Yet the Bible says "Every one that hath forsaken....an hundred fold." seems what Qoran says about every one of the faithful getting houris in heaven must have been borrowed from this verse in the Bible

- 78. Now in the morning as he returned into the city, he hungered. And when he saw a fig tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon but leaves only, and said unto it, Let no fruit grow on tree hence forward for ever. And presently the fig tree withered away. (XXI. 18,19.)
- C.—Now the Missionaries always tell us that Christ was very calm, kind-hearted and free from anger and other such passions but these verses show that he was het-tempered and ignorant of the laws that govern the phenomeno of seasons and that he altogether behaved like a savage. Now a tree is not intelligent being (that it could be held responsible for not bearing fruit). He cursed the (fig) tree for no cause; and if it be really true that the tree did wither away, it could not be due to his curse. We should not wonder if it had been withered away by the use of some poison

- 79. Immediately after the tribulation of those days shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heavens the powers of the heavens shall be taken: (XXIV, 29).
- C.—Well done Jesus! with the aid of which science did you know about the falling of the stars from heaven what are the powers of the heavens that shall fall? Had Christ read a little (of science), he would have certainly known that all these stars are spheres like our earth, and, therefore, could not fall. All this shows that he was the son of a carpenter, must have for years worked as a carpenter sawing, peeling or cutting wood or joining together different pieces of wood. When it entered his head that he could also pass for a prophet in that savage country, he began to preach. He uttered a few good thoughts but many bad ones. The natives of that country (i. e, his country men) were mostly savages and consequently believed in him Had Europe been as enlightened and civilized then as it is at the present day, he could not have at all passed for a prophet. It is one of the shortcomings of the Euorpeans that though they are now enlightened to some extent, yet through expediency or contumacy they do not renounce this hollow religion and instead incline towards and embrace the absolutely true religion of the Vedus.
- 80. Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away. But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only. (XXIV. 35).
- C.—This also betrays the ignorance and foolishness of Christ. Where will Akasha (heaven) go after it has moved Akasha being very subtle is not visible to the eye, who can then see it move? Besides, it does not do for a good man to praise himself with his own lips.
- 81. Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angles. For I was an hungered, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirstly, and ye gave me no drink. (XXV. 41.)
- C.—How very unjust to send his own followers to heaven while others to everlasting fire! Where it is said that there will be no Akasha (space) wherein will the heaven and the everlasting fire or hell exist? Had not God made the devil and his angels He would not have been obliged to make all these preparations for the hell. We wonder what kind of God He is Who could not even inspire the Devil with fear since he was one of his angles and yet revolted against him, but God could not get hold of Him in beginning and put him in a prison or kill him. What should we think of the power of God when the devil kept Christ without food for 40 days. It was absurd for Christ to call himself the son of God when even he could not do anything against the Devil. It follows, therefore, that neither Christ was the son of God, hor could the Biblical God be the true God.

- 82. Then one of the twelve, called Judas Iscariot, went unto the chief priests. And said unto them, What will ye give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver. (XXVI. 14, 15).
- C.—Behold! all the God-head and miraculous powers of Christ stand exposed! When he could not purify even the heart of his chief disciple who was in his constant company how could he purify others now that he is dead?
- Oh! How many people, who put their faith and trust in him are taken in since how could he, who could not do any good to those who constantly associated with him while he was alive, benefit any one after his death?
- 83. And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed it and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it. For this is my blood of the new testament. (XXVI. 26—28.)
- C—Can a cultured man ever do such a thing? Only an ignorant savage would do it. No enlightened man would ever call the food of his disciples his flesh nor their drink his blood. This is called Lord's supper by the Christians of the present day. They eat and drink imagining all the time that their bread was the flesh of Christ and their drink his blood. Is not it an awful thing? How could those, who could not even keep aloof from the idea that their food and drink were the flesh and blood of their saviour, abstain from the flesh and blood of others?
- 84. And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy. Then saith he unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death:tarry ye here, and watch with me. And he went a little further, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt. (XXVI. 37—39.)
- C.—Now had he been the son of God and not an ordinary man and cognisant of the three periods of time or even a learned man, he would not have acted in the way he did. This clearly shows that all this fraud that Chirst was the son of God had knowledge of the future and could procure remission of sins was set up by Christ or his disciples. It is certain, therefore, that he was only an ordinary man, simple and honest but ignorant. He was neither a learned man nor a Yoyi, nor one possessed of miraculous powers.

85. And while he yet spake, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with swords and staves, from the chief priests and elders of the people. Now he that betrayed him gave them a sign, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is he ! hold him fast. And forthwith he came to Jesus, and said, Hail, master; and kissed him......Then came they and laid hands on Jesus, and took him. Then all the disciples forsook him, and fled......At the last came two false witnesses. And said, This fellow said, I am able to destroy the temple of God, and to build it in three days. And the high priest arose, and said unto him, Answerest thou nothing what is it which these witness against thee? But Jesus held his peace. And the high priest answered and said unto him. I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou be the Christ, the Son of God. Jesus saith unto him, Thou hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, hereafter shall ye see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven. Then the high priest rent his clothes, saying, He hath spoken blasphemy; what further need have we of witnesses? behold, now ye have heard his blasphemy. What think ye? They answered and said. He is guilty of death. Then did they spit in his face, and buffeted him; and others smote him with the palms of their hands. Saying, Prophesy unto us, thou Christ, Who is that smote thee? NowPeter sat without in the palace: and a damsel came unto him. saying, Thou also wast with Jesus of Galilee, But he denied before them all, saying, I know not what thou sayest. And when he was gone out into the porch, another maid saw him, and said unto them that were there, This fellow was also with Jesus of Nazareth And again he denied with an oath I do not know the man. (XXVI. 47-50, 56, 60-72, 71.)

C.—Now what can you think of Christ who had not had even the power or influence to instil firm faith into the minds of his disciples who ought to have laid down their lives rather than betrayed their master through greed, or denied him or told an untruth or sworn falsely. Nor did Christ possess any miraculous power. It is written in the Genesis¹ that all the people of Sudan attacked the house of Lot to kill hill his guest who were two angels of God. They (the angels) sm ote them with blindness Though this is an impossible story but any how it shows that Christ did not possess even so much power as the two angels did, yet the Christians now-a-days make no end of fuss over the powers of Christ, He ought to have preferred suicide with a weapon or by stopping his respiration with the help of Yoya or in some other manner to death to such ignominy. But how could he have this sense when he was so destitute of knowledge.

Genesis XIX. 11.

- 56. Thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me more than twelve legions of angles?
 (XXVI. 53)
- U.—He boasts and brags of the greatness of his father and himself and yet cannot do anyting. When the high priest said to him "Answerest thou nothing which is it which these witness against thee?" Jesus held his peace. It was not right on his part to do so, he ought to have spoken out the truth. It was not good of him, to have boasted of his greatness nor was it right on the part of those who put him to death on a false charge. What they accused him of was not his offence but they too were savages, what could they know of justice? It would have been good for both parties had not Christ pretended to be the Son of God and they (the Jews) so ill-treated him but where from could they get the requisite sense, righteousness and justice to know these things and feel and act the truth?
- 87. And Jesus stood before the governor: and the governor asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And Jesus said unto him, Thou sayest. And when he was accused of the chief priests and elders, he answered nothing. Then said Pilate unto him, Hearest thou not how many things they witness against thee? And he answered him to never a word: in so much that the governor marvelled greatly. Pilate saith unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ? They all say unto him, Let him be called. When he had scourged lesus, he delivered him to be crucified. Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the common hall, and gathered unto him the wholeband of soldiers. And they striped him, and put on him a scarlet robe. And when they had platted a crown of thorne. they put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand: and they bowed the knee before him, and mocked him, saying Hail King of the Jews! And they spit upon him, and took the reed, and smote him on the head. And after that they had mocked him, they took the robe off from him, and led him away to crucify him. And then they were come unto a place called Golgotha, that is to say, a place of a skull. They gave him vinegar to drink mingled with gall: and when he had tasted therefore, he would not drink. And they crucified him, And set up over his head his accusation written....Then where there two thieves crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left. And they that passed by reviled him, wagging their heads. And saying, Thou destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself. If thou be the son of God come down from the cross, Likewise also the chief priests mocking him, with the scribes and elders said. He saved others; himself he cannot save. If he be the King of Israel, let him now come down from the cross and we will believe him. He trusted in God; let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he said, I am the Son of God. The thieves also, which were crucified with him, cast the same in his teeth. Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour. And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud; voice, saying, ELI, ELI, LAMA SABACHTHANI? That is to say, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? Some of them that stood there, when they heard that said, This man calleth for Elias. And striaght way one of them ran and took a spunge, and filled it with vinegar, and put it on a read, and gave him to drink. Jesus, when he had cried again with a loud voice. yielded up the ghost, (XXVII, 11-14, 22, 26-31, 33-35 37-48, 50).

- C.—Those wicked people treated Jesus very badly indeed, But Jesus was also to blame, since he pretended to be the Son of God. Now God has no son, nor is He the father of any one, because if this be the case. He would also be the father-inlaw, brother-in-law, etc., of some one. Besides, when the governor asked him "Art thou the king of the Jews, etc., he ought to have; told him what he knew to be the truth Had the miracles supposed to have been worked by him been true, he would have then come down from the cross and thereby converted them all. Again had he been the Son of God He too would have saved him. Had he been a seer, he would have refused to take the drink of vinegar and gall that was offered to him without tasting it He would have known its composition before-hand. Had he posseseed any. miraculous power, he would not have cried so much before he yielded up the ghost. This shows that a man may be ever so clever the truth will out. It is also clear that Jesus was a little better than other men of his time who where all savages. not possess any miraculous power nor was he the Son of God, nor was he an enlightened man, else he would not have suffered from mental anguish at the time of his death.
- 88. And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from haven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it. He is not here: for he risen as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay, And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them. saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet, and worshipped him. Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid: go tell my brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me. Then the eleven disciples went away into Galilee, into a mountain where Jesus had appointed them. And when they saw him, they worshipped him: but some doubted. And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth, I am with you alway, even up to the end of the world. (XXVIII. 2, 6, 9, 10, 16—18, 20.)

C.—Even these things being opposed to the dictum of knowledge and the laws of nature are not worthy of being believed in. Have not the Christians made God like a Tahsildar or a Collector when they believe that he had peons or messengers called angels who descended from heaven and were sent on errands hither and thither. Did Christ rise from the dead with the same body that had been buried. The Bible says that women held his feet and worshipped him, it was the same body which had been buried? Now that body had been buried for three days, we should like to know why did it not decompose? To say with his own lips that "all power is given unto me in heaven and earth" was a mere hoax (on the part of Christ). It is impossible that he could have met his disciples and talked with them, because if these things be true, why cannot any one rise from the dead now-a-days, and go to heaven with the same body?

We have so far briefly discussed the Gospel according to St. Matthew, next we shall discus the Gospel according to St. Mark.

(THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST: MARK.)

- 89. Is not this the carpenter. (VI. 3.)
- C.—Joseph was really a carpenter, and, therefore, Jesus (being his son was also a carpenter, and for years together he worked as such then he began to aspire to be a prophet. By and by he pretended to be the Son of God and those savages (around him) believed him to be such. No wonder then that he was so clever in dividing people, and in causing discord and dissentions among them.

(THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. LUKE.)

- 90. And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? None is good, save one that is God. (XVIII. 19.)
- O.—Whence have the Christians got this Trinity—the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost when Christ himself declares that none is good save one that is God.

- 91. He sent him to Herod. And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad: for he was desirous to see him of a long season, because he had heard many things of him: and he hoped to have seen some miracle done by him. Then he questioned with him in many words; but he answered him nothing.
- C.—Now this is not to be found in the Gospel of St. Matthew, hence the witnesses (St. Matthew St. Luke, etc..) disagree on this point, but all the witnesses ought to say the same thing (before their evidence can be trusted). IIId Jesus been possessed of intellegence and miraculous power, he would have answered Herod (when he questioned him) and also shown him some miracles. This shows that Jesus was neither an enlightened man, nor was he possessed of any miraculous power.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. JOHN.

- 92. In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him: and without him was not any thing made that was made. In him was life: and the life was the light of men. (1, 1-4.)
- C.—The Word could not have existed in the beginning without the speaker; and therefore to say that the Word was with God, is useless. The Word can never be God. Since the Word was with God in the beginning, neither of the two can be said to have existed prior to the other. The world could not have been made by the help of the Word unless the material cause (of the universe) also existed. The Maker could create the universe even without the Word by keeping quiet What was life and where was it? This verse, (In him was life, etc.,) would make the souls eternal (beginningless, and if they be eternal the statement of the Genesis which says "The Lord God breathed the breath of life into the nostrils of man" would be wrong. Is life the light of men alone and not of the animals and other living creatures.
- 93. And supper being ended, the devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray him. (XIII.)
- C.—Now this cannot be true, since if the Christians were asked, "(You hold) that the devil tempts all men. Who tempts the devil? If you say that the devil tempts himself, men can also be tempted by themselves; what has the devil to do with this (business) then? But if God be the tempter of the devil, the Christian God then is the greatest devil and He stands guilty of having tempted all men through him. Can God even do such things? Truth to tell, we should not wonder if those, who wrote this book (The Bible) and called Christ the Son of God, were devils, but neither this (book) can be the Word of God, nor its God the true God, nor Christ the Son of God.

- 94. Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you into myself; that where I am, there ye may be also. Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me. Ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also. (XIV. 1—4, 6, 7.)
- C.—Now reader mark the words of Christ! Are they a bit better then what the popes say to their dupes? Had he not set up this fraud, who would have been caught into his net? Has Christ got the monopoly of his Father? If He be under his control, he will no longer remain independent and consequently could never be God To say that no man cometh unto the Father but by me can never be true as God does not stand in need of any mediator. Had no one attained God before Christ? All this boasting about his Father's mansions and about his going to prepare a place for his followers and speaking with his own lips about his being the way, the truth and the life were nothing but a hoax and hence can never be true.
- 95. Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do because I go unto my father. (XIV. 12.)
- C.—Now if the Christians believe in Christ, why cannot they raise the dead and work other miracles. But if even with their faith in Christ they cannot work any miracles, it is certain that Christ too had wrought no miracles, since he himself says "He that believeth on me.....shall he do also," Has one lost his mental vision that he should believe in the miracles of Christ when not a single Christian can work a miracle?
 - 96. The only true God. (XVII.3.)
- C.—When He is the only true God, it is absurd for the Christians, to talk about three Gods. (The Father, the Son and Holy Ghost).

(THE REVELATION OF ST. JOHN, THE DIVINE).

Now reader mark! What wonderful things St. John tells us.

97. And they had on their heads, crowns of gold....And there were seven lamps of fire burning before the throne which are the seven Spirits of God. And before the throne there was a sea of glass like uuto crystal.....and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before and behind. (IV.4-6)

- C.—Now, is not the Christian heaven like a city and their God like a lamp of fire. Wearing of crowns of gold and other jewellery as well as the existence of such beasts as had 'eyes before and behind, is impossible. Besides, these beasts are said to have been lions, etc., now who can believe such things?
- 98. And I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals. Who is worthy to open the book and to loose the seals thereof? And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon. And I wept much because no man was found worthy to open and read the book neither to look thereon. (V. 1—4.)
- C.—What a fine picture of the Christian heaven! There are thrones, and throngs of men and a book sealed with many seals whom no man in heaven or on earth could open or look on; then, there was John who began to weep because 'no man was found worthy to open and to read the book.' Upon this an elder tells him that Christ is able to open it. As the proverb runs mens' 'Songs are sung in praise of one whose marriage it is,' all these mighty things are told of Christ, in order to magnify him. But they have no legs to stand on.
- 99. And I beheld, and, lo, in the midst of the throne and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God sent forth into all the earth. (V. 6.)
- C.—Now, look at the imaginary character of St. John's dream! In that heaven there are only Christians, four beasts and Christ, but none else. It is very strange that while on earth Christ had only 2 eyes and no trace of horns, but in heaven he got seven eyes and seven horns, which are really the seven spirits of God! What a pity, the Christians have accepted such nonsense (as revelation). They ought to have used a little sense anyhow.
- 100. And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of odours, which are the prayers of saints. (V. 8.)
- C.—We wonder when Christ was not in heaven whom did these poor beasts and Twenty-four elders, etc., worship by burning incense and lighting lamps and offering food (eatable):

performing arti.* Now the Protestant Christians condemn idolworship, whilst their heaven is the veritable home of idolatory.

- 101. And I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts saying Come and see. And I saw, and Lehold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went fourth conquering, and to conquer. And when he had opened the second seal, I heard the second beast say, Come and see. And there went out another horse that was red: and power was given to him that sat thereon to take peace from the earth,....and when he had opened the third seal,....and to a black horse,....and when he had opened the fourth seal,... and behold a pale horse, and his name that sat on him was Death...(VI. 1—5, 7—8.....)
- C.—Now are not these tales more absurd than those of the Puránas? How could horses and riders be contained in the seals of a book? Those who have accepted even the dilirious mutterings of John as truth are the very embodiments of ignorance.
- 102. And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellow servants also and their brethern, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled. (VI. 10, 11.)
- C.—The Christians, being handed over to a Judge who is absent from the station and is on tour, will no doubt cry aloud for justice, but he that accepts the Vedic faith shall not have to wait at all for justice. Will the Christians tell us if the court of God is closed now-a-days and no justice is being done. Are the judges sitting idle now? The Christians' God can also be easily led, since on their request He begins to avenage them on their enemies. They are of a very vindictive nature because even after death they avenge themselves on their enemies. It seems they have not the least forbearance and where there is no forbearance, misery and sorrow knows no bounds.
- 103. And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. (VI. 13, 14.)

^{*} It is the name of a ceremony performed by Indian Idolators in adoration with a lamp.—Tr.

- O.—It is because, St. John the Divine was an ignorant man that he talked such nonsense. The stars are planets spheres how can they all fall on our earth, and why will the solar attraction let them shift hither and thither out of their orbits? Did he think that the heaven was like a mat (that it could be rolled)? *It is a formless thing hence it can neither be rolled nor gathered together. This shows that John and the like were all savages what could they know about these things?
- 104. And I heard the number of them which were sealed: and there were sealed an hundred and forty and four thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel. Of the tribe of Juda were sealed twelve thousand. (VII. 4, 5.)
- C.—Is the Biblical God the Lord of the tribes of the Israel alone or is He the Lord of the whole Universe? Had He not been only their Lord He would not have sided with those savages alone. He always helped them only, did not even take the name of any other tribe or nation. Hence He is no God. His sealing men of the tribes of Israel, betrays the finitude of his knowledge and power. Or it (may be) was all John's false-conception.
- 105. Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple (VII. 15.)
- C.—Is not this the crudest form of Idolatory. Does it not show that the Biblical God is localised and embodied like a man? It seems that the Christian God does not at all sleep during the night because had it not been so, He would not have been worshipped during the night, or if He did sleep His sleep must have been very much disturbed during the night but if He worked day and night He must be very miserable and afflicted with diverse diseases.
- a golden censer: and there was given unto him much incense. And the smoke of the incense, which came with the prayers of the saints, ascended up before God out of the angel's hand. And the angel took the censer, and filled it with fire of the altar, and cast it into the earth: and there were voices, and thunderings, and lightnings, and an earthquake. (VIII. 3, 4, 5.)
- C.—Now even in (the Christian heaven) there is an altar, incense is burnt, lamps lighted, eatables offered, and trumpets sounded before the altar. Is their heaven in any way less ostentatious than a temple of Vairágees? If any thing, there is more pomp and show there.

It is that, the word heaven has been rendered by the translators of the Bible into Akasha, which is a formless substance

- 107. And the third part of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up. (VIII 7.)
- C.—Well done, ye Christian seer! This God, His angels, the sound of trumpets and the final dissolution of the world—all this looks more like a Children's play.
- 108. And the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of the bottomless pit. And he opened the bottomless pit; and there arose a smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit. And there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth: and unto them was given power, as the scorpians of the earth have power. And it was commanded them.....only those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads......they should be tormented five months......(IX. 1—5.)
- C.—Did the stars, as soon as they heard the sound of the trumpet, fall on these very angels and into the very heaven since they have not fallen on the earth? Had God kept that pit and reared those locusts for the day of dissolution? Those locusts must be able to see, to read the seals in order to find out whether those men were to be hurt or not. All this is meant to deceive the poor simpletons and frighten them into accepting the Christian religion, in other words, they are led to think that if they did not embrace Christianity they will be tormented by locusts. Such things can flourish in an unenlightened country but not in Aryávarta (India). Can it be anything like dissolution?
 - 109. ... Were two hundred thousand: (IX 16)
- C.—Now where does such a vast number of horses graze and stay in heaven? What a large amount of dung there would be and what an amount of foul gases it must give rise to? We Aryas say good bye to such a heaven, such a God and such a religion. It will be a very good thing if the Christians will also, through the grace of the Almighty God, be freed from the shackles (of the Christian religion).
- 110.And he set his right foot upon the sea, and his left foot on the earth. (X. I, 2.)
- C.—Now are not these tales of the Biblical angels even more fanciful than those of the Puránas and story tellers?
- 111. And there was given me a reed like unto a rod: and the angel stood, saying, Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein. (XI. 1.)
- C.—Let alone the earthly temples even in the heaven of the Christians, temples of God are built and measured. Their teachings are as absurd as their heaven. Take for instance the Lord's Supper. In it the Christians eat bread and drink wine imagining them to be Christ's flesh, and blood. Again, to keep i nages of Cross in the Churches is nothing short of Idolworship.

- 112. And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament: (XI. 19.)
- C.—The temple (of God) in (the Christian) heaven perhaps remains generally closed. It is but occasionally opened Can there even be a temple of God? The All-pervading Supreme Spirit as described in the Vedas can have no temple, but the God of the Christian. Who is embodied can have a temple be it on this earth or in heaven. Just as trumpets are sounded and tintinabulatory noise made in the temples here, the same is true of the Christian heaven. It must be only very occasionally that the Christians see the ark of testament. No one knows what the object of keeping it there is. The fact is that all these things are done to tempt men.
- 113. And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and cried upon her head a crown of twelve stars. And she being with child, travailing in birth and pained to delivered. And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads, And his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth. (XII. 1—4.)
- C.—Oh! what big yarns (St. John has spun)! The poor woman cries even in the Christian heaven but no one takes pity on her or does any thing to relieve her pain. What a long tail that dragon must have had that cast one third of the stars of the heaven on the earth? Now this earth is very small compared with the stars that are very big spheres. Our earth could not support even one of them. We can, therefore, rightly infer that one-third of the stars of the heaven must have fallen on the house of the writer of this book and that dragon also, that had such a long tail that it drew one-third of the heaven and did cast them to the earth, must have lived in the house of the same.
- 114. And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon: and the dragon fought and his angels. (XII. 7.)
- C.—Whoever goes to the Christian heaven must greatly suffer on account of wars going on there. Let us bid farewell to such a heaven. This earth is as good as the Christian heaven? The place where wars are constantly raging and peace is conspicuous by its absence, suits the Christians nicely.

- 115.—And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world. (XII. 9.)
- C.—Did not the Satan, when he was in heaven, deceive men? Why did not (God) imprison him for life or put him to death? Why was he cast down on the earth? If the devil deceives the whole world, who is his tempter? If he has tempted himself then men can also be tempted by themselves, without his help. But if God be his tempter, such a being can never be God. It seems that even the Christian God feared the Devil, since if God be more powerful than he why didn't He punish him as soon as he sinned. The power of the Christian God in this world is not even a thousandth part of the power of Devil, hence it is very likely that the Christain God was quite helpless to prevent him from making mischief. He is not like the present day Christian-rulers who punish criminals such as dacoits and burglars as soon as possible. Who is then so foolish as to renounce the Vedic religion and accept, instead, the false religion of the Christians?
- 116. Woe to the inhabiters of the earth and of the sea for the devil is come down unto you. (XII. 12,)
- C.—Is the Christian God the Lord and Protector of that place (heaven) alone? Is not He the Lord and Protector of the earth and men and other living creatures thereon as well? If He be the King of the earth also why has He not been able to kill the Devil? That Devil goes and deceives every one and yet He does not prevent him from doing so. The fact seems to be that there is one good God and another (more) powerful and wicked God.
- 117.And power was given unto him to continue forty and two months. And he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme His name and His tabernacle and them that dwell in heaven. And it was given unto him to make war with the saints, and to overcome them: and power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations. (XIII. 5, 6, 7)
- C.—Is not He, that sends the Devil and a beast etc, to tempt the inhabitants of the earth and gives him power to make war with the saints, more like the ring leader of a party of robbers? Such a thing can never be done by God or His devotees.
- 118. And I looked, and lo, a Lamb stood on the mount Sion, and with him an hundred forty and four thousand having his Father's name written in their foreheads (XIV. 1.)
- C.—Now, reader mark! God lives on the mount Sion and so does Jesus Christ, His son, with his Father. How were 4,000 man counted? Are there only 1,44000 inhabitants of the heaven?

What about millions of the Christians who had not had God's soul on their foreheads? Have they all gone to hell? The Christians ought to go to the mount Sion and see if Christ's Father and His army are there? If they be there, what is written in the Bible regarding them is true, otherwise it is all false. If they came there from some other place, one should like to know why they came. If it be said that they all came down from heaven, were they birds that flew up and down? If God does go up and down, He is more like a magistrate who has very often to go on tour. He cannot, in that case, be one, two or (at the most) three. His number ought to be innumerable, since there ought to be at least one God for one such planet as our earth; one, two or three Gods would not suffice to administer justice to the inmates of the innumerable (solar systems) or be able to be present in all places at the same time.

- 119. Yea, said the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them. (XIV. 13.)
- C—Now reader mark! The Christian God does say that the works of man will follow them; in other words, they shall reap the fruits of their deeds, but they (the Christians) say that Christ will take on himself the sins of all and therefore hey shall be forgiven. Now the wise can decide whether what God says is right or what the Christians tell us. Both can never be right (when their statements are contradictory). One of them ought to be wrong, be it the Christians or their God? We don't care which.
- of God. And the winepress was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the winepress, even unto the horse bridles, by the space of a thousand and six Hundred furlongs. (XXIV 19, 20).
- C.—Now, are not their yarns even bigger then those of the Puranus? The Christian God must suffer terribly when he is in a fit of anger. Is his wrath water or some other fluid that winepresses, are full of it. It is impossible for blood to flow for "the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs," as it coagulates at once on coming in contact with air. How can it, then, flow. Hence such things are false.
- 121. And after that I looked, and, behold, the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened: (XV.5).
- C.—If the Chistian God was an All-knowing God, what was the business of the witnesses there, since He would have known everything by His Omniscience. It makes it positively clear that the Christian God is not Omniscient. Can such a being as man who is possessed of finite knowledge do the works of the God? No, never, never. Many impossible things are told of angels in - this book. No one can believe them to be true. The book is so full of such absurdities that it is useless to dwell any, longer on the subject.

- 122.....God hath remembered her iniquities. Reward her even as she rewarded you, and double unto her double according to the works: (XVIII. 5, 6.)
- C.—Now, clearly the Christian God is unjust, for justice consists in awarding reward or punishment in accordance with the nature or extent of one's deeds, virtues of sin; it is unjust to inflict punishment or bestow happiness out of proportion to one's deed. Why should not they who worship an unjust God, be themselves unjust?
- 123. For the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready. (XIX. 7.)
- C,—Now, behold! Even marriages are celebrated in the Christian heaven, since God Himself celebrated the marriage of Christ there. Will the Christian please tell us who are His father-in-law, mother-in law, brother-in-law, etc. How many children were born of that marriage, since the loss of reproductive element causes loss of strength and energy in its turn, causes decay of mental faculties, and shortness of life. Hence Christ must have died by this time. Anything that is the result of combination of different substances must disintegrate into its component parts. The Christians having put their faith in Christ, have deluded themselves, and who knows how long they will continue to do so.
- C—It was with the utmost difficulty that the Devil was caught and kept imprisoned for 1000 years. Will he not again deceive the people when he is set free again! Such a wicked individual ought to have been imprisoned for life or put to death. But the fect is that this is a mere delusion of the Christians. There is no such thing as a Devil. They have simply devised this method to frighten people, and thereby ensure them in their net. Just as a scoundrel said to some simple people: "Come with me, and I shall show you the god Narayana." He had previously placed a man in some lonely spot in a bush, in such a position that he appeared to have four arms. He told them that when he asked them to open or to close their eyes they should do to. Whosoever disobeyed him will lose his eyesight, Then the where that four-armed man could be seen he ordered them to look in front, and in the next moment told them to shut their eyes. When the four-armed man had hid himself in the bush, he asked them to open their eyes again and said, behold! You have all seen Náráyana. The same is true of the quakery of the religionists. Hence one should do his best not to fall in their trap.

- 125......From, whose face the earth and the heaven fled away; and their was found no place for them. And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened: and another book was opened, which is the look of life: and the dead were Judged which were out of those things written in the books, according to their works. (XX. II, 12.)
- C.—Now, don't all these things look childish? How can the heaven and the earth fly away? From whose face 'did they fly away? What did God and His throne rest on? God must be sitting or standing when the dead were made to stand before Him. Does God conduct His business in the same way as is done in a Court of Law or in a shop where books or other documents are required to settle disputes or accounts. Were entries made into the books concerning the works of souls by God or His agents? Through belief in such (absurd) things the Christians have called a being God who is no God, and refused to acknowledge the true God, as God.
- 126. And there came unto me one of.....talked with me, saying Come hither I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife. (XXI. 9.)
- C.—Christ Got a very good wife indeed in the (Christian) heaven! He must be enjoying himself. Other Christians too who go there will most likely get wives and have children. Should the place get over crowded it must also cause disease and kill some of the inmates. It is good to say good-bye to such a heaven from a respectable distance.
- 127......And he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs. The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal. And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of the angle. And the building of the wall of it was of jasper: and the city was pure gold, like unto clear glass. And the foundations of the wall of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper; the second, saphire; the third, a chalcedony; the fourth, an emerald; the fifth, sardonyx; the sixth, sardious; the seventh, chrysolyte; the eighth, beryl; the ninth, a topaz; the tenth, a chrysorprasus; the eleventh, a jacinth; the twelfth, an amethyst. And the twelve gates were twelve pearls; every several gate was of one pearl: and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass. (XXI. 16—21.)

- C.—Mark reader! This is the description of the Christian heaven. If the Christians, after death, are reborn (in that city) how shall even such a big city be able to contain them all since there is immigration into the city but migration from it is nil? As regards the city being made of precious stones and pure gold, this is a mere hoax to mislead the ignorant people and thereby ensnare them. We can believe about the length and breadth since there is noting impossible in it, but how could it be 12,000 furlongs, high? It is although false and a mere invention (of the writers of the Bible). Where could such pearls have come from? Perhaps from the water jar in the house of the writer himself! This yarn out does the biggest Puranic yarns.
- 128. And there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination or maketh a lie.... (XXI—27).
- C.—If this be the case, why do the Christians say that even sinners can go to heaven by turning Christians. This is not true. But if this be true, St. John, the Divine, shall never be able to enter heaven since he has told such lies in this book and even Christ could not have gone to heaven, since how can one burdened with the sins of innumerable sinners enter heaven where even a single sinner is not allowed to get in?
- 129. And there shall be not more curse: but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it; and his servants shall serve him: And they shall see his face; and his name shall be in their foreheads. And there shall be no night there; and they need no candle, neither light of the sun; for the Lord God giveth them light; and they shall reign for ever and ever. (XXII. 3—5).
- C.—What a fine picture, this, of the Christian heaven? Will God and the Lamb be always sitting on their respective thrones? Will the servants be always looking at his face? Now will you pray tell us, if your God has a face white like that of a European or black like that of a Negro or of some other colour like that of a Native of some other country? Even your heaven is like a prison, since all its inmates are not equality there is inequality in rank, and one is bound to live in that place consequently they must also suffer (from various sorts of inconveniences). Besides, he that has a face can never be an Omniscient God the Lord of all.
- 130. And behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me to give every man according as his work shall be. (XXII—12).

C.—If it be true that every man shall be rewarded according to his works, sins can never be remitted, but if they are remitted this statement of the Bible is false. If it be said that remission of sins is also recorded in the Bible the two statements are self-contradictory you should therefore cease to believe in it. How much shall we write? Christian Bible contains hundreds of thousands of things that are condemnable. We have only shown here a few absurdities; they will suffice to convince wise of the untruth of it. Except a few things, all others are false. Truth adulterated, with untruth can never remain pure and hence the works that contain it can never be acceptable. Besides in the acceptance of the Vedas the whole truth is accepted.

THE END OF CHAPTER XIII.

INTRODUCTION

TO

CHAPTER XIV.

N the fourteenth chapter of this book we have discussed the Mohammadan religion. Our Criticism against the Qoran is based directly on the teachings of the Qoran itself and not on those of any other book. Though differences of opinion with regard to the interpretation of certain words and verses do exist among the Mohammadans-they being split up into so many sects—, yet all are agreed as to the revealed character of the Qoran. The Qoran, which is written in the Arabic language, has been translated into Urdu by distinguished Mohammadan scholars. This translation was rendered into Bhasha and transcribed in Devanagari character and was then corrected by eminent Arabic scholars. Any one questioning the accuracy of our translation should first prove the translation done by those Mohammadan scholars to be incorrect before sitting down to find fault with us, The object aimed at by this criticism is to contribute to the elevation of the human race and to enable all men to sift truth from falsehood by giving them some idea of the teachings of various prevalent religions, as this will afford them opportunities for friendly discussions—so useful in helping men to point out their defects and to appreciate their merits,

It is not our purpose to falsely condemn this or any other religion. On the contrary what we aim at is that whatever is true should be recognised as such and whatever is false should be condemned as such, so that no one should be in a position to palm off untruth for truth or hinder the progress of truth. One is of course free to accept truth or for the matter of that even refuse to do so after it has been published; compulsion being impossible in such matters. Good men will, as a rule, after they have realized their merits and demerits, imbibe good qualities and reject bad ones and eradicate bigotry and prejudice wherever found. Who does not know something of the prodigious amount of evil that has been wrought by bigotry? The truth is that it is unworthy of a human being to injure others and to throw away his own chance of happiness in this uncertain and transient life.

In case the good reader comes across, in this criticism, anything contrary to facts, it is hoped he will point it out and we shall make the suggested changes if called for, since this criticism is designed to deminish bigotry obstinacy, jealously, malice, hatred, and (love of) useless wrangling and not to promote them. It is our first and foremost duty to avoid injuring others and to further the well-being of each other. We lay this criticism on the Mohammadan religion before all lovers of truth in the hope that they, after having gone carefully through it, accept what appeals to their reason and common sense and discard what is repugnant to them.

A word to the wise.

CHAPTER XIV.

OW we shall examine (the doctrines of) the Muhammadan religion.

- 1. (I begin this book) In the name of God, the Compassionate, the Merciful. (I*).
- C.—The Muhammadans claim that this Qoran is the Word of God, but it appears from the above passage that the author of this book was some person other than God, since had it been God himself, He would not have said " (I begin this book) in the name of God, etc." He would have, instead, said" I write this book for the instruction of mankind." If it be said that by beginning His book in this fashion He means to teach men as to what they should say when about to do a thing, it cannot be true, since some men will do even sinful deeds in the name of God and thereby bring disgrace on Him. If (the Muhammadan) God be merciful, why has He sanctioned that men should inflict great suffering on other creatures by killing them for their food. Are not these animals innocent? Are they not His creatures? He should have also advised men to begin only good deeds in His name and not evil ones. Thus the passage (under discussion) is quite ambiguous. Should even such sinful acts, as theft, adultery, untruthfullness in speech, be begun in God's name? Very likely it is on account of this ambiguity that the (Muhammadan) butchers, etc., mutter "In the name of God, the compassionate the most Merciful" moment of cutting the throats of cows and other animals.

It is clear then that the Muhammadans do begin even evil deeds in the name of God. The Muhammadan God can never be called Merciful, because He shows no mercy towards those animals (whose slaughter He sanctions). If the Muhammadans do not know the true meaning of this passage, its revelation is of no use to mankind. But if the Muhammadans interpret it differently, we should like to know what its plain meaning is.

- 2. Praise be to God, the Lord of all creatures, the Compassionate, the Merciful. (I. 1, 2)
- C.—Had the God of the Qoran been the Lord of all creatures, and been Merciful and kind to all, He would never have commanded the Muhammadans to slaughter men of other faiths,

^{*} This number refers to Sura or Chapter.—Tr.

and animals, etc. If He is Merciful, will He show mercy even to the sinners? If the answer be given in the affirmative, it cannot be true, because further on it is said in the Qoran "Put Infidels to sword," in other words, he that does not believe in the Qoran and the Prophet Mohammad is an infidel (he should, therefore, be put to death). (Since the Qoran sanctions such cruelty to non-Muhammadans and innocent creatures such as cows) it can never be the Word of God.

- 3. The King of the day of judgment. Thee only do we worship and of Thee do we beg assistance. Direct thou us on the right path. (I. 3, 4 and 5).
- C.—Does not God always administer justice. If He administers justice only on one particular day, He does wrong. It is right to worship Him and beg assistance of Him, but is this equally right to invoke His assistance even in doing evil deeds? Is the right path that of the Muhammadans alone and not of others? Why do not the Muhammadans tread the path which is really the right one? (We hope) they do not regard the path that leads to evil as the right one. If good is the same in all religions, the Muhammadan religion can have no superiority over others. If the Muhammadans do not believe that other religions are just as good as their own, they are prejudiced.
- 4. The path of those to whom Thou hast been gracious, not of those against whom Thou art incensed, nor of those who go astray. (I. 6, 7.)
- C.—Since the Mohammadans do not believe in the previous existence of the soul, nor that it ever did any deeds before, their God will be open to the charge of being partial by showing favour to some and disfavour to others, in as much as it is quite unjust to bestow happiness on men or subject them to pain and suffering without paying any regard to their merits and demerits. It is also against the nature (of God) to unreasonably look at some with mercy and at others with disdain and anger. Indeed He cannot act arbitrarily. When the souls have done no good or bad actions in their previous lives, is it not unfair that some should receive blessings while the others not. The commentry on this verse says: "God Himself made the people repeat this verse with their own lips so that they should ever do so in future" If this be the case, God Himself must have taught them even the alphabet? Besides, how could they read this verse without knowing the alphabet. Or were they made to learn it by rote? If so, the whole of the Qoran must have been taught orally.

Now this book, which is so full of partiality and favouritism (to some), cannot be the Word of God. For instance, the Qoran having been revealed in Arabic, it was easier for the Arabs to learn it than for others. The Qoran would have been free from this defect, had it been revealed like the Veda in a language which is altogether distinct from all other languages and is the mother-tongue of any people, just as God, through his justice vouchsafed unto us all His Word, the Veda in Sanskrit which requires the same amount of exertion from persons of all nationalities to be mastered.

- 5. There is no doubt in this book; it is a direction to the pious who believe in the mysteries of faith, who observe the appointed times of prayer, and distribute alms out of what we have bestowed on them; and who believe in that revelation, which hath been sent down unto thee, and that which hath been sent down unto the prophets before thee and have firm assurance in the life to come: these are directed their Lord and they shall prosper. As for the unbelievers it will be equal to them whether thou admonish them, or do not admonish them; they will not believe—God hath sealed up their hearts and their hearing; a dimness covereth their sight and they shall suffer a grievous punishment. (II. 1—6.)
- C. Is it not arrogance on the part of God to praise His own book? The revelation of the Qoran is of no use, since the pious are already treading the right path without extrinsic aid, while the wicked are not directed by it. Does God provide (the Mohammadans) with the necessary cash to defray all their expenses out of His own treasury without any exertion on their part or paying heed to their merits and demerits? If He does. why does He not do the same for all, and why do the Mohammadans then work at all? If it is permissible to have faith also in the Bible, why do not the Mohammadans believe in that book in the same way as they do in the Qoran? But if they do, where is then the necessity for the Qoran to be revealed? If it be argued that the Qoran is more comprehensive than the Bible, it might be asked if God had forgotton to write any thing in the latter book. If He had not, it was useless for Him to reveal the Qoran. Besides we find that the Bible and the Qoran differ so little, in other words, they are at one with each other in most things, it is, therefore, reasonable to ask why the revelation was not sent down (once for all) in one (complete) book such as the Veda?

Should one believe in the last day alone? Are the Christians and the Muhammodans alone directed by the Lord? Are there no sinners among them? Should even the unrighteous among the Muhammadans and the Christians prosper, but not even the righteous among others? Does it not show want of justice

- and equity in God? Is it not an exparte decree to call those, who do not profess to believe in the Islam, infidels? If God hath sealed their hearts and their hearing and this leads them to commit sin, they are not to blame. The fault lies at the door of God Himself. This being the case, why should some suffer while others enjoy happiness? Thus the human soul cannot be held responsible for its sinful or virtuous deeds since it cannot be said to be free agent.
- 6.—There is an infirmity in their hearts and God hath increased that infirmity (II. 9.)
- C.—Well Did God increase their infirmity, while they were innocent? Did He not have the least pity on them? They must have suffered terribly indeed. Is not this act more devilish than that of the Devil? To seal their hearts and to increase their infirmity could never be the work of God in as much the increase of infirmity is the result of one's own sinful actions.
- 7.—Who hath spread the earth as a bed for you and the heaven as a covering. (II. 20.)
- C,—Well! Can the heaven be a covering for any thing? Now does it not show ignorance (of the author of the Qoran)? It is absurd to believe in the sky being a covering. If the Mohammadans believe some kind of planet to be the heaven, it can only be the work of their own imagination.
- 8. If ye be in doubt concerning the revelation which we have sent down unto our servant, produce a chapter like unto it and call upon your witnesses, beside God, if ye say truth. But if ye do it not, nor shall ever be able to do it, justly fear the fire whose fuel is men, and stones prepared for the unbelievers. (II. 21, 22.)
- C.—Well! Is it impossible to produce a chapter like unto it? Did not Maulvi Faizi in the time of king Akbar compile a Qoran without making use of any dotted letters in it? What kind of fire is the fire hell? Is not the fire (of this world) to be feared? The fire of this world also consumes anything that may be put into it. Just as it is stated in the Qoran that stones have been prepared for the non-believers, likewise it is said in the Puránás that malechhas are doomed to hell. Now which of these two statements should be accepted as correct? Each of them goes to heaven according to his own belief, but according to the belief of the other he would go to hell. Poth of them are, therefore, false. The truth is that only the good and the virtuous will enjoy happiness, while wicked will be subjected to pain and suffering, whichever faith they may belong to.

Men of faiths other than that of the Puranas.—Tr.

- 9. But bear good tidings unto those who believe and do good works that they shall have gardens watered by rivers; so oft as they eat of the fruit thereof for sustenance, they shall say, this is what we have formerly eaten of; and they shall be supplied with several sorts of fruit having a mutual resemblance to one another. There shall they enjoy wives subject to no impurity, and there shall they continue for ever. (II. 2+.)
- C.—The paradise as described in the Qoran is in no respect better than this world, because the same sort of things that are obtainable here are to be had there; the only exception being that men here die and are born again, whereas this is not the case with them in paradise, the women also here do not continue to live for ever, where as in paradise they do so. We should like to know how these poor women pass their days till the day of judgment? Of course it will be alright if the Muhammadan God extends His helping hand to them and thereby they manage to pass their days with comfort, Tut! Tut! But this goes to show that the paradise of the Muhammadans justly resembles the Golok and the temple of the Gosains of Gokal wherein women are valued more than men. Similarly in the temple of God (paradise, women are valued and loved more than men, by God live for ever in heaven but not men, and they are also? The Mohammadan God surely lies in the danger of falling in love with these women!!!
- 10. And be taught Adam the names of all things, and then proposed them to the angles, and said, "Declare unto me the names of these things if ye say truth." God said, "O Adam, tell them their names" and when he had told them their names, God said, "Did I not tell you that I know the secrets of heaven and earth and know that which ye discover, and that which ye conceal."
- C.—Could God ever deceive His angels in this way in order to impress them with His Greatness? It was an act of sheer imposture on His part. No enlightened man could ever believe such a thing of God, nor would he display such hauteur. Was it by these means that God wanted to display His supernatural powers? Such quackery can only flourish among the savages but not among the civilized.
- 11. And when we said unto the angels, worship Adam, they all worshipped him except Eblis (Satan), who refused, and was puffed up with pride and became of the number of the unbelievers. (11. 32.)
- C.—This indicates that the Mohammadan God was not Omniscient i. e., He was not cognizant of the three periods of time—the past, the present and the future. Had He been Omniscient. He would not have created Satan either. Nor God was all-Powerful. Since when Satan deliberately refused to obey Him he could do nothing against him. Now if only one infidel (Satan), could trouble God so much as to render Him helpless what will He and His votaries do when they will have to cope with millions (according to their own belief) of infidels? God increased infirmity in some and led others astray. He must have learnt such things from Satan and Satan from God.

- 12 And we said, O Adam, dwell thou and thy wife in the garden, and eat of the fruit thereof plentifully wherever ye will; but approach not this three, lest ye become of the number of the transgressors. But Satan caused them to foreit paradise, and turned them out of the state of happiness wherein they had been, were upon we said, Get ye down, one of you shall be an enemy unto the other; and there shall be a dwelling place for you on earth, and a provision for a reason. And Adam learned words of prayer from his Lord and then came down on earth. (II. 33—35.)
- C.—This indicates that God was not Omniscient in as much as He one moment blesses Adam saying "Dwell thou.....in the garden and in the next turns them out. Had He been cognizant of the future, He would have blessed him at all? It also appears that God was powereless to punish Satan, the temptor.

Did God plant that tree for Himself or for others? If it was for others, He should not have prevented them (Adam and his, wife) from tasting the fruit thereof. God could never do such things, nor could they be ever found in His book. What were the words Adam learnt from God and how did Adam come down on the earth? Is the paradise somewere in the sky or on some hill? Did Adam fly down like a bird or fell down like a stone?

It appears that there is dust in paradise since Adam was made of dust. Angels too like Adam must also have been made of dust in as much as bodily organs cannot be made without dust (earthy material) but the body made of dust, must perish. Hence if the angels are also subject to death, one should like to know were they go after death. On the other hand if they do not die, they could not have been born, but if they were born, they would surely die. If this be the case, the statement of the Qoran that women in paradise live for ever cannot be valid in as much as they must also die. It follows, therefore, that all those who go to heaven will also die.

13 Dread the day wherein one soul shall not make satisfaction for another soul, neither shall any intercession be accepted from them, cannot but be perishable nor shall any compensation be received, neither shall they be helped. (II. 46)

- C.—Should we not dread the present? One should dread evil doing on all days. If it be true that no intercession will be accepted, how can this statement be reconciled with the belief of the Mohammadans that they will go to paradise through the intercession of the prophet? Does God help only those who are in paradise and not those who are in hell? If it is so, God is not free from prejudice.
- 14. We gave Moses the book and the miracles. We said unto them. Be ye changed into scouted apes. And we made them an example unto those who were contemporary with them and unto those who come after them and a warning to the pious (II. 50, 61)
- C.—If the book was given to Moses, the revelation of the Qoran becomes meaningless. Both the Qoran and the Bible assert that Moses was endowed with miraculous powers, but it is absolutely incredible, inasmuch as no man can work miracles now-a-days, and what cannot be done in our day, could never have been done in the past.

Moses must have resorted to hypocrisy in the same way as the selfish impose upon the credulity of the ignorant at the present time. Now why does not God endow any one with miraculous powers when both He and His devotees exist in our day. Were was the necessity of sending down Qoran when God had already given Moses a book? If the teachings of doing good and abstaining from evil are the same in the Bible and the Qoran, the sending down of two different books was nothing but a mere repetition of the same. Again, did God forget to record something in the book given to Moses that He had to send down another book later on?

Now either what God said regarding their (transgressors') being changed into scouted apes in order to make an exemple for others never came to pass or He must have resorted to trickery.

Whoever does such things cannot be God, nor can the book containing them be Divine in origin.

- 15.—So God raiseth the dead to life, and showed you his signs, that perdaventure ye may understand. (II. 67.)
- C.—If God raised the dead to life(in the past), why does He not do so now? Will they all remain lying in their graves till the day of judgment? Is your God on tour in these days (that He cannot find time to administer justice)? Are these (raising the dead, etc.,) the only proofs (of the existence) of God? Are not the earth, the sun, and the moon, &c., His signs? Is the wonderful design so manifestly seen existing in the world of no significance?

- 16. They shall ever continue to be the companions of paradise. (II. 75.)
- C.—As the soul is finite, its deeds—good or bad—cannot be infinite. It cannot, therefore, be sent to an everlasting hell or heaven. Should God do so, His justice will be destroyed, nor would He be considered an enlightened Being. If there is one judgment day for all souls, their virtuous and sinful acts must be equal. Human deeds being finite their fruits—reward or punishment—cannot be infinite. The Mohammadans believe that the world has been in existence for less than seven or eight thousand years. One should like to know if God was sitting idle before Creation and will do the same after the day of judgment. These are all childish things, because God is ever active and awards every soul reward or punishment in proportion to the nature and amount of its virtuous and sinful deeds. Hence what the Qoran teaches (on the subject) is not right.
- 17. And when we made a covenant with you that ye should not shed your own blood, nor expel one another from your abodes, then ye ratified it and yourselves were witnesses. Then were ye the very persons who slew one another; and ye drove out a part of your own people from their abodes. (II. 78, 79.)
- C.—Is the making of covenants the work of man, possessed of finite powers, or of God? God being Omniscient cannot behave like an ordinary man. Now what kind of virtue is this to consider it worng to shed he blood of one's brethren or to dipsossess them of their houses, but to regard it commendable to shed the blood of others and dispossess them of their houses? It is merely the result of folly and prejudice to believe in such things. Did not God know it beforehand that men would act against their covenant? It appears from this that the Mohammadan God has many attributes in common with the God of the Christians and that the Qoran is not an independent book in itself, and with a few exceptions it is a mere echo of the Bible.
- 18. These are they who purchase this present life at the price of that which is to come: their torement shall not be lightened, neither shall be helped. (II. 80.)
- C. Can God ever act so jealously and malevolently? Who are those whose sins will be remitted or who will be helped? If they are sinners whose sins will be remitted without any punishment being inflicted on them, then God's justice will be

- destroyed. If their sins will be remitted after they have undergone punishment for them, the man referred to in the verse will have also to suffer punishment for their sins. But if the remission of sins refers to those men who are pious, they by virtue of their pious life have no sins to be remitted, what will God remit then? One naturally infers from this that whoever uttered these words was not an enlightened person. In fact, the righteous and the unrrighteous should be awarded reward—happiness—or punishment—sorrow and suffering—according to the nature of their deeds—virtuous or sinful.
- 19. Moreover, to Moses gave we "The Book" and we, raised up apostles after him; and to Jesus, son of Mary, gave we clear proofs of his mission, and strengthened him by the Holy Spirit. So oft then as an apostle cometh to you with that which your souls desire not, swell ye with pride, and treat some as imposters, and slay others. (II. 81.)
- C.—When the Qoran bears witness to this that God gave the book of law to Moses, it is incumbent on the Muhammadans to believe in it. All the defects found therein will, therefore, be regarded as those of the Moslim religion itself. Again, what is said about the miracles is absurd. The story of miracles seems to have been concocted with a view to play upon the credulity of simple and ignorant people. All things which are against the laws of nature are false. If miracles could be wrought in those days, why can't they be done now-a-days? If no miracles can be worked now, it is certain that none were wrought in days gone by.
- 20. Although they had before prayed for victory over those who prayed not—yet when that Qoran came to them, of which they had knowledge, they did not recognise it. The curse of God is on the infidels!—(II. 83).
- C.—You call men professing other religions infidels, while they do the same to you, and their God curses you in the same way. Now will you please tell us which of the two should be considered right and which wrong? On reflection it is clear that there are errors in all creeds.
- 21. Who so is an enemy to God or his angels or to Gebriel, or to Mechael, shall have God for his enemy, for verily God is an enemy to the infidels.—(II. 92).
- C.—Where does this host of partners come from, if, as the Mohammadans say, God is one without a partner? Is he who is an enemy to others also an enemy to God? This can never be true, since God is an enemy to none.

- 22: And say forgiveness; and we will pardon you your sitts, give an increase to the doers of good.—(II, 55).
- C.—Does not this (so called) Divine teaching encourage people to live sinful lives? Why should one fear sin when he is given the promise of redemption? He that gives such a promise cannot be God, nor can a book that inculcates such a doctrine be the Word of God. God can never do injustice, but if He pardons the sinner, He renders Himself unjust.
- 23. And when Moses asked drink for his people, we said, "strike the rock with thy rod;" and from it there gushed twelve fountains.—(11.57).
- C.—Now can any one (except the Mohammadan God) utter such impossibilities. It is absolutely impossible to believe that twelve springs could gush forth on striking a rock with a rod, unless it had been hollowed out in the centre and filled with water and twelve holes bored therein.
- 24. But God will show His special mercy to whom He will.—(II. 99).
- C.—Does God show His special mercy to those who do not deserve it? If He does, He works great mischief, for all men will become indifferent to the practice of virtue. No one will then lead a virtuous life and hate sin, since His mercy depends upon His (arbitrary) will and not upon one's deeds.
- 25. People may not, out of malice, try to turn you away from your religion, for there are among them many a friend of the faithful.—(II. 110).
- C.—Now behold! God Himself put them on their gaurd lest the infidels should turn them away from their faith. Is not God Omniscient? Such things cannot be true of God.
- 26. Whichever way ye turn, there is the face of God. (11. 109).
- C.—If this is true, why do the Mohammadans turn, their face towards Qibla (i.e., the sacred Mosque at Mecca)? If it be argued that they have been commanded to do so, we answer that they have also been permitted to turn their face in whatever direction they choose. Now which of these two (contradictory statements) should be held to be true. If God has a face, it can only be in one direction and not in all directions at one and the same time.
- 27. Sole Maker of the Heavens and the Earth! And when He decreeth a thing, He only saith to it, "Be," it is. (11.111).

C.—Now who heard God when He said "Be"? Whom did He address that word and what came into being? Where from did this world come into existence when it is written in the Qoran that nothing but God existed before Creation? No effect can be produced without a cause. How could He have then created this vast universe without a (material) cause. You cannot even make one leg of a fly, how can you then believe that God created this world by the flat of His Will.

Mohammadans.—God is Almighty. He can do whatever He wills.

- C.—What does the word Almighty mean?
- M.—It means that He can do whatever He likes.
- C.—Can He create another God? Can He die? Can He become ill, ignorant or destitute of knowledge?
 - M.—No, He cannot.
- C.—It is proved then that God cannot do anything against His Own nature, attributes and characteristics or against those of others (the matter and the soul). Three things are essential for the production of an effect:—
 - (1). The (efficient Cause) Maker, such as the potter in the case of a pot.
 - (2). The Material Cause, such as clay.
- (3). The instruments wherewith to make an object like a pot Now just as the potter, clay, and the necessary instruments must exist before the pot can be manufactured, likewise, God, and prakrati—the material cause of the Universe—with their inherent nature, attributes and characteristics must have existed before this Universe came into being. Hence what the Qoran says on Creation is altogether absurd.
- 28. When we decreed that the Kaba is sacred, you should go to Abraham's place for prayers.—(II. 117.)
- C.—Had not God appointed any sacred place before He sanctifie! Kibi? If He had, where was the necessity of consecrating Kaba? But if He had not, it is indeed a pity that those who were born before that period had to go without a holy place. Perhaps it had not struck Got to consecrate a place like Kaba before that.
- 29. And who but he that hath debased his soul to folly will mislike the faith of Abraham, when we have chosen him in this world, and in the world to come he shall be of the just. (II. 124.)

- C.—Now can it ever be true that he who does not like the faith of Abraham is a fool? Why did God choose Abraham alone (as the founder of the true faith)? If He did so on account of his being very religious, there were many others who were as religious as he, why did He not choose them as (His Prophets)? But if He chose him because he was irreligious. He acted unjustly. It is quite true though that it is only the righteous who are loved by God and not others.
- 30. We have seen thee turning towards every part of Heaven; but we will have thee turn to Kibla which shall please thee. Turn then thy face towards the sacred Mosque, and wherever ye be, turn your faces towards that part. (II. 139.)
- C.—Now is this trivial idolatry? We should think, it is the crudest form of idolatry.

Mohummadan.—We Mohammadans are not image-worshippers but image-breakers, because we do not believe that Kibla is God.

- C.—They too, whom you call image-worhippers, do not regard the image as God. They profess to worship God before the image. If you are image-breakers, why do you not break that big image called Kibla (the sacred Mosque).
- M.—Good! We have the authority of the Qoran in turning our faces towards the Kibla, while the image-worshippers have none in their Veda to worship images. We must obey God any how.
- C.—Just as you have the authority of the Qoran, the image-worshippers have that of the Puránas. As you believe the Qoran to be the Word of God, even so do they believe the Puránas to be the Word of God's incarnation, Vyás. The difference between the Pauránics and yourselves is this that you worship a big image, while they bow down before the smaller ones. Your case is just the same as that of a man who strains at a gnat but swallows a camel. Your Muhammad expunged the worship of small images from the Moslim faith, but introduced into it the worship of the sacred Mosque (at Macca) which is as big as a hill. Is this idol worship on a small scale? You could free yourselves from image-worship and the like evil parctices only by embracing the Vedic religion and not otherwise. Unless you give up the worship of your big image, you should feel ashamed of yourselves and abstain from condemning the worship of small images found in other faiths and purify your hearts by avoiding idolatry.
- 31. And say not of those who are slain on God's path that they are Dead, nay, they, are living! But ye understand not. (II. 149.)

- C.—Where is the necessity of slaying others and of being slain on God's path? Why do you not say plainly that all this is meant for accomplishing your selfish ends. You hold out this inducement to people that they may fight well and help you to gain victory over your enemies and to acquire wealth and power by looting others and thereby enable you to live in luxury and enjoy sensual pleasures.
- 32. God is severe in chastising Follow not the steps of Satan. He only enjoineth you evil and wickedness and that ye should aver of God that which ye know not. (II. 164, 165.)
- C.—Does your God punish the wicked and reward the virtuous, or does He show mercy to the Mohammadans and torture other? If the latter, He is no God. But if your God is not partial (to you), He will reward the virtuous and punish the wicked whatever religion they may profess. This being the case, the belief in the Qoran and in Mohammad (as the prophet of God) becomes unnecessary. Why did God create Satan-the enemy of the human race who has been tempting all mankind. Is He not cognizant of the future? If you say, He is but created Satan just to try man, it cannot be right, because only one who is possessed of finite knowledge would do such a thing; while One who is Omniscient is already aware of the good or evil deeds of the sole. Now if Satan tempts all mankind, who tempted Satan? If it be said that Satan tempts himself, why could not others tempt themselves? Where is then the necessity of supposing Satan to be the tempter of all mankind? If God was the tempter of the Devil, He was more devilish then the Devil. But such a thing could not be said of God. Whosever goes astray from the right path does so through evil company and ignorance.
- 33. But that which dieth of itself, and blood, and swine's flesh, and that over which any other name than that of God hath been invoked is forbidden you—(11, 168.)
- C.—Now one should pause to think and realize that an animal whether it dies a natural death or is put to death, is a dead body all the same; of course there is a little difference but that difference counts for nothing so for as death is concerned. Swine's flesh is forbidden (but not human flesh), shall we then conclude that it is right to eat human flesh? Can it ever be commendable to torture animal to death in God's name? This casts a blot on the good name of God. Why does He suffer the animals to be tortured by the Muhammadans in the absence of sins committed in their previous lives (by those animals)? Is He not Merciful to them? Does He not love them as a father loves his children? God did not forbid the slaughter of such animals as are useful to man, and by failing to do it has proved Himself to be an enemy of the human race, and brought disgrace on Him by being guilty of having sanctioned the slaughter of (useful) animals. Such things can never be true of God or of His Word.

- 34. You are allowed on the night of the fast to approach your wives; they are your garment and ye are their garment. God knoweth that ye defraud yourself therein, so He turneth unto you and forgiveth you! now, therefore, go in unto them with full desire for that which God hath ordained for you; and eat and drink until ye can discern a white thread from a black thread by the daybreak. (II. 183.)
- C.—It seems that at the time the Muhammadan religion came into being or before that period some (Arab) must have asked a follower of the Puranas as to what was the mode of observing the Chándráyyan fast, the latter being ignorant of the true method of observing this fast, which consists in decreasing or increasing one mouthful of food at a time in accordance with the increase or decrease in the digits of the moon and taking one's food in the middle of the day, might have told him that one should take his food on seeing the moon. The Muhammadans have thus adopted the Chandrayanu fast in a corrupted form. But there is one great difference between the two fasts: sexual intercourse is forbidden in the Chandrayana but is permitted in the Muhammadan fast since it is said (in the Qoran) "go in unto them with full desire." Again, the Mohammadans are allowed to eat at night time as often as they like. Now what kind of fast is it to eat during the night and abstain from food during the day? It is contrary to the laws of nature to take one's food during the night and abstain from it during the day.
- 35. And fight for the cause of God against those who fight against you. And kill them wherever ye shall find them; and eject them from whatever place they have ejected you! for civil discord is worse than courage. Fight therefore against them until there be no more civil discord. (11. 186, 187, 189.)
- C.—Had not such teachings existed in the Qoran, the Mohammadans would not have been so cruel to the non-Mohammadans. They have greatly sinned by slaughtering the innocent. They hold that one who does not believe in the Mohammadan religion is an infidel, and that it is better to put the infidels to sword. They have always lived up to their professions in this respect. They have lost their political supremacy while "fighting" for the cause of their God. This religion does indeed teach cruelty toword the non-Mohammadans. Should theft be punished with

- theft.* Should we also break into the house of a person because he has stolen our property? Surely this is not right. If an ignorant man abuse us, shall we also abuse him in return? Such things can never be taught by God nor by one of His enlightened votaries, nor could they be found in His Word. They can only be the utterances of an ingorant and selfish man.
- 36. But God loveth not disorder. O believers! Enter completely into the true religion. (II. $\angle 02$, 204.)
- C.—Had not God loved disorder, why would He have prompted them (the Moslims) to fight and befriended the quarrelsome Mohammdans? Is God pleased with one only when he embraces the Mohammadan rellgion? If so, He is partial to the Mohammadans, He cannot, therefore, be the Lord of the Universe. This clearly shows that neither the Qoran is the Word of God, nor is the God described therein the true God.
 - 37. God is Bounteous without measure to whom He will, (II. 208.
- C.—Does He show His bounty without paying any regard to our good or evil deeds? If so, sin and virtue are alike, since. pleasure or pain (depend not upon our deeds, but) on the (arbitrary) will of God. Now it is such teachings that have encouraged the Mohammadans to deviate from the path of rectitude and live free lives. Of course those of the Mohammadans who do not believe in such things live virtuous lives.
- They will also question thee as to the courses of women, say: they are a pollution, separate yourself, therefore from women and approach them not, until they be cleansed. But when they are cleansed, go unto them as God hath ordained for you. Your wives are your field, go in, therefore, to your field as ye will. God will not punish you for taking your oaths falsely. (II. 222, 209, 224.)
- C.—Prohibition of sexual congress during menstration is commendable, but likening women to a field and giving permission to approach them whenever (the faithful) desired will make (them) lascivious. If God does not punish one for swearing falsely, all men would become liars. God will thus stand guilty of encouraging untruthfulness in speech.
- 39. Who is he that will lend to God a goodly loan? will double it to him again and again. (II. 246.)

^{*} The translation here is rather too literal but it is unavoidable. The author here questions the truth of the Mosaic law "Tooth for tooth and an eye for an eye-Tr."

- C.—Now why should God take a loan? Does He, who has created the whole universe, stand in need of taking a loan from men? No, Never. Only an ignorant man can say such things of God. Was his treasury exhausted or had He become bankrupt by engaging in trade and banking? Did He act like a business man when Ho promised to pay double of what was lent him? Such things are done only by one who is a bankrupt; or by one whose expenses exceed his income, but not by God.
- 40. Some of them believed, and som were infidels; yet if God had pleased, they would not have thus wrangled, but God doth what he will. (II. 254.)
- C.—Do all the quarrels that arise in the world proceed from Divine Will? Could God commit a sin if He willed? If he could, He is no God, because no good person, let alone God, will never do such a thing, in other words, he would never cause breach of peace or foment quarrels.
- 41. Whatever exists on the earth or in the sky is for Him; His chair has, as it were occupied all earth and space (II. 150)
- C.—God has created whatever exists on the earth or in the sky for the good of the soul and not for His own use, because He is called P'urnal'amu (i.e. one whose desires are suffilled.) He does not stand in need of any thing. He must be localised indeed when He has got a chair, but such a Being can never be God as He is All-pervading.
- 42. "Since God bringeth the sun from the East, do thou, then, bring it from the West." The infidel was confounded; for, God guideth not the evil doers. (Ii. 260.)
- C—O what an ignorance! The sun does not rise in the East and set in the West, nor does it rise in the West and set in the East. It moves on its own axis. Now it is positively certain that the author of the Qoran knew neither Astronomy nor Geography. If (the Mohammadan) God does not guide the evil doers, He is not needed at all, for the righteous always walk in the path of rectitude. It is only those who have gone astray that need guidance. It is a great mistake on the part of the God of the Qoran that He has neglected His duty.

^{1.} Hussain comments on this verse thus:—"A man went to Mohammad and said 'O prophet of God! What does God contract debt for?' Mohammad replied. 'In order to take you to paradise' The man added 'should you stand surety for Him, I would lend Him money.' There upon Mohammad stood surety for God and the fellow lend Him money.' Is it not strange that the fellow did not trust God but trusted Mohammad His prophet?

- 43. He said, "Take thou, four birds and draw them towards thee, and cut them in pieces; then place a part of them on every mountain; then call them and they shal! come swiftly to thee. (II. 262)
- C.—Now is not the Mohammadan God more like a juggler showing his tricks? Does His Godhead rest on such things? The wise will keep aloof from such a God, it is the ignorant alone who will be caught in His trap. (The Mohammadan) God will thus, instead of enhancing His reputation bring disgrace on Himself.
 - 44. But God guideth whom he pleaseth. (II. 274.)
- C.—If God guides whom He pleases, He might be misleading others with whom He is not pleased. He alone can be called God and an \acute{apta} (true teacher) who impartially guides all.
- 45. Whom He pleaseth will He forgive; and whom He pleaseth will He punish; for God is All-powerful. (II. 266.)
- C.—Does not God act like a tyrant when He does not forgive those who deserve forgiveness and forgives those who are not worthy of being forgiven? The soul should not be held responsible for its actions, if God makes one virtuous or wicked just as He pleases, nor should the soul, therefore, be endowed with happiness or afflicted with pain and suffering just as a soldier if he kills a person under the direction of his superior officer is not held responsible for his act.
- 46. Say: shall I tell you of better things than those prepared for those who fear God in His presence? There shall be gardens, beneath whose pavillions the rivers flow, and in which shall they abide for ever, and women of stainless purity, and acceptance with God; for God regardeth His servants. (III, 12.)
- C.—Now is it paradise or a brothel? Should we call such a Being, (as described in the Qoran) God or a libertine? No enlightened man can ever believe such a book to be the Word of God. Why does God show favouritism? Were the won en that live in paradise born here (in this world) and then went there, or were they never born at all? If they went there from here, why were they allowed to enter paradise before their husbands? Why did God violate His law of judging all pers ns on the last day for the sake of those women? On the other hand, if they were born there, how can they control their passions? But if they have got their husbands with them, how will God manage to provide the faithful with women when they enter paradise? Why does He not keep also men for ever there in paradise just as He Keeps women? This goes to show that the Muhammadan God is unjust and ignorant.

47. The true religion with God is Islam. (III, 17.)

- C.—Is God the Lord of the Mohammadans alone? Did not Divine religion exist at all thirteen hundred years back? It shows that the Oran is not the word of God, but of some bigot.
- 48. Every soul shall be paid what it hath earned, and they shall not be wronged. Say! O God, posesser of all power, thou givest power to whom thou wilt, and from whom thou wilt, takest it away! Thou raisest up whom thou wilt, and whom thou wilt, thou dost abase! In thy hand is good, for thou art over all things potent. Thou consentest the night to pass into the day and thou consentest the day to pass into the night. Thou bringest the living out of the dead, and thou bringest the dead out of the living; and thon givest sustenences to whom thou wilt, without measure. Let not beleivers take infidels for their friends, rather believers. Whoso shall do this, hath nothing to hope from God. Say; If ye love God, then follow me, God will love you, and forgive your sins, for God is Forgiving, Merciful.

(III, 21-24, 27.)

C.—If every soul shall be paid what it has earned, its sins cannot be forgiven. It will be unjust to forgive sins. If God gives power to the soul without its having done anything to deserve it, He will be guilty of injustice. Can one ever bring the dead out of the living and the living out of the dead, as the laws of God are unchangeable and inviolable.

Is it not sheer prejudice to call those, who do not profess Islam, infidels? That Being cannot be God who teaches that the Mohammadans should not associate even with good people of other faiths, while they may take even the wicked Mohammadans for their friends. One is therefore fully justified in inferring that this Qoran, its God and the Mohammadans are embodiments of bigotry and ignorance. The Mohammadans are therfore, groping in the dark. Now reader mark! How clever Mohammad is! He makes his God say in this verse that God will love those who follow Mohammad and even their sins will be forgiven. This shows that te heart of Mohammad was not pure. It appears that Mohammad (made or) had the Qoran made in order to serve his selfish interests.

- 49. "O Mary! Verily hath God chosen thee and purified thee and chosen thee above the women of the world!" (III. 33.)
- C.—Now how can we believe that God and His angels came down to talks with men in ancient times when they do not do so now-

- a days? If it be argued that then the people were very virtuous, it cannot be true. The fact of the matter is that at that time the majority of the people were uncivilized and ignorant, hence it was that such religions as the Chiristian and the Mohammadan, which are so opposed to the dictates of knowledge, took root and flourished. But now the people are enlightened, these hollow faiths cannot flourish; on the other hand, they are on the decline.
- 50. He then said to him "Be" and he was. The infidels played a trick with God and He played a trick with them, for, verily God is a great trickster. (III. 52, 50)
- C.—Whom did God order, since the Mohammadans do not believe that any thing but God existed before Creation and what came into being? The Muhammadans could never answer these questions even if they were to be born seven times, because no effect can come into being without a material cause. To believe otherwise is to deny that one's parents were the cause of his body.

He who cheats and plays tricks with others can never be God, he cannot even be called a gentleman.

- 51. Is it not enough for you that your Lord aideth you with three thousand angels sent down from on high? (III. 120.)
- C.—If God really aided the Mohammadans with three thousand angels in the past, why does he not help them now that their rule (in In lia and other countries) has greatly declined and is still declining? The real object of this verse is to tempt the ignorant and thereby ensuare them into the Muhammadan religion.
- 52. And help us against the unbelieving people. But God is your real Lord, and He is best of helpers. And if ye shall be slain or die on the path of God. (III. 141, 142, 151.)
- C.—Now reader mark the error of the Muhammadans! They pray for the destruction of those who differ from them in religious opinions. Is God such a simpleton that he will grant their prayer? If God is the best helper of the Mahammadans only, why should they fail in their undertakings? Besides, He seems to be passionately fond of them. If He is so partial (to the Muhammadans), He is not worthy of being worshipped by the righteous.
- 53. Nor is God minded to lay open the secret thing to you but God chooseth what he will of his apostles to know them. Believe therefore, in God and his apostles. (III, 174.)

- C—Why does this verse inculcate faith in Muhammad along with that in God, when the Mohammadans profess to believe in none but God, and hold that none is worthy of sharing homage with Him? Hence they cannot call God Incomparable. If it be argued that this verse only teaches that people should have faith in Mohammad as a prophet, we should like to know where is the necessity of Mohammad (being regarded as a prophet). If God cannot accomplish His desired object without making him His prophet, He is certainly powerless.
- 54. O ye believers! be patient, keep everything in its proper place and keep on fighting. Fear God that you may attain salvation. (III. 178).
- C.—The God of the Qoran and His prophet were both pugnacious. He who orders (his followers) to wage war is the real disturber of peace. Can one attain salvation by having nominal fear of God or by abstaining from fighting in an unrighteous cause? If the former, it cannot be true, but if the latter, it is perfectly right.
- 55. These are the frontiers of God's Empire. He who will believe in God and His apostle will go to paradise which has canals in it and this indeed is the one great aim of man. He who goes against the orders of God and His prophet, will be turned out of His frontiers. He will burn in everlasting fire and constant suffering shall increase his misery. (IV. 12, 13.)
- C.—Now (the Mohammadan) God Himself has made Mohammad His partner (in Divine honours, etc.) and has Himself declared this fact in the Qoran. God is so much attached to Mohammad that He has made him His partner even in paradise. It is useless to call the Mohammadan God Independent when He is dependent upon Mohammad for every little thing. Such things can never be found in a revealed book.
- 56. God truly will not do any one injustice even of the weight of a mote, and if there be any good deed, he will repay it doubly. (IV. 45).
- C.—Why does God repay good deeds doubly if he would not do injustice even of the weight of a mote? Why is He so partial to the Mohammadans? He would be unjust indeed if He were to award the soul reward or punishment out of proportion to its deeds.
- 57. When they come forth from Thy presence, a party of them broods by night over other than thy words; but God writeth down what they brood over. Desire ye to guide those whom God hath led astray? But for him whom God leadeth astray, thou shalt by no means find a pathway—(IV. 4, 90.)

- C.—Now God cannot be Omniscient, since He keeps a Day-book and a Ledger. But if He be Omniscient, why should He keep a memorandum. The Mohammadans hold that the devil is wicked, since he tempts all. One should like to know what is the difference between God and the Devil considering that God Himself leads the people astray. Of course there is this much difference that God is the greater Devil of the two, because the Mohammadans themselves aver that he that enticeth is the devil. Verily their own affirmation makes out their God a veritable Devil.
- 58. If they do not withhold their hands, sieze them, and slay them, wherever you find them. A believer killeth not a believer but by mischance, and whoso killeth a believer by mischance shall be bound to free a believer from slavery; and the blood money shall be made to the family of the slain believer unless they convert it into alms. But if the slain believer be of a hostile people, let him confer freedom on a slave who is a believer. But whoever shall kill a believer of a set purpose, his recompense shall be Hell, for ever shall he abide in it, God shall be wrathful with him—(IV, 04,—96.)
- C.—This is the height of prejudice. The Qoran enjoins on its believers to kill the non-Mohammadans but to spare the Mohammadans. If they kill their co-religionists by mischance, they shall have to make amends for it by freeing a believer from slavery, but if they kill non-Mohammadans even though it be through a mistake, they shall inherit Heaven.

Such teachings deserve to be utterly discarded. Such a book, such a prophet and such a religion do nothing but harm. The world would be better off without them. Wise men would do well to discard a religion so absurd and accept the Vedic faith which is absoluty free from error. The Mohammadans say that one kills a Mohammadan shall be condemned to a residence in hell; on the other hand, believers in other religions contend that a man attains to heaven by killing a Mohammadan, now which of the two should one believe to be true and which false? The fact is that all false creeds begotten of ignorance should be renounced, the Vedic religion alone deserving the allegiance of all—a religion which directs every human being to follow the footsteps of the righteous and to shun the path of the wicked.

59. But whosoever shall sever himself from the prophet after that "the guidance" has been manifested to him, shall follow any other path than that of the faithful, we will cast him into Hell. (IV. 113).

- C.—Now mark the prejudice of God and of His prophet! Mohammad like other men of his stamp, was well aware that if he did not stamp his religion with divine authority it would never flourish, nor would he or his followers be able to obtain pelf and power which might help them to live a life of ease and luxury. All this goes to show that Mohammad knew only too well how to compass his selfish ends and to deprive others of their due—a fact which proves that he was no well-wisher of humanity. Such a man can never command the trust and confidence of good and enlightened men.
- 60. Whoever believeth not in God and his Angels and his Book and his Apostles, and in the last day, he verily hath erred. (IV. 135.)

Verily, they who believed, then become unbelievers, then believed and again became unbelievers, and then increased their unbelief—it is not God who will forgive them, or guide them into the way. (IV. 131).

- C.—Can you ever now assert that God is one without a second? Is it not self-contradictory to call God Incomparable and yet at the same time believe that there are others who share Divine privileges with Him? Does not God forgive sins after He has done so three times? Does not God guide men after they have denied Him and His prophet more than three times? Even if all were to take advantage of the teachings of this verse, unbelief will multiply immensely.
- 61. Verily, God will gather the hypocrites and the infidels all together in Hell —(IV, 139.)

The hypocrites would deceive God, but He will deceive them! (IV. 141.)

Take not infidels for friends rather than believers. (IV. 148).

- C.—What proof is there that the Mohammadans will go to heaven and the non-Muhammadans to hell? He is indeed a fine God! May such a God as deceives others and is deceived by them always keep away from us. Let him associate with those that are hypocrites and cheats, because "Birds of the same feather flock together." Why should not they whose God deceives others be themselves cheats. Can it be right for any one to associate with a wicked Mohammadan and hate a good man who is other than a Mohammadan?
- 62. O men! Now hath an apostle come to you with truth from your Lord. Believe them. (IV. 168.)

God is a sufficient guardian. (IV. 169.)

- C.—Now does not the prophets share with God homage due to Him when men have been directed by the Qoran to have faith on the prophets. It is only because God is localized and not All-pervading that apostles come down from Him. Such a being can never be God. In one place it is written (in the Qoran) that God is All-pervading, while in another it is said that He is localised. This goes to show that the Qoran is the work of more than one person.
- 63. That which dicth of itself, and blood, and swine's flesh, and all that hath been sacrificed under the invocation of any other name than that of God, and the strangled, and the killed by a blow, or by a fall, or by goring and that which hath been eaten by beasts of prey is forbidden you. (V. 4.)
- C.—Are these the only animals and things that are forbidden? May be, it is permissible to the Mohammadans to eat other animals, creeping insects and ants, etc. From this it is clear that the Qoran is not the Word of God. It is a human work. Hence it cannot be believed in.
- 64. I will surely put away from you your evil deeds, I will bring you into gardens' neath which the rivers flow! And lend God a liberal loan, and I will send you to paradise.
- C.—It seems that the Mohammadan God must have been reduced to poverty, otherwise why would He have asked for a loan and tempted them by saying that He would free them from their sins and send them to heaven. It appears that Mohammad gained his selfish ends by defrauding others in the name of God.
- 65. He will pardon whom he pleaseth and chastise whom he pleaseth. He gave you what never before had been given to any human being. (V. 21, 23)
- C.—Just as Satan leads whoever he likes into sin, even so does the Mohammadan God. This being the case, it is God alone Who should go to heaven or hell, for, (according to the Mohammadan scriptures) He is the doer of all deeds—good or evil. The soul is not a free-agent (and hence it is not reponsible for its actions), just as it is the commander of an army who is responsible for whatever it does, in the matter of protecting some and killing others, under his orders and not the army.
 - 66. Obey God and obey the apostle. (V. 93.)
- C.—This goes to show that God is not "One without a second," hence it is absurd (for the Mohammadans) to believe that it is otherwise.

- 67. God forgiveth what is past; but however doth it again, God will take vengeance on him. (V. 96.)
- C.—The forgiveness of sin is almost as had as the sanction of its commission which encourages its further growth. A book that inculcates (the doctrine of) the reminission of sin can neither be the Word of God, nor the work of an enlightened author. It is, on the contrary, one that encourages sin. It is true though that the prevention of the further commission of sin can be secured by one's praying to God, repenting of his past conduct and by exerting himself to his utmost (to lead a virtuous life).
- 68 And is there any one more wicked than he who deviseth a lie of God, or saith "I have had a reveltion" when nothing was revealed to him? And who saith I can bring down a book like that which God hath sent down. (V. 93)
- C.—This shows that when Mohammad pretended to have had a revelation from God, some other imposter also declared that he too received heavenly massages, and claimed to be a prophet. Mohammad must have resorted to this device (i.e. the publication of the above verse) in order to defeat his opponent and increase his reputation.
- 69. We created you; then fashioned you; then said we to the angles. "Prostrate yourselves unto Adam," and they prostrated them all in worship, save Eblis! He was not among those who prostrated themselves To him said God: "What hath hindered thee from prostrating thyself in worship at my bidding"? He said "Nobler and I than he: me hast thou created of fire; of clay hast thou created him." He said "Get thee gone hence: paradise is no place for thy pride: get thee gone then, one of the despised shalt thou be." He said "Respite me till the day when mankind shall be raised from the dead," He said, "One of the respited shalt thou be." He said, "Now, for that thou hast cursed me to err, surely in thy straight path will I lay wait for Then will I surely come upon them from before, and from behind, and from their right hand, and from their left, and thou shalt not find the greater part of them to be thankful." He said, "Go forth from it, a scorned, a banished one! Whoever of them shall follow thee I will surely fill hell with you, one and all." (X. 10,—17.)
- C.—Now reader, follow attentively this dispute between God and the Devil. This Devil was an angel who was no better than a menial servant, even he could not be kept under control by God, nor could the Almighy purify his heart. On the top of this, God let the rebel who tempted all to commit sin go unpunished. God did indeed commit a great blunder (in doing so.) Now the Devil being the tempter of all and God being his tempter, it is clear that God is the greater Devil of the two, because the latter clearly says (to God) that He had led him astray. This goes to show that God is even destitute of purity and is the root of all evils. Only the Mohammadans could believe in such a God but no oti er enlightened men. The Mohammadan God is proved to be (finite, unjust and) embodied, since He talked (with angels, etc.) just like a man. This is the reason that the educated people do not approve of the faith of Islam.

- 70. Your Lord is God, who in six days created the Heavens and the Earth, and then mounted the throne. Call upon your God with lowliness and in secret. (VII. 52, 53.)
- C.—Can He, who creates the world in six days and rests on His throne in heaven, ever be an Omnipotent, and Omnipresent God? Being destitute of such attributes (as Omnipresence) He cannot even be called God? Is your God deaf that He can hear you only when He is spoken to (aloud)? All these things cannot be from God. Hence the Qoran cannot be the Word of God, He must have indeed got fagged when He had to rest on the seventh day after having created the world in six days. We wonder if He is still asleep or has awakened. If He is awake, is He there doing some thing or just strolling about and enjoying Himself.
 - 71. Lay not earth waste with deeds of licence. (VII. 52.)
- U.—This is indeed a good advice, but in other places (in the Qoran) the faithful have been directed to wage war against the infidels and even to slaughter them. Does not the Qoran now contradict itself? It appears that Mohammad must have adopted the first course when he was weak and the second one when he had gained power. The two teachings being self-contradictory cannot be true.
- 72. So he threw down his rod, and lo! it distinctly became a serpent. (V. 105.)
- C.—This goes to indicate that even God and Mohammad believed in such false things. If so, both of them were quite ignorant. The laws of nature can never be subverted just as no man can make the eyes and the ears do the work of other senses. This is mere jugglery.
- 73. And we sent upon them the flood and the locusts and the lice and the frog and the blood. Therefore we took vengeance on them and drowned them in the sea. And we brought the children of Israel across the sea. For the worship they practise is vain. (VII. 130, 132, 134).

- C.—Now behold! Is it not just like what an imposter does when frightens a man by saying that he will send snakes to kill him? Why is not God, Who is so bigoted that He drowns one nation in the sea in order to help the other to cross it, a sinner? Can there be any religion more false than one that daubs all teligions (other than itself), whose followers can be counted by millions, false and calls itself the only true one, since no religion can boast that all of its followers are good. It becomes only idiots to give an exparte decree. Has the religion founded on the Old testament become false or was it some other faith that has been called false? If it was some other faith, we should like to know what it was and by which name it is mentioned in the Qoran
- 74. Thou shalt not* see me. And when God manifested Himself to the mountain He turned it to dust! And Moses fell in a swoon. (VII. 139.)
- C.—What is perceptible to the eye can never be All-pervading. If He really worked such miracles (in the past) why does He not do so at the present time? Being altogether opposed (to reason) it is not worthy of being believed.
- 75. And think within thine own self of God, with lowliness and with fear and without loud spoken words, at even and at morn. (VII. 204.)
- C.—In one place the Qoran says that God should be spoken to aloud, while in another place it says that he should be addressed "without loud spoken words." Now which of the two shall we believe to be true and which false? Self-contradictory statements can only be made by one who is demented. Of course it does not matter much if one contradicts himself through mistake and then owns it.
- 76. They will question thee about THE SPOILS, say: The spoils are God's and the apostle's. Therefore, fear God, (VIII. 1)
- C.—It is very strange that those who plunder others and live by dacoity and teach others to do the same should still profess to be God, prophet and the faithful. These people with one breath plunder others and with the other talk of fearing God, and yet do not feel the least shame in declaring that their religious taith is the best. Can there be a man worse than one who through sheer obstinacy does not embrace the true Vedic religion?

^{*} There has been some mistake in the Bha'sha translation of this verse, since the word not is not there. Hence the criticism of the author cannot hold good.—Tr.

- 77. Cut off the uppermost part of the infidels. "I will verily aid you with a thousand angels, rank on rank." "I will cast a dread into the hearts of the infidels." Strike off their heads then, and strike off from them every finger-tip. (VIII. 7, 9, 2)
- C.—How destitute of compassion are God and His prophet who order that the heads of the infidels should be cut off. Is such a God, as commands the faithfull to put the infidels to sword, and sever their limbs (from their bodies) and aids them in this work, any better than Rávan, the cruel king of Ceylon? This command is the invention of the author of the Qoran and is not from God, but if it be from Him, may such a God remain at a respectable distance from us is our earnest prayer.
- 78. God is with the faithful. O ye faithful! Obey God and His apostle, O true believers, deceive not God and His apostle, neither violate your faith against your own knowledge. God laid a plot against them, and God is the best layer of plots. (VIII. 19, 23, 26 and 29).
- C.—Does God favour the Mohammadans? If so, He is unjust, because He is the Lord of all (and not of the Mohammadans only). Is your God deaf that He cannot hear you unless He is spoken to (aloud)? Is it not wrong to couple the name of the prophet with His name? Where is God's treasure that He should be so afraid of its being stolen? Is it right to steal (the wealth of) others barring that of God and His prophet? Only the ignorant and the wicked can teach such things. Why is not that God, who deceives others and associates with the deceitful, hypocritical, cunning and wicked? These things lead one to infer that the Qoran is not the Word of God. Its author must have been a hypocritical and deceitful person, otherwise such objectionable things would not have been found in it.
- 79. Therefore fight against them until there be no opposition in favor of idolatry and the religion be wholly God's. And know that whenever ye gain any spoils, a fifth part thereof belongeth unto God, and to the apostle. (VIII. 40, 12.)
- C—Who but the Muhammadan God would be so unjust in fighting and helping others to do the same and so active in causing breach of peace? Now look at this religion, which sanctions wholesale robbery for the benefit of the prophet! Are these people any better than thugs? God participates in the crime of robbery when He takes His share of the loot. He brings disgrace on Himself by favouring such dacoits. We are at a loss to understand whence came such a book, such a God and such a prophet in order to disturb the happy relations between different nations of the world and thereby inflict great suffering on them.

Had not such faiths flourished in the world, all would have lived in peace with each other.

- 80. And if thou didst behold when the angels cause the unbelievers to die! They strike their faces and their backs, and say unto them, "Taste ye the pain of burning"? Wherefore we destroyed them in their sins, and we drowned the people of Pharaoh. Therefore prepare against them what force ye are able. (VIII. 52, 56 62.)
- C.—Now-a-days Russia has trampled Turkey and England has taken possession of Egypt, and yet God and His angels have done nothing to help them! Have they gone to sleep? In the past God used to kill and drown the enemies of His votaries, but He does not help them now. This shows that He did nothing of the sort even in ancient times. How evil is the command which says that the faithful should do, as much as lies in their power, to inflict pain and suffering up on the Non-Mohammadans. Leave alone God, even a learned, righteous and tender-hearted man would not give such an order, and yet they (the Mohammadans) have the impudence to say that their God is Merciful and Just. It is on this account that the Mohammadan God is destitute of justice and mercy and the like good attributes.
- 81. O prophet! God is thy support and of such of the true believers who followeth thee. O prophet, lead the faithful to war; if twenty of you persevere with constancy, they shall twercome two hundred. Eat therefore of what ye have acquired, that which is lawful and good; and fear God: for God is Gracious and Merciful. (VIII 65, 66, 70).
- Now what kind of justice, wisdom or righteousness is it that one should support one's followers even though they perpetrate injustice? He, who causes breach of peace and himself fights as well helps others to do so, loots other people and yet calls the loot lawful, can never be Merciful and Compassionate. Leave alone God, such a thing can never be true even of a good man. Such things make it impossible for us to believe that the Qoran is the Word of God.
- 82. They shall continue therein for ev r: for God is a great reward. O true believers, take not your fathers or your bretheren for friends, if they love infidelity above faith. Afterwards God sent down his security upon his apostle and upon the faithful, and sent down troops of angels, which ye saw not; and be punished them who disbelieved: and this was the reward of the unbelievers. Nevertheless God will hereafter be turned unto whom He pleaseth. Fight against them who believe not in God. (VIII. 20, 12, 24, 25, 27.)

- C.—Now how can God be All-pervading if He lives near those who are in paradise? But if He is not All-pervading, He can neither be the Creator nor the Judge of the world. It is wrong to advise men to forsake their parents. Of course, one should not obey them if they advise one to do wrong, but all the same one should always serve them. If God was kind to the Mohammadans and sent down troops of angels to help them in the past, why does He not do so now? If He punished the unbelievers and "turned unto whom He pleased," why does He not do so at the present time? Could not God advance His faith without commanding His votaries to fight? We say good-bye to such a God! He is more of a showman than a God.
- 83. We await for you the infliction of a chastisement by God, from Himself, or at our hands.—(VIII. 53).
- C.—Do the Mohammadans constitute God's police that He siezes Non-Moslims either with His own hands or has them siezed by the hands of the Mohammadans? Are millions of other people displeasing unto God, and are Mohammadans, though they might be sinners, pleasing unto Him? If such is the case, the Mohammadan God resembles a veritable tyrant. It is strange that even sensible Mohammadans should believe in a religion which has no foundation to rest upon, and is opposed to reason.
- 84.—To the faithful, both men and worren, God promiseth gardens,' neath which the rivers flow, in which they shall abide, and goodly mansions in the gardens of Edan. But best of all will be God's good pleasure in them This will be the great bliss. Those who scoff at them, God shall scoff at them.—(VIII. 75, 80.)
 - C.—Here Mohammad bolds out a bait to men and women, in the name of God, to compass his own selfish ends. Had not Mohammad held out such a bait, nobody would have suffered himself to be entrapped by him. So do believers in other creeds also talk. Men scoff at each other, but it does not behove God to scoff at any one. This Qoran is a mass of veritable funny tales.
 - 85. But the apostle and those who share his faith, contend for the faith with purse and person; and these! all good things await them. And God hath set a seal upon their hearts: They have no knowledge.—(VIII. 59, 91.)
 - C.—Mark this selfishness! Only those alone are good who believed in Mohammad, and those who did not believe in him are condemnable. Does not this argue bigotry and ignorance and out and out? When God Himself hath set a seal on their hearts, they are not to blame for sinning. On the contary, all the blame rests with God, for He sealed all their noble impulses by setting a seal upon their hearts. This is verily the height of injustice!

- 86. Take alms of their substance, that thou mayest clean and purify them thereby, and pray for them: for thy prayers shall assure their minds. Verily, of the faithful hath God bought their persons and their substance on condition of Paradise for them, in return on the path of Gid shall they fight, and slay and be slain.

 (X. 106, 113.)
- C.—This is realy fine! Mohammad here figures out as the very prototype of a Popish priest who cleanses or grants absolution only to those who grease his palm. This Moslim God is a wonderful trader, Who thinks He drives a roaring trade by taking the lives of the poor and helpless through the Muhammadans! By condemning the orphans to destruction and awarding paradise to the oppressors the Muhammadan God becomes chargeable with cruelty and injustice and this is a blot on His Godhead. He has rightly come to be looked down upon with contempt by the wise and the noble-minded.
- 87. Believers! Wage war against such of the infidels as are your neighbours, and let them find you rigorous. Do they not see that they are afflicted with suffering every year once or twice? Yet they turn not, neither are they warned. (IX. 124, 127.)
- C.—Mark this teaching, which, in defiance of all noble instinct, advocates the destruction of one's very friends! God here teaches the Mohammadans to fight with their neighbours and slaves, to wage war against them and to slaughter them whenever they get a chance to. The Mohammadans have materially helped in spreading such ideas, taking their inspiration from this very book—the Qoran. They should, in the present enlightened age, realize the evil nature of such a teaching and give it up. They would be gainers by doing so.
- 88. Verily, your Lord is God Who hath made the Heavens and the Earth in six days—then mounted His throne to rule all things. (XV. 3.)
- C.—Space is not the result of combination or a compound substratum. It is uncreated, eternal. The assertion, that it was created, furnishes a positive proof of the fact that the author of the Qoran was ignorant of Physics. Had God to spend full six days on the creation of the world? When it is written in the Qoran "Be, and "it was," it follows that this assertion about the creation of the world six days is baseless. Were the Muslim God

All-pervading, why would He establish Himself in the heavens on the sky? And if God has to think of His administration, He is nothing but a prototype of a human being. Where He Omniscient, why would He cogitate seated passively? This shows that the Oran is the production of minds steeped in savagery and destitute of all knowledge of God.

- 89. And guidance and a mercy to the faithful.—(X. 55.)
- C.—Is God the monopoly of the Muslims only, and have others no claim on Him? And is He partial, that He reserves His mercy only for the Muslims and denies it to others. If by Muslims He meant "the faithful," they do not stand in need of guidance. If God does not furnish guidance to people other than the Mohammadans, His knowledge is of no use.
- 90. That he might make proof which of you will excel in work—And if thou say "After death ye shall surely be raised again," the infidels will certainly exclaim, "This is nothing but pure sorcery." (XI. 9 and 10.)
- C.—When God has to examine works, He is not Omniscient. And if He does raise people after death, are we to think that those who are raised are condemned for an indefinite period to wait for a settlement of their fate? Again, is it not opposed to His own Divine law to raise the dead? Is it possible that God should compromise His Godhead by infringing His own law?
- 91. And it was said, "O Earth!" 'Swallow up thy water' and "Cease, O Heaven" And the water abated. O my people! this is the she-camel of God and a sign unto you; let her go at large, and feed in God's Earth—(XI. 43, 66).
- C.—What childish talk is this? Can the Earth or the Heavens ever hear? And if God possesses a she-camel, He must also possess a he-camel. Further He must own elephants, horses, donkeys, etc.! And does it reflect any credit on Got to get His she-camel to feed in the fields of others? Does God ever ride the she-camel? If such is the Muslim God, His house must be distinguished for all the pomp and splendour to be found in the house of a mundane potentate.
- 92. Therein shall they abide while the Heavens and the Earth shall last. And as for the blessed ones—their place the Garden! Therein shall they abide while the Heavens and the Earth endure. (XI. 109, 110)
- C.—If, after the Day of Judgment, all people must repair either to heaven or hell, why should the Earth or the sky then continue to exist? And if Heaven and Hell are to endure as long as the Earth and the Sky endure, then it follows that the assection "that they shall abide in heaven or hell for ever" is baseless. It is the ignorant that talk in this vein, and not the wise, or God.

- 93. When Joseph said to his father "O my father! verily I beheld eleven stars and the sun and the moon." (XII. 4.)
- C.—This verse contains a dialogue between a father and his son, which shows that the Qoran is not from God but is the production of some man who has embodied in it the biographies of human beings.
- 94. It is God who hath reared the Heavens without pillars thou canst behold; then mounted His throne and imposed laws on the sun and the moon. And He it is who hath outstretched the Earth. He send the down the rain from Heaven; then flow the torrents in their due measure. (XIII, 15.)

God is open-handed with supplies to whom He will, or is sparing. (XIII. 2,3, 15 and 22.)

- C.—The Muslim God is entirely innocent of all knowledge of Physical Science. Were He conversant with Physical Science, He would not have talked of rearing heavens on pillars. If God dwells in a particular locality or in the Heaven, He cannot be Almighty or All-Encompassing. Had Muslim God known aught of the Science of the clouds, He would have coupled the words, "He made the water go "up to the sky," with the word, "He sendeth down the rain from Heaven" This shows that the author of the Qoran was ignorant of the science of clouds. If God, confers happiness on some or condemns others to misery without paying any regard to their merits or demerits. He is partial, unjust and utterly ignorant.
- 95. God truly will mislead whom He will; and He will guide to Himself him who turneth to Him. (XIII. 23.)
- C.—When God beguiles people, what is there to distinguish Him from Satan? If Satan is condemned for beguiling people, why should not God be regarded as a greater Satan for doing the same thing, and why should He not be condemned to a residence in hell for the sin of beguiling others?
- 96. Thus then, as a code in the Arabic tongue, have we sent down the Qoran; and truly, if after the knowledge that hath reached thee thou follow their desires, thou shalt have no guardian nor protector against God. (XIII. 38.)

- G.—How did God send down the Qoran? Does God live high up in the skies? If this be true, He cannot be God, being confined to a particular locality, for God is All-pervading. To carry or deliver message is the function of a courier, and since God is confined to a particular locality, He must needs have one. And to keep an account (in dealings with others) becomes a man but, not God Who is Omniscient. It follows from such statements of the Qoran that it is the work of a human being, possessed of limited intelligence.
- 97. And He ordained that the sun and moon shall always wander. Verily, man is an oppressor, and a heretic. (XIV. 27.)
- C.—Do the sun and moon only keep always wandering? Does not the earth wander too? If the earth did not revolve, each day and night would extend over many years. If man is disposed by nature to be cruel, and a heretic, it becomes useless to send him a warning through the Qoran. For, those, who are inherently disposed to do evil, will never be disposed to do good. As a matter of fact, there are both good and wicked men in this world. Hence it is evident from all this that no book which contains such preposterous teachings can be from God.
- 98. "And when I shall have fashioned him and breathed of my spirit into him, then fall ye down and worship him." "O My Lord; because, thou hast beguiled me, I will surely make all fair seeming to them on the earth; I will surely beguile them all." (XV. 39, 39.)
- C.—If God breathed His spirit into Adam, then Adam also, became God. If Adam was not God, then why did God det him, share the homage due to Him only? When God is the beguiler of Satan, why should not He, being his preceptor, be regarded as a greater Devil than Satan, for, while the Muslims look upon. Satan as the beguiler, it is really God who beguiles Satan. Again when Satan said in the presence of God, "I shall beguile them all," why did not God inflict upon him punishment and throw him into a dungeon, yea, why did not He kill him?
- 99. And to every people have we sent an apostle. Our word to a thing when we will it is but to say "Be" and it is. (XVI. 38, 42.)
- C—If God sent apostles to every people, then why should those who follow these apostles be set down as infidels? Is no prophet to be honoured other than your own? This is sheer bigotry. If God sent apostles to every country, why did not He send one to Arydvarta (India)? Hence this assertion of the Qoran does not deserve to be given credence to. When God makes up His mind and says, "Earth be," how can the inanimate earth hear His command? And how can the mere command of God create the universe? And when the Muhammadans do not believe in the existence of anything other than God before creation, what was it that heard God's order, and what did the same become? Those who are destitute of all knowledge of science talk in this fashion, and it is only the ignorant that believe in such things.

- 100. And they ascribe daughters unto God! Glory be to Him! By God we have sent apostles to nations before this, (XVI. 59, 65.)
- C.—What will God do with daughters, because daughters are needed only for men? And why are not sons appointed unto God? Why are daughters only appointed unto Him? Swearing is resorted to by liars, hence God should not swear. For, we frequently see in the world that it is as a rule liars that swear. Why should they, who only speak the truth, swear?
- 101. These are they whose hearts and ears and eyes God hath sealed up; these are the carcless ones. And every soul shall be repaid according to its deeds, and they shall not be wronged. (XVI. 110, 112.)
- O.—When God Himself hath sealed up their hearts, etc. the unfortunate ones are condemned to destruction without any fault on their part. They are denied the privilege of being free-agents. How unjust it is! And yet we are told by the Qoran that every one shall be repaid according to his deeds, and shall have neither more nor less than what he is entitled to.

When the sinners were not free-agents in committing sin but did it yielding to a stern necessity, having been compelled to do so by God, why are they to blame? They should not suffer for their deeds, on the contrary it is God who ought to suffer punishment. And if every one is repaid according to the full measure of his deeds, wherein does God's forgiveness consist? And if God does forgive since, He destroys justice. God never acts in this reckless fashion; only an erring mortal can act like this.

- 102. And we have appointed hell the portion of infidels. And every man's fate have we fastened about his neck. And on the day of resurrection will we bring forth to him a book which shall be proffered to him wide open. And since Noah, how many nation, have we exterminated. (XVII. 8, 14, 18.)
- C.—If those who do not believe in the Qoran, the Prophet and the God of whom the Qoran speaks, and have no faith in the seven heavens or in the Muslim prayer, etc., are infidels, and if it is they who are destined for hell, we can then say without the least hesitation that all this is nothing but sheer partiality. Is it possible that those who believe in the Qoran are all good, while all others are wicked? It is childish to assert that every one has his fate fastened about his neck. As a mutter of fact we don't see it fastened round the neck of a single person. If by this is meant that man shall have the just reward of their deeds, it sounds preposterous to assert that their hearts, eyes, etc., have been sealed up. We are told that God will bring forth His book on the day of judgment; if so, were is that book now? Does God make daily enteries in His book after the fashion of the shopkeepers? There is another thing which should be considered in this connection. there is no previous birth, were did the deeds of man come from and how could the book of deeds be made out? If it has been prepared in the absence of deeds, God has wronged the parties concerned. Why did He bestow happiness upon some and subject others to misery in the absence of good or bad works? If it be said that He did it, because it pleased Him to do so, in that case too He wronged them. To add to or take away from the felicity or suffering of any person without any regard to his merits or demerits is termed injustice. And will it be God who will read the book at the time specified or will He have a reader by? If God dooms to destruction souls that have been waiting for an indefinite period without any fault on their part, He is a tyrant. But he who is a tyrant, cannot be God.

103. We gave to Themood the She-camel before their very eyes.

And entice such of them as thou canst by they voice.

One day we will summon all men with their leaders: They whose book shall be given into their right hand—(XVII.73, 61, 66.)

C.—Verily, one of the most convincing proofs which God can advance in favour of His God-head is the possession of the she-camel! If God ordered Satan to beguile human beings, then He Himself is a greater Satan. But to call one, who leads people to commit sin, God is a most foolish thing. If God will call the Prophet and all his followers on the day of judgment in order to decide the fate of the dead, all of them will have to remain in custody till that period. But custody without any trial is extemely irksome and it is, therefore, the duty of every good judge to decide cases Promptly. It is like the justice administered by Popan Bai. What will you think of a judge who would say that he would not administer justice till all the criminals and the law-abiding citizens of fifty years back had been gathered together in one place. What

- sort of justice will this be? He will keep one man in custody for fifty years, while He will decide the case of another at once. Surely this cannot be called justice. If you want to see what justice is, read the Vedas and Manusmriti, which declare that there is not a moment's delay in the administration of justice and that all souls are judged according to their deeds. Again, to hold that God sommons the prophet as witnesses to question His Omniscience. Can such a book ever be the Word of God and can its author ever be an Almighty God?
- 104. For them! The gardens of Eden, under whose shades shall rivers flow: decked shall they be therein with bracelets of gold, and green robes of silk and rich brocade shall they wear, reclining them therein on thrones. Blissful the reward! and a pleasant couch! (XVIII. 30.)
- C.—Indeed! What a fine place is the paradise described in the Qoran! It has gardens, ornaments, clothes, cushions, pillows for affording plesure to those who live therein. A wise man will on, reflection, find that the Mohammadan paradise excels in this world nothing except injustice which lies in the fact that the soul will have infinite enjoyment or infinite suffering for actions which are finite. Besides, infinite happiness will appear to them infinite misery, even as if a person goes on eating sweet things for a long time, they begin to taste like poison to him. Therefore, the belief that the soul is reborn after having enjoyed the bliss of salvation till the Grand Dissolution (of the universe) alone constitutes the true doctrine.
- 105. And these cities did we destroy when they became impious; and of their coming destruction we gave them warning. (XVIII. 58.)
- C.—Can all the inhabitants of a place be ever sinful? The fact that God formed His resolution (of destroying those cities) afterwards proves that He is not All-knowing, for, He did so after He had seen injustice being perpetrated. He had no knowledge of it before. (His destroying so many cities) also proves that He is destitute of all Mercy.
- 106. As to the youth his parents were believers, and we feared lest he should trouble them by error and infidelity. Until when he reached the setting of the sun, he found it to set in a miry fount; and hardly he found a people. They said, "O Dhoulkarnain! Verily, Gog, and Magog waste their land, shall we then pay thee tribute, so thou build a rampart between us and them. (XVIII. 79, 84, 93.)

- C.—How unwise of God! He feared lest the parents of the boy might be led to rebel against His authority. This cannot be compatible with the nature of God. Again mark the ignorance of the author of the Qoran! He thinks that the sun sinks into a lake at night, and comes out of it again at day-break. As a matter of fact, the sun is very much larger than the earth. How can he then set in a river or a lake or an ocean? This proves that the author of the Qoran was ignorant of Physical Geography and Astronomy. Had he known these Sciences, why would he have written such things as are opposed to the dictum of knowledge? The believers in this book are also illiterate; otherwise they would not have believed in a book which is so full of error. Now mark God's injustice? Though He is Himself the Creator of this earth and is its King and Judge, yet He allows Gog and Magog wage a constant war with each other. This is also incompatible with the nature of God. Such a book can only be believed in by savages and not by enlightened men.
- 107. And remember in the book of the Qoran the story of Mary: when she retired from her family to a place towards the east, and took a veil to conceal herself from them: and we sent our spirit Gabriel unto her, and he appeared unto her in the space of a perfect man. She said, I fly for refuge unto the Merciful God, that He may defend me from thee, if thou fearest Him, then do not approach me. He answered, Verily I am the messenger of thy Lord, and am sent to give thee a holy son. She said, how shall I have a son, seeing a man hath not touched me and I am no harlot, Gabriel replied, so shall it be: thy Lord saith, this is easy with me; and we will perfrom it, that we may ordain him for a sign unto men, and a mercy from us: for it is a thing which is decreed. Wherefore she conceived him and she retired aside with him in her womb to a distant place. (XIX. 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, and 18.)
- C.—It is a thing for the wise to consider that if all the angels are the spirit of God, they could not exist as separate entities from Him. Moreover, Mary while she was a Virgin, gave birth to a son, although she did not like to co-habit with any man, yet contrary to her wishes she was conceived by the angel at the Lord's command. Now how wrong it was of God to have done so! There are many other objectionable things recorded in the Qoran which we do not think advisable to mention here.
- 108. Dost thou not see that we send devils against the infidels to incite them to sin. (XIX. 78).
- C.—As God Himself sends devils to incite the infidels, the devils are innocent, neither the devils nor the people tempted by them could, therefore, be liable to punishment. Since all sins are committed at the bidding of the Lord, He alone should suffer the consequences thereof. If He is realy the dispenser of justice, He Himself should suffer in hell the consequences of His evil deeds. But if He sets justice at naught, He becomes a sinner, since it is a sin to perpetrate injustice.

- 109. I will be gracious unto him, who shall repent and believe and shall do that which is right and who shall be rightly directed. (XX. 76).
- C.—It is written in the Qoran that one's sins are forgiven by mere repentence. This encourages sin, since there is nothing to deter men from its commission. This book and its author, therefore, place a premium upon sin.

Hence it is clear that this book cannot be the Word of God, nor can the Being described therein be Divine.

- 110. And we placed stable mountains on the earth, lest it should move with them. (XXI. 31).
- C.—If the author of the Qoran had been acquainted with the phenomenon of the revolution of the earth, he would never have taught that the earth was immovable, because mountains were fixed in it. It could be argued that if there were no mountains, it would be shaken. Why does it quake when there is seismic disturbance?
- 111. And remember her who preserved her virginity, and into whom we breathed our spirit. (XXI. 88).
- C.—It is impossible that such obscene statements should have been recorded in Divine revelation or even in a book written by a decent man. When even human beings do not relish such writtings, how can God do so? It is such statements which bring the Qoran into disrepute. If its teachings had been good, it would have commanded admiration like the Veda.
- and on the Earth adore God? The sun, and the moon, and the stars, the mountains and the trees, and the beasts, and many men? They shall be adorned therein with bracelets of gold, and pearls, and their vestures therein shall be silk. And cleanse my House for those who compass it and who stand up." Afterwards let them put an end to the neglect of other persons; and let them pay their vows, and compass the ancient House. And may commemorate the name of God. (XXII. 18, 23, 28, 30, 32.)
- C.—When it is clear that inanimate objects cannot even know God, how can they then worship Him? This book cannot be of Divine origin. It seems to have been written by some ignorent man. How unny! How beautiful is the paradise where the inmates get gold ornaments studded with pearls and silken garments. This sort of paradise can in no way be better than the palaces of Kings: and if Heaven is the house of God, He must be living in that very house, how can it then be said that the Qoran does not teach idol worship? (The Mohammadan) God is like gods and goddesses such as Bhairva (Indian Baccus) and Durya which are worshipped is the temples (of the followers of the Puránas), because He accepts presents, commands people to circumembulate His house and to offer animal sacrifice; He is the originator of idol-worship in its most objectionable form, because the Mosque is a huger idol then the images of the gods. The Mohammadan God and His followers are, therefore, worse idolworshippers than the Pauranics and the Jainees.

- 113. Then shall ye be waked up on the day of Resurrection. (XXIII, 16.)
- C.—Will the dead dwell in the tombs or in some other place till doom's Day'? If they will dwell in the tombs, even the virtuous souls will suffer pain on account of their bodily tenements being foulsmelling and decomposed. This mode of meting out justice is as bad as doing injustice. Moreover, the Mohammadan God and His followers are guilty of the sin of spreading disease.
- 114. One day their own tongues shall hear witness against them and their hands, and their feet, concerning that which they have done. God is the Light of the Heaven and the Earth: the similitude of his light is as a niche in a wall, wherein a lamp is placed, and the lamp enclosed in a case of glass; the glass appears as it were a shining star. It is lighted with the oil of a blessed tree. an olive neither of the East, nor of the West, it wanteth little but that the oil thereof would give light, although no fire touched This is light added unto light. God will direct unto His light whom he pleaseth. (XXIV. 24, and 3:).
- C.—The hands and feet being inanimate cannot give evidence. The second statement being opposed to Laws of Nature is false. Is God fire or electricity? The illustration given in the Qoran cannot apply to God. Such illustrations can only apply to embodied objects.
- 115. And God hath created every animal of water. Some go on upon the belly. And who shall obey God and His Apostle....Say: Obey God and obey the Apostle. And obey the Apostle that happily ye may find mercy. (XXIV. 45, 51, 53 and 55).
- C.—What kind of philosophy is this that the creatures in the composition of whose body all elements have entered are said

- to have been generated from water alone. This is a foolish statement. If it is necessary that the commands of the prophet should be obeyed along with those of God, He may be said to have a partner, if it is so, why is it written in the Qoran that God is without a second, and why do you preach this?
- 116. On that day the heaven shall be cloven assunder by the clouds and the angels shall be sent down, descending visibly therein. Wherefore do not thou obey the unbelievers; but oppose them here with a strong opposition: Unto them will God change their former evils into good; And who ever repenteth, and doth that which is right; verily he turneth unto God with an acceptable conversion. (XXV. 25, 50, 68, 69).
- C.—It can never be true that the sky has been split up by the clouds. It could be split up only if it had a material existence. The teaching of the Qoran disturbs the peace of the world and fosters discord. It is for this reason that righteous and learned men do not believe in it. It is unjust that sins and virtues should be balanced against one another. Sin and virtue cannot be compared to oil seeds and lentils. If repentence absolves one from sin and brings him nearer to God, no body would be afraid of committing sins. All this is opposed to science.
- 117. And we spake by revelation unto Moses, saying, "March forth with my servants by night; for ye will be pursued." And Pharaoh sent officer through the cities to assemble forces. Who has created me and directeth me; and who giveth me to eat and to drink. And who, I hope, will forgive my sins on the day of Judgment. (XXV. 50, 51, 76, 77 and 80).
- C.—When God first sent down His book to Moses what need was there for sending down books to David, Christ and Mohhammad? God's knowledge must be Unchangeable and Infallible but sending down later books would show that the knowledge contained in the first book was fallible and imperfect. If these first three works contained true knowledge, the Qoran must be false. It is impossible for all the four books to teach true knowledge because their teachings contradict each other. If God has created souls, they must needs cease to exist some day or the other. If it is God Who gives sustenance to man and other creatures, why do people suffer from disease and why does not each man get an equal amount of food? Why do some people, such as kings, get sumptuous food and others like the paupers get poor food. If it is God Who feeds people and makes them observe the laws of health, there should be no disease. But we see that even the Mohammadans do suffer from disease. If it is

- God Who cures people of disease, the Mohammadans should always recover, but as they do not, it is clear that the Mohammadan God is not a skillful doctor, for if He were so, the Mohammadans would always come round. Again, if it is God Who kills people and brings them to life, then He alone should take the consequences. On the contrary if it be believed that punish or reward is, awarded according to deeds done (by the soul) in many births, He cannot be held blameworthy. If God forgives sins and dispenses justice on the last day, He will be a sinner and a promoter of sin. If He does not forgive sins, it cannot but be said that this teaching of the Qoran is false.
- 118. Thou art only a man like unto us: produce now some sign, if thou speakest truth. Said, the she-camel shall be a sign unto you: She shall have her portion of water. (XXVI. 154, 155).
- C.—Who would believe that the camel came out of stone. Those who pinned faith to it were savages. The sign of the camel was something which looks boorish, not Divine. If this book had been revealed, it would not contain such senseless things.
- 119. O Moses! verily I am God, Mighty, the Wise: cast down thy rod. And when he saw it, that it moved, as though it had been a serpent, he retreatd and fled. And God Said, O Moses, fear, not, for my messengers are not disturbed with fear in my sight.

Rise not up against me: and surrender yourself unto me. (XXVII. 9, 10, 27 and 32).

- C.—Now mark! God calls Himself Mighty, even a good man would not indulge in self-commendation, why should God do so? He became the Lord of the savages by tempting them with a sort of jugglery. Such things cannot be written in the Word of God. If He is the Lord of the seventh heaven, He cannot be God, being localised. If it is a bad thing to rebel, why did God and Mohammad write a book to extol themselves, even though the prophet at the instigation of God killed many which was worse than rebellion. The Qoran is full of repetitions and self-contrdictory statements.
- 120. And thou shalt see the mountains, and shalt think them firmly fitted; they shall pass away, even as the clouds pass away. This will be the work of God, Who rightly disposes all things: and He is well acquainted with that which ye do. (XXVII. 90).
- C.—Perhaps in the country where the author of Qoran lived, the mountains moved on like clouds, for nowhere else it is

- so, The vigilence of God can be judged by the fact that He could not catch the rebel Satan and punish him. Who can be more careless than one who could not apprehend one rebel and punish him.
- 121. And Moses struck him with his fist, and slew him: And he said, O Lord, verily I have injured my own soul, wherefore forgive me. So God forgave him; for He is ready to forgive, and Merciful. The Lord createth what He pleaseth; and chooseth freely. (XXVIII. 14, 15, 66.)
- C.—Now mark again! Are not God and Moses, the prophet of the Mohammadans and the Christians, both unjust, because the latter killed people and God forgave him his sins. Does God create by the caprice of His Will. Was it due to mere caprice that one was born a king and another a pauper; one a scholar, and another a fool. If it is so, the Qoran does not inculcate truth, and the Mohammadan God being unjust is no God at all.
- 122. We have commanded man to show kindness towards his parents: but if they endeavour to prevail with thee to associate with me that concerning which thou hast no knowledge, obey them not. We hereafter sent Noah unto his people, and he tarried among them one thousand years, save fifty years;... (XXIX. 7, 13).
- C.—Of course, it is a good thing to serve one's parents and it is also right not to obey them when they ask one to believe that God shares His homage with some other being. But they should not be believed if they command one to tell lies, hence this injunction is only a half truth. If He sends only Noah and other prophets to the world who sends here other creatures? If it be said that He sends all, then why not believe that all are prophets. If formerly people lived for 1,000 years, why do they not attain that age now? This statement is also wrong.
- 123. God produceth creatures, and will here-after restore them to life: then shall ye return unto Him. And on the day whereon the hour shall come, the wicked shall be struck dumb for despair. And they who shall have believed, and wrought righteousness, shall take their pleasure in a delightful meadow: Yet if we should send a blasting wind, and they should see their corn yellow and burnt up. Thus hath God sealed up the hearts of those who believe not. (XXX. 10, 11, 14, 50, 58).
- C.—If God ordains Creation twice, and not thrice, He must be sitting idle before the first Creation and after the second, and will lose all vitality after creating the world twice. If the sinners are struck dumb with despair on the day of judgment, so much so good, but we hope that this verse does not mean that all except the Mohammadans will be branded as sinners and struck dumb with despair, for at many places in the Qoran by the word sinner is meant a non-Mohammadan. If the Mohammadan paradise consists of residence in a garden and adornment of the body, it is iust like this world. In that case it is necessary that gardeners and goldsmiths should be there or God should do their work. Again, if some denizen of paradise gets a smaller number of ornaments, he would have committed theft and be hurled down into hell. If it be so the doctrine of eternal heaven would be falsified. If God superintends agricultural operations, He must needs have gained some experience in the agricultural art! Even if it be believed that God being Omniscient knew all this. He' cannot escape from the charge of having bullied and blustered. If God sealed the hearts of men and caused them to commit sin. He must be held answerable for the offence and not men; even as the Commanders are held responsible for defeat or victory, so God must be regarded answerable for sins.

- 124. These are the signs of the wise book. He hath created the heavens without visible pillars to sustain them, and hath thrown on the earth mountains firmly rooted, lest it should move with you. Dost thou not see that the God causeth the night to succeed the day, and causeth the day to succeed the night? Dost thou not see that the ships run in the sea, through the favour of God, that He may show you of his signs? (XXIX. 1, 9, 28, 30.)
- C.—How funny! That a book like this should be regarded full of wisdom even though it teaches things opposed to science, such as the creation of the heavens without visible pillars to sustain them and the fixing of the mountains in the earth with a view to keep them immoveable. Even persons who are a little bit educated cannot write such nonsense or believe in such balderdash. Again, how wise is the statement that the day is entangled with the night and night with the day! Every body knows that day and night co-exist. The Qoran cannot be a book of true knowledge, for this statement is absolutely foolish. Is it not opposed to true knowledge to say that the ships run into the sea through the favour of God when in reality they are propelled by machinery and by sailors. Would not the sign of God (a ship) sink if it was made of iron or stone? Verily this book cannot have been written either by God or by a learned man.
- 125. He governeth all things from heavens even to the earth, hereafter they shall return unto Him on the day whose length shall be a thousand years, of those which ye compute. This is He who knoweth the future and the present; the Mighty, the Merciful. And then formed him into proper shape, and breathed of His Spirit into him; Say: The angel of death, who is set over you, shall cause you to die... If we had pleased, we had certainly given unto every soul its direction: but the word which hath proceeded from me must necessarily be fulfilled when I said, verily I will fill well with Jadie and men altogether. (XXXII 4, 5, 8, 10, 12.)

- C.-Now it is quite clear that the God of the Mohammadans is limited by space like man, for if He were Omnipresent, it could not be said of Him that He is stationed at a particular place for the purpose of carrying on administrative work and that He descends and ascends. He cannot but be regarded as limited by space, if He sends down angels and Himself remains hung up in the sky, while His emissaries are sent about on errands. could God know it, if His angels were bribed into perverting the facts of a case or sparing the life of a doomed person. He could find out only if He were Omniscient and Omnipresent, but that He is not. If He had been so, where was the need of sending angels and testing people in many ways? Again, He cannot be said to be Omnipotent, because it takes a thousand years to arrange for the return of His emissaries. If there is an angel of death what is there that will bring about his death. If it be said that that angel is eternal, then it will have to be believed that God is not Incomparable at least so far as eternity is concerned. angel cannot ask many people to repair to hell simultaneously, and if God looks at the fun after filling the hell with innocent people who have been doomed to torture, He is unrighteous, unjust and merciless. A book teaching such things cannot be the work of God or of a learned man, while a being devoid of justice and mercy cannot be Divine.
 - 126. Say, light shall not profit you, if ye fly from death or from slaughter: O wives of the prophet, whosoever of you shall commit a manifest wickedness, the punishment thereof shall be doubled unto her twofold, and this is easy with God. (XXXIII, 16, 30.)
- C.—Mohammad wrote or dictated this verse to keep people from running away from the field of battle so that victory might be assured to his arm, his soldiers might not dread death, his wealth might increase and his religion might spread. If the wife of the prophet is not to appear in public shamelessly (without a veil), why should the prophet do so. Is it just that the wife should suffer for this offence and the prophet escape scot free.

127. And abide still in your houses; ...and obey God and his apostle;

But when Zeid had determined the matter concerning her. We joined her in marriage unto thee; lest a crime should be charged on the true believers in marrying the wives of their adopted sons, when they have determined the matter concerning them; and the command of God is to be performed. No crime is to be charged on the prophet as to what God hath allowed him. Muhammad is not the father of any man an ong you; and any other believing woman if she hath given herself unto the prophet; Thou mayest postpone the turn of such of the wives as thou shalt please in being called to thy bed, and thou mayest take unto thee her whom thou shalt please and her whom thou shalt desire: and it shall be no crime in thee. O true believers! Enter not the houses of the Prophet (XXXIII. 12, 31, 38, 40, 49, 51, 53).

C.—It is extremely unjust that the women should be immured within the four walls of the house like prisoners and men permitted to roam about freely. Do not women feel a desire to breathe fresh air to walk about in open space, and to View the phenomena of nature. This invidious distinction accounts for the fact that Mohammadan youths are paculiary vagrant and licentious. Do God and His prophet issue one and the same command or do they promulgate. different and contradictory injunctions? If the former is the case, it is useless to say that the command of both should be obeyed. but if the latter is the case, then one injunction should be true, and the other false. Thus one of these beings would be like God and the other like the D vil and the letter will share homage with the former. What to say about the God of the Qoran and the prophet who wrote a book permitting the attainment of selfish ends at the sacrifice of the good of others! It is also clear that Mohammad was lascivious, for if he had not been so, he would not have taken his daughter in-law as wife. Again, God also proved Himself to be biased by ruling an unjust act to be just. Even a savage considers his danghter in-law sacred. How unjust it is that the prophet did not feel the least compunction in obeying a wild and sinful impulse. If the prophet was father to no body, who was then the father of Zaid (the slave)One might ask that if the prophet could not keep himself from a connection even with his own daughter-in-law, how could he restrain his passions where other women are concerned? Even sophistical reasoning cannot mitigate the enormity of an offence like this. Would it have been right if some other married woman had of her own free will desired to lead the prophet to the hymenial alter? How cruel that the prophet was at liberty to divorce a wife whenever he chose to do so, while his wife was deprived of the right of obtaining a divorce even if he was guilty of misconduct! If it was necessary that no body should enter the house of the prophet with adulterous intent, it was likewise necessary that the latter should also not do an act like this. How could it be right for the prophet to act as if he had a licence in this matter and still to exact admiration? He would indeed be a perfect idiot who would believe the Qoran to be revealed, Mohammad to be a prophet and the Mohammadan God to be an Omnipotent Lord. It is passing strange that the Arabs believed in such idiotic and unrighteous statements.

128. Neither is it fit for you to give any uneasiness to the Apostle of God nor to marry his wives, after him, for ever: for this Would be a grave offence in the sight of God. As to those who offend God and his Apostle, God shall curse them in this world, And they who shall injure the true believers of either sex, without their deserving it, shall surely bear the fruit of calumny and a minifest injustice. And being accused wherever, they are found they shall be taken, and killed with a general slaughter. O Lord give them the double of our punishment, and curse them with a heavy curse. (XXXIII 53, 57, 58, 62, 68).

C.—Now mark! Is the Mohammadan God asserting IIis Omnipotence in an equitable manner. If it was right to command people not to inflict pain on the prophet, it was also proper to adjure the prophet not to cause suffering to others. Why did he not do so? Is God subject to pain? If He is, then H: cannot be God. Does not the injunction to abstain from causing suffering to God and His prophet imply that they both are free to inflict pain upon whomsoever they please? Should all others suffer pain? If it is not a good thing to injure Mohammadans and their wives, it is equally bad to torment others. If this view of the question be not accepted, then God and His prophet should be believed to be biased and anxious to sow discord. There are very few people in the word who are so merciless as these two. Would not the Muhammalans feel aggrieved if some body ordained that they should be pinioned and killed, as, the Qoran has done in the case of Non-muslims. The prophet was very hard-hearted, for he prayed to God that Non-muslims should receive double the punishment awarded to Muhammadans. This statement also is selfish and unrighteousness. Perhaps those are scape-graces among the Mohammadans who do things like that. Truly has it been said that an untutored man is like unto a beast.

129. It is God who sendeth the winds, and raiseth a cloud; and we drive the same unto a country, dead (from drought) and thereby quicken the earth after it hath been dead: so shall the resurrection be. Who hath caused us to take up our rest in a dwelling of eternal stability, through His Bounty, wherein, no labour shall touch us, nor shall any weariness affect us. [XXXV. 9, 35.]

- C.—What strange philosophy does God preach? He sends the winds and raiseth a cloud, and by means of these brings the dead into life. This cannot be predicated of the true God, for He always acts in a consistent manner. A house cannot stand unless it has been made, and whatever has been made cannot last for ever. Whoever has got a body would feel miserable if he had nothing to do and is subject to disease. If this is true in the case of a person holding sexual intercourse with one man, how much more so is it in the case of him who co-habits with many wives. His lot would indeed be pitiable. Hence Mohammadans cannot enjoy genuine happiness even in paradise.
- 130. I swear by the instructive Qoran, that thou art one of the messengers of God, to show the right way. This is a revelation of the most Mighty, the Merciful God. [XXXIV. 1, 2, 3, 4.]
- C.—If the Qoran were the work of God, how could He swear by it? If the prophet had been a messenger of God, he would not have fallen in love with his daughter-in-law. It is foolish to assert that the believers in the Qoran are on the straight path, for he alone is said to tread that part who believes in truth, utters truth, acts in conformity with truth and shapes his conduct in accordance with the dictates of Dharma which consists of justice and freedom from prejudice and forsakes all that is opposed to them. Neither the Qoran nor the Mohammadans nor their God satisfies these conditions. If Mohammad had been the greatest prophet, he would have been the most learned and the most virtuous among men. The praise of Mohammadanism by Mohammad is like the praise of a coster-monger of his own plums.
- 131. And the trumpet shall be sounded again, and behold they shall come forth from their graves, and hasten unto their Lord.

And their hands shall speak unto us, and their feet shall bear witness of that which they have committed. His command when He willeth a thing, is only that he saith unto it "Be!" and it is (XXXVI. 50, 63, 80.)

C.—How absurd! Can the feet ever give evidence? When there was none else except God, whom did He issue the command and who heard it and what came into existence? If there was nothing else at that time, this statement is false and if there was something else, then the statement that there was nothing else except God must be thought to be false.

- 132. A cup shall be carried round unto them, filled from a unruffled fountain, for the delight of those who drink: And near them shall lie the virgins of paradise, refraining their looks from beholding any besides their sponses, having large black eyes, and resembling the egg of an ostrich covered with feathers from the dust. An 1 Lot was also one of those who were sent by us. When we delivered him an 1 his whole family, except an old woman, his wife, who perished among those that remained behind; afterwards we destroyed the others. [XLIII. 44, 45, 48, 57, 131, 132, 133, 134.]
- C.-Well! The Mohammadans cry that it is a sin to drink wine on this earth but in their paradise streams of wine flow. It is good that Mohammadans have rendered some service to the c use of temperence here, but they have been more than compensated for this abstinence in paradise. So many women have been alloted to each man there, he would find it difficult to fix his affections on one. The place must be afflicted with maladies. If the dwellers have got bodies, they must die and if they have got no bodies, they cannot gratify their lust. What then is the use of a piradise? If you believe that Lord was a prophet, do you also believe what is recorded in the Bible that he begot children on his own dughters. If you do, it is foolish to regard such a person a prophet. If your Gol grants salvation to such persons and their associates He must also be like them. A being who recites old wives' tales and kills other people through prejudice cannot be God, for such a God can only live in a Mohammadan house and nowhere else.
- 133. Gardens of perpetual abode, the gates whereof shall stand open unto them. As they lie down therein, they shall there ask for many sorts of fruits, and for drink; and near them shall sit the virgins of paradise, refraining their look from beholding any besides their sponses, and of equal age with them.

And all the angels worshipped him, except Eblis, who was puffed up with pride and became an unbeliever. God said unto him, "O Eblis what hindereth thee from worshipping that which I have created with my hands? Art thou elated with vain pride? Or art thou really one of the exalted ones?" He answered "I am more excellent than he; thou hast created me of fire and hast created him of clay." God said unto him, "Get thee hence therefore, for thou shalt be driven away from mercy: and my curse shall be upon thee, until the day of judgment." He replied, "O Lord, Respite me therefore, until the day of resurrection. God said, "Verily thou shalt be one of those who are respited until the day of the determined time." Eblis said. 'By thy might do I swear surely seduce them all."—(XXXVIII.) 49, 50, 51, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, and 78.)

C.—If there are gardens and orchards in paradise as stated in the Qoran, they neither have existed from eternity nor can they remain there for ever, for the things which result from the combination of elements, did not exist after When these things will disappear from paradise, Dissolution how can the dwellers live there for ever? The very fact that Arabs have been promised cusions, cushioned seats pillows, fruits and drinks, proves that Arabia was not in affluent circumstances at the time the Mohammadan religion was founded. It was for this reason that Moham nad entrapped the poor people into his net by holding out to them such temptations

Perpetual happiness cannot reign where women are to he found. Where did these women come from? Are they dwellers of the paradise or have they been imported? If they have been imported, they will surely go back and if they permanently dwell there, what were they doing before the day of resurrection? Were they idling away their lives? Now look at the resplendence of God Whom all the angels except Satan obeyed by paying homage to Adam; Satan alone held aloof. God said to Satan. made him with both my hands, do thou, therefore, not be proud." This shows that the God of the Qoran was a two-handed person. He cannot, therefore, be Omnipresent and Omnipotent. Satan was right in saving that he was better than Adam. Why was the resentment of God excited at this? Is the house of God in the sky and not on earth? Why was Kaba at first called the house of God? How can God separate Henself from His Creation? All this creation belongs to the true God. This shows that the God of the Qoran was a landlord in paradise. God cursed and rebuked Satan and sent him to jail. Satan said, "O Lord! Release me till the day of judgment." God being not insensible to flattery complied with his request When Satan was free, he said "Now I will tempt people and raise the standard of rebellion " God retorted "Whoever is tempted by you will be hurled into hell by me along with thee." Gentle reader! Just consider whether God tempted him or he was tenpted of his own accord. If God did it, He was a greater Devil of the two, and if Sitan was tempted on his own accord, other people can also he tempted likewise. Where then is the need of Satan? In so far as God let the rebel Satan loose. He also was responsible for the mischief wrought by the fiend. Who can be more unjust than the being who instigates theft and then sits in judgment over the thief?

- 134. God forgiveth all sins: for He is Gracious and Merciful. Since the whole earth shall be but His handful on the day of Resurrection; and the heavens shall be rolled together in His right hand. And the earth shall shine by the light of its Lord: and the books shall be laid open, and the prophets and the martyrs shall be brought as witnesses; and judgement shall be given —(XXXIX. 53, 697, 67)
- C.—If God forgives all sins, He leads the entire world to unrigteousness. He is also merciless, for if a wicked man is shown mercy and forgiven, he will commit more mischief and cause suffering to many a good man. Even if the slightest offence is left unpunished, the world will become full of sin. Is God resplendent like fire? Where is the page of destiny and who writes it? If God dispenses justice with the aid of prophets and witnesses, He must be of limited knowledge and power. If He is not unjust and dispenses uniform justice, He must be dealing with all people according to their deeds. Deeds must have been done either in the past birth or in the present one. It is, then, clearly unjust to forgive sins, to seal the hearts, to keep people in ignorance, to let the Devil tempt them, and to subject them to torture.
- 135. The Revelation (sending down of the Book) is from God, the Almighty, All-Knowing, Fergiver of sin and receiver of penitence (XL. 1, 2.)
- C.—This has no other object than that the credulous and unwary should accept this book as one from God—a book which along with the few truths it contains, is choked with untruths, which only tend to markedly detract from the value of the former. Hence the Qoran and the God of the Qoran, as well as those who are believers in this book, only lend their support to wickedness and iniquity, and not only commit sin themselves but lead others to do it. For, it is most sinful to over look or connive at iniquity. It is such Qoranic teaching that emboldens the Muhamn adans to commit sin and to delight in war and blood-shed.
- 136. And He made the seven heavens in two days, and in each heaven made known its office.

Until when they reach it, their ears, their eyes and their skins shall bear witness against them of their deeds. And they shall say to their skins, "Why witness ye against us?" They shall say, "God Who giveth a voice to everything, hath given us a voice." (XL 11.19, 20, 38.)

God? It took Him two whole days to fashion the seven heavens. The really Almighty God can fashion the whole universe in the twinkling of an eye. When God has made the ears, the eyes and the skin life-less and destitute of consciousness, how can they bear witness against any one? If you were to assert that He could endow these with consciousness (on the day of judgment), would not you be virtually asserting that He would infringe His own law? What is utterly, increbibly baseless (in the foregoing quotation) is the assertion that when the organs and limbs bore witness against the souls, the latter began to ask their respective organs and limbs why they had borne witness against them. This is an astounding assertion like that of a man who would affirm that he saw the face of the son of a woman affected by sterility. If the woman in question had a son, she would not be sterile. And if she is really barren, it is simply impossible for her to have an offspring.

If God brings the dead to life, why does He smite them first? Can He die Himself? If the answer be in the affirmative, why does He consider dying a bad thing? And in which Muslim's house shall the souls stay till the arrival of the day of judgment, and why has God postponed indefinitely the decision of their cases without any fault on their part? Why did not He pronounce His judgment in respect of each without delay? Things like these are a blot on Godhead.

137. His, the keys of the Heavens and of the Earth! He giveth with open hand or sparingly, to whom He will.

He createth what He will, and He giveth daughters to whom He will, and sons to whom He will.

Or He giveth them children of both sexes, and He maketh whom He will, childless.

It is not for man that God should speak with Him, but by vision, or from behind a veil.*

Or, He sendeth a messenger to reveal what He will. (XLII. 10, 48, 49, 50, 51.)

C.—God must be possessed of an inexhaustible stock of keys considering that he must unlock each and all places. Again it argues childishness on His part to bless with plenty and super-

Husain comments thus on this verse in his Tafsir-i-Hussaini "Mohammad was between two curtains, one made of gold and the other of white pearls and the distance between them was such as could be covered by a traveller in seventy years." Let the enlightened reader decide whether it was God or a purda lady who speaks from behind a curtian. These people (Mohammdans) have indeed degraded the very idea of God-head. Oh! what a difference between the All-holy Supreme Spirit spoken off by the Upnishads and other true books, and the God of the Qoran who speaks from behind a p rda. The fact is that the Arabians were quite illiterate, they could not have talked sense.

abundance whomsoever He pleases regardless of his merits, or to take away the same from any without weighing his demerits If God is such a creature of mere whim, He is unjust. Mark the extraordinary cleverness of the author of the Qoran! It is expressly designed to captivate and entrap the females also. If the Muhammadan God can create whatever He pleases, can He then create another God? If He cannot, are we to understand that His Omnipotence here has come to a dead halt? And if it is God that grants offspring unto men, who is it that grants the same unto fowls, fishes, pigs, etc., that have a more numerous progeny? why cannot He grant offspring (to mortals) unless men and women co-habit? Why does He condemn some women to a life of sterility and thereby afflict them? He must indeed be a glorious God, considering that no one can talk in His presence! But has not He already declared in a certain place that He can be talked to from behind a curtain, and that the angels as well as the prophet can speak to Him? If this assertion about the angels and the prophet be true, they must be taking good care to make God thoroughly play into their hands. Should you argue that God is All-knowing and All-pervading (as He really is), this assertion about His talking from behind a curtain and obtaining news as if it were by post would be utterly meaningless. If He stands in need of such agencies, He could not be God. He must be rather some shrewd piece of humanity. Hence the Qoran can never be of Divine origin,

- 138. And when Jesus came with manifest proofs. (XLII. 59)
- C.—If Jesus too was sent by God, why did He then make the Qoran whose teaching is opposed to that of Christ? Again, since the Biblical teaching is opposed to that of the Qoran, neither of these is a Divine revelation.
- 139. Seize ye him and drag him into the midfire (where they shall stay)....and we will wed then to the virgins with large black eyes.—(XLIV. 43 and 50.)
- C.—This is indeed passing strange that a Just God should have men caught and dragged? When such is the Muslim God, can there be any wonder if His Mohammadan worshippers pounce upon the weak and the helpless and upon orphans, and drag them? Again, does He help in the celebration of marriages? If so, He is a match maker to the Muslims, something resembling their own Qazis.
- 140. When ye encounter the infidels, strike off their heads, till ye have made a great slaughter among them, and of the rest make fast the fetters. (XLVII. 4.)

And how many cities were mighter in strength than thy city, which hath thrust thee forth! We destroyed them, and there was none to help them. (XLVII. 14)

A picture of the paradise which is promised to the Godfearing! Therein are rivers of water, which corrupt not, rivers of milk whose taste changeth not: and rivers of wine, delicious to those who quaff it. (XLVII, 16.)

And rivers of honey clarified: and therein are all kinds of fruit for them from their Lord. (XLVII, 17.)

- C.—This shows that the Qoran, its God, and the Mohammadans are guilty of having disturbed the peace of the world, inflicted great suffering on the human race and of being selfish and altogether destitute of feeling. Would not the Mohammadans also suffer, if the non-Mohammadans were to pay them in their own coin? It was indeed very unjust of God to have destroyed cities that turned out Mohammad. Can (the Mohammadan) paradise, in which rivers of pure water, milk and clarified honey flow, be any better than this mortal world. Rivers of milk, whose taste changeth not, cannot exist, because it turns sour in a short time. The enlightened people do not believe in the Mohammadan faith since it inculcates such incredible and inhuman teachings.
- 141. When the earth shall be shaken with a shock, and the mountains shall crumble with a crumbling and shall become scattered dust. (LVI. 4, 6.)

Then the people of the right hand, what shall be the people of the right hand! And the people of the left hand, what shall be the people of the left hand. (LVI. 8, 9).

On coaches inwrought with gold and studded with stars, reclining on them face to face: Aye—blooming youths go round about to them, with goblets and ewers and a cup of flowing wine, their brows ache not from it nor fails the sense: and will such fruits as shall please them best, and with flesh of such birds, as they shall long for and theirs shall be the Houris, with large dark eyes, like pearls hidden in their shells. (LVI. 15—22.)

And on lofty beds. Of a rare creation have we created the Houris and we have ever made them virgins, dear to thier sponses of equal age with them. (LVI, 33, 31).

And fill your bellies with it.

I swear by the falling of the stars. (LVI. 54, 74).

C.—Now mark the strange assertions of the author of the Qoran! As it is, the earth is always in motion and will therefore be moving also at the time referred to by him. It proves, however, one thing, namely, that the author of the Qoran believed the earth to be stationary. Will He make the mountains fly as if they were so many birds?

Even if they are transformed into insects and moths, they shall retain minutest bodies. Why then deny that they may be born again?

Indeed! Were not the Muslim God corporeal, how could anyone stand on His right or left (18 asserted in the Qoran)?

If there are, in paradise, couches inwrought with gold and studded with stars, carpenters and goldsmiths are also bound to be there. Very likely bugs too would not be wanting there to bite the sleepers, and thereby disturb their repose during the night!

Do the inmites of paradise always keep sitting idle, reclining on their pillows, or do they ever do anything? If they keep sitting ille they could not properly digest their food, which must produce disease and thus carry them early to their graves. But if they do any work, they must be earning their livelihood in paradise after the fashion of mortals here. What is there then to distinguish paradise from this world? Of course nothing.

As a rule it is only the liars that resort to swearing and not those who always speak the truth. If God Himself swears, He cannot be above lying.

If those boys always live in paradise, their parents as well as their fathers-and-mothers in-law must also do the same. This means that it must be a big colony there wherein diverse kinds of disease are bound to prevail on account of the accumulation of the night soil and other kinds of fifth.

If (as asserted) they eat fruits, drink warter out of tumblers and quaff out of wine-cups, why would not they be subject to headaches, and indulge in unbecoming expressions? If it be a fact that they surfeit themselves there with fruits and with the flesh of birds and beasts, they are sure to be afficated with various kinds of desease, and suffering. There must also be slaughter-houses as well as butchers' shops in paradise and bones must be scattered here and there Verily, it is hard to sufficiently praise the Muslim paradise! It seems as if it is even superior to Arabia! Of course when they become inebriate by free indulgence in meat and wine in paradise, they must stand in need of beautiful girls and handsome youths, otherwise the potations might affect, their brains and thereby transform them into raving maniacs! It is right that there should be sufficient number of beds to accommodate so many people in paradise,

- Of course it stands to reason that there should be youths in paradise when God has created virgins there. But we are told that the virgins in paradise are destined to be united to those male mortals who repair to paradise from this world. What about these male youths then who perpetualy dwell in paradise? God has kept reticent as regards their marriage, will they also along with the virgins be surrendered to the cambid mortals from this world? God has thrown no light on this point, and it must be regarded as a great ommission on His part. If women in paradise are united to men of the same age, it is not right, since the male should always be twice as old as the female or even older. So much regarding the Mohammadan paradise. As regards the Mohammadan hell, its immates will have to feed on (thohar) Euphorbia nereifolia [This means that there are thorny trees in hell bearing thorns.] And drink hot water. Such then are the sufferings, they will be afflicted with in hell
- 142. Verily God loveth those who, as though they were a solid wall, do battle for His cause in serried lines (LIX. 4.)
- C.—Good! It was by preaching such doctrines that He incited the poor Arabians to fight with, and thus make enemies of, the people of other countries and made religion an instrument of stimulating the passion for war and thereby caused immense suffering. Such a being no enlightened person can ever call God. He whocreates dissensions among men is realy the cause of their misery and sorrow.
- which God have made lawful to thee, from a desire to please thy wives, since God is lenient, and Merciful, Verily God is His protector. Hapily if he put you both away, his I ord in exchange will give him wives better then you, Muslims, believers, devoutly penitent, obedient observant of fasting, both known of men and virgins. (IXVI. 1, 5.)
- C.—If we reflect a little on the above, we shall see that God is but a servant of Mohammad to manage his affairs—internal as will as external! Two stories are told in connection with the first verse. One is that Mohammad was excessively fond of honey and water. He had many wives, and one day he was delayed while taking this drink in the house of one of them. The delay rather irritated his other wives. Mohammad then swore that he would never again drink honey and water. The second story is that one night Mohammad was to go to a particular wife of his. She was not there—in fact she was gone to her father's house; Mohammad, therefore, sanctified a famale slave of his! When the wife referred to came to know of this, she became angry with the prophet and made him swear that he would never do such a thing again, while he asked her to bind herself to observe secrecy. She promised not to disclose the matter to any one. But then he went to another wife of his and narrated the story to her. God then inspired Mohammad with this yerse:—

"Why dost thou consider that to be forbidden which God hath made lawful?" etc. Let the wise declare if ever God acts as an arbitrator in the household affairs of any man. And as regards Mohammad's character, sufficient light is thrown on it by the afore-mentioned stories, for how can a man, who is the husband of many wives, be either a pious man or prophet? Again, is he not partial, and therefore, sinful who, actuated by partiality, disgraces one wife and honours another. And how can he, who, not being contented with many wives, co-habits with his slaves, be moral, God-fearing and pious? Some one has well said:—

"The debauchee is not afraid or ashamed (of his turpitude)!"

Even the God of these people acted as a judge deciding disputes between the prophet and his wives. Let the wise now say whether the Qoran is written by God or is it the work of some ignorant, and selfish fellow. Again, from the second verse it appears that when a wife of Mohammad got angry with him. God threatened her by saying that if she continued recalcitrant and Mohammad divorced her on that account, He would give him better wives, who had not had any sexual connection with any man before. Any person, with a grain of sense in him, can u derstand whether these are the doings of God or of a being who is bent upon gaining his own selfish ends. These things clearly show that God said nothing of the sort, and that it was Muhammad, and not God who said anything suited to the occasion to serve his selfish purpose and attributed all these things to God. Not only we but all thoughtful men will say that (the Mohammadan) God was a mere procurer of wives for Mohammad.

- 144. O prophet, make war on the infidels and hypocrites and deal rigorously with them. (LX VI. 9.)
- C.—Again, mark the wonders wrought by the Mohammadan God! He incites the Prophet and the Mohammadans to fight with persons professing other religions. This is why the Mohammadans are always engaged in war. May God have pity on the Muslims, so that they may give up fighting and live on friendly terms with all.
- 145. And the heaven shall be rent assunder, for on that day it will be fragile. (LXIX. 16.)

And the angels shall be on its sides, and over them on that day eight shall bear up the throne of thy Lord. (LXIX. 17.)

And he who shall bear his book given to him in his right hand shall say to friends. "Take ye it; read ye my book." (LXIX. 19.)

But he who shall have his book given to him in his left hand will siy "O," that the book had never been given!" (LXIX. 25.)

- C.—What a deep philosophy, and what a remarkable sense of justice! Can the heaven be ever divided? Is it like a piece of cloth that it can be rent? If you call the sky above heaven, it is against the dictum of science. There is no doubt now as to the God of the Qoran being corporeal, since none who has not a body can sit on a throne and order it to be borne by eight men on their shoulders. Besides, front and behind can only be predicated of one that has a physical body. When God is corporeal, He is necessarily limited to a certain place and, therefore, cannot be Omniscient, Omnipresent, Almighty, nor can He be cognizant of the deeds of all souls. To place the books (of their deeds) in the right hand of the virtuous and have it read out and then send them to heaven, while to place books (of their deeds) in the left hand of the wicked and send them to hell, and to dispense justice with the help of books are very strange doings for an Omniscient God! Can an All-knowing Being ever act like this? It is a mere childish prattle.
- 146. By which the angels and the spirits ascend to him, in a day whose tength is fifty thousand years.

The day on which they shall flock up out of their graves in haste, like men who rally to a standard. (LXX. 4, 42.)

C—If the day equals fifty thousand years in length, the night is bound to be the same. But if this is not the case, the day can never be fifty thousand years in length. Will God, His angels, and those who hold the books of destiny in their hands keep sitting, standing, or waking during all these fifty thousand years? If so, then all these will fall ill and die again. Will the dead rise from their graves and run towards the court of God? And how will summons be sent to them in their graves? Again, why are those poor people, some of whom are virtuous while others wicked, kept confined to their graves during all this time? Is the court of God closed in these days and are He and His angels sitting idle? What could they be possibly doing? They might (for ought we know) be sitting in their places, wandering about hither, and thither, sleeping, or enjoying theatrical performances and dances, and living a life of ease and luxury. Let alone the Kingdom of God, such a thing would never happen under the rule of an earthly potentate. Who but savages can believe all these things?

147. For He it is who formed you by successive steps.

'See ye not how God has created the seven heavens one over the other.

And He has placed therein the moon as a light, and has placed there the sun as a torch. (LXXI. 14—16.)

- C.—If God created the soul, it can never be eternal or immortal. How can it then live for ever in paradise when what is created must perish. How can God place one heaven over another, since it is formless and all-pervading. If you give the name heaven to some thing other than Akásh (ether), it would serve no useful purpose. If heavens are placed one over the other, the sun and the moon cannot be placed between them. If they are placed in their middle, then only those that are immediately above and below will be in light; all others, beginning from the second heaven will be in darkness. But such is not the case, hence all this is wrong.
- 148. It is unto God that the temples are set apart: Call not then therein any other with God. (LXXII. 18.)
- C.—If this is true, why do the Mohammadans mention the name of Mohammad in the formula, "There is no God but Allah and Mohammad is His prophet." This is clearly against the teachings of the Qoran, but if it is not so, the verse of the Qoran referred to must be false. If the mosques are the houses of God, then Mohammadans are very idolatrous, since, if the Pauranics and the Jainees are idolatrous, because they call idols the houses of God, why are not Muslims the same?
- 149. And the sun and the moon shall be together.-(LXXV, 8.)
- C.—Can the sun and the moon ever join together? Mark! What senseless talk is this! What purpose is served by joining the sun and the moon, and why should not all the worlds be joined together? Can these impossible things ever be the work of God? Surely they cannot be the inventions of any but the illiterate.
- 150. Aye, blooming youths round among them, when thou lookest at them; thou wouldst deem them scattered pearls.

With silver bracelets shall they be adorned and drink of a pure beverage shall the Lord give them.—(LXXVI 19, 21.)

C.—Well Sir, why are boys of pearly complexion kept there? Cannot those in paradise be satisfied with being served by grown up men, and their desires being ministered to by women? It would not be at all surprising if the unnatural crime, which some of the most wicked people commit with boys, had had its origin it this verse of the Qoran. And why is in paradise partiality shown to some of the inmates by providing them with servants? This must afford pleasure to the served and be a source of misery to the servants? And if God fills their cups with wine for them, He is more like one of their servants. What does His greatness and glory then consist in? And do women become pregnant as the result of sexual intercourse with men and do they give birth to children? If they do not, the sexual connection is useless, and if they do, whence do those souls come? And why are they born in paradise without having worshipped God (on the earth)? If they are born there without believing in the true religion, they enter paradise without having deserved it. What can be more unjust than that some should enjoy happiness by being religious and others without it?

151. They shall have meet recompense.

And the cups are full.

Ruh and the angels shall be ranged in order.

(LXXVIII, 25, 32, 36.)

C.—If the dead are judged according to their deeds, what did Houris, angels, and boys of pearly complexion do to deserve perpetual residence in paradise? When they will drain whole cups-ful of wine, will they not become intoxicated, and fight with each other? Ruh is here the name of an angel who is stronger than the rest. Will God make Ruh and other angels stand in a line and form them into a regiment. Will He invest it with power to punish all (erring) souls? Will He himself at that time be sitting or standing? If God were to gather all His forces before the judgment day and thereby capture Satan, His rule would become secure. Well! This is indeed God-head!

152. When the sun shall be folded up.

And when the stars shall fall.

And when the mountains shall be set in motion.

And when the Heaven shall be stripped away. (XVIII 1-3,11.)

C.—It is extremely foolish to say that the sun, which is a sphere, will be folded up. Now how will the stars fall, and how will the mountains, which are lifeless, be set in motion? Again, is the sky a beast that it will be stripped away? Only the most ignorant people such as savages can talk like this.

153. When the Heaven shall cleave asunder.

And when the stars shall disperse.

And when the seas shall be commingled.

And when the graves shall be turned upside down and raised.—(LXXX 1-4.)

- C.—Bravo! Thou philosophic author of the Qoran, How wilt thou be able to cleave asunder the Heaven and disperse the stars? Are rivers logs of wood that they can be sawn into pieces? Are graves dead bodies that they will be raised? All these things are no better than a childish prattle.
 - 154. By the star be-spangled heaven!

Yet it is a glorious Qoran written on the preserved table (LXXXV-1,21.)

- C.—It is clear that the author of the Qoran had not at all studied Geography and Astronomy, othetwise why would he have compared the sky to castle having towers? If he calls Aries and the like constellations towers, why does he not give the same name to other stars? These are not towers but suns. If God was the author of the Qoran, He too must indeed be destitute of knowledge and reason, and sunk in the greatest depths of ignorance.
 - 155. They practice deceit against thee.

And I will practice deceit against them—(LXXXVI. 46.)

- C.—Decietfulness is synonymous with cheating. Is God, too, deceitful? Is theft to be answered by theft and a lie by another lie? If a thief were to break into an honest man's house, should the latter retort by robbing the former? Bravo! Thou author of the Qoran!
- 156. And thy Lord shall come and the angels rank on rank. And Hell on that day shall be brought there—(XXXIX, 23, 24.)
- C.—Does the God of these people, like a police Inspector or a commander, parade His forces? Is Hell like an erthen pitcher that it can be carried anywhere? If it is so small, how will it be able to contain countless prisoners?
- 1.7. And said the apostle of God to them—"Look after the camel of God and let her drink water."

But they treated him as an imposter and hamstrung her. So their Lord destroyed them for their crime, and visited all alike. (LXLI. 18, 15.)

- C.—Does God also go out for a ride on the camel? If not, why does He keep that animal, and why did He break His own law by afflicting these people with plague before the day of judgment? If He afflicted them with this disease, He must have done it by way of punishment, then the day of judgment and the judging of people on that day cannot but be false. This verse about the camel leads us to infer that in Arabia there were but few animals other than the camel for people to ride on. This also proves that the Oran was written by a native of Arabia.
- 158. Nay, Verily if he desist not, we shall sieze him by the forelock, the sinful, lying forelock!

We too will summon the guards of Hell.—(LXXVI. 15, 16, 18.)

- C—God did not escape performing the duties of a menial servant—that of dragging a person. Can the forelock be ever guilty and lying? It is only the soul that can be so. Can He be God Who summons the guards of Hell just as the governor (of a jail) sends for his warders?
- 159. Verily, we have caused it to descend on the night of power. And who shall teach thee what the night of power is? Therein descend the angels and the spirit by permission of their Lord for every matter (LXXVII. 1, 2 and 4.)
- C.—If the whole of the Qoran was revealed in one night, how can the assertion that a particular verse was revealed at a particular time be true? When the night is dark, every body knows it to be so without being told. We have already said that there is no up and down in space, but it is said that the angels and the Holy ghost, at the command of God, come here to manage the affairs of this world. This clearly proves that God, like men, is confined to a certain place. So far the Qoran has talked about God, the angels and the prophet, now we have got the mention of fourth being, named, the Holy Ghost. One does not know what is meant by the Holy Ghost. The fourth is an addition to three personages believed in by the Christians, namely, God, the Son and Holy Ghost. If you (Mohammadans) argue that you do not believe these three to be God, let it be so, but if the Holy Ghost is quite different from others, should the other three be called holy spirits? If they too are Holy spirits, why is only one particular person called Holy Ghost. Again, God swears by night and day, by horses and other animals, and by the Qoran, surely swearing is not resorted to by the good.

We lay this criticism on the teachings of the Qoran before all thinking people. Let them decide for themselves as to what sort of book it is. As for our opinion, we think that this book can neither be the work of God nor that of an enlightenened person, nor does it contain knowledge. We have pointed out some of its many faults so that people may not be taken in and thereby waste their lives. Whatever little truth it contains, being in harmony with the teachings of the Vedas and other scientific works, is acceptable to us as it is to other wise and enlightened men who are free from bigotry and religious prejudices. The rest is superstition and error. It increases the sufferings of the human race by making man a beast, and disturbs the peace of the world by promoting war and by sowing the seeds of discord. Besides, the Qoran is simply replete with useless rapetitions. May God be Merciful unto all men so that they may love one another, live together in peace and promote each other's happiness.

If all enlightened men were, like us, to point out, in an impartial spirit, various defects found in different religions, it is not at all impossible that all quarrels should cease, that people should live together in peace all following one religion, and that truth should thus triumph. The wise and the good, it is hoped, will understand the motives which actuated the writer of these lines and profit by what little has been said here about the Qoran. They are requested to correct any mistakes that might having crept into the book through error of judgment

Now there is only one thing left (before we are done with this subject). The Muhammadans, not unoften, say, write or publish that the Muhammadan religion is spoken of in the Atharva Vedu. It will suffice to say that there is not a word about this faith in the Vedu in question.

M.—Have you read the whole of the Atharva Veda? If you have, refer to Allopanishad. It is given there in plain words. Why do you then say that nothing is said in the Atharva Veda about the Muhammadan religion? Here is a passage from the Allopanishad:

That Mohemmet in here spoken of as the prophet in unequivocal terms, is a sufficient proof of the fact that the Muslim faith has its origin in the Veda.

अथाऽह्रोपनिषदं व्याख्यास्याः

अस्माक्षां इक्षे मित्रावरुगा दिव्यानि धत्ते । इल्लक्षे वरुणो राजा पुनर्ददुः । हया मित्रो इक्षां इल्लक्षे इक्षां वरुणो ित्रस्तेजस्कामः ॥ १ ॥

- A. If you have not read the Atharva Vala, come to us and look through its pages from beginning to end, or you may go to any person who knows that book and read with him all the verses given in its twenty chepters. You will never find the name of your Prophet in it. And as regards Allopanishad it is not given in the Atharva Veda or in its ancient commentary, called the Gopath Brahmaná or in any of its Shákhás (branches). We surmise that some one wrote it in the reign of the Emperor Akbar. Its author appears to have been a man who knew a little of Sanskrit and Arabic, because in its text both Sanskrit and Arabic words occur. For example, the Arabic words Asmállám Ille and the Sanskrit words Mitra and Varuna occur in above passage and the same is seen throughout the whole book. If we look to its meaning, it is altogether forced, unsound and opposed to the teachings of the Veda, (while the construction of words and sentences is quite) ungrammatical. The followers of other creeds who are blinded by bigotry have also likewise forged Upnishads such as Swarop Upnishad, Narsinhatapni, Ramtapni, Gopaltapni,
- M.—No one ever expounded this theory (as regards the Allopnishad) before; how can we then believe you?
- A .- Our statement cannot he wrong whether you believe it or not.

होतारमिन्द्रो होतारमिन्द्र महासुरिन्द्राः । अल्लो ज्यष्ठं श्रेष्ठं परमं पूर्ण ब्रह्माणं अल्लाम् ॥ २ ॥ अल्लोरबल महामदरकवरस्य अल्लो अल्लाम् ॥ ३ ॥ आदल्लाबुकममेककम् । अल्लायुक निखातकम् ॥ ४ ॥ अल्लो यज्ञेन हुतहुत्वा । अल्लासूर्य च द सर्व नन्नत्रा ॥ ५ ॥ अल्ला ऋषीणां सर्वे दिव्यां इन्द्राय पूर्वं माया परममन्तारिक्षाः ॥ ६ ॥ अल्लः पृथिच्या अन्तारत्तं विश्वरूपम् ॥ ७ ॥ इल्लाँ कवर इल्लाँ इल्लुब्रेति इल्लुब्धाः ॥ ८ ॥ ओम् अल्ला इल्लुङ्खा अनादिस्वरूपाय अश्वणीक्यामा हुं हीं जनानपश्चनासिद्धान् जलचरान् अदृष्टं कुरु कुरु फट ॥ ९ ॥ असुरसंहारिणी हुं हीं अल्लोरस्ल महमदरकवरःय अल्लो अल्लाम इल्लल्लोति इल्लल्लाः ॥ १० ॥

इत्यल्लोपनिषत् समाप्ता ॥

- A.—Your contention can be accepted as true only when you, in manner similar to that in which we have shown it to be wrong, point it (Allopanishad) out in the Veda, the Gopath, or in any of its ancient shakhas and show satisfactorily that the interpretation you put upon it is in harmony with the context.
- M—What a good religion is ours. By embracing it one can enjoy all the pleasures of this world as well as attain salvation hereafter.
- A.—Other sectaries also say "Our creed is the best, all others are bad. No one can attain salvation without accepting our faith." Whose assertion should we then accept as true, yours or theirs? All that we believe is that truthfulness in speech, love, fellow-feelling and the like virtues, in whatever creed they may be found, are commendable, while wrangling, and harbouring of jealousy and hatred, dissimulation and the like evil practices, advocated by whatsoever creed they may, are condemnable. If you are sincerely desirous of getting hold of truth, embrace the Vedic Religion.

THE END OF CHAPTER XIV.

A STATEMENT OF MY BELIEFS.

I believe in a religion based on universal and all-embracing principles which have always been accepted as true by mankind, and will contiune to command the allegiance of mankind in the ages to come. Hence it is that the religion in question is called the primevel eternal religion, which means that it is above the hostility of all human creeds whatsover. Whatever is believed in by those who are steeped in ignorance or have been led astray by sectaries is not worthy of being accepted by the wise. That faith alone is really true and worthy of acceptance which is followed by Aptas, i. e., those who are true in word, deed and thought, promote public good and are impartial and learned; but all that is discarded by such men must be considered as unworthly of belief and false.

My conception of God and all other objects in the universe is founded on the teachings of the I'edu and other true Shástrus, and is in conformity with the beliefs of all the sages, from Brahmá down to Jaimini. I offer a statement of these beliefs for the acceptance of all good men. That alone I hold to be acceptable which is worthy of being believed by all men in all ages. I do not entertain the least idea of founding a new religion or sect. My sole aim is to believe in truth and help others to believe in it, to reject falsehood and help others to do the same. Had I been biased, I would have championed any one of the religions prevailing in India. But I have not done so. On the contrary, I do not approve of what is objectionable and false in the institutions of this or any other country, nor do I reject what is good and in harmony with the dictates of true religion, nor have I any desire to do so, since a contrary conduct is wholly unworthy of man. He alone is entitled to be called a man who possesses a thoughtful nature and feels for others in the same way as he does for his own self, does not fear the unjust however powerful but fears the truly virtuous, however weak. Moreover, he should always exert himself to his utmost to protect the righteous, and advance their good, and conduct himself worthily towards them even though they be extremely poor and weak and destitute of material resources. On the other hand, he should constantly strive to destroy, humble, and oppose the wicked, sovereign rulers of the whole earth and men of great influence and power though they be. In other words, a man should, as for as it lies in his power, constantly endeavour to undermine the power of the unjust and to strengthen that of the just, he may have to bear any amount of terrible suffering, he may have even to quaff the bitter cup of death in the performance of this duty, which devolves on him on account of being a man, but he should not shirk it."

A translation of this portion of the book was published by Bawa Chhajju Singh some years ago. With his kind permission I have utilized it in my translation—Tr.

King Bluertri Hari and other wise men have composed verses on the subject which I subjoin with the hope that they will prove useful:—

- (1) "The wordly-wise may praise one or censure him; for-Bhartri Hari. tune may smile on him or frown on him; death may overtake him immediately or he may live for ages, but a wise man does not swerve from the path of justice."
- (2) "Let a man never renounce Dhurma (righteousness)

 Mahahbarat either through lust or through fear, or through greed or even to save his life, since Dhurma is imperishable, while pleasure or pain is perishable, the soul is immortal, while the body is mortal.
 - १ निन्दन्तु नीतिनिपुणा यदिवास्तुवन्तु, लक्ष्मीः समाविशतु गच्छतु वा यथेष्टम् । अद्यैव वा मरणमस्तु युगान्तरे वा न्याय्यात्पथः प्रविचलान्ति पदं न धीराः ॥ भर्तृहरिः ॥
 - २ न जातु कामान भयान लोभाद्, धर्म त्यजेज्जीवितस्यापि हेतोः । धर्मो नित्याः सुखदुःखे त्वनित्य, जीवो नित्यो हेतुरस्य त्वनित्यः ॥ महाभारते ॥
 - (१) एक एव सुहद्भर्मी निधनेप्यनुयाति यः। श्रुतरोण समं नाशं सर्वमन्यद्वि गच्छति ॥ मनु ० ॥

- Manu (3) "There is only one true friend that accompanies one even after death. All others desert one as soon as death has overtaken him."
- (4) "It is truth that conquers, not error It is the path of rectitude alone that men of learning and piety have trodden, and it is by following this path that the great sages of righteous desires have reached the highest citadel of truth—God."
- (5) "Verily there is no virtue higher than truth; no sin blacker than falsehood. Verily there is no Knowledge higher than truth; let a man, therefore, always follow truth."

Let all men have the same kind of firm belief with (in the power of truth and justice) as has been expressed by great souls (in the above verses).

Now I give below a brief summary of my beliefs. Their detailed exposition has been given in this book in its proper place.

- 1. He, Who is called Brahma or the Most High; who is Paramátmá, or the Supreme Spirit Who permeates the whole universe; Who is a true personification of Existence, Consciousness and Bliss, Whose nature, attributes and characteristics are Holy; Who is Omniscient, Formless. All-pervading, Unborn, Infinite, Almighty, Just and Merciful; Who is the author of the universe, sustains and dissolves it; Who awards all souls the fruits of their deeds in strict accordance with the requirements of absolute justice and is possessed of the like attributes,—even Him I believe to be the Great God.
- 2. I hold that the four Vedas—the repository of Know-ledge and Religious Truths—are the Word of God. They comprise what is known as the Sandrida—Mantra portion only. They are absolutely free from error, and are an authority unto themselves. In other words, they do not stand in need of any other book to uphold their authority. Just as the sun (or a lamp) by his light, reveals his own nature as well as that of other objects of the universe, such as the earth—even so are the Vedas.

The commentaries on the four Vedas viz, the Bráhmanas the six Angas, the six Upanyas, the four Up-Vedas, and the eleven

- (४) सत्यमेव जयते नानृतं सत्यन पन्था विततोदेवयानः।
 नेहार्यमन्त्युषयो ह्याप्तकामा यत्र तत्सत्यस्य परमं निधानम्॥
- (५) निह सत्यात्परो धर्मो नानृतात्पपातकं परम् ॥ निह सत्यापरं ज्ञानं तस्मात्सत्यं समाचरेत् ॥ उ० नि० ॥ hundred and twenty-seven Shákhás, which are expositions of the Vedic texts by Brahmá and other great Rishis—I look upon as works of a dependent character. In other words, they are held to be authoritative in solfar as they conform to the teachings of the Vedas. Whatever passages in these works are opposed to the Vedic injunctions I reject them entirely.

- 3. The practice of equitable justice together with that of truthfulness in word, deed and thought and the like (virtues)—in a word, that which is in conformity with the Will of God, as embodied in the Vedas—even that I call Dharma (right). But the practice of that which is not free from partiality and injustice as well as that of untruthfulness in word, deed and thought, in a word, that which is apposed to the Will of God, as embodied in the Vedas-even that I term Adharma (wrong).
- 4. Immortal, eternal Principle which is endowed with attraction and repulsion, feelings of pleasure and pain, and consciousness and whose capacity for knowledge is limited,— even that I beleive to be the soul.
- 5 "God and the soul are two distinct entities by virtue of being different in nature and of being possessed of dissimilar attributes and characteristics. They are, however, inseparable one from the other, being related to each oth r as the pervader and the pervaded and have certain attributes in common. Just as a material object has always been and shall always be, distinct from the space in which it exists and as the two have never been, nor shall ever be one and the same, even so are God and the soul to each other. Their mutual relation is that of the pervader and the pervaded, of father and son. This worships and that is worshipped.
- 6. I hold three things to be beginningless, namely, God, the the soul, and prakriti—the material cause of the universe. These are also known as the eternal substrata. Being eternal, their essential nature, their attributes and their characteristics are also eternal.
- 7. Substances, properties, and characteristics, which result from combination, cease to exist on the dissolution of that compound. But the power or force, by virtue of which one substance unites with another, or separates from it, is eternally inherent in that substance, and this power will compel it to seek similar unions and disunions in the future. Unions and disunions, Creation and Dissolution (of the world) [and birth and death of the being] have eternally followed each other in succession.
- 8. That which results from the combination of different elementary substances in an intelligent manner and in the right proportion and order,—even that, in all its infinite variety, is called Creation.

- 9. The purpose of Creation is the essential and natural exercise of the creative energy of the Deity. A person once asked another "What is the use of the eyes?" "Why to see with, to be sure," was the reply. The same is the case here. God's creative energy can be exercised and the souls can reap the fruits of their deeds only when the world is created.
- 10. The world is created. Its Creator is the afore-said God. The existence of design in the universe as well as the fact that the dead innert matter is incapable of moulding itself into different ordered forms, such as seeds, proves that it must have a Creator.
- "11. The earthly bondage (of the soul) has a cause. This cause is ignorance which is the source of sin, as among other things it leads man to worship objects other than God, obscures his intellectual faculties, whereof pain and suffering is the result. Bondage is termed so, because no one desires it but has to undergo it.
- 12. The emancipation of the soul from pain and suffering of every description and a subsequent career of freedom in the Allpervading God and His immense Creation for a fixed period of time and its resumption of earthly life after the expiration of that peiod constitute Salvation.
- 13. The means of salvation are the worship of God, in other words, the practice of yoya. the performance of righteous deeds, the acquisition of true knowledge by the practice of Brahmacharya, the society of the wise and the learned, love of true knowledge, purity of thought, a life of activity and so on.
- 14. The righteously acquired wealth alone consititutes Artha, while that which is acquired by foul means is called Anarth.
- 15. The enjoyment of legitimate desires with the help of honestly-acquired wealth constitutes Káma.
- 16. The Class and Creder of an individual should be determined by his merits.
- 17. He alone deserves the title of a king who is endowed with excellent qualities and a noble disposition, and bears on exalted character, who follows the dictates of equitable justice, who loves and treats his subjects as a father does his own offspring and is ever engaged in promoting their happiness and in furthering their advancement.
- 18. He alone deserves to be called a subject who is possessed of excellent qualities, a noble disposition and a good character, is free from partiality follows the behests of justice, righteousness, and is ever engaged in furthering the happiness of his fellow-subjects as well as that of his sovereign, whom he regards in the light of a parent, and is ever loyal.

- 19. He who always thinks well (before he acts), is ever ready to embrace truth and reject falsehood, who puts down the unjust and helps the just, feels for others in the same way as he does for his own self—even him I call just.
- 20. Devas are those who are wise and learned; asuras, are those who are foolish and ignorant; rákshas are those who are wicked and love sin; and pisháchas, are those who are filthy in their habits.
- 21. Devapúja consists in showing honor to the wise and the learned to one's father, mother and preceptor, to the itinerant preachers of truth, to a just ruler, to those who lead righteous lives, to women who are chaste and faithful to their husbands, to men who are devoted and loyal to their wives. The opposite of this is called Adevapúja. The worship of the above named persons I hold to be right, while the worship of the dead, inert objects I hold to be wrong.
- 22. Education (Shikshá) is that which helps one to acquire knowledge, culture, righreousness, self-control and the like virtues; and eradicates ignorance and evil habits.
- 23. The Puránas are the Brahmana books, such as Aitreya Brahmana written by the great Rishis like Brahmá. They are also called Itihás, Kalpa, Gáthá, and Náráshansi. The Bháyvat and other books of that sort are not the (real) Puránas.
- 24. Tirtha is that by means of which the 'ocean of misery' is crossed. It consists in the practice of truthfulness in speech, in the acquisition of true knowledge, in cultivating the society of the wise and the good, in the practice of yamas and (other stages) of yoya in leading a life of activity, in the diffusion of knowledge and in the performance of the like good works. So-called sacred places on land and water are not tirthas.
- 25. Activity is superior to Destiny, since the former begets the latter, and also because if the activity is well directed, ends well; but if it is wrongly directed, all goes wrong.
- 26. I hold that it is commendable for man to feel for others in the same way as he does for his own self, to sympathise with them in their sorrows and losses and to rejoice in their joys and gains; and that it is reprehensible to do otherwise.

- 27 Sanakár is that which contributes to the pyhsical mental, and spiritual improvement of man. From Conception to Cremation there are sixteen sanskárs altogether. I hold that their due and proper observance is obligatory on all. Nothing should be done for the departed after the remains have been cremated.
- 28. I hold that the performance of yajna is most commendable. It consists in showing due respect to the wise and the learned, in the proper application of the principles of chemistry and of physical and mechanical sciences to the affairs of life, in the dissemination of knowledge and culture, in the performance of Agnihotra which, by contributing to the purification of air and vegetables, directly promotes the well-being of all sentient creatures.
- 29. Gentlemen are called Aryas while rogues are called Dasyus.
- 30. This country is called Aryávarta because it has been the abode of the Aryas from the very dawn of Creation. It is bounded on the north by the Himalayas, on the south by the Vindleyáchala mountains, on the east by the Attak (Indus), and on the west by the Brahmaputra. The land included within these limits Aryavarta, and those that have been living in it from times immemorial are also called Aryas.
- 31. An Achárya is one who teaches the sciences of the Vedus as well as their Angus and Upanyus, who helps (his pupils) to live righteous lives and keep aloof from bad habits and vices.
- 32. He alone is a Shishya (pupil) who has the capacity for acquiring knowledge and true culture, whose moral character is unimpeachable, who is eager to learn, and is devoted to his teacher.
- 33. By the term Guru is meant father or mother. It also applies to one through whose instrumentality one's mind is grounded in truth and weaned from falsehood
- 34. He is a Purohitu who wishes well to his Yujumán, and always preaches truth to him.
- 35. An Upádhyàya (Professor)is one who can teach certain portions of the Vedas or of the Anyas.
- 36. Shishtáchar consists in leading a virtuous life, in acquiring knowledge during the period of Brahmcharya, in sifting truth from error by the help of (the eight kinds of) evidence, such as direct cognition and then embracing truth and rejecting error. He who practises shishtáchár is called a shishta (gentleman).
- 37. I believe in the eight kinds of evidence such as direct cognition.

- 38. I call him alone an A'pt who always speaks the truth, is just and upright and labours for the good of all
 - 39. There are five tests:—
- (1) The nature, attributes and characteristics of God, and the teachings of the Veda. (2) Eight kinds of evidence, such as Direct Cognition. (3) Laws of nature. (4) The practice of Aptas. (5) The purity and conviction of one's own soul.

It behoves all men to sift truth from error with the help of these five tests and to embrace truth and reject error.

- 40. Propkár (philanthropy) is that which helps to wean all men from their vices and alleviate their sufferings, promote the practice of virtue among them and increase their happiness.
- 41. The Soul is a free agent to do deeds, but Is subservient to God for reaping the fruits thereof. Likewise, God is free to do His good works.
- 42. Swarga (Heaven) is the enjoy nent of extreme happiness and the attainment of the means thereof.
- 43. Narka (Hell) is another name for undergoing extreme suffering and possession of the means thereof.
- 44. Janma (birth), which consits in the soul's assumption of the gross, visible body, viewed in relation to time is three-fold viz. past, present and future.
- 45. Birth it another name for the union of the soul with the body, and death is the dissolution of this link.
- 46 The acceptance of the hand, through mutual consent, of a person of the opposite sex in a public manner and in accordance with the laws (laid down by the Vedas and shástras) is called Marriate.
- 47. Niyoya is the temporary union of a person with another of the opposite sex, both parties may belong to the same Class or the male may belong to a Class higher, for the raising of issue, when marriage his failed to fulfil its legitimate purpose. It is resorted to in extreme cases, either on the death of one's consort or when protracted disease has destoryed reproductive power in the husband or in the wife.
- 48. Stuti (Glorification) consists in praising Divine attributes and powers or in hearing them being praised, with the view to fix them in our mind and realize their meaning. Among other things it inspires us with love towards God.
- 49. Prarthand (Prayer) is praying to God, after one has done his utmost, for the gift of highest knowledge and similar (other blessings) which result from union with Him. It creates humility, etc., (in the mind of the devotee).

- 50. Updsná (Communion) consists in conforming ourselves, as far as possible, in purity and holiness to the Divine Spirit, and in feeling the presence of the Deity in our heart by the realization of His All-pervading nature through the practice of Yoya which enables one to have direct cognition of God. Updsand serves to extend the bounds of our knowledge.
- 51. Saguna Stuti consists in praising God as possessed of specific attributes which are inherent in Him; while Nirguna Stuti consists in praising God as devoid of attributes which are foreign to His nature.

Saguna Prárthaná consists in praying to God for the attainment of virtuous qualities; while Nirgun Prárathaná consists in imploring the Deity to rid us of all our faults.

Saguna upásná consists in resigning oneself to God and His Will realizing Him as possessed of attributes that are in harmony with His nature; while Nirguna Upásaná consists in resigning oneself to God and His Will realizing Him as devoid of attributes that are foreign to his nature.

I have briefly explained my beliefs here, their detailed exposition is to be found in this very book in its proper place as well as in my other works such as "An Introduction to the exposition of the Vedas."

In other words I believe what is worthy of belief in the eyes of all, such as veracity in speech; while I do not believe what is considered wrong by all, such as untruthfulness. I do not approve of the mutual wrangling of the sectaries, since they have by propagating their creeds led the people astray and turned them each other's enemy. The sole aim of my life, which I have also endeavoured to achieve, is to help to put an end to this mutual wrangling, preach universal truths, bring all men into the fold of one religion whereby they may cease to hate each other and, instead, may firmly love one another, live in peace and work for their common weal. May this doctrine, through the grace and help of God, with the support of all truthful, honest and learned men who are devoted to the cause of humanity (Aptas) reach every nook and cornor of this earth so that all may acquire righteousness, wealth, gartify legitimate desires and attain salvation and thereby elevate themselves and live in happiness. This alone is the chief object (of my life).

["Mayest Thou (AOM) O God, Who art (Mitra), Friend of all, (Varuna) Holiest of all, and (Aryama) Controller of the Universe, be merciful unto us. Mayest Thou (Indra) O God Rig Veda. Almighty, (Vrihaspati) Lord of the Universe, Support of all, endow us with knowledge and power. Mayest Thou (Vishnu) O Omnipresent and (Urkrama) Omnipotent Being shower Thy blessings all around us."]

FINIS.

और म् शको मित्रः शं वरुंणः । शको भवत्वर्ध्यमा ॥ शन्न इन्द्रो वृहरतपति । शन्नो विष्णुरुरुक्रमः ॥ नमो ब्रह्मणे । नमस्ते वायो । त्वमेव मस्यक्षं ब्रह्मवादिषः ऋतमवादिषम् सत्यमवादिषम् । तन्मामाबीत् । तहकारमाबीत् । आविन्माम् । सार्वे क्रियम् । तन्मामाबीत् । तहकारमाबीत् । आविन्माम् । सार्वे क्रियम् । औरम् श्वान्तिः श्वान्तिः श्वान्तिः श्वान्तिः ।।

APPENDIX.

The following are the books condemned by the author in his scheme of studies:—

- (i) Grammar:—
 - 1. Kátantra, 2. Sáraswata, 3. Chandriká, 4. Mugdhabodha, 5. Kaumudi, 6. Shekhar, 7. Manormá, etc.
- (ii) Dictionary. Amarakosha, etc.
- (iii) Prosody, Vrittaratnákara, etc.
- (iv) Shikshá is the Science which teaches the proper pronunciation of words and laws of euphony.

Alka Shiksham Pravakshyami Pránamyan matam yathá

(v) Jyotisha (astronomy).

Shighrabodha, Mahurta, chinta mani, etc., books on astrology.

- (vi)Poetry: 1. Náyaká bheda, 2. Kuvabjá nanda, 3. Rayhuvansha 4. Máyha, 5. Kirátarjuniyá, etc.
- (vii) Mimánsá:—

1. Dharmasindhu, 2. Vratárka, etc.

(viii) Vaisheshika:— Tarkasanyrah, etc.

(ix) Nyaya:—
Yogdisha, etc.

(x) Yoga:-

Hathapradipikú.

(xi) Sánkhya:—

Sánkhyatatwa kaumudi, etc.

(xii) Vedánta:-

1. Yogavasishtha, 2. Panchadashi.

(xiii) Medical Science:—
Shárangdhara.

(xiv) Smriti:-

All Smritis except the Manu Smriti barring the interpolated verses.

All Tantras, Puránas, Upapuránas, Rámáyana by Tulsi Das, Rukmani Mangala, etc., and all book (of this kinds,) written in Bháshá.

INTRODUCTION

TO

CHAPTER XI.

is a well known fact that 5,000 years ago, in the whole world there existed no other religion but the Vedic. All its teachings are unopposed to the dictum of knowledge. It was the Great War of Mahabharata that turned the people away from the pursuit of, and devotion to the study and preaching of the Veda. This led to the spread of ignorance and intellectual darkness all over the world. The understanding of men having become clouded they founded religions just as thought fit. Of all these religions the four principal ones are:—the Pauranic, the Jain (or the Budhistic), the Christian and the Mohammadan, They are all opposed to the Vedic Religion, and are the root of all other religions that are extant in the world. They came into existence one after the other in the order given above. The various sects of these religions to-day number not less than one thousand. This book has been written in order to facilitate discussion between the advocates and followers of these religions and others for the ascertainment of truth. Whatever has been written in this book in advocacy of the true religion and in refutation of the false has been done with the sole object of the enlightenment of all. We have thought it right to lay before the public what opinion we have formed of these four religions according to our understanding and knowledge after a thorough study of the books on which they are based, as lost knowledge cannot be easily recovered. All impartial readers of this book will come to know which religion is true and which false. It will then be easier for them to exercise their understanding and embrace the true religion and renounce the false. The merits and demerits of the Pauranic religion whose followers are divided into many sects that have sprung up at different times in this country, called Aryavarta (India), will be briefly discussed in the eleventh Chapter. Should the readers not consider it au act of public good, they would not at least bear any ill-will towards us, since it has never been our object to do any one harm or entertain any hostile feelings towards any one, on the other hand our sole object is the ascertainment and propagation of truth. In like manner, it is extremely necessary for all men to act justly. The aim of human life is to find out truth and to preach it to others and not to wrangle in a spirit of hostility Unbiased, learned men can very well know how many undesirable results have accrued, and are likely to accrue in this world from the mutual wrangling of chismatics and sectaries. There will be no peace and good-will among men till this wrangling ceases. Should we all, especially learned men amongst us, having freed ourselves from jealousy and hatred, try to ascertaine what is right and what is wrong, desire to embrace the truth and preach to others our honest convictions, and reject falsehood, it would not be found impossible for us to do so. It is certain that mutual dissensions among the learned have been the cause of mutual hatred, discord and strife among the masses. If all these men were not immersed in selfishness and were wishful to further the interests of all, it is very likely that all mankind may have one common religion. The method of achieving this end will be indicated at the end of this book. May the Almighty, Allpervading God inspire all men with the spirit of establishing one universal religion.

INDEX.

A	C
PAGE	Page.
Abraham's untruthfulness (17) 567	Causes of Foreign rule in India 303
Administration of Justice 178	Characteristics of—
Administrative Office 164	— Bondage 258
411a masahad 674	Emancipation . 258
Animal Sacrifice 323	Ignorance 257
AOM the highest name of God 2	—— Imposters 109
Aquatic origin of all animals	Knowledge 257
in Quran (115) 651	Chief Offices in Government 154
Art and Policy of war 161-164	Child's conduct, parents duty
Aryas and non-Aryas 248	toward it 21, 25-28
Aryan system of Government 189	10 vara 10 21, 23 20
Aryan Universal Monarchy 310	Christ's:—
Astrology 23, 392 43 23	——Creation of discord among
— Horoscopes 23	people 587 Crucifixion 594
Planets and their effect	Crucifixion 594
on us 393 Atheism, refuted 238-241, 475	Impatience and indignation 591
Atheism, retuted 238-241, 475	—— Inability to enter Heaven 609
Authentic and Non Authentic	net 584
Books (See Appendix) 66, 70	real motive 590
Author of Quran ignorant of	Egolism 592
Astronomy and Geography (42) 628	taking up others' sins on
Author's opinion about Quran 672	himself 6c6
B	Christian-
Bhúta and Preta 21-23 Biblical Gossips (82) 588	ass sees angel 500
Biblical Gossips (82) 588	Cock and Bull tale 599-601
Bohadeva the author of Bhágwata 392	cry for Justice 601
Book of Fate and the Muslim	—— Dissimulation 584
Day of Judgement (102, 103) 647
Book of Jacob 582	Faith, estimated 588
Boundries of Aryavarta 249	great unjustice 591
Bráhmans and Popes 316-320	— Heaven 597-600, 601-604,
Brahma Samaj, Prarthná Samaj 441	608 , 6 09
Budhism 482	marriage in — 607
According to Vivekavilása 489	picture of — — 601.606 War in — 604
Five Mundane forms of	·
consciousness in — 486	Prophet (Jacob) impregnates his daughters 659
Different forms of — 433	his daughters 659 with seals on their fore-
Docrines of — 485
Unaminity of Jainism	head 603 Christianity reviewed 358
and —— 496
Burial of the deads, its evils (27) 570	Cognizance of the Soul and God 195

Page.	Page.
Conduct	Emancipation—
desirable and undesirable 291	— How attained 271
Contradiction between Moses,	1 1 1
Christ, David, and Mohamad's	TT 1 1 7 7 1
	Etymological Exposition of variou
Contradictions in Quran 632, 638	Names of God
Controversy about Creation in	Examination of different religions
Shastras compromised 244	in India 310
Cooking and Cooks 303	Examination of doctrines of Chris-
Cosmogony—	tianity 558
in Quran 147, 149, 642 670	Examination of Mohamadan Rein Vedas 208	_ ligion 613
Couple's mutual relations 98—99 Cow Protection, discussed 304	Existence of God proved 194
Cow Protection, discussed 304	Europian Scholar 314
·	Europians, causes of their ad-
ď	vance 443
Dasyu, Mlechha, Asur Nága, etc.	P described 250
Day of Judgement in Quran and	Facing towards Mecca (6) 622
hurly burly of the deads 669	Fall of Kryavarta 311
Detective Police 166	Fall of Jainism and rise of Shaiv-
Devi Bhágwata reviewed 344	ism 340
Dictates to a Warrior of Honour 161	ism 340 "——" discussed 402
Diet 303	Fasting days in Mohamadans (34) 624
Permissible and forbidden 303	Female Education 73
Division in to Classes (Varnvya-	Five critaria between right and vasthá) 83	wrong 48-54
Doctrines of Karmaphala-	wrong 48-54 Five Great daily duties 42-43, 100-106
— in Bible (73, 119, 130) 588	and this uses 106-109
606, 609	Five Systems in Human Body 271
—— in Quran 646	Five Vital (Nervauric) systems 272
T	Flesh diet and its evils 304
	Forbidden things in Quran (63) 635
Duties of—	Foreign travelling proved from
Four Classes (Varanas) 90, 116	ancient Indian History 298
	Forgiveness augments iniquity
	636 662
Accomply	Fort 159
Assembly 159 —— Sanyási 137-147 —— Vánprasthi 132-134
—— Sanyási 137-147	vs
— Vánprasthi 132-134
E
	G
Earth is Stationary, a Quranic teaching 650	Gáyatri Mantra 30-31 0 12 42 4
	marriage 94-96
Eighteen causes of Distute 177-178	Geneology of Aryan Emperors 463-472
Emancipated soul 264, 283—285	Geneses 558
Emancipation and Bondage 257
—— their causes 263	Glorification, Prave, Communion 197

PA	GE.	PA	GE.
God-		-his pugnacitous teaching
Depicted in Bible	1	(-1)	632
a shephe:d	575	— his regement (51)	671
— a wrestler	573	self commendation (118)	652
— his creation of dissension	1	his she-cannel (91, 103, 118,	_ among men	566	· == \ 6.10 6.1= 6.20	672
his inability to punish Satan		his warning (25)	62 2
and protect his devotees	582	—— leadeth astray (57) (95) 633,	644
— his pest lences on Israel	581	orders idolworship (112)	650
his place a slaughter House	578	not cognizant of future (12)
—— his sons and daughters	564		630
— plays tricks with Moses	578	—— partisan of prophet (59)	634 possesses finite knowledge	570	sends set an to beguile	c
— punishes the guiltless	576	people (108)	649
subservient to Satan	592	sets seals on infidals'	c
—— embodied God 562, 577,		hearts (15)
wicked and the good	605	takes loan (39, 64) 627,	035
In Quran	6.6	teaches perfidy among	640
a challenger	616	meighbours (87) will deceive the them (61)	642
— a great strategic	640		634 672
a great trickster a Juggler 637,	631	In Veias 191—	-
. libantina (, ,)	629	God and the soul, their mutual	222
a intertine (44) a strange philosopher (129)	629 650	relations 209—	-220
a tradesman (86)	659 642	God and the Vedas 239-	-210
— a veritable tyrant (83)	641	God and his attributes 195-	-107
- an enimy to infidals (21)	621	God and other gods
an Inspector of Police (156)	672	God the material cause, refuted
	622	1	22
— beguiles satan (98)	645	God, soul and Prakriti
Bestows daughters and sons	- 13	Guru (Precepters), their teachings	405 to Muslim (157)	663		3 0
Brings dead to life (136) 619		H
celebrates marriages (139)	664	Haridwara—The Gate of Heaven	37 I — guilty of unjustice (35)	632	Heavenly City in Bible and its	٥,
—— his angels (125)	654	construction	6 c8
angels of Paradise, their		Heaven shall cleave asunder (153	672 numbers (51)	631	Hell and Heaven	284
—— his apostals (53)	631	Highest duty of Parents towards —— his chair (41, 70, 88, 145)		their children	29
628, 637, 642		Hindu sects and Cults reviewed
—— his daughters (100)	646		347
—— his favourism (4)	614	Charwaka	477
his forgiveness and its evils	_	Doctrinal differences
(22)	622	between it and other his meraculous fears (23)	622	allied sects and	482
his merciless commands	6.	points of agreement between	_
. (80, 81)	640	it and Budhism and Jainism	•
his method of creation (99)	645	Choli Máraga	409
—— his partners (218)	619	Dadoopanth	428

i▼ index.

		PAGE.		P	AGE.
Gokuliá Gosáin	•••	426	Saptasyáda (seven p	robabili-	,
Kabir Pantha	•••	417	tion	•••	492
Khákhi		-417	self eulogium		518
Lingánkita	•••	441	Siddhashila		535
Madhawa	•••	440	Swargapuri	•••	535
Nanaka	•••	418	Jainism and Budhism, th	eir Un-
Narayan Swami	•••	435	animity	•••	496
Shivites	•••		Johan's rediculous imagin	ations	601
Vaishnavites		, 449	Johons revelations		599
, Vá ma Márga		, 320	Jwálá-devi		370
Holy Prayer	•••		ĸ		•
Homa and its good		36
Houses in Quranic-Paradis	e (41)	665	113. 1000	•••	421
Hundred names of God	• (4-)	7		Muslims
Hypocritic Sadhus and B	rahm-	′	Káli of Calcutta	•••	364
charies	•••	457	Kings II		581
I	•••	101	Kitchen (Chauká) 3	00, 307,
			Kleshas (Pains) five kinds	·	276
Idol of Soma Náth	• • •	368	Knowledge and Ignoranc	e	257
Idol Worship			L.
— a Sin	•••	356	Lake at Amritsar	•••	9-0-1
in Bible	•••	572	Laws for conception and	cresto.	321
in Jainism (Hindu)	530	, 604	tion	1 9~
in Jainism (Hindu) in Quran (30), (148)	624	670	Legislation and adminis		-20
115 CVIIS	• • •	358	Legislation and adminis
its Origin	•••	349	Leviticus	154-
Indecency in Quran (111,			Leviticus	•••	570
	650,	670	M
Incarnation of God, confute	ed	206	Man, his creation
Instinctive knowledge	•••	552	in Bible		デ
Introduction to			Quran	98,	559
— Chapter 11th	3.	o(b)	— in Vedas
Chapter 12th	• • •	473	Manglácharana	:	247
Chapter 13th	•••		the prologue, inter	logue
Chapter 14th		110	and epilogue		-16
The Book	i i	—ix	Marching of Troops	•••	174
"Is God the Monopoly of Mu	ıslıms'	643	Marriage	•••	94
J			advantage of distant	:	98
Jagannáth at Puri	•••	365	best time for —	•••	80
Jain	•••	3,3	Brides avoided for -		80
absurdities		545	Characteristics of —	•••	93
cock and bull stories		547	Choice (Swayamvaar	r svs-	93
gods		297	tem of —		84
Idolworship		530	disadvantage of near	,	98
religion discussed	492,	,	evils of child —		85
revilings on God refute	ed	497	evils of kindred —	•••	78
Sadhu's their evil prac	tices	537	Families avoided in -	-	79 79
Salvation	•••	535	consent of contractin		13
Saptabhanga (seven	peri-	555	parties of —, and it		83 phases)	••••	492	Married life	_	77

vi, index.

Yajna

PAGE. revealed in Arbic, a favour-Snankaracharya and Neoveism to Arbas 614 dánta 226-323 revealed to Mohamad, a Ships in Manu's time 188 fraudulence (68) 636 Shráddha—offering oblations to the manes ... 364 R. Shudras entitled to study 73 Six Entities 54 Rameshwar pilgrimage 367 Six measures of Administration 168 Rate of l'axes 171 Sodomy in Paradise 🤼 670-671 Recepient, worthy and unworthy 400 Some absurdities of Religionists and an inquisitor 449—457 Quran 659, 670, 671, 672 Re-marriage 117 Soul 208 —— its evils ... 117 ---- a free agent... --- whom advocated 259 117 -- and inert matter in Jainism --- whom prohibited 511 117 --- in Emancipation 283 Remission of sins by repentance ---- its acquisition of manifold refuted (109) 650 briths 278 Renting of Heaven in Quran (145)668 - its three Phases 272 Return Home ceremony 77 Statement of my beliefs Revelation of Quran (159) 677 673 Strange Book of Wisdom 655 Revelation of Veda 221-224 Sun sets in a miry fount (Quran) 648 Revenue 160 Superiority of indiginous Rule... Rules for a Brahmachári and a tutor 40-45 T. Taxes · 167 Ten rules of Conduct 140-141 Sacred places of Hindus Theism and atheism ---- Badri, Kashi Prayaga 372 Three Assemblies of Government 149 - Haridwar (Gate of Heaven) 37 I Three grades of Brahmacharya 37 - Jwáládevi 370 I'hree phases of soul 272 - Lake at Amritsar 37 I Three qualities and their effects - Kali of Calcutta 364 on soul 285-290 — Jagannath at Puri 365 ... Three Teachers 19 ---- Rameshwara... 367 ---- Shankar Monastries 428 U. ---- Vindhyeshwari 373 • • • — Vrindáwan ... Universe, controversy about crea-378 ••• Sacred thread tion in Shástras compromi-36-37 Salvation sed 277—278 244 Sanyása whom advocated Universe, causes of creation-134-135 Common -Sarah conceived by God 569 232 Satan subjugates God 592 Efficient -232 • • • 605 Material —— Satan the deceptive entity 232 Universe, its age ... Satua, Rajas, Tamas, the three 25 I qualities, their effects on Universe, its sustenance 252-Universe, Neovedantic Theory of soul 285—290 | Scheme of study ... 65-70 | creation, criticised 233 Science and art in ancient India 342 Universe, purpose of its creation 235 Universe, theory of creation Second Great daily duty, Deva solved

245

34

	PAG	E.		P	AGB.
▼.			Woman, domastic duties		98
Váma Márga Vánprasthá and Sanyás	320, 40	58 32	Woman, her creation in Bib Woman worship
Varnavyavasthá not by bir Veda —	th 85—	90	—— in Manusmirti Quran (38)	9	97 - 98 627
its Shakhás the books		26 25	Word to the wise Worship of five vedic gods	•	309 361
the devine knowledge the eternal why revealed in Sansl	22	26	Yajnopavítam
Vedic and other holy tex Names of God		24 4	the sacred hread	•••	41
Vices of students Vices preceeding from	••• 1	15	Yamarája—the god of Death Yamaloka—the region of Ya Yarns about angles in Bible anger love Vital systems for	1	55	Yarns in Puránas about — Akrúra	•••	389
Vital systems, five Vyása, the author of Puran	•	72 79	— Hiranyakashyapa — Jaya	•••	388 386
Wine streams in Paradise Witnesses and their qualifi			— Nar Singh—Man-lion — Prahlada — Pútna	•••	389 388 389
			Vijaya	•••	386

लाल बहादुर शास्त्री राष्ट्रीय प्रशासन अकादमी, पुस्तकालय Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration Library

मसूरी
MUSSOORIE

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 10984

| 1

294.5563
Day अत्राप्ति संख्या
3rd ed. Acc No. 42.59
वर्ग संख्या पुस्तक संख्या
Class No. Book No. Book No. Maradwaja.
भीपंक

37d ed. LIBRARY
LAL BAHADUR SHASTRI
National Academy of Administration

MUSSOORIE

Day

Accession Na. 101984

- Books are issued for 15 days only but may have to be recalled earlier if urgently required.
- tjy required.

 2. An over-due charge of 25 Paise per day per volume will be charged.
- 3. Books may be renewed on request, at the discretion of the Librarian.
- Periodicals, Rare and Refrence books may not be issued and may be consuited only in the Library.
- 5. Books lost, defaced or injured in any way shall have to be replaced or its double price shall be paid by the borrower.

Help to keep this book fresh, clean & meeting